PEYROUTON YIELDS PLACE AS GOVERNOR

Resigns, Asking To Be Appointed Captain Of Infantry

JUN -2 1943

Reported One Of 15 On Purge List Demanded By De Gaulle

KENNEDY

[By the Associated Press]

Algiers, June 1—Marcel Peyrouton, one of the colonial governors-general of France, gave up his post today and became an infantry captain in a step to smooth the way to union of Frenchmen fighting for liberation of their country.

Peyrouton resigned as Governor General of Algeria and at his own request was appointed a French army captain by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, whose Fighting French national committee had objected to Peyrouton and some other North African officials as being "pro-Vichy."

Held Many Offices

Peyrouton, an administrator who had held many colonial offices under the French republic, asked for the army assignment to prove that he was willing to fight for the redemption of France.

The resignation was announced as de Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud were forming the new French executive committee to direct the French war effort, and it resolved one of the stumbling blocks reported still remaining between them.

[The Algiers radio reported that de Gaulle had been named president of the executive committee. This was not confirmed by official sources. Monday announcements said de Gaulle and Giraud were to be coleaders of the committee.]

Wants Immediate Purge

De Gaulle was reported to be insisting upon an immediate purge of officials whom he considers pro-Vichy before any other action is taken. Giraud was said to favor such a purge, but believes it should be carried out by the committee as a whole, with each case considered individually rather than by a blanket removal now of all those officials to whom de Gaulle objects.

De Gaulle, it was learned, yesterday submitted a list of fifteen officials whose removal he demanded, describing it as his "first list." It included Peyrouton, Pierre Boisson, Governor-General of French West Africa who fought off de Gaulle's attempt to land at Dakar; Gen. Auguste Nogues, Governor of French Morocco, Admiral Michelier, and Jean Marie Bergeret, Giraud's deputy for civil affairs.

Peyrouton sent a letter to de Gaulle saying:

"Considering that unity of all Frenchmen is the only means of obtaining victory which will restore our grandeur and wishing to bring about this event, I place at your disposition my post as Governor-General of Algeria, although in doing so I do not abandon my many friends of Algeria, French and Mussulman, who in recent and unanimous demonstrations have given me their confidence."

He said his "gesture is inspired by my higher and disinterested will for union" of all Frenchmen, and "I simply ask you, in so far as the president of the executive committee can persuade the military authorities, that you arrange it so I can serve as a captain of reserve colonial infantry."

De Gaulle replied: "In the terrible trial through which the fatherland is going I am sure all Frenchmen appreciate as I do the value of your action. I ask you to transmit your functions to the Secretary General of Algeria and ask you to consider yourself as mobilized and at the disposition of the commander in chief of the Middle East" as an infantry captain.

Served as French Envoy

A former Vichy government minister but a foe of Pierre Laval, M. Peyrouton had served as French ambassador to Argentina, and was made governor-general of Algeria last Jan. 19 by Gen. Giraud. He succeeded Yves Chatel, accused of pro-Vichy tendencies.

M. Peyrouton had served France as resident-general of Tunisia, resident-general of Morocco, and as governor-general of the colonies in pre-war years. He was Vichy ambassador to Rumania after the fall of France, and became minister of the interior in the Petain cabinet in Sept., 1940. He was instrumental in the ousting of Pierre Laval from the government in December, 1940, and resigned from the government after M. Laval returned to power.

As secretary-general to the police administration in France in 1940, M. Peyrouton was said to have sponsored many of the anti-Jewish laws and to have been active in suppression of the Communists.

His appointment to the Algerian post was taken in some quarters at the time, however, as the beginning of the ousting of some pro-Vichy elements because of M. Peyrouton's enmity toward M. Laval. He has a reputation as an able administrator.

Gen. de Gaulle and Gen. Giraud met today, but there was no announcement on their deliberations and the committee was scheduled to meet again tomorrow in a fresh effort to iron out the remaining differences between the two leaders.

Other members of the seven-man governing body for Fighting France also participated in discussions during the day in an atmosphere of calm compared with Monday's session which, it now is learned, became quite heated. The committee will name two more members.

Rumors were rife throughout the day in this new French capital, and Gen. Alphonse Georges, one of Gen. Giraud's nominees for the committee, held a press conference to spike rumors linking him with Vichy. He asserted that he had come to North Africa to place his services at disposal of Gen. Giraud, and to give him his "absolute collaboration."

Committee's Status Not Clear

The present status of the committee itself is not clear, with some qualified observers describing it as "formed but not yet functioning," while others say it is "in formation."

In actuality, there is no disagreement over the personnel of the committee. The seven have met and begun deliberations, but no formal motion declaring it to be in existence as a governing body had yet been introduced.

The main reason for this is Gen. de Gaulle's insistence upon establishment of certain points before his own personality and leadership are submerged in the collective responsibility of the committee.

These issues not settled include the "housecleaning," whether Gen. Giraud can remain as commander of an army and a member of the committee at the same time, and the selection of a field commander to head the combined army to be formed by merger of fighting forces of Gen. de Gaulle and Gen. Giraud.

Gen. de Gaulle also is making a strong point of "real French sovereignty." This may be interpreted in many ways, but might mean curtailment of some of the concessions made to the Allied command in North Africa. Gen. de Gaulle has no objection to the Allied command in itself, but insists that its authority be limited to purely military matters.

Two places remained to be filled in the new governing body for liberated French territory created yesterday in a historic first meeting signalizing the union of the forces of Gens. Giraud and De Gaulle.

The new body, officially designated as an Executive Committee, will discharge the functions of a government until the homeland is freed from German domination, when it will be supplanted by an administration chosen by ballot. Gen. Giraud and Gen. de Gaulle will preside alternately.

The committee members named thus far are Gen. Alphonse Georges and Jean Monnet, who are Gen. Giraud's designees; Rene Massigli and Andre Philip, designated by Gen. de Gaulle, and Gen. Georges Catroux, accepted by both Gen. de Gaulle and Gen. Giraud.

The committee itself is expected to designate the two members needed to complete the governing body.

As the committee held its initial meeting, official announcement was made at Cairo that the French fleet immobilized at Alexandria had joined the Allies, successfully terminating negotiatins between Gen. Giraud and Vice Admiral Rene Emil Godfroy to array the nine vessels against Germany and Italy.

The announcement confirmed reports first broadcast by the Berlin radio over the week end that the fleet had come over to the Allied side.

The vessels, which include the battleship Lorraine and four cruisers, are of questionable value due to age, their three-year immobilization and scarcity of trained crews. It was not announced where they will be taken to be refitted.

The Algiers radio said the French squadron went over to Gen. Giraud and the Allies on the day Tunis fell, May 7.

Bombs Spread Across Airdrome, Rail Yards Left Tangled

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, June 1—Italy's Foggia airdrome, where Mayor LaGuardia of New York and other well-known Americans trained in the last war, was given its third heavy pounding in four days yesterday by American Flying Fortresses.

Other United States bombers continued their terriffic assault on the island outposts of Sardinia and Pantelleria.

"Bombs All Over The Place"

"It was just like Sunday afternoon at Ebbets Field when the Bums take on the Giants," said Technical Sergeant John G. Garone, a Fortress gunner from Brooklyn, in describing the Foggia raid and the ensuing battle between the bombers and enemy interceptors. "We peppered bombs all over the place."

Flying unescorted to the aviation and railway center, eighty miles northeast of Naples and on the far side of the Italian peninsula, the Fortresses blanketed the airdrome with bombs.

"Large numbers of enemy aircraft were destroyed on the ground," an official announcement said, although it gave no exact figure in keeping with the air command's new policy. Photographs showed that two hangars and barracks were damaged severely.

Rail Yards In Tangle

The Fortresses also blasted railroad facilities, leaving freight yards, stations, boxcars and warehouses a mass of tangled wreckage.

This attack by the Flying Fortresses of Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle's strategic air force followed Sunday's destructive raid on Foggia by more than fifty Liberator bombers of the Middle East command, a force considerably larger than the one which battered the airdrome last Friday.

"There must have been twenty-five Junkers on the field," said Lieut. Marion D. Jones, a navigator from Memphis, Tenn. "Rows of bombs criss-crossing the field looked like a bunch of weeds in a cornpatch."

Recalls Training Era

Major Gordon Sarre, of Flying Fortresses headquarters, reminded the flyers that they were bombing a field used in the first World War as a training center for American army pilots.

Major Sarre, whose home is New York city, pointed out that Mayor LaGuardia, Walter Wanger, Hollywood producer; Lieut. Col. Paul Zuckerman, of the New York Stock Exchange, and Major Norman Sweetzer, former NBC executive, all trained at Foggia, a city of 62,000.

Widens Operations

As usual of late, the attackers of both the islands and the mainland encountered little opposition. The Americans shot down four enemy planes, two of them at Foggia, and lost only two of their own craft in the day's operations.

Since Foggia is the first major target in eastern Italy to be attacked by bombers of Lieut. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz' Northwest African air command, the raid marked a widening of the Allied offensive operations.

"The only fighters I saw were off in the distance," said Lieutenant John J. Hanley, of St. Paul a pilot who was on his first mission in the Foggia raid. "They'll have to do better than that if they expect to give us any competition."

Waves of Marauders, Mitchells, Warhawks and Lightnings kept up the aerial siege of Pantelleria, striking at the main defenses of the tiny island, while bomb-carrying Lightnings made a series of attacks on Sardinia.

Several bombs hit the Cantarina power station on Sardinia, causing explosions and dense smoke. At Porto Ponte di Romano a 400-foot merchant ship was blown apart by direct hits. The Lightnings scored hits on a factory, a power transformer and barracks at Guspini and dropped bombs among small boats at Cagliari.

Sweeps Off Greek Coast

A Middle East air communique from Cairo today said long-range Allied fighters made sweeps off the west coast of Greece Sunday and yesterday and attacked a merchant vessel off the north coast of Cephalonia island, leaving its deck cargo afire.

Italian Airdrome Blanketed With Bursting Bombs

By the Associated Press.

JUN -2 1943

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 1.—The American air attack on Pantelleria and Sardinia, Italy's outpost islands, was maintained at a savage pace yesterday and Flying Fortresses gave Foggia, the aviation and railway center on the mainland, its third heavy bombing in four days.

Incurring amazingly low losses in the face of dwindling opposition, the Americans shot down four of the enemy's planes in the sweeping assaults for a loss of two of their own.

It was officially stated that the confirmed score for destruction of enemy aircraft in May was 337 planes shot down in combat, against an Allied loss of 108.

"Large numbers of enemy aircraft were destroyed on the ground at the important Foggia Airdrome," in the latest Flying Fortress blow, the official statement said, but in accordance with the air command's new policy no exact figure was given.

Hangars and Barracks Damaged.

The airfield was blanketed with bursting bombs, and photographs showed severe damage to two hangars and barracks. The freight yards, station, boxcars and warehouses were left in tangled wreckage in the attack on railroad facilities.

Foggia Airdrome, 80 miles northeast of Naples and on the opposite side of the peninsula from Naples, was well known during the World War as a training field for American Army pilots.

Maj. Gordon Sarre of Flying Fortress headquarters, whose home is in New York City and who served in Italy during that period, pointed out today that Mayor La Guardia of New York, Walter Wanger, Hollywood producer; Lt. Col. Paul Zuckerman of the New York Stock Exchange, and Maj. Norman Sweetzer, former NBC executive, all trained at Foggia.

The city, which has a population of 62,000, is 440 miles from Tunis.

"There must have been 25 Junkers on the field. Rows of bombs criss-crossing the field looked like a bunch of weeds in a cornpatch," commented First Lt. Marion D. Jones, navigator, of Memphis, Tenn.

Fortressses Unescorted.

The Fortresses flew unescorted to the attack just a day after more than 50 Liberators from the Middle East command had laid paths of destruction across Foggia's installations. Two score or so Liberators also made a heavy attack last Friday.

Two of the four enemy planes shot down yesterday were accounted for during the raid.

(The Italians said "considerable damage" was done at Foggia, in their communique recorded by the Associated Press, and said 27 persons were killed and 33 injured.

(Listing Cagliari as a target in Sardinia, the Rome communique said damage was still "being assessed" there and said Augusta in Sicily also had been bombed.

(A German broadcast of Rome dispatches said the "City of Olbia on the Island of Sardinia was completely destroyed" in a Sunday raid.

(The Italian communique claimed 20 Allied planes were shot down in yesterday's attacks and said fires were set in an Axis raid on Sousse Harbor.)

Lightnings strafed communications in Sardinia, registering hits on dock installations, a power station and on barrack buildings, the Allied bulletin said.

During the day medium and fighter bombers returned to Pantelleria again to blast a few more bomb holes in that bomb-pocked volcanic island midway between Tunisia and Sicily.

Enemy Shipping Attacked.

Today's Middle East air communique from Cairo said long-range fighters on offensive sweeps off the west coast of Greece Sunday and yesterday had attacked a small merchant vessel off the north coast of Cephalonia Island and left it with its deck cargo afire.

Another small sailing vessel was attacked with cannon fire in the Aegean.

(The Italian radio, reflecting anxiety over the possible effects of continued bombing on the morale of the Italian people, appealed last night to the public to emulate Britain—which not only resisted invasion but scorned the idea of surrender.

("We are confronted with the enemy's own example," said a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press. "The enemy which, beaten and abandoned and faced with invasion amid ruins, not only continued to resist, but would have refused to negotiate with the victor, who nevertheless never asked him to surrender.")

Yanks Fly Captured Nazi Plane To Teach Pilots Its Weaknesses

By HAROLD V. BOYLE

AN AMERICAN AIR BASE IN NORTH AFRICA, May 30.—(Delayed)—(AP) "U. S. Army Messerschmitt!"

That sign is painted on the cockpit of a captured Messerschmitt which one American pursuit group is using for practice flights to teach fliers the best way to capitalize on enemy's fighters' weaknesses.

Painted olive drab and with the American star replacing the swastika so over-anxious anti-aircraft units won't take it for a clay pigeon, the plane has already become a valuable part of the air force advanced training program.

The ship was first sighted in a wheat field north of Tunis almost two weeks ago by Major Robert Baseler of Philadelphia and Columbia Lake, Conn., group operations officer during a bombing mission.

"It appeared to be in good shape and we learned later that the German pilot had been wounded in combat and died after landing the ship in the field," Major Baseler said. "We dropped down and looked it over and the British commander at a nearby field gave us permission to take it along. We removed the wings and trucked it to our field where our enlisted men did a wonderful job of putting it in shape. We got extra spare parts to fix it from a German air corps supply we found."

Major Baseler, who has shot down one Me-109 and a Macchi-202 in the last two months, was the first to test the captured fighter and said that it "performed well" but that he preferred to fly his own P-40.

The captured Messerchmitt had to be grounded temporarily when the wheels stuck during one test flight. Captain Robert W. Myers of Holden, W. Va., brought it down to a perfect belly landing which caused no damage except to bend the propeller.

Many RAF Formations Roar Over Channel to Attack Nazis

Fighters Follow Bombers in Raids Against German-Held Europe

JUN - 2 1943

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 1.—RAF fighter squadrons sped through broken clouds over the southeast coast today to resume attacks on the Nazi-held Channel coast.

Many formations were seen from the ground and others, flying too high to be seen, were heard.

The daylight stabs by fighter planes followed what was presumed to be night attacks by bombers, as residents on the English side of the Channel reported the sound of bomb explosions from the Calais region.

German fighter-bombers attacked the southeast coast of England this afternoon and four of them were reported destroyed.

The Spitfires downed two Focke-Wulf 190's in a running battle with about 30 enemy planes over Nieuport. One of the British fighters was lost.

Ruins of a church in a Southwest English town where German bombs killed at least 18 children and three Sunday school teachers Sunday were still being cleared away. Twenty-four other children were injured, 14 seriously, and many still are missing.

The RAF's big four-engined bombers have been idle since Saturday night when they hit the Ruhr Valley City of Wuppertal with 1,500 tons of bombs in its first raid of the war.

Meanwhile, the air minister announced that a Duisburg plant capable of making 100,000 tons of sorely needed synthetic oil annually was wrecked in the RAF raid May 12.

A growing oil shortage was reported in Germany where about a fourth of the production is synthetic, the announcement said.

The knocked out plant was the Ruhr Chemical A. G. and its associated company, Ruhr Benzin A. G., located at Sterkrade, about 6 miles from Duisburg.

Experts who examined reconnaissance photographs said the plant would be out of production for a long time. The main storage building for raw material, a group of water gas generators, three gas holders, the cooling tower of the power plant, offices and workshops were wrecked, the pictures showed.

NAZIS BEATEN BACK IN KUBAN CLASHES

Russians Report Germans Fail With Heavy Losses in Strong Caucasus Counter-Blows

BERLIN CLAIMS A VILLAGE

Soviet Airmen Raid Junctions and Harry Supply Lines—Donets Sectors Active

JUN - 2 1943

LONDON, Wednesday, June 2 (AP)—Thrusts by air, artillery and ground troops spurred action on the Russian front yesterday, bringing death to nearly 1,000 Germans, the midnight Soviet communiqué reported today, while a news broadcast told of sharp engagements in the Caucasus in which Nazi counter-attacks were beaten back.

The communiqué, recorded here by the Soviet monitor, said simply that "fighting continues" northeast of Novorossiisk in the Caucasus, but a Tass Agency broadcast declared several charges by German infantry and tommy-gunners had been smashed there with "heavy losses" to the enemy.

Fierce fighting still was flaring at the Germans' Kuban foothold, but its scale was not disclosed. The Tass dispatch told how a battery of Soviet 66-mm. guns withstood "double blows" dealt by German planes and guns that "plowed up the whole ground" around the guns. The Soviet gunners fought on, it said, and later dispersed an attacking battalion of German troops.

The German radio, in a report on Monday's fighting in the Kuban, said a village was captured from the Russians in the eastern sector and held against Russian counter-attacks, while "German Stukas all day long attacked Soviet reserves and batteries."

A Moscow broadcast early today said Russian fliers shot down eleven of twenty-four German planes that tried to raid the town of Schigry in the Kursk region Tuesday.

Four hundred Germans were killed in fighting on the central front, the Soviet communiqué said, and Russian scouts dislodged the Germans from a strong point. In another sector a German reconnaissance in force was reported hurled back with ninety-six Nazis left dead.

In the Lisichansk area, 125 miles southeast of Kharkov, the communiqué continued, "our troops annihilated nearly a company of Hitlerites" and wrecked fortifications, and Russian gunners shelled a concentration of enemy tanks and infantry, disabling five tanks and inflicting casualties on the troops.

Yesterday's communiqué had reported the repulse of two strong German counterattacks in this area Monday night.

Mortar batteries wiped out about a company of Germans concentrating south of Balakleya, forty-five miles southeast of Kharkov, the midnight bulletin said, while Soviet planes and ships in the Black Sea and the Gulf of Finland "sank three enemy mortar barges, a motor torpedo boat and a transport ship."

Long-range Russian bombers raided railway junctions at Polotsk, Bryansk and Bezhitsa Monday night and Tuesday morning, "causing large fires and heavy explosions," the Moscow radio announced. Ammunition dumps north of Polotsk also were struck. One Soviet plane was reported lost.

Other Russian planes ranged along the front on Monday, said the midnight communiqué, striking at supply lines, hitting ten German tanks and 120 trucks, bombing enemy batteries and pounding ground troops.

In assaults on German fortifications in the Leningrad area, it continued, Russian troops demolished twenty-two blockhouses, ten dugouts and four observation posts and snipers picked off ninety-six Nazi troops.

Two Counterattacks By Nazis Repulsed On Donets Front

Russians Ignore German Reports of Start of Drive Above Smolensk

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 1.—German forces launched two strong counterattacks in the Lisichansk area of the Donets River front last night, but were thrown back to their initial position with heavy losses, the midday Soviet communique said today.

Ignoring German reports that the Nazis had launched a strong drive on the western front above Smolensk, the communique, which was broadcast from Moscow and recorded by the Soviet monitor here, mentioned only artillery action in that general area and said Russian detachments had scouted German positions there.

The German version of the Smolensk assault declared yesterday that Nazi troops had attacked "on a fairly large front" to straighten the battle line. The Russians were dislodged despite strong resistance, said the Berlin radio, which claimed the Germans were holding their new positions.

Fortifications Wrecked.

Russian artillery fire near Smolensk demolished fortifications, the Soviet noon communique said, and Soviet scouting detachments there were described as returning with prisoners after killing "several dozen" Germans.

The Lisichansk fighting was the heaviest of the night, according to the communique. It said the Germans had attempted unsuccessfully to dislodge the Russians from new positions on the west bank of the Donets.

The Russian communique indicated a continuation of the aerial warfare which characterized the fighting through May. Ten German planes were destroyed on the ground when Red airmen raided an enemy airdrome near Lisichansk and four more were shot down in aerial combat, the communique said.

Other Sharp Action.

Sharp artillery action also was reported from the Rostov and Sevsk areas. About a battalion of German infantry was wiped out by big guns west of Rostov, according to the communique, and heavy shelling of an enemy troop concentration in the Sevsk area northwest of Kharkov was credited with killing about 200 German officers and men.

The Germans also suffered losses in the Rostov area when they attempted to cross a water barrier, but were forced back by heavy machine-gun fire, the bulletin said.

A German garrison in Byelorussia, east of the old Polish border, was reported to have been attacked by guerrillas, who killed 63 Germans and captured material.

Red Fleet Chiefs Made Admirals

MOSCOW, June 1 (AP)—Soviet Russia has elevated two of her fleet commanders to the rank of admiral, it was announced today. They are Vladimir Tributz, commander of the Baltic Fleet, and Ivan Yumasheff, commander of the Far Eastern Fleet.

BRITISH FIGHTERS, LIGHT BOMBERS RAID WEST EUROPE

Five Enemy Supply Ships Damaged Off Holland; One Plane Lost

JUN - 2 1943

LONDON, June 1 — (AP) British light bombers and fighters carried the Allied air offensive to western Europe today after the R.A.F.'s heavyweights had remained inactive for two nights following their busiest week of the war and American heavy bombers were kept at their British bases for the third consecutive day.

R.A.F. planes shuttled over the channel throughout the day, attacking enemy shipping in coastal waters and railway targets in northern France, and scoring a five-to-one victory over enemy fighter craft.

Typhoon bombers, escorted by fighters, damaged five small enemy supply ships in an attack off the coast of Holland in the forenoon.

Rail Lines Strafed

Squadrons of fighters shot up railway installations in northern France in afternoon operations. The fighter pilots shot down two Focke-Wulf 190's and three Messerschmitt 109's during the daylight sweeps and lost only one of their own planes.

Germany's dwindling air forces again made light jabs at the southeastern and southern coastal regions of England this afternoon but paid a high price for the attempts. British fighters knocked down five of 12 Focke-Wulf fighter-bombers and two more probably were destroyed by anti-aircraft fire.

Other fighter-bombers raided a south coast village, where a number of casualties were caused by bomb bursts on a hotel and other buildings.

One southeast coast town was machine-gunned by the low-flying enemy raiders, but only rooftops were damaged.

London Suburbs Hit

Two enemy planes dropped bombs in London's suburbs shortly after midnight, giving the capital its first raid alarm in a week, after British medium bombers and fighters had blasted enemy installations at several points in northern France and the low countries in daylight yesterday.

Four persons were killed and three injured when the London raiders hit a suburban shelter with a bomb and six others were reported killed in another suburb.

An Air ministry spokesman declared in a BBC broadcast to Europe, meanwhile, that 16 per cent of all German planes raiding Britain since last Jan. 1 have been destroyed.

Dispute Nazis' Claims

German claims of "heavy retaliation" for the British saturation raids on the Continent were disputed by the spokesman, who cited these four facts:

1. Germany has no big four-engined bombers. The Naizs have been experimenting for three years with their Heinkel 177, but have not yet used it in operations, confining themselves to two-engined Junkers 88s or the Dornier 217.

2. A great proportion of German raids are made by Focke-Wulf 190 fighters, which carry a maximum bomb load of slightly more than 1,000 pounds.

3. German raiding forces are very small. Since January 1 there have been only twelve raids with as many as twenty or more planes.

4. The excessive German losses are even more remarkable in view of the short duration of their raids. Most of the raids are over England's south coast and in these the planes are overhead only about three minutes. London raids were made by fighter-bombers, averaging seven per raid, with a total bomb load of less than one four-ton block-buster.

Too Late For Pleas

Herbert Morrison, Home Security Minister, declared today that "now that Germany is on the anvil it is too late, much too late, for the Nazis to plead that the modern air warfare was started by anybody but the murderers of Abyssinia, Guernica (Spain) or the Polish cities and of Rotterdam."

He pooh-poohed the Berlin radio claims that the German aerial attacks on British cities were reprisals for raids which the RAF started.

"Throughout all phases of the actual bombing it was Germany who began it and we who were forced to retaliate," Morrison said in a statement.

NAZIS CALLED WARY OF RISK

JUN - 2 1943

Reluctance To Open Russian Summer Offensive Is Observed In London

U. S.-British Invasion Threat Given As Reason—Propaganda Turn Hinted

E.C. DANIEL

[By the Associated Press]

London, June 1—A growing feeling was evident today that Germany, suffering from such wounds as those of Stalingrad and Tunisia, is reluctant to risk a new summer offensive in Russia while the British-American threat is poised.

That feeling was supported by the inferential acknowledgment of a Nazi commentator that Hitler had lost the initiative, but there was some suspicion that German propaganda might be at work in all this.

As the London Star put it, Stalin himself "believes that the enemy plans yet one more grand assault upon the Red army. We in the west would be wise to take the same line and to remember that Hitler may still be strong enough to strike back at us."

Uncertainty Suggested

With this qualification, a variety of reports and circumstances suggested timidity and uncertainty among the German leaders:

Advices from creditable sources were that Rumania and Hungary—the Axis satellites have been estimated by Prime Minister Churchill to have at present to have twenty-eight divisions on the Russian front—were stubbornly resisting further participation in the Russian campaign.

The Statement over the Berlin radio of Lieut. Gen. Kurt Dietmar, the leading Nazi military commentator, that "those who must attack are our opponents and not ourselves."

The emerging fact—conceded during the day by a high Spanish official presumably friendly to the Axis—that Axis submarines had failed to halt that Allied sea traffic which would be essential to European invasion.

Both through Dietmar and the neutral press the Germans were presented as an army standing on the defensive through 1943, and observers here concluded that if a decision really had been made not to attempt a grand assault upon Russia this year it was a victory for the German generals over the "intuition" with which Hitler has been conducting operations.

Limited Offensive Seen

Limited German aggressive action—in the nature perhaps of a "defensive offensive" intended to anticipate the real thing by the Russians—was seen as one likely course.

[In this connection the Moscow radio in a broadcast to the German people which was recorded in the United States by Government monitors declared that Hitler's war machine was "reeling and tottering" and about to be "crushed and destroyed forever."

[Moscow declared that the Allied air offensive actually had already won the air war, and added: "The purpose of this gigantic air offensive is plain enough. It heralds the invasion of the Continent."]

Calm Year Needed

Berlin dispatches to the Stockholm newspaper Tidningen in neutral Sweden attributed to "informed Berlin quarters" admissions that Germany could no longer deny the crippling effects of defeats in Russia and Africa and the Allied air attacks, and that she required "a calm year" to restore herself.

Dietmar himself in his broadcast somewhat supported this motion.

"We can now reap the fruits of previous successes," he said. "We have won an area whose effective use makes it ever more difficult to attack us."

Axis Needs "Calm Year"

STOCKHOLM, June 1 (AP).—The Berlin correspondent of the "Stockholms Tidningen" quoted "informed Berlin quarters" as telling neutral correspondents today that Germany could no longer hide the crippling effects of her defeats in Soviet Russia and North Africa and the battering attrition of constant Allied air attacks. The "informed quarters" were not identified by name in the report.

They were quoted by "Tidningen's" correspondent as saying the Axis needs a "calm year" to recover from damage caused by bomb raids, to repair battered transport facilities, to reallocate its shrinking supply of raw material and to train millions of laborers for war plants.

Violinist Reports Dortmund in Ruins

Stockholm, June 1 (A. P.)—Sven Malmberg, Swedish violinist, who has just returned from bombed Dortmund, said today that the whole center of the German city is in ruins.

Mr. Malmberg, who experienced two heavy R. A. F. raids on the city, said that there were scenes in Dortmund it was impossible to describe.

"I will never forget it and I will never return to western Germany as long as the war lasts," he said in an interview in the newspaper Tidningen.

Calls Bombing "Terrible"

Stockholm, Wednesday, June 2 (AP)—Allied bombings of Sardinia were described as "terrible" today in a dispatch from the Rome correspondent of the Dagens Nyheter. The correspondent, who said he quoted a semi-official Italian source, reported great damage done to military objectives.

The civilian population of Cagliari was completely moved out because of the sustained air offensive.

German Fears Stressed.

London, June 1 (A. P.).—Indications that Germany was afraid to turn her back on the aggressive British and American armies long enough to mount another big summer offensive against Russia were seen by some observers today in the Nazi campaign to prepare the people of the Reich for a defensive phase of the war.

A military informant said that if the Germans have decided not to launch a Russian drive this summer, the decision probably marks the end of Adolf Hitler's strategy by "intuition."

This informant said that Hitler, against the advice of Marshal Fedor von Bock and others, had planned a final gigantic offensive in an effort to destroy Russian military power. Then he would turn to meet the western threat.

The loss at Stalingrad, however, and the rapid growth of American and British strength as manifested by the Tunisian campaign, may have finally convinced Hitler of the danger of becoming fully engaged in Russia while threatened from the rear, said this informant.

A Berlin radio announcement of Lieut.-Gen. Kurt Dietmar that lightning war tactics had been abandoned by Germany backed up an earlier belief that the Russians might undertake their first summer offensive in co-ordination with an American-British invasion.

"Those who must attack are our opponents and not ourselves," Gen. Dietmar said.

The General is the leading military analyst of the German air channels.

British Ship Reported Sunk

Lisbon, June 1 (AP)—An Italian radio dispatch from Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa, reported today that the Swedish steamer Cecilia, 5,000 tons, chartered to the British Government, was torpedoed and sunk outside Portuguese waters. The dispatch said the fate of the crew was not known.

Naval Squadron Reported Leaving Gibraltar Base

JUN - 2 1943

By the Associated Press.

LISBON, May 31 (Delayed).—Dispatches from La Linea, Spain, today reported continuing activity at the British stronghold of Gibraltar, with ships coming and going in a volume which observers interpreted as a sign of growing Allied strength in the Mediterranean.

Three aircraft carriers, three battleships, a number of cruisers and several destroyers were said to have left the naval base during the night, but observers at La Linea could not say whether they headed into the Mediterranean or westward into the Atlantic.

Throughout the night and morning a steady procession of merchant ships entered the bay, until by noon 92 freighters in addition to several transports and destroyers were assembled there, the dispatch added.

Franco Aid Urges Nation to Build Big Navy.

Madrid, June 1 (A. P.).—Generalissimo Francisco Franco's chief executive officer in the Spanish Government declared yesterday that the United Nations dominated the seas despite losses and that the Axis had been unable to achieve with its submarines "negative domination of the sea."

The statement from Naval Capt. Luis Carrero Blanco, subsecretary to the presidency of the Spanish Government, was made in one of his rare speeches. He has been Gen. Franco's right-hand man for years as sub-secretary to the presidency, an office Gen. Franco holds. His remarks were considered of great importance here, considering his position and influence.

His main plea was for a big Spanish Navy, and he declared that "either we are a naval power or we are vassals."

Speaking of the naval aspects of the world war, Carrero Blanco told the Royal Geographic Society that from the first day of the war, the fleet on England's side had completely blocked Axis ocean traffic. Had the Axis been a maritime power, it already would have perished, he added. He said the Axis had survived because it is a continental power which supports itself, while trying with submarines and airplanes to obtain negative domination of the sea.

"It is England's side which dominates the sea," Carrero Blanco said. "It loses merchant ships in considerable proportion, but, despite that, it has positive domination.

"The Axis has no ocean traffic, and it remains to be seen whether it obtains negative domination which it so fiercely seeks."

GESTAPO OFFICIAL IS REPORTED SLAIN

London, June 1 (A. P.).—The Belgian news agency said today that eight Belgians have been executed by German occupation authorities on charges of secretly organizing for attacks on Nazi sympathizers and to sabotage Nazi military activities.

The agency also reported that Belgian patriots had assassinated a Gestapo official named Poloki in a Brussels hotel and had wounded a collaborationist police superintendent on a railway platform At the same time the dismembered body of an officer of the Flemish National Socialist Legion was found on an airdrome near Brussels.

Berne, June 1 (A. P.).—A dispatch from Grenoble, France, to the Geneva Tribune said today that several bombs last night wrecked the Grenoble Hotel, requisitioned by Axis occupation authorities. Other bombs exploded in headquarters of the collaborationist Doriot party, injuring six persons.

French patriots have blown up a German munitions train in Brest and killed five German soldiers in Le Havre in a single day, according to a dispatch received at the Soviet Information Bureau and quoted today by the Moscow radio in a broadcast heard here by CBS.

The broadcast added that in the suburbs of Paris a group of motor drivers forcibly mobilized by the Germans for transport of war supplies wiped out the armed guard and disappeared with the motor vehicles and the arms.

Chinese Troops Rout Five Jap Divisions In Greatest Victory

JUN-2 1943

Allied Planes Support Repulse of Enemy in Ichang Section

By the Associated Press.

CHUNGKING, June 1.—Spurred on by Gen. Hseuh Yueh, "the Little Tiger," and encouraged by air support overhead, Chinese troops were announced today to have routed five Japanese divisions in a victory hailed in Free China as the greatest in six years of war.

The Japanese were thrown back in disorder and with heavy losses toward Ichang, their Yangtze River base, the high command said.

Chinese quarters in this provisional capital were elated over the reports from the Yangtze front where the enemy divisions, involving perhaps 75,000 men, were said to have been trapped in a "big encirclement."

The Japanese had thrust out from Ichang in a many-pronged threat to Chungking.

4,000 Jap Dead Removed.

Up to May 27 more than 4,000 Japanese dead had been removed from the battlefields, it was reported, and the all-front counterattacks of the last two days were said to have added thousands more.

Chinese quarters here, predicting even better news in the next few days, said the tide was turned through the brilliant execution of a well-conceived and large-scale plan of campaign on both sides of the Yangtze, and particularly southward of the river.

Gen. Hsueh Yueh, hero of the three battles in which the Japanese failed to take Changsha, capital of Hunan Province, was said to have ordered his veteran troops on the North Hunan front "to die fighting rather than return humiliated."

It was said he told his generals he did not want to see them again if they had to return in defeat.

Heartened by Allied Planes.

The heartening sight of Allied planes overhead during the operations, carried out in difficult mountain territory, stimulated the Chinese troops who, except for a few rare occasions, have been accustomed to fighting without air support and subject to blistering attacks from the air.

Simultaneously with the land advances, Chinese headquarters announced that "a large number" of Allied heavy bombers, presumably American, and an escort of Chinese fighters teamed up yesterday afternoon for the most shattering joint air victory ever achieved over the invaders in China.

The big bombers scattered more than 10 tons of bombs on the Ichang Airfield, destroying many grounded planes, and on the return trip the bombers and fighters accounted for 31 enemy interceptor planes—23 shot down and 8 more probably destroyed. All the Allied planes returned safely.

The special communique said Chinese forces now are besieging Shangyang, 12 miles below Ichang, indicating an advance of about 20 miles since the recapture of Yuyangkwan, announced Sunday.

The Chinese launched fierce counterattacks that day on all fronts, ranging from Northern Hunan northward to the area of the Yangtze gorges above Ichang in Hupeh Province.

Hupeh Province. By noon yesterday, the Chinese said, their vigorous incircling assaults had "completely routed" the five Japanese divisions, cutting off the 3d and 13th Divisions and inflicting heavy losses in personnel and supplies on the retreating enemy.

"The Chinese troops expected to make further gains," the war bulletin said.

The advancing Chinese also have retaken Muchiaochi, Yatsekow, Tuchinwan and Mantochi in Hupeh opposite Ichang, while enemy resistance has collapsed at various points in Hunan west of Tungting Lake, the communique said.

The air attack yesterday on the Ichang airfield was coupled with an assault by a force of medium bombers and fighters on enemy shipping and supplies in the Yangtze near Ichang. All returned safely.

Jap Concentrations Bombed.

The Allied air forays were a continuation of attacks on Ichang carried out by Liberator bombers and Warhawk fighters of the 14th United States Air Force Saturday. Warhawks also dive-bombed enemy concentrations in Yochow, east of Ichang, Friday and Sunday.

The week end attacks on both Yochow and Ichang were aimed to a great extent at the enemy's Yangtze supply route. Extensive damage was reported.

(A Domei report broadcast from Tokio and recorded by the Associated Press said the bombers which hit Ichang yesterday were Liberators and Lockheed Hudsons. The broadcast said two Allied fighters were shot down.

(The same account of activities in the central Chinese battle area said Japanese planes attacked a 700-ton transport and 10 other vessels at a Chinese river base above Ichang.)

CHINESE ADVANCE ON BROAD FRONT

JUN-2 1943

Jap Regiment Annihilated; Five Divisions Routed Below Ichang.

CHUNGKING, China, June 1—(AP) The Chinese, expanding one of their greatest victories of the war, were thrusting forward tonight over a great central China front, enveloping Japanese troops falling back in North Hunan province and annihilating a Japanese regiment and additional mixed cavalry and engineering forces which had sought to cover the enemy's retreat in southern Hupeh province.

The invader, suffering as well from extraordinary powerful Allied air action which was officially declared to have driven him from the sky over the Hunan-Hupeh frontier region, was being thrust back generally along a 300-mile arc running from the Tungking lake region of northern Hunan westward around the main Japanese base at Chang and then northeastward to the Huper-Hunan border area.

Five Divisions Smashed

Southwest of Ichang, five Japanese divisions earlier had been declared "completely routed"—fatally encircled and erased as a military force.

Following up this initial major triumph, a communique of the Chinese command announced:

"In southern Hupeh, the enemy's 116th regiment and a portion of the mixed cavalry and engineering units covering the retreat of the 13th Japanese) division were surrounded by our forces at Lis Hutang, six miles east of Yuyangkwan, and completely annihilated. The Chinese troops captured an immense quantity of war supplies."

It was added that enemy remnants had been "thoroughly mopped up" west of Ichang and that the Japanese there were "facing further encircling assaults."

"In north Hunan, Japanese troops who retreated toward Wangchichang have been surounded and the battle of annihilation is proceeding."

Air Force Active

..The Chinese-Allied (American) air forces were said by Chaing Kai Shek's command to have been in strong, unending action along the Hupeh-Hunan border, having "inflicted immense damage on the enemy."

"The enemy's air strength," the communique went on, "thus has been greatly reduced and his planes practically made no appearance today."

Only in Shansi province, well to the north of the Hunan-Hupeh action, was any Japanese progress reported, and even there it was at high cost. There the Japanese were said to have hurled nore than 10,000 reinforcements into a counterattack west of the Taiheng mountains. An enemy advance against violent resistance was conceded but 800 Japanese casualties were reported during the day.

BURMA CENTER RUINED

New Delphi, June 1 (A. P.).—United States planes destroyed Japanese administrative headquarters in a heavy attack on Sumprabum yesterday and also attacked railways at Mandalay, Monywa and Legyi. Results mainly were obscured by foul weather. An American communique recounting these exploits said that fighter formations made numerous sorties against Japanese ground installations, supplementing their strafing fire with medium bombs, incendiaries and fragmentation missiles.

The United States operations continued today. A military food dump at Shingban was among the enemy stores destroyed, the bulletin added. All United States planes and pilots returned safely on both days.

British forces in upper Burma have inflicted considerable casualties on Japanese units in the Chin hills about 100 miles from the Burma-India border, a British communique said.

Japanese Losses Heavy In Burma Area, British Say

New Delhi, June 1 (AP)—British forces in upper Burma have inflicted considerable casualties on Japanese units in the Chin hills, about one hundred miles from the Burma-India border, a British communique said today.

"During the past ten days," the war bulletin said, "a number of localized encounters have taken place between our troops in the Tiddim area of the Chin hills and Japanese units operating from Kalemyo toward Tiddim by way of Fort White.

"Considerable casualties have been inflicted on the enemy who are now holding positions between Kalemyo and Fort White. Our own losses in the series of engagements have been moderate."

LAE HAMMERED AS ALLIES DROP 36 TONS OF BOMBS

Daylight Raid Is Staged on New Guinea Air Base; No Planes Lost.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Wednesday, June 2.—(AP) Liberators dropped 36 tons of bombs on Lae yesterday, duplicating the tonnage hurled on that New Guinea Huon gulf base the day before, the high command announced.

The raiding was made during daylight hours.

Above Lae on the Huon peninsula at Finschhafen, a Flying Fortress shot down five and possibly six of 16 Japanese fighters which attacked the big four-engined bomber.

Lae, which has a big airdrome, now has taken 100 tons of bombs within less than a week. Twenty-eight tons of bombs were dropped on it in a raid last Thursday.

Lae is only 20 miles above Salamaua toward which Allied ground troops have been infiltrating from the south to positions within less than 15 miles of the latter town.

Immense for South Pacific

Such weights of bombs, although small in comparison with those dropped on German cities, in reality are immense ones for the southwest Pacific sector where the targets attacked are little more than villages.

In addition to the three raids on Lae, Allied planes over the past week-end dropped 13 tons of bombs on its feeder base, Wewak, to the northwest.

At Madang, another supply base for Lae between it and Wewak, long range fighters strafed the coastal area, today's communique reported.

In the fight of the Flying Fortress with the swarm of Zeros over Finschhafen, three members of the Fortress crew were wounded and the bomber itself badly damaged but it got back to base after forcing the remaining Zeros to flee.

In the sector northwest of Australia, a single four-engined bomber made the long flight of more than 1,000 miles to bomb the airdrome at Kendari, Dutch Celebes.

At Ambonia island, in the Banda sea, some 600 miles above Australia, medium bombers attacked Laha airdrome.

On New Britain's southern shore above New Guinea in the northeastern sector, a medium bomber attacked Gasmata's often-raided airdrome.

GATES LAUDS ROLE OF NAVY'S PLANES

JUN - 2 1943

Allied Headquarters in Australia, June 1 (A. P.).—Artemus Gates, Assistant Secretary of the United States Navy for Air, was in this area a few weeks ago, but announcement of his visits was withheld until today.

"The primary purpose of my trip is to visit at first hand with as many units as possible of our United States naval air force," he said in a statement. "Formerly an auxiliary part of our Navy, it has grown in this war to the position of first importance, not only in size, but in effective striking power, its use has changed and will continue to change the strategy of all naval warfare.

"Working in conjunction with the other armed services we shall reach out and find the enemy whether he be in the harbor or at sea; and our blows will be increasingly heavier.

"The direct product of our combined efforts will be the total destruction of enemy forces, the by-product will be a better understanding and an even friendlier feeling among our peoples."

36 TONS OF BOMBS FALL ON JAP BASE

Allied Headquarters in Australia, June 1 (A. P.).—Four-engined heavyweights of the Allied air force unloaded thirty-six tons of bombs on the Japanese base at Lae, New Guinea, yesterday, causing heavy damages.

It was the biggest raid of the war on that Japanese stronghold 150 miles up the coast from Buna. Only last Thursday medium and heavy bombers dropped twenty-eight tons of fragmentation and incendiary bombs there.

Yesterday's attack was directed against the airdrome runway, the town area and the waterfront. Anti-aircraft defense was heavy but all planes returned.

Unfavorable weather, which has limited aerial activity recently, continued, and there was little other action. A four-engined reconnaissance plane bombed the Finschafen area of New Guinea and long-range fighters strafed the airdrome at Langgoer, in the Kai Islands, destroying one medium bomber and a fighter on the ground and shooting down one of six Zeros which attempted interception. None of the raiding planes was lost.

Australia Reaches 67,191

CANBERRA, Australia, June 1 (AP).—Prime Minister John Curtin announced today that Australian war casualties at the end of March totaled 67,191. These included 10,253 killed, 21,914 missing, 24,303 wounded or injured and 10,721 prisoners.

Marine Gets Award and a Kiss From Sister, Army Lieutenant

Nurse Officially Presents Medal To Her Hero Brother in South Pacific

(The following story was written by Technical Sergt. Diggery Venn, San Francisco, a Marine Corps combat correspondent, and distributed by the Associated Press.)

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC.—Six Marine and Navy heroes received decorations in the prescribed manner, but as a seventh, Sergt. James W. Kaufman, stepped forward for a Silver Star Medal, the general stepped aside and a second lieutenant of the United States Army did the pinning—then kissed the sergeant soundly on the cheek.

The second lieutenant, Mary E. Kaufman, United States Army Nurses' Corps, then stepped back into line with the general's staff, while her brother, Sergt. Kaufman, stood with the men who had been decorated.

All of the awards were for bravery on Guadalcanal, and Sergt. Kaufman was cited for "conspicuous gallantry" there.

Navy Crosses were presented to Staff Sergt. Robert David Raysbrook, U. S. M. C., Philadelphia, and Pfc. Edmund J. Dorsogna, U. S. M. C., Brooklyn.

Reunited in South Pacific.

Presented Silver Star Medals in addition to Sergt. Kaufman were: Pharmacist's Mate First Class Cecil L. Carpenter, U. S. N. R., Cambridge, Ohio; Pharmacist's Mate, First Class, Vincent C. Gray, U. S. N., Toledo, Ohio; Marine Pfcs. Richard J. Kelly of Saginaw, Mich., and Walter D. Thompson, jr., Detroit.

But this story is to tell about Second Lt. Kaufman and Sergt. Kaufman and how the fortunes of war separated them for a year, then brought them together again thousands of miles from their home in Boswell, Pa. Sergt. Kaufman is the youngest of 15 children of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Kaufman, Boswell.

More than a year ago Miss Kaufman joined the Nurses' Corps in Cleveland. Four days after she enlisted she was aboard a ship en route overseas with an Army hospital unit.

One day the telephone rang for her in the nurses' quarters of an Allied base hospital here.

Proud of Sister's Rank.

"Is this you, Mary?" said a voice.

"Jimmy!" cried Nurse Kaufman.

"I was so surprised that day when I heard Jimmy's voice," said Miss Kaufman, "that all I could think of saying was 'Thank God!'"

"It felt like a part of home," added Sergt. Kaufman.

At the first opportunity Miss Kaufman cabled home to her parents.

"I learned later through a V-mail letter that they just sat down and cried when they got the cable," said Miss Kaufman. "They had been terribly worried about Jimmy, and were so relieved to hear he was safe."

Neither Miss Kaufman nor her brother had any idea where the other was, but both suspected they might meet somewhere in the South Pacific sometime. When he reached this Allied base, Sergt. Kaufman played a hunch and called the hospital.

The sergeant joked proudly over his sister's superior rank.

Sergt. Kaufman's citation was for repairing communication lines during sharp fighting with the Japanese last November in the Koli Point sector of Guadalcanal.

Scout Coasts Down Attu Snow to Nip Jap With Grenade

By the Associated Press.

HOLTZ BAY, Attu Island, May 20 (Delayed).—Castner's Cutthroats, the Alaskan scouts trained by Col. Lawrence V. Castner, spotted a Japanese in a foxhole on the side of a snow slope.

It was a deep foxhole and well protected. Repeatedly the scouts tried to get him from below but failed. Finally, they went above him and again failed in attempts to shoot or grenade him. So they used strategy.

One scout took a piece of canvas, spread it out on the snow, sat on it, pulled the front end up between his legs.

Other scouts gave him a good push. He went sliding merrily down the snow, very fast and very close to the Jap's hole. As he went by he tossed a grenade in the hole and was well down the slope out of danger before the grenade went off.

Attu Airfield Examined

HOLTZ BAY, Attu, May 19 (Delayed) (AP)—One of the mysteries of Attu was solved today when American troops had their first opportunity to examine, without danger of enemy fire, the airfield the Japanese had been building here for months and months.

This is a 1,000-yard strip with one end at the bay shore, the other end up in the tundra. It varies in width from 100 feet to 100 yards and still has no suitable surface for airplanes. WORDEN

Trucks, rollers and caterpillar tractors abandoned on it were visible from a distance, and I was puzzled about why it had not been finished until I stepped on the strip itself. Then I saw that, despite trucks and despite the fact that the Japanese had gone to the trouble to import more than a mile of light steel rails and mine-type of dirt cars to run on them, they still had not used mechanical engineering aids.

There was not a sign of a bulldozer. A drainage ditch several miles long and a dozen feet deep had been laboriously dug with narrow shovels. Shovels also were used to cut into heavy tundra and load cars, which then were pushed to parts of the field where filling was needed.

No wonder it still is not finished. Engineering officers swear it could be made ready for use in five days with modern equipment.

Japanese workmen apparently had not been on eight-hour days. Their shacks were stuck in gulleys alongside, and field rations were right there so they would not have to stop working long to eat.

The booty in the Holtz area included numerous guns and vehicles and a huge pile of food and ammunition. The valley contained enough food to keep the attacking force eating comfortably for months. It doubtless would have lasted the Japanese at least a year, a fact that contrasts oddly with previous estimates that the Japanese on Attu were in danger of being starved out.

Revenge for U. S. Warship

MASSACRE BAY, Attu, May 21 (delayed) (AP).—Two heavy American warships marked red letters on their calendars the day they shelled Japanese positions on Attu for the first time.

For one veteran of dozens of icy patrols through the North Atlantic and the Bering Sea and of more than a year's steady war service, the day represented the first time its crew ever had shot at or seen an enemy.

The other ship had a different story. She saw plenty of Japanese at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. She was months in repairing the damage of that day, and her crew had not forgotten the shipmates who did not survive. Here on Attu she, too, had her first chance to shoot back.

Artillery spotters reported the fire of both ships uncannily accurate.

Japanese Attack Merchantmen

AN ADVANCED SOUTH PACIFIC BASE, May 31 (Delayed) (AP)—The Japanese apparently are persisting in an attempt to develop a German-style submarine offensive against the long Allied shipping routes to the South and Southwest Pacific war theatres, informed sources here believe.

In the past week the Japanese broadcast their second report within a month on asserted ship sinkings by their underseas raiders in the South Pacific.

The enemy said he had sunk thirteen Allied ships, including five transports, between May 5 and May 24. This was called an exaggeration by a spokesman at South Pacific headquarters. The spokesman said the enemy report of sinking five transports was completely false. He acknowledged, however, that some Allied ships were torpedoed by Japanese U-boats in May.

Acknowledgment of the enemy attacks on Allied merchant shipping suggested a significant shift by the Japanese in their use of underseas craft. The Japanese previously had concentrated their submarines almost entirely against warships in this sector. Cargo vessels in the Pacific had been notably free from submarine attack.

Although the loss of any American merchantman adds to the serious Allied shipping problem in the South Pacific, the headquarters spokesman indicated that the enemy was not succeeding in developing the U-boat campaign to a scale of strategical importance.

Informed observers believe that the persisting lull in fleet action since conclusion of the Guadalcanal campaign had enabled the Japanese to shift their submarine strength.

Canada Figure Now 13,768

OTTAWA, June 1 (AP).—Canadian casualties since the war started total about 13,768, defense department figures showed today. These include approximately 5,859 dead, 2,749 missing, 1,025 wounded and 4,135 prisoners.

Air force casualties to April 30 accounted for 7,050 of the 13,768 total, including 3,957 dead and 1,899 missing. The navy suffered 1,068 casualties, of which 902 were dead, 160 wounded and six prisoners. The army lost approximately 1,000 dead, 850 missing, 300 wounded and 3,500 prisoners. Army and navy casualties were as of today.

7 Jap Ships Sunk By U.S. Submarines

Destroyer, Tanker and Five Cargo Vessels Blasted in Pacific

JUN -2 1943

WASHINGTON, June 1. — (AP) Destruction of seven Japanese ships by American submarines, striking vigorously at the enemy's supply lines, was announced by the Navy today as land fighting on Attu moved toward a final cleanup of the remaining scattered pockets of enemy resistance.

A communique on the waning battle of Attu disclosed that more than 400 Japanese were killed in a single night's fighting. This cleanup in the Chicagof harbor section apparently left only weak, comparatively minute groups of enemy soldiers to be cleared out of the northeastern end of the north Pacific island, around Cap Khlebnikof, to make the conquest of the island complete.

Destroyer Sunk

A second war bulletin reported on submarine operations, announcing a destroyer sunk and the following auxiliary vessels also destroyed: One large tanker, one large cargo ship, two medium-sized cargo ships, one small cargo ship and one medium-sized transport. In addition a large tanker was listed as damaged and probably sunk.

These successful submarine actions raised to 240 the number of Japanese ships sunk or damaged by American undersea craft in the war to date. The total consists of 169 ships sunk, 27 probably sunk and 44 damaged.

Naval men here consider the submarine campaign against enemy supply lines to have the closest relationship with the island fighting such as that which has been in progress on Attu since three weeks ago today. They emphasize that the enemy's steadily weakening maritime strength directly controls his ability to maintain far-flung islands outposts while on the other hand the American assaults on such places as Attu tax his overseas supplies facilities to the limit.

Three Columns Merge

A Navy communique reported that three separate columns of American soldiers had joined forces on the shores of Chicagof harbor, thereby apparently consolidating the American hold on the whole area of the former Japanese territory southwest of Chicagof.

The 400 enemy soldiers were slain Saturday night and early Sunday as our forces advanced to the junction point. The destruction of the foe was achieved, a Navy spokesman said, in a series of small skirmishes and patrol actions rather than in a single battle.

The principal battle seems to have developed about 12 hours earlier when, at dawn Saturday, enemy troops counter-attacked American forces in Chicagof valley and were annihilated, except for a few snipers. The valley fighting had been reported by the Navy Sunday.

Japanese losses in the battle of the valley plus the troops the enemy lost Saturday night suggested that probably about a third or more of the entire enemy force on Attu was killed in a single day's action. The strength of the force has not been announced officially but estimates have put it a between 2,000 and 3,000 men.

One Area to Be Cleared

With the Chicagof area cleaned up there apparently remained only the area further to the east around Cape Khlebnikof. A Navy communique last Saturday reported the presence of the foe in the Khlebnikof area but described that sector as quiet. At that time the Navy said other parts of the island were devoid of enemy activity.

The three columns moved up from south, southwest and west to consolidate at Chicagof harbor the American hold over that section of Attu where the foe had battled stubbornly from defensive positions for two weeks. The force from the south drove toward the harbor through Chicagof valley and was considered here to be the force which had wiped out the enemy counter-attack.

The southwest force had gone over the southern arm of Fish-Hook ridge and through ridges to the north of that highland where they encountered stubborn resistance about the middle of last week.

The western column had advanced on the harbor from the eastern arm of Holtz Bay where the Attu airfield is located. That column had advanced across the northern arm of Fish-Hook ridge.

Split Jap Forces

The effect of the three-pronged operation was to split the Japanese into small groups which were then pounded heavily Saturday night preliminary to the junction of American forces Sunday.

Today's communique also reported that Army heavy and medium bombers and Warhawk fighters attacked Japanese installations at Kiska island, the foe's main Aleutians base which has been outflanked by the American conquest of Attu.

The Sunday bombing of Kiska started fires in Gertrude Cove, in the enemy's camp and on a beached ship, the Navy said. Hits were also scored on the runway on Kiska, starting fires there.

Three U. S. Army Columns Unite to Smash Foe at Chichagof Harbor.

JUN -2 1943

Washington, June 1 (A. P.).—More than 400 Japanese troops were killed on Attu Island Saturday night, the Navy reported today, when three columns of United States soldiers advanced toward Chichagof Harbor, where they joined ranks on Sunday.

The mopping-up operations on the island apparently were continuing today with Army troops stamping out pockets of isolated Japanese resistance in the barren hills. Officers here said that all organized resistance by the enemy had been broken.

The Navy communique said that the three separate columns advanced from the south, southwest and west respectively.

"In the forward movement of the U. S. Army troops, small Japanese groups offered weak resistence," the communique continued.

On Sunday Army Liberators, Mitchells and Warhawks attacked Japanese installations at Kiska, said the Navy bulletins. Fires were started in the Gertrude Cove, in the camp area, on a beached ship and on the run way.

Fall of Attu Conceded.

Of the three American columns which drove through the wild and mountainous country to where the little village of Attu stood before it had to be destroyed, the one coming in from the south apparently encountered the stiffest opposition. This one moved northward along the floor of Chichagof Valley leading to the head of the harbor. In that valley the Japanese made a counter-attack at dawn on Saturday, as the Navy reported on Sunday, and in the fighting which ensued the enemy force was annihilated.

The group which moved up from the southwest apparently had its most difficult going earlier in the week, around Wednesday and Thursday, in crossing Fish-Hook Ridge and knifing through the enemy-held ridges lying between the point of the "fish-hook" and the harbor. The capture of the enemy position on the ridge had been announced Saturday.

The third force moved in from the west, crossing the eastern and northern faces, or the long arm, of Fish-Hook Ridge and cleaned out enemy forces there from an area apparently lightly held. This force also then fought its way into the harbor area.

A Navy spokesman stressed that the killing of 400 Japanese Saturday night was accomplished not in a single battle but in a series of small patrol actions and skirmishes.

The loss of Attu, which has been conceded by the Japanese, leaves the enemy garrison on Kiska virtually cut off.

A battle in which American troops struck with guns, bayonets, rifle-butts, fists and knives marked the end of the twenty-day campaign.

"It was the biggest battle on Attu," said a Navy spokesman in reporting annihilation of the last enemy force on the island.

"The Attu battle is won," declared Col. R. Ernest Dupuy, chief of the War Department's news division.

Banzais and Bows Alleged.

Japan appeared to agree, for the enemy broadcast a communique telling of a "final blow against the enemy main force." In that battle, the enemy broadcast asserted, "it is thought that the entire number of our force has completely perished."

A subsequent Tokio broadcast seeking to idealize the defeat, asserted that "Japanese troops launched the final attack on Attu after shouting 'banzai' for the Emperor and making bows toward the Imperial Palace in Tokio."

Foe's Number Deemed High.

It was indicated that the enemy force was far greater than the "few more than 100" mentioned by Tokio, for the Navy declared "preliminary reports indicate that the Japanese casualties were high."

Japanese soldiers, unable because of illness or wounds to take part in the final offensive, killed themselves, the enemy radio said, adding that every man who could fight died willingly rather than "bring disgrace to his name."

Two offensive courses now appear open to the Americans in the north Pacific—to recapture Kiska where the enemy established his largest Aleutian base or to drive toward the west and the Japanese homeland.

Thus Kiska now is flanked on the west by Attu and on the southeast by American forces on Amchitka only seventy miles away.

RECORD SET IN U. S. MAY SHIP OUTPUT

Shipyards Delivered 175 Vessels Of 1,782,000 Deadweight Tons

Admiral Vickery Says Production Is Now Above Goal Set For 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 1—Merchant shipyards of the United States delivered 175 vessels aggregating 1,782,000 deadweight tons in May, a new record.

The ships included fifteen 16,000-ton tankers and 120 Liberty ships, the Maritime Commission said, in announcing the total today.

Rear Admiral Howard L. Vickery told a press conference that production now has reached a rate of approximately 20,000,000 tons annually, more than 1,000,000 tons above the 1943 production goal.

Exceeds Tonnage Before War

These are deadweight tonnage figures, which the commission regards as the most accurate of the several methods of giving a ship's size. Roughly, a ship will carry cargo equivalent to its deadweight tonnage.

Vickery reported that the dry cargo merchant fleet of the United Nations has increased each month since August, and now exceeds the tonnage at the outbreak of the war.

He added, however, that the United Nations tanker fleet is not as large as at the start of the war, but in recent months has gained consistently.

Better Than Byrnes' Claim

Asked for comment on a statement by James F. Byrnes, director of war mobilization, that this country now is building merchant ships four times as fast as they are being sunk, Vickery said:

"We did quite a bit better than that last month."

To provide greater tanker tonnage to carry petroleum products to the world's war theaters, Vickery disclosed, about one hundred Liberty ships, the mass-production cargo carrier, will be made into tankers.

Vickery also reported that the first aircraft carrier built by the Henry J. Kaiser yard at Vancouver, Wash. will have its trial runs this week. He declined to give any details.

Third Woman Wins Rank as Army Colonel

Florence Blanchfield Sworn In as Nurse Corps Head; Succeeds Col. Julia Flikke

JUN - 2 1943

From the Herald Tribune Bureau

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Colonel Florence A. Blanchfield was sworn in today as the new superintendent of the Army Nurse Corps. She became the third woman to wear the silver eagles of a colonel when the new surgeon general, Major General Norman T. Kirk, pinned the insignia on her shoulders.

Colonel Blanchfield succeeds Colonel Julia O. Flikke, who retired recently because of her health. The only other woman to wear the colonel's insignia is Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, director of the W. A. A. C.

General Kirk took his oath only a few minutes before Colonel Blanchfield. He was sworn in by Major General James A. Ulio, Adjutant General.

Colonel Blanchfield was born at Shepherdstown, W. Va. Most of her childhood was spent at Granda, Va., where she was graduated from the local high school. Her hospital training was acquired at the South Side Hospital, Pittsburgh, and Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore.

She served in France in the last war, and has been stationed at the Presidio, San Francisco, California; Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana; Camp John Hay and Fort McKinley, the Philippine Islands; Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C.; Fort McPherson, Georgia; and Tientsin, China. Prior to the retirement of Colonel Flikke as superintendent of the Army Nurse Corps, she was assistant superintendent, with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Other developments in the women's military world included a War Department announcement that the fifth Women's Army Auxiliary Corps training center, including the headquarters at Camp Ruston, La., and installations at Camp Polk, La., and Camp Monticello, Ark., will be discontinued about June 10. Additional facilities at the first four training centers make this temporary training center unnecessary now, it was explained. It was established in March to utilize existing facilities.

Army and W. A. A. C. personnel will be redistributed to the four centers at Fort Des Moines, Iowa; Daytona Beach, Fla.; Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and Fort Devens, Mass.

6 Virginians Reported Wounded In N. Africa

Washington, June 1 (AP)—The War Department today announced the names of Six Virginians wounded in North Africa.

They are:

Private Harless L. Blevins, Miller Yard; Private Charles W. Garrison, Round Hill; Private Worley S. Roark, Saltville; Private Cecil L. Ross, Richmond; Private Ray G. Sauls, Alvarade, and Sergt. Virgil J. Weekley, Harrisonburg.

New U. S. Stamp To Honor Poland For Part In War

Washington, June 1 (AP)—A new postage stamp commemorating Poland's resistance to the Nazis will go on sale June 22 in Chicago and Washington as the first in a series of eleven honoring the peoples of occupied countries in Europe.

Postmaster General Walker, announcing this today, said the stamps will be the size of a special delivery stamp, with the red and white Polish flag as the central subject.

Walker said that Chicago was chosen for first day sale because of its large population of persons of Polish descent.

Value of 'B', 'C' Gas Coupons Cut, Rules on Extra Rations Tightened

JUN - 2 1943

WASHINGTON, June 1. — (AP) The Office of Price Administration ordered a 17 per cent slash today in the value of "B" and "C" coupons in the northeast and took other drastic steps which Administrator Prentiss M. Brown described as "tough."

Beginning at midnight, these gasoline rations will be worth 2 1-2 instead of three gallons from Maine to Virginia.

Check on Applications

Mr. Brown directed rationing boards to deny applications for additional rations of gasoline to restore mileage lost as a result of the reduction; revoked a provision allowing up to five gallons to service men on furlough, and ruled against supplemental rations for applicants living "within a reasonable walking distance" of their work, regardless of car pools and lack of other means of transportation. The only exceptions will be made in cases of physical disability, or to transport heavy equipment such as tools.

Mr. Brown also disclosed that the Petroleum administration is studying the supply situation in the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida to determine whether "B" and "C" coupons should be reduced there. The value of "A" coupons already has been reduced in line with the rest of the East, but they are not affected by the current ban on nonessential driving in the northeastern states.

"A" Coupons Unchanged

Today's action left basic "A" coupons at three gallons in the northeast. The period of validity of these coupons, however, already had been stretched out to give a motorist only about 1.4 gallons a week.

Mr. Brown acted after Secretary Ickes informed him that the gasoline allotment for East coast civilian use in June must be reduced from 356,000 to 326,000 barrels a day.

Mr. Brown said all the steps he took were necessary to hold civilian consumption in the East of 326,000 barrels a day, in view of the increased summer demand for gasoline on farms, and greater demands by war industries.

Mr. Brown conceded that the reduction in "B" and "C" coupons would work a hardship on many persons who depend upon their cars for transportation, and would make it extremely difficult for some workers to get to their jobs.

"In many cases," Mr. Brown said, "it will mean that the worker who lives some distance from his plant will have to take a temporary residence closer to his work.

"The action is tough because the going is tough—so tough that it is no longer necessary to point out that there is a critical shortage in the East. Millions of motorists have found that out for themselves sometime or other in the last few weeks. They know that any unnecessary driving on their part means an idle tractor on some farm, a war worker stranded miles away from his job."

A "reasonable walking distance" from work will be decided by rationing boards in passing on applications for supplemental rations.

SENATE REJECTS AMENDMENTS TO HULL TRADES ACT

Administration Victories Indicate Passage of Bill Already Voted in House.

WASHINGTON, June 1 — (AP) Rolling up impressive margins, Administration forces beat off two attempts today to amend legislation extending the reciprocal trade agreements program two more years. This indicated that the Senate would pass the measure tomorrow without change from the form in which it won House approval.

A Republican-sponsored proposal agreements six months after the close of the war by passage of a joint resolution went down under a 51 to 33 vote.

Coalition Proposal Defeated

Less than three hous later, a coalition proposal offered by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), providing that no future agreements could become operative without prior approval by Congress, was defeated by a vote of 50 to 31.

This brought before the Senate, for consideration in what is expected to be a final day of debate tomorrow, an amendment by Senator Maloney (D-Conn) requiring Senate ratification of the agreements as treaties. Administration leaders were confident that they could defeat this and all other amendments —a course which Secretary of State Hull has said would demonstrate this country's willingness to cooperate with other nations in handling post-war problems.

George Leads Attack

Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Senate Finance committee led the attack on the first amendment to come before the chamber, asserting:

"We want nothing now that would show this great nation isn't with the President."

Senator Danaher (R-Conn), sponsor of the amendment, replied that it is "perfectly absurd" to charge that the mere statement that Congress shall have the right to terminate agreements by a joint resolution—a method that would require a two-thirds vote of both houses to become effective in case of a Presidential veto—would hamper American relations with other countries.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) urged his colleagues to accept the Danaher proposal so that Congress would not "tie its hands" by giving the President exclusive power to make trade agreements. He declared that unless Congress acted, the country's new $650,000,000 synthetic rubber industry might be without tariff protection after the war ends.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill) replied that adoption of the amendment would give "Hitler and his crew" grounds to say falsely that the United States intended to end its "kindly relations" with its good neighbors and Senator Burton (R-Ohio) called the proposal "an expensive one-way ticket to nowhere."

Rejection of the amendment was accomplished with the votes of 44 Democrats and seven Republicans; while seven Democrats, 25 Republicans and a Progressive supported it.

HOUSE APPROVES TAX BILL, 256-114

JUN - 2 1943

Pay-as-You-Go Measure Moves to Senate, Quick Passage Expected.

WASHINGTON, June 1. — (AP) Pay-as-you-go for America's 44,000,000 individual income taxpayers became virtually certain today, as the House passed and sped to the Senate a compromise measure providing 75 to 100 per cent abatement of one year's taxes and imposing a 20 per cent withholding levy against the taxable portion of wages and salaries, effective July 1.

Quick passage was expected in the Senate, and Administration leaders said that President Roosevelt would let it become law.

Vote Is 256 to 114

The 256 to 114 House vote relegated to history the bitterest party legislative battle of recent years, in which House Republicans supported and Democrats opposed various versions of the Ruml plan to skip an entire income tax year. The bill received the votes of 89 Democrats and 167 Republicans, while 99 Democrats, 12 Republicans and three minor party members opposed it.

Today's action was on a compromise, devised after legislative machinery fell into a four-months' stalemate on the Ruml issue. Rep. Knutson (R-Minn) described the compromise as "75 per cent of the Ruml plan."

The bill provides:

1. 100 per cent abatement for each taxpayer owing up to $50 in taxes for the one year, 1942 or 1943, in which he had the smaller taxable income.

2. A flat $50 abatement for each person whose abatement year (1942 or 1943) tax bill is between $50 and $66.67.

3. An abatement of 75 per cent for all persons with an abatement year bill over $66.67, with the remaining 25 per cent to be paid half on March 15, 1944 and half on March 15, 1945, in addition to current taxes. (Persons in the $50 to $66.67 classification also would pay off their small remaining debt in two such installments).

Democrats Fight Bill

A segment of Democrats waged a last ditch battle against the compromise, Rep. Forand (D-RI) declaring "This compromise is nothing but the Ruml plan in a new dress," and Rep. Disney (D-Okla) saying "This is sorry business."

In the one-hour debate, Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the tax framing Ways and Means committee was one of the few Democrats to support the compromise, while Republican after Republican spoke for it.

The most immediate effect of the measure will be the withholding levy, under which, one month from today, the government will begin deducting 20 per cent (after family status exceptions) from pay envelopes and salary checks.

Must Make June Payment

This legislation does not excuse taxpayers from payment of the second installment of their tax obligation as shown in returns filed last March. This installment falls due just two weeks hence, on June 15.

For most taxpayers the measure will mean that they will remit more in income taxes during war years than they would have under the present law. The abatement will not show in the taxpaying history of the average person until his income falls off, he loses his job, or at death. But pay-as-you-go transfers the millions of taxpayers to a system of remitting in one year on the basis of income of the same year, instead of on the previous year's income as at present.

Credit on 1943 Levy

Installments paid before July 1 on the basis of 1942 income will be transferred as a credit to 1943 obligations. Wages and salary earners will begin paying July 1 the remainder of their 1943 bill through the withholding levy. Persons with income other than wages and salaries must estimate their income for the current year, and continue to pay by quarterly installments. Similarly, persons with wages or salaries above the 20 per cent withholding level will estimate their upper bracket income, and pay quarterly on that part of their obligation above the withholding level.

On next March 15, all taxpayers—as at present—will file their final return on 1943. On this return adjustments will be made for differences between the estimated or withheld tax, and the correct tax reported by the taxpayer.

Three Japanese Attacks on West Coast Revealed

Forests' Chief Tells of Two Plane Raids and Shelling by Submarine Off Oregon

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP).—Reports on three isolated Japanese attacks on the west coast—two reputedly by planes operating from submarines and one by submarine shelling of an Oregon forest—were disclosed today to have been given to a Senate appropriations subcommittee by Forest Service officials.

Lyle F. Watts, chief of the Forest Service, told the committee at a recent executive session that what was believed to have been a bomb dropped by a Japanese plane started a small fire in southern Oregon which was quickly extinguished.

His testimony followed an assertion by Senator Rufus C. Holman, Republican, of Oregon, that "two different airplanes" had flown over the Coos County area of Oregon and "in Curry County they dropped an incendiary bomb, which did not function." Both counties are in southern Oregon. The date of the alleged attack was not disclosed.

Earl W. Loeridge, assistant chief, who testified with Watts, declared:

"There were three Japanese attacks on the west coast, two of them over the national forests. Planes apparently took off from submarines near by and came over and bombed the forests without being caught.

"Our lookout man saw them in each case; and in the mouth of the Columbia River, a submarine shelled the forest there. In each case we have had these small crews near by, which could have caught any fire which may have started."

THIRD JAP ATTACK ON OREGON BARED

Small Plane Drops Bombs in Woodland, Starting Minor Fires.

PORT ORFFORD, Ore., June 1—(AP) The story of the third enemy attack on the Oregon coast—a vain attempt by a plane, presumably Japanese, to start a forst fire—was disclosed today.

The attack occurred Sept. 28 last year, but was not announced for military reasons. The Western Defense command cleared the story today after forest officials reported the raid in congressional testimony.

A Forest Service fire lookout, perched on a lonely, fog drenched mountain, had a ringside seat for the attack.

Heard Plane Motor

Lauren S. Giebner, whose tower commands a vast stand of Douglas fir east of this seacoast village, heard an airplane motor early Sept. 28, saw a flash through a fog haze, but was unable to see the plane. Two hours later he spotted a fire, which was controlled without difficulty.

This was the second attack in September. On Sept. 9, a tiny seaplane dropped two incendiary bombs near Brookings. The first attack was on June 21. Shells were dropped, probably from a submarine's guns, near Fort Stevens, at the mouth of the Columbia river.

Protected by Fog

Unlike the Sept. 9 attack, witnessed by several persons in comparatively clear weather and spotted by air raid watchers almost as soon as the plane reached the coast line, the Port Orford raid was obscured by fog.

Giebner reported to his superior, Herschel Obye, supervisor of the Siskiyou National forest at Grants Pass, as follows:

Shortly after 5 a.m., he heard the sound of a motor, northeast of his tower on Grassy Knob. At 5:22 a.m., he saw a flash of fire and heard a single blast.

He reported to forest headquarters, kept a sharp watch for flashes. At 7:55 a.m., he saw them, in the deep, heavily timbered dry creek canyon, about three miles from his tower. The scene is in one of the most rugged and inaccessible areas.

Four fighters, dispatched to the blaze, hiked for more than two hours over trail-less mountains. En route they enlisted a crew of woodcutters.

Giebner was unable to tell which direction the plane went, but it might have flown out to sea. The sound of the motor indicated that the plane was small.

Spotted by Raid Wardens

On the Sept. 9 attack, a tiny seaplane, possible carried on a submarine, flew in from the Pacific at the mouth of the Chetco river. Air raid watchers spotted it immediately. It circled nearby Mount Emily twice, dropped down to about 500 feet altitude, and let go with two bombs on a forested area. Several small fires were started. Investigators found craters and bomb fragments, some marked with characters identified as Japanese.

After the attack, the plane flew out to sea.

Three other attacks on the west coast in 1942 caused little or no damage. On Feb. 23 last year shells were fired, possibly from a submarine, on an oil refinery at Goleta, on the southern California coast. On June 29, shells were dropped near a lighthouse at Estevan point, on Vancouver island, and on the following day, several shells landed in sand dunes near Fort Stevens.

Air Chief Says That Enemy Factories And Transport Will Be Destroyed

West Point Graduating Class Told That Axis Sees Handwriting On Wall

JUN - 2 1943

[By the Associated Press]

West Point, N. Y., June 1—Gen. Henry H. Arnold told a graduating class at the United States Military Academy today that the present bombing of Germany and Italy will end the war quicker and "in the end save hundreds of thousands of lives."

"The Germans, the Italians—and, yes, the Japs—see the handwriting on the wall. Our plans call for bombing to destruction their factories—their transportation and communication systems—their U-boat yards—the industries making their critical items—and they don't like it," the commanding general of the Army Air Forces said.

"They can't take such destructive day-and-night hammering. They are crying for us to stop. Their morale is already beginning to crack."

206 Flying Cadets

Among the 514 graduates who heard him were 206 flying cadets.

JUN - 2 1943

Each cadet was commissioned a second lieutenant upon graduation.

Ridiculing Axis propagadna complaining of the killing of women and children, General Arnold said:

"They are trying to make us hesitate in the creation of a powerful air arm—to make us pull our punches. To all this our answer must be—yes, war is a ruthless business and you have made it far more horrible. But we are going to end it soon—by bombing military objectives consistently and with the maximum destructive power that we possess."

Bombs Often Miss

Conceding that bombs often miss their targets, he asserted:

"Don't let me give you the idea that we are setting out deliberately to bomb large cities or recreational resorts where civilians, women and children are congregated. On the contrary, we select only military objectives for our bombing and our bombers have demonstrated an accuracy impossible to attain by any of the Axis airmen."

General Arnold said Axis powers had set the precedent for killing women and children and he cited the bombing of Warsaw, Rotterdam, London, Coventry, Plymouth, Pearl Harbor and Manila as examples.

Describing the ease with which American planes are reaching battle zones Arnold said that in May alone 1,800 American planes had been sent across the Atlantic and Pacific "with the same certainty as to arrival as we would have if one hundred were sent from New York to San Francisco five years ago."

Make Own Rules

Arnold pictured the Japs as foes who "make their own rules of war."

"They are far more like uncivilized savages than like sane and cultured people," he said. "They are fanatics in battle and fight to their death. They take no prisoners and do not expect to be captured alive."

Immediately following the ceremony, twenty-six of the newly commissioned officers were scheduled to be married. Another thirty planned to be married tomorrow.

MIAMI Fla., June 1 (AP).—Captain Julius F. Swenson, of Piermont, N. Y., reported here that all thirty men aboard his vessel, a small American merchantman, were saved after the ship was torpedoed by a hit-and-run Axis submarine early in May.

The attack occurred in the South Atlantic, off a large West Indian island.

Captain Swenson ordered all hands to take to the boats after two torpedoes struck his vessel. The men were picked up at daybreak by United Nations patrol ships.

OPERATORS BLOCK TEMPORARY PACT ON TRAVEL PAY

Union Proposal Rejected, Both Sides Announce Impasse in Parley.

ICKES FLAYS UNION

Tells Lewis to End 'Strike Against the Government.'

WASHINGTON, June 1 — (AP) While 500,000 miners remained idle, the deadlock in their wage negotiations tightened tonight when the operators rejected the United Mine Workers' proposal for $1.50 a day as a temporary settlement of the portal-to-portal pay issue.

Both sides announced the impasse in negotiations an hour after Secretary Ickes, as fuel administrator, had called upon President John L. Lewis of the U.M.W. to order the miners to end their work stoppage which Secretary Ickes termed a "strike against the government."

Hits Recalcitrant Operators

While saying that Mr. Lewis cannot escape responsibility in the crisis, the government's chief mine boss said "a few powerful operators deliberately opposed a compromise."

Mr. Lewis did not immediately reply to Secretary Ickes, but told reporters the demand for a return to work was "a matter to be given consideration."

The operators, replying to Secretary Ickes, said "we do not feel that we can accept any responsibility for the delays which necessitated intervention by agencies of government. This responsibility is that of the United Mine Workers, who have refused to recognize the wage stabilization policies of the government as reflected in the laws of the United States and executive orders of the President."

Negotiations Recessed

The joint wage negotiations recessed until tomorrow with an announcement from the operators that they have called upon the War Labor board for further directions.

Mr. Lewis told a joint press conference that the miners' proposed temporary settlement, except for the amount of money, was offered by Secretary Ickes last night in a conference with Mr. Lewis and Charles O'Neil, representing the northern operators.

Secretary Ickes did not propose any specific sum, the U.W.M. president said. Here is the proposal:

"That, this joint conference agree upon a temporary basis of payment of $1.50 per day on the question of portal-to-portal. Such payment be made effective from April 1, 1943, for all underground and outside men and continue on such basis to a date agreed upon.

Commission Study Proposed

"That, a commission be appointed, equal numbers representing each side, to survey the time required for travel time and secure factual information on the subject and report to a reconvened session of this joint conference for final determination and settlement. This temporary agreement not binding upon either party beyond 30 days from the date of the reconvened joint conference.

"All other questions referred to the joint conference by the War Labor board be accepted and become final under the terms of the temporary and permanent agreement for the life of the contract."

Besides objecting to the amount of money, Mr. O'Neill said the operators were unwilling to make any payment now that would not be final. He said the operators were bound by a War Labor board order to make any final agreement retroactive to April 1 and would abide by that. But he objected to making a payment now for a specific period without knowing the amount of retroactive obligations that would still be accruing.

"When we pay a sum during an agreement," said Mr. O'Neill, "it should be all the money we owe. We want a stabilizing agreement, a contingent liability might endanger the financial structure of many coal companies."

Mr. Lewis commented at that point that "when the operators make an agreement on a retroactive basis, they shouldn't hedge on it like they are doing now. We want stabilization of the mine workers' stomachs."

Favors Government Figures

The operators confirmed reports that they had proposed that "as a basis of contract negotiations we should accept the government figures of 48 minutes underground travel time, with no overtime until after the statutory 40-hour week."

Edward R. Burke, representing southern operators, made it clear that was not an offer of settlement, but a basis on which to negotiate.

On a basis of straight time wage rates, 48 minutes would mean 80 cents a day for the worker earning the basic wage of $7 for a 7-hour day. At time and a half, it would be $1.20. The wage and hour law does not require premium rates until after the 40th hour, but the 1941-43 miners' wage agreement stipulates time and a half after the 35th hour.

The miners have contended that travel time averaged 90 minutes a day, and asked time and a half. This would amount to $2.25 a day for each underground man. If surface employes shared in it, the overall average per man would be about $2.

The operators' message to the War Labor board said the miners rejected a resolution to continue production and make any final agreement retroactive.

They added that the miners were adamant in their demand for $2 a day, "no more, no less," whereupon Mr. Lewis gave newsmen copies of the miners' proposal.

The operators' message said the miners' demand is "a mere guise for a general wage increase of $2 a day as originally demanded by the mine workers and denied by the board." They said they were prepared to make a full report to the board and to request an interpretation of certain portions of the WLB decision of last week.

On Way to Give Soviet Premier's Message to Roosevelt, He Stops Overnight on Coast

FLIGHT BACK VIA SIBERIA

Plane Left Moscow Saturday—Weather Bars Cross-Canada Trip From Alaska

JUN -2 1943

SEATTLE, June 1 (AP)—Joseph E. Davies, President Roosevelt's emissary to Joseph Stalin, arrived here today en route to report to the President in Washington, it was announced by Major Frank E. Williamson, commanding the Air Transport and Control Detachment.

The former Ambassador to Russia, who delivered a letter from President Roosevelt to Premier Stalin in Moscow and is returning with Marshal Stalin's reply, declined to be interviewed. He announced through the military that he was "flying to Washington immediately to report to the Commander in Chief, President Roosevelt."

Major Williamson said later, however, that Mr. Davies would remain in seclusion here overnight and leave for Washington in the morning.

The announcement of Mr. Davies's arrival said his plane left Moscow on Saturday, crossed Siberia and arrived at Nome, Alaska, yesterday and reached Seattle early in the day. Previously, a dispatch from Fairbanks, Alaska, said Mr. Davies stopped there yesterday.

Bad weather compelled the Davies plane to come on from Alaska via Seattle instead by way of Edmonton, Alberta, the announcement added.

DAVIES IN ALASKA EN ROUTE TO U. S.

Fairbanks, Alaska, May 31 (Delayed).—Joseph E. Davies arrived here today from Moscow, where he delivered a secret message to Soviet Premier Josef Stalin from President Roosevelt.

Although the Fairbanks dispatch did not say, it was presumed Mr. Davies arrived in Alaska by plane—the mode of travel which he used on his journey to Moscow, via the Middle East.

The envoy was last mentioned in cables from Moscow last Thursday, when he said he was leaving for the United States almost immediately with Premier Stalin's reply to the President.

Mr. Davies was quoted as saying that Stalin had given "every indication he was entirely in accord with the contents of the President's message." The nature of the message and the Soviet Premier's reply, however, remained a state secret.

Mr. Davies had two meetings with Stalin at the Kremlin during his visit to Moscow, where he arrived May 19. He disclosed that he had talked over the military situation with Stalin and other Russian leaders, and said he had found them "confident, but not aggressively so."

FORD MOTOR CO. AGAIN IS HEADED BY ITS FOUNDER

JUN -2 1943

Henry Ford, Nearing 80, Takes Presidency Held by Son 24 Years.

DETROIT, June 1 — (AP) Henry Ford, who will be 80 years old next July 30, came back today to presidency of the Ford Motor company after a lapse of 24 years.

He took over the office made vacant by the death last week of his only son, Edsel. At the same time he joined with other members of his family, shareholders of the company, in adding to its board of directors a number of the key men upon whom he has relied greatly for many years in carrying on company affairs.

Charles E. Sorensen was re-elected vice-president; B. J. Craig, who has been assistant treasurer, was named vice-president and treasurer; H. L. Moekler, secretary and assistant treasurer, and H. E. Schluchter, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer.

More Directors Named

To the board of directors—which had consisted of the elder Ford, his grandsons, Henry Ford II and Benson Ford, and Mr. Sorensen—were added Mrs. Edsel Ford, Harry H. Bennett, M. L. Bricker, Mr. Craig and R. R. Rausch.

In the election of Bennett, Bricker, Craig and Rausch, sources close to the company saw the probability that with Sorensen they would constitute a sort of super-council to administer the activities of the company that extend into the far reaches of the world.

Close Associates

Particularly close to the elder Ford for many years have been Sorensen and Bennett. Sorensen, 61 years old, has designed Ford factories throughout the world, created many production processes and developed many Ford patents. He joined the Ford organization in 1905.

Bennett, who is 51, technically is personnel manager of the company, but his assignments from Ford have been many and varied. They ran all the way from responsibility for the personal security of Ford and members of his family to the handling of employment and labor problems. He was Ford's chief lieutenant in the big Ford strike of two years ago and signing of the contract with the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) that brought union recognition and the dues check-off system from the last major non-union company in the nation's automotive industry.

Bricker has been plant manager of the Ford-operated Willow Run bomber plant; Craig has been secretary and assistant treasurer of the Ford company, and Rausch has been in charge of production activities at the company's parent factory at River Rouge.

Those close to the Ford company expect affairs of the great company to be carried on much as they have been in the past with the elder Ford sidestepping as much executive routine as possible. They point out htat the founder is quite able despite his age to carry on as a full-time executive, but he dislikes that type of work and would prefer to tinker in his laboratory or watch how others carry out the ideas born in his mind.

The newest executive set-up in the Ford organization comes almost four decades from the time Ford formed his company with

WILLKIE UNDECIDED ON OHIO'S PRIMARY

But Says He May Get the '44 Republican Nomination 'in Spite of Myself'

SKETCHES AIMS FOR PARTY

Gives Views at Oberlin, Ohio, Where College Honored Him With Degree

By The Associated Press.

OBERLIN, Ohio, June 1—Wendell L. Willkie said here today he had not decided whether to enter Ohio's Republican Presidential primary and declared he might get the party's 1944 nomination "in spite of myself."

Asked at a press conference whether he had decided to enter the race for Ohio delegates, Mr. Willkie responded:

"I haven't decided whether I will be a candidate and, therefore, I cannot answer that question."

He then continued: "Ham Fish is against me, Gerald L. K. Smith is against me and I understand Landon is against me. If this keeps up I may be nominated in spite of myself."

After reporters had filed out Mr. Willkie reopened the door and volunteered: "Say, add Colonel McCormick of The Chicago Tribune to that list."

In an interview with The Cleveland News Mr. Willkie declared "the Republican party has no chance of electing its man in 1944 unless its platform and its candidate both recognize that the countries of the world are interdependent and the United States must play its full part in bringing about cooperation among all nations and also its full part in the preservation of peace and economic stability."

Asked what he thought of Cleveland as a site for the 1944 Republican convention, Mr. Willkie declared "I feel strongly for it," and said that Cleveland "would be ideal."

He gave this analysis of the 1944 election to The News:

"In spite of all the talk you hear to the contrary, President Roosevelt still holds the "Solid South." Any Republican candidate can be expected to carry the Midwestern agricultural States, which have no large metropolitan centers.

"The election will be decided in Ohio, Michigan and the Eastern States and possibly by the Pacific Coast States."

Mr. Willkie received the degree of Doctor of Laws from Oberlin College.

Would End Food Fluctuation

Leaders at Conference Agree on Proposal to Establish Ever-normal Supply.

Hot Springs, Va., June 1 (A. P.).—An ever-normal world supply of food, avoiding the ups and downs that find some nations with a surplus and others in want, was seen today as the prime aim of leaders at the United Nations food conference.

A permanent world agricultural authority to bring this about was recommended by a meeting of section chairmen representing all committees of the conference. Approval by the entire group in plenary session scheduled for Thursday was considered a formality.

Rationing among nations was suggested as perhaps the key to the problem.

The section chiefs called upon all nations to conform to a long-term co-ordinated production plan for the best use of their resources on a world scale, based on better diets for their own people and on the international demand for nutritionally better food.

The report emphasized that the world faced two different types of problems—one of mobilizing productive resources to combat hunger and famine in the years immediately following the war and the other of reorganizing agriculture for the long-term task of providing abundant supplies.

The conference was asked to recommend that all governments affirm the principle of mutual responsibility and co-ordinated action to prevent skyrocketing prices which might otherwise arise from unrestrained competition for food, industrial goods and facilities of production in the post-war shortage years.

Asserting that the period of shortages would in due course end and bring on the danger of overproduction and a decline in prices of cereals, sugar and other war-expanded products, the section chiefs recommended collaborative efforts to prevent "loss and hardships" which would fall farmers.

Beveridge Lays British Success To Proximity To Germany

Post-War Security Plan Author Gets Degree At Columbia

JUN - 2 1943

[By the Associated Press]

New York, June 1—Sir William Beveridge, author of the British post-war security plan, said today that the reason the United States has more strikes than Great Britain "is largely due to the fact that we are 3,000 miles nearer to Germany than you are."

He and Dr. Nichols Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, addressed a commencement day luncheon of the Columbia University Alumni Federation. The luncheon preceded the one hundred and eighty-ninth commencement exercises at which 3,867 degrees were awarded—more than half to recipients absent from the ceremonies because they were in the armed forces.

Gets Honorary Degree

Sir William, himself the recipient of an honorary degree of doctor of laws, told the luncheon guests that British and American social problems were similar, but that the British were "ahead of the United States in realizing the problems that result from an industrial economy."

He said his plan was "a sign of return to reason," and that his report on post-war security, made without governmental authority, was "merely a deduction from the facts and an appeal to reason."

Relations Called Harmful

Dr. Butler told the alumni group that ten years ago a prominent member of the Japanese bar told him "that the Japanese had decided after eighty years of relations with the western nations that these relations were harmful and would have to be ended if it took one hundred years."

Among the recipients of honorary doctor of laws degrees at the exercises was William Lynn Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada.

What's Behind The War News

By GLENN BABB

China has won an important victory for the United Nations in turning back the Japanese drive along the upper Yangtze river. The most heartening feature of this operation is the proof it affords that China no longer is fighting alone. Her Allies, especially the United States, are now able to bring help directly to bear on a critical battlefield.

Major credit for the blunting of the enemy spearheads which were thrusting westward through Hupeh province in the direction of Chungking must go to Chiang Kai-shek's own armies. But there is no doubt that the appearance of American fighters and heavy bombers over the battlefield had three highly important results. The Americans wrought heavy damage to the enemy's supply routes, they denied him the advantage of air superiority and they did more than anything else could have done to revive the fighting spirit of the weary Chinese armies.

Japan's chief hope in this stage of the war has been that she might be able to end free China's resistance before Allied help—which for some months must be represented almost entirely by American air power—could arrive in truly effective quantities. The enemy setback in Hupeh may mean that already it is too late to take advantage of this opportunity.

The strengthening of the 14th United States air force, General Chennault's command in China, has been in progress for some months, probably having begun soon after the Casablanca conference. The war council recently concluded in Washington undoubtedly approved continuation of this reinforcement, perhaps at an accelerated place.

This prospect, coupled with the Chinese success around Ichang, gives basis for the hope that free China will be able to keep her banners flying through the summer and well into the seventh year of her fight against Japan. In the fall the Allies should be able to do something about opening the Burma back door, unless many signs attending the Washington meeting were misleading. General Stilwell, who has just paused briefly in London on his way back to China, probably is the bearer of good news for Generalissimo Chiang.

There is every indication that the American fliers have pretty well torn away the air umbrella from the enemy's principal upper Yangtze bases in four days of raiding which reached a climax Monday, when a Chungking communique announced. Allied—obviously American—and Chinese planes knocked 31 enemy craft out of action. To the Americans were credited 20 certain victories and five "probables." The Japanese air force is learning in the skies over China what its pilots already had found out over the southwest Pacific, that against the heavily gunned and armored big American bombers—Liberators in the China theater—the Zero's speed and maneuverability are of little avail. Earlier estimates put Japanese air strength in the Ichang area at 200 planes, and the last few days certainly have put a big dent in that total. Last night's Chungking communique commented that "the enemy's air strength thus has been greatly reduced and his planes practically made no appearance today."

American planes have supported Chinese ground forces before, in Yunnan province and during last summer's Kiangsi campaign, but those were isolated incidents, confined to a single day's action. There probably will be others and China undoubtedly has an anxious summer ahead. But unless the Japanese can regain air superiority over the critical battlefields it is difficult to see how they can make much real progress toward knocking China out of the war. It may be that China's most critical period already is over.

LONDON, JUNE 1-(AP)-THE COAL STRIKE IN THE UNITED STATES WAS A MAJOR TOPIC OF CONVERSATION AMONG MEMBERS OF THE AMERICAN ARMED FORCES TODAY, AND THE SERVICE NEWSPAPER "STARS AND STRIPES" GAVE THE STORY PRECEDENCE OVER NEWS FROM THE WAR FRONTS.

LIEUT.ROBERT MOORA, NEWS EDITOR OF THE "STARS AND STRIPES" AND FORMERLY WITH THE NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE, SAID:

"IT WOULD BE HARD TO OVER-EMPHASIZE THE IMPORTANCE OF STRIKE DEVELOPMENTS TO AMERICAN TROOPS HERE, FOR THEY FULLY REALIZE THE COAL INDUSTRY'S PART IN WINNING THE WAR. WE'VE HAD ANY NUMBER OF CALLS FROM BOYS ANXIOUSLY ASKING WHAT IS THE LATEST ON THE SUBJECT."

london, tuesday, june 1-(ap)-- The germans claimed to have driven a wedge into russian lines above smolensk yesterday, and both sides reported thrusts and par ies of scouting raids as june brought the traditional m h of best fighting weather to the long russian front today.

The [redacted] plunge against soviet lines east of velizh was intended to straighten the battleline "on a fairly large front," said

The russians were dislodged despite fierce resistance, and red army counterattacks were repelled with the germans holding the lines they were ordered to take, the broadcast added. Velizh lies between velikie luki, a soviet strongpoint, and german-held smolensk.

A special moscow broadcast reported 31 german planes were shot down sunday when the nazis tried to raid areas near leningrad, against a loss of only three soviet aircraft. An official announcement also recorded by the soviet monitor said the germans had lost 2,069 planes on the whole front between may 2 and may 29, and the leningrad action thus brought the total to at least 2,100 for may.

(IT WAS NOT IMMEDIATELY CLEAR WHY PEYROUTON SHOULD HAVE ADDRESSED DE GAULLE, RATHER THAN THE NEW JOINT COUNCIL OF GEN.GIRAUD, WHO NOT ONLY IS THE MAN WHO APPOINTED HIM TO THE ALGIERIA POST, BUT HIS MILITARY CHIEF AS WELL. DISPATCHES MONDAY SAID DE GAULLE AND GIRAUD WOULD BE JOINT PRESIDENTS OF THE NEW GOVERNING BODY FOR FRANCE, TAKING TURNS AT PRESIDING, BUT WITH ALL OFFICIAL ACTIONS TO BE TAKEN BY THE COMMITTEE AS A WHOLE.

HE ADDED THAT THIS MAY POSTPONE LHE UNITY-MEETING OF THE COMMITTEE SCHEDULED FOR WEDNESDAY AND FUTURE MEETINGS AS WELL.

ANKARA, TURKEY, JUNE 1-(AP)-A BITTER STRUGGLE HAS DEVELOPED BETWEEN GERMANY AND RUMANIA OVER GERMAN DEMANDS FOR FURTHER HEAVY SACRIFICES OF RUMANIAN TROOPS ON THE RUSSIAN FRONT AND INCREASED CONTRIBUTIONS OF FOOD, REPORTS REACHING HERE FROM USUALLY RELIABLE INFORMANTS SAID TODAY.

JUN -2 1943

RUMANIA IS STRONGLY RESISTING THESE DEMANDS BECAUSE OF A GROWING CONVICTION, BOTH AMONG THE PEOPLE AND THEIR LEADERS, THAT GERMANY NO LONGER STANDS A CHANCE OF WINNING THE WAR, THESE SOURCES SAY.

HITLER'S AMBASSADOR, BARON MANFRED VON KILLINGER AND MEMBERS OF THE GERMAN MILITARY MISSION IN RUMANIA ARE SAID TO BE APPLYING HEAVY PRESSURE ON THE AXIS SATELLITE BECAUSE OF GERMAN FEARS THAT RUSSIA IS ABOUT TO LAUNCH A GIGANTIC OFFENSIVE.

GERMANY IS PICTURED AS RUSHING TROOPS THROUGH RUMANIA DAILY TOWARD THE EASTERN FRONT TO RE-ENFORCE THREATENED SECTORS THERE AND AS CALLING ON RUMANIA FOR A THIRD FULL-SCALE EXPEDITIONARY FORCE TO BOLSTER AXIS DEFENSES.

THE OUTCOME OF THE STRUGGLE IS DESCRIBED AS STILL DOUBTFUL, WITH PREMIER ION ANTONESCU'S FOREIGN POLICY EMERGING IN THE MEANTIME AS A TWO-SIDED ONE AIMED AT PRESERVING RUMANIAN NATIONALISM AFTER THE WAR.

ANTONESCU'S GOVERNMENT IS SAID TO BE ENCOURAGING FEAR OF RUSSIA, FOR IT BELIEVES THAT RED ARMY FORCES WILL ROLL WESTWARD FOLLOWING A GERMAN COLLAPSE AND RUMANIA WILL NEED HER FULL MANPOWER TO DEFEND HER BORDERS.

JUN -2 1943

GOVERNMENT LEADERS ALSO ARE SAID TO HOPE THAT RUMANIA'S REFUSAL TO HELP GERMANY FURTHER WILL WIN ALLIED SYMPATHY TOWARD HER POST-WAR POSITION AMONG HER HOSTILE NEIGHBORS. RELATIONS BETWEEN RUMANIA AND HUNGARY ARE EXTREMELY TENSE, AND HAVE BEEN SINCE HUNGARY SEIZED TRANSYLVANIA IN 1940 IN A DEAL DICTATED FROM BERLIN. HER RELATIONS WITH BULGARIA OUTWARDLY ARE GOOD, BUT RUMANIA FEARS THAT THE 1941 BULGARIAN-HUNGARIAN ENTENTE WAS INTENDED ACTUALLY TO ISOLATE HER.

ANTONESCU'S FEAR OF TROUBLE WITH HIS BALKAN NEIGHBORS, INFORMED SOURCES SAID, HAS LED HIM ALSO TO SEEK THE SUPPORT OF TURKEY, WHOSE RELATIONS WITH RUMANIA AND HUNGARY ARE DESCRIBED AS EXCELLENT.

THE ALLIED TUNISIAN VICTORY, THESE SOURCES ADDED, WAS SECRETLY CHEERED BY THE RUMANIANS, WHO NOW HOPE FOR AN ALLIED DRIVE THROUGH THE BALKANS WHICH WOULD PLACE THEM UNDER THE SAFETY OF BRITISH AND AMERICAN OCCUPATION.

JUN -2 1943

GERMANY TACITLY RECOGNIZES RUMANIA'S REASONS FOR KEEPING HER ARMY AT HOME, THE INFORMANTS DECLARED, AND IS TRYING TO PERSUADE THE RUMANIANS THAT THEIR BEST DEFENSE IS TO PUT THEIR ENTIRE FORCES IN THE FIELD AGAINST THE EXPECTED SOVIET SUMMER ONSLAUGHT. GERMANY ALSO IS SAID TO FEAR AN OVERTHROW OF THE ANTONESCU GOVERNMENT, ALTHOUGH THESE SOURCES SAY THAT SUCH A DEVELOPMENT IS IMPROBABLE WITHOUT THE APPROACH OF A BRITISH-AMERICAN ARMY.

THE PREMIER'S MOST LIKELY SUCCESSOR IN EVENT OF AN UPSET IS PEASANT PARTY LEADER JULIU MANIU.

RUMANIA'S FOOD SITUATION IS ALREADY BAD AND IS GROWING WORSE, BUT THE GERMANS NEVERTHELESS ARE PRESSING FOR LARGER SHIPMENTS OF CEREAL AND MEATS TO HELP FEED THE REICH. BUTTER, MEAT AND SUGAR PRACTICALLY ARE UNOBTAINABLE AND THE RUMANIANS GET ABOUT THREE OUNCES OF BREAD DAILY UNDER RATIONING. #

SOMEWHERE IN SOUTHWESTERN ENGLAND, JUNE 1-(AP)-AN OUTNUMBERED AMERICAN UNIT CAST IN THE ROLE OF A "GERMAN" REARGUARD IN MANEUVERS WAS GIVEN HIGH PRAISE TODAY BY BOTH AMERICAN AND BRITISH OFFICERS FOR THE SPEED, PRECISION AND PUNCH IT DISPLAYED AGAINST A HEAVY BRITISH FORCE TAKING THE PART OF AN INVADING ALLIED ARMY.

"I BELIEVE THEY ARE AS WELL PREPARED FOR BATTLE AS ANY TROOPS WE HAVE EVER SENT INTO ACTION," SAID BRIG. GEN. LEONARD T.GEROW OF THE U.S. ARMY, A SPECTATOR.

JUN -2 1943

COMMANDED BY COL. PHILIP WOOD OF BAR HARBOR, ME., THE AMERICAN OUTFIT WAS SUPPORTED BY PLANES AND ARTILLERY AND WAS AUGMENTED BY A BRITISH ARMORED CAR REGIMENT, BUT IT HAD NO TANKS AND WAS FORCED TO RELY ON DECEPTION AND SPEED.

THE AMERICANS, DIRECTED TO HOLD UP THE ADVANCE OF THEIR OPPONENTS AS LONG AS POSSIBLE IN A TWO-DAY BATTLE SO THAT THE THEORETICAL MAIN BODY COULD ESCAPE, DID THEIR JOB SO WELL THAT THE BRITISH WERE DELAYED FOR MORE THAN SEVEN HOURS AT A KEY WATER BARRIER.

A HARD-MUSCLED BAND OF RANGERS UNDER MAJOR RANDOLPH MILHOLLAND OF CUMBERLAND, MD., JABBED 50 MILES BEHIND THE "ENEMY" LINES THE FIRST NIGHT, SURPRISING THE BRITISH AT A KEY WORKSHOP, AND THEORETICALLY DESTROYING ALL EQUIPMENT.

THE AUDACIOUS AMERICANS ALSO THRUST THEIR HEAVY ARTILLERY FAR AHEAD OF THE LINE ON WHICH THE BRITISH HAD EXPECTED THEM TO STAND, AND INFANTRYMEN, IN AMBUSH ARMED WITH "BAZOOKAS," KNOCKED JUN -2 1943 OUT TANKS AND GUN CARRIERS RIGHT AND LEFT. MAJOR AL GARDNER OF BALTIMORE DIRECTED THE ARTILLERY AND LIEUT.COL. CHARLES SCHOTT OF PROVIDENCE, R.I., WAS CHIEF OF THE AIR SUPPORT.

AFTER THE MANEUVERS THE AMERICANS MOVED TO NEW STATIONS ON AND NEAR THE SOUTH COAST OF ENGLAND TO ADD AMPHIBIOUS TRAINING TO THE OTHER TYPES THEY HAVE ABSORBED IN THE LAST TWO YEARS.

MADRID, JUNE 1-(AP)-AXIS SUBMARINES HAVE FAILED TO DOMINATE THE SEAS DESPITE A HEAVY LOSS INFLICTED UPON UNITED NATIONS SHIPPING, CAPTAIN LUIS CARRERO BLANCO, SUB-SECRETARY TO THE PRESIDENCY OF THE SPANISH GOVERNMENT AND FOR YEARS RIGHT-HAND MAN TO GENERALISSIMO FRANCISCO FRANCO, DECLARED TODAY.

APPEARING BEFORE THE ROYAL GEOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY FOR ONE OF HIS RARE SPEECHES, CAPTAIN CARRERO BLANCO URGED THAT SPAIN BUILD A LARGE NAVY, TAKING THE VIEW THAT "EITHER WE ARE A NAVAL POWER OR WE ARE VASSALS." HIS REMARKS WERE CONSIDERED OF GREAT SIGNIFICANCE BECAUSE OF HIS POSITION IN THE FRANCO GOVERNMENT.

THE AXIS, HE SAID, HAS BEEN UNABLE TO GAIN "NEGATIVE DOMINATION OF THE SEAS" DESPITE THE LOSSES OF ALLIED SHIPPING. MEANWHILE THE BRITISH FLEET HAS COMPLETELY BLOCKED AXIS OCEAN TRAFFIC, HE SAID.

AXIS SURVIVAL, HE SAID, HAS BEEN POSSIBLE BECAUSE THE AXIS IS A CONTINENTAL POWER WHICH SUPPORTS ITSELF WHILE TRYING WITH SUBMARINES AND AIRPLANES TO GAIN NEGATIVE DOMINATION OF THE SEAS.

"IT IS ENGLAND'S SIDE WHICH DOMINATES THE SEAS," HE SAID, "IT LOSES MERCHANT SHIPS IN CONSIDERABLE PROPORTION, BUT DESPITE THAT IT HAS POSITIVE DOMINATION. THE AXIS HAS NO OCEAN TRAFFIC AND IT REMAINS TO BE SEEN WHETHER IT OBTAINS THE NEGATIVE DOMINATION WHICH IT SO FIERCELY SEEKS."

AN ADVANCED SOUTH PACIFIC BASE,MAY 31-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE JAPANESE APPARENTLY ARE PERSISTING IN AN ATTEMPT TO DEVELOP A GERMAN-STYLE SUBMARINE OFFENSIVE AGAINST THE LONG ALLIED SHIPPING ROUTES TO THE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST PACIFIC WAR THEATERS, INFORMED SOURCES HERE BELIEVE.

THE PAST WEEK THE JAPANESE BROADCAST THEIR SECOND REPORT WITHIN A MONTH ON ASSERTED SHIP SINKINGS BY THEIR UNDERSEAS RAIDERS IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC.

JUN -2 1943

THE ENEMY SAID IT HAD SUNK 13 ALLIED SHIPS, INCLUDING FIVE TRANSPORTS, BETWEEN MAY 5 AND MAY 24. THIS WAS CALLED AN EXAGGERATION BY A SPOKESMAN AT SOUTH PACIFIC HEADQUARTERS.

THE SPOKESMAN SAID THE ENEMY REPORT OF SINKING FIVE TRANSPORTS WAS COMPLETELY FALSE. HE ACKNOWLEDGED, HOWEVER, THAT SOME ALLIED SHIPS WERE TORPEDOED BY JAPANESE U-BOATS IN MAY.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF THE ENEMY ATTACKS ON ALLIED MERCHANT SHIPPING SUGGESTED A SIGNIFICANT SHIFT BY THE JAPANESE IN THEIR USE OF UNDERSEAS CRAFT. THE NIPPONESE PREVIOUSLY HAD CONCENTRATED THEIR SUBMARINES ALMOST ENTIRELY AGAINST WARSHIPS IN THIS SECTOR.

CARGO VESSELS IN THE PACIFIC HAD BEEN NOTABLY FREE FROM SUBMARINE ATTACK.

ALTHOUGH THE LOSS OF ANY AMERICAN MERCHANTMAN ADDS TO THE SERIOUS ALLIED SHIPPING PROBLEM IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, THE HEADQUARTERS SPOKESMAN INDICATED THAT THE ENEMY IS NOT SUCCEEDING IN DEVELOPING THE U-BOAT CAMPAIGN TO A SCALE OF STRATEGICAL IMPORTANCE.

JUN -2 1943

INFORMED OBSERVERS BELIEVE THAT THE PERSISTING LULL IN FLEET ACTION SINCE CONCLUSION OF THE GUADALCANAL CAMPAIGN HAS ENABLED THE JAPANESE TO SHIFT THEIR SUBMARINE STRENGTH.

HOLTZ BAY, ATTU, MAY 21-(DELAYED)-(AP)-IT IS ANYBODY'S GUESS WHETHER THE ENEMY'S TEETH ARE ALREADY BAD OR WHETHER THE JAPANESE WERE ONLY DESPERATELY AFRAID OF DECAY.

AMONG THE LITTER OF THE RETREATING JAPANESE FORCES ARE THOUSANDS OF TOOTH BRUSHES, ABOUT HALF OF THEM NEW AND STILL SEALED IN A TRANSPARENT PAPER MATERIAL.

MASSACRE BAY, ATTU, MAY 21-(DELAYED)-(AP)-TWO HEAVY AMERICAN WARSHIPS MARKED RED LETTERS ON THEIR CALENDARS THE DAY THEY SHELLED JAPANESE POSITIONS ON ATTU FOR THE FIRST TIME.

FOR ONE VETERAN OF DOZENS OF ICY PATROLS THROUGH THE NORTH ATLANTIC AND THE BERING SEA AND OF MORE THAN A YEAR'S STEADY WAR SERVICE, THE DAY REPRESENTED THE FIRST TIME ITS CREW EVER HAD SHOT AT OR SEEN ANY ENEMY.

JUN -2 1943

THE OTHER SHIP HAD A DIFFERENT STORY. SHE SAW PLENTY OF JAPS AT PEARL HARBOR ON DEC.7, 1941. SHE WAS MONTHS IN REPAIRING THE DAMAGE OF THAT DAY, AND HER CREW NEVER HAS FORGOTTEN THE SHIPMATES WHO DID NOT SURVIVE THAT DAY.

HERE ON ATTU, SHE, TOO, HAD HER FIRST CHANCE TO SHOOT BACK.

ARTILLERY SPOTTERS REPORTED THE FIRE OF BOTH SHIPS UNCANNILY ACCURATE.

HOLTZ BAY, ATTU, MAY 21-(DELAYED)-(AP)-A CORRESPONDENT HAD WANDERED INTO ADVANCED TERRITORY AND WAS NOT ENTIRELY SURE WHERE OUR FRONT LINES WAS AND WHERE THE JAP FRONT LINE BEGAN.

SUDDENLY, BEHIND HIM, ROCK RATTLED DOWN A SLOPE.

JUN -2 1943

THE CORRESPONDENT YELLED "HEY!"

THERE WAS NO REPLY.

THE CORRESPONDENT SHOUTED ONCE MORE. AGAIN NO REPLY.

"IF I STAY HERE," HE THOUGHT, "AND THAT IS A JAP, HE WILL THROW A GRENADE IN A MINUTE. THE ONLY THING TO DO IS TO MAKE A RUN FOR IT JUST BEFORE HE THROWS THE GRENADE. THAT IS JUST ABOUT NOW."

HE RAN. FIFTY YARDS AWAY, CURISOITY TURNED HIS HEAD.

BEHIND HIM ON THE SLOPE WAS A BADLY FRIGHTENED WHITE PIG.

HIS LAST FEAT WAS TO MAKE HIS WAY A QUARTER-MILE THROUGH A JAPANESE PATROL AT NIGHT TO TAKE INFORMATION TO AN AMERICAN PLATOON, CUT OFF AND ENDANGERED. HE MADE IT, SHOT A COUPLE OF THE ENEMY EN ROUTE AND CAME BACK LOOKING FOR MORE JOBS TO DO.

OFFICERS SAY: "WE'VE GOT LOTS OF GOOD BOYS, BUT ELMER IS THE ONLY ONE IN THE BUNCH WHO REALLY SEEMS TO LIKE TO FIGHT. THINK WHAT A WHOLE TRIBE OF ELMERS MUST HAVE BEEN LIKE!"

SAN JUAN,PUERTO RICO, JUNE 1-(AP)-GOV.REXFORD G.TUGWELL OF PUERTO RICO TOLD A CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE TODAY THAT MANY OF THE ISLAND'S AGRICULTURAL WORKERS HAD BEEN FORCED INTO SLUM AREAS BECAUSE OF LOW WAGES AND A LACK OF EMPLOYMENT AT LEAST SIX MONTHS OUT OF EACH YEAR.

JUN -2 1943

SUMMARIZING THE RESULTS OF SHRINKING AGRICULTURAL OPPORTUNITIES, TUGWELL DECLARED THAT PUERTO RICO'S SLUM AREAS ARE INCREASING STEADILY FROM YEAR TO YEAR AND THAT NEW FAMILIES ARE BEING ESTABLISHED AT THE RATE OF FROM 4,000 TO 6,000 ANNUALLY.

THE GOVERNOR POINTED OUT THAT LARGER LAND UNITS ARE BEING DEVOTED TO SUGAR CULTIVATION WHILE SUGAR MILLS HAVE BEEN CONSOLIDATED, AND ADDED THAT THE ISLAND'S COFFEE, TOBACCO AND CITRUS CROPS IN RECENT YEARS HAD SUFFERED FROM SHRINKING MARKETS AND BAD WEATHER, WITH A CONSEQUENT REDUCTION IN INCOME.

"THE GENERAL RESULTS HAVE BEEN THAT EMPLOYMENT IS SEASONAL, WHILE WAGES ARE LOW," HE SAID. "WORKERS HAVE NO RESERVES, WHICH MEANS THAT THE WORKERS ARE LEFT ON THEIR OWN SIX TO EIGHT MONTHS OF THE YEAR. HENCE THEY HAVE DRIFTED INTO THE SLUMS."

TUGWELL DECLARED THAT THE ISLAND'S PROBLEM WAS NOT ONE OF OVERPOPULATION, BUT RATHER A PROBLEM OF THE RELATION OF RESOURCES TO THE NUMBER OF PEOPLE.

"IT IS A MATTER OF RESOURCES NOT BEING USED PROPERLY," HE SAID.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, June 1-(AP)-A congressional committee headed by Rep. C. Jasper Bell (D-MO) opened an investigation of Puerto Rican affairs today and listened to Gov. Rexford G. Tugwell for two hours without asking him a question.

Tugwell held the committee members at bay by outlining the details of an extensive survey on Puerto Rico's social, economic and political problems and necessities. At the conclusion of Tugwell's lengthy "testimony," which was punctuated by two recesses, Chairman Bell announced that the governor would be asked to return tomorrow to answer questions.

The inquiries were expected to be numerous, since Bell and three other committee members were seen taking notes today.

The committee members received Vice Admiral John H. Hoover, U.S. naval commander in the Caribbean area, and other naval officials today and were to be guests at a banquet and reception this evening.

The committee is making its own separate investigation, although it will be similar to one completed last February by a senate group headed by Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-NM).

During his long discussion today, Tugwell paid tribute to the Puerto Rican Reconstruction Administration as being the only near adequate attempt ever made to rehabilitate the island's economy through efforts to revise land tenure, establish new industries and reestablish old industries.

JUN -2 1943

Declaring that as a channel of public works the PRRA alleviated acute unemployment until it was replaced with defense works, the governor asserted that "unless you give defense work or PRRA you must have something else."

He said the insular "development bank" was an attempt by the legislature along the lines of the Reconstruction Finance corporation for the government to encourage industry through sharing the risks and responsibility. #

UNDATED ITALIAN

Gen. Ezio Rosi, chief of staff of the Italian army, was relieved of his post today and appointed commander of an army group, the Berlin radio said in a Rome dispatch recorded by The Associated Press.

Gen. Mario Roatta, who was chief of staff from March 3, 1941, until he was relieved by Gen. Vittorio Ambrosio on Jan. 19, 1942, was again named chief of staff of the Italian army, the dispatch said.

Gen. Alfredo CUGGIONI was appointed commander of another army group on May 30, the Berlin radio said.

Roatta last was reported to have been in command of the Italian second army, following his dismissal as chief of staff last year. He figured prominently in armistice negotiations after Premier Mussolini's famous "stab in the back" attack on tottering France. He handed the Italian armistice terms to the French at a closely guarded meeting in a village near Rome on June 23, 1940.

The shakeup today was but the latest in a series of upheavals in the Italian high command since Mussolini entered the war. The Premier likewise had reshuffled his government severely, and purged the Fascist party extensively. Last week, it was announced that only army veterans, decorated individuals and certain other [illegible] allowed to remain members of the Fascist party.

Rosi is 63 years old and commanded several units in the first world war, winning the chevalier cross and the military order of Savoy. He became a staff officer after the last war and became a brigadier general in 1935. The next year, he stepped up a rank and became a divisional commander. By 1940, Rosi was commander of the army of the Po and early in 1942 became a full general and commander of the sixth Italian army--the army that was chopped up so severly in Russia that it xx was removed entirely from that front last winter.

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

THE RUSSO-GERMAN BATTLE-FRONT IS IN A HIGHLY EXPLOSIVE STATE.

THE GREAT FIGHTING-LINE, ALONG WHICH MANY MILLIONS OF TROOPS ARE FACING ONE ANOTHER ON THE ALERT, IS SEETHING FIERELY. THE NAZIS ARE MAKING LIGHTNING STABS AT THE RUSSIANS, NOW HERE AND NOW THERE, AND THE REDS ARE REPLYING IN KIND--EACH FEELING OUT THE OTHER FELLOW'S POSITIONS TO LEARN DISPOSITION OF TROOPS AND FIND WEAK SPOTS. ALSO TO KEEP UP THE WAR OF NERVES WHICH ALWAYS PRECEDES AN OFFENSIVE.

JUN -2 1943

THE LID ON THAT POT OF TROUBLE IS ROCKING ABOUT SO VIOLENTLY THAT IT'S STRANGE IT HASN'T BLOWN OFF BEFORE THIS. BOTH SIDES EVIDENTLY ARE SET FOR MAJOR ACTION. EACH GIVES THE OTHER CREDIT OF INTENDING TO LAUNCH AN ALL-OUT OFFENSIVE---AND LIKELY BOTH ARE RIGHT.

HITLER IN PARTICULAR HAS BEEN SHOWING SIGNS THE PAST FEW DAYS OF GETTING HIS WAR-MACHINE TRIMMED FOR A VOSSIBLE LAST HUGE GAMBLE AGAINST

THE BOLSHEVISTS. HOWEVER, HE IS PROCEEDING CAUTIOUSLY SO AS NOT TO GET CAUGHT WITH AN ALLIED INVASION OF WESTERN EUROPE WHILE HE IS IN A LIFE AND DEATH STRUGGLE WITH STALIN.

THE FUEHRER'S FIRST PROBLEM IS TO DETERMINE WHERE THE ANGLO-AMERICAN ALLIES ARE GOING TO ATTACK, AND HE MUST BE BURNING A LOT OF INCENSE TO THAT MUCH TALKED OF INTUITION OF HIS. HE HAS ANOTHER POSSIBLE CLUE FOR HIS MYSTERY TODAY IN THE REPORTS FROM SPAIN THAT THERE'S A MASSING OF ALLIED CARGO VESSELS, TRANSPORTS AND WARSHIPS AT GIBRALTAR.

JUN -2 1943

DOES THIS INDICATE AN ATTACK IN THE MEDITERRANEAN THEATER? IT CERTAINLY COULD MEAN THAT VERY EASILY. HOWEVER, THAT'S HITLER'S WORRY. AS REMARKED BEFORE IN THIS COLUMN, IF THE ALL HIGHEST DECIDES THAT THE FIRST ALLIED ASSAULT IS COMING AGAINST ITALIAN TERRITORY AND NOT THROUGH FRANCE, HE MAY LAUNCH AN ASSAULT ON RUSSIA FORTHWITH. AN INVASION OF WESTERN EUROPE IS THE ONE THAT WOULD PLACE HIM IN THE GREATEST IMMEDIATE PERIL.

HITLER IS ESTIMATED BY OBSERVERS TO HAVE SOMETHING LIKE 3,000,000 MEN ON THE RUSSIAN FRONT. THAT REPRESENTS A TERRIFIC WEIGHT, IF HE STILL HAS THE EQUIPMENT TO MATCH IT. HIS OBJECTIVE IN ANOTHER OFFENSIVE, OF COURSE, WOULD BE TO RENDER THE RED ARMY IMPOTANT BEFORE HE HAS TO RUSH TO DEFEND HIMSELF AGAINST THE OTHER ALLIES.

THERE'S SMALL LIKELIHOOD THAT THE NAZI CHIEF CAN SHOW ANYTHING LIKE HIS FORMER STRIKING-POWER. HIS LOSSES IN MATERIEL THE PAST YEAR HAVE BEEN RECORDED IN MOSCOW REPORTS AS COLOSSAL. FOR INSTANCE, DESPATCHES FROM THE RUSSIAN FRONT STATE THAT DURING THE MONTH OF MAY THE GERMANS LOST MORE THAN 2,000 WARPLANES IN THE EASTERN THEATER.

AND FAR WORSE THAN THE DESTRUCTION OF THE MACHINES IS THE LOSS OF

JUN -2 1943

THE NAZI AIRMEN INVOLVED. HEAVY DEPLETION OF ITS RANKS OF TRAINED PILOTS IS ONE OF THE LUFTWAFFE'S GREATEST WEAKNESSES.

MEANTIME, THE RED AIRFORCE IS SHOWING SIGNS OF INCREASED STRENGTH. THE WAR OF THE AIR HAS BEEN INTENSIFIED ALL ALONG THE FRONT, FROM LENINGRAD IN THE NORTH, TO THE SEA OF AZOV IN THE EXTREME SOUTH. EACH SIDE IS RANGING DEEP INTO ENEMY TERRITORY TO DESTROY COMMUNICATIONS AND SUPPLIES.

JUN -2 1943

SUCH AERIAL ACTIVITY IS PARTLY DEFENSIVE, BUT IT MUST PRECEDE ANY OFFENSIVE BY LAND FORCES. TAKEN IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE OTHER OPERATIONS, IT MEANS THAT BOTH SIDES ARE WARMING UP FOR EVENTUALITIES IF HITLER DOESN'T LAUNCH THE ATTACK WHICH THE RUSSIANS ARE EXPECTING, THEN IT'S A FAIR GUESS THAT STALIN WILL HAVE A SHOT AT THE FUEHRER, TIMING THE RED ATTACK TO GIVE THE BEST POSSIBLE COORDINATION WITH ANY ANGLO-AMERICAN ACTIVITIES.

IT'S WORTH NOTING THAT JUNE IS THE WITCHING HOUR FOR OFFENSIVE-MINDED GENERALS IN THE EUROPEAN ZONE.

Cease Negotiations with U.M.W. in Response to Order of WLB.

WASHINGTON, June 2 — (AP) President Roosevelt was authoritatively reported tonight to be prepared to order the nation's striking coal miners tomorrow to go back to work at current rates of pay pending settlement of their demands through peaceful channels.

Such action, if taken, would fully sustain the War Labor board's position in the coal wage controversy with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers.

Secretary of Interior Ickes, as fuel administrator and government operator of the mines, may be directed at the same time to have all mine properties open and to make work available on a given day specified by the President, informed sources said.

Long Conference Held

The President tonight received a full report on the strike at a conference lasting more than an hour and a half. At the conference were James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director; Secretary Ickes, seven members of the War Labor board, and Abe Fortas, Undersecretary of the Interior.

Mr. Ickes, it was reported, advocated offering the miners $1 a day immediately as a settlement of their portal-to-portal (underground travel) pay demand. It was understood the proposal was rejected on grounds it would be a circumvention of the WLB and the generally accepted processes for settling labor disputes.

All the conferees brushed aside inquiries from reporters, and Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said "There is nothing to say."

The case landed at the White House in a bitter exchange of words between the War Labor board and John L. Lewis, leader of the 500,000 idle miners.

The board, calling a halt to further collective bargaining till the strike ceases, turned the case over to the President, declaring that the United Mine Workers headed by Mr. Lewis were flouting the law of the land and the "no-strike" pledge.

"Wanton Disregard" Charged

Then the White House made public a letter from Wayne L. Morse, public member of the board, to President Roosevelt asserting:

"This strike has no parallel, since Pearl Harbor, in so far as a reckless and wanton disregard of the no strike agreement is concerned.

"Viewed from the standpoint of its damage to the war effort and its serious threat to the maintenance of government by law and order, this strike probably has no parallel in American history. x x x

"It is the opinion of the War Labor board that the fundamental issue in this case involving the supremacy of law is perfectly clear and must be met by the government."

WLB Action Illegal, Says Lewis

Mr. Lewis hit back with a charge that the War Labor board was acting illegally, a charge recalling recent hints that he might bring action against it under the Wagner Labor Relations act. He said the WLB's order calling off negotiations was in conflict with the Wagner act, legalizing collective bargaining, and was a "malicious interfering action, designed to prolong the controversy."

"On June 1," he added, "Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, custodian of the coal mines under order of the President, telegraphed the coal operators and the U.M.W. instructing them to reach a speedy conclusion of the negotiation of a new agreement in order to insure the continuous production of coal. The U.M.W. are in support of and in compliance with this request."

Labor Policy At Stake

The labor board left no doubt that it considered the fate of the government's whole wartime labor policy was at stake in the current struggle. In a statement, it cited that it had repeatedly directed that coal production should continue throughout the negotiations, yet the miners had kept alive the threat of a paralyzing break down of the fuel supply to vital war industries.

"The continuance of negotiations under such conditions could well result in a resort to similar forms of coercive collective bargaining in other vital industries," the board said. "This would completely nullify the no-strike agreement upon which the country depends for an uninterrupted flow of war goods and would shatter the basis upon which our wartime labor policy rests. x x x

"They (Mr. Lewis and the U.M.W.) continue to insist upon special treatment and a privileged position. x x x

"They challenge the government of the United States in time of war."

Operators Comply

Meantime, the soft coal operators, including both northern and southern groups, notified the labor board that they would comply with the order to suspend negotiations.

Called into conference with Mr. Roosevelt were Secretary of Interior Ickes, operator of the mines for the government, members of the labor board, War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes and Abe Fortas, Undersecretary of the Interior.

Other Developments

The meeting was called against a background of these other developments:

1. Congressional backers of anti-strike legislation scored a victory by forcing the Smith-Connally bill to the House floor. Mr. Lewis figured prominently in the debate there, and also was denounced in a statement by Senator Byrd (D., Va.) who demanded that Congress take a hand unless the White House deals firmly and swiftly with the mine workers' chieftain, who persistently has refused even to recognize the War Labor board's jurisdiction over the coal case.

2. A slight break appeared in the generally solid front the U.M.W. members displayed on their "no contract, no work" slogan. A group of 375 miners at Gallitzin, Pa., telegraphed President Roosevelt saying, "We want immediate action so that we can return to work to protect our nation and for the quickest possible victory over the Axis."

3. Industry reports said the effects of the stoppage in coal production already were being felt. Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production board said "steel production will drop sharply late this week unless a flow of coal to steel plants is maintained, and practical paralysis of the war production program will follow any serious curtailment of coal supplies." The American Window Glass company, Belle Vernon, Pa., whose orders include glass for airplanes, shut down. An industry spokesman said Alabama blast furnaces faced a "critical shortage" of fuel and would have to close within a few days.

4. Government officials said plans had been completed to the last detail for a nation-wide dim-out and a drastic cut in railroad service should a continued work stoppage make such actions necessary.

5. The work stoppage spread to five Illinois mines employing members of the A.F.L. Progressive Mine Workers of America, which previously had refused to join the walkout. William Orr, P.M.W. local president, said at Gillespie, Ill., about 350 miners voted a holiday in sympathy with the U.M.W.

WLB Statement On Coal

(By the Associated Press)

JUN -3 1943

Washington, June 2—A statement on the soft-coal dispute, unanimously adopted by the War Labor Board, follows:

1. Almost immediately after Pearl Harbor the President called a conference of industry and labor to work out by agreement peaceful means for settling labor disputes for the duration of the war. Mr. Lewis, as president of the United Mine Workers of America, was one of the delegates to that conference and took a principal part in its deliberations.

The plan agreed upon was that there should be no strikes and no lockouts for the duration of the war that all labor disputes should be settled by (1) collective bargaining, (2) conciliation and (3) final determination, if necessary, by the National War Labor Board.

Supplies Assured

By this agreement (A) an uninterrupted production of war supplies was to be assured, and (B) the overhanging and intolerable threat of strikes interrupting war production was to be removed from the bargaining tables and from the deliberations of the National War Labor Board in all labor disputes.

2. When it was reported to the President that the United Mine Workers and the bituminous operators were unlikely to reach an agreement before the expiration on March 31, 1943, of their two-year contract on April 1, 1941, the President in his telegram of March 22 requested the mine workers and the operators "to follow the plan adopted at my suggestion in 1941 that is, to continue the uninterrupted production of coal under the terms and conditions of existing contracts until the differences that now separate the parties are peacefully and finally resolved with the understanding that if the new agreement includes any wage adjustment such adjustment shall be computed and applied retroactively from April 1, 1943."

That request, if it had been complied with, would have led to the settlement of the dispute between the United Mine Workers and the bituminous operators in the same way that all other labor disputes have been settled under the national no-strike agreement of December 26, 1941. It would have lifted from the bargaining table and from the subsequent deliberations of the War Labor Board, if such deliberations became necessary, and from the country, the threat that the production of coal, so essential to winning the war, might be interrupted.

Not Accepted

3. The Appalachian conference of the mine workers and the bituminous operators did not accept the President's suggestion. They agreed to the continuance of production, under the old contract with the retroactive provision, only for a limited period; that is, until May 1, 1943. The threat of a strike interrupting the production of coal continued to hang over the conference table. On May 1, no agreement having been reached, the mine workers struck in disregard of the President's request and in violation of the "no-strike" agreement to which they were pledged.

4. On May 2, the President, by executive order, directed the Secretary of the Interior to take over and operate the mines, and in a radio address called upon the miners to continue uninterrupted production of coal on behalf of the Government. On the same day, Mr. Lewis, as president of the United Mine Workers, ordered the mine workers to resume the production of coal, not until final settlement of the dispute as the President had requested, but for another limited period of a so-called "truce," until May 18. Again the mine workers insisted upon bringing to the bargaining table the threat of a strike interrupting war production.

Interim Order

5. On May 14 the War Labor Board issued its interim directive order directing the parties to resume collective bargaining under arrangements to be worked out by the parties jointly in consultation with a division of the board, and further directing them to "continue the uninterrupted production of coal under the contract terms and conditions that existed on and prior to March 31, 1943, until the differences that now separate the parties are peacefully and finally resolved, with the understanding that if the new agreement includes any wage adjustments such adjustments shall be computed and applied retroactively from March 31, 1943," as the President had requested on March 22, 1943.

Direct Repudiation

6. On Monday, May 17, the Secretary of the Interior by telegram asked Mr. Lewis, as president of the United Mine Workers, for assurance that the mine workers would "continue to work without interruption at midnight tomorrow, May 18." He was advised by Mr. Lewis that the membership of the United Mine Workers would continue at work "under the existing retroactive extension agreement until midnight May 31." Again, Mr. Lewis defied the suggestion of the President in his telegram of March 22 and the order of the War Labor Board of April 24 that the parties should continue the uninterrupted production of coal under the old contract terms with the retroactive provision "until differences that now separate the parties are peacefully and finally resolved." Again Mr. Lewis set a deadline which held over the negotiations and the country the threat of an interruption of the vital war production of coal.

Accuses Lewis

"Although the executive orders issued pursuant to the act of Congress of October 2, 1942, provide that no wage increase shall be made by the employes of the mine workers without the approval of the National War Labor Board, Mr. Lewis has refused to submit the wage adjustment which the mine workers demand to the lawfully established processes by which the War Labor Board determines whether it should or should not, under the national stabilization policy approve the proposed wage adjustment.

9. This labor dispute was certified to the War Labor Board by the Secretary of Labor on April 22, 1943, under the provisions of Executive Order 9017 of January 12, 1942. The board immediately notified the parties that the old contract would remain in effect with the retroactive provisions suggested by the President until the dispute was finally resolved and immediately appointed a fact-finding panel. On April 28 the panel commenced its hearings, which the mine workers refused to attend. The hearings were suspended when the production of coal was stopped on May 1, but, following advice that the work stoppage had been terminated, the panel, on May 6, resumed its deliberations and collection of available evidence and on May 20 made its report to the board. After studying the report the War Labor Board, on May 25, endeavored to find a solution of the dispute which would be just to the mine workers and within the national stabilization policy, made its determination of certain issues in dispute and directed the parties to continue their negotiations upon certain other issues, which, the board pointed out, were capable of settlement by collective bargaining within the national stabilization policy.

Given Fifteen Days

"The parties were given fifteen days, until June 9, for these negotiations and were again directed to continue uninterrupted production under the old contract with the retroactive provision, until final settlement of the dispute.

The parties, following the first portion of that directive took up their joint negotiations for the purpose of attempting to work out, subject to approval of the War Labor Board, a settlement of the issues referred back to them by the War Labor Board.

In the middle of the period allowed by the board for these negotiations, in continued disregard of the President's request and, in defiance of the repeated order of the board that production should continue until final settlement, the mine workers, under the leadership of Mr. Lewis, have now again interrupted the production of coal.

These tactics add up to an insistence that the provisions of a contract be determined only on the basis of what is necessary to avoid a strike or to obtain the calling off of a strike in wartime. The continuance of negotiations under such conditions could well result in a resort to similiar forms of coercive collective bargaining in other vital industries. This would completely nullify the no-strike agreement upon which the country depends for an uninterrupted flow of war goods and would shatter the basis upon which our wartime labor policy rests. For these compelling reasons the National War Labor Board today ordered the parties to cease negotiations until the strike is called off.

Defiance Charged

In short, throughout the course of this dispute, the mine workers, under Mr. Lewis' leadership, have defied the orderly processes of the Government of the United States and the national no-strike agreement to which they pledged themselves.

They continue to insist upon a special treatment and a privileged position, in defiance of the national stabilization policy fixed by act of Congress.

They refuse to abide by the laws and the lawfully established procedures of their Government.

They challenge the Government of the United States in time of war.

ANTI-STRIKE BILL NEARS HOUSE VOTE

Advocates of Curbs Score Major Victory, Bring Measure to Floor.

WASHINGTON, June 2. — (AP) Advocates of congressional curbs on wartime strikes won a major victory today in a roll-call vote of 211 to 163 which brought the Smith-Connally bill to the House floor.

Amid charges of political chicanery, warnings of adverse effects on production of arms and other necessaries, and condemnation of John L. Lewis, the chamber began consideration of the measure to outlaw strikes in government-operated plants, to curb them in other war industries, require unions to file annual financial and membership statements, and strengthen the power of the War Labor board.

With numerous amendments pending, there was little prospect of a final vote before late Friday on the measure passed a month ago by the Senate and sharply revised by the House Military committee.

Opponents of the bill, contending it would antagonize labor and endanger production while not solving the coal strike, sought unsuccessfully to block action on the measure by voting against a Rules committee resolution making its consideration in order.

Party Lines Crossed

The vote by which the resolution was adopted crossed party lines, with leaders of both parties supporting it and its supporters insisting that Congress no longer delay in enacting strike legislation.

One hundred six Democrats and solution, with 88 Democrats, 71 Republicans and four minor party members opposing it.

Several of the amendments to be voted on tomorrow were drafted hurriedly today by the Military committee after it listened to opposition to the measure by heads of major government war agencies.

One of them would delete an Administration-opposed section giving employes in government-operated plants the right to seek pay raises through the War Labor board. Another would strike from the bill a ban against the issuance of closed shop or maintenance of union membership orders by the board.

The committee deadlocked 11 to 11 on a motion to strike out sections requiring 30 days notice of a strike or a lockout and a secret ballot of workers before a strike could be called. Heads of war agencies had opposed these provisions on the ground they gave legal sanction to strikes despite the no-strike agreement of labor.

Referring to Mr. Lewis, whose United Mine Workers are now on a strike that threatens to slow war industries, as a "home grown dictator," Representative Gore (D-Tenn) told the House it must make the labor leader "amenable to the law."

He warned that unless Congress acted immediately, Mr. Lewis "will continue to regard himself above the law, thus degenerating democracy to mobocracy."

NATION-WIDE DIMOUT PLANS DRAWN BY WPB

U. S. Set To Act On Moment's Notice If Coal Strike Forces Move

Drastic Drop In Railroad Service Also Is Being Prepared

JUN—3 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 2—The War Production Board has completed plans to dim the nation's lights on a moment's notice if the coal strikes make such action necessary, it was learned today.

WPB's office of war utilities put the finishing touches on arrangements for a nation-wide dimout at a conference last night, an informed but unquotable source revealed. A large part of the country's electric energy comes from coal-fueled steam plants.

Details Withheld

Detils were withheld, but discussion is known to have centered on proposals for elimination of ornamental lighting indoors and out, and curtailment of show window, theater marquee, outdoor advertising and similar illumination.

Preparations for a drastic cut in railroad service, eliminating non-essential travel, have been brought to a similar ready point, the Office of Defense Transportation reported last night. Both measures were asked by Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, when coal miners first quit work a month ago.

These orders, if issued, are expected to be of universal application, even though some sections of the country rely almost exclusively on hydroelectric or Diesel-generated power, some railroad lines do not use coal for motive power.

Exemption Of Areas

Although officials said the dimout action may contain some provisions for exemption of areas where coal is not used, they pointed out that a prolonged coal-mine stoppage would shift demand to other sources of energy and create shortages in other fuels.

Power surpluses in one area, moreover, might be transferred to more seriously hit regions by means of the network of lines into which virtually all electric utilities, both public and private, have been tied by previous WPB actions.

Interconnections of the country's railroad system similarly would make it impracticable to curtail some lines and let others operate unrestricted, since one line feeds another and the transportation system would be limited in any case to the capacity of the curtailed routes, generally speaking.

SUB SINKINGS STEPPED UP

German Losses Apparently In Excess Of Construction, Alexander Says

JUN—3 1943

[By the Associated Press]

London, Thursday, June 3—Allied destruction of Nazi undersea raiders has been stepped up to the point where the German losses apparently are in excess of new production and where the number of submarines operating in the Atlantic seems to be definitely on the wane, A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, told the House of Commons yesterday.

Pointing out that destruction of submarines reached a new high last month, he said that the "number of U-boats destroyed in May will exceed the number which the enemy will have been able to bring into the war."

Last Year Best

He added that the sinkings in the last twelve months exceeded the number sunk in all the previous months of the war and that in the last six months the number was twenty-five per cent. greater than in the previous half-year period.

The London Daily Express today estimated the number of submarines sunk during May at eighteen to twenty and "possibly a figure even higher than this." The paper's naval reporter, W. A. Crumley, said the exact figures on the current German submarine production were unavailable but it was estimated at from sixteen to twenty monthly at its peak in April, 1942. He added that the submarine fleet available for operations against the Allies was at least 500.

Attempt A Failure

A. J. McWhinnie, the London Daily Herald's naval correspondent, noted that Germany had failed in its attempt to make the losses of merchant tonnage so heavy that the building of anti-submarine warships would have to be sacrificed for freighters.

"Britain alone has something like 600 anti-submarine warships today, including the new frigates and trawlers," he said. "Despite the losses we have about 300 destroyers today against 185 when the war began and more than 200 corvettes which didn't exist in 1939."

Merchant Losses Balanced

Alexander, in his summary, stressed that at no time in recent months have the Axis undersea raiders taken a toll heavier than the tonnage which has gone down the ship ways in American and British yards.

This damage inflicted upon the enemy undersea fleet more than balanced the merchant shipping losses suffered by the United Nations, he said, explaining that even during the month of March when Allied losses were heavy "owing to a high output in new tonnage achieved in the United States there was a substantial net gain in that month."

Paying a tribute to the work of the United States air forces and the RAF in bombing U-boat bases and shipyards, Alexander predicted that "as time goes on bombing of the building yards and component factories should have an ever-increasing effect" on the Battle of the Atlantic.

Tonnage Increased

The persistent drive from all quarters upon the submarines indicated, Alexander said, that the Battle of the Atlantic to which Churchill and Roosevelt gave first priority as a pre-invasion necessity was being won by stronger Allied escort forces and deadlier weapons.

He cited figures for April and May which showed that Allied losses were reduced to below the losses from December to February despite the heavy flow of shipping. This resulted, he said, in "a large increase in tonnage available to the United Nations, tonnage vital to the invasion of the Continent."

Alexander's speech disputed German claims that the reason for the drop in tonnage sunk was because the United Nations had decreased the flow of shipping.

During April, he said, "our imports were the highest since the beginning of 1942."

The German Government has admitted in broadcasts the decrease in sinkings. A DNB report broadcast yesterday from Berlin listed sixty-five British and American merchantmen, totaling 380,000 tons, as sunk by submarines. An additional 50,000 tons was listed as destroyed by Nazi aircraft.

HOWARD LOST WITH AIR LINER

Lisbon To London Transport Was Attacked By Enemy Planes

Civilian Craft Carried Thirteen Passengers And Crew Of Four

JUN—3 1943

[By the Associated Press]

London, June 2—A British overseas transport plane, with Actor Leslie Howard reported among its thirteen passengers, officially was declared overdue and presumed lost today after reporting in a final message yesterday that it was being attacked by enemy aircraft while en route from Lisbon to England.

It was apparently the victim of German planes on unusually active reconnaissance along the seldom-molested air transport lane from neutral Portugal.

Berlin Reports Downing

The names of the passengers and crew of four were withheld from the British Overseas Airways Corporation's announcement of the plane's presumed loss, but Lisbon reports said Howard was aboard.

In their daily communique, broadcast from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press, the Germans said: "Three enemy bombers and one transport were downed by German reconnaissance planes over the Atlantic."

Airways' Announcement

The airways' announcement issued here tonight said:

"The British Overseas Airways Corporation regrets to announce that a civil aircraft on passage between Lisbon and the United Kingdom is overdue and must be presumed lost.

"The last message received from the aircraft stated that it was being attacked by an enemy aircraft.

"The aircraft carried thirteen passengers and a crew of four.

"Next of kin have been informed."

The plane left Lisbon yesterday morning and was due in England early last night.

Second Civil Plane Attacked

It was the second British civil plane to be reported attacked on the Lisbon run. The first attack occurred last April when a Dutch pilot evaded an ambush of six Heinkels and returned to Lisbon with none of his passengers injured but with one wing of his British airliner damaged.

While planes operate between Lisbon and England at their own risk, it was pointed out in reliable circles that it was generally understood they carry only civilian passengers. These sources said there was a slim chance that the plane could have been mistaken for a military transport.

Allied and Axis transport planes often idle side by side in the neutral Portuguese port.

The last communication with the plane was at 11 A. M. yesterday.

Others Reported Aboard

Besides Howard, among those reported unofficially to have been aboard, were Kenneth Stonehouse, 35, Washington correspondent of the British news agency, Reuters, and his wife, and Alfred Chenhalls, London film director and friend of Howard.

Lisbon reports said that three women and two children refugees returning from the United States also were aboard. Airlines officials refused to confirm this, but said some children evacuated from London during the Blitz had been returning by air along this route.

The plane was reported manned by a Dutch crew.

An unverified report in Lisbon said the craft was shot down over the Bay of Biscay. Other reports said a rough sea would have lessened the passengers' chances of escaping in rubber boats, but a search is being made.

Howard, 50, whose real name is Leslie Stainer, had been in Spain and Portugal on a lecture tour, explaining how films are made, and studying the possibility of producing movies in those countries with British collaboration.

He had arranged to return three days earlier, but postponed the journey in order to be present at the first showing in Lisbon of "The First of the Few," said P. C. Samuel, production manager of Howard's film company.

Howard might have spent his life in the banking business but for the last war. He was working as a bank clerk when that conflict began. He joined the army, and wartime theatricals at the front rekindled his love for the theater which had first manifested itself in school plays he had written while at Dulwich College.

When demobilized he headed for theatrical agencies instead of his old bank job. His first professional role was in "Peg O' My Heart" in 1918. From this start rose his world fame as both an actor and producer.

Well Known As Broadcaster

Howard also is well-known as a broadcaster in the United States and Canada. Early in the war he did a series of transatlantic broadcasts.

After his work in Spain, 900 theaters in that country were reported to have agreed to show British documentary films. An officer of the British council which arranged his visit said Howard "went to Spain at considerable personal inconvenience. We are very grateful for the highly successful work he did."

Films In Which He Starred

Films in which Howard starred in this war included "The Invaders" and "The First of the Few," the latter based on the life of Reginald J. Mitchell, creator of the Spitfire. He produced "The Gentler Sex," a film about Britain's Auxiliary Transport Service.

Howard's wife and son and daughter live near Dorking, Surrey.

The actor made his stage debut in New York in 1921 in "Just Suppose." Then followed a long list of Broadway successes, including "The Truth About Blayds," "Outward Bound," "Escape," "Aren't We All," "Berkeley Square," "The Animal Kingdom," and "The Petrified Forest."

His first American film was "Outward Bound," in 1930. Others of his well-known pictures included "The Cardboard Lover," "Berkeley Square," "The Animal Kingdom," "Of Human Bondage," "British Agent," "The Scarlet Pimpernel," "Pygmalion," and "Gone With the Wind."

Later unofficial reports from Lisbon identified other passengers as a Mrs. Hutcheson and her two daughters, Bertha, 11 years old, and Caroline, 2 years old; Mrs. Cecilia Paton, Cuban-born wife of an Englishman, and T. M. Shervington, said to be a director of the Shell Company and for eighteen years a resident of Portugal.

500 NAZI PLANES BLAST AT KURSK, REDS DOWN 123

Strategic Feeder Point for Soviet Army on Central Front Attacked.

30 RUSSIAN PLANES LOST

Fighting Continues in German-Held Kuban Bridgehead of Caucasus.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON, Thursday, June 3.—The Germans hurled 500 planes against the big central Russian base of Kursk yesterday in five attacks, losing 123 of them, Moscow announced early today. The Russians reported losing 30 defending fighters in the series of battles.

Announcement of this display of Axis sky strength caused immediate speculation on German intentions at a time when Allied observers were seeking the answer to two questions—the reason for a delay in the expected summer German offensive in Russia, and the disposal of the major part of the carefully-husbanded Axis air fleet.

The broadcast, recorded by the Soviet monitor, preceded issuance of the regular midnight war bulletin which told as usual without details that "fighting continued" in the German-held Kuban bridgehead of the Caucasus; otherwise there were no essential changes on the long land front.

Feeder Point for Red Army

Casualties and an undisclosed amount of damage was acknowledged by the Russians at Kursk, which is a feeder point for Red army units long threatening Orel to the north and the southern approaches to Bryansk to the northwest.

Both sides have strong forces assembled in this critical triangular area above the German-held Ukraine stronghold of Kharkov, which the Germans seized in their counter-offensive last winter.

This same area formed the base from which the Germans began their big 1942 push which rolled deep into the Caucasus and into Stalingrad last year before the Red army drive nullified its gains.

Dispatches from Stockholm yesterday quoted Berlin military circles as saying that they believed any large-scale joint Russian and British-American offensive from the east and west might not begin until fall. This could mean the Germans really intend to try once more to knock out Russia, but any dispatches emanating from Berlin of course are suspect for the very reason that they went through rigid German censorship.

Hitler's Only Chance

But many observers in this Allied capital long have clung to the belief that Germany would launch an attack on Russia this summer, maintaining that it was Hitler's only chance to recapture a portion of the war initiative now held by the Allies.

In the defense of Kursk the Moscow broadcast credited Soviet fighters with shooting down 93 of the raiders, and anti-aircraftmen bagged 30 others for the impressive total of 123.

The Russians already had announced that a total of 2,069 enemy planes were destroyed during May at a cost of 518 aircraft—a claim disputed last night by Berlin, which said that their losses were only 143 planes compared to 1,213 Russian planes.

Rely Heavily on Planes

Despite these discrepancies, there appeared to be little doubt that both sides were relying heavily on their air arms in this stage of the war. Even in the Kuban district where the Germans say the Russians still are throwing thousands of infantrymen against their lines in an effort to crush the Axis bridgehead opposite the Crimea, the air forces of both sides were playing major roles.

The Russians have received large shipments of American planes, it is understood, in order to make possible a war of attrition against the German air force which also must assume the staggering defense job of manning the skies from Norway to Greece.

The Red airforce has been undertaking most of the offensive stabs in Russia, hitting Smolensk and Karachev Tuesday night in the latest announced forays. One plane was reported missing in these raids which caused large fires in those cities.

25 Nazi Planes Downed

Moscow's midnight bulletin had nothing unusual to report on the land front, merely recording scattered engagements extending from the Caucasus to the Leningrad sector, where it was said Soviet airmen shot down 22 German planes in combat and ground gunners destroyed three more in the latest Axis attack at Leningrad.

GERMAN RAIDERS KILL 10 IN BRITAIN

JUN -3 1943

London, June 2 (A. P.).—Ten persons were believed killed in an East Anglian town bombed early today by German aircraft. Four were in one street, a great section of which was shattered by a single bomb, as four or five enemy fighter-bombers swooped over the town soon after midnight.

Pursuing British Spitfires were reported authoritatively to have downed one of the invaders.

The German communique, recorded here from a Berlin broadcast, identified the Germans' targets as Margate and the Isle of Wight.

Meanwhile an analysis of official figures showed today that two civilians were killed or injured in air raids in the United Kingdom during the first three years of the war for every five casualties among the Kingdom's armed forces.

Total casualties among the fighting men of the United Kingdom during that period, Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee announced yesterday, were 275,844. Total civilian air raid casualties for the same period were 102,934—or 47,291 killed and 55,643 injured.

were needed. Heavy and accurate U. S. attacks on Flensburg, May 19, on Kiel, May 14, and on Bordeaux, May 17, helped materially in the May bombing offensive, he added.

The commentator, who may not be identified, indicated that the tactics of supreme saturation in bombing raids had been successfully demonstrated.

German planes struck an East Anglian town last night in a reprisal raid, and 10 persons were believed killed. The Germans said the town was Margate.

Nazi Land and Sea Transport Battered by R.A.F. in Day Raids

JUN -3 1943

LONDON, June 2—(AP) Squadrons of Spitfires, Tphoons and Mustangs slashed at German transport by daylight today, the Air ministry said, shooting up 11 locomotives and 10 barges, destroying one armed trawler and damaging three more in sweeps over northern France and off the Dutch coast.

Five planes were reported missing.

Britain's heavy bombers again were inactive last night, but Capt. Sir Harold H. Balfour, Undersecretary of State for Air, disclosed that in May the R.A.F. had cascaded about 12,500 tons of bombs on Germany, an increase of 1,500 tons over April.

"We look forward with confidence to being able to increase the supply of bombs delivered to Germany in due course," he told the House of Commons. The March total was only 8,000 tons.

An R.A.F. commentator, meanwhile, declared that daylight bombings by U. S. Air Forces "dovetailed ideally" with British night assaults in May, but that many more American planes and forces

ROWS HOLD UP FRENCH RULE

Executive Committee Plans To Take Formal Action Today

JUN -3 1943

Giraud Tells Peyrouton To Remain In Algeria Governorship

[By the Associated Press]

Algiers, June 2—The six-man executive committee headed jointly by Generals Charles de Gaulle and Henri Giraud decided tonight to meet tomorrow and declare itself the governing body of all French territory outside Axis domination.

Heated arguments between the two French factions striving for unity caused the collapse of plans to formalize the existence of the committee today, but after further conversations a definite agreement was reached for holding the session tomorrow morning.

Indicates De Gaulle Yields

Of course, anything may happen tomorrow, but at least tonight there was the declared aim of both groups to merge officially and settle the many problems barring the way to unity.

This decision apparently meant that de Gaulle had yielded in his demand that a purge of some Giraud officials, whom he regards as pro-Vichy, be carried out beforehand.

The committee intends to handle the case of each official whose loyalty to France and the Allies is questioned on a separate, detailed basis—a procedure which Giraud has demanded.

The political maneuvering attending the emergence of a unified French group has produced some strange situations here.

Muselier Giraud's Deputy

Today, for instance, Vice-Admiral Emile Muselier, who once was placed under house arrest by de Gaulle when he broke with the Fighting French leader, found himself a deputy to Giraud and as such charged with maintaining security here—in other words, the forces under him were guarding de Gaulle's movements.

Marcel Peyrouton, former Vichy minister of the Interior and Giraud-appointed Governor-General of Algeria, is the central figure in one clash between de Gaulle and Giraud.

Yielding to Fighting French pressure, Peyrouton yesterday submitted his resignation to both de Gaulle and Giraud, but the unexplained timing of his letters caused repercussions.

De Gaulle's Received First

De Gaulle received Peyrouton's note before midnight, promptly accepted it, assigned him to a colonial captaincy in the infantry of Syria—Fighting French territory—and then released the news to foreign correspondents.

Hours later Giraud also received Peyrouton's resignation note since he is copresident of the new executive committee and will alternately preside with de Gaulle at subsequent meetings.

Giraud told Peyrouton to remain temporarily in his post as Governor General of Algeria, thus countermanding the de Gaulle assignment to Syria. Giraud's group pointed out that Giraud still is the only "lawful authority" in North Africa until the new executive committee becomes official.

Police Around Restaurant

Giraud not only told Peyrouton to stay on his job, but followed through with the appointment of Admiral Muselier, regarded as a bitter foe of de Gaulle's. As security chief of the Algiers area, Muselier today found his police throwing a heavy cordon around a restaurant where de Gaulle spoke at an Anglo-American press club luncheon.

The break between Muselier and de Gaulle occurred after naval forces under the admiral occupied the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon off the Newfoundland coast on Christmas eve, 1941. Muselier recently arrived here to offer his services to Giraud.

American and British officials here have viewed the maneuvering of the two groups as a French family dispute which now apparently is to be resolved. Despite the possibility of an agreement tomorrow, there still were signs of tension.

Troops Guard Radio

Troops under Giraud's command stood guard over the Algiers radio station, and there also were troops stationed around North African barracks because some of Giraud's soldiers have been leaving to join those commanded by Jacques Le Clerc, Fighting French desert leader.

Besides de Gaulle and Giraud the other four members thus far appointed to the executive committee are:

Andre Philip and Rene Massigli, members of de Gaulle's Fighting French national committee, and Gen. Alphonse-Joseph Georges and Jean Monnet from Giraud's camp.

Catroux To Be Added

Three more members probably will be added later, including Gen. Georges Catroux, liaison officer and Fighting French delegate-general of Syria who has done valuable spadework to bring the two groups together.

De Gaulle paid a courtesy call today on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander in chief, but it was said French politics were not discussed. Then he attended the press luncheon and told the correspondents that the situation here would be recalled in French history as "a bad dream."

But he predicted the principles of his Fighting French movement would triumph and promised a victory march back to Paris—"perhaps not exactly the same Paris, but still it will be Paris."

Robert Murphy American Minister, and Harold MacMillan, British Minister, met correspondents tonight to give them their views on the situation.

Outlines Three Aims

MacMillan said their joint program in North Africa had consisted of three points:

1. To keep local conditions in shape to aid the military forces in driving the Axis from Africa, and using Africa as a point of further attacks.

2. To help local authorities solve their economic problems.

3. To aid French elements

DE GAULLE-GIRAUD CONFEREES AGREE TO DECLARE UNION

Formal Launching of New Government Promised for Tomorrow.

Algiers, June 2 (A. P.).A definite agreement was arrived at today by members of the French Executive Comittee to meet tomorrow and declare the committee the governing body of all French men and French territory outside enemy domination.

Plans to hold the meeting today fell through in the heat of arguments between the two elements involved—those of Gen. Henri Giraud and Gen. Charles de Gaulle—but conversations proceeded through the day, resulting in the acceptance of the plan to hold this vital meeting tomorrow.

Anything may happen tomorrow in this swiftly-moving French political crisis, but at least it was the announced will of all tonight to formalize the committee's existence in the morning.

Gen. De Gaulle apparently had yielded on his point that a purge of alleged Collaborationist elements be effected before the committee came into official existence.

Chooses Muselier.

Earlier today, amid the confusion and strain attending the birth pangs of the new governing body, Gen. Giraud appointed Vice-Admiral Emile Muselier to be his deputy as Commander in Chief and charged him with maintaining order in Algiers and vicinity.

This appointment followed an unusual exchange of letters in which Marcel Peyrouton, who had once signed an order for the arrest of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, submitted his double-barreled resignation to both Gen. De Gaulle and Gen. Giraud. He thereby quit the post of Governor-General in Algeria in response to Gen. De Gaulle's demand for a housecleaning.

Tonight Gen. de Gaulle declared that the crisis would go down in French history as a "bad dream," but that the principles of Fighting France would emerge triumphant and would lead to Paris and victory.

Once Arrested Muselier.

The appointment of Admiral Muselier, former member of the fighting French hierarchy, who later broke with Gen. De Gaulle and who is now regarded as his bitter opponent, was expected to add to the increasing tension between the French factions, who only last Monday came together in a new executive committee for the purpose of giving unified direction to the French war effort.

Gen. de Gaulle had Admiral Muselier under house arrest in London at one time after the Admiral had taken the lead in the Fighting French occupation of St. Pierre and Miquelon, islands off the Newfoundland coast. He is now the chief policeman of the district in which Gen. de Gaulle lives.

M. Peyrouton, one of the controversial figures of the North African situation, who once served Vichy as Minister of the Interior and then as Ambassador to Argentina, offered his resignation yesterday to Gen. de Gaulle and Gen. Giraud as joint presidents of the Executive Committee which is to govern liberated Frenchmen and French territory until France is freed. He asked both to give him back his old rank of captain in the Colonial Infantry Reserve.

He got a double-barreled reply. Gen. de Gaulle accepted the resignation promptly and assigned him to Syria. Gen. Giraud accepted the resignation but asked him to hold on to his job for the time being.

toward unity and establishment of a regime to serve until the mother country is liberated.

"I can only say that we have tried, and if we fail this time we shall try again," said MacMillan.

Better Than Civil War

"It's better to have arguments now than civil war in France afterward.

"We hope that these months of work in which Murphy and I have never disagreed will culminate tomorrow in a rebirth of a nation."

Unquestionably de Gaulle has a large measure of popular support, in the opinion of observers here. He has it, however, as a symbol of the fighting, resisting French masses who look up to him as such a symbol, rather than from those who have to deal with him, it is said.

BRITISH SHELL PANTELLERIA

Navy Craft Join In Dawn-To-Dusk Air Blows At Island

Planes Also Strike At Sardinia And Italian Mainland

JUN -3 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, June 2—Shells from British warships have crashed into the harbor defenses of Pantelleria in two heavy bombardments, and American Flying Fortresses have delivered coordinated air blows within two days on that nearest Italian outpost to Africa, it was announced today.

In neither of the successful bombardments of the island, which lies forty-five miles off the Tunisian coast and sixty miles short of Sicily, did the British suffer casualties.

Barracks And Batteries Hit

The harbor area, Italian barracks and batteries of Pantelleria were hard hit overnight on Sunday-Monday and again yesterday. The first bombardment, said the Allied communique, was carried through without effective opposition. In the second enemy shore batteries replied weakly.

This disclosure that the fleet had gone to work with new blows against the islands flanking Mussolini's homeland in cooperation with the Allied air offensive was accompanied by announcement that yesterday's surface attack on Pantelleria had been supported by a violent bombing assault by Flying Fortresses.

Raids From Dawn To Dark

Pantelleria was raided from dawn to dark yesterday without letup. American medium bombers and fighter bombers joining the Fortresses in sweeps carried out on the average of every two hours.

Sicily and Sardinia also remained under attack in the unbroken Allied air offensive.

The Italian seaplane base on Stagnone Island, off the western tip of Sicily between Trapani and Marsala, and shipping in the Sardinian harbors of Terranova, Porto Ponte di Romano and Porto Torres were heavily damaged.

A single Allied plane was lost in these far-ranging operations. In the one air combat of the day ten enemy fighter planes attacked a formation of American Mitchells over Terranova, but the result of the engagement was not made known.

Boats Set Afire In Harbor

At Stagnone, a considerable number of enemy seaplanes were destroyed or damaged. Three enemy boats were set afire in harbor before the Axis anti-aircraft guns could get going well.

Italy was hit overnight by British planes based on Malta, a British communique announcing that railway communication in the southern Italian mainland was attacked.

The Italians officially acknowledged serious damage to buildings in the Pantelleria bombardment, but claimed damage to a British destroyer by Italian coastal fire. Widespread destruction by Allied air raids also was conceded by the Italians, who listed Naples as one of the cities attacked again.

ALLIES DESTROY RECORD NUMBER OF SUBMARINES

More U-Boats Sunk in May Than in Any Other Month of War.

ALEXANDER REPORTS SUCCESS

First Lord of Admiralty Says Destruction Exceeds German Rate of Construction.

London, June 2 (A. P.).—Increasingly deadly Allied convoy escort services sank more enemy submarines in May than in any other month of the war and in the past two months the number of operating U-boats in the Atlantic appears to have decreased, A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, declared today.

He told the House of Commons that in the last twelve months the total enemy submarines sent to the bottom exceeded the number sunk in all of the previous war period and that in the last six months the rate of destruction was 25 per cent above the previous half year.

Paying tribute to the work of the United States Eighth Air Force and the R. A. F. in bombing U-boat bases Alexander predicted that "as time goes on bombing of the building yards and component factories should have an ever increasing effect" on the Battle of the Atlantic.

U-boat Construction Beaten.

He said it appeared that the number of sea marauders sent to the bottom during the month just ended was greater than the Germans could produce in all the facilities available to them. Besides those sunk a large number of the sea prowlers were damaged in various attacks by Allied naval and air attacks, Mr. Alexander reported.

In the past two months, he asserted, the number of U-boats in Atlantic waters appears to have decreased. This, he said, no doubt was due to more than one cause, but the principal one was undoubtedly due to the rising rate of this destruction.

Mr. Alexander described March as "a poor month" in the battle against the submarines, but said it still was not the worst month of the war in the campaign to free United Nations supply lines of the underseas menace.

Because of the high output of new shipping in the United States, he said, there was a substantial net gain of the overall tonnage in March.

Even Berlin Cuts Claims.

His statement disclosed that in April and May merchant shipping losses were reduced below the level of the three months from December to February after heavy losses in March.

A DNB report broadcast today from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press listed sixty-five British and American merchantmen, totaling 380,000 tons, as sunk in May by Nazi submarines. This was a drastic reduction compared with the usual monthly totals issued by the Germans.

[The German summary also credited Nazi aircraft with sinking an additional 50,000 tons of Allied shipping in May.]

Mr. Alexander said the improved situation reflected the growing size of the Allied escort forces—both ships and aircraft—and the increasing deadliness of new weapons and devices. [illegible] the lie to an Axis claim that April sinkings fell off because of the scarcity of shipping, Mr. Alexander said that "during that month our imports were the highest since the beginning of 1942."

Soldiers Deplore Strike.

London, June 2 (A. P.).—The coal strike in the United States was a major topic of conversation among members of the American armed forces today, and the service newspaper Stars and Stripes gave the story precedence over news from the war fronts.

Lieut. Robert Moora, news editor of the Stars and Stripes and formerly with the New York Herald Tribune, said:

"It would be hard to overemphasize the importance of strike developments to American troops here, for they fully realize the coal industry's part in winning the war. We've had any number of calls from boys anxiously asking what is the latest on the subject."

In Red Cross clubs for enlisted men the strike replaced speculation over an Allied invasion of Europe as the chief subject of discussion.

PRINCE GEORGE DIES IN BAVARIA

Grandson of Franz Josef Became a Priest.

London, June 2.—Mgr. Prince George of Bavaria, dean of the chapter of St. Peter, is dead of a heart attack at the age of 60 years, the Berlin radio said yesterday, quoting an announcement from the Vatican.

Often spoken of as the favorite grandson of Emperor Franz Josef of Austria-Hungary, Prince George married his cousin, Archduchess Isabelle Marie of Austria, in 1912. At the time he was a captain in the German Army and the boxing champion of his class. His cousin renounced her claims to the throne of Austria-Hungary to be married to him. The marriage was annulled early the next [illegible] had wrecked the wedding.

In 1919 Prince George entered a Jesuit monastery and later was ordained. While serving as a canon of St. Peter's in Rome he saved Archbishop John Smit from harm by seizing a pistol from the hand of a woman who was aiming at the Archbishop.

Briton Requests More U. S. Planes

London, June 2 (AP)—American daylight bombing "dovetailed ideally" with British night raids in May, but greatly increased numbers of USAAF planes are needed for the aerial assault from Britain, an RAF commentator said today.

The commentator told a press conference that particularly heavy and accurate attacks by the Americans on Flensburg May 19, Kiel May 14 and Bordeaux May 17 contributed greatly to making last month by far the most successful of the bomber offensive.

7,500 Tons In Four Cities

The May offensive reached its peak in the week ended May 29 when 7,500 tons of bombs fell on four cities—Dortmund, Essen, Duisburg and Wuppertal.

This was more than the RAF dropped on all targets in the first four months of 1942, he said.

The disaster to Dortmund, the objective of the first 2,000-ton raid, was more complete than that to Essen, previously rated as the worst-bombed city, the commentator said.

Saturation Policy Proven

He indicated that the success of the supreme saturation had been amply proven and would have a strong influence in future RAF tactics.

While the enemy is undoubtedly trying to maintain his air units in the Mediterranean, the commentator added, the fact that one hundred Flying Fortresses were able to attack Leghorn without loss is a clear indication that the "time when day bombers can operate without molestation is rapidly approaching in Italy."

He asserted that the intensity of the Nazi propaganda efforts to discredit the efforts of the bombings is the best possible evidence that war of attrition is beginning to be felt.

London, June 2 (AP)—Deprived of all his African colonies, Premier Mussolini has incorporated the Office for Emigration and Colonization into the Ministry of Corporations, the Rome radio announced today in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press.

Giuseppe Lombrasi, Under Secretary of Emigration and Colonization, will take another post, the broadcast said. Tullio Cianetti, newly appointed Minister of Corporations, will supervise emigration and colonlization affairs.

British Train Plunges Into Bomb Crater

London, June 2 (A. P.).—The locomotive of the London-Harwich night train plunged funnel-deep recently into a huge bomb crater gaping on the tracks near Ingatestone, it was disclosed today.

The engineer and firemen were killed but, although coaches filled with servicemen and civilians were jerked from the rails and one was hurled down a steep embankment, only two other persons were injured.

The Deadly Home Front

London, June 2 (AP)—Two civilians were killed or injured in air raids in the United Kingdom during the first three years of the war for every five casualties among the Kingdom's armed forces, an analysis of official figures showed today.

Total casualties among the fighting men of the United Kingdom during that period, Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee announced yesterday, were 275,844. Total civilian air-raid casualties for the same period were 102,934—or 47,291 killed and 55,643 injured.

Since then civilian casualties have risen to 106,516—including 48,733 killed and 57,783 wounded—at the end of March, the last announced figure.

Air Marshal Dowding a Peer

Anne Loughlin, Trade Union Organizer, Is Made a Dame of British Empire.

JUN -3 1943

London, June 2 (A. P.).—Award of a barony to Air Marshal Sir Hugh Caswall Tremenheere Dowding, former commander of the Royal Air Force Fighter Command, topped the birthday honors list of King George VI today, but accomplishments in learning and arts were also recognized along with military feats.

As head of the Fighter Command Sir Hugh led the defense against the German air attacks in the Battle of Britain in 1940. He was placed on the retired list in 1942 at his own request.

Anne Loughlin, head of the Trade Union Council and the first woman to become chief of a great national labor organization, was made a Dame of the British Empire, along with two other women.

(This honor corresponds to Knighhood; Miss Loughlin will henceforth be addressed as Dame Anne.)

A. H. Maxwell, Tobacco Comptroller, who made two wartime trips to the United States to help keep Britons supplied with tobacco, was one of several male civilian raised to Knighthood.

Barbour a Baronet.

Air Marshal Richard Hallam Peck, who is known to American newspaper readers as "R. A. F. Commentator," was made a Knight Commander of the Order of the Bath.

John Milne Barbour, former Finance Minister of Northern Ireland, was made a Baronet. He is the cousin of United States Senator Warren Barbour of New Jersey and of Frederick Barbour, chairman of the Linen Thread Company of New York.

Miss Marjorie Crawford, shorthand typist at the British Embassy at Buenos Aires, received the Order of the British Empire.

On the Canadian list, Rear Admiral Victor G. Brodeur, naval member of the Canadian Joint Staff at Washington, was made commander of the British Empire.

Brooklyn Man Honored.

The Air Force Cross was awarded to Flying Officer Theodore Marshall Wayave, whose next of kin lives at 232 77th street, Brooklyn.

Lieut.-Commander A. M. McLarnon, whose next of kin lives in Allston, Mass., was mentioned in dispatches.

Chief Petty Officer H. E. Austen of Jackson Heights, N. Y., who has served more than two years aboard a corvette, was cited for rescue work during an attack upon a convoy.

Col. O. M. Biggar, chairman of the Canadian section of the joint Canadian-United States Defense Board, was made a companion in the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

Flying Officer Robert McDonald Williams, whose next of kin lives in Oakland, Cal., was made a member of the Order of the British Empire (Military).

The British Empire Medal was awarded to James Wade of Moncton, New Brunswick, a commercial pilot, for his flight to Greenland in December last, in an attempt to rescue the injured crew of a crashed American bomber.

No 'Trooping the Colors.'

King George celebrated his "official" forty-seventh birthday today, nearly six months after the actual date—which is December 14. There was none of the gayety customary in peacetime, however, and the King worked as usual on State business. The anniversary is observed in June instead of December because the weather is more suitable for the traditional ceremony of "Trooping the Colors" and other celebrations.

Today the usual telegrams of congratulation flowed in from various parts of the Empire, and ambassadors and other representatives of foreign nations called at Buckingham Palace to sign the Visitors' Book. There was no other demonstration, however.

NAZIS ATTACK REDS IN KUBAN

Seek Initiative in Battle for Novorossisk.

McGAFFIN

Moscow, June 2 (A. P.).—The Germans have launched new counter-attacks northeast of Novorossisk in an attempt to relieve their besieged forces stubbornly clinging to the last Nazi-held Caucasus bridgehead, but every attempt has been defeated, front-line Russian dispatches said today.

Strongly attacking German forces made a vigorous bid to regain the initiative there, the dispatches said, but Russian infantry backed by heavy artillery threw them back repeatedly.

With the exception of the Kuban fighting, the long front was relatively quiet, but both forces are keyed up for another major campaign.

Red Army forces have been taking advantage of the lull to erect new fortifications along vital sections, the dispatches said.

Russian artillery has been pounding the German lines, particularly in the Lisichansk area of the Donets front, where German efforts to concentrate reserves for counter-attacks were described as disrupted.

[The German communique, recorded by the Associated Press, said today that the Russians had attacked with strong forces supported by tanks and planes both in the Kuban and at Velizh, about 250 miles west of Moscow. Heavy fighting developed, but the assaults were thrown back with many causalties, the communique said.

[The International Information Bureau, German propaganda agency, said in a Berlin broadcast today that a new phase of the battle for the Kuban bridgehead had opened with the Russians sending five new tank brigades and several rifle divisions into a large scale attack at dawn yesterday. The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.]

Ship Repair 'Miracle Men'

[By the Associated Press]

A Northern Ireland Port, June 2. An unofficial designation of "miracle men" has been applied to officers and men at United States naval repair yards in this turn-around point for Atlantic convoy escorts because of their speed in returning damaged ships to sea.

For instance, they:

Repaired in three weeks a destroyer though damaged so badly it couldn't be made seaworthy in less than three months.

Most Inexperienced

Replaced in three hours a damaged propeller—a job that veteran shipworkers thought would take several days at least.

Lieut. Com. David Conklin, of Los Angeles, commanding officer at the yards, attributes the speed results in part to the fact that his young American workers, most of them inexperienced, "don't know anything about how long a job should take."

"So they just pile in and get it done," he added, "and all we officers have to do is get rid of red tape.

JUN -3 1943

Revel In Work

"When a ship comes in for repairs, we send a man down to see what has to be done. He reports back here directly—just one report, not three or four as happens in some yards—and we detail the men and go to work.

"These men revel in work. They work their regular day, and when I say: 'We'll put another shift on here tonight,' they say: 'Leave us aboard. We'll work right through and get the job done.'

Aided By Canadians

"And that's what they do. On one Canadian destroyer out there now (he waved toward the yards) one repair crew worked through for two days to get her ready for sea. As it happened, something else went wrong and she couldn't go. But it wasn't for lack of trying."

Assisting Conklin is Lieut. John Jacques Piggot, of Hamilton, Ont., assigned to the yards by the Royal Canadian Navy.

Nazis Expect Two-Way Drive, Experts Say

JUN -3 1943

By John Colburn

[Associated Press Correspondent]

Stockholm, June 2—The German general staff and other Nazi military circles appeared to be grasping for straws today in an effort to learn the time and place of the expected Allied summer invasion.

Berlin dispatches continued to insist that the Germans have planned no summer offensive of their own, and Nazi military circles were quoted by the neutral correspondent of the Stockholms Tidningen as saying that a large-scale combined Russian and British-American offensive from the east and west might not start until fall.

Winter Drive Seen

German military commentators said that all signs of the Russian front indicated that the Soviet Union was preparing for a winter offensive, while they maintained that the British and American forces lacked sufficiently seasoned troops to conduct anything but large-scale Commando raids this summer, the correspondent added.

Behind the fact that the rigid German censorship permitted speculation regarding the Nazi military views on the invasion situation lay further indications that the Axis is conducting "fishing expeditions" for information on Allied plans.

Motive Explained

Since the cryptic statement which was issued at the conclusion of the Churchill-Roosevelt conference in Washington, the Nazis have been allowing publication of stories saying they could no longer hide the effects of Allied aerial bombardments and that their military, manpower and material strength has been sapped by their defeats in Russia and North Africa.

Competent observers in Stockholm stressed that such stories are not permitted to be published without a motive and said the obvious motive is that the Axis is completely in the dark about the United Nations strategy for ridding Europe of the Nazi-Fascist tyranny.

Termed Useless

The correspondent of the Stockholms Tidningen said Berlin military authorities have acknowledged that Adolf Hitler theoretically could conduct a summer offensive on the eastern front, but have considered it would be useless in view of the experience of the past two winters, which showed that the initiative reverted to the Russians when cold weather came.

He said that the German general staff fully expected Allied attacks from the east and west, but that the British and American forces in North Africa and Iceland needed more preparation.

Must Cut Supplies

The correspondent gave this further German-sanctioned picture of the situation:

The Nazis are convinced that they cannot conquer the Russians by territorial conquest, and that if the Soviets are to be crushed their supplies from America and Britain must be cut off.

That Hitler may take the risk of letting 500,000 Russian prisoners reported being organized under Andrei A. Vlassov, former Soviet lieutenant general, play a major part in fighting their fellow-countrymen, especially since they are better trained in winter warfare.

MARSEILLE GETS SET FOR INVASION

Dispatch Reports Feverish Preparations And Police Activity

[By the Associated Press]

Bern, Switzerland, June 2—A Marseille dispatch to the Tribune de Geneve said today that Marseille was in "feverish preparations" and living as if it "expected an Allied landing from day to day."

The occupation authorities apparently feel that the Allies will soon attempt the establishment of a bridgehead either in the the city itself or in the immediate vicinity, which is now being fortified by all possible means, the dispatch said.

Police Step Up Operations

The defense preparations are accompanied by intensified police operations in the Marseille area with numerous police raids, round-ups and arrests being reported.

The districts of Lacarau and Estaque, which extend west of Marseille have been land-mined, the dispatch said, as a precaution against any Allied aviation action. Prairies and field surrounding the city which could be used as landing fields are getting the same treatment.

Villas Made Into Defenses

It said the magnificent villas stretching along the coastal region of marseille have all been transformed into centers of resistance. The buildings have been camouflaged, barbed-wire defenses set up and machine-gun units scattered throughout the area, it added.

The Mediterranean beaches have also been mined and the entire coast line equipped with a three-mile deep defense belt which took several months to construct, apparently as a defense against tanks, it was reported.

Barracks, Docks At Pantelleria Shelled

JUN -3 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, June 2—British warships in their second bombardment of Pantelleria in less than forty-eight hours yesterday heavily shelled the harbor area, barracks and batteries of the Italian island, it was announced today.

United States Flying Fortresses joined the air offensive against the battered island forty-five miles off the Tunisian coast while other American attacks were made on the islands of Sicily and Sardinia.

Shelled Heavily

The warships blasted Pantelleria Sunday night and then returned yesterday afternoon, an Allied headquarters communique announced, to carry out a heavy shelling without loss although there was some retaliatory fire from the shore.

The communique's anouncement of the bombardment said:

"The island of Pantelleria was sucessfully bombarded by naval surface forces on the night of May 30-31. There was no effective opposition and our ships sustained no casualties or damage.

No Enemy Air Attacks

"Another successful bombardment of the island took place during the late afternoon of June 1. Hits were obtained on the barracks and battery areas. There was some retaliation from the shore, but our ships sustained no casualties."

The Italian fleet dispersed along the Italian west and east coasts appeared powerless to intervene against the British navy and no enemy air attacks against the warships were reported.

The second bombardment almost coincided with a smashing assault by Flying Fortresses, augmented by bombing and strafing formations of Lightnings, against the volcanic rock which has become the most-punished Axis territory in the world.

Small Vessels Hit

The warplanes plastered small vessels in the island's shallow port and covered hideouts of the enemy garrison with bomb bursts.

The Italian seaplane base on Stagnone Island, off the western tip of Sicily between Trapani and Marsala, and shipping in the Sardinian harbors of Terranova, Porto Ponte di Romano, and Porto Torres also were extensively damaged by the non-stop air offensive.

Italy Proper Hit

(British planes from Malta hit at Italy itself last night, attacking railway communications in the southern part of the kingdom, a Valletta communique said.)

One plane was lost in the widespread operations by the American squadrons and there was only one air combat during the day, when ten enemy fighters attacked a formation of Mitchells over Terranova.

Seaplanes Destroyed

Mitchell crewmen said the enemy coordinated their tactics, making simultaneous passes at the bombers from the sides and below. No fighter was shot down and it was not specified officially whether any Mitchell was lost.

However, in the slashing raid on Stagnone island by Warhawks, a considerable number of seaplanes at anchor was destroyed and others were damaged, it was announced.

Schooner Strafed

The fighters streaked into the base at deck level and the first formation strafed a 150-foot schooner and set afire three small boats before anti-aircraft batteries could get into full action.

Later formations encountered intense but lightweight anti-aircraft fire and small arms fire. Top cover for the raiders was provided by other Warhawks.

Destruction of two anchored planes was credited to Maj. Robert Baseler, of Columbia Lake, Conn., who said:

"We just sneaked into them before anyone was moving around and got out before they really knew what hit them."

Second Lieutenant Rayburn D. Lancaster, of Stephenville, Texas, who left two other seaplanes burning, said:

"Strafing them was like running the low hurdles in a track meet."

One seaplane attempted to taxi and take off, reported First Lieutenant Herbert W. Andridge, Jr., of Pittsford, Mich., who flew in the first Warhawk element.

"But he never made it," Andridge said, because Collins and I let him have it."

Three Others Hit

He referred to First Lieutenant Frank J. Collins, of Breckenridge, Texas, who shot down three ME-109s in previous raids.

Collins added:

"Besides that one moving there were three more stationary and we hit every one of them. I don't mind getting up withe chickens if every mission turns out to be party like this one."

"Down below he saw fire after fire spring up, just as if someone were lighting them," said Capt. Herschell H. Green, of Mayfield, Ky., in describing the operation.

AMERICANS WRECK 12 AXIS SEAPLANES

Warhawko Sweep Over Wall In Attack On Craft In Stagnone Harbor

JUN -3 1943

By HAROLD V. BOYLE

An American Air Base in Algeria, June 1 (Delayed) — Hard-hitting Warhawks, sweeping in over the seawall, caught twenty-five Italian seaplanes at the anchorage at Stagnone Island off the western tip of Sicily today, destroying twelve and damaging six.

Four vessels in the harbor area also were left burning in this first surprise assault on the Italian seaplane base where huge flying boats land supplies from the mainland. A two-masted schooner, small sailing boat, barge and 100-foot cargo vessel were left burning.

Also Strafe Buildings

The speedy American fighter planes flew through flak to strafe buildings in the center of the island, also.

The attack, which cut heavily into Italy's remaining seaplane fleet, resulted in the loss of one Warhawk.

While one formation circled overhead as a top cover, flight after flight of other Warhawks flashed in past the seawall protecting the anchorage from the open sea, and as they raced by only a few feet above the base itself they strafed every seaplane in their path until the water was strewn with flaming, broken and sinking flying boats, floundering like crippled elephants.

Leader Destroys Two

Major Robert Baseler, of Columbia Lake, Conn., who led the attack, left the two seaplanes he destroyed in towering flames. Lieut. R. D. Lancaster, of Stephenville, Texas, got his pair with a barrage of cannon shells and .50-caliber machine-gun slugs.

Capt. H. H. Green, of Mayfield, Ky., who led the flying top cover, amplified his description of the fight:

"Down below I could see fire after fire spring up just as if someone was lighting bonfire after bonfire."

Strafe Out Harbor Ships

Sweeping about in a steep left turn after the smashing raid on the anchorage, the Warhawks sped back to sea, strafing four boats which they met in the outer harbor, all of which were left burning and sinking.

Another outstanding performance of the raid was that of Flight Officer Bill H. Slattery, of Birmingham, Ala., who strafed a seaplane and left it burning.

Negro Flyers Reach War Zone

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, June 2 (AP) — American Negro combat flyers have arrived in North Africa to take their place in the aerial war against the Axis, it was officially announced today.

The Negro aviators compose a fighter squadron equipped with P-40 Warhawks. Veteran pilots of the Tunisian campaign are instructing the newcomers in the latest fighting tactics.

"Upon completion of this advanced training the squadron will be sent into action," the statement said.

Enemy Attu Forces Fight To The Death

Washington, June 2 (AP)—The navy underscored the suicidal nature of Japanese resistance in the western Aleutians today with the disclosure that only four prisoners were captured while a minimum of 1,500 Japanese were being killed in the first twenty days of the American drive on Attu Island.

The death toll probably will be increased greatly when final reports are in. The figure is additionally conservative in that it represents only bodies counted and takes no account of Japanese who may have been buried under the snow by their comrades or left unrecognizable by the blasts of shells and bombs.

It is this stubborn resistance which has prolonged the Attu struggle into its fourth week. American forces were understood to be continuing mopping-up operations today and despite the enemy's heavy casualties a number of pockets of resistance in the mountainous northeastern end of the island around Cape Khlebnikof still had to be cleaned out.

U. S. Casualties Lighter

American casualties thus far announced indicated that American losses on the island were much lighter than those of the Japanese. Secretary of War Stimson said last Thursday that United States forces had lost 127 men killed, 399 wounded and 118 missing.

While this did not cover as long a period as the navy's report on Japanese losses, authorities said that our proportionate losses would remain on about the same level.

The navy communique announcing the enemy casualties said that as of midnight May 30, the Japanese losses on Attu were "estimated" as 1,500 killed and four captured. A spokesman declared that the figure on killed was arrived at by an actual count of bodies, but was described as an estimate to cover possible minor errors in field reports.

Planes Raid Kiska

The communique also reported that on May 31 while mopping-up operations continued on Attu, formations of army Liberatory heavy bombers, Mitchell medium bombers and Warhawk fighters bombed and strafed Japanese positions on their main Aleutians base on Kiska Island.

"Hits were scored on the runway, North Head and Gertrude Cove," the communique said. The latter two places are enemy defense locations.

The accounting of Japanese casualties covered the heavy fighting of the latter part of last week. The navy previously had reported that on Saturday night and Sunday morning more than 400 Japanese were killed in scattered operations conducted as part of the successful American advance on Chichagof harbor, where three United States columns effected a junction Sunday.

Counter-Attack Tried

Prior to that an enemy force of undisclosed size had made a counter-attack on one of the American columns in the Chichagof valley, lying southwest of the harbor, and had been annihilated.

The campaign on Attu went into its fourth week Tuesday. War bulletins indicated that the actual battle is won and all that remains now is to clean up the scattered pockets of resistance in the Khlebnikof area.

handkerchiefs, sometimes decorated with pornographic drawings.)

Also True: They frequently have small dolls among their effects (they apparently are souvenirs or reminders of Japanese children at home).

Also True: Powder Puffs

Also true: There are numbers of powder puffs (Japanese officers use them to apply after-shaving powder).

In short, American officers have been making a serious effort to find out if Japanese military plans involve the importation of women and especiall yto learn the fate of native Aleut women who were captured when the enemy took this island. Both queries to date are unanswered.

Odd-Looking Contraption

Holtz Bay, Attu Island, May 24 (Delayed) (AP)—It was an odd-looking canvas case, with an even odder brass hexagon inside about two inches thick, about six inches across.

The lieutenant was curious after finding it in a gun position. He carefully cut off the cover, carefully pried off the brass. Inside he found a queer collection of odd-shaped blocks which looked like wood but seemed to serve no purpose the lieutenant could figure out, so he shaved the corner from one, smelled it and finally laid it down on a table. The material wasn't wood, he knew, but he didn't know yet what the contraption was.

That was several days ago. Today intelligence officers had a similar object and were dipping it carefully in a pool of water, handling it with extreme caution.

"What is it?"

The officer handling it looked up, smiled sweetly, and said:

"Land mine."

Massacre Bay, Attu Island, May 23 (Delayed)—Just to settle some rumors which already are rife on this island and doubtless will be equally common in the States as soon as some ships from Attu get back home:

Americans haven't found any indication that there are any Japanese women on Attu.

They haven't found any women soldiers.

They haven't found any Geisha girls.

If there are any women with the Japanese they must be in the still uncaptured isolated spots and there is no evidence they even are there.

Japs Live On Rice? Not Those On Attu Island

[By the Associated Press]

WORDEN

JUN -3 1943

Holtz Bay, Attu Island, May 19 (Delayed)—So the Japanese live on rice, do they?

Not on Attu.

Their forces retreating from Holtz Bay left the following supplies, most of them in the thousands of cases and the hundreds of barrels:

Rice, cooked and uncooked.

Oatmeal.

Canned oriental oranges—the first item our soldiers jump when they find a new ration dump.

Tons Of Potatoes

Literally tons of good potatoes.

Ditto fresh carrots, which did not keep so well, but which help to make our G. I. stew more palatable.

Ditto fresh onions, which the Japanese used as barracks decorations when they began to sprout in too great numbers.

Canned Meat Balls

Thousands of cases of "salute" salmon, which used to flood the West Coast markets in low-price brackets; also thousands of cases of unlabeled salmon.

Meat balls in cans.

Half a dozen varieties of dried fruits.

Soybean cake by the ton.

Kelp for soup.

Dried fish of various kinds, including devilfish, a Japanese delicacy. No Japanese foxhole was complete without a few carcasses.

Tea, tea and more tea.

Fresh-caught fish—at least by comparison with the dried varieties. Apparently they left them around for a few days before they thought them ready to eat.

Millions Of Pills

Pills by the million. Every soldier had three or four large bottles of vitamin pills. Most also had handsome collections of lesser remedies. Some even had small silver pellets with a heart on the box, which may have been love potions. One American doctor decided to experiment. He got very sick. No one else has tried any of the remedies since.

Candies in small boxes.

The ubiquitous saki. You can't walk the beach without falling over broken saki bottles.

Japs Dug Underground World On Attu

By William L. Worden

Murder Point, Attu Island, May 20 (Delayed)—Whatever else the Japanese have been doing on Attu for the last year, they must have spent most of their time digging in the mushy tundra.

American soldiers advancing on Japanese positions all over Attu have found literally miles of tunnels and caves. Every sniper's nest is a pint-sized underground house, sometimes with four or five tunnel-connected firing positions. Machine-gun emplacements are elaborate caves with side passages for storage or ammunition or food and other niches for the crews to sleep in.

Command Posts Underground

A typical Japanese command post is an underground hut some twenty feet long and half that wide, beautifully screened with blocks of tundra, protected from shall fragments by tundra battlements. The only part of it extending above ground is the smoke pipe for the central heating stove. Most such huts are built into the sides of hills so that some drainage is provided. When the drains fail to work, however, the Japs simply lay catwalks over the water and go on using the installations.

Most elaborate of all are the anti-aircraft positions, which include three or four rooms, all underground except the single roofless circle which holds the gun itself. Crews lived, slept, worked and played in the caves they had built.

Elaborate Trench System

At the west arm of Holtz Bay, the trench system was so elaborate that it was possible to cross the entire valley without once exposing oneself to the sight of anyone in the bay—the distance is almost two miles. At the airport in the east arm of Holtz Bay, workers even lived under the landing strip in underground sheds placed in recesses in the side of the plateau.

One of the strangest of all the installations was on a sand bar directly behind a gun position in the east arm of the bay. Starting with a gravel mound about twenty feet in diameter, the Japanese had built it up to a cone. If intended for concealment, it was a flat failure. It stood out as far as it could be seen. A stovepipe came out of the top.

To enter, a man clambered up the gravel to a point about four feet below the top, there entered a twisting slit trench so narrow that a normal sized American wearing a canteen belt had to take the belt off before he could go through it. The trench turned sharply, slanted down, entered a four-foot-square, four-foot-high, floored chamber. One corner contained a tiny stove, another a bag of rice.

The chamber was windowless, had been completely roofed before some American dropped a grenade into it. An occupant could not look or shoot out, could not even see the gun closest to him. Unless it had been removed so carefully as to leave no trace, there was not even a telephone wire into the place. The litter on the floor (aside from a packing box) contained two postcards, a Japanese dictionary and the inevitable bottle of pills.

TINY NAVY BOATS CROSS THE PACIFIC

With the U. S. Fleet in South Pacific (A. P.).—American submarine chasers have demonstrated their ability to knock the enemy out of the air as well as out of the sea. The smallest seagoing fighting ships in the Navy—that's the way their officers describe them—now claim their share of Japanese in this war area.

Two little Nipponese flags painted on the side of the pilot house of a 110-foot sub chaser represented two enemy planes shot down. Another of the wooden-hulled craft displayed four little Rising Sun flags. They were for planes, too.

The two chasers, whose crews of three officers and 24 men each are crowded into every available space, participated in fighting off a Japanese air attack on shipping between Guadalcanal and Tulagi in April.

One of the little fighting boats which was skippered by Lieut. (j. g.) William Hotz, 27, from old Omaha and a former Omaha attorney, also boasted the rescue of a Marine flyer whose plane had been shot down.

All of the sub-chaser officers are young and, although some were without previous experience, they brought their tiny craft across the Pacific to take up patrol and escort work.

"We saw only one ship in twenty days coming over here," said Lieut. (j. g.) Carl Jensen, 29, of Greenwich, Conn., a Hamilton College man who was a salesman before entering the sub-chaser training school at Miami.

"We haven't been paid for four months," said the second boat's 24-year-old captain, Lieut. (j. g.) Harry Franklin of Plainfield, N. J., and the University of Virginia. "The paymaster just hasn't caught up with us. But we have a couple of enlisted men who had foresight enough to load up with cash. We get along."

Plane Carrier Given Honor

JUN -3 1943

[By the Associated Press]

An Advanced Base, June 2—The aircraft carrier Enterprise, which probably wrought more havoc on the Japanese navy and air arm than any other ship in the United States fleet, was awarded a Presidential unit citation recently by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the Pacific fleet, the navy announced today.

The Enterprise was the fifteenth ship and the first aircraft carrier to be so cited. The presentation was long delayed, it was reported, because the carrier was so active that she was seldom in port long enough to receive the honors.

Enterprise's Record

Admiral Nimitz credited the Enterprise with the destruction of at least one of every type of Japanese combat ship and hundreds of enemy aircraft in her many major engagements in the Pacific.

The citation was awarded "for outstanding performance in action." Details were withheld for security reasons.

The award came almost as a birthday present. The Enterprise was commissioned May 12, 1938.

Chungking, June 2—Chinese dispatches asserted today that Chinese forces were continuing violent assaults along the whole upper Yangtze front and were tightening traps around Japanese units in both Hupeh and Hunan provinces.

Further gains were reported in what the Chinese are celebrating as their biggest victory of the six-year-old war.

The Chinese have estimated enemy casualties in the last few days' fighting, which has turned back a threat to Chungking, at 30,000. While some non-Chinese quarters consider this too high, it is generally believed that a substantial number of Japanese have been killed or wounded and that altogether a notable comeback has been achieved.

Hunan Link Saved

The main accomplishment has been the safeguarding of communications between Chungking and Hunan province, which at one time were dangerously near disruption.

Operating with a strong fighter escort, Chinese medium bombers attacked Japanese supply routes near Ichang yesterday morning, an official announcement said today. Tons of bombs were dropped with telling effect, the announcement declared.

Airdrome Plastered

No fighter opposition was encountered, it was said, indicating the effectiveness of joint Chinese and Allied aerial operations the previous day, when Ichang airdrome was heavily bombed and many planes were destroyed on the ground in addition to twenty-three shot down in combat. At least eight others were listed as probably shot out of action.

Chinese fighters again carried out offensive patrols over the Yangtze yesterday afternoon, but no enemy planes were sighted.

All the Chinese operations were conducted without loss, the announcement said.

Japs Claim Victory

(The Japanese, in an imperial headquarters announcement broadcast from Tokyo and recorded by the Associated Press, reported today they had won a big victory in the sector opposite Ichang, where the Chinese yesterday reported five enemy divisions routed.

(The Tokyo broadcast asserted "a crushing offensive" had been carried out in that area against 120,000 Chungking defense troops "and other enemy forces."

Big Toll Reported

(In the period from May 19 up to June 1, the announcement declared, 18,600 Chinese were left on the field in dead or wounded, 2,628 were taken prisoners, and quantities of war materials were captured while the Japanese "suffered 237 killed in action."

(The Tokyo bulletin also claimed that southward in the area west of Tungting lake the Japanese had "successfully completed operations" and had killed or wounded 36,300 Chinese, taken 5,923 prisoners, and captured various war materials for a Japanese loss of only 475 killed in action.)

CHINESE CRUSH JAP REMNANTS IN HUPEH SECTOR

Attack on Changyang,, Below Main Enemy Base, Is Launched.

JUN -3 1943

CHUNGKING, China, June 2—(AP) Chinese troops smashing forward all along the Yangtze front in central China were declared officially tonight to have annihilated all Japanese remnants surrounded in a Hupeh province sector south of the river and to have launched an attack on the town of Changyang below the main enemy base at Ichang.

Northeast of Ichang, said a Chinese communique reporting a series of sharp successes in the counter-offensive against the Japanese invader, a number of points were recaptured.

In north Hunan province, it was added, Chinese forces had regained three towns above the city of Lihsien and in this area, too, it was declared that the retreating Japanese had been surrounded and many of them annhiliated.

Counter-Attacks in Shansi

Well to the north of all this action, in Shansi province west of the Taiheng mountains, the Japanese were counter-attacking.

The Chinese announced that in fighting between May 11 and May 24, more than 5,000 casualties had been inflicted upon the Japanese in the mountainous regions east of Shantung.

One of the main accomplishments of the Chinese comeback—which has turned back a Japanese offensive in what China calls her biggest victory in the six years of the war with Japan—had been to put an end to a serious threat earlier posed by the invader to communications between Chungking and Hunan province.

While reports from the field continued to tell of further gains for the Chinese land forces, official announcements reported a continuation of extraordinarily effective Allied air action in the central China theater.

Jap Supply Lines Bombed

Yesterday, it was declared, Chinese medium bombers under strong fighter plane escort powerfully attacked Japanese supply routes in the Yangtze valley near the main enemy base of Ichang, dropping tons of bombs without meeting enemy fighter opposition. Further Chinese offensive patrols over the Yangtze also were not challenged.

(The Japanese in a Tokyo broadcast said that it was they who had won a big victory in the Ichang area where the Chinese had reported five Japanese divisions routed. Tokyo's version was that "a crushing offensve" had been carried out against the Chinese. It was asserted that from May 19 to June 1 the Chinese dead and wounded had numbered 18,600 against 237 Japanese killed in action.)

Chinese estimates of Japanese casualties in the last few days have run to 30,000 and while this figure appeared too high to some non-Chinese observers, the Japanese have in any case suffered substantially.

Chungking, June 2—All Japanese remnants surrounded in one sector of the Hupeh province front south of the Yangtze river have been wiped out, the Chinese high command announced tonight in a communique telling of further smashing gains in the Chinese army's big comeback drive.

Chinese forces are now attacking Changyang, twelve miles south of the big enemy base at Ichang, it said, while a number of points northeast of Ichang have been recaptured. It also recorded the taking of three towns north of Lihsien, in northern Hunan province.

Japanese Machine-Gun U. S. Flyers in Chutes

Lone Survivor of Crew of Six Tells of 'Rat Warfare'

NEW DELHI, India, June 2 (AP).—The story of a Japanese attack on American airmen who parachuted from a crippled bomber was told here today in an official dispatch following an account given by the lone known survivor, Sergeant Marvin W. Beckman, of Inglewood, Calif.

Beckman, the survivor from a crew of six, told his story in a Calcutta hospital.

The tail of his plane was shot off during an attack by twenty-five Japanese Zeros as a flight of Mitchell bombers crossed the Irrawaddy River on the homeward trip after bombing objectives in Burma. The Japanese concentrated on the last plane, which was piloted by Second Lieutenant T. Van Schaick, of Los Angeles, the co-pilot.

The crew bailed out from the crippled plane and then began what airmen call "rat warfare."

The Japanese Zeros began machine-gunning the men swinging helplessly from their parachutes. Members of the crews of other planes saw the parachutes of three men collapse while they were about 5,000 feet up.

Sergeant Beckman, already wounded twice before taking to his parachute, was wounded twice more by Japanese bullets as he hung in the harness.

The attack occurred on May 21. Four days later Beckman, who landed in friendly territory, reached a British outpost, from which he was flown to London.

Yanks Bomb Jap Burma Route

JUN -3 1943

[By the Associated Press]

New Delhi, June 2—Medium bombers of the Tenth United States Army Air Force attacked Japanese railroad installations yesterday at Mandalay, damaging storage buildings, rolling stock and tracks, an American communique said today.

In a blow aimed at Japanese supply lines from Burma into southwestern Yunnan, Liberators dropped six tons of bombs on a suspension bridge across the Shweli river near Loiwing on Monday.

Suspension Tower Hit

The communique said it was believed that the north suspension tower was damaged from hits and near hits.

Noting that the river there soon will be in flood in the monsoon period, the announcement said denial of the use of the bridge to the Japanese forces would increase their difficulties in bringing up supplies.

No planes were lost in the two operations.

Ground Action Halted

The monsoons have closed in over the Arkan front of Burma, putting a stop to all ground military activity, a British communique said.

Blenheim bombers and American-built Mohawks were able to take to the air yesterday when they attacked enemy positions near Kalemyo, in northwest Burma.

Heavy clouds prevented detailed observations of the results, and the flyers encountered heavy anti-aircraft fire, the communique said.

Two planes failed to return.

NEW GUINEA JAPS BOMBED HEAVILY

Allied Headquarters in Australia, June 2 (A. P.).—Flying Fortresses and Liberators have loosed the fury of 132 tons of bombs within less than a week upon Lae and Wewak, New Guinea, without being challenged by a single Japanese plane.

Yesterday, emboldened by successes under cover of darkness, Liberators struck unescorted in daylight at the enemy's airdrome base of Lae to drop thirty-six tons and met opposition only from Japanese anti-aircraft guns.

Within the week, 100 tons of explosive, incendiary and fragmentation bombs have fallen upon Lae airdrome in three raids. Thirty-two tons of bombs have been dropped in two raids on Wewak.

What happened yesterday just above Lae at Finschhaven, when sixteen Zeros jumped a single Flying Fortress, may supply the tip as to why the Japanese are loath to challenge the bombers which come in force. From 200 feet up to 13,000 feet that giant of the skies fought it out with the swarm of interceptors. Three of the crew were wounded. One of its engines was shot out. Two others were hit.

Still it refused to go down. Four Zeros were sent burning and spinning into the sea. A fifth crashed in trees along the shore. A sixth went into a steep dive and may have suffered the fate of the other five. But the bomber, although badly shot up, limped back to its base, after the other Zeros fled.

FORTRESS ROARS LIGHTS OUT

Somewhere in New Guinea, May 30 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Flying Fortresses have been used in about every capacity out here from bombing missions to strafing attacks, but buzzing along a line of searchlights is not exactly the purpose for which the big bombers were designed.

When Capt. Jay Zeamer of 56 Ridge street, Orange, N. J., 25-year-old veteran with forty-six missions chalked up to his credit, called over the interphone, "O. K., boys — load and stand to guns; we're going down to do a little extinguishing on those lights," they did a thorough job. It was on a night raid over Wewak.

Three lights flared blue-white as tracers ripped home, and then died out. Others pointed into the night air like long stationary fingers while the Japanese apparently scrambled for cover.

Enemy Flyers Renew Activity, Attack Detachment In Vicinity Of Wau

JUN -3 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in Australia, Thursday, June 3—Continuing the stepped-up attack on New Guinea bases, Allied planes dropped twenty-four tons of bombs yesterday on Wewak, the high command announced.

This was the third heavy raid since May 28 on Wewak, a supply base 325 miles northwest of Lae. Fifty-six tons of bombs were dropped in the three raids in addition, one hundred tons have been dropped in three raids on Lae.

Off Timor, Allied bombs scored a near miss on a 4,000-ton cargo ship, today's communique reported.

Japanese Active

The Japanese air force, returning to action for the first time in several days, sent sixteen planes against a small Allied detachment in the vicinity of Wau, thirty-five miles southwest of Salamaua.

The communique said the Japanese raiders, striking at an Allied post at Bulldog, near Wau, caused slight damage "and casualties."

Above New Guinea on the southwestern tip of New Britain, the airdrome at Cape Gloucester was bombed by a two-engined Allied plane on armed reconnaissance at night.

Hollandia Strafed

To the northwest of Australia, Hollandia, on the north coast of Dutch New Guinea, was visited by a four-engined bomber which strafed the town and barges along the shore.

Both heavy and medium bombers attacked shipping off the coast of Timor. The damaging near miss on the cargo vessel was scored with a 500-pound bomb.

Five Japanese Zeros tried to intercept the Timor raiders and one of the enemy probably was destroyed.

WED IN WAR ZONE

SCHEDLER

Somewhere in New Guinea, June 2 (A. P.).—In a bamboo shack lighted by kerosene lanterns, the first marriage ceremony here uniting Americans was performed last night before a small service audience of officers and nurses. The principals were First Lieut. Dan Macer, Evansville, Ind., and Second Lieut. Eugenia Andrews, an Army nurse, of Minneapolis, Minn.

Lieut. Macer said he and Miss Andrews came across the Pacific on the same ship. In Australia they were assigned to the same hospital and came to New Guinea on the same ship. They became engaged in January and decided there was no time like the present to get married even if they could obtain only sven days leave to the Australian mainland for a honeymoon.

Officiating at the ceremony was First Lieut. Samuel McMaster-Kerr, Seattle, Wash. He gave the solemn vows before an improvised altar constructed from one rug which the nurses had in their quarters.

Brig.-Gen. Hanford McNider, Mason City, Iowa, gave the bride away. Gen. McNider said he was somewhat startled to be called upon to perform in such a capacity but that, when he met the bride, he learned her uncle had served with him in the same division in the first world war.

Fort Battles 16 Zeros, Bags 5

(Today's communique from the headquarters of Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported succinctly how a Flying Fortress fought it out for thirty-five minutes at heights varying from 200 to 13,000 feet with sixteen Japanese Zeros over Finschhafen, New Guinea, shooting down five, possibly six, and limping back to base. Here is an on-the-spot story of that engagement.)

By Dean Schedler

[Associated Press Correspondent]

Somewhere in New Guinea, June 1 (Delayed)—Again a B-17 came home—beat up, shot up and, as the crew said, "when we stopped rolling, all of us, with shaking knees, just sat on the ground and thanked God."

They had plenty of reason. For thirty-five minutes they had given battle to sixteen Japanese Zeros, knocking out five for certain and another probably.

On Reconnaissance Duty

The Flying Fortress was on armed reconnaissance over the north coast of New Guinea. While cruising along at 13,000 feet it was tackled by Japanese who were "old-line fighting boys," according to the bomber crew.

The top turret gunner, Technical Sergeant Lawrence Holmes, of New York city, had the most unusual experience of the day.

"I had my guns all primed and checked for them when I reached for my shoulder holster to drop it on the floor out of the way. I had just reached from the platform to drop it on the floor when—wham—went the gun out of my hand."

A look at the gun explained quickly enough why he had missed a few heart beats. A high explosive Japanese bullet entering from the floor had caught the barrel of the automatic and bent it backward like one of those loose-jointed rubber-hose stage prop weapons.

Of the planes shot down, Holes is credited with two.

The Fortress pilot, Second Lieutenant Henry Evans, of Eugene, Ore., took his plane out to sea and ducked in out of a low cloud cover, nursing the plane along on two and one half engines. Every time the bomber reappeared in the open Zeros would attack.

One of the best shooting scores was attributed to the modest tail gunner, Staff Sergeant Charles Williams, of Milford, Texas, who got two Zeros by a trick of fate.

Two For One

"After the pilot made a full circle I cocked the guns for battle and, sure enough, there coming toward me were three fighters in Echelon," Williams related. "I let go a burst into the lead ship and he wheeled off. My tracers were just below the next plane, but I caught the lower ship of the flight dead on the cockpit. He pulled up in a sharp climb and crashed into a third plane, sending both of them down into the sea."

The Fortress, named Spawn of Hell, managed to reach its base with gas streaming from punctured tanks, the hydraulic system shot out and the brake system inoperative. It bore thirty-one cannon holes and uncounted machine-gun holes.

Bullets Rip Trousers

The copilot, First Lieutenant William Hazzard, of Birmingham, Ala., had a close one. Bullets entered the cockpit, tore a hole in his cushion and ripped a hole in his trousers.

The crew said the Zeros were attacking like broken field runners, weaving and twisting, trying to avoid the Fortress' fire, but the boys stuck with their plane, pumping everything at hand into the enemy until the Japanese gave up the fight.

Pope Pleads for Humanity

Rome Radio Quotes Pontiff as Urging Mercy in Aerial War.

JUN -3 1943

The Rome radio quoted Pope Pius XII in an address to the College of Cardinals on his name day today as exhorting the belligerents to respect the laws of humanity in the air war. The Rome broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

"We, who since the beginning of the conflict have done all that was in our power to induce the belligerents to respect the laws of humanity in the aerial war, now believe it to be our duty to exhort them once more to observe these laws," the radio quoted him as saying.

In speaking of war sufferers in general, the Pontiff said, according to the Rome radio account:

"Every word addressed by us to the competent authorities and every allusion made by us in public should be seriously considered in the interest of the victims so as not to render their situation—even unintentionally—more serious and more insupportable.

Pleads for Small Nations.

He was quoted as making the following statement in speaking of Poland:

"To this people so cruelly tried and to other peoples who with Poland have been obliged to drink the cup of bitterness of this war, there should be reserved a future that fulfills their legitimate aspirations and which should be in accordance with the greatness of their sacrifices, in a Europe rebuilt on a Christian basis and within a group of States free from the errors and mistakes of the past."

In his discourse leading up to the exhortation for observance of the laws of humanity in the air war, the Pope was quoted as saying:

"It is painful and deplorable to see that often during this war one sees a moral judgment rendered on certain actions which are in disaccord with right and with the laws of humanity simply because the one responsible belongs to one or the other of the parties in conflict, without taking account as to whether these actions are or are not in conformity with the dictates of the eternal judge.

Sees Danger In Reprisals.

"On the other hand, the progressive applications of the means of strife which make no distinction between military and non-military objectives and the ever-increasing violence of war, draw attention to the dangers inherent in the sad and inexorable relation between action and reprisals to the detriment not only of peoples and individuals but of the whole community of nations."

The Holy Father concluded his discourse, the broadcast said, by expressing the hope that there would be a new world in which all nations, cured of the wounds opened by violence, would advance in perfect harmony on the road toward better things.

At the outset of his discourse today, the Rome radio broadcast reported, the Holy Father said:

"At the moment when there are ripening the bitter fruit of false theories, old and new, our high mission obliges us to defend and to save the spiritual heritage of our saints and of our inspired predecessors and to denounce with truth, but with love, the errors which are at the root of so much evil so that men may avoid them and return upon the road to salvation.

With Malice Toward None.

"In doing this and addressing ourselves in our messages to the entire world, it is not and never was our intention to formulate an act of accusation but on the contrary to recall men to the path of truth and of salvation. Our voice was the voice of the vigilant sentinel created by God to guard the human family.

"It was upon the eve of the immense conflict that a cry came from the paternal heart anguished and torn by the vision of imminent catastrophe, but this cry was inspired by love for all peoples without distinction, by love of Christ, who triumphs over all things and who urges us and enthralls us."

The Pope declared, the broadcast account said, that his thoughts and his affection go "to the little nations which by their geographic and political situation—now that none respect international moral and juridical standards—risk being drawn into the quarrels of the great Powers, see their territories become theaters of devastating strife and see with indescribable horror even among non-combatants the massacre of the flower of their youth and of their cultured people.

"You will not expect that we should explain here in detail all that which have attempted to lighten their sufferings and to improve their moral and juridical situations and to protect their undeniable religious rights and to supply them with the necessities for existence."

Rome Reports Attack.

The Italian communique, recorded by the Associated Press, said buildings on Pantelleria were seriously damaged by the naval bombardment yesterday, but declared that Italian artillery forced the warships to interrupt the bombardment and severely damaged one destroyer in the formation.

RUMANIAN ARRESTED

The German radio said in a broadcast today that Constantin Bursan, former Liberal member of the Rumanian Chamber of Deputies, and close personal friend of former Premier Gheorghe Tataresou, had been arrested and interned in the Bucharest Military Prison on a charge of having made contact with British and American agents.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said Bursan, formerly chairman of the board of directors of a large Rumanian arms and railway equipment company, was shadowed on his trips to Istanbul where he ostensibly was engaged in negotiations for ships to transport several thousand Rumanian Jews to Palestine.

Latin-American Problems Seen

JUN -3 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Mexico City, June 2—War is bringing each Latin-American country problems which it must face squarely without expecting them to be solved entirely by outside help, Nelson Rockefeller, coordinator of inter-American affairs, told a Mexican press conference here.

Here on a business visit, he spoke in Spanish to more than fifty reporters. Asked about the work of the committee in Argentina, he replied: "We believe the people of Argentina as a whole have the same feeling about the war as the people of the United States."

Explains His Committee

Rockefeller opened his press conference in the United States Embassy by outlining the plans and mechanics of his coordinating committee, which he said was working in sixteen countries on matters of sanitation, education and information.

The coordinator said the primary object of the committee was "to win the war." He said that after the war there would be many problems, but that it was too early now to consider them in detail. He emphasized that all Latin-American countries have a common heritage and the same ideals and said the object of the committee's information work was to make each understand the problems of the others. A feeling of unity among American nations is highly important, Rockefeller added. "The war is not only of military importance but also is important on the home front of every country," he declared.

BALBOA, Canal Zone, June 2 (AP).—Major David E. Gross, United States Army Dental Corps, whose home is in Irvington, N. J., was sentenced to three years in the Gamboa penitentiary by the Canal Zone court yesterday on conviction of bringing quinine stolen from an outlying Army base into the Canal Zone.

Escobar Joins Army.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, June 2 (A. P.).—Sixto Escobar, former world bantamweight boxing champion, joined the U. S. Army today. Married and father of one child, Escobar was registered by a New York board, but asked that his induction be transferred here.

U. S. ARMY PLANE CRASHES IN ANDES

JUN -3 1943

Quito, Ecuador, June 2 (A. P.).—An airplane piloted by Col. Alexander Pendleton of the United States Army was reported today to have crashed in the Andes Monday night, killing one person and injuring Pendleton and others. The Mayor of Quevado, a mountain village, telegraphed the Governor of Guayas Province that Col. Pendleton received a fractured leg and lesser injuries.

A newspaper dispatch said that two planes from a United States air base had left for the Macuchi mining camp near Quevado to pick up the injured. The wrecked plane was believed to have left Balboa, C. Z., yesterday, en route to Quito and was reported carrying Ecuadorean officials. Some time before the accident a plane, believed to be Col. Pendleton's, was reported flyiing over Esmeraldas airport on the Ecuadorean coast, 115 air miles from Quito.

Women Replace Men In Brazil

JUN -3 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Rio de Janeiro, June 2—Mobilization of Brazilian military forces has taken so many young men from the ranks of the nation's employes that the nationally operated Central Railroad of Brazil announced it had been forced to employ young women as elevator operators—a position held exclusively by males in this country in the past.

Brazilian plans for an expeditionary force—if any—are a carefully guarded secret. However, notices of military classes and reservists being called to active duty appear daily in the nation's newspapers, leaving little doubt that Brazilian military strength is reaching a point at which its weight can become a factor in the prosecution of the United Nations' war effort.

Take More Women

The announcement by the railroad only highlighted what has long been apparent—that the supply of capable young men in commercial ranks is growing noticeably thin while the military ranks are fattened.

The railroad announced further that it would need to employ women as ticket-sellers and ticket-takers in its suburban stations.

Meanwhile, the daily papers are filled with arguments, pro and con, relating to the hiring of women as bus conductors. The Ministry of Labor regards this work as unsuited to women but the pressure for their employment is mounting steadily in both Rio de Janeiro and Porto Alegre.

Mine Action Unparalleled, WLB Officer Writes F.D.R.

WASHINGTON, June 2. — (AP) Following is the text of a letter from Wayne L. Morse, compliance officer of the War Labor board, referring the coal strike to President Roosevelt:

"Mr. President:

"The National War Labor board, by unanimous vote, hereby refers to you, for such action as you deem appropriate, the existing dispute between the United Mine Workers of America and the coal operators. As you know, several hundred thousand workers are out on strike in violation of the 'no strike' pledge; in defiance of directive orders of the National War Labor board; and in spite of the executive order of May 1 which placed the mines under Federal management pending a final determination of the case by the War Labor board. This strike has no parallel, since Pearl Harbor, insofar as a reckless and wanton disregard of the 'no strike' agreement is concerned. Viewed from the standpoint of its damage to the war effort and its serious threat to the maintenance of government by law and order, this strike probably has no parallel in American history.

Federal Action Listed

"You will find attached to this letter a detailed statement of the steps which have been followed by the government in its various attempts to settle this case. This statement shows that the Mine Workers of America have been accorded exactly the same treatment by the government in the handling of this case as has been accorded tens of thousands of other workers involved in labor disputes. It has been the position of the War Labor board throughout that exactly the same rules and policies for settling wartime labor disputes should be applied in this case as in any other. However, at each step of this procedure on the part of the Mine Workers under the leadership of their officers there has been a direct repudiation of the no strike, no lockout agreement.

"The union has followed a policy through the history of the case of insisting that negotiations be carried on either under the threat of a strike or with a strike in progress.

On the other hand, every other great labor organization and every responsible labor leader in America has adhered to the no strike agreement. They have accepted the obligation to carry on their negotiations without threatening to interrupt the production of vital war material if negotiations were not carried out according to their dictates.

Fundamental Issue Clear

"It is the opinion of the War Labor board that the fundamental issue in this case involving the supremacy of law is perfectly clear and must be met by the government.

"This morning, Mr. President, the War Labor board in a telegram to the parties, a copy of which is attached, directed that all negotiations between the parties on the issues referred to them by the board's directive order of May 25, 1943, should cease until the mine workers return to work in compliance with the board's order. This is in accordance with the well established policy of the board that no proceedings conducted under the auspices or direction of the board can be carried on while either party to a dispute stands in violation of the no strike lockout agreement.

"The War Labor board, Mr. President, stands ready to proceed with this case in accordance with its policies just as soon as the strike is ended.

"Yours respectfully,

"(Signed, Wayne L. Morse."

DIET YARDSTICK DRAFTED AS GOAL FOR POST-WAR ERA

JUN -3 1943

Educational Programs Should Be Drafted in All Nations, Conference Told.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., June 2.—(AP) The United Nations food conference set up today a proposed "yardstick" of diet and charged governments with responsibility for helping the less fortunate citizens toward achievement of that nutritional level.

It proposed, at the same time, that all nations inaugurate educational programs in "eating for health."

Declaring that diets of the greater part of mankind are conductive to impaired physical development, ill health, and ultimately death, the conferees said the "vulnerable" groups, among whom it named expectant and nursing mothers, heavy workers, and low income families, were especially in need of public help.

Milk, Eggs Important

The well-fed citizen, the sample diet stated, would consume between 228 and 250 quarts of milk and between 228 and 276 eggs every year, plus about 900 pounds of other foods selected according to their nutrition values.

Conference experts said that the sample probably would have to be modified in various countries "to meet existing economic and agricultural realities," but that "innumerable combinations of individual foods may be devised" which would measure up to the yardstick.

Foods listed in the sample yardstick include, besides milk and eggs, starch-rich tubers, roots, fruits; mature leguminous seeds and nuts; vitamin C rich fruits; leafy, green, yellow vegetables; other vegetables and fruits; meats, fish, poultry; sugar, and fats.

The educational program, the conferees said, must spread knowledge throughout the whole community so that it may influence governmental action and the activities of all those who have to deal with questions relating to food.

Instruction in Schools

"Simple facts about food and diet should be taught in all schools," the report said, adding that communal meals which are well prepared and cooked and of high nutritive value teach by force of example.

In a report on ways of improving dietary standards, the parley said "each government must provide for its citizens whose need is greatest in proportion to their physiological needs however scarce or plentiful supplies of food may be."

Complaints have been made that the war, with its shortage of food and increased prices, has been particularly hard on the so-called vulnerable groups, with cessation of some public nutrition assistance programs, and ration rules that do not differentiate between groups of citizens.

"War experience has shown the great advantages in government assistance in the establishment of some types of large scale food preparation and service" the conference said. "Collective feeding arrangements make a great contribution to the improvement of the diets of vulnerable groups to industrial output and morale, and to general health."

U-BOAT SUNK, CONVOY SAVED

"Wasserbombs, Terrible, Terrible," Survivors Say When Picked Up

JUN -3 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 2 — Depth charges and gunfire from the United States Coast Guard cutter Spencer saved an important convoy from U-boat attack in the Atlantic a few weeks ago, cut one more off the roster of Nazi undersea raiders and drove more than forty German submarine crewmen over the side to surrender.

"Wasserbombs, terrible, terrible," the navy quoted survivors as shouting while they were being brought aboard the Spencer after cannon fire sank the huge submarine under their feet.

Soundman Harold V. Anderson, of Kewanee, Ill., located the lurking U-boat as it stalked the convoy, en route to an Allied port. The Spencer, commanded by Commander Harold S. Berdine, 41, of Staten Island, New York, made two depth-charge runs as the submersible tried to dive under the convoy where propeller noise might confuse the sound trail.

More Charges Dropped

The blasts drove the submarine from that course, the navy reported, and the Spencer, hanging to the trail, dropped a third set of charges.

The cutter Duane charged in to join the hunt and the Spencer was readying a fourth set of charges when success of the earlier attacks was shown by a signalman's shout: "Conning tower on the port quarter."

"A long, dark object seemed to be squeezing itself out of the water," said Chief Boatswain's Mate Jack January, former staff photographer for the St. Louis (Mo.) Post Dispatch, who made navy pictuers of the sinking from the Spencer's quarterdeck.

Grabbed Camera

"While I grabbed for my camera our skipper, Commander Berdine, turned to a gunner's mate on the wing of the bridge and said quietly, 'Well, son, heres what you've been waiting for. Give 'em hell.'"

The gunner's response was a hail of 20-millimeter shells, and other guns aboard both the Spencer and the Duane joined the attack instantly. The fire was answered from the U-boat's light conning tower weapons, but American marksmanship drove the Nazis back as they attempted to man three heavy deck guns.

German shells riddled the Spencer's lifeboats and did other minor damage as she charged in to ram, with guns going full blast, but January said the Coast Guardsmen were "yelling like a college cheering section" as they served their guns.

Reminded Of Ball Game

"I closed my eyes once and thought I was back in St. Louis, covering a Cardinal-Dodger baseball game," he said. He added that American fire "knocked off Germans like so many clay pigeons" as they tried to man guns.

"Round after round was pumped into the undersea raider," the official navy account said, "and the after part of the conning tower was completely torn away. Then, just as the Spencer was on the point of ramming, the fire from the submarine suddenly ceased, and many members of the crew were observed abandoning ship through the conning tower."

The Spencer waited, ready, to see if the Germans would resume the fight, but they were through. The submarine, which had been moving slowly, stopped, sank lower in the water and suddenly plummeted down.

Torpedoes Not Used

The raider never got a chance to use one of its torpedoes on either the Spencer or the convoy.

Survivors were easy to locate, the navy reported, saying they "acted in a very hysterical manner" as they floated on rafts, lifebelts and their escape lungs, "shouting and waving their arms so frantically that no doubt was left as to their existence."

"No doubt, the depth charges and heavy gunfire had unnerved them," the navy account went on; "several were still hysterical on coming aboard. All prisoners were impressed by the deadliness of the depth charges."

Total Raised To 111

The sinking raised to 111 the Associated Press total of German submarine losses announced by the United Nations since Pearl Harbor. This figure does not include the announced destruction of fifty-three Axis submarines, many of which are believed to have been German but never were identified by nation.

Of the U-boat losses, fifty-six were sent to the bottom of the Atlantic, thirty-one of these by aircraft.

Announcements reveal that of the total both the United States and Great Britain bagged thirty-two Nazi subs each since this country entered the war. However, action in the Atlantic credits the United States with twenty-three U-boats, five more than Britain's successes in those waters.

PAY-AS-YOU-GO TAX VOTED IN SENATE, GOES TO PRESIDENT

JUN -3 1943

Four-Month Congressional Battle Ends as Compromise Passes, 62-19.

BI-PARTISAN SUPPORT

31 Republicans, 31 Democrats Vote for Measure; Takes Effect July 1.

WASHINGTON, June 2—(AP) Four months of bitter congressional battling ended today as the Senate stamped final approval, 62 to 19, on a compromise pay-as-you-go tax bill abating 75 to 100 per cent of a year's payments.

Representing a compromise between Democrats and Republicans, the comparatively brief but complicated measure goes to President Roosevelt, who is reported to have assured congressional leaders that he will let it become law, either by signature or otherwise. If he elects to veto it, these leaders concede the bill will die.

Approved by the House yesterday 256 to 114, the revised measure sped through the Senate with an explanatory discussion by Chairman George (D-GA.) of the Senate Finance committee and some denunciation by those who have opposed any tax "forgiveness."

Bi-Partisan Support

An equal number of Democrats and Republicans—31 of each—voted for the bill on final passage, emphasizing the bi-partisan nature of the compromise. Previously, the Republicans in Congress had been chief sponsors of the Ruml "skip a year" plan, while the Democrats had opposed a full year's tax cancellation with various alternative plans.

Acting majority leader Hill of Alabama was one of the 17 Democrats who voted against the measure. One Republican, Senator Langer of North Dakota, and a Progressive, Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, also opposed it.

Promising an increase in individual income tax revenues to about $16,000,000,000 in the new fiscal year beginning July 1, the measure makes radical changes in the revenue system in use since 1913. Some of these changes:

1. Puts into effect July 1 a 20 per cent withholding levy on wages and salaries, above basic exemptions of $12 weekly for single persons and $24 weekly for married, plus dependent allowances.

2. Abates a full year's tax (the lesser of 1942 or 1943) for all persons owing $50 or less in that year. A "notch" provision gives everyone owing up ti $66.67 a $50 cancellation.

Two Equal Installments

3. Cancels 75 per cent of the lesser of either 1942 or 1943 taxes for other persons, with provision that they pay the remaining 25 per cent in two equal installments in March, 1944, and March, 1945.

4. Requires persons with more than $100 income outside wages and salaries, and all single persons with $2,700 income and married persons with $3,500 income, to estimate their earnings for 1943 in a return filed before Sept. 15, and to pay quarterly beginning Sept. 15, 1943, on all of that income or the excess over the amount withheld under the payroll levy.

Income tax payments made March 15 and June 15 of this year under the present law will be credited to taxes due on 1943 incomes, making citizens current.

Thus, if the bill becomes law the "skip a year" method of moving the tax clock upward — discussed for more than a year since it was advanced by Beardsley Ruml, chairman of the New York Federal Reserve bank — will become fully operative for some 6,000,000 taxpayers who owe $50 or less now for a full year's levies.

30.24-4581

Larger Burden for Majority

It will be only 75 per cent effective, however, for the great bulk of the nation's 44,000,000 taxpayers, who will find their debt to Uncle Sam raised by this operation. Their payments of the remaining 25 per cent are calculated to give the Treasury a windfall of about $3,000,000,000 in the next two years.

As an example of how this will work, a married person with no children who made $2,000 net income in 1942 will find that all but $68.25 of the $204.75 tax he now owes on that income will be cancelled. He must pay his tax on his 1943 income as he goes along this year and pay $34.13 additional on March 15, 1944, and $38.12 additional on March 15, 1945, while keeping up the current payments for those years.

The payroll levy, which will not apply to members of the armed forces, domestic servants, farm workers, ministers, casual workers, foreign services or non-resident aliens, will become a device for collecting currently 3 per cent of the present 5 per cent victory tax and 17 per cent for income taxes.

A married person with no dependents, making $40 a week, will find $4.20 withheld by his employer from his pay check every week. If he has two dependents, the amount will be $1.80. If he is single, it will be $6.60.

Credited to '43 Taxes

The bulk of this amount will be credited to what he owes on 1943 income taxes, with a final accounting required at the end of the year. The portion withheld for victory taxes will be credited when he figures his 5 per cent levy and takes deductions for savings, insurance premiums and bond purchases, in the same return.

The net effect will make for more figuring for the average taxpayer and more taxes in the next two years, but will get him current so that when his income declines his tax will go down simultaneously and when he dies his estate will owe no back income taxes.

Special provisions have been made for persons with abnormally increased wartime incomes so that they will have to pay some additional taxes while receiving the 75 per cent abatement.

Members of the armed forces will get special treatment, with $2,000 of their basic government pay exempted from tax for single persons, and $2,700 for married persons, plus $350 for each dependent. Their back taxes also will be abated, in most instances, if they die in the service.

President Sends Birthday Wishes To King George

Washington, June 2 (AP)—President Roosevelt expressed confidence in the spirit of unity between the Americans and British in the war and afterward, in a birthday message of congratulations to King George VI of Great Britain today.

"The occasion of your Majesty's birthday gives me a welcome opportunity to join in your country's celebration and to send you heartiest congratulations and good wishes," the President's message said.

"On behalf of the people of the United States, let me also convey their greetings and good wishes to the people of Britain.

"The Allied victory in North Africa has recently given the world an unsurpassed demonstration of what can be done when Britain and America work together. Unity in friendship and purpose has bound together our soldiers on land, our sailors at sea and our flyers in the air. That same bond unites American and British workers in the tasks of production, transport and supply.

"I am sure that the spirit which has united our people in marching toward victory will direct their efforts after the war toward the goal of a just, lasting and fruitful peace."

FOREIGN HOLDINGS CENSUS PLANNED

JUN -3 1943

U. S. Citizens Must File Data on Property Abroad, Treasury Reveals.

WASHINGTON, June 1—(AP) The Treasury announced today it will undertake a census of all foreign property owned by United States citizens, in order to give the government accurate and complete information on American assets abroad.

"By means of this census," the Treasury said, "our armed forces occupying hitherto Axis-dominated territory and the civil authorities following in their wake, will be supplied with accurate information both for facilitating the occupation and for protecting American interests within the area."

The information obtained in the census, the Treasury added, also will "be of great importance in the formulation of policies respecting post-war financial and industrial relationships between this country and foreign nations." It also will be of assistance, the Treasury said, to the department's foreign funds control division and many other government agencies in the performance of their wartime duties and in "combatting the economic strategy of the Axis."

Every person subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, including American citizens in foreign countries, having an interest in any property in a foreign country on May 31, must file a report or be subject to criminal penalties, the Treasury said.

Forms on which reports must be made and circulars of instruction are now being distributed to Federal Reserve banks for release to the public.

BRITISH LIVING COST STABLE

Credit Given To Price Control Subsidies, Rationing, Fiscal System

Report Made On Survey By Brookings Institution

JUN -3 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 2—A combination of factors—price control, rationing, subsidies and a fiscal system which obtains funds chiefly from non-banking sources — has kept the British cost-of-living index virtually stable for two years, a Brookings Institution survey reported today.

The British Government, in December, 1939, started paying subsidies to prevent retail-price increases, a program just getting under way in this country. However, by April, 1941, the cost-of-living index had risen twenty-eight per cent., and a more comprehensive subsidy program was instituted. The index since then, the survey report said, has remained fairly steady.

Increase Put At 65 P. C.

The survey, made by Jules Backman, of the New York University faculty, said actual living costs, including items not in the index of basic food products, have increased forty per cent. and wholesale prices about sixty-five per cent. since start of the war.

Cost of the subsidy payments, Backman found, has been between two and three per cent. of budgetary expeditures, or between $500,000,000 and $600,000,000 for the year ended March 31, 1943.

On Commodity Lines

British controls have been organized along commodity lines, with the same agency responsible for price control, rationing, import and export movements, subsidies and other phases.

Backman said this type of organization had contributed to effectiveness of controls, but that he believed the creation of a central price body probably would have made the system even more effective. He adds that British experience, under different conditions, does not agree, necessarily, for similar success in the use of subsidies in the United States.

Fund-Raising Methods

Reporting on fund-raising methods, the survey relates that heavy taxation and sales of securities to non-banking sources, thus diverting purchasing power from ordinary consumption channels, has been the backbone of the British fiscal program. Backman said it has made the task of control authorities much easier. Between September, 1939, and March, 1943, he said, only about fifteen per cent. of Government expenditure was financed by sales of bonds to banks.

Many wage agreements in Great Britain, the survey continued, provide for adjustments in rates to compensate for changes in the cost of living. Thus, Backman said, use of subsidies has had an important part in reducing the pressure for higher wages.

Former Rumanian Deputy Reported Held

New York, June 2 (AP)—The German radio said in a broadcast today that Constantin Bursan, former Liberal member of the Rumanian Chamber of Deputies and close personal friend of former Premier Gheorghe Tatarescu, had been arrested and interned in the Bucharest military prison on a charge of having made contact with British and American agents.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said Bursan, formerly chairman of the board of directors of a large Rumanian arms and railway equipment company, was shadowed on his trips to Istanbul, where he ostensibly was engaged in negotiations for ships to transport several thousand Rumanian Jews to Palestine.

WMC STEEL ORDER HIT BY WPB GROUP

JUN -3 1943

Committee Declares Directive On Labor Will Imperil War Effort

Union Given Right To Be Consulted In Hiring And Dismissals

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 2—The War Production Board's steel industry advisory committee declared tonight the industry's war effort will be imperiled by the War Manpower Commission's directive giving labor unions the right to be consulted on hiring and dismissals under an order putting steel plants on a forty-eight-hour week basis August 1.

The WMC directive, made public yesterday, also gave regional WMC directors authority over exemptions from the forty-eight-hour order and in hiring of new employes.

Turnover 20,000 Monthly

In a letter to H. G. Batchellor, director of WPB's steel division, the advisory committee declared the industry's labor turnover is running about 20,000 workers monthly and the task of making replacements will be multiplied "if not made impossible by the delays and restrictions that will result" from the WMC regulations.

"In fact," the letter said, "it is the committee's considered opinion that this regulation will have the effect of setting up a vast unworkable bureaucracy which must inevitably seriously interfere with steel production. Its operation is bound to result in confusion, delays and failures of operating schedules to the point that the industry's war effort will be imperiled."

Industry For 48-Hour Week

The committee said the industry favored a forty-eight-hour week "or any number of hours" necessary to produce enough steel to win the war, but that the WMC had virtually ignored its suggestions in framing the regulation.

Because of the WPB's responsibility for maintaining maximum steel production, the committee said it intends to submit to the agency "further detailed suggestions as soon as it is possible to analyze" the WMC order.

BEEF POINT VALUE HIKED AS MARKET VOLUME SHRINKS

JUN -3 1943

Increases of One to Three Points Effective Sunday, OPA Announces.

NEW CHEESES ADDED

Cuts Are Ordered in Values of Several Varieties; Canned Fish Boosted.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON, June 2.—In an effort to switch civilian tastes from scarce beef cuts to more plentiful pork, veal and lamb, the Office of Price Administration tonight increased by one to three points per pound the ration-point values of nearly all types of beef.

The order, effective Sunday morning, will make the most popular beef steaks cost 11 or 12 points per pound—a 33 to 37 per cent increase. The general level of point values for the other three kinds of meat was little changed, despite numerous small increases and decreases, so that the new order means for people who usually buy beef a choice between eating less meat or switching to the other types.

Insofar as they do not give up beef, the order also means, in effect, a cut in the meat ration. In some families this reduction will be accentuated by the addition to the red coupon ration list of canned milk, announced yesterday, and of certain soft cheeses, included for the first time in tonight's order.

Market Scarcity Is Cause

The jump in beef point values was due to a market scarcity of the commodity, OPA said, resulting both from large military requirements and a failure of beef to come to slaughter in anticipated volume. Slaughtering in April and May was 10 per cent below advance estimates.

Officials said the presence of even meager civilian supplies on the market lately was due partly to the Army's abstaining from its full quota of purchases. Now, officials said, the Army feels that it must resume big scale beef purchases to satisfy soldier preferences. Failure of beef slaughter to reach estimates was blamed in part on farmers and ranchers holding cattle for higher prices and also on a trend to feed cattle to heavier weights before marketing.

No June Changes Likely

The new point values are expected by OPA to remain unchanged at least until July 3. They contain, besides meat, changes in cheese and canned fish, but no alterations in the schedule for butter, lard, shortening and other edible fats and oils.

Cream cheese, Neufchatel and creamed cottage cheese which contains more than five per cent butter fact, previously exempt, were rationed at the rate of three points a pound. This still leaves exempt ordinary cottage cheese.

Cheddar cheese remains at eight points a pound, but other types such as brick, Swiss and limburger were cut to six points a pound. Also included in this group are a few newly-rationed cheeses such blue, Brie, Camembert, and Liederkranz.

Canned fish was increased from a flat seven to a new flat eight points per pound, except for canned oysters which remain at three points per pound, but crabmeat, sea herring, sea mussels and a few miscellaneous types were exempted.

Caviar Exempt

Caviar, formerly the highest priced item on ration lists, was among the newly-exempt.

Normally, officials estimate, civilian meat tastes run to about 45 per cent beef, 45 per cent pork, and 10 per cent veal, lamb and mutton. Under present supplies, they must cut their beef quota to about 35 per cent, with corresponding increases in the other types, particularly pork.

"The basis of any rationing program," OPA said, "is the maintenance of a reasonable balance between supply and demand. This can be achieved partly—but not wholly—through changes in ration point values. We must depend also upon the consumer abandoning past buying habits and learning to consume those types of meat which are, for the present, in greatest supply.

Pork Volume Grows

"Pork is now coming to market in relatively greater quantities than beef. As a result, most pork cuts remain unchanged in point value, and will represent better point buys for some weeks to come."

"Available figures indicate that beef slaughter for the period March 26 to May 21 was almost 10 per cent less than was forecast for the period. Beef available for civilian consumption in June will be less than the estimated quantities available for consumers in April or May.

"As a result the point values of beef have been increased, and, at the same time, many cuts of lamb, veal and variety meats have been given lower point values. In this way, OPA hopes to ease the pressure on beef supplies and encourage consumers to buy more of those items whose sales are normally slow during the summer months.

"Consumers who eat more pork, veal and variety meats during the next four weeks—and probably throughout the summer—will be able to get just about the same number of pounds of meat for their points as they did during the last ration period.

ORDNANCE OUTPUT SHOWS SHARP GAIN

April Total Two and Half Times Value of Goods Delivered Year Ago.

WASHINGTON, June 2 — (AP) The value of ordnance materiel—guns, tanks, shells, bombs, tank destroyers—delivered to the Army in April amounted to $1,112,206,000, or two and one-half times the dollar volume of April, 1942, the War department reported today.

The output also was six per cent above March, the department said.

Deliveries of tanks were more than three times as much as in April last year, and instead of the 13-ton General Stuart tank, the bulk of deliveries was 32-ton General Shermans.

Artillery deliveries were better than five times the April, 1942, total, and correspondingly great increases were reported for self-propelled artillery, 60 and 80 millimeter mortars, shells, bombs, small arms ammunition, anti-tank and anti-personnel mines, and motor transport vehicles.

Also, the department said, April, 1943, deliveries included large numbers of some types of equipment which were not manufactured at all in April last year—fragmentation bomb clusters, medium and heavy howitzers, several types of tank destroyers and self-propelled artillery, including the 155 millimeter gun, which has a range of 20 miles, mounted on a medium tank chassis, armored cars for swift reconnaissance, and heavy tank recovery vehicles used to haul damaged tanks from the battlefield to repair shops.

Cash-Customer Giraud Pays Another 10 Million for U.S. Goods

WASHINGTON, June 2 — (AP) Gen. Henri Honore Giraud has put another $10,000,000 on the barrelhead for essential civilian supplies sent to French North Africa, giving him the distinction of being the only Lend-Lease customer using ready cash.

Receipt of a check for $10,000,000 from General Giraud was announced today by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., Lend-Lease administrator. It was the second payment from General Giraud, a check for $15,000,000 having been received late in April.

Lend-Lease so far has sent civilian supplies such as medicine, food and clothing with a value of $35,000,000 to French North Africa. Mr. Stettinius said substantial amounts of much-needed strategic raw materials have been shipped from French North Africa to the United Kingdom and to the United States.

While General Giraud is the only Lend-Lease customer making cash payments, other countries receiving have been given credits through reverse Lend-Lease. These are for food provided for American armed forces, use of ships, and similar goods and services.

Lend-Lease aid is being sent to French North Africa under a temporary agreement pending the negotiation of a formal agreement.

Pay-as-You-Go Tax in Brief

Major Provisions of Measure Awaiting Presidential Approval Are Outlined; Estimates Due Sept. 15 on Non-Wage Income for 1943.

JUN -3 1943

WASHINGTON, June 2 — (AP) Here, in brief, are the major provisions of the pay-as-you-go tax bill to which the Senate gave final legislative approval today, sending the measure to President Roosevelt:

Current collection—All taxpayers put on a pay-as-you-go basis, meeting their income tax bill as they earn their money, with their March 15 and June 15 installments credited to what they owe this year.

Abatement—Full year's back tax cancelled for all persons who owe $50 or less, with $50 of the amount being abated for those who owe up to $66.67. Those who owe more than that amount will find 75 per cent of either 1942 or 1943 (whichever is lower) tax cancelled, must pay the remaining 25 per cent in two annual installments, beginning next March 15.

Basic Exemptions Listed

Withholding—A 20 per cent levy on wages and salaries—above basic exemptions of $12 weekly for single persons, $24 weekly for married, plus $6 weekly for each dependent—goes into effect July 1. (Members of armed forces, domestic servants, casual workers, farm workers, ministers and some others exempted.)

Estimates—Everybody with $100 or more earnings from sources other than wages or salaries (as well as those in wage brackets above $2,700 for a single person and $3,500 for married) required to file estimate of 1943 income by September 15. Quarterly payments beginning that date required on all taxes due in excess of that withheld from payrolls. (This means payment on all of the tax that is due from professional men, merchants, landlords and others without wage income.)

All may file revised estimates Dec. 15 and farmers have until that date to file their first estimate.

Victory tax—Of the 20 per cent withholding, 3 per cent represents collections on the 5 per cent Victory tax. The amount withheld is compared with the net tax due—after deductions for insurance premiums, savings, bond purchases—in final accounting March 15, 1944.

Effect on Servicemen

Armed forces—Basic government pay up to $2,000 for single person, $2,700 for married, plus $350 for each dependent, excluded from income tax. Back taxes abated for most persons who die in the service.

Windfalls—Persons with abnormal wartime income forced to compare their abated tax (75 per cent of the lesser of either 1942 or 1943) with a mythical tax at the same rate on income (plus $20,000) in a "normal" year, the highest of 1937, 1938, 1939, or 1940.

Final adjustment—Final return on 1943 tax liability must be filed March 15 next year, as usual. Amount of tax already paid through quarterly installments or in withholding levy compared with amount finally determined to be due, with additional payment required or rebate granted.

PRODUCTION BATTLE WON, SAYS HALIFAX

JUN -3 1943

Transportation Major Problem of Allies Now, Says British Envoy.

PORTLAND, Me., June 2 — (AP) The Allies' battle of production has been won, Lord Halifax, British Ambassador, declared today, and the "job now is to get the stuff we make to the place where we want it, whether it be Russia, North Africa or any other place."

The tall envoy declared in an interview that the United Nations "must fight hard to beat the German submarines."

"We do know what the remedy is," he said. "It is more escort ships and more air cover. Both are coming along."

After a luncheon tendered by Captain H. S. Tracy, British vice consul, Lord and Lady Halifax visited the huge New England Shipbuilding Corp. plant at South Portland. They clambered across cables and machinery to the big basins where 30 merchant vessels were built for the British prior to the currently expansive program of building Liberty ships for the U. S. Maritime commission.

In the interview, Lord Halifax declared that while the past four months had seen a stepping up of the air offensive against occupied Europe, "a round-the-clock effort" was the goal.

Constant Fight Is Goal

"We must make the enemy fight all the time," he asserted.

He expressed belief that the Germans weren't attacking England "in force" because they didn't have the planes to send.

The enemy "must take care of the Russian and western fronts and until recently had to take care of the North African front. They have as much in their plate as they can manage."

"We are gradually getting air superiority," he added. "All that is taking a great weight off Russia."

Asked his opinion about a new European front, he replied:

"I can assure you the Allied forces are not going to be idle."

He warned that "we all must be prepared for a long, tough war," but added that "the end of the war may come before we expect it — but let's not calculate on it."

Like Boxing Match

The Roosevelt-Churchill-Mackenzie King talks, he said, no doubt were "directed to how best we can hit these (the Axis) fellows and keep hitting them. It's like a boxing match."

What's Behind The War News

By GLENN BABB

The United States and her Allies are fighting two submarine wars and winning both. In the one in the Atlantic we are on the defensive, and successfully, against Hitler's U-Boats. In the other our own underwater flotillas are carrying devastation to Japan's limited shipping resources.

The trend of the battle of the Atlantic continues highly favorable, although the danger of greater losses during the long summer days remains. But since the subject was mentioned in this column two days ago further returns, all encouraging, have come in.

American shipyards delivered 1,782,000 deadweight tons of ships during May, an all time record that probably will stand only until the June tally is in. Rear Admiral Howard L. Vickery, of the Maritime commission, said this was "quite a bit better" than four times the Allies' shipping losses for the month.

Berlin's own account of the U-Boats' May record put sinkings at only 380,000 tons, making it by the Germans' own admission one of the least successful months of the war.

A. V. Alexander, Britain's First Lord of the Admiralty, said yesterday that killings of submarines during May set a new record and that during the last two months the number of U-Boats in the Atlantic actually had decreased.

War to Tokyo's Doorstep

But against th daring, far-ranging, ruthless campaign waged by American submarines Japan is having no such success. They have carried the war right to her doorstep, into Tokyo bay and other of her chief harbors and to all the vital sea lanes through which the lifeblood of the empire she has seized must flow.

In the Pacific the picture is just the reverse of that in the Atlantic. Whereas we are replacing the U-Boats' toll at a rate of four to one, there are strong indications that Japan's industrial capacity is utterly incapable of making good more than half her losses.

When the Japanese dream of a great overseas empire lies in ruins a major share of the credit must go to our submarine service. For although Japan aspires also to be a great continental power, it was as a maritime power that she challenged the United States and constitutes a menace to American well-being. She grabbed a great empire largely through a combination of sea and air power. Unless she can maintain the overseas communications routes to hold it together, to supply the armies that defend it and carry home the spoils to be turned into sinews of war, it must in the end fall apart.

Danger Strong

That danger already faces her. The Navy announced Tuesday that American submarines had sunk six more enemy cargo carriers, in addition to a destroyer, bringing to 169 the total of Japanese vessels downed since the Pacific war began. Allied air forces, especially around New Guinea and the Solomons, have added several hundred thousand tons of shipping to the total. The Japanese apparently are trying now to avoid this latter form of attrition; they refused to make any such sacrifices in an attempt to hold Attu.

But they cannot avoid the submarines, even in their home ports.

It is a fair surmise that the shipping situation is the chief reason for the expressions of alarm over war production that are coming now from Japan. The Diet has been summoned for a special session June 15 and Premier General Tojo has broadcast a warning that the position is "extremely grave." "The demands for increased production of vital war materials have become extremely urgent and important," he said.

Shipping Deficit Greatest

Of course there are other fields in which Japan is finding her industrial capacity badly overmatched in the contest against the American war plant, but it is in shipping that the discrepancy is greatest and where her inferiority can lead most quickly to disaster. Before Pearl Harbor the Japanese shipbuilding industry had known only one year in which output reached 600,000 tons, and experts doubt whether current capacity exceeds that figure. With losses running above 1,000,000 tons a year, probably only half can be replaced. The monthly output of American shipyards probably is three times the yearly capacity of the Japanese.

This appears to be the main reason for Tojo's summons to his people for still further exertions — with the work week already 60 to 72 hours—in the hopeless competition against American industry, the colossus the Japanese warlords hoped either could not or would not fight to the finish.

$4,440,000 PAY RISES IN APRIL

WLB Reports Only Eight Price Ceiling Changes.

JUN -3 1943

30.24-4383

Washington, June 2 (A. P.).—The War Labor Board reported today that during April its decisions had resulted in a monthly pay roll increase of $4,440,000 (on the basis of a forty-eight-hour week), which it said was 0.07 per cent of the total monthly wage and salary bill for non-agricultural workers.

The report, sent to the Senate, was accompanied by a letter in which WLB Chairman William H. Davis said that only eight out of 3,000 decisions between October and March resulted in price ceiling changes.

"The proportionate effect of the board's decisions on price ceilings remained about the same during the month of April," Mr. Davis said.

71 Involved Pay Disputes.

The April decisions included seventy-one cases involving wage disputes and 6,250 cases involving voluntary applications for wage or salary adjustment, the chairman said.

Mr. Davis said also that the average increase approved per worker ranged from one-half cent an hour in two cases involving 825 workers to 12 cents an hour in one case involving sixty workers. The average increase in straight time hourly earnings was 6.2 cents an hour.

The weighted average increase in straight-time rates for 96,270 workers in 41 cases in which general increases were granted was 5.3 cents an hour.

Aids Low Paid Workers.

April adjustments approved by the board, he added, "were concentrated among relatively low paid employees," with nearly one-fourth of the cases concerning workers whose earnings were less than 50 cents an hour, and three-fourths of the cases in which increases were approved affecting employees whose straight-time hourly earnings were less than 80 cents an hour.

This compares, he said, with the average of 87 cents an hour straight-time hourly earnings of all manufacturing employees in March.

Mr. Davis noted that one April case which involved 65,000 workers in the dress manufacturing industry in New York accounted for 56 per cent of the total number of persons involved in cases in which wage disputes were the issue.

TRADE TREATY VICTORY IS WON

Hull Upheld as Bill Is Sent to White House.

JUN -3 1943

Washington, June 2 (A. P.).—The Senate completed legislative action today on a measure extending for two more years, without change, the President's authority to make reciprocal trade agreements with other nations.

Final passage was by a vote of 59 to 23.

The legislation, which now goes to the White House for President Roosevelt's approval, contains executive authority to adjust tariffs downward or upward 50 per cent in return for reciprocal action by the country with which an agreement is made.

Under the "most favored nation" clause similar advantages are extended to countries which do not discriminate against American products.

Victory for Secretary Hull.

Renewal of the authority without change in its form was a victory for Secretary of State Hull, who insisted any alteration would be interpreted abroad as casting doubt on the desire of Congress to have this nation cooperate with others in solving post-war problems.

Critics replied that post-war policies are not at issue, adding that since little can be done toward adjusting tariffs in wartime the extension has no particular significance.

Before the final vote, the Senate turned down a long series of amendments, most of them offered by Democrats.

With administration forces in the saddle, the Senate defeated, 44 to 32, a proposal to amend the legislation to provide for Senate ratification of the trade agreements. Criticized as a proposal which would disrupt the nine-year-old tariff adjustment program, this amendment, offered by Senator Maloney (D.-Conn.), was rejected in action that presaged final approval of the legislation in the form in which it passed the House.

MEXICAN INFLATION IS BEING ATTACKED

JUN -3 1943

Washington, June 2 (A. P.).—A joint Mexican-United States economic committee was described today as making good progress in its efforts to work out a plan for attacking Mexico's inflation problems.

At the same time it was learned the committee plans to hold meetings next week in Mexico City. Members will leave Washington tomorrow and Friday and be ready to continue conferences the first of next week in Mexico City with technical advisers of the two countries.

Wayne C. Taylor, Under-Secretary of Commerce and one of the United States members of the four-man group, said that the meetings being held here since May 25 were continuing with good general progress.

The mission was undertaken after President Roosevelt and President Manuel Avila Camacho conferred in April. The announced purpose is to study Mexico's disturbed balance of international trade to see what can be done to solve the problem and still keep vital war materials rolling to the United States. Mexico's heavy export of war goods has brought increased purchasing power to the country's workers, but the United States industries, busy with war production, have been unable to send Mexico the goods the people want to buy, creating an inflation problem.

After sessions in Mexico City the committee will return here to report its conclusions June 25.

RECIPROCAL TRADE MEASURE SENT TO WHITE HOUSE

JUN -3 1943

Democrats with Some G.O.P. Help, Roll Bill Through Senate, 59-23.

WASHINGTON, June 2 — (AP) The Administration won two more years of horse-trading control over tariffs today when the Democratic majority in the Senate, with some Republican help, rolled through a resolution extending the nine-year-old Reciprocal Trade Agreements law.

The vote was 59 to 23. Acting Majority Leader Hill (Ala.) said he was gratified but not surprised.

Already approved by the House, and with every effort to amend the legislation beaten back, the bill now goes to the White House for certain signature.

Broad Trade Powers

Under the act, the President, without congressional action, can make trade agreements with foreign nations, raising or lowering existing duties as much as 50 per cent. Agreements have been negotiated with 31 nations, including a majority of the Pan-American countries.

The principal issue fought out in the Finance committee and on the floor was whether Congress should have some say-so about the agreements.

The State department and Administration supporters said this was not time to rock the boat, with a global war on. Any revision of the present law, they declared, might give friendly nations the impression that the United States was about to alter its fundamental trade policies. Herr Goebbels and other Axis propagandists would do everything possible to further that impression, they warned.

On the other hand, leading Republicans and several Democrats took the stand that Congress would soon render itself impotent if it kept on signing away its legislative powers to the executive. Keep on, they declared, and the Senate won't have any say about the peace, which they predicted might be consummated by executive agreement.

Amendment Rejected

The latter group won an early victory in the committee, where by a vote of 11 to 10 and over the opposition of Chairman George (D.-Ga.), Majority Leader Barkley and other Administrationists they forced in an amendment which would have empowered Congress to revoke any or all of the agreements by joint resolution, six months after the war. But after a bitter tussle on the Senate floor, the amendment was rejected, 51 to 33.

Then later, yesterday, the Senate defeated 50 to 31 a proposal by Senator O'Mahoney (D.-Wyo.) that no future agreement could become operative without specific approval by Congress.

It was the same story today when the Administration beat down the suggestion of Senator Maloney (D.-Conn.) that the Senate have the same ratification power over trade agreements that it has over treaties—a two-thirds majority.

Senator Maloney asked the Senate if it wanted to count itself out on writing the peace treaty, but his proposal lost, 44 to 32, just the same.

TYRONE POWER WINS MARINE COMMISSION

QUANTICO, Va., June 2.—(AP) Tyrone Power, motion picture actor, was graduated from the 26th officer candidate class here today and commissioned a second lieutenant in the Marine corps reserves. Second Lt. Power will receive further instruction in the reserve officers class, after which he will be ready for duty with the troops.

Lord Halifax Deplores U. S. Labor Disputes

Portland, Maine, June 2 (AP)—Lord Halifax, British Ambassador, said today that while "it is not our business to express opinions on (American) labor disputes, naturally we deplore anything that holds up the war effort just as you and your Government would deplore anything we did in England to retard war progress."

The comment of the envoy, here for a visit, was in response to a question in an interview with the Evening Express regarding the current coal walkout.

He ended his comment on the coal-labor situation by saying: "We have had no authorized strikes in England since 1940."

ARMY TRANSPORT PLANE MISSING IN FAR WEST

MILWAUKEE, June 2 — (AP) Lt. Col. Willis Proctor, commanding officer at General Mitchell field, announced today that one of his two-motored Army transport planes, enroute from Colorado Springs, Colo., to Reno, Nev., has been missing since 8 p. m., Mountain War Time, May 31.

At Colorado Springs, Peterson field officers reported 11 men were aboard the plane when it left there. A search is underway in southern Utah, Nevada and western Colorado.

The plane left General Mitchell field May 27, going to New York where it was placed at the disposal of headquarters of the domestic transport division of the Air Transport command. From there, Col. Procter said, it apparently was sent on a special mission.

WOULD END EXCLUSION

Washington, June 2 (A. P.).—Chinese exclusion laws are blocking negotiations of commercial treaties between the United States and China needed to clarify business problems occasioned by abandonment of this country's extraterritorial rights in China, the House Immigration Committee was told today.

Terming the laws "unjustifiably discriminatory," Clarence E. Meyer of the Standard Vacuum Oil Company, a long-time resident of China, declared resentment against Oriental immigration policies in the past had resulted in Chinese boycotts against American business and, unless revised, would continue to present obstacles to trade treaty negotiations.

Representative Will Rogers (D.-Cal.) declared that repeal of the Chinese exclusion laws by bills the committee has under consideration would help America develop a trade in the Pacific equal to its Atlantic trade in the post-war era.

HEAVY SACRIFICES FORECAST BY KNOX

Newport, R. I., June 2 (A. P.).—Asserting that "We have just begun to fight," Secretary of the Navy Knox declared today that the sacrifices in the last war would be insignificant compared to those of the current conflict.

"The improvement in the war against the submarine," Mr. Knox said, "was due to unnamed men in civilian clothes who study day and night to produce new weapons to combat submarines."

In an address to a graduating class at the Naval War College, the Secretary said that talk of a second front was "idle speculation," adding that there were already eight fronts—Russian, Chinese, Atlantic, Mediterranean, Middle East, South Pacific, Alaskan and western European.

Rear Admiral William S. Pye, president of the college, outlined their prospective new duties to the men and urged them not to become "discouraged or discontented."

Admiral Royal E. Ingersoll, commanding the Pacific Fleet; Major-Gen. Sherman Miles, commander of the First Service Command, and Rear Admiral R. A. Theobold, commanding the First Naval District, greeted the graduates.

Mr. Knox said in an interview last night that it was "sensible to believe we must prepare for a long fight" and added that the submarine campaign was "coming along very satisfactorily."

124 U. S. MEN CAPTIVES

Washington, June 2 (A. P.).—The War Department announced today names of 124 United States soldiers held prisoners of war, thirty-five by Germany and eighty-nine by Japan. From New York are:

NEW YORK.

Germany—C Flag 9 A/Z:

HUGHES, HENRY W., first lieutenant, 125 East 93d street, New York city.
MACAREVEY, JAMES J., first lieutenant, 3111 32d street, Astoria, L. I.

Japan (Camp Unstated):

SCOPA, MICHAEL B., private, 449 East 185th street, Bronx.
SEIDEMAN, LOUIS, private, 1221 Sage street, Far Rockaway, L. I.

For almost a year the family of Private Louis Seideman had heard no word besides that War Department telegram in the spring of 1942 that he was missing in action. Now they have been notified that he is a Japanese prisoner in the Philippines.

Private Seideman enlisted in the Army in May, 1941, and in October of that year he was sent to the Philippines. The last communication from him, a telegram saying he was feeling fine, was dated December 16, 1941.

He is 37 years old and was formerly associated with his two brothers, Nathan and Benjamin, in a garage business at Rockaway Park and a roller-skating rink at Edgemere, L. I.

WPB ADDS CSP TO U. S. GLOSSARY

Washington, June 2 (A. P.). —The War Production Board added a new alphabet symbol —CSP—to the Federal glossary today. It stands for Component Scheduling Procedures, which, the WPB says, will put American industrial production on a timetable basis.

CSP will mean, WPB hopes, getting the right equipment to the right manufacturer at the right time.

CORSAIRS TOP ZEROS

San Diego, Cal., June 2 (A. P.). —The Navy is satisfied that its speedy new gull-winged fighter plane, the Vought Corsair, is complete master of the Japanese Zero in every phase of combat.

The ultimate test, the Navy reported, came in an aerial dogfight 20,000 feet over the Russell Islands in the South Pacific. When the battle was over Corsairs had accounted for fifteen of twenty-five enemy fighters.

Cutter Gunners 'On The Beam'

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 2—"Our machine guns and cannons were on the beam, and they knocked off Germans like so many clay pigeons," said Chief Boatswain's Mate Jack January, of St. Louis, who photographed the battle in which the Coast Guard cutter Spencer sank a German submarine.

January, former photographer for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who was on the quarterdeck with Chief Boatswain's Mate Charlie Lockett, of Philadelphia, when the latter sighted the submarine, told the story of the battle:

"A long dark object seemed to be squeezing itself out of the water.

"What You've Waited For"

"While I grabbed for my camera, our skipper, Commander Harold S. Berdine, turned to a gunner's mate on the wing of the bridge and said quietly: 'Well, son, here's what you've been waiting for. Give 'em hell.'

"The gunner's 20-millimeter cannon began throwing shells and I began 'shooting' film from every angle I could think of.

"Our crew was yelling like a college cheering section. I closed my eyes once and thought I was back at St. Louis, covering a Cardinal-Dodger baseball game.

"Nazi Heads Appear"

"Suddenly, Nazi heads began to appear at the conning tower of the sub and the first men swarmed toward the U-boat's three deck guns. By that time our machine guns and cannon were on the beam, and they knocked off Germans like so many clay pigeons.

"We didn't know if the Nazis would try to use their torpedoes, so we kept pouring shells and slugs at them, while the Spencer charged in preparing to ram the huge submarine.

"The Huns Had Enough"

"The Huns had enough, however, and began jumping overboard, throwing up their hands and shouting: 'Halp! Halp!' "

January said prisoners, when asked what they wanted to eat replied: "Just bread and jelly." One, however, "took a generous helping of corned beef and cabbage and all soon followed suit."

Japs' China Tactics Puzzle D. C. Experts

JUN -3 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 2—"Puzzling" is the word applied to the recent Japanese campaign in China by informed persons here, who find the enemy employing forces too small for a major offensive, too large for a mere raid.

One observer suggested that the Japanese, while intending primarily to clinch a seizure of China's "rice bowl" in Hunan province, may have intended—for some obscure reason of their own—to make the Chinese believe that the operations in adjoining Hupeh were the beginning of a drive on Chungking.

Attack Doubted

That such a campaign against the Chinese capital actually was starting is considered unlikely, however. The country west of Ichang, on the Yangtze river, and the Yuyangkwan, the "gateway to Chungking," where counter-attacking Chinese forces turned back the foe, is mountainous, difficult to attack, easy to defend.

In the face of this, the Japanese have not sent any substantial reinforcements either of men or supplies, and their forces based on Hankow were considered insufficient for an offensive aimed at Chungking.

Forces Shifted

Considerable shifting of forces in Hupeh and Hunan has taken place, however, and probably two to three divisions (a Chinese announcement said five) have been defeated at Yuyangkwan.

The purpose behind these movements by the Japanese remains a mystery, since they occurred north of the great rice-producing region of Hunan, and apparently were not in sufficient force to present a serious threat to Chungking.

One suggestion was that the Japanese may have been "probing" to test the strength of the Chinese armies guarding the capital—in which case the answer probably was surprising.

Or, it was suggested, the enemy may have sought by a local offensive to remove the threat of Chinese forces which might have interfered with Japanese operations farther south in Hunan.

Peace, Quiet in Canada Proves Relief to Hapsburgs

Turbulent Life Behind Them, Austrians Live in Hopes of Eventual Restoration.

JUN -3 1943

(The Empress Zita is the consort of the last ruler of the Austro-Hungarian empire and her son, Prince Otto, is pretender to that throne. When war came to Belgium, long the haven of the exiled Hapsburgs, Otto, a price on his head, came to Canada with his mother, four brothers and three sisters. There they live in quiet seclusion. A Canadian Press reporter visited their home to obtain the following account of their lives there.)

QUEBEC — (AP) The people of this old walled and cobbled city are noted for their reserve and good manners, and nobody ever points a finger when a middle-aged lady sorts through trinklets at a gift shop counter, nor do they exclaim "that's the former empress of Austria."

Most of those who knew that Quebec gave shelter to the imperial house of Hapsburg more than two years ago have either forgotten it or have not been inquisitive.

The thin, gray woman and the only remaining vestig of the splendor of her once great court — a lone lady-in-waiting, Countess de Kessenbrok — do the shopping rounds unnoticed and almost unknown.

Perhaps a few nod toward the tall, straight princes and apple-cheeked princesses of the royal house, but as one servant put it, "nobody pries."

Turbulent, Tragic Life

Empress Zita and her family have in her own words "at last found peace, quiet and simplicity" in Quebec after a turbulent and tragic life.

But they have not forgotten they are Hapsburgs or ceased to hope that throne will one day be restored.

They live in the modest Villa St. Joseph, formerly a nuns' retreat, on the outskirts of the city. It is a white structure of a dozen rooms, and its grounds adjoin Spencerwood, the spacious home of Quebec's lieutenant-governor.

The windows have iron bars and there is a watch dog, but no special protection.

The Archduke Otto, pretender to the throne, and his four brothers and three sisters, regard the Villa St. Joseph as home and those whose activities are elsewhere visit it regularly. Otto, who has offices in New York and Washington, comes back every eight weeks and stays a week.

The Archduke Robert has just returned from Britain, while Felix, Carl Ludwig and Rudolphe — the latter two recently graduated from Laval university, Quebec, after courses in social economics — are taking military training at Camp Atterbury, Indiana.

Social Worker

The Archduchess Adelaide is engaged in social work in New York. Charlotte is just finishing at Laval, and Elizabeth, born after her father's death in exile at Funchal, Madeira, in 1922, has another year to go.

Carl and Rudolphe consider that "the best fun" they've had in Canada was a journey west last fall to help with the harvest.

Otto insists that his brothers continue their military training and keeps a firm hand on the family destinies. He agrees with his mother that they have a serious mission in life and must occupy themselves in preparation for it. That is why they take little part in the social and sporting life of Quebec.

College tennis and a few college parties are about the limit of their social activity.

Envision Restoration

The greater part of their time is spent in study for the role which they hope their native land will call upon them some day to resume—that of royal family. The Empress made a pledge to her dying husband that she would see that these studies were carried out without interruption in a Roman Catholic atmosphere.

Her husband, the Emperor Charles, was the nephew of Franz Joseph and came to the throne in 1916. When Germany and Austria were defeated he and his family fled to Madeira. After his death, the Empress moved to Spain and later to Belgium where they remained until the Nazi invasion.

Government sources at Ottawa say the members of the family are looked upon as war refugees and private citizens rather than important political exiles. No restrictions are placed on them, and in the words of one Ottawa official "they are merely expected to behave like any refugees, abiding by the laws of the country."

Complete Freedom

They are allowed complete freedom as friendly aliens and are under no obligation to keep officials informed of their movements.

Canadian newspapers and many Canadian citizens are bombarded with pamphlets from "Free Austrian" committees arguing for the restoration of the monarchy along democratic lines and from other groups, notably Czech, arguing against such a plan for post-war central Europe.

However, the anti-monarchists may feel about it, Otto is referred to in the household as "the emperor."

Otto believes Germany will collapse before the end of 1944, and at present is rather afraid that a generals' junta might "arrange" for the crackup to take place before the Allies can march into Germany.

He regards his family as good democrats and likes to recall that he was tried in absentia in the people's court in Liepzig in May, 1938, and given the death penalty. The Nazis, he says, made overtures towards him at various times but he rejected them.

Insists He Is Patriot

He is cautious in speaking of the restoration. He has read all the pamphlets and arguments against his program and ideas, and insists that he is first of all an Austrian patriot who is willing to serve as laborer or prince.

He believes Europe should be regionalized into federations of nations of a geographical nature rather than ethnological, and thinks that such federations, pooling their military and economic resources, could withstand the pressure of single, powerful nations.

Forester Describes Jap Raid On Coast Forest

[By the Associated Press]

Port Orford, Ore., June 2—The public learned today of the enemy's fifth futile attack on the West Coast, a sneak incendiary raid by a lone airplane more than eight months ago.

Believed launched from a Japanese submarine last September 28, the plane flew over the Oregon coast in early morning fog so dense a forest service lookout was unable to see the ship, although it droned directly by his tower on a mountain near here.

Fire Set In Canyon

The lookout, Lauren S. Giebner, followed the sound of the motor as it moved northeastward. He heard a blast and saw a flash, as if a bomb had been dropped.

Giebner reported to forest headquarters and watched sharply for the fire. When the fog lifted two hours later, he spotted it in a heavily timbered canyon three miles away.

Put Under Control

A crew of fire fighters hiked two hours over rugged mountains to reach the blaze and bring it under control.

This was the second reported incendiary attempt on the forests of this isolated southwestern corner of Oregon. The army previously announced a small plane flew in from the sea near Brookings last September 9 and dropped two bombs. This plane also was spotted by a lookout and the fires controlled quickly. Japanese markings were found on fragaments of the incendiary bombs.

The army held up Giebner's story of the Port Orford raid for military reasons until Chief Forester Lyle F. Watts, asking additional funds for protection of the forests, disclosed the attack in testimony before a Senate appropriations subcommittee in Washington.

The previously disclosed raids, all shellings by enemy submarines last year, were as profitless as the air attacks. The first was February 23 when shells plopped harmlessly around an oil refinery at Goleta, Cal. Then on June 20 shells fell wide of the Estevan point lighthouse on Vancouver Island, and on June 21 projectiles missed buildings at Fort Stevens, Oregon and tore up a deserted stretch of sand dunes.

Gen. Burns And Gilmore Return From Russia

JUN -3 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Spokane, Wash., June 2—Maj. Gen. James Burns, lend-lease authority who has been in Russia, and Eddy Gilmore, who for almost two years has covered the Russian capital for the Associated Press, reached Spokane today en route to Washington.

Also in the party was Major William Martin, who left the presidency of the New York Stock Exchange to enter the army as a private, but all relinquished the spotlight to the man who piloted their plane on a four-day hop.

Son Born During Absence

He is Capt. Emmet Corrigan, of Spokane. A son born while Corrigan was in Russia commanded all the attention of the captain and the party.

Gilmore said their plane started in company with the one in which Joseph E. Davies, President Roosevelt's special emmissary, returned today. Motor trouble delayed Corrigan's plane and separated the two parties.

Davies To Rush Report

Seattle, Wash., June 2 (AP)—Back from his special mission to Moscow, former Ambassador Joseph E. Davies prepared today to report directly to President Roosevelt.

Davies, who carried a personal message from the President to Josef Stalin, and a reply, arrived in Seattle yesterday after a flight which carried him almost around the world.

Travel Plans Undisclosed

His immediate travel plans were undisclosed, but he said through an Army Transport Command officer that he was in a hurry to report.

The announcement authorized by Davies said he and his party left Moscow Saturday and arrived in Alaska Monday. The big four-engined transport flew to Seattle, instead of through Edmonton, Alta., as had been planned, because of weather conditions along the latter route.

Mopping-Up Action Continued By Army

JUN -3 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 2—More than 1,500 Japanese were killed and four were captured during the first twenty days of fighting on Attu Island, the navy reported today, as operations on the formerly enemy-held island continued in a mopping-up phase.

A communique said that from the start of the American invasion on May 11 through midnight of May 30 the enemy casualties were so estimated. A navy spokesman, amplifying, said that the estimate was based on an actual count of bodies and that the total number killed might have been fifty or one hundred per cent. greater.

Full Estimate Impossible

It would be impossible, for instance, to estimate the number killed by high explosive naval shells or those buried by their comrades under the snow.

The number of enemy soldiers remaining on Attu could not be estimated, therefore, even though the Japanese have reported that there were approximately 3,000 of their force on the island to start with, and also reliable estimates here have ranged around 3,000.

Navy communique No. 399 said:

"North Pacific:

"1. On May 31, on Attu Island, mopping up operations by United States Army troops against isolated Japanese groups continued.

"2. As of midnight of May 30, the Japanese casualties on Attu were estimated as follows:

"Killed—1,500.

"Captured—Four.

"3. On May 31 formations of army Liberator heavy bombers, Mitchell medium bombers and Warhawk fighters bombed and strafed Japanese positions at Kiska. Hits were scored on the runways at North Head and Gertrude Cove.

First Casualty Report

This was the first comprehensive report of enemy casualties given out by American sources. A report on one night's operations issued Tuesday by the navy said that 40 of the enemy were slain between dusk and dawn of May 29-30. Another earlier war bulletin disclosed that an entire counter-attacking force had been wiped out in one action at dawn of May 29, but no count was given.

The summary communique today was described as covering both of those battles and all other operations.

Giraud Paying Cash For Lend-Lease Goods

Washington, June 2 (AP)—Gen. Henri Honore Giraud has put another $10,000,000 on the barrelhead for essential civilian supplies sent to French North Africa, giving him the distinction of being the only lend-lease customer using ready cash.

Receipt of a check for $10,000,000 from Giraud was announced today by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., lend-lease administrator. It was the second payment from Giraud, a check for $15,000,000 having been received late in April.

Lend-lease so far has sent civilian supplies such as medicine, food and clothing with a value of $35,000,000 to French North Africa. Stettinius said substantial amounts of much-needed strategic raw materials have been shipped from French North Africa to the United Kingdom and to the United States.

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 2—Destruction of a German submarine and capture of forty members of her crew by the coast guard cutter Spencer was reported today by the navy.

With depth charges and roaring guns, the cutter sank the U-boat in the Atlantic several weeks ago when the raider was detected lurking in the path of a "large and important convoy making for an Allied port."

Located By Soundman

Completely submerged and with her periscope down, the submarine was located by Soundman Harold V. Anderson, of Kewanee, Ill., and the Spencer, commanded by Commander Harold S. Berdine, 41, of Staten Island, made two depth charge runs over it.

Efforts by the submarine to get under the convoy in hope that the noise of the cargo ship's screws would interfere with the Spencer's detection devices failed, and the cutter remained on the raider's trail and dropped a third "basket of eggs."

"Not A 'Fish' Fired"

"The worst threat was now over," the navy related. "Not a 'fish' had been fired, nor had a ship been touched. However, the cutter still continued her pursuit. The United States Coast Guard cutter Duane charged in to assist, and the Spencer made ready to let go with her fourth attack when a lookout shouted:

"'Conning tower on the port quarter!'"

"Gun crews on both the ships trained their guns instantly on the submarine and opened a withering, effective fire. At the same time, the Spencer rang up full speed and headed for the U-boat, prepared to ram.

Germans Return Gunfire

"As the damaged sub moved slowly ahead through the calm seas, members of her crew took stations on the bridge and returned the fire of the American ships with the light gun mounted there. The Spencer's lifeboats were riddled, a boat davit was nearly cut in two; bridge flag bags, bulkheads and doors were damaged.

"Submarine crewmen who made for the heavy deck gun, however, were driven back by the accurate fire from the escort vessels' guns.

"Round after round was pumped into the undersea raider, and the after part of the conning tower was completely torn away. Then, just as the Spencer was on the point of ramming, the fire from the submarine suddenly ceased, and many members of her crew were observed abandoning ship through the conning tower.

"The Battle Was Over"

"The cutter turned aside and waited, ready to resume the assault; but the battle was over. The U-boat's propellors stopped, she dropped lower in the water, then rapidly plummeted down.

"Circling, the Spencer picked up more than forty submarine crew members who were floating in the water, supported by rafts and life belts. Locating the U-boat's survivors was not difficult; some were on rafts, the others adrift, but all of them safely supported by their escape lungs which were used as lift belts.

Nazis "Very Hysterical"

"Nevertheless, as they awaited rescue, they acted in a very hysterical manner, shouting and waving arms so frantically that no doubt was left as to their existence and location. The sea was smooth, there was a moderate breeze and conditions were generally fair.

"No doubt the depth charges and heavy gunfire had unnerved them; several were still hysterical on coming aboard. All prisoners were impressed by the headliness of the depth charges. Several threw up their hands and exclaimed, 'wasser-bombs; terrible, terrible!'"

And, the navy added, now the men of the Spencer's crew can shave.

"They had sworn not to shave until their ship had a positive submarine sinking to her credit.

U-Boat Sinkings Total 111

The sinking raised to 111 the Associated Press total of German submarine losses announced by the United Nations since Pearl Harbor. This figure does not include the announced destruction of fifty-three Axis submarines, many of which are believed to have been German but never were identified by nation.

Of the U-boat losses, fifty-six were sent to the bottom of the Atlantic, thirty-one of them by aircraft.

Announcements reveal that of the total, both the United States and Great Britain bagged thirty-two Nazi subs each since this country entered the war. However, action in the Atlantic credits the United States with twenty-three U-boats, five more than Britain's successes in those waters.

NIGHT LEAD PUERTO RICO

JUN -3 1943

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO, JUNE 2-(AP)-GOVERNOR REXFORD G.TUGWELL OF PUERTO RICO, REPLYING TODAY TO NUMEROUS QUESTIONS REGARDING THE OPERATION OF SOME OF THE NEWER INSULAR AGENCIES, CHALLENGED THE CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE HEADED BY REP.C.JASPER BELL (D-MO) TO EXAMINE EACH CLOSELY BEFORE CONCLUDING THAT THEY FORM PART OF "ANY SCHEME TO SUPPRESS PRIVATE ENTERPRISE."

"THESE ARE NOT THE RESULT OF ANY PHILOSOPHY OR THEORETICAL PURPOSE BUT WERE CREATED TO DEAL WITH CRITICAL SITUATIONS SUCH AS TRANSPORTATION AUTHORITY, TO INCREASE ENTERPRISE AND TO HELP THE EMPLOYMENT SITUATION," TUGWELL SAID.

TUGWELL'S REMARK PUNCTUATED A LENGTHY GRILLING WHICH OCCUPIED THE ENTIRE MORNING SESSION OF MORE THAN TWO HOURS. MEMBERS OF THE COMMITTEE INDICATED THAT THEY MIGHT RECALL TUGWELL FOR FURTHER QUESTIONING AFTER THEY HAD HAD AN OPPORTUNITY TO STUDY THE INSULAR BUDGET.

DURING THE QUESTIONING ON OPERATIONS OF THE INSULAR DEVELOPMENT BANK, REP.JAMES DOMENGEAUX (D-LA.) INQUIRED WHETHER PRIVATE CAPITAL WAS LEAVING THE ISLAND. TUGWELL REPLIED THAT HE DIDN'T KNOW BUT THAT IT WOULD NOT MAKE ANY DIFFERENCE SINCE THERE WAS BETWEEN 50 AND 60 MILLION DOLLARS LYING IDLE IN BANK DEPOSITS IN PUERTO RICO AT THE PRESENT TIME.

DOMENGEAUX SUGGESTED THAT PERHAPS PRIVATE CAPITAL WAS AFRAID TO INVEST IN LOCAL INDUSTRIES.

"IF YOU'RE ATTRIBUTING THAT TO FEAR OF ME, IT'S BEEN THERE (IN BANKS) MANY YEARS," TUGWELL REPLIED.

THE GOVERNOR ADMITTED THAT IT WOULD BE BETTER IF PRIVATE LOCAL INVESTMENT DEVELOPED PUERTO RICAN INDUSTRY BECAUSE THEN THERE WOULD BE NO NEED FOR THE DEVELOPMENT BANK, WHICH HE SAID HAD BEEN ORGANIZED ON THE THEORY THAT IF THE GOVERNMENT ASSUMED PART OF THE RISK IT MIGHT INDUCE TIMID CAPITAL TO INVEST.

DOMENGEAUX ASSURED TUGWELL THAT IT WAS NOT HIM BUT HIS PHILOSOPHY WHICH HAD OCCASIONED THE FEAR.

"I AM NOT SO INNOCENT NOT TO KNOW WHAT YOU ARE DRIVING AT," TUGWELL REPLIED. "IT HAS BEEN FREQUENTLY SAID IN THE PRESS AND OTHER PLACES THAT THESE AGENCIES ARE PART OF A SCHEME TO SUPPRESS PRIVATE ENTERPRISE OR ENABLE THE GOVERNOR TO CONTROL THE PUERTO RICAN GOVERNMENT. I WANT YOU TO EXAMINE EACH CLOSELY AND SEE FOR YOURSELF."

JUN -3 1943

ASKED WHAT, IN HIS OPINION, THE PUERTO RICANS DESIRED AS A POLITICAL FUTURE, THE GOVERNOR REPLIED THAT HE THOUGHT MOST OF THE PUERTO RICANS WANTED STATEHOOD. HE ADDED THAT HE KNEW MANY PUERTO RICANS WOULD CRITICIZE THIS VIEW BUT POINTED OUT THAT NO ALTERNATIVE HAVE EVER BEEN OFFERED.

"IF THEY KNEW CONGRESS WOULD ACCEPT THEIR WISHES AND WHATEVER THEY VOTED FOR HERE, I THINK THAT STATEHOOD WOULD BE THE CHOICE," HE SAID.

HE ADDED THAT ALL PARTIES AND ALL CLASSES FAVORED AN ELECTIVE GOVERNORSHIP FOR THE ISLAND.

THE GOVERNOR APPEARED NERVOUS AND WEARIED BY THE CONSTANT QUESTIONING ON DETAILS OF THE INSULAR GOVERNMENT AND FREQUENTLY ANSWERED

QUESTIONS WITH STATEMENTS AND RESPONSES WHICH ORDINARILY WOULD HAVE COME FROM THE HEADS OF THE DEPARTMENTS INVOLVED.

REP. FRED L.CRAWFORD (R-MICH) ASSERTED DURING THE HEARING THAT THE FUTURE OF PUERTO RICO IN RELATION TO THE CONTINENTAL UNITED STATES WAS "NONE TOO BRIGHT" BECAUSE INTERNATIONAL ALLIANCES GROWING OUT OF THE WAR SUCH AS LEASE-LEND, LATIN AMERICAN POLICIES AND THE FOOD CONFERENCE WOULD UPSET THE ISLAND'S SUGAR ECONOMY. MECHANICAL DEVICES AVAILABLE FOR POST WAR HARVESTING AND PLANTING WOULD FORCE FROM 25 TO 40 PER CENT OF THE FIELD LABORERS OFF PUERTO RICAN PAYROLLS, HE SAID.

JUN -3 1943

CRAWFORD SAID THAT HE WAS CONVINCED THAT EACH DOMESTIC AREA--PUERTO RICO, AND HAWAII AS WELL AS THE LOUISIANA CANE AND THE WESTERN BEET STATES--SHOULD ALL BE TREATED THE SAME WAY. DOMENGEAUX REPLIED THAT HE WISHED THAT THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE HAD THE SAME VIEWPOINT INSTEAD OF "FAVORING THE BEET SUGAR GROWERS IN PARITY PAYMENTS." TUGWELL SAID THAT HE AGREED WITH CRAWFORD TOO.

LUIS MUNOZ MARIN, PRESIDENT OF THE PUERTO RICAN SENATE AND LEADER OF THE MAJORITY POPULARES PARTY, TESTIFYING AT THE AFTERNOON SESSION, DISAGREED WITH TUGWELL IN HIS TESTIMONY ON THE ISLAND'S POLITICAL FUTURE ALTHOUGH HE SAID THAT THERE WAS A UNIVERSAL FEELING AMONG ALL POLITICAL PARTIES FOR AN ELECTIVE GOVERNORSHIP HE WAS PERSONALLY OPPOSED TO STATEHOOD BECAUSE HE DID NOT THINK "THE ISLAND'S ECONOMY COULD STAND THE DOUBLE BURDEN OF FEDERAL AND STATE TAXATION."

PUERTO RICO'S "PRESENT COLONIAL STATUS" SHOULD END, HE SAID. ELECTIVE GOVERNORSHIP, ALTHOUGH DESIREABLE, WOULD NOT BE THE FINAL SOLUTION.

"IT WOULD BE AN IMPROVEMENT BUT WOULDN'T REMOVE PUERTO RICO'S COLONIAL STATUS PERMANENTLY AS LONG AS THE POWER TO WITHDRAW THIS PRIVILEGE REMAINED OUTSIDE OF PUERTO RICO," MUNOZ MARIN SAID.

SAN JUAN ADD TUGWELL xxx added

"THEY LIKE TO FEEL," HE ADDED, "THAT SOME PROGRESS IS BEING MADE, THAT THEY ARE BEING CONSIDERED AND THAT SOME CONCLUSION IS BEING REACHED SO THEY CAN SEE WHERE THEY ARE GOING AND WHAT THEY CAN WORK FOR."

JUN -3 1943

THE COMMITTEE, HEADED BY REP.C.JASPER BELL(D-MO), CAME HERE TO SEE FOR ITSELF CONDITIONS IN THE ISLAND. A SENATE COMMITTEE MADE A SIMILAR INVESTIGATION IN FEBRUARY.

TUGWELL DECLARED THAT LACK OF EMPLOYMENT EXCEPT AT SEASONAL PERIODS AND LOW WAGES WHEN WORK IS AVAILABLE HAVE PRODUCED WIDESPREAD SLUM AREAS OF FLIMSY SHACKS AMONG PUERTO RICAN WORKERS.

"IT IS A MATTER OF RESOURCES NOT BEING PROPERLY USED, HE ASSERTED.

JUN -3 1943

IN THE FIRST MONTHS OF WAR, TUGWELL ADDED, THERE WAS A SHORTAGE OF FOOD AVAILABLE BECAUSE SHIPS WERE NOT AVAILABLE TO BRING IT IN, BUT THAT SITUATION NOW HAS BEEN REMEDIED. HOWEVER, HE SAID CONDITIONS STILL ARE DIFFICULT BECAUSE WAGES HAVE VIRTUALLY STOOD STILL WHILE PRICES HAVE SOARED AS MUCH AS 70 PER CENT.

THE WAR TODAY

JUN -3 1943

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

WE PERHAPS TOO OFTEN THINK OF UNCLE SAM'S FIGHTING-MACHINE SOLELY IN TERMS OF THE MEN WHO ARE ON ACTUAL COMBAT SERVICE IN THE ARMY, THE NAVY AND THE AIR-FORCE.

THAT PROBABLY IS NATURAL, FOR THEY ARE THE ONES WHO RISK THEIR LIVES ON THE FIRING LINE IN DEFENSE OF THEIR COUNTRY. STILL THEY'RE ONLY PART OF THE MACHINE. THEY ARE AN ABSOLUTELY VITAL PART, OF COURSE, BUT BEHIND THEM AND INTEGRATED WITH THEM ARE MANY PARTS WHICH ALSO ARE ESSENTIAL TO MAKE THE VAST MACHINE RUN.

JUN -3 1943

THE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS AND AIRMEN ARE THE EXPERTS WHO WIELD THE INSTRUMENTS OF DEATH AGAINST THE ENEMY. BUT OTHER ELEMENTS OF THE MACHINE HAVE TO EQUIP AND MAINTAIN THE FIGHTING MEN OR THE BATTLE FRONT WILL COLLAPSE.

A THOUSAND AND ONE INDUSTRIES FABRICATE THE ARMAMENTS; FARMERS PRODUCE FOOD; VARIOUS UNITS TRANSPORT THESE ESSENTIALS TO THE THEATER OF WAR BY LAND AND SEA AND AIR, AND STILL ANOTHER GOES DOWN INTO THE DARK CAVERNS OF THE EARTH AND PRODUCES--WITH ARDUOUS LABOR AND GREAT DANGER--THE COAL WITHOUT WHICH MUCH WAR MANUFACTURING MUST CEASE AND TRANSPORT MUST BE DISRUPTED.

FAILURE OF ANY ONE OF THESE UNITS MAY MEAN STOPPAGE OF THE WHOLE MACHINE. IT MAY MEAN DEFEAT!

AT BEST IT'S LIKELY TO PROTRACT THE WAR. THAT MEANS UNNECESSARY DEATH AND MAIMING IN THE FIGHTING RANKS, AND ADDITIONAL SUFFERING AT HOME.

JUN -3 1943

THE FORTUNES OF WAR SOMETIMES ARE CAPRICIOUS, AND A NATION MAY ENCOUNTER ADVERSITY WHICH IT IS UNABLE TO WARD OFF. EVEN AN ACT OF NATURE, LIKE A FLOOD, MAY PLAY HAVOC WITH PART OF A WAR-MACHINE. RARELY, HOWEVER, DOES AN ALL-IMPORTANT UNIT COLLAPSE AS THE RESULT OF A DISPUTE AMONG THE PEOPLE COMPRISING IT.

IT WOULD BE A DAMNABLE TRAGEDY IF ANY QUARREL SHOULD INTERFERE WITH ESSENTIAL WAR PRODUCTION AT THIS CRITICAL MOMENT. THAT'S IRRESPECTIVE OF THE MERITS OF THE ARGUMENT ON EITHER SIDE OF A CONTROVERSY.

THERE'S NOTHING THAT COUNTS EXCEPTING TO KEEP THE WAR-MACHINE RUNNING AND THE FLAG FLYING. EVEN INDIVIDUAL LIVES DON'T MATTER, MUCH LESS MATERIAL AFFAIRS.

A GENERAL AND HIS STAFF CAN'T QUIT BECAUSE OF DIFFICULTIES WITH THE TROOPS. AND THE MEN IN THE RANKS CAN'T THROW DOWN THEIR GUNS BECAUSE THEY DON'T LIKE THE ORDERS OF THE COMMANDER. THE TWO OF 'EM HAVE TO MAKE A GO OF IT WHETHER THEY WANT TO OR NOT.

JUN -3 1943

IN MOMENTS OF NATIONAL PERIL EVERY MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD IS IN THE SERVICE OF THE COUNTRY. EACH ONE IS IN THE SAME POSITION AS THE FIGHT-ING MAN, SO FAR AS DUTY IS CONCERNED.

TIME IS A VITAL ELEMENT IN WARFARE. STOPPAGE OF A SINGLE UNIT FOR EVEN A FEW DAYS MAY REACT DISASTROUSLY ON THE BATTLE FRONT.

GENERAL HENRY ~~HAROLD~~ H.ARNOLD, CHIEF OF THE ARMY AIR FORCES, DECLARED YESTERDAY AT WEST POINT THAT THE ALLIES WILL END THE WAR "AND END IT SOON" BY BOMBING. BY ENDING IT QUICKER "WE WILL CUT DOWN THE CASUALTIES."

JUN -3 1943

WHAT A GRAND GOAL TO WORK FOR! BUT WE COULD FALL FAR SHORT OF IF IF OUR PRODUCTION WERE SERIOUSLY IMPEDED.

THIS IS A GREAT MOMENT IN THE WAR. THE UNITED NATIONS ARE RUSHING AT HITLER FOR THE KILL. WE NEED EVERY SINGLE OUNCE OF STRIKING POWER WHICH WE CAN DEVELOP.

DELAY IN ESSENTIAL PRODUCTION MIGHT CHANGE THE COURSE OF THE WAR. IT MIGHT EASILY PROTRACT THE EUROPEAN UPHEAVAL, WITH CONSEQUENT DELAY IN UNDERTAKING MAJOR OPERATIONS AGAINST JAPAN.

APART FROM EVERYTHING ELSE, THIS MEANS MORE CASUALTIES AMONG OUR BOYS. EVERY MINUTE COUNTS. THOUSANDS OF MEN CAN DIE IN THE LAST THIRTY MINUTES BEFORE THE CEASE FIRE IS GIVEN. EVEN THE FINAL SIXTY SECONDS TAKE THEIR TOLL. THEY DID IN THE LAST WAR AND WILL IN THIS.

UNDATED RUSSIAN--WITH MOSCOW JUN -3 1943

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE INTERNATIONAL INFORMATION BUREAU, GERMAN PROPAGANDA AGENCY, SAID IN A BERLIN BROADCAST TODAY THAT A NEW PHASE OF THE BATTLE FOR THE KUBAN BRIDGEHEAD HAD OPENED WITH THE RUSSIANS SENDING FIVE NEW TANK BRIGADES AND SEVERAL RIFLE DIVISIONS INTO A LARGE SCALE ATTACK AT DAWN YESTERDAY. THE BROADCAST WAS RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

THE AGENCY, WHICH SOMETIMES ISSUES REPORTS WHICH DNB, THE OFFICIAL NEWS AGENCY DOES NOT WISH TO SPONSOR, SAID THE ATTACK WAS PRECEDED BY A HEAVY ARTILLERY AND MORTAR BOMBARDMENT MONDAY NIGHT AND ADMITTED SOME PENETRATION OF THE GERMAN LINES.

WEST OF KRIMSKAYA, TO THE NORTH OF NOVOROSSISK, SAID THE REPORT, THE RUSSIANS SUCCEEDED IN BREACHING THE GERMAN LINES AFTER 58 OF THEIR 100 TANKS HAD BEEN PUT OUT OF ACTION.

"THE ANNIHILATION OF THE REMAINING TANKS OF THIS GROUP IS IN FULL SWING," THE BUREAU ASSERTED.

IN ANOTHER PLACE THE RUSSIANS ATTACKED WITH 20 TANKS, THE REPORT SAID, AND EIGHT OF THE MACHINES WERE DESTROYED. IN YET A THIRD SECTOR FOUR MORE TANKS WERE DECLARED TO HAVE BEEN DESTROYED.

THE RUSSIAN RIGHT WING ATTACKED THROUGH THE LAGOONS NORTH OF TEMRYUK, BUT "ONLY WEAK REMNANTS OF THE SOVIET BRIGADE WERE ABLE TO REACH THE EASTERN SHORE OF THE SEA OF AZOV ON BOATS AND FERRIES," SAID THE BUREAU.

A SECRET GERMAN POLICE ORGANIZATION FORMED OF SCIENTISTS, TEACHERS, ECONOMIC AND ADMINISTRATION EXPERTS HAS BEEN DISCUSSED FOR THE FIRST TIME IN PUBLIC, A BROADCAST BY BERLIN RADIO, RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID LAST (WED.) NIGHT.

THE BROADCAST QUOTED AN ARTICLE IN THE DEUTSCHE ALLGEMIENE ZEITUNG WHICH EXPLAINED THE ACTIVITIES OF THE "SICHERHEITS DIENST" (SECURITY SERVICE) OR "SD".

THE ORGANIZATION IS AN OUTGROWTH OF THE NATIONAL SOCIALIST PARTY AND CONNECTED WITH THE POLICE FORCE AND SECRET POLICE. ITS EXPERTS, BANDED FOR WAR SERVICE, THE BROADCAST SAID, CAPTURED THE TWO BRITISH INTELLIGENCE AGENTS CAPT.RICHARD HENRY STEVENS AND SIGISMUND PAYNE BEST ON THE NETHERLANDS BORDER IN 1940.

THE GERMANS HAVE CHARGED STEVENS AND BEST WITH VARIOUS OFFENSES, INCLUDING ATTEMPTS ON ADOLF HITLER'S LIFE, BUT THE BRITISH HAVE ANNOUNCED THEY WERE INVESTIGATING GERMAN PEACE OVERTURES WHEN THEY WERE ABDUCTED FROM THEN-NEUTRAL HOLLAND BY GERMAN POLICE.

THE BROADCAST SAID THE SECURITY SERVICE IS ACTIVE IN THE REAR OF THE FRONT LINES PROTECTING THE POPULATION "AGAINST PARTISANS" AND FACILITATING THE EMPLOYMENT OF MEN AND WOMEN IN GERMAN OCCUPIED EASTERN DISTRICTS.

AS PART OF THE GERMAN SECRET POLICE, IT HAS A PROPAGANDA COMPANY OF ITS OWN JUST AS ARMED FORCES DO, THE RADIO SAID.

AMERICAN FLIERS WHO HAVE MADE MANY HUNDREDS OF SORTIES OVER THE ISOLATED OUTPOST KNOW ITS EVERY JAGGED CRATER BETTER THAN THEY KNOW THEIR OWN HOME STATES.

JUN -3 1943

MUSSOLINI'S TARDY DECISION IN THE 1930'S TO TURN PANTELLERIA INTO A BASE FOR SMALL NAVAL SHIPS, SUBMARINES AND AIRCRAFT AS A RIVAL FOR THE BRITISH BASE AT MALTA 155 MILES AWAY IS THE CAUSE OF THIS ISLAND'S PRESENT TRIAL BY FIRE.

JUN -3 1943

PANTELLERIA IS ABOUT TWO-THIRDS THE SIZE OF MALTA BUT CONSIDERABLY INFERIOR TO THE BRITISH STRONGHOLD IN MILITARY AND NAVAL IMPORTANCE. (HOWEVER, IT IS IMPORTANT AS A BARRIER TO ALLIED SHIPPING THROUGH THE MEDITERRANEAN, NOTABLY INCLUDING AMERICAN LEASE-LEND SUPPLIES TO THE MIDDLE EAST, RUSSIA, INDIA AND CHINA.)

ABOUT 9,500 CIVILIANS LIVED IN PANTELLERIA IN PEACETIME, WITH 4,000 RESIDING IN THE TOWN WHICH BEARS THE SAME NAME AS THE ISLAND. THEY EXPORTED WINE, DRIED FISH AND SUBSIDIARY AGRICULTURE PRODUCTS WHICH ARE GROWN ON THE THIN, ROCKY SOIL.

IT IS ONLY AN EIGHT-MILE WALK FROM ONE END OF PANTELLERIA TO THE OTHER, AND ITS GREATEST WIDTH IS JUST OVER FIVE MILES.

JUN -3 1943

LARGE CLIFFS FACE THE SEA ON THE EAST AND SOUTH COASTS OF THE OVAL-SHAPED ISLAND, AND THE HIGHEST POINT IS 2,750-FOOT MONTEGRANDE MERGEY IN THE CENTER.

ONLY SHALLOW DRAFT NAVAL AND MERCHANT VESSELS MAKE USE OF THE SMALL INNER HARBOR, ENCLOSED BY A BREAKWATER, BUT LARGE SHIPS CAN ANCHOR FARTHER OFFSHORE.

WHAT HAS BEEN HAPPENING TO PANTELLERIA, ALLIED QUARTERS SAY, MUST BE PERSONALLY PAINFUL TO MUSSOLINI, FOR THE ISLAND EMBODIED HIS BROKEN DREAMS OF ITALIAN NAVAL DOMINION OVER "MARE NOSTRUM — OUR SEA."

BY PAUL KERN LEE

WITH THE BRITISH FLEET IN THE MEDITERRANEAN, JUNE 2--(AP)--- THE MIDDLE MEDITERRANEAN ISLAND OF PANTELLERIA, ONCE CALLED "MUSSOLINI'S MALTA," HAS BEEN BOMBARDED IN NIGHT AND DAY ATTACKS BY BRITISH NAVAL FORCES.

THE ISLAND, ALREADY UNDER STRONG BATTERING AERIAL ATTACK, SUFFERED FURTHER DAMAGE TO BARRACKS AND OTHER SHORESIDE INSTALLATIONS FROM THE ACCURATE FIRE OF NAVAL CANNON AIMED AT THE CITY OF PANTELLERIA.

JUN -3 1943

THE NIGHT ATTACK DREW FEEBLE AND INACCURATE SHORE REPLIES ONLY AFTER THE WARSHIPS HAD COMPLETED THEIR MISSION AND WERE IN STEAMING AWAY. THE SUBSEQUENT FOLLOW-UP DAY ATTACK

THE NAVAL VESSELS STEAMED IN CLOSE TO THE SHORE AND LAID "BRICKS" DIRECTLY ON THEIR TARGETS.

THE SHIPS THEN TURNED AWAY BEHIND A SMOKESCREEN BEFORE THE SHORE BATTERIES OPENED WITH A HEAVIER AND BETTER-AIMED FIRE THAN THEY HAD BY NIGHT.

JUN -3 1943

THE DAYLIGHT ATTACKERS ALSO WERE CHASED BY AXIS PLANES SUBSEQUENTLY, BUT BRITISH FIGHTERS SCATTERED THE ENEMY FORMATIONS.

30.24-4597

ALL THE VESSELS RETURNED TO THEIR BASE.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, MAY 31--(AP)---WITH THE MERGER OF FIGHTING FRENCH FORCES FROM THE WESTERN DESERT WITH THE FRENCH NORTH AFRICAN ARMY EXPECTED AS ONE RESULT OF THE IMPENDING DE GAULLE-GIRAUD SETTLEMENT, CONSIDERABLE ATTENTION IS FOCUSSED ON THE ROLE GEN. JACQUES LECLERC WILL PLAY IN THE NEW FORMATION.

THERE IS THE LITTLE QUESTION OF LECLERC'S MARCH OF ALMOST 2,000 MILES FROM FORT LAMY, IN THE LAKE CHAD REGION, TO TRIPOLI, HIS CONQUEST OF THE FEZZAN, A VAST DESERT AREA OF LIBYA, AND THE FURTHER ADVANCE OF HIS COLUMN AGAINST THE MARETH LINE BESIDE BRITISH

EIGHTH ARMY UNITS. THESE HAVE WON CONSIDERABLE RESPECT FOR HIS MILITARY ABILITY FROMALLIED COMMANDERS AND HAVE CAPTURED THE POPULAR IMAGINATION.

JUN -3 1943

IT IS CONSIDERED LIKELY THAT THE 41-YEAR-OLD GENERAL WILL GET AN IMPORTANT COMMAND IN THE NEW SETUP, POSSIBLY BY PASSING MANY OF THE 150-ODD FRENCH GENERALS IN NORTH AFRICA.

HE AND AND HIS FAMOUS COLUMN ARE NOW RESTING WITH THE EIGHTH ARMY, OF WHICH IT BECAME A PART AFTER MAKING THE JUNCTION WITH GEN. SIR BERNARD MONTGOMERY'S FORCE AT TRIPOLI.

LECLERC---THE NAME IS A NOM DE PLUME HE ASSUMED TO SHIELD RELATIVES STILL IN NAZI-OCCUPIED FRANCE---WAS BORN IN THE NORTH OF FRANCE IN 1902. GRADUATED FROM ST. CYR, HE BECAME A CAPTAIN AND FOUGHT IN THAT CAPACITY IN THE BATTLE OF FRANCE.

HE WAS WOUNDED AND CAPTURED, BUT ESCAPED AND, AFTER THE FALL OF FRANCE, WAS SHELTERED BY A FRENCH PEASANT IN A HAYLOFT. HE HAD A SMALL RADIO SET THERE AND ONE NIGHT HE HEARD GENERAL DE GAULLE PROCLAIM A CONTINUATION OF THE BAETLE.

HE SLIPPED OUT OF FRANCE AND JOINED DE GAULLE.

LECLERC WAS SENT TO FRENCH WEST AFRICA WITH OTHER OFFICERS RALLY AFRICAN COLONISTS TO THE FIGHTING FRENCH MOVEMENT. HE WAS ONE THOSE WHO BROUGHT OVER SENEGALESE SHARPSHOOTERS STATIONED IN CHAD, WHICH ASSURED THAT TERRITORY TO THE FIGHTING FRENCH IN AUGUST, 1940.

JUN -3 1943

IN FEBRUARY , 1941, HE SET OUT FROM FORT LAMY WITH A CAMEL CORPS DETACHMENT TO ATTACK KOUFRA OASIS IN SOUTHEASTERN LIBYA IN CONJUNCTION WITH A BRITISH ATTACK ON IT FROM THE MIDDLE EAST.

KOUFRA HAD AN AIR FIELD WHICH PERMITTED EASY AIR COMMUNICATION BETWEEN THE ITALIANS IN LIBYA AND THOSE IN ETHIOPIA.

JUN -3 1943

MARCH 1 THE FORTRESS OF KOUFRA SURRENDERED. THE FRENCH THE 1,500 WELL-UNIFORMED OCCUPANTS, WITH PLENTY OF SUPPLIES, GAVE UP TO A HANDFUL OF RAGGED FRENCH WHO HAD CROSSED VAST DESERT STRETCHES WHICH NO VEHICLE HAD EVER

GENERAL DE GAULLE LATER PROMOTED HIM TO A GENERALCY.

[illegible] LECLERK MADE A SERIES OF RAIDS INTO LIBYA IN THE EARLY PART OF 1942 WHICH TOOK HIM AS FAR AS BRACH, SOME 400 MILES FROM TRIPOLI. NUMEROUS ITALIAN POSTS IN THE FEZZAN WERE SURPRISED AND REDUCED.

JUN -3 1943

WHEN GENERAL MONTGOMERY BROKE THROUGH THE EL ALAMEIN LINE LECLERC WAS BACK IN THE CHAD PREPARING FOR [illegible] OCCUPATION OF THE FEZZAN AND A DRIVE TOWARD TRIPOLI FROM THE SOUTH.

HE HAD A LARGER FORCE BY THEN AND MORE EQUIPMENT. HIS COLUMN WAS ENTIRELY MOTORIZED. PREVIOUSLY HE HAD RELIED PARTLY ON CAMELS.

THE COLUMN INCLUDED CHAD SHARPSHOOTERS, TIBESTI, MEHARISTES AND A NUMBER OF YOUNG FRENCH SOLDIERS SENT OUT FOR TRAINING, SUPPORT BY ONE [illegible] AVIATION SQUADRON. THE ITALIANS WERE PUT TO FLIGHT AND THE FRENCH PROCEEDED ON THE MOPPING UP OF EL UIGHEL KEBIR, EL GATRUN AND FINALLY MARZOUK.

JUN -3 1943

THE WHOLE FEZZAN WAS CLEANED UP IN A THREE-WEEK CAMPAIGN. IT IS A [illegible] VAST AREA, WITH A NATIVE POPULATION OF 60,000, SOME OF WHOM HAD BEEN CEDED BY PIERRE LAVAL TO PREMIER MUSSOLINI WHEN HE PRESENTED IL DUCE A STRIP ALONG THE ALGERIAN FRONTIER AS AN APPEASEMENT GIFT IN 1935

A COLUMN OF 150 ITALIANS ATTEMPTED TO ESCAPE MARZOUK. THEY GOT SOME DISTANCE AWAY, BUT WERE SPOTTED BY A FRENCH AIRMEN WHO WAS OUT OF AMMUNITION AT THE MOMENT BUT AGGRESSIVE.

HE SIGNALED THE ITALIANS TO HALT, THREATENING TO STRAFE THEM UNLESS THEY SURRENDERED. THE COLUMN THREW DOWN ARMS AND [illegible] WAS ROUNDED UP BY A [illegible] GROUND PATROL SUMMONED BY THE FLIER.

LECLERC'S FORCE GOT TO TRIPOLI THE SAME DAY AS THE EIGHTH ARMY LAST JAN. 23. ENROUTE HE HAD SENT OUT A SUBSIDIARY

DE GAULLE'S ANNOUNCEMENT WAS MADE A LITTLE BEFORE MIDNIGHT LAST NIGHT WHEN MAJOR RENE DE BOIS LAMBERT OF DE GAULLE'S MILITARY ENTOURAGE, AND GASTON PALEWSKI, CHIEF OF HIS CIVIL CABINET, SUMMONED THE CORRESPONDENTS AND GAVE OUT THE TEXT OF THE RESIGNATION LETTER AND DE GAULLE'S REPLY.

JUN -3 1943

THE CORRESPONDENTS WENT WEARILY TO BED THINKING THEY HAD COVERED THE XXXX STORY.

WHEN THE MORNING PAPERS APPEARED, HOWEVER, THEY CONTAINED THE EXCHANGE WITH GIRAUD---INDICATING THAT GIRAUD STILL CONTROLS THE LOCAL PRESS.

BOTH MADE PEYROUTON A CAPTAIN, BUT GIRAUD ASKED HIM TO STAY IN THE GOVERNOR-GENERALCY XXXXX "UNTIL THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE IS FORMED." TWO MEMBERS OF THAT BODY ARE YET TO BE NAMED.

JUN -3 1943

DE GAULLE TOLD HIM TO TURN HIS JOB OVER TO ACIVIL SERVICE SUBORDINATE, THE SECRETARY GENERAL.

EISENHOWER AND BRITISH AND UNITED STATES DIPLOMATIC REPRESENTATIVES TO TURN OVER HIS JOB TO A CIVIL SERVICE SUBORDINATE, THE SECRETARY-GENERAL.

(MERILL MUELLER, NBC CORRESPONDENT, IN A BROADCAST FROM ALGIERS TODAY, SAID DE GAULLE'S ACTION "HAS ROUSED GIRAUD AS NOTHING ELSE HAS SINCE HE TOOK OVER IN NORTH AFRICA.")

A GIRAUD SPOKESMAN APPEARED ON THE SCENE THIS MORNING TO EXXXXXX EXPLAIN THE MIXUP IN THE PEYROUTON EXCHANGE.

JUN -3 1943

ZBBZ THIS IS WHAT HE SAID:

"PEYROUTON WROTE TWO LETTERS OF RESIGNATION TO THE TWO MEN HE CONSIDERED PRESIDENTS OF THE COMMITTEE. THE LETTER TO DE GAULLE ARRIVED MUCH EARLIER. WHEN INFORMED OF THE LETTER TO DE GAULLE, GIRAUD HAD NOT YET RECEIVED HIS LETTER. THERE IS NO EXPLANATION OF THIS.

JUN -3 1943

"GIRAUD THEN RECEIVED HIS LETTER, AND WROTE HIS REPLY. IT WAS GIVEN TO THE FRENCH PRESS AT 3 A.M. THERE IS NO QUESTION THAT ALL FOUR LETTERS ARE AUTHENTIC."

THE GIRAUD SPOKESMAN INSISTED THAT THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE HAD N YET BEEN FORMED, THEREFORE THE ONLY LEGITIMATE FRENCH AUTHORITY IN NORTH AFRICA WAS THAT OF GIRAUD AS CIVIL AND MILITARY COMMANDER IN-CHIEF.

HE CONCEDED, HOWEVER, THAT PEYROUTON HAD ADDRESSED HIS LETTER TO GIRAUD IN GIRAUD'S CAPACITY AS JOINT PRESIDENT OF THE COMMITTEE AND THAT GIRAUD HAD ACCEPTED IT AND REPLIED TO IT. JUN 3 1943

HE BASED HIS VIEW THAT THE COMMITTEE HAD NOT YET BEEN FORMED ON HIS CONTENTION THAT ITS MEMBERSHIP IS NOT YET COMPLETE.

THE PRELIMINARY AGREEMENT BETWEEN GIRAUD AND DE GAULLE, HOWEVER, PROVIDED THAT THE COMMITTEE WAS TO START ITS FUNCTIONS WITH SIX MEMBERS, WITH THREE TO BE ADDED LATER. JUN -3 1943

THE GIRAUD SPOKESMAN SAID THE COMMITTEE IN THE PRESENT PHASE OF ITS FORMATION CONSISTED OF THE TWO LEADERS AND TWO NOMINEES OF EACH--GEN. ALPHONSE GEORGES AND JEAN MONNET FOR GIRAUD, AND RENE MASSIGLI AND ANDRE ~~MMMMMM~~ PHILIP FOR DE GAULLE.

HE SAID ~~MXX~~ GEN. GEORGES ~~CXXXXXX~~ CATROUX, WHO PREVIOUSL HAD BEEN REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN ACCEPTED ON THE COMMITTEE BY BOTH DE GAULLE AND GIRAUD, HAD NOT YET BEEN NAMED TO IT. ## DRASTIC MEASURES LOOM IF WORKERS REFUSE TO RETURN

ALIEN CURBS HINTED

Pittsburgh Union Official Believes Men Will Remain Out.

LEWIS STILL SILENT

U.M.W. Chief Has No Comment When He Hears of President's Order.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON, June 3. — President Roosevelt, acting as war-time commander-in-chief, today flatly ordered some 500,000 striking mine workers to return to work Monday—and drastic measures were reported in store in case they disobey.

Backing to the limit the War Labor board which John L. Lewis has defied, Mr. Roosevelt said that when the miners return to their "war duties" the disposition of the dispute "will forthwith proceed, under the jurisdiction of the War Labor board and in accordance with the customary and established procedures governing all cases of this sort."

May Refuse to Work

There was no early conclusive indication of what the miners may do. William Hargest, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, District 5, said at Pittsburgh that he didn't know but his first guess "is that they won't go back" unless ordered to do so through some arrangement of the U.M.W. policy committee. A Kentucky union official, who withheld use of his name, expressed doubt that the President's order would have much effect.

Hugh White, vice president of Illinois United Mine Workers said: "I don't believe the order means a thing. It is up to the miners whether they go back to work because there was no general strike order from union headquarters. They quit voluntarily and can go back to work voluntarily if they choose. President Roosevelt's order will not send many of Illinois' 23,000 United Mine Workers members back to work on Monday. The miners are if anything more bitter now than at the time of President Roosevelt's last back-to-work order because negotiations for their new contract have lagged."

No Hint of Plans

The President made no mention of what he would do if the strike continued—in fact his terse statement did not seem to recognize even a possibility that the order could be ignored.

Responsible sources said he was ready to resort to use of troops, the draft laws and other measures if necessary.

Moreover, it was stated on high authority that the government is considering seriously the question of whether men who have struck would be entitled to any retroactive pay increase which might eventually be agreed upon.

No decision has been reached on this point, but it may be referred to Attorney General Biddle for a ruling. Government officials are inclined to the view that miners who struck may have cancelled the promise of a retroactive feature in any new contract.

The miners' contract expired on April 1, and if a retroactive increase were denied it would mean the loss of considerable money to the men.

Union Committee Adjourns

Early tonight the United Mine Workers policy committee adjourned a prolonged session without any action on the strike and union officials flatly declined to comment on the President's back-to-work order.

Mr. Lewis attended the session except for a short interval during which he left the hotel for an undisclosed purpose. Reporters informed him of the President's order but he said "No comment."

As the meeting ended, an official U.M.W. spokesman said "We won't have any statement. Nothing at all tonight."

The President's order, issued late in the day, apparently ushered in the long-awaited showdown with Mr. Lewis, who as president of the United Mine Workers, has refused to recognize the War Labor board's jurisdiction and has called it "malignantly" prejudiced.

Roosevelt's Statement

Mr. Roosevelt's statement said:

"Most of the nation's coal mines are closed because of a general strike which has taken place in defiance of the government of the United States. I have instructed the Secretary of the Interior, who has possession of the mines for the government, to proceed to reopen the mines.

"The Secretary of the Interior will continue to operate the mines under the terms and condition of work which obtained under the old contract which was extended by order of the War Labor board plus those new terms and conditions which have been approved by the board and which were announced in the board's order of May 25th.

"As President and commander in chief I order and direct the miners who are not now at work in the mines to return to their work on Monday, June 7, 1943. I must remind the miners that they are working for the government on essential war work and it is their duty no less than that of their sons and brothers in the armed forces to fulfill their war duties.

"Just as soon as the miners return to work, the disposition of the dispute between the miners and the operators will forthwith proceed, under the jurisdiction of the War Labor board and in accordance with the customary and established procedures governing all cases of this sort."

May Draft Men

The President was reported ready to back up his order by—

1. Reclassification under the Selective Service act to those miners who disobey.

2. A rigid enforcement of all laws governing aliens. Many thousands of the miners are aliens.

3 Widespread use of troops, if necessary.

This was represented as the President's program by trustworthy sources not permitting identification by name. They also said former miners now in the armed service would be released for work in the mines if this became advisable.

The chief executive was represented as having decided there could be no compromise with John L. Lewis, leader of the 500,000 striking miners, so long as the work stoppage, with all its inherent peril to the nation's war-making capacity, persisted.

His advisers were said to be convinced that the strike can be broken, and to feel that it would be better to forego two weeks or so of coal production than to give ground to Mr. Lewis.

In this decision, they backed up the War Labor board which referred the strike to Mr. Roosevelt yesterday with the declaration that to continue negotiations between the mine owners and Mr. Lewis while a strike existed would "nullify the no strike agreement upon which the country depends for an uninterrupted flow of war goods and would shatter the basis upon which our wartime labor policy exists."

How many miners might voluntarily respond to a request from the President for a resumption of work was a question on which there was widespread speculation. Some of his advisers were described as believing the majority would, if assured protection from pickets.

Miners May Not Respond

However, reports from Pennsylvania mine fields indicated there were many who, on the basis of their present attitude, would not. Inquiries by reporters to individuals brought expressions, in many cases, that the miners should not go back this time without a contract.

JUN -4 1943

The draft law already has been invoked against idle miners in one state. Governor Prentice Cooper of Tennessee announced he had authorized local draft boards to reclassify as available for active service those miners of fighting age who are not at work.

Before Gov. Cooper acted, the Robertson county (Tenn.) draft board had served notice to him that it would induct no more men into the armed services "until the government takes some action to settle this question of strikes."

Strong Pressure on Lewis

Strong pressure on Mr. Lewis to call off the strike was seen by some members of Congress in the pending anti-strike legislation. They said it must be obvious to him and to other labor leaders that legislation distasteful to organized labor could not be headed off if the coal miners continue their work stoppage.

By a vote of 133 to 37, the House refused today to kill the Smith-Connally bill which it is debating and may bring to a vote tomorrow.

During the debate, Rep. Whittington (D-Miss) accused Mr. Lewis of hating President Roosevelt "with such vehemence" that "his patriotism has been destroyed."

"In a contest between labor and the government, I stand for government,' Rep. Whittington shouted.

Mr. Lewis also was criticized in the Senate by Senator Wagner (D-NY), author of the National Labor

JUN -4 1943

Relations act and recognized as one of organized labor's staunchest supporters among the national legislators.

Though he did not call Mr. Lewis' name, Senator Wagner said a labor leader had uttered "a cruel blasphemy of the most sacred rights of free labor" in citing the National Labor Relations act in justification of a "most irresponsible and disastrous" work stoppage.

Mr. Lewis had declared yesterday that the War Labor board's order for a cessation of collective bargaining in the coal case until the strike ended was "a malicious, interfering, and illegal" action in conflict with the Wagner act.

Meets Labor Leaders

During the day, President Roosevelt met with the A.F.L.-C.I.O. Labor War board, composed of William Green, president of the A.F.L.; Philip Murray, president of the C.I.O.; Julius Emspak, secretary-treasurer of the C.I.O. Electrical Workers union; R. J. Thomas, president of the C.I.O. Automotive Workers union, and George Meany, A.F.L. secretary.

There was speculation that this was intended to line up labor elements other than the U.M.W. behind the President's contemplated action in the coal case. Members of the group said, however, that their discussions were confined to operations of price controls.

Authoritative sources described yesterday's White House conference involving Secretary Ickes and the War Labor board as primarily to settle a dispute between Secretary Ickes, on the one hand, and members of the WLB on the other.

Secretary Ickes, who as fuel administrator has been given the job of running the mines for the government, was reported to have desired that the mines be offered a temporary payment of $1 a day for underground travel as part of a Presidential order for them to return to work.

The Labor board members opposed any concessions while a strike is in progress and won the President to their view, it was said.

The question of pay for underground travel is now the central issue in the wage controversy. Mr. Lewis offered earlier this week to accept $1.50 a day under a temporary arrangement whereby the final amount would be determined by a commission. The operators rejected this offer.

President Roosevelt's instructions that Secretary Ickes operate the mines under terms of the old contract, plus new conditions approved by the War Labor board, means a slight financial gain immediately for miners who return to their jobs.

The board directed in its May 25 order that the operators bear the cost of certain equipment which the miners heretofore have paid for. It estimated this meant a savings of 7 to 15 cents a day to affected miners.

The President's order also means the increase from $20 to $50 in payments in lieu of vacation becomes effective without further delay.

UNITY ACHIEVED AS FRENCH SET UP NEW REGIME

De Gaulle and Giraud Create National Committee of Liberation.

TO GOVERN FREED TERRITORIES

Catroux Is Made Governor of Algeria and New Air Force Chiefs Are Appointed.

Algiers, June 3 (A. P.).—The French Executive Committee was formally brought into existence today and was given the name of the National Committee of Liberation.

The committee's personnel is the same as previously agreed upon. Gen. Henri Giraud and Gen. Charles de Gaulle are joint heads, to preside alternately. The committee was formally declared to be the governing body of all liberated French territory.

In addition to the Generals de Gaulle and Giraud, the National Committee of Liberation is composed of Gen. Alphonse George and Jean Monnet, selected by Gen. Giraud; Rene Massigli and Andre Philip, selected by Gen. de Gaulle, and Gen. Georges Catroux, accepted by both Gen. Giraud and Gen. de Gaulle.

Catroux Is Made Governor.

Gen. Catroux, who had served as liaison officer between Gen. Giraud and Gen. de Gaulle, was appointed successor to Marcel Peyrouton as Governor-General of Algeria, and was also placed in charge of Moslem affairs throughout the French Empire.

The committee also voted to remove Gen. Jean Mendigal as chief of the French Air Force in North Africa, appointing Gen. Bouscat to succeed him.

It voted the removal of Gen. Jean Marie Bergeret as commander of the French West African Air Force.

[At New York today the Free French Press and Information Service announced that Gen. Joseph Vuillemin, former commander of the French Air Force, has offered his services to Gen. de Gaulle and has been appointed commander of the bombing Group Bretagne, now operating from Tunisian bases, with the rank of lieutenant-colonel, that which normally goes with the post of group commander in the Fighting French Air Force.]

Giraud's Command in Question.

Whether Gen. Giraud is to remain commander in chief is scheduled to be decided tomorrow.

It was understood that Gabriel Puaux, former High Commissioner in Syria, would succeed Gen. Auguste Nogues as Resident-General of French Morocco.

The formal launching of the new regime was announced by Gen. de Gaulle to newspaper correspondents at his headquarters tonight.

"The committee was constituted this morning with Gen. Giraud and myself as presidents," he said. "It forms the French central power; it directs all French forces in every sovereignty in French territory and directs the war effort."

Details of the compromise arrived at between Gen. de Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud on the former's demand for a purge of officials formerly of pro-Vichy tendencies were revealed by well-informed persons who cannot be identified by name. Gen. de Gaulle had insisted that the housecleaning take place before the committee was formally established, they said, while Gen. Giraud demanded that the committee be set up first, and that the committee itself then consider each case on its merits.

These persons said that Gen. de Gaulle had yielded to Gen. Giraud's demand for selection of the committeee first, and that it was agreed that the consideration of individual cases would begin immediately. The names on Gen. de Gaulle's ouster list would be taken up in turn and Gen. de Gaulle was assured that no meeting would be held without dismissing at least one official, it was said.

Point of Moral Influence.

The Fighting French leader was said to have had fifteen names on his No. 1 ouster list, including M. Peyrouton and Gen. Nogues and Pierre Boisson, Governor-General of West Africa; Gen. Jean Marie Bergeret, commander of the French West African Air Force, and Gen. Rene Prioux of Gen. Giraud's General Staff. He wants to see these go first.

Then he has List No. 2 and List No. 3 and possibly others. These contain the names of others he considers less important offenders.

Gen. de Gaulle's view is that the committee will have no moral influence unless it cleans out those officials whom he described as not worthy to lead the French in war. It is known that he was displeased by Gen. Giraud's appointment yesterday of Vice-Admiral Emile Muselier as Deputy Commander in Chief in charge of Public Order in the Algiers area, but it is not yet known whether he has added Admiral Muselier's name to his ouster lists.

FRENCH FORM NEW COUNCIL TO FIGHT AXIS

Create Committee Of National Liberation Under De Gaulle And Giraud

Tension At Algiers Relieved—U. S. Envoy Applauds Unity

JUN -4 1943 KENNEDY

[By the Associated Press]

Algiers, June 3—A "French Committee of National Liberation," headed jointly by Gens. Charles de Gaulle and Henri Giraud, was established formally today to "pursue the war at the side of the Allies until total victory over all enemy powers," including Japan.

Formation of this strong central authority to oppose Pierre Laval's Axis-committed regime and to rally the French masses awaiting an Allied invasion of Europe came after almost seven months' patient effort to bring the two French groups under a single banner.

Tension Disappearing

Signs of tension began disappearing here immediately, replaced by a new spirit of conciliation in all official quarters. Enthusiastic demonstrations occurred as the news spread.

"A baby has been born," exclaimed Robert Murphy, American minister. "I'm delighted with it. It fulfills all our hopes and there is no doubt that there is sincerity in all quarters."

The seven-man committee, which is to be expanded to nine, will direct the French war effort until France is freed and able to elect its own leaders.

Other Members Listed

Besides the co-presidents Giraud and de Gaulle, the other committeemen are: Gen. Alphonse J. Georges and Jean Monnet, named by Giraud; Rene Massigli and Andre Philip, appointed by de Gaulle, and Gen. Georges Catroux, named by both presidents.

A French communique described the committee as "a servant of the French people," made public a number of personnel changes, and said:

"The committee will pursue in close cooperation with all the Allies the common fight with a view to bringing about the complete liberation of all French and Allied territories, and until total victory over all enemy powers has been achieved."

Will Help Whip Japan

Committee members said this program included French cooperation to defeat Japan.

At today's session de Gaulle was understood to have subscribed entirely to Giraud's expressed conviction, made in a letter to the Fighting French leader yesterday, that the purpose of the new body was not to build up the personal power of any individual or set up a system which might lead to a totalitarian regime.

One of the committee's first acts was to make a series of changes in French official posts.

Catroux Elevated

General Catroux was named governor-general of Algeria, replacing the resigned Marcel Peyrouten. Catroux also will direct Moslem affairs throughout the empire.

Gabriel Puaux, former high commissioner in Syria, was named resident-general of Morocco, succeeding Gen. Auguste Nogues.

General Bouscat was appointed commander of French air forces in north and west Africa, telescoping posts held respectively by Gen. Jean Mendigal and Gen. Jean Marie Bergeret. Mendigal was retired, and the future status of Bergeret was not immediately made known.

Giraud's Status

Whether Giraud will remain commander in chief of the French military is to be decided at a session tomorrow, it was said.

Political quarters said Vice-Admiral Emile Muselier, who was appointed by Giraud yesterday as his deputy and charged with maintaining public order in the Algiers area, would be relieved of his two-day-old job, now that the executive committee has become an actuality and tension has given way to conciliation.

Rene Massigli provisionally was designated to handle foreign affairs, and it was this committeeman who notified the American and British ministers here of the creation of the new central authority which will set up ministries shortly but does not pretend to be a French government.

De Gaulle and Giraud representatives jointly will deliver messages from the committee to the State Department in Washington and the British Foreign Office in London.

Provisions Stated

These messages outline in great detail the provisions which were stated in the French communique as follows:

"The committee will hand over its power to a provisional government which will be constituted according to the laws of the French Republic as soon as the liberation of France will permit it, and not later than at the time of the total liberation of France.

"The committee takes a solemn oath to reestablish all French liberties and laws of the French Republic and a republican form of Government, destroying at the same time the arbitrary power and personal leadership which today is inflicted upon the country."

Frenchmen were asked to follow the committee's guidance so that "France shall be able to find again through victory its liberties, its greatness, and its traditional place among the great Allied nations, and bring at the peace conference its contribution to the council of United Nations which will then determine the conditions of Europe and the world."

General de Gaulle said he and Giraud would make public, tomorrow, further details of the new organization.

Text of French Statement

Following is the text of the Algiers communiqué announcing the formation of the French Committee of National Liberation, as broadcast yesterday by the British Broadcasting Corporation in the French language to Europe and recorded by the United States Federal Communications Commission:

JUN -4 1943.

The Committee of National Liberation is constituted. It is comprised of Generals Giraud and de Gaulle as presidents, General Catroux, General Georges, MM. René Massigli, Jean Monnet and André Philip as members.

Secondly: The committee nomnated General Catroux, Commissioner for Coordination of Moslem Affairs.

Thirdly: The committee designated General Catroux Commissioner of Moslem Affairs, as Governor General of Algeria.

Fourthly: The committee decided upon the nomination of General Bouscat as commande of air forces in North Africa and in French West Africa, replacing General Mendigal, who had already resigned by an earlier decision of the Commander in Chief.

Generals de Gaulle and Giraud as presidents, General Catroux, General Georges, MM. René Massigli, Jean Monnet and André Philip, as members, constitute the French Committee of National Liberation. It will later be completed by the addition of other members.

The so-constituted committee is the French central power. The committee directs the French effort in the war in all forms and in all places. As a result it exercises French sovereignty on all territories placed beyond the enemies' power. It assures the administration and defense of all French interests in the world. It assumes authority over the territory, and the land, naval and air forces which have up to the present time been under the authority of either the French National Committee or under the civilian and military Commander in Chief.

All the measures necessary to a realization of the fusion of the administrations of these two organizations will be taken by the committee without delay. In conformity with the letters exchanged between Generals Giraud and de Gaulle, the committee will turn over its powers to the temporary government which will be constituted in conformity with the laws of the Third Republic as soon as the liberation of the metropolitan territory permits it, and, at the latest, at the total liberation of France.

The committee will continue, in close cooperation with all the Allies, the common fight with a view to the integral liberation of the French territories and the Allied territories until the final victory over all the enemy powers. The committee solemnly commits itself to reestablish all the French liberties, the laws of the republic and the republican regime, completely destroying the arbitrary regime and the personal power that is imposed on the country today.

The committee wishes to serve the people of France, for whom the war effort, the resistance, the trials, as well as the necessary renovation, require unity of all national forces. It calls all Frenchmen to follow it, so that France may take again in battle and in victory her liberty and her greatness and her traditional place among the great Allied powers, and so that in the peace negotiations she may bring her contribution to the council of the United Nations, which will determine the conditions of Europe and the world after the war.

Details Of De Gaullist Deal With Peyrouton Disclosed

Official's Resignation Less Of A Fighting French Victory Than At First Supposed, Kennedy Writes

JUN -4 1943

By EDWARD KENNEDY

[Associated Press Correspondent]

Algiers, June 3—The resignation of Marcel Peyrouton as Governor General of Algeria was less of a victory for Gen. Charles de Gaulle than represented in some quarters at first.

I learned today what actually happened.

Realizing that he was bound to be sacrificed to appease de Gaulle's purge demands, Peyrouton was ready to resign and desired to do so before being ousted, and on the best possible terms.

Advice To Peyrouton

Shortly after de Gaulle's arrival, two men, who convinced him they were close to de Gaulle, called on Peyrouton and said, in effect:

"Now is the opportunity to make your peace with de Gaulle. Resign to him humbly, beg to be reduced to your status as a mere reserve captain of colonial infantry, go through a purgatorial period and you will come out on top, Peyrouton."

This made good sense to him and he followed their advice. He resigned to de Gaulle, the man who wanted to get him. As a courtesy, he also resigned to Giraud, the man who had appointed him. But he sent his resignation to Giraud some hours after he sent it to de Gaulle.

Not Close To De Gaulle

Now, the men who had approached Peyrouton were adherents of de Gaulle, but not very close to him. They were in his movement, but not his confidants. Their real aim was to have the office vacated because they had a candidate of their own for the job.

Suddenly de Gaulle received the resignation of one of the men he had set out to get. He accepted it immediately and ordered Peyrouton to Syria. In good faith, he sent copies of Peyrouton's resignation and his acceptance to Giraud. For de Gaulle it was a victory, for he knew nothing of the activities of the two men who had talked Peyrouton into resigning.

De Gaulle's press agents, being livelier than Giraud's, decided they might as well make the most of this triumph. They summoned correspondents shortly before midnight and gave them the texts of the exchanges, with a "voila."

Some correspondents immediately interpreted it as meaning that de Gaulle had "achieved mastery of the political situation."

It was late at night, but not too late for the staff of Giraud to take action when, shortly after they received the resignation and acceptance from de Gaulle, there came Peyrouton's resignation to Giraud.

Giraud Letter Published

Giraud's press agents did not summon the correspondent. They merely achieved publication in the local press, not of the Peyrouton letter of resignation to de Gaulle but of his letter to Giraud; not of de Gaulle's reply, but of Giraud's.

The letters of resignation were almost identical, save that in the one to Giraud, Peyrouton expressed his thanks for having been appointed. The acceptances differed in that de Gaulle ordered Peyrouton to Syria immediately. Giraud asked him to hold on to his job for the time being.

Peyrouton took Giraud's order. At last reports he was still holding on.

Complete mastery of the political situation still was a point at issue.

WARSHIPS SINK AXIS VESSELS CLOSE TO ITALY

Allied Naval Force Bags Two Merchant Ships and a Destroyer.

ACTION OFF TOE OF BOOT

Rome Reports Pantelleria Is Shelled Anew—Planes Bomb Stronghold.

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, June 3 (A. P.).—Allied destroyers sank two Axis merchant vessels and an escorting torpedo boat and drove an enemy destroyer ashore burning Tuesday night in an attack on a convoy off Capo Spartivento, Italy, it was announced today.

Capo Spartivento is at the toe of Italy. The daring Allied naval attack struck at the heart of Italy's sea communications in defiance of the Italian fleet.

Together with two naval bombardments this week of Pantelleria, it indicated that in Italy's southern waters the Allies have achieved naval supremacy to match their air supremacy.

The Italians are dependent on the Strait of Messina between Sicily and the toe of the Italian mainland to sail cargo ships between the west and east coasts. Capo Spartivento stands at the southern approach to the Strait of Messina.

Planes Blast Islands.

In the air war, American planes raided Pantelleria and the southwest coast of Sardinia yesterday without loss of a single plane.

The naval blow off Capo Spartivento like the two naval bombardments of Pantelleria was accomplished without loss of a single ship.

"Our force suffered no casualties or damage," said a communique issued from the headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander in chief.

One of the sunken merchant vessels blew up after being set afire by the destroyers' guns, the bulletin said. Among the attacking force was one vessel of the Royal Greek Navy.

Pantelleria Bombed Again.

United States war planes swept over Pantelleria almost at will yesterday, blowing up one building in the port area and damaging others, and shot up radio installations and bivouacked troops in southern Sardinia.

Marauders, Lightnings and Warhawks maintained the merciless air offensive against Mussolini's fortified rock forty-five miles east of the tip of Cape Bon Peninsula. Warhawks made the attack on southern Sardinia and San Antioco, off its southwest coast. The operations were carried out without loss of any of the Allied planes, the announcement said.

From their desert hideouts R. A. F. long-range fighters swept over the Ægean Sea yesterday, sinking two small sailing vessels at anchor in an island harbor and damaging a third by cannon fire, a Middle East air communique added. The bulletin said the crew of the latter vessel was observed to abandon the ship. All planes returned.

SUFFER NO CASUALTIES

Daring Attack Pressed Home in Straits Near Cape Spartivento.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 3—(AP) Striking at the heart of Italy's sea communications, daring British and Greek destroyers attacked an enemy convoy off Capo Spartivento at the toe of the Italian boot Tuesday night and ripped it to shreds without themselves suffering either casualties or damage.

In defiance of the big guns of the Italian fleet, the straight-shooting Allied warships wiped out two Axis merchant vessels and an escorting torpedo boat and sent an enemy destroyer aground, burning fiercely. One Greek destroyer participated in the attack.

Gain Naval Superiority

Smashing of the Italian Coastal convoy, coming on the heels of two heavy bombardments of Pantelleria island by British warships, indicated that the Allies have gained naval supremacy in Italy's southern waters to match their domination of the air over the Mediterranean. In raids on Pantelleria and the southwest coast of Sardinia yesterday American air forces from North Africa did not lose a single plane.

Capo Spartivento, where the enemy convoy was ambushed, stands at the southern approach to the strait of Messina, the narrow passageway between Sicily and the Italian mainland through which all shipping between the Italian east and west coasts must thread its way.

Particulars of the one-sided engagement remained to be told. A communique from the headquarters of General Dwight D. Eisenhower disclosed only the extent of the enemy's losses and the remarkable fact that the victory was achieved without the loss of a ship or injury to an Allied crewman.

Ship Explodes

One of the sunken Axis merchant ships, the communique said, blew up after being set afire by guns of the Allied destroyers.

American bombers, meantime, swept over Pantelleria almost at will, attacking the island's battered military targets in continuation of the merciless air offensive against the Axis underside.

Warhawks dived low to attack communication lines along roads between the southern Sardinian towns of Teulada and Sarroch and then sped on to machinegune radio equipment, soldiers and barracks at San Antioco off the southwest coast of Sardinia.

The weakened condition of Axis air forces in the Mediterranean was graphically illustrated when not a single enemy fighter rose to oppose the attacks either on Pantelleria or Sardinia.

R. A. F. Sinks Two Vessels

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 3 (AP)—Operating from bases in the Middle East, Royal Air Force long-range fighters made another sweep over the Aegean Sea yesterday, sinking two small sailing vessels in an island harbor and damaging a third. The planes returned safely.

Two Allied Destroyers Sink Four Axis Vessels Off Italy

British And Greeks Annihilate Entire Convoy Without Casualties Or Damage To Themselves

JUN -4 1943

By PAUL KERN LEE

(Associated Press Correspondent)

In the Central Mediterranean, June 2 (Delayed) — British and Greek destroyers teamed up today for a blow at Axis shipping, sinking two merchantmen and two destroyers off Cape Spartivento on the toe of the Italian boot, and then steamed home without so much as having the paint scratched.

The entire action took less than thirty-five minutes.

With the Italy-to-Sicily ferry rail system smashed and disorganized by Allied air raids the only way open for the Italians to supply Sicily remains by sea from the southern Italian toe ports to the east Sicilian area.

The British navy has successfully determined to close this route as well. I have made trips along the Sicilian and Italian shores on such missions, but in the words of one naval officer found "not a single sausage," as the Italians apparently stayed ashore.

Convoy Spotted

But early today one British and one Greek destroyer hit the jackpot. Nosing along the shore they spotted a convoy of two small merchantmen, one seagoing destroyer and one smaller torpedo-boat-type destroyer, which the Italian navy much favors.

The British destroyer in the lead set the bigger of the two merchantmen afire with a single salvo and did the same to the smaller ship a few minutes later, then turned to pursue the escorts, which started making smoke and tried to get away in the misty morning darkness.

"They were westbound, apparently toward Sicily, when we found them between us and the shore," said the first lieutenant of the leading destroyer. "We decided to wing each one before finishing any of them off lest some of them escape."

Greeks Fire Salvo

The Greek destroyer following the British pumped a salvo into the burning merchantman and then another into the smaller merchantman, which finished her off almost instantly.

The bigger Italian destroyer was fleeing at the rate of about thirty knots, but the British destroyer slowed her with direct hits and the Greek followed with shots that stopped her. At this moment the smaller torpedo-boat-type appeared out of the mist not much more than 1,000 yards away, speeding in the opposite direction toward the Allied craft. Both attacking ships immediately fired.

"We really mashed that little fellow," said one officer. "We fired everything except the bridge machine guns and we might have fired them if we had thought of it. Personally, I suspect we might have been able to lob a depth charge onto her, though it certtainly was not needed. She was just outright destroyed."

Big Destroyer Grounded

Allied ships then finished off the bigger merchantman, which exploded, and drove the bigger Italian destroyer aground, blazing so fiercely she was obviously ruined forever.

The ships were too close inshore to attempt the rescuing of survivors, although there were many in the water, and officers said that any reasonably strong swimmer could obviously get ashore so that they were sure that many had saved themselves. Some Italians, notably from the smaller escort, dove overboard before their ship was hit.

The battle, even more clearly than the night and day bombardments of Pantelleria, demonstrated the increasing Allied control of the Mediterranean's narrowest waters. The destroyers were shadowed home by Axis aircraft, but none dared to come closer than three miles.

WAR MAY END SOON, HE SAYS

Hinges On 4 Issues Which May Be Settled In Next Four Months, Briton Asserts

Nazis Reported Working To Bolster Weakened Defenses In Balkans

JUN -4 1943

(By the Associated Press)

London, June 3—New optimism that the next few crucial months may speed the Axis downfall was expressed in Britain today as Allied reports represented the Germans working to bolster Balkan defense walls weakened by the dynamite and rifles of guerrillas.

"The end of the war may be much closer than some of us imagine," the Earl of Selborne, Minister of Economic Warfare, told a civic meeting at East Sheen. The war hinges on four issues which may be decided in the next four months, he said, and "if we do well in all of them" the war may end rapidly.

Issues Are Listed

The issues, he continued, were the battkle of the Atlantic, the "impending German attack in Russia," the Allied invasion of the Continent and the Allied bombing offensive now under way.

At the same time a warning to the French to be careful of invasion rumors was broadcast by the BBC.

A speaker identified only as a high British officer advised the French that rumors of Allied landings "might deliberately by spread by the Germans in the hope that the elements of resistance would be disclosed."

"The day will come when the armies of liberation will need the active help of the French people," he concluded.

Report From Madrid

From Madrid came the opinion that Berlin might not launch an offensive against Russia this summer but would concentrate instead upon British shipping.

The submarine campaign against the United Nations, the dispatch quoting the morning paper ABC said, "may be one explanation of the insistent rumors from Berlin itself that there will be no (German) offensive on the eastern front this summer but that all efforts will be directed against the maritime communications of Great Britain."

Nazi Concern Over Balkans

Meanwhile, Axis concern with another sector of its defense appeared in the Tass (Russian) report that Field Marshal General Siegmund Wilhelm List, Nazi lightning war expert, had been transferred from Russia to the Balkans.

The report said he was joining Heinrich Himmler, German police chief, and Marshal Erwin Rommel, former commander of the African army.

Marshal List knows the area well, having led the invasion of Yugoslavia, Greece and Crete in the spring of 1941.

The German task was complicated by the armed resistance of Yugoslav guerrilla armies. The Morocco radio, recorded by the Associated Press, said the fighting was daily becoming more violent. Bloody battles were reported from Bosnia, Hercegovina and Croatia, where the Yugoslavs were reported to have captured heavy artillery and tanks.

4 Axis Tankers Sunk

Using armed speedboats, troops of Gen. Draja Mihailovic have sunk four tankers laden with oil for Germany and two tugs, the Algiers radio said. Railway traffic was reported paralyzed on several lines linking Austria, Hungary and Greece after bridges were destroyed last week, the radio said.

A Tass dispatch from Geneva reported that German troops in northern France and Belgium were removing all highway signs, putting up new markings in code.

AXIS HAS LOST 13,744 PLANES

Allied Toll For War Is Only 9,358, British Magazine Aeroplane Reports

Operational Bomber Power Of Germans Estimated At No More Than 2,000

JUN -4 1943

(By the Associated Press)

London, June 3 — Axis plane losses from the start of the war to the end of May are nearly fifty per cent. higher than those of the United Nations, the British magazine Aeroplane reported today.

The figures, which exclude those from the Russian front, show that 13,744 Axis planes have been knocked out of the sky as compared to Allied losses of 9,358 for the same period.

The Allied margin over the Axis was maintained throughout May despite the heavy emphasis on aerial attack, British Air Ministry figures showed. United Nations losses for May in the home, Middle East, North African and India-Burma operations totaled 444 against 525 Axis planes destroyed.

Nazi Bomber Strength

Aeroplane estimates the operational-bomber strength of the Germans on all fronts is not over 2,000 planes and that if they all could be thrown into the air at once they could carry only 4,500 tons of bombs. Last week alone the RAF dropped nearly 7,500 tons of bombs on German targets.

The Air Ministry also announced in its May roundup of RAF activities that the mine-laying division was responsible for the destruction of ten enemy ships, including the 18,160-ton German liner Gneisenau. The Gneisenau, the report said, struck a mine in the Baltic at the end of April and was now beached and lying on her side.

Other Ships Destroyed

Other enemy shipping destroyed by mines included two mine sweepers, a motor vessel and six steamers.

Figures released by the British Information Service showed that American squadrons based on the British Isles have destroyed 914 Axis planes since American entry into the war.

May losses as summarized by the Air Ministry follow:

Home—316 planes lost, 132 enemy planes destroyed.

Middle East—Six planes lost, 40 enemy planes destroyed.

North Africa—108 Allied planes lost, 337 enemy planes destroyed.

India and Burma—14 Allied planes lost, 16 Japanese planes destroyed.

30 U-Boats Sunk In May

The Daily Mail said in a front-page story tonight that more than thirty Axis submarines were sunk in the Atlantic during May by sea and air attacks.

It said the total was confirmed by a detailed check of all reports and figures available in London and Washington.

Five Reported Saved at Sea From Leslie Howard's Plane

JUN -4 1943

Lisbon, June 3 (A. The survivors were taken from a rubber life raft, Rome said. They were not immediately identified.

[A Madrid dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio, and picked up by the Associated Press, said that the Spanish fishing steamship Evaristo Nunez had picked up six British airmen whose machine had been shot down shortly before. Whether their craft was a passenger liner or combat plane was not specified. # London Hope For Air-Liner Survivors Grows Dimmer

Pays Little Attention To Axis Reports That Some Shot Down By Nazis Were Saved

JUN -4 1943

[By the Associated Press]

London, June 3—Except for one wholly unconfirmed Axis radio report of rescue, hope waned today for possible survivors of the missing Lisbon-to-London air liner which was attacked by a Nazi sky raider Tuesday over the Bay of Biscay.

Dispatches from Madrid said the Spanish destroyer Melilla had returned to El Ferrol naval base after a futile twenty-four-hour search of the sea where the air liner was lost with thirteen passengers including Leslie Howard, actor, and a Dutch crew of four.

The commercial transport was about 200 miles off the Spanish coast when it radioed at 11 A. M. submarine patrol over the Bay of Biscay yesterday.

A German intimation that the air liner had been escorted by bombers was officially denied today by the British Embassy and Netherlands legation.

Meanwhile, it was reported that the Government may try to obtain a Portuguese ship to bring more than seventy-five British children to Britain from Lisbon.

The children, returning from Canada and the United States, have been flying a few at a time as space could be found for them in the planes leaving Lisbon.

Believed After Churchill.

London, June 3 (A. P.).—The belief prevailed in some quarters here today that the Germans were gunning for Prime Minister Churchill when they shot down the airliner which left Lisbon on Tuesday with Leslie Howard and twelve other passengers.

Reports said that there was a greater concentration of Nazi planes over the Bay of Biscay—where the liner was last heard from while under attack—than at any time in many months, and they were said to be pouncing on every aircraft they spotted. It could be assumed, observers believed, that the Germans were after Mr. Churchill, believing he might be coming home from Washington via that route.

German-controlled radio stations had put out various stories in the last week about the Prime Minister's whereabouts. On Sunday one Axis report said that he had been at Gibraltar for several hours. The next day a dispatch from La Linea, Spain, said that he had been reported "somewhere in Africa" after spending twenty-four hours at Gibraltar. The Axis assumption was, apparently, that he would return to England over the Bay of Biscay.

In addition to Mr. Howard and the liner's Dutch crew of four, the following were on board:

Mrs. Rotha Hutcheon and her daughters, Petra, 11 years old, and Caroline, aged 18 months. Mrs. Hutcheon was returning to England from Canada, where she had been living for the past two years, to join her husband, Lieut.-Col. A. G. Hutcheon of the British Army.

Alfred T. Chenhalls, 43, London accountant and company director, a friend of Mr. Howard.

Kenneth Stonehouse, Washington correspondent of Reuters news agency, and his wife.

Mrs. Cecilia Emilia Falls Paton.

Tyrell Shervington, a Shell company executive at Lisbon.

Ivan James Sharp, a London official of the United-Kingdom Corporation returning from a business mission in Portugal.

Francis German Cowlrick, returning from a business trip to Spain for a London engineering firm.

Gordon Thomas MacLean.

Wilfred Jacob Berthold Israel, a Londoner who had been in Portugal for several weeks.

Tonight the Dutch Government in Exile announced that the plane was a K. L. M. (Royal Dutch Airlines) craft flying in the British Overseas Airways service, a foreign source in London, with good continental connections, who cannot be identified by name.

Head of Dye Trust Flies to Spain to Escape Arrest by Gestapo

LONDON, June 3 (AP).—A foreign source with good underground connections reported today that Georg Von Schnitzler, head of the I. G. Farben Industrie dye trust in Germany, had fled by airplane to Spain.

This source, who may not be identified by name, reported that the German industrialist told Spanish authorities he had escaped Gestapo arrest by a few hours.

Schnitzler is related to German Field Marshal General Fedor Von Bock by marriage, the informant said. He added that Schnitzler was believed to be identified with the general in efforts to place the German high command in a dominant position in Germany, supplanting Hitler.

The informant said it was reported common talk in Berlin that Bock once more had been relieved of the Russian command.

JUN -4 1943

London, June 3 (A. P.).—A Tass dispatch from Istanbul said today Hitler had ordered Field Marshal Gen. Siegmund Wilhelm List back to the Balkans, apparently in an effort to tighten defenses and to quell defections among wavering satellite nations.

Gen. List, who led the invasion of Yugoslavia, Greece and Crete in the spring of 1941, was last reported to have replaced Field Marshal Gen. Fedor von Bock on the southern front in Russia. Tass said Gen. List was reported to have joined Heinrich Himmler, German police chief, and Marshal Erwin Rommel in the Balkans.

Gibraltar Clear of Ships.

Madrid, June 3 (A. P.).—Dispatches from La Linea said today that Gibraltar has been virtually cleared of Allied shipping.

Seventy merchantmen, including troop transports and tankers, passed through the Strait of Gibraltar from the Atlantic, en route to North Africa, at dawn yesterday, these advices said, while another convoy of sixty freighters, six tankers and one hospital ship left Gibraltar Harbor for the Mediterranean and North African ports.

No aircraft carriers or battleships, the dispatches said, now guard the rock. The harbor is more deserted than at any time during recent months, with scarcely a score of freighters, of which four are under repair at anchor there, it was reported.

2,000 Defenders Declared Slain By Shells, Bombs And Flame-Throwers

[By the Associated Press]

Stockholm, June 3 (AP) — Desperate Jews, defending themselves at barricades in a pitched battle that lasted three weeks, killed 300 Germans and wounded more than 2,000 when German elite troops sought to liquidate the Warsaw ghetto recently, a secret Polish radio station heard here said tonight.

The station, Radio SWIT, said the action began April 12 when the Germans marched on the 35,000 Jews still left of the original 400,000 crowded in the walled ghetto.

Fought At Barricades

The Jews fought at the barricades until April 24. Then street and house fighting began as the Germans pressed in with the aid of artillery, machine-guns, flame-throwers and even light bombing planes, the broadcast said.

Blocks of buildings were blown sky high by mines. Sections of the Ghetto were set afire.

But even after water, gas and electricity were shut off, the Jews continued to defend themselves.

Two thousand Jews fell in the street fighting and 3,000 were killed by the fires, the report said. The Germans, finally winning out, deported 14,000 to the East.

Broadcast Recalled

It was the same station that on April 21 broadcast:

"The last 35,000 Jews in the Ghetto at Warsaw have been condemned to execution. Warsaw again is echoing to musketry volleys.

"The people are murdered. Women and children defend themselves with their naked arms.

"Save us. . . ."

The station then suddenly went dead.

Its broadcast heard tonight said that during the fighting three train loads of Jews arrived in Galicia from Bulgaria, where anti-Jewish action is in full swing. They were headed in the direction of Treblinka in southeast Poland, known as "the hangman's city."

40,000 Slain Or Deported

Rabbi Irving Miller, of New York, secretary general of the World Jewish Congress, asserted in London May 14 that 40,000 Jews had been murdered or forcibly removed from the Warsaw ghetto in the preceding ten days.

He said the action was taken when the Jews revolted against inhuman treatment and killed sixty German officers and men.

[By the Associated Press]

London, Friday, June 4—The Red army has sprung a new offensive near Temryuk on the Sea of Azov in an effort "to split German forces" clinging to the Kuban bridgehead, but has not achieved any "lasting success," the Berlin radio said last night.

A Tass report quoted dispatches from the front as saying that air forces of both sides were making "thousands of flights per day" in accelerated sky fighting over the Caucasus, but there were few Soviet details on the land struggle.

"Fighting Continued"

Moscow's midnight bulletin recorded early tolay by the Soviet monitor used the week-old phrase, "fighting continued," to describe operations on the Taman peninsula between Novorossisk on the Black Sea coast and Temryuk on the Sea of Azov.

German broadcasts recorded by the Associated Press said the attack on Temryuk, on the German left flank, was launched without any cessation in Red army attacks on Krimskaya, a point between Temryuk and Novorossisk.

"This is meant to be not only a diversion, but aims to split the German forces."

Break Through Admitted

It is in this area that the German radio twenty-four hours ago acknowledged that "weak remnants" of Soviet forces had broken through to the Sea of Azov in an obvious effort to seize this important point near the Kerch Strait, across which German supplies are ferried from the Crimea.

One German broadcast said Soviet airmen were repeatedly attacking the few supply roads leading back to the Kerch Strait, and also were strafing German cargo boats in the strait.

On land, Russian equipment and men were said to be "ten times superior" to those of the Germans. Berlin has stressed this purported Russian superiority, along with German supply difficulties, ever since the announcement a week ago of a big Russian push.

37 Planes Downed

A Soviet noon communique yesterday said thirty-seven German planes were shot down in the Kuban valley, and a Pravda correspondent at the front said the wreckage of dozens of enemy planes littered the foothills near Novorossisk and the swamps to the north.

But the heavy air action was not confined to the Caucasus. A Moscow broadcast said long-range Russian bombers flew 250 miles west of Kharkov in the Ukraine to raid Kiev Wednesday night, and also attacked Roslavl, a railway junction between Smolensk and Bryansk, on the central front.

"Many railway trains were smashed or set afire, and heavy explosions were observed," said the announcement. "All our planes except two returned to their bases."

Transport Sunk

In addition a transport and tug were sunk in the Gulf of Finland by Soviet airmen, the midnight communique said, and ships and aircraft combined to sink an enemy transport, mine sweeper and two patrol ships in the Barents Sea.

A German submarine and tanker were reported destroyed by the Soviet Black Sea fleet, presumably off German-held Novorossisk, where the fleet has been patrolling.

More than 550 Germans were declared slain in scattered fighting on the Smolensk, northwestern and Donets basin fronts during the day.

Air War Grows in Russia

500 Nazi Planes Attack Kursk—Foe Loses 185 Aircraft in Widespread Raids.

JUN -4 1943

Moscow, June 3 (A. P.).—A force of about 500 German planes attacked the Russian base at Kursk yesterday afternoon and at least 123 were shot down, the Russians announced today, signalizing a new and growing phase of the bitter aerial battle on the eastern front.

The Nazi air fleet represented the largest single mass the Germans have concentrated in any sector for months and their reported losses market one of the biggest single day's bags in any theater of aerial war.

A Moscow broadcast said ninety-three of the raiders were brought down by Soviet pilots in air duels and that anti-aircraft guns shot down thirty more, after some planes got through to the city "and haphazardly dropped bombs which inflicted material damage and casualties."

The Russians said they lost thirty planes and declared the tally of Nazi victims was incomplete.

[The Soviet noon communique as recorded by the London Soviet radio monitor said thirty-seven German planes were shot down in the Kuban valley northeast of Novorossisk yesterday. Land action was minor except on the Kalinin front, where 2,000 Germans were killed in a two-day battle after a thrust that temporarily dented Russian defenses, the war bulletin said. It also announced that three towns were taken by the Russians in fighting around Sevsk, eighty miles northwest of Kursk.

[The Russian communique announced three towns were recaptured by the Russians in fighting around Sevsk, eighty miles northwest of Kursk.]

Kursk Is Key City.

Kursk was recaptured by the Russians in their winter offensive last February 8, along with Belgorod, eighty miles south. Its capture preceded the winning of Kharkov, 120 miles south. When the Germans surged back into the Donets valley in mid-March they were unable to regain Kursk, although they took Kharkov and Belgorod and fanned down the curve of the Donets River to the southeast.

The area is a key to the swaying battle for the Ukraine and the Donets Basin. From it the Germans launched last summer the drive that carried to Stalingrad.

Both sides have huge forces marshaled in the region and the strength of the sky forces was held here to be a matching of power in an effort to gain air supremacy before any far-reaching land battle begins.

Smolensk Hit by Reds.

The Russians, still held off at Smolensk, battered that railway junction from the air Tuesday night and also hit rail stations and ammunition dumps at Karachev and Krasny Bor, it was announced.

Elsewhere on the aerial front, the midnight communique said, twenty-five German planes were shot down in attempted raids on Leningrad, while the Pravda correspondent reported "thousands of flights take place daily" in the Kuban Valley area.

Meantime, reports from the Baltic Red Navy fleet said increased activity was welcomed by the submarine and mine sweeping crews, ice bound through the winter, and that the fleet itself was going to sea with new types of equipment furnished by the Allies.

Quadruple anti-aircraft gun batteries are one new feature, it was said. The Red battleship October Revolution is one craft thus equipped. The weapons came without accompanying instructions, the Soviet sailors assembled the guns, and they now are being used effectively against Nazi raiders, it was reported.

The mine sweeper crews call the Baltic "Soup With Kletzki"—soup with meat balls, in reference to the number of mines floating in its water.

Swedish Marvel Can't Run in U.S. Before July 1

Sail Ending Tuesday Has Hardened Legs, Increased Weight

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, June 3.—American track fans, impatient for a glimpse of the running form Gunder Haegg, Sweden's sensational distance performer, will have to be patient about a month longer. The record-smashing athlete won't be able to make his United States debut before July 1.

He is scheduled to arrive in New Orleans aboard the tanker Saturnus next Tuesday, but it will take him three weeks to lose his sea legs, which means he will miss the AAU championships in New York June 19 and 20.

Trip Hardens Haegg's Legs.

The long ocean voyage had hardened Haegg's springy leg muscles and caused him to gain weight, a correspondent of the Aftonbladet accompanying the runner reports.

Haegg was just rounding into condition after a winter layoff when he departed May 11 from Gothenburg after plans to make the trip by airplane fell through at the last minute. The tedious trip aboard the tanker has set him back.

"My condition is getting worse daily," he told the Aftonbladet correspondent.

The Saturnus encountered stormy weather the first three days and Haegg got little exercise. After that he began running two hours daily, with hourly morning and afternoon sessions on deck. One day he ran 3,000 meters in 10 minutes.

Picks Up Six Pounds.

The bobbing deck is a far cry from the springy turf, however, and Haegg's leg muscles, part of the secret of his speed, have suffered accordingly. He also has gained 6 pounds despite daily visits to the ship's steam bath.

Badminton, pistol shooting and other activities occupy the runner along with raising a beard. He and the correspondent have made a wager as to which will have the longest beard when they reach the United States.

Haegg said the first thing he planned to do when he reached New Orleans is to get a massage.

RED GIRL FLYER BAGS BALLOON

Moscow, June 3 (A. P.).—A Russian girl pilot, Junior Lieut. Lily Litviak, was credited today with destroying an observation balloon which was directing German artillery fire in the Kuban.

Other pilots had made five previous attempts to get the balloon.

CHINESE PUSH ENEMY ACROSS YANGTZE RIVER

Changyang and Chihkiang Fall as Drive Gains in Ichang Sector.

U. S. FLYERS PLAY BIG PART

Pound Jap Supply Lines, Sink Enemy River Boats and Bomb Airfields.

JUN -4 1943

Chungking, June 3 (A. P.).—Chinese troops have driven to the right bank of the Yangtze opposite Ichang in an air-supported counter-offensive against the Japanese and have surrounded 4,000 of the invaders farther down the great river, the High Command announced tonight.

A Chinese Army spokesman said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces yesterday recaptured the town of Changyang, twelve miles south of Ichang, and also occupied the port of Chihkiang, thirty-five miles downriver from that Japanese base.

The High Command issued a special communique to keep abreast of developments in the counter-thrusts against the routed enemy shock troops.. It said Chinese driving northward from Hunan Province crossed the border into southern Hupeh and surrounded Kungan, another of the bases for the abortive Japanese push against defenses of the upper Yangtze. Kungan lies seventy miles southeast of Ichang.

Japanese troops are being driven back toward the south bank of the river on the whole upper Yangtze front, the spokesman added.

A communique from the headquarters of Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell announced that ten counter-offensive blows were struck by the Fourteenth Air Force May 30 and 31 in support of the Chinese Army in the Lake Tungting area.

Jap Transportation Hit.

Liberator bombers were credited with destruction of twenty Japanese fighter planes and probable destruction of five during bombardment of Ichang air fields and Chinese fighter pilots led by Lieut.-Col. John Alison of Gainesville, Fla., destroyed three Zeros and probably wrecked three others.

At least five enemy planes were destroyed on the ground, a Japanese gunboat was set afire, four river boats were sunk or burned and the locomotives of four trains were knocked out. In addition, numerous casualties were inflicted on Japanese troops.

Two American planes were lost and several others were damaged.

Advance 20 Miles.

Recapture of Changyang represents an advance of about twenty miles for the Chinese troops since they regained Yuyangkwan last Saturday.

The occupation of Chihkiang, the spokesman said, menaced Japanese communications with Ichang. Japanese positions south of the Yangtze now form an arc extending from a point less than fifteen miles west of Ichang to Lihsien in Hunan province.

[The Tokio radio, in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press in London, quoted an official Jap statement today as saying that operations in central China had been "successfully concluded and all Japanese forces who participated have been brought back to their bases." The statement their bases."]

The military spokesman said that an important factor in the Chinese success was the "collaboration of the Chinese and American air forces, which have accomplished very much." The joint air forces, he declared, have subjected the enemy to very heavy attacks and have won complete control of the air.

The Chinese forces also received considerable help from puppet Chinese troops which the Japanese tried to employ, but from which full information was obtained concerning the enemy's strength, the spokesman asserted.

Gains in Other Sectors.

The major gains in the Ichang sector were coupled with Chinese advances across older battlefields both east and north of that menaced port, the High Command announced. Chinese troops yesterday captured the important town of Hwangmei, in eastern Hupeh province, twenty miles north of the Yangtze and 295 miles east of Ichang. About the same distance north of Ichang Chinese detachments in Shansi province checked the Japanese drive southward from points west of the Taiheng Mountains and counter-attacked. After losing more than 400 men, the Japanese were reported in retreat.

The Japs originally started the drive with between 70,00 and 80,000 troops, the spokesman said, but reinforcements from Hankow and Yochow brought their total to 100,000. He said the enemy's campaign was very well planned, but collapsed suddenly because the invaders committed the "tactical blunder" of allowing the Chinese to entice them into a mountainous area. What already is referred to as the "Chinese battle of Stalingrad" was fought around Shihpei, a strongly fortified area west of Ichang, where the defenders had orders to resist to the last. The Japanese were unable to use their tanks and big guns in the mountains and were placed at a "very great disadvantage," the Chinese spokesman said.

ALLIES RULE AIR

Aerial Supremacy Aids Chiang's Army in Routing Foe.

CHUNGKING, China, June 3—(AP) Supported by an American-Chinese air force which dominated the central China skies and was shooting Japanese planes down at the rate of 14 to 1, the Chinese armies swept tonight to the south bank of the Yangtze and were separated only by that great river from the main Japanese base of Ichang in Hupeh province.

Farther down the river, other Chinese troops were declared in a special communique of Chiang Kai Shek's command to have trapped 4,000 of the Japanese invaders—30,000 of whom were officially declared already to have fallen as casualties.

In yet another drive in the counter-offensive now throwing the Japanese back all along the upper Yangtze front, Chinese columns crossed into Hupeh from Hunan province, said the High Command, and surrounded the Japanese position of Kungan, this some 70 miles southeast of Ichang.

The main drive on Ichang, which had advanced 32 miles within less than a week, earlier had overrun and reoccupied the towns of Changyang and Chihkiang, respectively 12 and 35 miles south of that base.

So complete was American-Chinese mastery aloft that in two days Allied pilots had destroyed a minimum of 28 Japanese planes, and probably 36, against two Allied planes lost. American bombers got 20 Japanese planes in a single action.

Air Support Effective

This air support, the most effective ever given the Chinese armies, was carried on to cut up the retreating invader. On a single avenue of Japanese retreat, the road back from Changyang, Chinese dispatches estimated that Allied planes alone had killed more than 1,500 enemy troops struggling on the ground.

The enemy's behavior under this lethal fire convinced Allied airmen that this was his first real experience of heavy assault from the air.

Japanese communications to Ichang were in imminent danger; the city itself appeared directly threatened.

As dispatches from the front pictured unbroken Chinese successes in this great victory of six years of war in the China theater, the spokesman announced that 100,000 Japanese troops had been turned back in the battle and that of this number 30,000 had fallen as casualties.

Japs Able to Retreat

He pointed out, however, that five Japanese divisions, previously reported to have been encircled, had a line of retreat still open.

"The word encirclement has been interpreted in a liberal way. The Japanese were driven back along an arch shaped line. We did not mean they were being annihilated. They are being cut up and dispersed with smaller units being liquidated. The enemy moved back in confusion and disorder," he said.

He declared the Japanese campaign had utterly collapsed—the first "annihilating blow" having been delivered in what now is being called the Chinese battle of Stalingrad about the town of Shihpei west of Ichang where the enemy, under orders to resist to the end, had been unable to maneuver with his tanks and big guns and suffered a bloody defeat, which led to his collapse.

A great factor in these spreading victories, the spokesman went on, was "the collaboration of the Chinese and American air forces."

While the Chinese drove forward unhalted in the Ichang sector of the Yangtze, Chinese triumphs far to the east and north were announced also.

The important town of Hwangmei, in Hupeh province 295 miles to the east of Ichang, fell to Chinese arms, and in the sector some 300 miles north of Ichang the Chinese forces of Shansi province were declared to have broken Japanese attacks west of the Taiheng mountains and to be driving the invaders before them toward Linchwan in a counterattack.

Threat to Capital Erased

As to the critical battle for the upper Yangtze—a battle now regarded as brilliantly won—the Chinese spokesman declared that the feat of the American and Chinese air forces in holding the air had been a great factor in destroying what had initially been a Japanese threat to this capital of Chungking.

A communique from headquarters of the 14th U. S. air force told of 10 powerful blows struck against enemy suply lines, communications and troops on May 30 and 31 in the whole of the lake Tungting-Yangtze area.

These were the main results of these powerful assaults:

Ichang left alight with burning oil storage tanks in four attacks—one of them by Liberators—which destroyed enemy troop trucks and sprayed enemy artillery batteries with fragmentation bombs.

Four Japanese river boats knocked out, two set afire and two others in all probability sunk.

Twenty-eight Japanese planes certainly destroyed—five of them on the ground and a batch of 23 in a single raid on Ichang in what was officially called "a brilliant demonstration of aerial gunnery" from American bombers—and eight more in all probability.

Of the 23 definitely shot down in flames over Ichang, Chinese fighter pilots got three and American bombers no less than 20.

"Two planes are missing and several others sustained damage in these operations," said the American command in summing up. "All other aircraft returned safely to their bases."

The Japanese, although asserting that a Chinese army had been "annihilated," in a Tokyo broadcast obliquely employed the language of defeat, saying that Japanese operations in central China had been "successfully concluded and all Japanese forces who participated have been brought back to their bases."

Nazis Reported Seeking To Lure Mihailovic

Cario, June 3, (AP)—A last-minute rush of defense preparations in southeastern Europe has caused the Axis to jettison plans to obtain complete control over the Balkans, reports reaching here today said.

One source said the Germans had even attempted to parley with Mihailovic, offering him sovereignty of "independent" Yugoslovia in exchange for guaranteed passage of war materials and supplies for some seventeen Axis divisions in Greece.

So seriously did the Germans regard the guerrilla threat, this source said, that thirty divisions have been allocated to Yugoslavia to secure Axis positions.

Marine Wounded, Best Girl Wed To Another on Unlucky 13th

(The following story was written by Technical Sergeant Frank J. McDevitt, U. S. Marine Corps, and distributed by the Associated Press).

JUN -4 1943

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, May 13.—(Delayed)—It wasn't until recently that Platoon Sergeant Joseph Sciarra, U.S.M.C., Providence Rhode Island, began to realize that the number 13, was making itself rather conspicuous in his life.

On April 13, Sergeant Sciarra received a letter informing him that the reason he hadn't been hearing from his "best girl," was that she had married somebody else last August 13, to be exact. On that date, he recalled he was wounded by fragments of an enemy hand grenade that exploded near him during a Marine assault on Tulagi, in the Solomon islands.

Several months earlier, on May 13, he had been burned slightly in a gasoline flare-up, at a bivouac on a South Sea island.

Sergeant Sciarra, a raider, one of 13 children born to Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Sciarra, of Providence, left the United States for the Pacific war zone 13 months ago—on April 13, 1942.

He has been cited for bravery at Tulagi, when on August 7, 1942, he assumed command of his platoon when two other superior officers were injured, reorganized the unit and led it successfully during the remainder of the action.

The citation, signed by the deputy commander of the South Pacific fleet area, said that "his determined courage and decisive leadership under adversity, and his conduct were in keeping with the highest traditions of the naval service."

Curtin Praises Churchill For Pledge of Pacific War

Acclaims Assurance of Action Against Japanese Menace

SYDNEY, Australia, June 3 (AP).—On behalf of the Australian people, Prime Minister John Curtin expressed today to President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill appreciation for what he described as their assurance that the war in the Pacific would be prosecuted with the same vigor as the war in Europe.

(Prime Minister Churchill told President Roosevelt's press conference May 25 in Washington that the war against Japan must be prosecuted with the greatest vigor, and talked of the possibility of waging war with equal force on both fronts, presumably referring to Europe and Asia. He said it would be possible to apply a great deal of effort simultaneously in both directions, but added that the problem of application of the effort involves a matter of time.)

Discussions of the last three months have brought to Australia one of the greatest successes of the war, Curtin said.

"As a consequence of the advocacy of the defeat of Germany first, public opinion was being lulled into a lack of realization of Japanese conquests," he said. "Judged by the broadest world view, the influence of this school of thought was making it possible for Japan to use Germany to fight a delaying action for her, so that Japan might acquire an invincible defensive position.

"Because of her key position in the Pacific, Australia had sought to arouse public opinion to the dangers of its own drift."

Tugwell's administration as "un-American and undemocratic."

Asserting that Mr. Tugwell was forced to quit Washington because of unpopularity, Senator Balseiro demanded:

"If you people didn't want him in the United States, why should we have him here? We are American citizens, too, with the same rights as you, at least nominally."

Colonel Pendleton Dies Of Injuries in Ecuador

His Plane Crashed Monday on Flight From Canal Zone

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, June 3 (AP). — Military headquarters at Salinas reported the death today of Colonel Alexander B. Pendleton, head of a United States aviation mission to Ecuador, who was injured when his plane crashed Monday during a flight from the Canal Zone to Quito. He will be buried tomorrow with military honors, in which nine Ecuadorian planes and a squadron of bombers from the United States base at Salinas will take part. A wreath of flowers was sent by President Carlos Arroyo del Rio.

Colonel Pendleton, accompanied by two unidentified Army sergeants, left Balboa on Monday. The next day the Mayor of Quevado, an Ecuadorian mountain village, telegraphed the Governor of Guayas Province that Colonel Pendleton had been injured when his plane crashed in the mountains near by. Colonel Pendelton suffered internal injuries which resulted in his death.

It was recalled that the first commander of the mission, Major Walter K. Burgess, died in a plane accident two years ago tomorrow.

U-BOAT IS SPLIT BY DEPTH CHARGE FROM NAVY PLANE

Crew, Sun-Bathing on Deck, Trapped by U. S. Airman's Quick Action.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP) Depth charges from a Navy Catalina patrol plane blew a German submarine in two in the South Atlantic while the U-boat's crew members apparently were sun bathing on the deck, the Navy reported today.

"The submarine was blown out of the water," the Navy said. "The plane's crew reported that as it rose it broke, and several objects which looked like long cylindrical tanks floated up among the spouting debris and wreckage. The stern of the submarine then rose vertically out of the water, to a height of eight or 10 feet, bobbed up and down, and then plunged straight down in the rough seas."

Two Saved

Members of the plane crew said they saw three of the submarine's crew swimming about in the debris after their vessel sank. One of the swimmers disappeared, but the other two managed to get aboard life rafts dropped from the plane.

Because of the roughness of the sea, the plane was unable to maintain contact with the life raft, the Navy said, and no report has been received of the landing of any survivors.

The Navy said the U-boat was destroyed "several months ago" after it was sighted by Aviation Machinist's Mate Billie Goodell, of Bessemer, Ala., fully surfaced and some crew members lying on the deck in the sun.

Lieutenant (j.g.) William R. Ford, Crescent City, Fla., the Navy said, reached the submarine so quickly that the raider's crew was unaware of the plane's approach until too late to act.

ATTACK ON JAPAN FROM ALEUTIANS SEEN BY STIMSON

JUN -4 1943

War Secretary Says U. S. Forces Are Within Striking Distance of Enemy.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP) Secretary of War Stimson gave an offhanded indication today of attacks to come on the territory of Japan proper, and the Navy emphasized it shortly afterward with a report of further mopping-up operations on Attu island in the Aleutians and an air attack on the now-isolated Japanese base at Kiska.

Secretary Stimson's comment, limited to the casual, matter-of-fact remark that the virtually-completed recapture of Attu puts American forces "in striking distance of Japanese territory," came in his regular press conference.

Gives No Details

He would go no further, turning away requests from elaboration with the remark that "it's a pretty long distance" from the regained American position in the western Aleutians to the Japanese bases in the Kuriles, some 800 miles away.

Secretary Stimson said that the Axis now holds 17,083 American prisoners officially reported through the International Red Cross, with Japan holding 11,307, Germany 3,312 and Italy 2,464. There probably are many others not yet officially reported by name.

He told reporters that the Attu fighting passed its peak on May 28 and 29, with American seizure May 28 of positions overlooking Chichagof harbor and repulse the following day of a fierce counter-attack that penetrated as far as the advance regimental command post and required use of American reserves.

South Pacific Action

The Navy communique told of more aerial activity in the south Pacific as well as the raid on Kiska and cleaning out of small groups of Japanese on Attu. It said large fires were left burning at Tinputs harbor and Numa Numa harbor on Bougainville and two small ships were attacked, one of them being beached.

Recounting actions of June 1, the communique raised the count of known Japanese dead on Attu to 1,791 and reported that "United States Army troops, combed scattered areas and by noon had eliminated minor groups of Japanese troops encountered." The report of Japanese dead still included only those whose bodies had been counted, and the Navy said that uncounted Japanese killed by shells and bombs "were either cremated or buried by the Japanese."

For the first time the Navy reported use of high-speed, two-engine Ventura (Vega B-34) medium bombers against Kiska, in company with Mitchell (North American B-25) bombers escorted by fighters. Hits were reported on the Japanese main camp area, runway, and gun emplacements.

Senate Acts Promptly on Bill When Told Vital Negotiations in Offing.

WASHINGTON, June 3 — (AP) Told that important negotiations with Russia hung on prompt action, the Senate today amended and returned to the House a $6,273,629,000 Lead-Lease appropriations for that purpose to nearly $25,000,000,000.

Acting Majority Leader Hill (Ala.) interrupted debate on a Federal job confirmation bill to call up the Lend-Lease measure.

"Lend-Lease Administrator E. R. Stettinius, Jr., has advised me it is most urgent that this bill be passed today if possible," Senator Hill said. "He advises that certain arrangements of the highest importance with Russia cannot be made until it is passed."

Mr. Stettinius, white-clad and silver-haired, sat in a front row gallery seat for two hours of debate and listened to several senators ask when the United States could expect an accounting of Lend-Lease funds. Replying, Senator George (D.-Ga.) said he was not interested in the bookkeeping if the funds would only shorten the war and prevent the spilling of American blood.

One Senate amendment struck out a House proviso that none of the Lend-Lease funds might be used to pay agricultural subsidies. The Senate Appropriations committee considered that to be a policy matter best handled in separate legislation, and also pointed out that Lend-Lease money was not available for domestic subsidy payments.

TRADE PACT VOTE MANIFESTS UNITY, DECLARES HULL

Renewal of Reciprocal Program a Blow to Axis, Statement Reveals.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP) Secretary of State Cordell Hull expressed his pleasure today at congressional extension of the trade agreements program, saying that it showed "a splendid manifestation of national unity in favor of practical international collaboration."

His statement:

"The further extension of the trade agreements program by a large non-partisan majority of both Houses of the Congress is a most welcome and far-reaching decision, coming as it does at a time when the whole future of our nation depends on our clarity of vision and resoluteness of action with respect to the momentous questions that are before us.

"The size and character of the affirmative vote in the House and in the Senate reflect the most important thing a democracy can possess—an informed and united public opinion.

"The clean-cut renewal of the trade agreements program has had vigorous and almost unanimous support of the press, of responsible spokesmen of American agriculture, business and labor, and of other public spirited groups which have been steadfast in their endorsement of the program.

"It is a splendid manifestation of national unity in favor of practical international collaboration now and for the future and encouragement at home and to our Allies and friends abroad, and a blow to our enemies."

17,083 AMERICANS ARE HELD PRISONER

JUN -4 1943

Washington, June 3 (A. P.).—The enemy now holds at least 17,083 American soldiers captive, Secretary of War Stimson reported today, and 11,307 of them are in the hands of the Japanese.

These figures are incomplete, he said, including only those whose names have been reported through the International Red Cross. On this basis, Germany holds 3,312 prisoners and Italy has 2,464.

Mr. Stimson, in a press conference at which he also mentioned that the virtually completed conquest of Attu puts American forces in striking distance of Japanese territory, said that food packages are being sent regularly to the prisoners in Germany and Italy but the Japanese have not yet agreed to such an arrangement.

Asked for elaboration on his hint of future operations from the western Aleutians against the Kurile Islands of Japan less than 800 miles away, Mr. Stimson smiled and said "it's a pretty long distance."

The climax of the Attu fighting, he said, came on May 28 and 29. On the first day, Army troops seized several positions overlooking Chichagof Harbor, but on the morning of the second day the Japanese counter-attacked savagely, penetrating the forward American lines and getting as far as the advance regimental command post. However, reserves were thrown in and the last effort of enemy forces was repulsed.

FEARS BREAKUP OF CHINA RULE

Admiral Yarnell Would End Exclusion Act.

Washington, June 3 (A. P.).—Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell said today that there is a grave possibility that the Chinese Nationalist government may collapse unless effective aid is forthcoming soon.

Testifying before the House Immigration Committee in support of legislation to repeal the Chinese exclusion acts, the retired commander in chief of the United States Asiatic Fleet said effect of the repeal on the Allied cause would compare with Russia's dissolution of the Comintern.

Asserting that the main attack on Japan must come from China, Admiral Yarnell added that the most effective means of strengthening the determination of the Chinese to fight on until adequate assistance can be given is to consider China by act as well as by word equal in every respect with the other Allied nations.

Although expressing belief that Russia and Japan will go to war the witness said Russian bases could not be relied upon because they probably would be occupied by Japanese troops.

"This leaves the mainland of China as the only area from which long-range bombers can reach Japan," he added.

Cites Jap Propaganda

William P. Hunt, former member of the United States Consular Service in China and later a shipping operator in the Orient who was interned at Hongkong after the outbreak of the war, told the committee that the Chinese were being innoculated with Japanese propaganda, based on the exclusion laws.

"I don't think we can withstand the post-war trade competition in China if this statute remains on the books," he added.

C. V. Starr, head of the American International Underwriters, an insurance corporation with intersts in the Far East, and a resident of China for twenty years, testified the Chinese "are our natural friends, not only during this war, but permanently," adding:

"The Chinese deserve to be treated on the same basis of equality as other people."

Toll of Attu Japs Raised to 1791---Kiska Bombed.

Washington, June 3 (A. P.).—Renewed aerial activity in the South Pacific with American bombers pounding Jap positions on Bougainville was reported by the Navy today in a communique which told also of bombing raids on Kiska in the Aleutians and a continued wiping out of small enemy groups on Attu.

Large fires were started at Tinputs Harbor and Numa Numa Harbor by the bombers which struck the northeast coast of Bougainville. Two small enemy vessels off Tinputs were bombed and one was beached.

The communique also raised the known Jap dead on Attu in the Aleutians to 1,791. This figure does not include the unknown number killed by artillery fire and bombs. Such casualties were either cremated or buried by the Japanese.

Formations of Army Mitchell and Ventura medium bombers, and Lightning and Warhawk fighters bombed and strafed Kiska. Hits were scored on the Japanese main camp area, runway and gun emplacements. A number of Canadians piloting Warhawks participated.

WAGNER DRAFTS VAST POST-WAR SECURITY PLAN

Workers Would Give 6 P. C. of Weekly Wages to Back Sweeping Program.

JUN -4 1943

Washington, June 3 (A. P.).—A vast new post-war program of social security was envisioned today by Senator Wagner (D.-N. Y.) in legislation he said he had drafted for immediate introduction.

Sponsored jointly by Senator Murray (D.-Mont.) the proposed bill was described by Senator Wagner as an American plan, containing many variations from the British Beveridge cradle-to-the-grave proposal.

It would establish a 6 per cent employee and a 6 per cent employer contribution on all wages and salaries up to $3,000 a year to finance a national social insurance system consisting of:

1. A national system of public employment offices.
2. Old age and survivors' insurance.
3. Permanent disability insurance and lump-sum death benefits.
4. Protection for the social security rights of men and women in the military service.
5. Unemployment insurance.
6. Temporary disability insurance and maternity benefits.
7. Medical and hospitalization insurance.
8. Unemployment allowances upon termination of military service.

The measure, Senator Wagner asserted, covered broadly the economic hazards of average people "throughout their life time."

"It increases the old age benefit allowances for workers and their families," he said, "and extends coverage to fifteen millions now excluded, such as farm workers and domestic servants, employees of non-profit institutions, and the independent farmer, professional and small business man."

It is being offered "simply as a basis for legislative study and consideration," Senator Wagner said, and contrasts with the Beveridge plan which he said "puts more than half the cost upon the general treasury in the very first year of operation."

Journalism Teachers Call News Vital in Crisis

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP).—Newspapers occupy a "key position in the total war effort," a special report of the American Association of Teachers of Journalism said today. "News is more necessary than ever in time of crisis," the report, issued through the United States Office of Education, declared. "It is necessary for the proper functioning of a democracy, and it is necessary for morale."

The journalism teachers were told that their instructions also instill in youth discipline and skill—"two of the important requirements for training for the armed forces."

The report was prepared by Dr. Frank Luther Mott, of the University of Missouri; Herschel M. Colbert, of Grinnell (Iowa) College, and W. Emerson Reck, of Colgate University, Hamilton, N. Y.

FOOD CONFERENCE ADOPTS PLAN FOR WORLD ABUNDANCE

Delegates Confident Parley's Work Has Brought Victory Nearer.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., June 3—(AP) The United Nations Food Conference closed today with adoption of a program aimed at paving the way toward a world free from want and expressions of confidence that the parley's work had brought nearer the day of victory.

The program was embodied in a declaration of principles and 30 resolutions which charged governments with responsibility for promoting such agricultural and food distribution programs as would help all people toward a standard of nutrition that would make them, in the words of the United States delegate, "Strong enough to be free."

Will Establish Commission

The most immediate tangible result of the conference promised to be early establishment in Washington of an interim commission with the task of arranging for creation of a permanent international agricultural authority to guide a program for world abundance.

Speakers at the brief final sessions emphasized that this was only the beginning of a drive to secure adequate food for all men, and that meanwhile the urgent task was to win the war and save millions of people from tyranny and starvation.

Chairman Richard Law of the British delegation, in moving the adoption of the "final act" embodying all conference recommendations, suggested that "there is not one of us here who will live to see the end of our work."

Sees Steps Toward Victory

Soviet Russia's chief delegate, Alexey D. Krutikov, likewise stressed that "the future will judge" the conference and its recommendations; but added it was already safe to say that by strengthening the collaboration of the United Nations the food parley "has brought nearer the victorious termination of the war."

Krutikov, who delivered his speech in rapid Russian, was warmly applauded at the end, and again during the translation of his words into English by an interpreter.

Chairman Anders Fjelstad of the Norwegian delegation expressed the enthusiasm of many delegates toward the work of the conference by declaring that "from Hot Springs is pouring forth an inexhaustible fountain of confidence and benefit to all men."

Conference Chairman Marvin Jones, who opened the final session in the empire room of the Homestead hotel by rapping his gavel for a moment of silent meditation and prayer, closed it with a speech confidently pointing to a future economy of abundance through which "we shall make all men strong enough to be free."

PARLEY INVITES ALLIES TO PLAN WANT-FREE ERA

Food Conference Suggests a World Agricultural Authority.

RUSSIAN HAILS ACHIEVEMENT

Tells Closing Session Meetings Have Increased Fighting Power of Nations.

JUN -4 1943

Hot Springs, Va., June 3 (A. P.).—The United Nations Food Conference wound up its sixteen days deliberations today by formally approving resolutions calling on the forty-four participating countries to join in post-war planning for a world freed from want. It recommended the creation of an international agricultural authority to secure collaboration on programs to increase the production, distribution and consumption of food.

The closing session was held in the Empire Room of the Homestead Hotel, scene of parley which opened on May 18. Richard K. Law, chairman of the British delegation, in moving the adoption of the conference resolutions, declared that it was a remarkable fact that, under the stress of war, the participating delegations were able to discuss post-war problems.

'It shows complete confidence," he said, "in the outcome of the war. That confidence is well founded. We shall win this war."

Mr. Law declared, however, that military victory is not enough. "After we have won our victory, there is still work to be done, work that we must do together. Here at Hot Springs we have been laying the foundations of that work and we have shown that we can work together."

Russian Acclaim Food Parley.

A. D. Krutikov, Russia's chief delegate to the food conference, declared that the conference had increased the fighting strength of the Allies by further strengthening their collaboration and thus "brought nearer the victorious termination of the war."

Mr. Krutikov also asserted that the conference, by creating an interim commission to formulate plans for a permanent organization, had "laid a firm foundation for the future collaboration of nations in the field of food and agriculture." Any real estimate of the importance of this conference and its recommendations is impossible now, he said.

"Of this," he told the assembled delegates, 'the future will judge. It is safe to say, however, that in the solution of current problems the conference has played a positive role by further strengthening the collaboration of the United Nations. By increasing their strength and fighting capacity, it has brought nearer the victorious termination of the war."

Chinese Delegate Speaks.

Another speaker, Dr. C. P. W. Kuo, chairman of the Chinese delegation, declared that everything "we had hoped to accomplish at this conference has been accomplished and under most happy conditions."

"I am confident," he remarked, "that the recommendations of this conference will receive favorable attention by the participating governments, since these recommendations, when carried out, will work for the benefit and happiness of the people in various countries. I am equally confident that the spirit of this conference and what it has accomplished will pave the way for other forms of co-operation among the United Nations."

Tribute to conference chairman, Marvin Jones, was paid by Joao Carlos Muniz, chairman of the Brazilian delegation, who said that his leadership was largely responsible for "the success attained by the conference." Mr. Krutikov praised the atmosphere of confidence in which the conference did its work and moved a resolution of gratitude to President Roosevelt for his initiative in convening it.

Results Summed Up.

Mr. Jones, summing up results of the parley, said that the United Nations had discovered facts of "profound and lasting significance for the entire world—for each nation—and for every man, woman and child upon the earth. What we have found," he added, "is this:

"First — Compelling confirmation of a united purpose to make effective the pledge of the Atlantic charter and of the mutual aid agreements for a peace 'that will afford an assurance that all men in all lands may live out their lives in freedom from fear and want.'

"Second — Overwhelming evidence that we have in unity the strength to make our purpose effective in peace as we are making it effective in war.

"Third—A convincing and inspiring demonstration that we can work together in practice—in the hard, every-day effort that will step by step translate our hopes—and the hope of all mankind—into reality."

Other Talks to Follow.

The conference, Mr. Jones said, represented more than 1,600,000,000 persons, or three-quarters of the world's population. Other conferences will follow, he added.

"We have met in the midst of the greatest war in history," he told the delegates. "As separate nations, we were in danger of losing this war. As United Nations, we have found in unity an irresistible strength for the winning of it. We know now—and the Axis also knows—without any remaining shadow of a doubt—that in our unity we shall utterly destroy those tyrants who would enslave us all to tyranny and poverty."

Another speaker, J. M. Troncoso, chairman of the delegation of the Dominican Republic, said that the conference had placed unity above national interest and policy.

"I think I speak for all delegates here," he said, "when I state that it is my profound conviction that the principles of international co-operation which have influenced the thought and action of this conference may have established the pattern and laid the cornerstone for that future international action which will surely bring enduring peace and well-being to all mankind."

JUN -4 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Hot Springs, Va., June 3—The text of a summary of the results of the United Nations food conference as prepared by the parley's secretary general follows:

JUN -4 1943

The conference met to consider the goal of freedom from want in relations to food and agriculture. In its resolutions and its reports, the conference has recognized that freedom from want means a secure, adequate and suitable supply of food for every man.

All men on earth are consumers of food. More than two thirds of them are also producers of it. These two aspects of gaining subsistence from the soil cannot be separated. Men cannot eat more and healthier foods unless these foods can be obtained from the land or the sea in sufficient quantities.

Permanent Body Urged

If more and better food is to be available for all people, producers must know what they are called upon to do. They must equally be assured that their labors will earn them an adequate livelihood.

The work of the conference emphasized the fundamental interdependence of the consumer and the producer. It recognized that the food policy and the agricultural policy of the nations must be considered together. It recommended that a permanent body should be established to deal with the varied problems of food and agriculture, not in isolation but together.

The work of the conference also showed that the types of food most generally required to improve people's diets and health are in many cases those produced by methods of farming best calculated to maintain the productivity of the soil and to increase and make more stable the returns to agricultural producers. In short, better nutrition means better farming.

Freedom From Hunger

The conference declared that the goal of freedom from want can be reached. It did not, however, seek to conceal the fact that it will be first necessary to win freedom from hunger.

In the immediate future, the first duty of the United Nations will be to win complete victory in arms; as their armies liberate territories from tyranny their goal will be to bring food for the starving.

The need to reach freedom from hunger before seeking freedom from want was understood and resolutions were adopted on this subject. These covered both the planning of agricultural production and the adoption of measures to prevent violent fluctuations in prices resulting from the shortages of the transition period.

Diseases, Diet

Many delegates informed the conference about the state of health in their respective countries. It was made clear that there was a close connection between many prevalent diseases and deficiency in diets.

The important part played by malnutrition in maintaining child mortality rates at a high level was also established. It was apparent that in all countries there are large sections of the population who do not get adequate and suitable food for health; in many countries the majority of the people are in this situation.

The conference has not attempted to lay down ideal standards of nutrition for all peoples. It has recognized that while the ultimate objectives must be a world in which all people are fed in full accordance with the requirements of good health, it will be necessary as a practical measure to concentrate on intermediate goals which can be progressively raised as conditions improve.

These intermediate goals must differ from region to region according to climate, taste, social habits and other circumstances. These goals are therefore primarily a matter for individual governments to determine.

Greater Output

One of the most important recommendations of the conference is that the governments represented should declare to their own people and to one another their intention to secure more and better food for the people. Various measures which might be taken for this purpose were discussed. These included education, special provision for particular classes of the population and the improvement of the quality of food available.

The conference recognized that a great increase would be needed in the production of food if progress was to be made toward freedom from want. Section II discussed how this increase could be brought about. It was recognized, however, that to a varying extent in different countries and at different times there would be insufficient food of kinds required for health.

It might, therefore, be necessary to take measures to see that special groups of the population, such as young children and pregnant women, who most needed these foods, obtained at least their minimum requirements even if this meant reducing the supplies for the rest of the population below what they would otherwise consume.

Short-Term View

In Section II, the conference considered how agricultural production could be increased and adapted to yield the supplies most needed by consumers. It began its work with the assumption, which was confirmed by the conclusions of Section I, that more production was needed if the people of the world were to have sufficient food for adequate nutrition and that both new and existing production would have to be adjusted to secure more of those "protective" foods which are most necessary for good health.

Before discussing methods by which these changes could be brought about, the section examined the short-term position immediately after the liberation of occupied territories.

It was generally agreed that this period will be one of shortage, the exact incidence and extent of these shortages being governed by the circumstances in which various territories are liberated from the enemy. During this period the first call will be to reach freedom from hunger in areas devastated by the war.

Price Fluctuations

Until these lands themselves are able to produce a harvest, the most urgent demand will be for cereals and other foods which maintain human energy and satisfy hunger.

The conference agreed that while shortages lasted there should be coordinated action by Governments both to secure increased production and to prevent speculative and violent fluctuations in prices.

The conditions of shortage existing at the end of hostilities will be exceptional and it should not be too long before the production of the basic-energy foods is sufficiently restored to provide for freedom from hunger.

When that state is reached it will be necessary to increase wherever possible the emphasis on production of foods containing first-class protein and other protective qualities necessary to good health, according to the standards considered by Section I of the conference.

Production Assignment

There is danger that the heavy demand for energy foods which will arise from the immediate period of shortage may lead, as the shortages are overcome, to overproduction of these foods unless governments act with foresight in guiding producers to alter their production programs in accordance with the long-term requirements.

The actual programs must be drawn up to suit the particular circumstances of each country, but the conference agreed upon broad general principles which should serve as a guide in making these programs in all countries.

These principles cover not only the adjustment of production to fit the long-term requirements of a better diet but also improvements in the general efficiency of production. The conference also recommended certain particular measures of the more general application for carrying them out.

New Development

In addition, the conference recommended measures for new agricultural development. It was the opinion of the conference that some parts of the world which at present are unproductive could be brought into agricultural production if the appropriate measures were applied.

At the same time, it was recognized that, in some areas of rich potentialities, development is impeded by overcrowding of farmers on the land. While something can be done to increase the productivity of these areas by improving methods of farming, by drainage and similar measures, it was recognized that in some cases the development of industry to provide employment for agricultural populations or emigration to other areas were the only measures likely to offer any significant contribution to a solution of the problem.

The conference recognized that it is useless to produce food unless men and nations have means to acquire it for consumption. Freedom from want cannot be achieved unless there is a balanced and world-wide expansion of economic activity.

First Cause Of Hunger

The deliberations of the conference in Section III, which was set up to investigate the improvement of distribution, clearly showed that consumers would not be in a position to buy the food they needed, and producers of food could not be assured of adequate returns unless progress was made through national and international action to raise the general level of employment in all countries.

Moreover, as discussions in Section I emphasized, poverty is the first cause of malnutrition and hunger.

The work of Section III established the close interdependence between the level of employment in all countries, the character and extent of industrial development, the management of currencies, the direction of national and international investment, and the policy adopted by the nations toward foreign trade.

Economic Security

The conference was not invited to conduct a detailed investigation into policies which should be adopted by the governments of the world in order to promote an expansion of economic activity; but it declared that freedom from want of food could not be fully achieved without such an expansion and urgently recommended the governments and authorities represented to take action individually, and in concert, in order to secure this objective.

Having drawn attention to the fundamental importance, in the approach to freedom from want of food, of policies to expand and quicken economic activity, the conference discussed the place and functions which might be given, within the framework of such policies, to international arrangements for the control of basic staple foodstuffs entering international trade.

There was agreement that the objects of any such arrangements must be to eliminate excessive short-term movements in the prices of food and agricultural commodities, to mitigate general inflationary or deflationary movements and to facilitate adjustments in production which may be necessary to prevent economic dislocation.

2 Questions Cited

The conference agreed that any such arrangements should include the effective representation of consumers as well as producers. It was not possible for the conference, in the time available, to discuss future international commodity arrangements in detail. Discussion in Section III was directed to general questions of principle affecting the operation of such arrangements as might later be made. The two questions to which most attention was paid were:

(a) The place which buffer stocks should occupy in these arrangements, and

(b) How far it would be necessary to achieve the desired objectives to include within the general arrangements agreements for the regulation of production.

The conference agreed that further international discussion of these questions ought to take place with a view to the formulation of broad principles to govern the formulation and operation of future commodity arrangements.

Statistics Service

There was general agreement that, whatever the nature of the arrangements eventually made for individual commodities, machinery would be needed for co-ordinating their operations in the light of the broad principles to be agreed upon.

It became clear at a comparatively early stage of the conference that there was general agreement that the nations represented at the conference should establish a permanent organization in the field of food and agriculture.

It was also generally agreed that this organization should act as a center of information and advice on both agricultural and nutrition questions and that it should maintain a service of international statistics.

The conference did not, however, attempt to lay down in detail what the scope and functions of such an organization should be or its relationship to other national or international bodies.

It was agreed that these questions would have to be worked out in detail between representatives of the participating governments.

Interim Commission

Accordingly, the conference recommended the establishment in Washington of an interim commission, one of the functions of which would be to draw up for submission to governments and authorities represented a detailed plan for the permanent organization.

The United Nations conference on food and agriculture has shown that the governments and authorities represented are agreed upon the necessity of their taking action individually and in concert to achieve freedom from want of food.

The reports and recommendations of the conference indicate further agreement on the methods to be followed. The conference has accordingly recommended that the governments and authorities represented should recognize their obligation to their own people and to one another to raise the levels of nutrition and the standards of living of their citizens, to improve the efficiency of agricultural production and to cooperate one with another for the achievement of these ends.

The conference resolved that the interim commission to be established in Washington should prepare such a declaration or agreements in this sense for the consideration of governments and authorities represented.

Bomber Crash Kills Three

FLORENCE, S. C., June 3 (AP)—A medium bomber attached to the Florence Army Air Field crashed a mile and a half east of the field last night, killing three members of the crew and seriously injuring a fourth, officials announced today. Among those listed as dead was Sergeant Milton E. McConkey, of Middle Village, Queens, N. Y.

Seeks Commutation Of Stephan's Sentence

Detroit, June 3 (AP)—A petition to President Roosevelt for a commutation of the death sentence imposed on Max Stephan, convicted of treason, was made public today by Dr. Henry Hitt Crane, Detroit Methodist pastor.

The petition, which Dr. Crane said was sent to Mr. Roosevelt yesterday, contends the death sentence is "excessive in relation to Stephan's acts," and adds that "such personal aid and hospitality as Stephan gave to an escaped German prisoner was petty in its nature and consequences."

40 HURT IN BLAST IN CELANESE PLANT

JUN -4 1943

Maryland Factory Building Wrecked, Cause of Explosion Not Known.

CUMBERLAND, Md., June 3—(AP) Between 35 and 40 persons were injured, at least five of them seriously, when an explosion virtually wrecked one building of the Celanese Corporation of America's plant today. No deaths were reported.

Ten persons were admitted to the Memorial hospital and eight to the Alleghany General hospital, while others were treated at the plant's first aid station.

The City Health department dispatched four boxes of blood plasma to Memorial hospital, where the more seriously injured workers were taken.

The blast occurred in the cellulose acetate building of the plant, blowing four huge holes in the roof of the structure.

One of the workers not seriously injured said the inside of the building was a shambles. Cause of the explosion was not learned immediately.

A spokesman in New York said company officials had been informed that the explosion had occurred in part of the yarn spinning division of the plant.

"The blast will not affect chemical production in the slightest," he said, "and will interrupt yarn production by only a few days."

Reporter Who Saw It Describes Smashing Of Jap Armada Headed Ultimately For West Coast

The following story was written by the Associated Press war correspondent who covered, from the decks of a participating cruiser, the blazing action at Midway Island, which President Roosevelt has termed the most important engagement of the Pacific war.

By WENDELL WEBB

San Francisco, June 3—It was one year ago tonight, in the misty darkness of the mid-Pacific 3,000 miles away, that the grim remnants of the United States Pacific fleet faced the mightiest threat the Japanese ever threw in war.

The Battle of Midway was on and the showdown was at hand.

That now, twelve months later, an attempted invasion of America's west coast still is nothing more than conjectural is a monument to those who died.

Enemy battleships, carriers, cruisers, destroyers, submarines, transports—nearly one hundred of them—were heading steadily toward Midway Island northwest of Pearl Harbor on June 3, 1942.

It was far too great a force to conclude that tiny Midway was the sole goal. It was a force three times the size of ours. It was no secret to anyone on our ships what was happening. The enemy was making a supreme bid to make the now-dead Admiral Yamamoto's dream come true—to dictate peace in the White House.

The enemy failed—thanks to a heroic few—and there came true the prayerful hopes expressed weeks before aboard the same cruiser I still was on—"if the Japs will come in force, with the help of God and luck we'll strip their major power for the rest of the Pacific war."

There is little doubt that Midway was a prime reason why Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, on April 7 of this year, could say that air raids on the American mainland were "a remote possiblity rather than a danger."

Dutch Harbor had been attacked that June 3 morning a year ago. My shipboard log for the day records that "most persons appear to believe the attack is an attempt to draw fleet units north; they are not going."

As darkness closed in that night, heavy army bombers from Midway already had left two of the invaders in flames. Navy flying boats even then were en route to whittle away two more. But the armada kept coming. The Japanese reasoned that all the heroism of the garrison at Midway could not stop their force.

Pacific Fleet Ready

The reckoned without powerful units of the Pacific fleet which Tokyo itself, not many days before, had reported off the Solomons far to the south.

Still intact and on hand was the fighting carrier Yorktown—which was to fall victim to bombs and torpedoes late the next day in the enemy's last desperate bid for victory.

So was the Hornet—which already had carried American bombing planes almost to the gates of Tokyo, and which subsequently went to a flaming death in the battle of the Santa Cruz Islands last October.

And there was the Enterprise—nemesis of more than 350,000 tons of enemy shipping, which still lives in defiance of all the Japanese can throw.

No Battleships Along

But there were no battleships along. And our carriers were outnumbered. It was obvious that the odds, on the surface, were not too bright.

A lot more first-aid equipment was brought into the wardroom of our cruiser that night. Reports of submarines became almost commonplace.

But the tension of the days of waiting was slipping rapidly away. A message from Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, made everyone eager to get on with the job. The operations then starting would be of great value to America, the admiral had said, and "good hunting and good luck."

Sailors Defiant

Someone started humming, "Oh, It's Great to Be a Sailor." Someone else banged his fist and said, "let them bring one their damn battlewagons if they want to."

There was a lot of coffee-drinking, but so far as Jack Rice, Associated Press photographer, and I could determine, every last man off watch went to bed early and cheerfully for a sound sleep.

They needed it. For thirteen hours the next day, they manned their battle posts through fire and death and destruction which spread out over more than 100,000 square miles of the Pacific.

Japs Struck After Dawn

The Japanese struck shortly after dawn. Twenty-five marine flyers from Midway met well over one hundred invading planes thirty miles offshore and sent forty-three crashing in flames. Army and marine bombers and torpedo planes tore in. The groundwork for the kill was laid.

The fleet, marking time north of Midway, broke in with the booming call to "man your battle stations" at 8:18 A. M. on the sunny Thursday of June 4, 1942.

There was a mad rush to guns. Carrier planes zoomed skyward and the critical phase of the battle was on.

Yorktown Bombed

Once the Yorktown was bombed and set afire. The sky was black with shell bursts. Two hours later, torpedo planes ripped at the carrier again. They did their work—but every last one died in the crescendo of fire which blazed from and past our cruiser a few hundred yards away.

The welcome "secure" came at 9.10 P. M. Men climbed stiffly from their posts. The chase continued. Flaming enemy ships were fleeing in all directions. Midway was saved. The tide of the Pacific war had changed.

GERMANS WEIGH ALLIED CHANCES

Say Landings Can Be Made on Coasts of Europe.

JUN -4 1943

German Army experts, taking a long and careful look at the "Chances of Anglo-American invasion of Europe," acknowledged today that such landings might be carried out successfully, but only at heavy cost to the invaders.

A Berlin broadcast discussion of two invasion articles in the German Army organ Die Wehrmacht, recorded by the Associated Press, declared transport difficulties were the greatest Allied invasion problem, but added:

"An Anglo-American expeditionary force might perhaps succeed in crossing the Mediterranean and landing somewhere in southern Europe, but it would not have the slightest chance in battle against the Axis continental armies with their millions of well-trained and well-equipped troops."

Norway Danger Foreseen.

The Nazi writer also admitted that invaders "might perhaps succeed in obtaining a foothold at some points on the Norwegian coast for some time" but declared that "for such an event preparations have been made for prompt and effective countermeasures."

"It cannot be denied of course," the broadcast said, "that the Anglo-American occupation of Tunisia created a new situation in the Mediterranean. It would be foolish to ignore the fact that the Anglo-Americans now are in a position to use the bases in Tunisia for offensive operations against Europe. Anglo-American troop and war material concentrations in the southern Mediterranean can be prevented by the Axis forces only to a certain extent."

JUN -4 1943

JUN -4 1943

Stress Supply Problem.

The broadcast suggested that Allied forces striking northward across the Mediterranean would face transport difficulties similar to those that made "the Axis occupation of Tunisia an extremely risky action," ignoring the obvious advantage that strong British fleet units and growing air strength would give the Allied attackers.

Along the Norwegian coast, Berlin said, German air reconnaissance is maintaining a constant patrol and any "invasion fleet would be attacked a long time before it reached the coast." Fortifications along that coast were called "hardly less strong than those on the French channel and Atlantic coasts," the broadcast declared.

Jap Society Demands Surrender Of Allies

New York, June 3 (AP)—The Tokyo radio today quoted the Japanese Black Dragon Society as demanding that President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, and other United Nations leaders "surrender unconditionally to Japan" or else "succumb under divine punishment within a fatefully short time," the Federal Communications Commission said.

Swedish Ship Reaches Gothenburg, Home Port

New York, June 3 (AP)—The American-Swedish News Exchange announced today that the Swedish motor freighter Stegehold arrived yesterday at Gothenburg, Sweden, from Buenos Aires.

With a 6,000-ton cargo, including peanuts and cattle feed cake, the ship left Buenos Aires February 1 and put into Lisbon to await restoration by the belligerent powers of a suspended safe conduct agreement.

Windsors Visit Home Of Red Cross In N. Y.

New York, June 3 (AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor spent almost an hour today visiting the home nursing, production and blood donor divisions of the New York chapter of the American Red Cross.

The Duchess, who is president of the Bahamas branch of the British Red Cross, showed considerable interest in the production center. Later she said similar Red Cross programs were under way in the Bahamas, but were called first-aid courses instead of instruction work.

She said she and the Duke were anxious to return to the Bahamas, but were delayed because he had considerable private business still to transact in this country.

What's Behind The War News

JUN -4 1943

BY GLENN BABB

The Italian navy, which Mussolini declined to risk in any attempt to rescue the Axis armies of North Africa, still is playing it safe. Having abandoned the waters off Tunisia long before the land battle was over, it appears now to be under orders to quit also the Mediterranean narrows, leaving to the British even the seas which wash the foot of the Italian boot.

Admiral Cunningham's ships appear to have established a dominance in those waters which matches the American-British command of the skies. They apparently are able to bombard Pantelleria, outermost of Italy's island outposts, at will and with little risk of damage. Two heavy shellings this week brought only light reaction from the shore, none from the sea. Wednesday the British fleet darted in close to the Italian mainland to smash a convoy off Capo Spartivento. This indicates that British surface forces are able to deny use of the Messina channel, through which ships must pass from one Italian coast to the other.

A comparable situation would be one in which an enemy surface fleet, daring the United States Navy and air forces to do their worst, was able to shell our Caribbean bases with impunity and prevent ship movements from the Gulf of Mexico to the Atlantic between Florida and Cuba.

Such is the seeming helplessness of the navy which Il Duce used to boast would make the Mediterranean Italy's mare nostrum as it was in the days of Rome's real power. Presumably because of the decision of Il Duce and his master beyond the Alps it must hug its harbors and ignore the almost daily contemptuous challenges of the Allies to come out and do battle.

This continued inactivity raises the question of what ultimate mission may be reserved for Il Duce's fleet. His country lies under the shadow of imminent invasion. The Italian people, hearing of big Allied flotillas moving eastward from Gibraltar and heavy concentrations of shipping in African ports, are braced for the shock which may come any day. Roundabout French-Spanish reports published in London say the Italian navy is "prepared to steam into battle at an hour's notice." But this is not convincing. The situation is not so simple.

There is reason to doubt whether Mussolini will hazard his navy—perhaps three or four sound battleships and a handful of light cruisers—until the very last moment, when no further withdrawal is possible. Allied landings on Pantelleria, Sicily, Sardinia, even the southern mainland may not be sufficient to bring it into combat.

One reason for such conjecture is the fact that nothing would suit the Allies' purposes better than for the Italians to come out and fight. There is no doubt that Admiral Cunningham disposes of sufficient power to destroy whatever force comes within range of his guns. A naval battle that would settle definitively the command of the mid-Mediterranean would give the United Nations far-reaching strategical advantages.

The Italian fleet, even while it skulks in its northern bases, has far more value than a fleet at the bottom of the sea. It is that important naval factor, a fleet in being. As long as it exists, even hidden away in Leghorn, Spezia or even Trieste or Marseille, the British and their Allies must maintain still larger forces in Italian waters. If it were smashed a great part of those forces, battleships, cruisers, aircraft carriers, would be freed for operations elsewhere.

They might move into the eastern Mediterranean to support an invasion of Europe by the Balkan route. They might be sent still further east to begin the clearing of the Bay of Bengal, a job which must be done this summer and fall if the Allies are to begin this year the reconquest of Burma and the rescue of China. If the Italians can avoid that showdown sea battle for a few months more it might seriously affect the Allies' plans in the Asiatic theater.

Whether that can be done remains to be seen. Obviously the southern Italian bases no longer are useable for the main fleet units.

The two principal bases on the west coast already have been bashed by Allied heavy bombers, Spezia by the R.A.F. from Britain and Leghorn by General Doolittle's Flying Fortresses from North Africa. Trieste, at the head of the Adriatic, has not yet been attacked but already it is within at least theoretical range of the big American planes.

Of course there may be reasons other than strategical considerations for the self effacement of the Italian sea forces. Many of the best ships have taken heavy punishment since 1940 and how many are fit for action is a question. There may be a shortage of fuel. There also may be a shortage of fighting spirit in spite of the stiffening of German officers and men which, according to numerous reports, has been given many crews.

BUT IT IS THE NEAREST THING TO PARIS THE FRENCH HAVE, AND THEY ARE MAKING THE MOST OF IT.

ALGIERS IS FILLED WITH GENERALS, AMERICAN DOUGHBOYS, BRITISH TOMMIES, FRENCH POILUS, REFUGEES, POLITICIANS, PROPAGANDISTS, FIGHTER PILOTS ON LEAVE AND ALMOST ANYONE ELSE WHO CAN BE [illegible] IMAGINED.

VICHY OFFICIALS, UNDER PRESSURE OF THE GERMAN-ITALIAN ARMISTICE COMMISSIONS, STRIPPED OFF EVERYTHING THAT COULD BE CARRIED AWAY. SINCE THE ALLIED ARMIES ARRIVED, MUCH MATERIAL HAS BEEN BROUGHT IN, BUT NOT ENOUGH. SHIPPING IS DIFFICULT THESE DAYS.

PRACTICALLY NOTHING YOU WOULD WANT TO BUY CAN BE OBTAINED AT SHOPS. YOU MIGHT FIND SOME ORIENTAL TRINKETS OR MOROCCAN LEATHER BAGS, BUT YOU WON'T FIND ANYTHING USEFUL.

YOU WON'T FIND ROOM TO SLEEP IN WITHOUT GREAT DIFFICULTY. YOU MUST APPEAL TO THE TOWN AUTHORITIES TO GET [illegible] QUARTERS.

ONE FOOD ITEM IS REALLY PLENTIFUL--- DATES. OTHERWISE YOU HAVE TO GO AROUND AND LEARN THE TRICKS OF FOOD GATHERING. IT CAN BE DONE BUT IT TAKES A LITTLE EXPERIENCE.

NOBODY IS STARVING.

THE QUALITY AND QUANTITY OF BREAD HAS IMPROVED SINCE THE ALLIES LANDED AND BROUGHT IN WHEAT. NORTH AFRICA'S OWN CROP IS NOW READY FOR THE HARVEST AND IS A BUMPER ONE.

FRESH MEAT RECENTLY APPEARED IN ALGIERS BUTCHER SHOPS FOR THE FIRST TIME IN ALMOST TWO YEARS. SLAUGHTERING HAS BEEN HALTED SO FLOCKS AND HERDS MIGHT BE BUILT UP AFTER THE AXIS DEPLETIONS. NOW THE LOCAL POPULATION IS RATIONEDTO ABOUT HALF A POUND PER HEAD PER WEEK.

JUN -4 1943

ALGERIAN LAMB IS GOOD, POULTRY [redacted] FAIR, BEEF AND VEAL VERY BAD. IN NORMAL TIMES THE BEST BEEF AND VEAL CAME FROM FRANCE AND BUTCHER SHOPS DIFFERENTIATED BETWEEN "BOEUF DU PAYS" AND "BOUEF DE FRANCE," AS WELL THEY MIGHT, SINCE THEY ARE ENTIRELY DIFFERENT MEATS. FOR SOME STRANGE REASON ALGERIAN VEALIS RED.

ALGIERS IS BUILT ON HILL CUTS BY DEEP GULCHES RUNNING DOWN TO THE SEA. IT IS A CITY ON PRECIPICES. CONSEQUENTLY ITS STREETS ARE NARROW AND TORTUOUS AND FEW OF THEM LEAD ANYWHERE. RUMBLING ARMY TRUCKS ADDED TO THE CITY'S NORMAL POKEY TROLLEYS, NATIVE DONKEY WAGONS AND PUSH CARTS MADE TRAFFIC A NIGHTMARE.

JUN -4 1943

THERE IS ALWAYS AN OBSTACLE IN FRONT OF ONE AND YOU CAN BE CERTAIN THERE ARE MANY MORE AHEAD.

SIDEWALKS AVERAGE ABOUT 18 INCHES IN WIDTH AND [redacted] PEDESTRIANS WALK IN THE STREETS. THEY PAY NO ATTENTION TO VEHICLES AND DO NOT UNDERSTAND THE MEANING OF HORNS. SELDOM IS ONE RUN OVER, BUT THEY ALL GIVE THE IMPRESSION THEY WOULD NOT PARTICULARLY MIND IF THEY WERE.

JUN -4 1943

THE AFRICAN POPULATION IS ARAB AND BERBER AND HAS ITS OWN NATIVE QUARTER THE KASBAH, A MAZE OF ALLEYS AND A RIOT OF SMELLS. IN ADDITION TO THE NATIVES, MIMI , FIFI [redacted] LULU AND THE OTHER GIRLS LIVE IN THE KASBAH, TOO.

THE FRENCH HAVE BEEN HERE OVER 100 YEARS AND ALGIERS IS ESSENTIALLY EUROPEAN RATHER THAN ORIENTAL IN CHARACTER. THE NATIVES [redacted]

JUN -4 1943

THE NATIVES ARE IN THE MINORITY, AND HERDED IN THEIR OWN QUARTER.

THE EUROPEAN POPULATION IS OF FRENCH, ITALIAN, SPANISH, MALTESE AND OTHER EXTRACTION WITH A LITTLE BERBER AND ARAB MIXED IN.

THERE ARE MANY GOOD LOOKING GIRLS AND THEY DRESS SMARTLY DESPITE THE LACK OF TEXTILES. THEY ALL GO BARE-LEGGED--THERE IS NO HOSIERY.

JUN -4 1943

MUNUS MOVIES ARE SO CROWDED THAT SEATS MUST BE RESERVED TWO DAYS AHEAD. BARS ARE JAMMED AND OPENED TO TROOPS FOUR HOURS A DAY FOR SALE OF WINE AND WX WATERY BEER. AN AN ANTI-TYPHUS MEASURE, THE TROOPS ARE NOT ALLOWED TO RIDE ON PUBLIC TRANSPORTS. THERE ARE NO TAXI-CABS. THERE IS A C OMPLETE BLACKOUT EVERY NIGHT.

ALGIERS, JUNE 3-(AP)-FOUR HARD-BOILED AMERICAN SOLDIERS WHO HAVEN'T FORGOTTEN THEY WERE ARTISTS BEFORE THEY WENT TO WAR OPENED AN EXHIBITION OF THEIR PAINTINGS AT AN ALGIERS GALLERY TODAY.

FROM ARABS TO PRETTY GIRLS, FROM CASABLANCA TO BISKRA, THE AMERICAN PAINTERS CHOSE A VARIETY OF SUBJECTS FOR DEPICTION.

TECHNICAL SERGEANT LOU WILLIAMS OF THE ARMY AIR FORCE, WHO IS WELL KNOWN IN ART CIRCLES IN NEW ENGLAND AND NEW YORK CITY, CONTRIBUTED A SERIES OF WATER COLORS WITHOUT A MILITARY MOTIF AMONG THEM.

PRIVATE EDWARD V.BELL, A FORMER CHICAGO ILLUSTRATOR, SCORED WITH THE EARLY VISITORS TO THE GALLERY WITH HIS COLORFUL STUDY OF A FALCON HUNTER.

JUN -4 1943

STAFF SERGEANT HOWARD H.MCGINNIS, A FORMER INSTRUCTOR IN THE CLEVELAND ART SCHOOL, SUBMITTED A WATER COLOR OF ALGIERS HARBOR AND A NUMBER OF PEN AND INK SKETCHES.

PRIVATE MAX BURKQUIST OFFERED AN OIL PORTRAIT OF A BEARDED BEDOUIN AND ANOTHER CANVAS OF AN AFRICAN GARDEN IN FULL BLOOM.

BELL, MCGINNIS AND BURKQUIST ARE IN THE ENGINEERING CORPS.

AMERICAN BASES IN AND NEAR STRATEGIC DAKAR, WELCOMED FIVE MONTHS AGO AS A SIGN THAT THE CITY SOON WOULD RETURN TO ITS OLD PROSPEROUS MANNER OF LIVING, HAS NOT PRODUCED THE EXPECTED RESULT.

ALTHOUGH SHIPS OF A DOZEN NATIONS PUT INTO ITS HARBOR AND ITS STREET HUM WITH ACTIVITY ONCE AGAIN, DAKAR STILL IS FAR FROM A COMFORTABLE PLACE IN WHICH TO LIVE.

THE INFLUX OF BRITISH AND AMERICANS, PLUS THE RECENT RETURN OF SEVERAL HUNDRED WOMEN AND CHILDREN EVACUATED TO NORTH AFRICA LAST OCTOBER, HAS MADE THE HOUSING SITUATION CRITICAL. COMPARED TO DAKAR, WASHINGTON IS SITTING PRETTY.

JUN -4 1943

THE HOTELS ALL HAVE LONG WAITING LISTS AND TRANSIENT BUSINESS NO LONGER EXISTS. MANY FAMILIES HAVE DOUBLED UP. EVEN THE HOTEL DU GOUVERNEUR, NORMALLY HELD OPEN FOR VISITORS OF STATE, IS FILLED UP WITH REGULAR RESIDENTS. NEW HOMES AND APARTMENTS ARE BEING BUILT BY THE DOZEN YET THE GOVERNMENT HAS FOUND INSPECTIONS NECESSARY TO SEE THAT NO ONE FAMILY OCCUPIES TOO MUCH SPACE. IF A NEWCOMER HAS CONNECTIONS HE CAN ASK THAT A HOUSE BE "REQUISITIONED." IF THE GOVERNMENT OBLIGES, HE GETS A PLACE, AND SOME FRENCH FAMILY MOVES OUT.

IRONICALLY, BRITISH OFFICERS ARE QUARTERED IN AN AUDITORIUM USED LESS THAN EIGHT MONTHS AGO TO HOUSE APPARATUS FOR JAMMING BBC BROADCASTS.

JUN -4 1943

RATIONING LIKEWISE HAS BECOME MORE AND MORE SEVERE, PARTLY BECAUSE MANY THINGS ONCE IMPORTED FROM NORTH AFRICA ARE BEING USED TO SUSTAIN TROOPS THERE. THOUSANDS OF TONS OF LEND-LEASE GOODS FROM AMERICA HAVE GONE TO THE FRENCH ARMY OR TO THE INTERIOR FOR USE IN STIMULATING AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION.

THERE ARE TWO MEATLESS DAYS EACH WEEK AND FISH HAS BEEN LARGELY SUBSTITUTED FOR FRESH MEAT. WHITE BREAD IS ENJOYED ONLY BY AMERICAN SOLDIERS, WHO IMPORT THEIR OWN FLOUR AND OPERATE THEIR OWN BAKERY. EVEN RED TABLE WINE, CORNERSTONE OF FRENCH CUISINE, IS SCARCE.

JUN -4 1943

CLOTHING RATION CARDS PERMIT EXPENDITURE OF 25 POINTS A MONTH, ENABLING A HOUSEWIFE TO HAVE A NEW DRESS ABOUT EVERY 60 DAYS AT ABOUT $60 FOR AN ORDINARY GARMENT. STOCKINGS HAVE DISAPPEARED.

A BLACK MARKET FLOURISHES THROUGH DAKAR'S SEVERAL THOUSAND SYRIANS -- ALIENS ABLE TO SUPPLY ALMOST ANYTHING AT A PRICE. THE GOVERNMENT HAS IMPOSED HEAVY FINES, BUT ANYONE WHO NEEDS "UNOBTAINABLE" ITEMS CAN FIND THEM BY GOING TO THE RIGHT PERSON.

CONTINUED DROUGHT AND OVER-POPULATION MAKE IT POSSIBLE TO DRAW WATER ONLY AT BREAKFAST AND DINNER TIME, AND BECAUSE OF THE SHORTAGE THE CITY'S SEWAGE SYSTEM LIKEWISE DOES NOT FUNCTION PROPERLY. THE APPROACHING RAINY SEASON MAY RELIEVE THIS SITUATION, BUT WITH IT COMES THREE MONTHS OF MERCILESS HEAT.

BICYCLES AND HORSE-DRAWN CARTS AND CARRIAGES CONTINUE TO FILL DAKAR'S STREETS. MOST OF ITS AUTOMOBILES STILL ARE CHARCOAL-BURNING "GAS-O-GENES." GASOLINE SHIPMENTS FROM THE UNITED STATES PROVIDE ONLY FOR MILITARY NEEDS.

JUN -4 1943

MILITARY MOBILIZATION IS PROGRESSING AT A FAST CLIP, PROVIDING DAKAR'S INDUSTRIES AND BUSINESS WITH AN ADDITIONAL HEADACHE. AS IN OTHER QUARTERS OF THE GLOBE, WOMEN ARE FILLING MEN'S SHOES. PARIS-DAKAR, GOVERNMENT-CONTROLLED DAILY NEWSPAPER, HAS, FOR EXAMPLE, FOUR WOMEN ON ITS EDITORIAL STAFF WHERE FORMERLY IT HAD NONE. ITS CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING COLUMNS CONTAIN, EACH DAY, A LONG STRING OF HELP-WANTED NOTICES.

DESPITE EVERYTHING THE PEOPLE HAVE THEIR CHINS WAY UP. THANKFUL THEY WERE NOT CAUGHT IN FRANCE, THEY APPEAR A LITTLE PROUD OF THEIR ABILITY TO ADAPT THEMSELVES TO ALMOST ANY CIRCUMSTANCES AND STILL GET SOME FUN OUT OF LIFE.

JUN -4 1943

BY ERIC GOTTGETREU

JUN -4 1943

(ADVANCE)..JERUSALEM-(AP)-THIS IS THE STORY OF A FAMILY -- THE SPAFFORDS OF CHICAGO -- AND THEIR STRANGE TRANSPLANTION TO THE HOLY LAND, A CHRONICLE OF PIETY AND INDUSTRY WHICH SOUNDS LIKE SOMETHING OUT OF THE MIDDLE AGES.

IT BEGINS WITH HORATIO GATES SPAFFORD, A WEALTHY CHICAGO LAWYE AND HIS WIFE, ANNA, MORE THAN 80 YEARS AGO, AND COMES DOWN THROUG TWO WARS TO THEIR DAUGHTER, MRS. BERTHA SPAFFORD-VESTER, NOW 64.

THE SPAFFORDS LIVED HAPPILY IN A VILLA ON LAKE MICHIGAN, EVEN THOUGH THEY LOST MUCH PROPERTY IN THE CHICAGO FIRE OF 1871.

IN 1873 THEY DECIDED TO MAKE A TRIP TO EUROPE. BUT WHEN, AT THE LAST MOMENT, THE LAWYER WAS DETAINED FOR PROFESSIONAL REASONS, HIS WIFE DEPARTED ALONE AH FOUR DAU

JUN -4 1943

WIFE DEPARTED ALONE WITH HER FOUR DAUGHTERS, THE ELDEST TWELVE, AND THEIR FRENCH GOVERNESS. THEY WERE TO SPEND THE WINTER IN PARIS AND SPAFFORD WAS TO JOIN THEM IN THE SPRING.

ON THE EARLY MORNING HOURS OF NOVEMBER 22, 1873 AS THEIR SHIP, THE TRANSATLANTIC MAIL PACKET, "VILLE DU HAVRE," MOVED THROUGH HEAVY FOG, ANOTHER SHIP, THE "LOCH EARN," SUDDENLY EMERGED FROM THE GLOOM AND RAMMED HER.

THE "VILLE DU HAVRE" SANK IN TEN MINUTES WITH THE LOSS OF 47.8

30.24 — 4641

OF HER PASSENGERS AND CREW WHO NUMBERED 500.

THE 22 SURVIVORS WERE TAKEN ABOARD THE "LOCH EARN" BUT SHE, TOO, APPEARED TO BE IN DANGER OF SINKING. A THIRD SHIP, THE "TRIMOUNTAIN, AN AMERICAN CRAFT, HAPPENED ALONG AND TOOK THE SURVIVORS ABOARD.

ONE OF THEM WAS MRS. SPAFFORD. WHEN SHE REACHED CARDIFF, WALES, SHE SENT A CABLEGRAM TO HER HUSBAND: "SAVED ALONE."

SHE CAME BACK TO THE UNITED STATES, AND SHE FELT CONSTANTLY IMPELLED TO SPEAK OF THE DISASTER, OF THE STRUGGLE TO GET INTO THE LIFEBOATS, OF THE PANIC AND THE MANNER IN WHICH THE WOMEN AND CHILDREN WERE PUSHED ASIDE BY THE STRONG.

JUN -4 1943

SHE SPOKE OF THE TERRIBLE MOMENT WHEN SHE CAME TO THE SURFACE AND REALIZED HER CHILDREN WERE GONE; OF HER LONGING FOR DEATH WHEN, CLINGING TO A PLANK, SHE KEPT AFLOAT; AND OF THE HEAVENLY VOICE SHE HEARD SAYING: "IT IS EASY TO DIE -- BUT IT IS DIFFICULT TO LIVE."

FOR EIGHT YEARS THE SPAFFORDS SEARCHED FOR THE MEANING OF THIS MESSAGE. THEY FOUND IT IN 1881.

WITH THEIR TWO CHILDREN, GRACE, SIX MONTHS, AND BERTHA, 2 YEARS OLD, AND ACCOMPANIED BY FOURTEEN AMERICAN FRIENDS, THEY SAILED FOR THE HOLY LAND.

THE ATMOSPHERE OF JERUSALEM OVERWHELMED THEM. THEY CONCLUDED IT WAS THEIR RELIGIOUS DUTY TO BE ACTIVE IN THE SENSE OF EARLY CHRISTIANITY. THEY BELIEVED SUDDENLY IN THE RETURN OF THE MESSIAH AND WISHED TO BE READY.

JUN -4 1943

THEY DECIDED TO REMAIN HERE AND TO FORGET THE PAST. THEY POOLED THEIR MONEY AND BEGAN TO LIVE AN EXTREMELY SIMPLE LIFE. THEY RENTED THE HOUSE OF THE TURKISH GENDARMERIE CHIEF, HADJ JOUSSEF JOUSDAR, NEAR THE DAMASCUS GATE AND ESTABLISHED THE FIRST SETTLEMENT WORK IN THE NEAR EAST, NURSING THE SICK, FEEDING THE HUNGRY, AND CARING FOR ORPHANS. MOSLEMS, CHRISTIANS AND JEWS ALIKE RECEIVED THEIR MINISTRATIONS.

IN 1885 SPAFFORD DIED. HIS WIDOW LIVED TO BE 82 AND CONTINUED THE WORK. THE COLONY EXPANDED.

JUN -4 1943

ONCE WHEN MRS. SPAFFORD RETURNED TO CHICAGO FOR A BUSINESS VISIT, SHE RETURNED WITH A GROUP OF SWEDES, LED BY OLAF HENRIK LARSSON, A GOTEBORG SEAMAN WHO HAD BECOME HEAD OF A SWEDISH PROTEST COMMUNITY IN CHICAGO.

A NUMBER OF THESE SWEDES CAME FROM THE VILLAGE OF NAAS IN THE DALARNE DISTRICT WHICH WAS KNOWN FOR ITS RELIGIOUS ZEAL. IN 1896, 57 OF THE NAAS PEASANTS SOLD THEIR PROPERTY AND LEFT FOR JERUSALEM TO WAIT THE RETURN OF THE MESSIAH.

THE COMMUNITY NOW COMPRISES SOME 50 FAMILIES AND AS THE BASIS OF ITS COOPERATIVE ENTERPRISE MANAGES ONE OF THE BIGGEST HOTELS IN THE CITY, ENGAGES IN SOME GARDENING AND DAIRY WORK AND OPERATES TWO LARGE ORIENTAL SOUVENIR SHOPS.

JUN -4 1943

THE HUMANITARIAN WORK HAS CONTINUED TO GROW EVERY YEAR.

MRS. BERTHA SPAFFORD-VESTER IS STILL CARRYING ON THE WORK, GOING DAILY FROM THE AMERICAN COLONY AT THE FOOT OF MOUNT SCOPUS TO THE AMERICAN WELFARE CENTRE -- BABY HOSPITAL, KINDERGARTEN, CHILDREN'S PLAYGROUND AND ADVISORY INSTITUTE FOR MOTHERS.

SHE HAS SIX CHILDREN OF HER OWN AND SIX GRANDCHILDREN BUT HER

INTEREST IN THE WELFARE OF THE NATIVES HAS NEVER WANED.

THE OTHER, A FLOAT PLANE, WAS DOWNED AND STILL ANOTHER FLOAT PLANE DAMAGED OUT OF SIX WHICH TRIED TO INTERCEPT HEAVY ALLIED BOMBERS OVER DOBÓ, ON THE AROE ISLANDS, 500 MILES NORTH OF DARWIN. THE BOMBERS HAD STOPPED TO ATTACK ENEMY INSTALLATIONS AT DOBO

AMERICAN AIRMEN IN NEW GUINEA HAVE NOTED THAT THE JAPANESE AIR FORCE RESPECTS UNFAVORABLE WEATHER EVEN MORE THAN THE AMERICANS AND THE AUSTRALIANS. THIS HAS BEEN ILLUSTRATED BY THE ENEMY'S RECENT AERIAL INACTIVITY.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, JUNE 3-(AP)-IN SIX RAIDS WITHIN A WEEK, 156 TONS OF BOMBS HAVE BEEN DROPPED BY LIBERATORS AND FLYING FORTRESSES ON JAPANESE AIR BASES AT WEWAK AND LAE, NEW GUINEA.

THE SIXTH RAID YESTERDAY WAS MADE BY MIXED FORMATIONS OF THE BIG, FOUR-ENGINED BOMBERS AGAINST FOUR AIRDROMES IN THE WEWAK SECTOR ON NEW GUINEA'S NORTHEAST COAST, 325 MILES NORTHWEST OF LAE. IT WAS WEWAK'S THIRD RAID IN A WEEK'S PERIOD DURING WHICH 56 TONS OF BOMBS HAVE ROCKED IT. YESTERDAY'S RAIDERS STARTED FIRES AMONG PARKED AIRCRAFT ON THE AIRDROMES OF BUT, DAGUA, BORAM AND WEWAK AND DESTROYED AMMUNITION DUMPS.

AS IN THE OTHER TWO RAIDS ON WEWAK AND THE THREE IN WHICH 100 TONS WERE DROPPED ON LAE, NOT A SINGLE JAPANESE PLANE ROSE IN OPPOSITION. THE WEWAK RAIDERS WENT THROUGH HEAVY ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE BUT ALL GOT BACK SAFELY, TODAY'S COMMUNIQUE REPORTED.

THE JAPANESE AIR FORCE, WHICH RECENTLY HAS BEEN ABSENT FROM THE NEW GUINEA SKIES, SENT 16 PLANES ON JUNE 1 AGAINST BULLDOG, A JUNGLE POST 100 MILES NORTHWEST OF PORT MORESBY AND SOME 70 MILES SOUTHEAST OF SALAMAUA, THE COMMUNIQUE DISCLOSED. A SMALL ALLIED DETACHMENT IS MAINTAINED THERE. THE COMMUNIQUE SAID THE RAIDERS' BOMBS CAUSED "SLIGHT DAMAGE AND CASUALTIES."

AN ADVANCED SOUTH PACIFIC BASE, JUNE 3 (AP)-ADMIRAL WILLIAM F.HALSEY, JR., TODAY DISPATCHED A MESSAGE OF TRIBUTE TO THE U.S.S. ENTERPRISE, THE AIRCRAFT CARRIER CITED BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT EARLIER THIS WEEK FOR A YEAR OF EFFECTIVE FIGHTING AGAINST THE JAPANESE.

JUN -4 1943

THE CARRIER, AFFECTIONATELY KNOWN AS "BIG E," WAS THE FLAGSHIP OF THE PRESENT COMMANDER OF U.S.NAVAL FORCES IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC WHEN, AS A REAR ADMIRAL, HE HAD CHARGE OF THE PACIFIC FLEET'S CARRIER DIVISION EARLY IN THE WAR.

"IT IS WITH A DEEP FEELING OF PRIDE AND GRATIFICATION THAT I LEARN OF THE PRESIDENTIAL CITATION," HALSEY'S MESSAGE SAID. "THIS EMINENTLY DESERVED AWARD EXPRESSES THE APPRECIATION AND GRATITUDE OF OUR PEOPLE FOR YOUR OUTSTANDING ACCOMPLISHMENTS IN THIS WAR.

JUN -4 1943

"KEEP FIGHTING, EVERY MINDFUL OF THE GLORIOUS TRADITIONS YOU HAVE ESTABLISHED. MY HEART IS WITH YOU ALWAYS."

ADMIRAL HALSEY ALSO SENT CONGRATULATORY MESSAGES TO THE GREENLING AND GUARDFISH, TWO SUBMARINES WHICH RECEIVED CITATION BY THE PRESIDENT FOR SERVICE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC.

(THE NAVY DISCLOSED MONDAY THAT THE ENTERPRISE HAD SUNK OR DAMAGED 20 JAPANESE WARSHIPS AND DESTROYED AT LEAST 140 ENEMY PLANES WITHIN THE YEAR FOLLOWING DEC.7, 1941.)

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO, JUNE 3-(AP)-A CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE WAS TOLD YESTERDAY BY GOVERNOR REXFORD G.TUGWELL THAT NEW PUERTO RICAN GOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES WERE "CREATED TO DEAL WITH CRITICAL SITUATIONS" AND WERE NOT "THE RESULT OF ANY PHILOSOPHY OR THEORETICAL PURPOSE."

JUN -4 1943

DECLARING THAT SUCH AGENCIES AS THE DEVELOPMENT BANK HAD BEEN SET UP "TO INCREASE ENTERPRISE AND TO HELP THE EMPLOYMENT SITUATION" ON THE ISLAND, TUGWELL ASKED THE COMMITTEE, HEADED BY REP.C.JASPER BELL (D-MO.), TO EXAMINE EACH CLOSELY BEFORE CONCLUDING THAT THEY FORM PART OF ANY "SCHEME TO SUPPRESS PRIVATE ENTERPRISE."

REP.JAMES DOMENGEAUX (D-LA.) SUGGESTED THAT PERHAPS PRIVATE CAPITAL WAS AFRAID TO INVEST IN LOCAL INDUSTRIES, BUT TUGWELL REPLIED THAT BETWEEN 50 AND 60 MILLION DOLLARS HAD BEEN LYING IDLE IN PUERTO RICAN

BANKS FOR "MANY YEARS."

DOMENGEAUX ASSERTED IT WAS TUGWELL'S PHILOSOPHY WHICH HAD OCCASIONED THE FEAR.

"I AM NOT SO INNOCENT AS NOT TO KNOW WHAT YOU ARE DRIVING AT," TUGWELL REPLIED. "IT HAS BEEN FREQUENTLY SAID IN THE PRESS AND OTHER PLACES THAT THESE AGENCIES ARE PART OF A SCHEME TO SUPPRESS PRIVATE ENTERPRISE OR ENABLE THE GOVERNOR TO CONTROL THE PUERTO RICAN GOVERNMENT. I WANT YOU TO EXAMINE EACH CLOSELY AND SEE FOR YOURSELF."

DURING THE HEARING REP.FRED L.CRAWFORD (R-MICH) ASSERTED THAT THE FUTURE OF PUERTO RICO, PARTICULARLY ITS SUGAR INDUSTRY, WAS "NONE TOO BRIGHT" BECAUSE MECHANICAL DEVICES AVAILABLE FOR POST-WAR HARVESTING AND PLANTING WOULD FORCE FROM 25 TO 40 PER CENT OF FIELD LABORERS OFF PAYROLLS.

JUN -4 1943

TUGWELL'S STATEMENT THAT HE BELIEVED MOST PUERTO RICANS FAVORED EVENTUAL STATEHOOD WAS DISPUTED BY LUIS MUNOZ MARIN, PRESIDENT OF THE PUERTO RICAN SENATE. MARIN SAID HE PERSONALLY WAS OPPOSED BECAUSE HE DID NOT THINK THE ISLAND'S "ECONOMY COULD STAND THE DOUBLE BURDEN OF FEDERAL AND STATE TAXATION."

BALSEIRO ASSERTED THAT TUGWELL, IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE POPULARES PARTY, IS ATTEMPTING TO THROTTLE PRIVATE ENTERPRISE AND ESTABLISH STATE CONTROL OR OWNERSHIP OF MANY ACTIVITIES. BALSEIRO GAVE FIGURES OF THE 1940 ELECTION RESULTS WHICH, HE SAID, SHOWED THAT THE POPULARES DID NOT HAVE A "MANDATE", AS LUIS MUNOZ MARIN, PRESIDENT OF THE PUERTO RICAN SENATE CLAIMED, FOR ITS ECONOMIC REFORM PROGRAM.

JUN -4 1943

BALSEIRO SAID THAT DESPITE THE "FACT" THAT EVEN TUGWELL BELIEVED AS HE TESTIFIED YESTERDAY, THAT MOST PUERTO RICANS DESIRED STATEHOOD, THE GOVERNOR HAD FILLED KEY POSITIONS WITH MEN KNOWN AS INDEPENDENTISTAS AND HAS BEEN BACKING A GROUP WHICH FAVORS INDEPENDENCE.

HE SAID IT WAS MOST IMPORTANT THAT TUGWELL BE OUSTED NOW BECAUSE PUERTO RICO WAS TO HOLD ITS PRIMARIES SOON AND THE ISLAND "WONT HAVE ANY GUARANTEE OF IMPARTIAL ELECTIONS UNDER A GOVERNOR WHO IS PLAYING POLITICS ALL THE TIME."

REP.KARL M.LECOMPTE (R-IA.), POINTED OUT THAT ONLY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT OR CONGRESS COULD OUST TUGWELL AND THAT RIGHO NOW CONGRESS WAS BUSY WITH THE WAR.

UNDATED GERMAN

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS JUN -4 1943

GERMAN ARMY EXPERTS, TAKING A LONG AND CAREFUL LOOK AT THE "CHANCES OF ANGLO-AMERICAN INVASION OF EUROPE," ACKNOWLEDGED TODAY THAT SUCH LANDINGS MIGHT BE CARRIED OUT SUCCESSFULLY, BUT ONLY AT HEAVY COST TO THE INVADERS.

A BERLIN BROADCAST DISCUSSION OF TWO INVASION ARTICLES IN THE GERMAN ARMY ORGAN DIE WEHRMACHT, RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, DECLARED TRANSPORT DIFFICULTIES WERE THE GREATEST ALLIED INVASION PROBLEM, BUT ADDED:

"AN ANGLO-AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCE MIGHT PERHAPS SUCCEED IN CROSSING THE MEDITERRANEAN AND LANDING SOMEWHERE IN SOUTHERN EUROPE, BUT IT WOULD NOT HAVE THE SLIGHTEST CHANCE IN BATTLE AGAINST THE AXIS CONTINENTAL ARMIES WITH THEIR MILLIONS OF WELL-TRAINED AND WELL-EQUIPPED TROOPS."

JUN -4 1943

THE NAZI WRITER ALSO ADMITTED THAT INVADERS "MIGHT PERHAPS SUCCEED IN OBTAINING A FOOTHOLD AT SOME POINTS ON THE NORWEGIAN COAST FOR SOME TIME" BUT DECLARED THAT "FOR SUCH AN EVENT PREPARATIONS HAVE BEEN MADE FOR PROMPT AND EFFECTIVE COUNTERMEASURES."

"IT CANNOT BE DENIED OF COURSE," THE BROADCAST SAID, "THAT THE ANGLO-AMERICAN OCCUPATION OF TUNISIA CREATED A NEW SITUATION IN THE MEDITERRANEAN.

"IT WOULD BE FOOLISH TO IGNORE THE FACT THAT THE ANGLO-AMERICANS NOW ARE IN A POSITION TO USE THE BASES IN TUNISIA FOR OFFENSIVE OPERATIONS AGAINST EUROPE.

"ANGLO-AMERICAN TROOP AND WAR MATERIAL CONCENTRATIONS IN THE SOUTHERN MEDITERRANEAN CAN BE PREVENTED BY THE AXIS FORCES ONLY TO A CERTAIN EXTENT."

THE BROADCAST SUGGESTED THAT ALLIED FORCES STRIKING NORTHWARD ACROSS THE MEDITERRANEAN WOULD FACE TRANSPORT DIFFICULTIES SIMILAR TO THOSE THAT MADE "THE AXIS OCCUPATION OF TUNISIA AN EXTREMELY RISKY ACTION," IGNORING THE OBVIOUS ADVANTAGE THAT STRONG BRITISH FLEET UNITS AND GROWING AIR STRENGTH WOULD GIVE THE ALLIED ATTACKERS.

JUN -4 1943 JUN -4 1943

ATTACKED A LONG TIME BEFORE IT REACHED THE COAST."

FORTIFICATIONS ALONG THAT COAST WERE CALLED "HARDLY LESS STRONG THAN THOSE ON THE FRENCH CHANNEL AND ATLANTIC COASTS," THE BROADCAST DECLARED.

JUN -4 1943

APPARENTLY STRIVING TO FRIGHTEN THE ITALIANS INTO A LAST-DITCH FIGHT, AN ITALIAN MILITARY SPOKESMAN DECLARED IN A BROADCAST FROM ROME THAT "OUR FATE WILL BE TERRIBLE AND ATROCIOUS SHOULD WE LOSE THIS WAR."

"NOBODY WILL BE SPARED," HE SAID.

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, WENT ON TO ALLEGE THAT ALLIED AIR RAIDS WERE "COLD-BLOODED MASS MURDER OF OUR UNARMED CIVILIAN POPULATION."

"ENEMIES OF ITALY ARE PROMISING PEACE AND LENIENCY IN EXCHANGE FOR DISHONOR, SHAME AND SLAVERY," THE SPOKESMAN SAID. "THEY ARE PLAYING TO THE TUNE OF MAKING A DISTINCTION BETWEEN THE ITALIAN PEOPLE AND THE FASCIST REGIME. THIS IS SHEER UNSCRUPULOUS PROPAGANDA AND NO ITALIAN WILL BE SUCH A FOOL AS TO BELIEVE IT."

JUN -4 1943

HE ASSERTED THAT THE ITALIAN PEOPLE "NEVER BEFORE WERE SO UNITED AROUND THE REGIME OR SO CONFIDENT THAT VICTORY WILL BE REACHED."

ANOTHER ROME COMMENTATOR DECLARED THAT "IF THE BRITISH AND AMERICANS WERE TO TRY TO ASSAULT THE EUROPEAN FORTRESS NOT MUCH QUARTER WOULD BE GIVEN THEM. IT WOULD BE A MATTER OF BUTCHER AND BE BUTCHERED."

NOTING THE ACCOUNTING OF BRITISH CASUALTIES BY CLEMENT R.ATTLEE, DEPUTY PRIME MINISTER, IN PARLIAMENT, THE BROADCASTER SAID "SO FAR BRITISH LOSSES HAVE BEEN SMALL, BUT SOON THE WHOLE NATION WILL BE IN MOURNING IF CHURCHILL MEANS BUSINESS."

HEADLINES IN LONDON MORNING NEWSPAPERS EMPHASIZED THE POSSIBILITY OF AN IMMINENT INVASION OF THE CONTINENT FROM THE SOUTH.

THE NEWS CHRONICLE QUOTED FRENCH REPORTS CIRCULATING IN MADRID AND ELSEWHERE AS SAYING AN ALLIED INVASION OF PANTELLERIA COULD BE EXPECTED MOMENTARILY AND THAT THE ITALIAN FLEET WAS PREPARED TO STEAM INTO BATTLE AT AN HOUR'S NOTICE. THESE REPORTS SAID SARDINIA AND SICILY WERE LIKELY TO BE ATTACKED AT THE SAME TIME.

THE ANGLO-AMERICAN "EXPERIMENT" OF TRYING TO BOMB CORPORAL HITLER INTO NEAR IMPOTENCY IS SAID IN WELL-INFORMED QUARTERS TO BE PROCEEDING SPLENDIDLY ACCORDING TO PLAN, AND IT SHOULDN'T BE LONG NOW BEFORE THE WEAR-AND-TEAR BEGINS TO SHOW IN HIS FIGHTING MACHINE.

THE EFFECT OF SUCH BOMBING IS, OF COURSE, CUMULATIVE. THAT'S TO SAY, HITLER NATURALLY HAS RESERVE SUPPLIES WHICH ARE CONSIDERABLY IN ADVANCE OF HIS IMMEDIATE REQUIREMENTS. THUS EVEN IF ALL HIS WAR-PRODUCTION WERE HALTED AT ONE TIME, IT WOULDN'T NECESSARILY STOP HIS FIGHTING-MACHINE FORTHWITH.

THIS MEANS THAT THE DESTRUCTION OF AN INDUSTRIAL CITY MIGHT NOT BE FELT AT THE FRONT FOR SOME WEEKS. CONTINUED DAY AND NIGHT DEVASTATION OF MANUFACTURING CENTERS OVER A WIDE AREA, HOWEVER, WILL ACCUMUL-

JUN -4 1943

ATE A MOUNTAIN OF DISASTER THAT IN DUE COURSE WILL HIT THE FUEHRER LIKE AN AVALANCHE. THEN WILL BE THE TIME FOR THE ALLIES TO PUT AN ARMY ONTO THE CONTINENT FROM THE ENGLISH CHANNEL AND MARCH ON BERLIN.

ONE OF THE RESULTS OF THIS BOMBING ALREADY EVIDENT IS THAT THE NAZIS ARE HAVING TO INCREASE THE MANUFACTURE OF FIGHTER PLANES IN ORDER TO DEFEND THEIR INDUSTRIAL CENTERS FROM BOMBING. THIS MEANS A DECREASE IN THE PRODUCTION OF BOMBERS AND CONSEQUENTLY IN THE RAIDING OPERATIONS OF THE LUFTWAFFE. IN OTHER WORDS, HITLER IS HAVING TO TURN HIS AIR FORCE INTO A DEFENSIVE WEAPON.

WHILE THE ALLIED BOMBING IS GIVING AMAZING RESULTS, A ROYAL AIR FORCE COMMENTATOR IN LONDON YESTERDAY SAID THAT GREATLY INCREASED NUMBERS OF USAAF BOMBERS ARE NEEDED FOR OPERATIONS FROM BRITAIN. AT THE SAME TIME HE PAID HIGH TRIBUTE TO AMERICAN DAYLIGHT BOMBING AND SAID IT CONTRIBUTED GREATLY TOWARDS MAKING MAY THE MOST SUCCESSFUL MONTH OF THE AERIAL OFFENSIVE.

A105

THE COMMENTATOR DIDN'T AMPLIFY HIS STATEMENT, BUT THE POINT HE HAD IN MIND UNDOUBTEDLY IS THIS: TO BRING THE BOMBING DRIVE TO ITS PEAK OF EFFICIENCY THERE MUST BE CONSTANT DAY AND NIGHT OPERATIONS WITH BIG FLEETS. THE BRITISH ARE NIGHT BOMBERS AND ARE GOING ALL-OUT. THE AMERICANS ARE SPECIALISTS IN DAY BOMBING, AND ARE DOING A GRAND JOB. BUT THEY NEED MORE MACHINES TO INCREASE THEIR CAPACITY. INDICATIONS ARE THAT THIS DEFICIENCY IS BEING TAKEN CARE OF.

THE IDEA OF THIS ROUND THE CLOCK BOMBING IS A FASCINATING BIT OF

STRATEGY. IT KEEPS THE BOCHE CONSTANTLY ON THE DEFENSIVE AT ALL POINTS. THEY MUST BE ON THE ALERT DAY AND NIGHT, BECAUSE THEY DON'T KNOW WHEN AN ATTACK IS COMING.

THIS MEANS THAT THE GERMAN FIGHTER SQUADRONS AND THE ANTI-AIRCRAFT CREWS GET LITTLE OPPORTUNITY FOR SLEEP. IN ORDER TO GIVE WARPLANE AND GUN CREWS ADEQUATE REST, IT WOULD BE NECESSARY TO HAVE THREE CREWS FOR EACH SHIP AND EACH BATTERY. HITLER JUST HASN'T GOT 'EM. FEW THINGS ARE SO WEARING ON A SOLDIERS ENDURANCE AND MORALE AS CONSTANT BOMBING WITH NO CHANCE FOR SLEEP.

JUN -4 1943

THE GENERAL THEORY UPON WHICH THE EFFICACY OF ALL-OUT BOMBING OF GERMANY IS BASED IS BEING WELL SUBSTANTIATED. HITLER'S ARMY IS HIS STRONGEST REMAINING WEAPON, AND HIS IS BEING DEPRIVED GRADUALLY OF ITS STRIKING POWER BY THE ALLIED AERIAL ASSAULT.

THE DETERIORATION WILL PROCEED MORE RAPIDLY WITH PASSING TIME. THAT IS, IT WILL IF THE SLOWING DOWN OF WAR PRODUCTION HERE AT HOME DOESN'T CRIPPLE THE GREAT OFFENSIVE.

Pays Tribute to Nation's Resistance in Talk Over Algiers Radio.

JUN - 5 1943

SAYS LIBERATION IS AT HAND

Declares 'Those Who Suffer at Home Will Soon Hear the Thunder of Our Guns.'

London, June 4 (A. P.).—Gen. Henri Giraud in a broadcast from Algiers tonight told the French people that "the union you have so long awaited is now accomplished."

Gen. Giraud talked on the same program as Gen. Charles de Gaulle, but the latter's broadcast was jammed so much that it could not be recorded by the Associated Press monitor here.

Gen. Giraud spoke of building up an African army and then said: "But there is another French army to which I am speaking mainly now—the French army at home, without arms, without flags, the army of the French people who put up individual resistance, who sacrifice all, and who wait for the great moment; the army of French workers who are being dragged to Germany; the army of prisoners, my comrades, whom I knew and who keep the flame of their life burning."

"French traditions have always been aligned with British traditions. Great Britain has been the first guarantor of liberty against Fascism in Europe."

He then paid tribute to the British, American and Russian armies and said: "Now that the union of all Frenchmen is achieved, France once again takes her place in the ranks of the United Nations."

"First comes the liberation," he said, "then comes liberty. Frenchmen who suffer will soon hear the thunder of our guns."

Factory Shirkers Reported Facing Army Trials.

London, June 4 (A. P.).—With Italy tensely awaited an invasion by Allied forces, a Berlin broadcast told its overseas listeners today that the German Army was "preparing for battles on the largest possible scale."

The Algiers radio said that the Italian Government had ordered military trials for deserters from Italian war factories, Reuters reported.

London newspapers continued to trumpet the Allied threat to Italy's islands and mainland. Afternoon edition headlines were:

"More 'Invasion' Ships Are Massing."—Evening News, quoting dispatches from La Linea which reported at least 137 ships have left Gibraltar during the last few days.

"Italy: We Mass for New Blow."—Evening Star, quoting United States War Secretary Henry L. Stimson.

Says Nazis Are Ready.

The overseas commentator of the German radio was quoted as saying "the British are talking daily about an invasion of Europe being imminent."

Referring to the "assumption" that the Germans would remain on the defensive in Russia during the summer—an assumption which arose from a recent broadcast to German listeners by Lieut.-Gen. Kurt Dietmar, Nazi military spokesman—the overseas commentator said:

"The base of Europe is so strong and wide that it permits not only defensive but offensive actions."

The German General Staff is keeping its plans secret, the commentator added, but he asserted that several new divisions had been created and that the production of arms in Germany was exceeding expectations.

"So we can conclude," he said, "that Germany is preparing for the coming battles on the largest possible scale."

Some preparations, it was said, undoubtedly are being made in the Balkans, where the Yugoslav Government in Exile yesterday reported that resistance was still rising, with renewed successes being achieved by guerrilla bands. A special German communique announced today that Lieut.-Gen. Jacob, in charge of constructing Balkan fortifications, has been decorated by Adolf Hitler.

LONDON SUBURBS RAIDED BY NAZIS, DAMAGE LIGHT

JUN - 5 1943

Anti-Aircraft Fire, Fighter Pilots Drive Enemy Away Promptly.

LONDON, Saturday, June 5.—(AP) High explosives were dropped in one London district early today by an enemy plane which brought the capital area under alert and sent the anti-aircraft defenses into action.

Heavy gunfire was heard in some sections of the metropolitan area but the all clear was sounded within a short time.

Other enemy raiders appeared over western districts during the night. Houses were reported damaged by high explosives dropped on a west England town and incendiaries were dumped on one place in the western midlands.

Lying under the bushes in his garden, an English vicar saw his church wrecked yesterday by a delayed-action bomb dropped when 12 German fighter-bombers swept over a town on the southeast coast of England early in the morning.

Casualties Reported

The town, identified by the Berlin radio as Eastbourne, Sussex, suffered "some damage and a small number of casualties including some people killed," a joint communique of the Ministries of Air and Home Security said. Later reports placed the number of dead at five.

It was reported that R.A.F. fighter planes downed one Focke-Wulf, another was hit by anti-aircraft fire and a third was knocked down by ground guns. A fourth was believed damaged. One crashed into the bay near Bexhill.

Witnesses said the planes swept low, strafing the streets. Several buses were hit but the occupants had all taken cover.

British Spitfires damaged three E-boats yesterday afternoon in a sweep off the Dutch coast. One plane failed to return. One enemy fighter was destroyed when the R.A.F. engaged in a sweep over northern France.

R. A. F. SQUADRONS IN DAYLIGHT SWEEP

London, June 4 (A. P.).—British fighters made a sweep over northern France today without loss, and one enemy aircraft was destroyed, it was announced authoritatively. At the same time German fighter-bombers scattered explosives over a southeast coastal town and then shot up the streets, causing a number of casualties, including some killed. A number of buildings were hit, including a church struck by a delayed action bomb.

Residents of the town said that twelve Focke-Wulf planes made the attack and that two were shot down into the sea.

A total of 13,744 Axis planes have been destroyed since the beginning of the war, exclusive of losses on the Russo-German front and in the Pacific, compared with Allied losses of 9,358, according to the British magazine Aeroplane.

The British Information Service published figures indicating that American squadrons in the British Isles have destroyed 914 Axis planes since the United States entered the war.

The Air Ministry said that in May 525 Axis planes were destroyed against Allied losses of 444 in the home, Middle East, North African and India-Burma operations.

Mediterranean Held Safer Than Atlantic

London, June 4 (AP)—The Institute of London Underwriters advised its clients in hard-cash terms today that the Mediterranean now is generally safer for shipping than the long haul around the Cape of Good Hope to the Middle East.

As a sequel to the Tunisian victory and the recent anti-submarine campaign, the institute resumed quotation of insurance rates via the Mediterranean, which had been discontinued in June, 1940, when Italy entered the war.

The rates quoted were under those for trips around Africa to the same destinations. (American underwriters in New York recently cut cargo insurance for voyages through the Mediterranean to about the same levels as for trips around the cape.)

520 RED BOMBERS RAID OREL AREA

JUN - 5 1943

Large Fires With Explosions Reported In Rail Depots And Munition Dumps

[By the Associated Press]

London, Saturday, June 5—A raid by 520 Russian bombers on German-held Orel, below Moscow, in which it was asserted that only a single Soviet plane was lost was reported last night by the Moscow radio, while the midnight communique of the Soviet command again mentioned no action of consequence anywhere on the Russian land front.

The Moscow communique on the Orel raid said:

"As a result of the bombing large fires accompanied by explosions broke out in the railroad depots, ammunition and fuel dumps.

"All Soviet planes except one returned to base."

Moscow Silent On Velizh Action

The communique, as broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded here by the Soviet monitor, was routine in tone and made no mention of the Velizh sector between Smolensk and Velikie Luki west of Moscow, where the German radio earlier had reported that a strong Russian offensive action was under way.

This German account declared that three Russian infantry divisions and a reinforced tank brigade, perhaps a total of 50,000 men, had attacked repeatedly, and conceded a break-through behind the main German defenses although implying that this success was not exploited.

The thrust, said the broadcast, had been made in "an attempt to clear the way for the Russian rifle divisions, but in a counter attack the Soviet riflemen were overrun."

23 Nazis Planes Destroyed

The Soviet command in its midday communique also said nothing of action about Velizh, telling only of inconsequential fighting aground and announcing the destruction overnight of twenty-three German planes in the Kuban section of the Caucasus.

The German high command in its regular communique, however, had declared:

"Repeated Soviet attacks in the area of Velizh were frustrated by day and night (the German radio also spoke of the drive as having begun yesterday) with heavy losses for the enemy. Twenty-one enemy tanks were destroyed."

London, June 4 (A. P.).—The German radio reported today that the Russians had hurled three infantry divisions and a reinforced tank brigade, perhaps 50,000 men in all, into a powerful day and night assault aimed at smashing the Velizh line some 250 miles west of Moscow.

The German account, recorded by the Associated Press, asserted the Russians had failed to break through despite the intensity of the attack.

It said that the attack began yesterday with heavy artillery and bomber support.

Velizh lies between Smolensk and Velikie Luki. The Russian communique made no reference to a new flare-up there.

Mihailovic Makes Big Gain

Axis Troops Sent to Exterminate His Force Lose 1200 Square Miles in Balkans.

London, June 4 (A P.).—Axis troops attempting to wipe out Gen. Draja Mihailovic's Yugoslav guerrillas have been driven back toward Croatia and Slovenia and forced to yield 1,200 square miles of territory and twenty-one railway stations, the Yugoslav Government in Exile said today.

News of the latest Yugoslav successes followed a report yesterday by the German news agency Tass that Adolf Hitler had sent Field Marshal Gen. Siegmund Wilhelm List back to the Balkans in an apparent effort to clean out resistance and prepare the defenses there against invasion.

Croat units were reported by the Yugoslavs to have captured and held nine miles of railway line near Zagreb.

The Yugoslav Patriots were said to have captured 3,800 rifles and much war material in addition to the southern Croatian towns of Gracac (Grachats), Otacac (Otochats) and nineteen other towns in the 1,200-square-mile area.

Although many Serbian units are believed to have retreated into the mountains, guerrillas operating along the railway lines from Belgrade to Nis and Sarajevo and in the Axis southern defense areas of Greece were reported recently to have beaten a German punitive force of 5,000, killing the German commander and other officers.

London Press Plays Up Story

NAZIS CALL ON FRANCE FOR 220,000 WORKERS

JUN -5 1943

BERN, Switzerland, June 4. — (AP) A Berlin dispatch to the Tribune de Geneve said today that Germany has demanded that France deliver another 220,000 workmen to the Reich by June 30.

In an effort to meet the latest demand of the Laval agreement, the dispatch said, the Vichy government has revised its compulsory labor laws by eliminating exceptions, calling new classes and tightening restrictions.

The exceptions, which up to now applied to some youths between 20 and 23 have been cancelled. All those who are 21 will be sent to work in the Nazi war industries while those now employed in French armament factories will be liable for compulsory service in Germany.

There will be no more exemptions for students except those who are about to take examinations. They will be given a delay of six months before being placed under the labor draft.

5000 Jews Reported Killed And Warsaw Ghetto Destroyed

Some Shot Dead and Others Perish in Flaming Homes After Valiant Defense —14,000 Are Listed as Deported.

Stockholm, June 4 (A. P.).—The Germans were reported today to have virtually wiped out the Warsaw ghetto by deporting 14,000 Jews to the east after three weeks of desperate street fighting in which 2,000 Jews were shot to death and 3,000 died in their flaming homes.

A secret Polish radio station heard here last night said that the Jews in the walled ghetto, the scene of other bloody pogroms since the Nazis overran Poland, had given a good account of themselves by killing 300 German elite troops and wounding 2,000 others.

The broadcast said that the Jews defended themselves behind barricades as the Nazi troopers marched on the ghetto on April 12.

Resistance at the barricades continued until April 24, the report added, and then street and house fighting raged for a week or more as the Germans pressed in with the aid of artillery, machine guns, flame throwers and light bombing planes.

Bombs Blast Blocks.

Mines and bombs blasted entire blocks of buildings and fires swept many sections of the ghetto, the broadcast said. Water, gas and electricity were shut off and the Jews finally were forced to give in.

The station, SWIT, was the same which, on April 21, broadcast in the midst of the fighting:

"The last 35,000 Jews in the ghetto at Warsaw have been condemned to execution. Warsaw again is echoing to musketry volleys. The people are murdered. Women and children defend themselves with their naked arms. Save us."

The station then went dead.

Last night's broadcast did not make clear whether any Jews now remain in the ghetto, once crowded with 400,000 persons, but it was recalled that on May 14 Rabbi Irving Miller of New York, secretary-general of the World Jewish Congress, declared in London that 40,000 Jews had been murdered or forcibly removed from Warsaw.

He said the action was taken when the Jews revolted against inhuman treatment.

Return to Mediterranean

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, June 4 (AP).—Warships of the Royal Australian Navy again are operating in the Mediterranean, it was disclosed today, after a period in which they concentrated operations in the Pacific, following Japan's entry into the war. The warships were not identified, but the crews were described as among the most experienced in the Australian Navy, with service at Singapore, the Netherlands East Indies and other parts of the Pacific.

Lisbon, June 4 (A. P.).—Wilfred Jacob Berthold Israel, one of thirteen passengers on the airliner, was identified today as a former prominent Berlin department store owner whose British mother is now living in West Hollywood, Cal.

Mr. Israel, his friends here said today, escaped from the German Gestapo during the Jewish purge.

Owner of Israels, said to have been Berlin's biggest department store, Mr. Israel was active in aiding German Jews to leave Europe for Palestine and other countries of refuge, his friends said, and had been in Spain and Portugal arranging visas and transportation for refugees. He was returning to London with documents which they said would have meant freedom and safety for these people when the plane on which he was flying was downed.

Seven Wounded Flyers Dropped Over Portugal

Lisbon, June 4 (AP)—A British bomber, damaged in an aerial fight, was reported to have dropped seven wounded men by parachute naer Esmoriz in northern Portugal about noon today and then to have proceeded northward.

The wounded were said to have included British, American and Canadian flyers, who were taken to a hospital at Oporto.

British Wellingtons Hit Naples Docks And Industry With Block-Busters

LUCE

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, June 4—American bombers kept the Italian outpost isle of Pantelleria under a day-long assault yesterday, ending a week in which Allied warships shelled the rock-ribbed island four times and air units pounded it ceaselessly in addition to blasting Naples with block-buster bombs. All this was accomplished without a single Allied loss.

British naval craft followed up aerial bombardments of Pantelleria Monday and Tuesday nights by shelling the island Wednesday night and again Thursday morning, it was announced officially today.

Wellingtons Hit Naples

While the RAF was hammering the fortress island Tuesday night, British Wellingtons roared to the Italian mainland and dumped 4,000 and 2,000-pound bombs on the docks and industrial area at Naples, already punished severely in recent daylight raids by Flying Fortresses.

RAF Boston bombers joined American Mitchell and Marauder bombers and Warhawk and Lightning fighters in yesterday's continuation of the heaviest non-stop battering ever dealt an enemy stronghold in the Mediterranean theater of war.

Thursday's shelling of Pantelleria by British warships was the fourth since Sunday night and the fifth since surface craft were brought into the devastating offensive against the island stepping-stones at Mussolini's front door.

Answered From Shore

Duplicating their double assaults of earlier in the week, the warships stood off and hurled shell after shell at the tiny island situated midway between Tunisia and Sicily. Italian shore batteries, apparently weakened by the round-the-clock aerial bombardment, made a mild show of returning the fire. As in the other attacks, however, the warships suffered neither damage nor casualties.

The RAF's night raiders carried out their assaults on both Pantelleria and Naples without encountering any enemy fighters.

Today's belated announcement of the Naples raid said "many bursts were seen among plants and port buildings." In addition to the block-busters, the Wellington high explosives on the important Italian shipping center.

Correspondents Barred

[A Moscow broadcast heard by the CBS quoted Swiss dispatches as saying all foreign newspaper correspondents, including those of Axis countries, had been forbidden to enter Naples. Correspondents of neutral countries are allowed only in Rome and Milan, the broadcast added.]

Several fires and many hits in the dock area were reported by RAF flyers who participated in the two night attacks on Pantelleria.

The American daylight bombers were said to have scored numerous hits on the island's military establishments yesterday and to have caused large explosions.

Airfield Ruined

The one airfield on the island, reported to have been fortified heavily by Premier Mussolini, is believed to have been put completely out of use at a result of the non-stop attacks.

The island has had no respite from the terrific aerial onslaught since the conclusion of the Tunisian campaign, nearly a month ago.

A Cairo communique announced that RAF fighters, on a daily sweep over the Aegean Sea yesterday, set fire to a small sailing vessel.

Merchant Vessel Hit

United States Air Force headquarters announced that photographs showed a bomb hit on a 375-foot enemy merchant vessel attacked last Monday by Marauders at Porto Ponte Romano in southern Sardinia.

[The Berlin radio broadcast a propaganda agency dispatch from Rome saying that the death toll in the May 28 raid by American bombers on Leghorn, Italy, had risen to 249 dead and 600 injured. The shipbuilding center and submarine base 160 miles north of Rome was attacked by nearly one hundred Flying Fortresses and Liberators.

SHELLS RAINED ON PANTELLERIA FROM WARSHIPS

Night and Morning Attacks Made While Flyers Bomb Island for a Record.

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, June 4 (A. P.)—British warships have bombarded the Italian fortress island of Pantelleria for the third and fourth times this week, hurling shells into the harbor and battery areas, it was announced today.

Both Wednesday night and Thursday morning the big ships stood off and pounded the rocky island in duplication of their double assaults at the start of the week. There was some slight return fire from Italian batteries, but as in the two previous attacks the British naval units were reported to have suffered no damage or casualties.

Bombed day and night by American and Royal Air Force planes in the air siege, Pantelleria's shore gunners could reply only weakly as the British ships raked the enemy emplacements.

An Allied announcement disclosed that R. A. F. Wellington bombers battered the island outpost Monday and Tuesday nights and on Tuesday also delivered a block-busting raid on the damaged port of Naples. Two-ton bombs exploded on the Naples industrial area and among the docks and many were seen to burst among plants and port buildings, it was stated.

Besides block-busters — each capable of leveling a city block—the twin-engined Wellingtons dropped other types of high explosives on the vital Italian shipping center. The Wellingtons encountered no fighter opposition either over Naples or Pantelleria, striking evidence of the depleted state of Axis defenses.

[CBS said that the Moscow radio quoted Swiss dispatches as reporting that all foreign newspaper reports, including even those from Axis countries, have been forbidden to enter Naples. It added that correspondents of neutral countries were allowed only in Rome and Milan.]

JUN - 5 1943

Fires Reported Started.

The two R. A. F. night raids on Pantelleria were said to have started several fires and many hits were reported in the dock area.

American daylight bombers reported scoring numerous hits on Pantelleria's military targets and causing large explosions. R. A. F. Bostons joined American Mitchell and Marauder medium bombers and Lightning and Warhawk fighters in what was called the heaviest continuous bombing ever inflicted on an enemy stronghold in the Mediterranean theater of war.

Pantelleria, reported to have been heavily fortified by Premier Mussolini, stands about midway between Tunisia and Sicily. Its single airfield is believed already to have been liquidated by the sustained Allied air and sea assault.

Leading one wave of lightnings over the island yesterday, Lieut. Col. Ernest C. Young of Stillwater, Okla., skimmed within ten feet of the ground and narrowly missed hitting a well derrick, but placed his bombs squarely on his target. His flying mates were right behind him with more explosives.

Record Punishment.

Pantelleria's dynamite-drunk garrison has had no respite from air attacks since the conclusion of the Tunisian campaign nearly a month ago. With daylight raids now augmented by night bombing and the British Navy adding to the din with four bombardments in five days, the enemy on Pantelleria has absorbed a record amount of continuous punishment.

The American Air Forces announced that photographs showed a bomb hit on the bow of a 875-foot merchant vessel attacked by Marauders at Porto Ponte Romano in southern Sardinia last Monday.

Dwindling enemy aircraft opposition, reported for the past week or more, again was indicated in the Allied announcement that no planes were lost.

The new naval attacks on Pantelleria were reported by the Italians yesterday.

[The Berlin radio, broadcasting a propaganda agency dispatch from Rome, announced that the death toll in the May 28 raid by American bombers on Leghorn, Italy, had risen to 249 dead and 600 were hurt. The Germans declared that Nazi bombers badly damaged one steamer and set fire to another in an attack on an Allied convoy yesterday off Cape Bon, Tunisia. A Berlin broadcast bulletin said the damaged steamer may be considered lost.

[An Italian communique, broadcast from Rome and recorded by the Associated Press, reported raids against Pantelleria and coastal areas of Calabria and Sardinia.]

Long-range fighters of the Middle East Air Command ranged over the Aegean Sea yesterday in attacks on enemy shipping, a Cairo announcement said. A schooner was attacked and left smoking. No planes were lost.

Arab's Dead Cow Leads To Last Nazis in Tunisia

After R. A. F. Pays for Animal, Native Reveals Hiding Place

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 3 (Delayed) (AP).—Thanks to a dead cow and a helpful Arab, members of a Royal Air Force squadron declared today they had captured the last German prisoners in Tunisia.

Five German officers and non-commissioned officers who had been hiding nearly three weeks were rounded up on the Arab's farm after an R. A. F. party fired a few shots in the air.

The affair started when the Arab, who collected payment one afternoon for a cow shot during R. A. F. rifle practice, returned the next morning excitedly exclaiming "Cinco."

"What, another five cows shot?" exclaimed the R. A. F. adjutant general.

But the Arab, using signs, indicated that armed Germans were hiding on his farm. Because of the satisfactory settlement made for the loss of his cow, he appeared eager to do the British a favor through the German lines and got out of a threatened stronghold in ferocious fighting.

De Gaulle And Giraud Stress Unity Of French War Effort

Generals Broadcast On Anniversary Of Desert Battle After New Compromise Is Reached

KENNEDY JUN - 5 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Algiers, June 4—Generals Charles de Gaulle and Henri Giraud, addressing the French people by radio tonight, stressed the unity of the French war effort and called on them to support the new French Committee for National Liberation.

Their broadcast followed a long session of the committee which was reported to have resulted in a new compromise between the two leaders in which Giraud will continue as commander in chief of the French army and in turn will make several concessions to de Gaulle.

Sources whose names must be withheld said these concessions included the replacing of some high officers by generals from de Gaulle's Fighting French forces such as Paul Le Gentilhomme, Edouard Rene de Larminat, Marie Louis Koenig and Jacques Leclerc.

Headquarters Job

Giraud's command, however, will be strictly a headquarters job, it was understood, with no extension of his activities to the field. In his broadcast speech, de Gaulle said that the "only issue is the crushing of the enemy." Giraud declared that "unity is a victory for us; for the Germans it is a defeat."

De Gaulle asserted that "our life is at stake, but France has more cards to play—the loyalty and bravery of Frenchmen and our colonial population throughout the empire."

Said Giraud: "All the fighting men of France are grouped now on a single road."

Anniversary Of Battle

Their speeches took place on the anniversary of the desert battle of Bir Hakeim, when Fighting French forces under terrific attacks from German armored units broke it was leading the fight "not only for the liberty of France but for the life of every one of our children handed over to the enemy."

Giraud said that "Tunis has already wiped out the stigma of defeat."

He denounced the "little handful of traitors which deliberately played into the enemy's hand," but asserted that among the French were many whose failure was "not so much to do their duty as to know where their duty lay."

Tribute To De Gaulle

Giraud paid tribute to de Gaulle and those who had followed him to Britain and to the soldiers of Fighting France in the desert and elsewhere.

"But there are others," he said, "other soldiers and other leaders faithful to discipline who obeyed orders and who waited."

These, he said, had fought against the German armistice commissions, had hidden armaments in Africa and when the Allied landing came had joined in the fight. Eventually whole German divisions surrendered to them. Continuing, Giraud declared:

"And there is the army of all France—hostages and saboteurs—an army waiting to rise up. And there is the army of prisoners—my old comrades—who keep faith, hope and confidence in their hearts."

Committee Is Temporary

Honor is due all those who are fighting for France in any way, Giraud said.

Both leaders emphasized the temporary life of the committee, saying it would turn its functions over to the French people when the liberation comes and in the meantime its purpose was to serve them and lead all Frenchmen toward that goal.

Today the committee took up the task of directing the general war effort to parts of the French Empire not under Axis control.

In political quarters it was considered likely that a war cabinet would be formed within the committee similar to the British setup. This inner group, it was said, would consist of Giraud, de Gaulle, Gen. Georges Catroux, Jean Monnet and Rene Massigli—a streamlined body of five devoting all their energy to the war effort and leaving administrative functions to the others.

Might Be Enlarged

In such case, the full committee might be enlarged to twelve or thirteen members, it was said.

Marcel Peyrouton, dismissed by the Committee for National Liberation, handed over his powers as Governor General of Algiers to Catroux this afternoon.

Previously, de Gaulle had written to Peyrouton granting his request to serve as a captain in the colonial infantry and assigning him to Syria. Giraud also has written to Peyrouton in the embarrassing mixup caused when Peyrouton resigned separately to de Gaulle and Giraud.

Others Considered

The newly formed committee also was to consider the dismissal of additional officers on de Gaulle's ouster lists, notably the case of Pierre Boisson as Governor of French West Africa. It was considered likely that he would be replaced by Rene Pleven, vice-president of de Gaulle's now defunct National Committee in London.

A Fighting French mass meeting at which de Gaulle was scheduled to speak next Sunday and which was banned by Vice-Admiral Emile Muselier in his capacity as deputy commander in chief in charge of public order in the Algiers area will be permitted, it was reported.

Muselier still is holding the post to which Giraud appointed him as the crisis appeared to be reaching the danger point two days ago, but he is expected to be relieved of it on the grounds that the situation no longer requires such an office.

Retains High Command.

Algiers, June 4 (A. P.).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud were today reported to have entered a new compromise under the terms of which Gen. Giraud will remain commander in chief of the French Army but, in return, will make a number of concessions to the Fighting French leader.

Informants who nay not be named said that Gen. Giraud's concessions involve the replacement of a number of high officers by generals of the Fighting French forces, such as Paul le Gentilhomme, Eduard Rene de Larminat, Marie Louis Koenig and Jacques le Clerc. It is further understood that Gen. Giraud's command will be purely a headquarters job; he will not extend his activities to field command.

JUN - 5 1943

New Spirit In Algiers.

Meanwhile today the task of directing the general war effort of those parts of the French Empire not under Axis control was taken up by the new Committee for National Liberation.

A new spirit of concilliation appeared to prevade all political quarters in Algiers today, following the formal establishment of the committee yesterday. There was evidence of general satisfaction with the new setup, which marked the culmination of seven months of patient effort to bring the divergent elements together under one banner.

The American Minister, Robert Murphy, declared he was delighted. "A new baby has been born," he exclaimed. "It fulfills all our hopes and there is no doubt that there is sincerity in all quarters."

From a close analysis of the situation it appeared that Gen Giraud and Gen. de Gaulle had fared about equally well in their bargaining. Followers of both staged enthusiastic demonstrations yesterday when news of the establishment of the Committee for Liberation was announced.

BOMB JAPS IN BURMA

New Delhi, India, June 4 (A. P.).—Buthedaung, Japanese-occupied town in the lower end of the Mayo Peninsula, was bombed and machine-gunned from low level by R. A. F. planes yesterday, a British communique said today.

In four recent attacks on the area more than 100 Japanese troops were known to have been killed and many others wounded, the bulletin said.

Patrol planes also strafed boats in the Mayu River and Japanese ground forces near Maungdaw, it was said.

"Of land operations in Burma there is nothing to report," the British declared.

NEW DELHI, June 4—(AP) Three fliers who participated in the 1942 American raid on Tokyo left for home today after more than a year of active duty in this theater, still eager to take another crack at the Japanese capital from any direction and at any time.

The three are in a group of six fliers with a year's experience in China and India who are returning to help train new airmen in the technique of combatting Japanese fighters and bombers.

The three who helped Major Gen. James H. Doolittle bomb Tokyo are Jacob Manch of Staunton, Va., H. E. Crouch of Columbia, S. C., and W. M. FitzHugh of Galveston, Texas.

SOVIET FACTORIES GO AMERICAN

Moscow, June 4 (A. P.).—Soviet airplane factories have gone American.

For the first time in their history they have instituted American assembly line technic, it was disclosed today, and already production figures have been reported stepped up sharply.

Technicians who have seen the official Soviet reports and actually watched the new system in operation said one factory was reported to have doubled its output during the first two weeks.

Virtually the entire Russian airplane industry has been reorganized.

Red Transport Flyers Active

MOSCOW, June 4 (AP).—Russian transport pilots have made 127,000 flights to the front during the war, carrying the equivalent of fifty-seven trainloads of supplies and bringing out thousands of wounded soldiers, the army newspaper "Red Star" said today.

Ten-hour Kursk Air Fight.

Moscow, June 4 (A. P.).—The German air force lost 162 planes out of 500 that attempted to raid Kursk on Wednesday, it was announced today as the full story of the raid unfolded.

A correspondent of Red Star, the army newspaper, said that the Germans attempted an elaborate new plan of approach in the attack on Kursk, after their experience last May 22 when they lost sixty-five planes in a raid on the key Russian Ukrainian base.

This time they came in from many directions and at different altitudes to form a star, the dispatches said. The attack began at dawn and lasted ten hours.

But Kursk was on the alert and the city's anti-aircraft guns threw up a heavy barrage at the enemy craft which slipped past Red fighter planes at the distant approaches to the city.

Reserves Sent In.

Each side fed reserve planes into the battle and the German strategy of smashing with small formations was quickly stopped, with many Junkers 88s and Dornier 215s shot down. The Germans then sent in one squadron of 100 planes at great height, but only a few of them succeeded in unloading their bombs on the target area, the Russians said.

The Russians previously said that they lost thirty planes in defense of the city.

CHINESE ARMY PUSHES ON IN YANGTZE AREA

Nearly All Japanese Are Driven From Tungting Lake Region

Owchihkow Area, Yangchi On River Retaken—U. S. Planes Active

JUN - 5 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Chungking, Saturday, June 5—The Chinese armies, beating forward fast on both wings on the central China front, have thrown nearly all of the Japanese invaders out of the area north of Lake Tungting by reaching the river port of Owchihkow and have swept into Yangchi on the Yangtze to the north, Chiang Kai-shek's command announced today.

Ansiang, ten miles west of the previously reoccupied Japanese stronghold of Nanhsien on Lake Tungting, also had fallen to Chinese arms, it was added, most of the Japanese troops there having been annihilated.

Itu Entered

Along the upper part of the front, Chinese columns at last report had entered the Japanese river base of Itu in pursuit of Japanese forces seeking to cross there in their disorderly retreat in Hupeh province.

The position in the whole area below the Yangtze between Tungting Lake and Ichang, the principal Japanese base, thus underwent a transformation, the Chinese retrieving a still expanding section of China's rice bowl.

Particular importance was attached here to the penetration to Owchihkow, for it appeared that the Chinese might be able to cut off the retreat of Japanese warships, including the Yangtze flagship, which had steamed into that area before the Chinese comeback.

Described As Rout

Official Chinese announcements described the Japanese flight as a rout, which was being bloodily punished by American and Chinese airmen, who kept the Yangtze crossings under powerful assault.

In Itu, twenty-three miles below the main enemy base at Ichang, savage street fighting was reported; Japanese communications to Ichang were in danger of total disruption by the entry into Itu and the earlier fall of Chihkiang, itself thirty-five miles below Ichang.

More than half the 4,000 Japanese troops surrounded near Itu were officially declared wiped out.

The recapture of Nanhsien, at the northern shore of Lake Tungting ninety-five miles to the southest of Itu, was accompanied by the fall to the advancing Chinese of ten towns in the Hunan-Hupeh provinces border region.

Columns Strafed

A communique of the United States Fourteenth Air Force told of continued violent bombing and strafing action against the Japanese over the length of the Tungting Lake-Yangtze area and announced that the second attack in two days was believed to have wholly disrupted traffic on the enemy-held Canton-Hankow railway at a terminal near Changyani.

American Warhawk fighters caught and sprayed two Japanese columns of troops, each more than a mile long, on the road between recaptured Changyang, and Itu, later attacking four more columns on the same road.

"All elements of the columns were thoroughly raked with machine-gun fire," said the American communique.

"The complete surprise and viciousness of the attacks resulted in very heavy enemy casualties."

Near Itu itself, seven enemy plane and troop barges were blasted in the Yangtze, and other river craft were attacked.

Again in these actions the American command declared that enemy casualties "are believed to be heavy."

While American fighters were spreading death among enemy troops, medium bombers were at work on his rearward bases. An American raid on an enemy airdome near Yochow set off fires visible for ten miles.

FLEEING JAPS HIT IN CHINA BY U. S. FLYERS

Heavy Casualties Inflicted on Retreating Foe by American Pilots.

ALONG THE UPPER YANGTZE

Chinese Smash Way Into River Port of Itu---Advance North of Tungting Lake.

JUN - 5 1943

Chungking, June 4 (A. P.).—United States fighters and bombers in relentless attacks on retreating Japanese in the upper Yangtze battle area and on enemy concentrations in the rear near Yochow inflicted heavy casualties on Tuesday and Wednesday, a communique from Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell's headquarters said today.

They sank many enemy river boats, bombed a vital airdrome with explosives and disrupted rail traffic at a supply center, the bulletin said.

One Japanese plane was destroyed, three probably were shot down and two others were damaged. One American pilot yet is unaccounted for.

P-40s made demoralizing low-level strafing attacks on Japanese retreating columns on Wednesday, while Mitchell bombers attacked the Japanese base headquarters and an airdrome at Yochow.

The communique said that United States bombers and fighters generally harassed the enemy's retreat under pressure by the Chinese Army. It said that the complete surprise and viciousness of the attacks resulted in very heavy enemy casualties.

Dive Bombers Used.

Dive-bombing attacks by P-40 fighters for the second time in two days were believed to have completely disrupted traffic at Changanyi, important terminal point for Japanese supplies on the Canton-Hankow railway.

P-40s were reported to have exacted a heavy toll when they swooped on six retreating enemy columns each more than a mile long west of Changgang. "All elements of the columns were thoroughly raked with machine-gun fire," the communique said, 'throwing the entire movement into confusion."

Six landing barges and one supply barge carrying thirteen crated Japanese planes and ten launches, each towing barges loaded with enemy soldiers and supplies, were attacked by American fighter planes on the Yangtze. Many of the boats were sunk, the communique said.

P-40's were sent in waves against the Japanese forces falling back to and across the Yangtze between Ichang and Itu after their defeat by a Chinese Army supported by American and Chinese air forces in what the Chinese say is their greatest victory of the war.

The machine-gunning pilots poured thousands of rounds of ammunition into the bewildered Japanese ranks. Many units broke and ran wildly.

Hard-working P-40 pilots, flying in relays from an advanced airdrome, described the effect of repeated tree-level attacks as "slaughter."

Chinese troops sweeping toward the Yangtze River in the sector north of Tungting Lake have reached the river port of Owchihkow, virtually clearing the Japanese out of that area, a special Chinese High Command communique said tonight. The announcement also confirmed the reoccupation of Ansiang on Tungting Lake in North Hunan province and said victorious Chinese forces had swept into Yangchi, on the Yangtze below Chihkiang.

An earlier communique said the Chinese had smashed into the Yangtze port of Itu after annihilating 2,000 Japanese troops and had seized Nanhsien on the northern shore of Tungting Lake.

The report said that the battle on the upper Yangtze had turned into a rout of enemy forces, which were battered ceaselessly by American and Chinese airmen. Fierce street fighting was reported in progress in Itu, twenty-three airline miles below the main Japanese base of Ichang.

U. S. BOMBERS SINK JAP COASTAL SHIP

An Advanced South Pacific Base, June 4 (A. P.).—Two United States Army Liberator heavy bombers bombed and sank a Japanese coastal steamer Thursday in Tinputs harbor on the northeast coast of Bougainville Island, it was reported officially today.

A South Pacific Headquarters spokesman announced also that in other action in the northern Solomons Liberators located a second coastal steamer in Teop harbor, near Buka, and set it ablaze with machine-gun fire. The crew was seen to abandon ship.

The spokesman said the raid was carried out under the policy of consistently hitting Japanese shipping in the Solomons area.

The Navy Department at Washington reported in a communique yesterday that Liberators had bombed two small enemy vessels off Tinputs, damaging one and causing the other to be reached. The Navy, however, said this attack was made on May 31, and it thus appears the action was not the same as that announced today by South Pacific Headquarters as having occurred yesterday.

18 Tons Of Bombs Are Dropped On Wewak In New Guinea

Japanese Float Plane Is Destroyed In Fight At Aroe Base

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in Australia, Saturday, June 5—Resuming an aerial offensive which had been stalled by bad weather, Allied bombers yesterday dropped eighteen tons of bombs on Wewak, New Guinea, the high command announced.

This brought to 174 tons the total of bombs dropped in seven raids on Wewak and Lae. Yesterday's raid was the fourth since May 27 on Wewak during which the total tonnage dropped was seventy-four. One hundred tons have been dropped in three raids on Lae.

Ranging 750 miles above Australia to Babo in the MacCluer Gulf of Dutch New Guinea, medium bombers started fires which could be seen for forty miles.

Below there on the Aroe Islands, a Japanese float plane was destroyed and two damaged.

Explosions Started

The latest raid on Wewak, an airdrome and supply base of the enemy 450 miles northwest of Allied-held Port Moresby, started a series of explosions.

To the northwest of Australia, the island of Timor, a frequent target recently, was raided by medium bombers which struck at night at Koepang and Lautem.

The encounter with the Japanese float planes was made by long-range fighters while attacking the enemy's seaplane base on the Aroes. Nine float planes rose to intercept. Yesterday's communique also had listed a fight with float planes over the Aroes during which one was downed and another damaged.

Airdrome Attacked

The raiders of Babo, medium units, attacked the airdrome, seaplane base, barracks and dispersal areas. The big fire was believed to be a fuel dump.

The fire was so great that it illuminated the Allied planes at 9,000 feet.

Smaller fires around the airdrome appeared to be burning planes.

Big four-engined bombers struck at the Wewak area, raiding airdromes at Wewak, Boram and Dagua before dawn. The explosions and fires resulting indicated destruction and damage to grounded aircraft, fuel and ammunition dumps. Both Liberators and Flying Fortresses participated.

No Planes Met

As on the other six heavy raids, not a single Japanese plane rose in opposition. Sporadic anti-aircraft fire was encountered but all the planes returned to their base.

Liberators opened the attack and were followed in by the Fortresses. Then Liberators struck anew.

A spokesman at Allied headquarters pointed out that the report on the Babo raid was a delayed one. The raid, in which Catalinas participated, occurred the night of June 3.

Martial Law Invoked by Gen. Rawson, Head of Junta.

BUENOS AIRES, June 4.—(AP) Gen. Arturo Rawson led Argentine troops today in a revolt that sent President Ramon Castillo and his isolationist ministers fleeing to an Argentine warship, set himself up as head of a provisional military government, and declared martial law throughout the country.

Gen. Rawson, a 59-year-old cavalry commander, is known for his pro-Allied sentiments, and at least one of the proclamations said to have been issued by him pledged Argentina's cooperation in a "true American union of collaboration and compliance with our international pacts."

Pro-Axis Leader Seized

Although there still was no clear-cut definition of the foreign policy of the new regime, one of the first visible results was the arrest of a prominent pro-Axis nationalist, Manuel Fresco.

President Castillo and his ministers boarded the gunboat Drummond as Gen. Rawson's 7,000 troops marched on Buenos Aires at dawn from the military barracks outside the city. From his ship, which still tonight was cruising about the wide Rio de la Plata estuary, President Castillo began issuing proclamations defying the insurgents.

Crowds shouted "Long live democracy," at the appearance of Gen. Rawson and his troops.

Rioting Breaks Out

Some rioting occurred in the center of the city where crowds smashed trolley cars, burned buses and stoned buildings which they associated with the Castillo regime.

But most of Buenos Aires' residents did not even know that President Castillo had fled or that a military regime had replaced the man whose government was the only one in America still maintaining relations with Germany, Italy, and Japan.

One soldier and fourteen civilians were reported killed in the only clash accompanying the revolt. The fourteen were aboard a bus which was caught in a cross-fire between the troops and forces which put up a brief show of resistance at the naval engineering school in the suburbs.

War Minister Joins Revolt

President Castillo's war minister, Gen. Pedro Ramirez, joined Gen. Rawson in the revolt. The two are old friends and military classmates.

When Gen. Ramirez went over to his opponents, President Castillo named General Rodolfo Marquez as war minister and told him to crush the rebellion. But Gen. Marquez' troops refused to obey him.

Gen. Rawson was said to have made Gen. Ramirez, Gen. Juan Giovanelli, and an unidentified naval officer members of his military council which was pledged to remove disunity among the Argentines, as well as the fraud and "moral corruption" which Gen. Rawson said President Castillo's regime had fostered.

Airplanes were reported to have dropped proclamations in which Gen. Rawson said Argentina would collaborate fully in the Pan-American war front.

There was no direct word from the general to this effect, but Radical (Liberal) party members said they favored his movement. The Radicals long have sought to swing Argentina into the United Nations' camp.

Declares Martial Law

Gen. Rawson's decree declaring martial law said "I feel it an unavoidable duty that he, who is assuming at these moments the responsibility for the destinies of a nation, foresees any movement of trouble or disorder in the public peace, or attempts against private life and properties."

The new leader of Argentina was made cavalry commander last year when Gen. Ramirez left the same post to join President Castillo's cabinet. He was born in Santiago del Estero in 1884. He is a member of a distinguished family and his father was an army officer.

When he faced crowds beneath Government House balcony today, Gen. Rawson told them that his movement was "without any political leaning," and was aimed only at guaranteeing "the safety of our people and our nation."

He told them the former regime had failed to respect "our institutions and culture."

Roberto Repetto, president of the Supreme court, had not acted on recognition of the new government.

Gen. Rawson also issued a written statement declaring that "moral corruption" marked the Castillo regime which was "harmful to the true interests of the country, and prevented an economic upsurge."

Gen. Rawson's statement even said that "Communism" threatened the country, but amid the general confusion observers said one fact stood out: Argentine army leaders have been impressed by the country's failure to get financial and technical aid because of President Castillo's foreign policy which kept Argentina a holdout in the Pan-American front against the Axis.

(A Montevideo dispatch said the failure of Washington negotiations last year when Argentina hoped to get military equipment through Lend-Lease had deeply impressed military circles in the country.)

Castillo Broadcasts

A message from President Castillo was broadcast to the Argentines, asking that they obey Gen. Rodolfo Marquez, whom President Castillo had named chief of the "forces of repression" in an effort to put down the revolt.

However, Gen. Marquez resigned as head of the repressive forces in mid-afternoon, explaining that the troops would not obey him.

President Castillo's message had said that Gen. Marquez was head of the "legal forces." The refugee president's message added:

"The government has been forced to transfer its seat to a navy warship.

"It is ready to assure the stability of national institutions.

"I will not consent to the installation of a government by force which does not respect the popular will of the country."

Soon after the troops marched into the city, Gen. Ramirez entered the Government House in downtown Buenos Aires. Deputies of the Radical, which long has fought President Castillo's international policy, were in session there at the time.

Liberals Favor Revolt

Leaders of this party said later that they had no links with the movement, but appeared to favor the revolt which occurred on the day the Conservatives had planned to declare their presidential candidate for the September elections in succession to President Castillo.

Robustiano Parton Costas, Senate president, was to have been this candidate, and he said bluntly that the revolution was "aimed against me and I know it."

The first inkling that anything was afoot occurred at 2 a. m. today when rumors began circulating that there was unusual activity at Campo de Mayo.

Shortly afterwards all troops were ordered to remain in their barracks in Buenos Aires.

Near 5 a. m., President Castillo drove to Government House where he conferred with some of his ministers and other officials, apparently making the decision to flee aboard the gunboat.

Seize Official Centers

As the conference was taking place cavalry and artillery contingents led by Gen. Rawson were moving on the capital. When they reached Buenos Aires they divided into several groups and went on to seize control of official centers.

Today's revolution was the first major uprising in Argentina since the military, led by Gen. Jose Uriburu overthrew the regime of President Hipolito Yrigoyen, the country's last Radical president, in 1930.

Gen. Uriburu was succeeded by reactionary regimes, culminating in that of President Castillo who dictated a neutrality policy and imposed a state of siege to defend it.

The Radicals, or Liberals, have declared that the government used its control of election machinery to manipulate elections and insure its continuance in power. This was the discouraging handicap which Liberal elements faced as they prepared to fight the government coalition in next September's presidential election.

Fugitive Reaches Colonia In Argentine Gunboat, But Refuses To Go Ashore

[By the Associated Press]

Montevideo, June 4—President Ramon Castillo and his ministers who fled a military revolt in Argentina arrived at the Uruguayan port of Colonia tonight, but informed sources said the ousted officials were not entering into exile.

The Uruguayan Ministry of the Interior granted permission for the entry of the political fugitives, but it was said Castillo refused to leave his "seat of government" aboard the Argentine gunboat Drummond.

Sends Aide Ashore

Instead Castillo sent his Interior Minister, Miguel Culaciati, ashore to obtain food and medicine for himself and the other members of the isolationist Cabinet.

Sources close to the Uruguayan Interior Ministry said Castillo refused to land because he would lose his rights as President, and the Drummond was kept ready to sail back into the river.

An Argentine President must receive Congressional approval to leave the country.

Issued Proclamation

Castillo already had issued a proclamation from his floating government seat refusing to recognize the provisional military regime set up in his absence by Generals Arturo Rawson and Pedro Ramirez.

Unconfirmed reports from Colonia said all Castillo's ministers were aboard the Drummond at that port, 110 miles across the Rio de la Plata from Buenos Aires.

Infantry troops and maritime police threw a heavy cordon around the port. The Argentine consul and Colonia police chief were on hand to meet Castillo and his group.

Rawson Heads Junta

Before the fugitive Argentine officials arrived, private reports from Buenos Aires said the new military junta there was headed by Gen. Arturo Rawson.

Regular press communications between Buenos Aires and Montevideo were suspended tonight after a short series of transmissions during the afternoon.

The regular afternoon plane for Montevideo failed to leave Buenos Aires, and two-way mailboats were held in their respective ports tonight.

Private telephone calls to the Argentine capital often were interrupted by Buenos Aires operators, who kept repeating "on Government orders it is forbidden to speak of political affairs. . . . Please talk Spanish."

Lima, Peru, June 4 (AP)—News of the Argentine revolution surprised everybody here and was received variously in different circles, but it was cheered by those who believe the movement implies an about-face in the international path.

Brazilians Stirred Over Argentine Coup

Rio de Janeiro, June 4 (AP)—The Brazilian Government and people received the news of the Argentine revolt excitedly tonight, home-going workers scrambling for newspaper extras giving the news, which had been withheld all day.

Oswaldo Aranha, Brazilian Foreign Minister, worked late at his office studying information gathered from various sources. Some of his assistants were instructed to stay on duty tonight to keep abreast of developments.

Adrian Escobar, Argentine Ambassador, conferred with Aranha early in the evening. Both declined to comment.

Argentines in New York today

interpreted the Rio de la Plata revolt against isolationist President Ramon S. Castillo as a pro-democratic movement, caused by the strong feeling against the Government's dictatorial methods and its neutrality policy.

Argentine informants said that clamor for Argentina to break with the Axis and close the ranks of Western Hemisphere solidarity has been increasingly insistent, backed by perhaps 90 per cent of the people.

They believed that the revolt was well-organized and backed by liberal elements in the army.

Liberals in the army have become more vociferous, said Argentine informants, following the Allied voctories in Tunisia.

The pro-Castillo conservatives, according to Argentine sources here, attempted to quiet dissatisfaction with the neutrality policy by hinting that Robustiano Patron Costas, considered Castillo's choice as his successor, would break with the Axis if elected.

But a recent conservative declaration supported the Castillo neutrality stand.

Cleavage Has Been Growing.

Argentina's present internal troubles date from the conference of American Foreign Manasters at Rio de Janeiro just after Parl Harbor. Accustomed to function as a counterpoise to United States leadership in the Western Hemisphere, Argentina found at Rio that many American nations had already declared war or severed relations with the Axis Powers, or had predetermined their policies without benefit of Argentine guidance.

President Castillo instructed Foreign Minister Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, Argentine delegate to the Rio conference, to accept no commitments which would compromise Argentina's freedom of action. Argentina went no further at the conference than acceptance of a resolution recommending that the American republics sever relations with the Axis but leaving herself free to determine how and when she would comply. Then President Castillo decreed a state of seige.

President Castillo's neutrality policy has held since Pearl Harbor, backed by the state of seige by which he suppressed criticism.

The cleavage between President Castillo's Conservatives and the Socialist and Radical opposition has grown more bitter during his regime. He wants neutrality and isolationism; the opposition, led by Dr. Honorio Puerredon, favors closer co-operation with other American republics and franker support of the United States.

Castillo's Fall Traced Back To His Stand After Pearl Harbor

Discontent Over Lack Of Allied Trade Also Seen As Factor

The chain of events which ended in yesterday's revolt in Argentina began when President Ramon Castillo declined to go along with the rest of the Western Hemisphere in breaking relations with the Axis after Pearl Harbor. In the following article, Paul Sanders, news editor of La Prensa Associada, Latin-American affiliate of the Associated Press, recalls the various steps.

By PAUL SANDERS

New York, June 4 (AP)—The movement in Argentina to oust President Ramon S. Castillo got under way more than a year ago when his stand for "prudent neutrality" alienated a large bloc of his followers.

South American sources in New York said today that Castillo assured his own downfall a few days after Pearl Harbor when he declared a state of siege—a modified form of martial law—and announced his neutrality policy.

Case Against Castillo

Argentina's maintenance of relations with the Axis perhaps was not the outstanding factor in the situation that led to Castillo's overthrow, in the opinion of Argentines here, but intensified discontent over a tense domestic political situation.

Castillo, an up-country nationalist and isolationist, was nominated Conservative candidate for Vice-President in the 1937 Presidential elections to win extreme right-wing support for Roberto Ortiz, a moderate who was elected President and set out on a program to unify the country.

Argentina had been split politically since a Conservative revolution in 1930 ousted the last Radical (liberal) Government.

Sought Honest Elections

Ortiz insisted on honest elections and abandonment of Government interventions. Through these interventions, ostensibly to keep order, Radicals and Socialists charged that Conservative presidents had taken over provincial governments at election time to prevent opposition victories. Castillo, as Minister of Justice and Minister of Interior, had figured in interventions in several provinces.

Castillo became acting President in 1940, when Ortiz became disabled by illness, and further interventions followed at intervals in various sections of Argentina. Ortiz died in June, 1942.

The situation on the home front became increasingly bitter, especially in connection with an election in Buenos Aires province—biggest and richest in Argentina—the day of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. The Conservatives won, but the Radicals charged "fraud and violence."

Decreed State Of Siege

Almost immediately, Castillo decreed a state of siege on the ground that the war situation made it necessary. At the same time, he announced his policy of "prudent neutrality."

This immediately alienated a group of his supporters. Leading this bloc was former President Agustin P. Justo, an army general with great influence. Justo sent President Roosevelt a message of support and went after Castillo hammer and tongs. Justo died in January this year, but left many followers, both inside and outside the army.

Argentine proponents of Pan-American solidarity redoubled their campaign against Castillo after Argentina refused to go along with a joint move by Western Hemisphere republics to break with the Axis at the Rio de Janeiro conference in January, 1942.

Uproar Caused

Revelations by an inter-American commission at Montevideo that Axis agents were sending reports on American shipping from Buenos Aires caused an uproar, especially from the anti-Castillo radicals and Socialists.

A British Government statement deploring Argentine neutrality shocked many Argentines, who had been inclined to accept Government intin.ations that England—which has wide interests and great influence in Argentina—had accepted the Castillo stand complacently.

The revolutionary movement appeared to have been timed to head off the Conservative party convention today, which was to have chosen Senator Robustiano Patron Costas as Castillo's candidate in the October Presidential elections.

Conservatives had hinted that Patron Costas, if elected, would break with the Axis, but Castillo's unpopularity on both domestic and foreign issues had made a hand-picked candidate unacceptable, even to some of his own party members.

Unified French Committee Said To Meet Requirements Asked By Robert

(By the Associated Press)

San Juan, Puerto Rico, June 4—Creation of a stable and unified French Government through the machinery of the newly-created Committee for French Liberation has given rise to the hope among qualified observers here that Admiral Georges Robert may believe the time has come to throw the French Antilles and their military and economic resources on the side of the United Nations.

Responsible quarters believe that the union of the de Gaulle and Giraud forces may meet the requirement set forth early in April when Robert said he would join the fight for the liberation of France when "the French who are fighting form a unity under one single authority vested with sovereign rights."

Conditions Fulfilled

Recognition by both the United States and Great Britain seemed to fulfill the three conditions set forth by Robert in his letter to the Associated Press in April. This appeared particularly true regarding his complaint that the liberation movement was, at that time, in the hands of two groups, "one dominated by Britain and the other by the American Government."

Those close to the political situation believe that the committee's communique offers Robert a final face-saving opportunity. They hold that it places him at the hour of decision wherein he must move one way or the other.

ASKS DISMISSAL OF GOV. TUGWELL

JUN -5 1943

San Juan, Puerto Rico, June 4 (A. P.).—Gov. Rexford G. Tugwell's administration was attacked yesterday as "un-American and undemocratic" by Puerto Rican Senator Jose Balseiro, who declared it embodied an economic philosophy rejected in the United States.

Testifying before a congressional investigating committee, he asserted Mr. Tugwell was forced to quit Washington because of unpopularity and asked:

"If you people didn't want him in the United States why should we have him here?"

He demanded Tugwell's immediate removal.

Balseiro, a member of the Union Republican party, was granted a place on the witness list as a spokesman for the minority political party, but insisted that he represented the majority. This claim was disputed by Representative Elmer Ellsworth of the Puerto Rican Legislature.

Citing the expropriation of the White Star Bus Line by the Puerto Rico transportation authority, Mr. Balseiro asserted that Mr. Tugwell, in conjunction with the Populares party, was attempting to throttle private enterprise and establish State control or ownership of many activities.

Mr. Balseiro said that the transportation authority also was eyeing the American railroad and that other branches of the Insular Government were planning to take over telephones and the light and power companies.

He declared the island "won't have any guaranty of impartial elections under a Governor who is playing politics all the time." He demanded Tugwell's removal before the forthcoming primaries.

2 SUBS REPORTED SUNK BY R. C. A. F.

JUN 5 1943

Ottawa, June 4 (A. P.).—Two Canadian aircraft in the R. A. F. Coastal Command were credited by Royal Canadian Air Force Headquarters today with getting in "very promising" blows against a submarine pack during a recent eight-day battle between U-boats and a Royal Navy escort.

Squadron Leader B. H. (Barry) Moffitt and Flight Lieut. Jack Langmuir, both of Toronto, were commanders of the planes, and their crews were certain they sank or damaged two Axis submarines, an R. C. A. F. announcement said.

Langmuir's plane straddled one submarine with depth charges from a height of twenty feet and the crew engaged in a gun duel at 300 yards with the German Oerlikon gun battery.

Warrant Officer Clifford Hazlett of Chilliwack, B. C., who manned the front guns, said, "As we were passing over the sub during the second attack it had little or no forward movement and when we circled again well out of range, he had disappeared."

Moffitt's plane caught a surfaced submarine by surprise and after their depth bombs let go, oil and wreckage arose at the spot where the submarine had been, Coproral Harry Knelson of Baldworth, Saskatchewan, reported.

R. C. A. F. headquarters did not say, however, whether the two submarines were among the four definitely accounted for and six probably destroyed during the long engagement.

Observers Expect New Regime To Break With Axis And Join Allies

(By the Associated Press)

Washington, June 4—The belief prevailed in diplomatic quarters tonight that the army coup d'etat in Buenos Aires will bring Argentina, last Latin-American holdout, to the United Nations' side in the war.

Many observers expect a diplomatic break between Argentina and the Axis powers, if not an outright declaration of war.

The situation was described privately in Government quarters as "looking pretty good."

Recognition Likely

United States recognition of the new regime seems assured, assuming that it displays a readiness to cooperate in hemispheric defense.

The so-called non-recognition policy has not been in effect since 1930, said a qualified observer. This policy, applied in the days when Henry L. Stimson was Secretary of State, denied recognition to any regime that had overthrown a government by force. But since 1930, it was said, the United States has recognized any government that demonstrated:

Its ability to maintain order.

That it was in effective control of the government.

It recognizes and is carrying out international obligations.

State Department officials withheld comment pending a complete report on the coup that put War Minister Pedro Ramirez in power. However, Secretary of the Navy Knox, asked for comment at a press conference, said, "It looks as if the pro-Axis administration down there has been unhorsed."

Lend-Lease Factor

Some diplomats viewed the army's move in taking the Government out of the hands of President Ramon S. Castillo as probably intended to make Argentina eligible for lend-lease aid from the United States. Argentina would become eligible for such aid if she joined in defense of the Americas.

Argentina's generals are reported to have eyed enviously the new tanks and other weapons which Brazil and Chile have obtained through lend-lease.

Observers Cautious

Viewing the change in Buenos Aires as a straight army coup d'etat, some observers here said it was too early to determine whether it would provide Argentina with a more democratic regime.

General Ramirez, a career military man, has no particular political affiliations, so far as is known here. At various times military attache in Berlin and Rome, he has closer background connections with the Axis powers, if anything, than with the United States.

But Gen. Arturo Rawson, who led the troops in the coup, is regarded as democratic in his tendencies. Furthermore, reports that Argentine crowds hailed the "triumphant revolution" with shouts of "viva la democracia" were considered highly significant.

Whether Castillo, regarded here as a stubborn man, would relinquish his office was a doubtful factor in appraising the situation. But moderate optimism was the key note.

Davis Sees Anti-Axis Move

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP).—Elmer Davis, Director of War Information, said tonight that the revolution in Argentina, "means that even the conservative and military classes in Argentina realize that the Axis is going to lose the war."

Buenos Aires, said Mr. Davis, had become "a center for German, Italian and Japanese agents expelled from the rest of the Western Hemisphere." He asserted that the neutrality policy of Argentina, under which relations with the Axis powers had been maintained, was "mainly the work of President Castillo."

"The demonstrations in Buenos Aires,' he said, indicate that if the new government follows the Pan-American policy it will have overwhelming popular support. The people seem to regard this as an anti-Fascist revolution."

STALIN'S LETTER BRINGS SMILES FROM ROOSEVELT

JUN - 5 1943

Contents of Reply Still Secret, But President Reports Accord.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP) President Roosevelt gave every evidence of pleasure today over the reply Premier Josef Stalin sent to his recent letter, but he still kept secret the nature of their exchange.

Asked about it at a press conference, Mr. Roosevelt replied only that the understanding and accord between him and the Soviet leader is excellent.

This remark was delivered so smilingly, and with such high good humor, however, that there seemed no question but what the exchange of communications had been highly satisfactory from the chief executive's standpoint.

Mr. Roosevelt referred to the Russian leader as Marshal Stalin. If the use of the military title meant the President was thinking at the moment of military matters—and Premier Stalin's role as commander-in-chief of the Russian armies—there was nothing else to confirm it.

Conjecture concerning the letters, and it has been purely that, has ranged over a wide field. Among the guesses have been that:

The President advised Premier Stalin of British-American plans for an invasion of the European continent.

The President asked Premier Stalin to a joint conference sometime in the future with him and Prime Minister Churchill.

Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Moscow, took the President's letter to Premier Stalin last month and arrived back last night with the Russian leader's reply.

There have been reports that Admiral William H. Standley, the present ambassador to Russia, is piqued because the communications were handled outside regular diplomatic channels, and has submitted his resignation.

Asked about this, Mr. Roosevelt said neither the State department nor the White House had received a resignation from Admiral Standley.

ALLIED INVASION OF PANTELLERIA HELD IMPROBABLE

High Cost of Tactic, Little Value to Be Gained Cited by Writer.

By KIRKE E. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP) The first formidable Anglo-American invasion threat against the "soft" underside of the Axis continental fortress seems to be hovering close over the tiny Mediterranean waistline island of Pantelleria, midway between the Sicilian and African coasts. But there are factors in the situation which justify caution in appraising the tactical or strategic impetus of the Allied bombardment of Pantelleria.

The rocky, four-by-eight mile island is a little Gibraltar, bristling with great and small guns, it was said. Its military value to either side is at best sharply limited. Its capture at probable high Allied casualty cost would not seem warranted if there is some other way of eliminating it as an enemy observation post overlooking Allied convoy operations through the Mediterranean waistline.

In the face of British experience on Malta, the most bombed target of this war, there is small reason to anticipate that Pantelleria could be knocked out by air and sea bombardment alone. It could be rendered utterly useless in that way, however, as an obstacle to free Allied passage of the central Mediterranean—to shorten convoy routes to the Indian ocean, or to the eastern Mediterranean, by thousands of miles.

Probably Neutralized

That it has already been effectively neutralized as an enemy base of air or submarine operations is wholly probable. That, too, at a time when Spanish reports, otherwise unconfirmed, tell of tremendous Allied convoys mustering at Gibraltar and in the western approaches to the middle sea, their ultimate destination unknown.

There are other Mediterranean islands, big and little, of far more strategic consequence, from Sardinia to Crete and the Italian Dodecanese off the Turkish coast of the Aegean, which must figure larger in Anglo-American offensive plans than Pantelleria.

Tight Blockade Best Bet

There are no official estimates of the size of the Pantelleria garrison. The topography of the island would make it a serious invasion problem in the hands of a small if determined force of defenders, even without its indicated strong fortifications. Unless it afforded an essential spring-board for later attacks on Sicily, its reduction by invasion would seem a less logical Allied move than its neutralization by bombardment and establishment of an air and sea tight blockade of its garrison.

That could insure its ultimate surrender, particularly as there is little evidence that any substantial number of German troops escaping from Tunisia ever reached the island, and Italian army morale is low. It cannot fail to fall lower on Pantelleria when its defenders realize what seems to be the case, that they have been abandond by Italy and Germany to their fate.

36,688 War Prisoners Held In Camps Throughout Nation

JUN - 5 1943

22,110 Germans, 14,516 Italians, 62 Japs Included. Fort Meade, Md., Being Used Temporarily

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 4—Announcing for the first time the locations of twenty-one war prisoner camps in the United States, the army disclosed today that they now hold 36,688 men—22,110 Germans, 14,516 Ialians and 62 Japanese.

While many of these prisoners presumably were taken by American forces in Tunisia, officers said that others were captured by troops of Allied Nations.

Located in seventeen States, the present camps have a capacity of approximately 55,000 but they are being enlarged, the army said, and new camps also are planned.

Location Of Camps

With the exception of three—Angel Island, Cal., Camp Blanding, Fla., and Fort Meade, Md., which are being used only temporarily—the camps are expected to be used as permanent prison stockades for the duration of the war.

German prisoners are held at the three temporary camps, the army said, as well as eight others—Camp Breckinridge, Ky., Camp Chaffee, Ark., Crossville, Tenn., Camp Gruber, Okla., Hereford, Texas, Huntsville, Texas, Roswell, New Mexico, and Stringtown, Okla.

The camp at Crossville, Tenn., also contains Italian prisoners in a stockade separated from the Germans, but eventually one or the other group will be transferred. Italians also are held at Camp Atterbury, Ind.; Camp Carson, Colo.; Camp Clark, Mo.; Florence, Arizona; Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.; Ogden, Utah; Camp Hillips, Kas.; Weingarten, Mo., and Camp Wheeler, Ga.

Japs In Wisconsin

The Japanese prisoners are held at Camp McCoy, Wis.

The standard stockade at the prison camps is an area enclosed by a double barbed wire fence, with guard towers controlling the narrow land between the fences. Such a stockade contains three compounds, each with hut shelters and other facilities for 1,000 men.

To guard such a typical prison stockarde for 3,000 men and administer its affairs, the army assigns a detachment made up of three military police escort companies, with twenty-four extra officers, all housed outside the stockade.

Normally the three companies are rotated, one guarding the stockade, another on the alert to assist the guards if trouble develops and the third engaged in training exercises or in supervising groups of prisoners at work outside the stockade.

Administer Own Affairs

Within the compounds, the prisoners are organized into companies of 250 men, each commanded by an American officer assisted by several army enlisted men, but they are permitted and even expected to administer their own affairs as much as possible.

Relaxing the restrictions which have governed information concerning prisoner of war camps, the army said that reporters would now be permitted to visit them, but prisoners may not be interviewed nor may photographs showing recognizable features be published.

The only persons having unrestricted access to the camps are the diplomatic representatives of the governments looking after the affairs of enemy countries—Switzerland for Germany and Italy and Spain for Japan; representatives of the International Red Cross, who handle postal and other personal interests of the prisoners, and agents of the International Y. M. C. A., who look after the welfare and recreational work.

342 American Soldiers Lose Lives In Attu Island Fighting

Japanese Toll Nearly Five Times As Great, Knox Says—Navy Has No Casualties

JUN - 5 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 4—The navy disclosed today that 342 American soldiers gave their lives in the conquest of Attu, against Japanese losses five times as great. Secretary Knox added that landing operations were accomplished without the loss of a single ship or of any navy personnel.

Knox told a press conference that work of improving the Attu airfield, begun by the Japanese, already is under way. Asked whether Attu would be a good bomber base, Knox said:

"The weather is against anything being very good up there, but it will be very valuable and I expect it will be ambarrassing to the Japs on Kiska.

Main Enemy Base

Kiska is the main enemy base in the Aleutians, and there has been speculation that attempts will be made to clear the Japanese from it, now that Attu is retaken.

Back from a 27,000-mile tour of the Pacific fronts, Artemus Gates, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air, said today:

"At the present time it is a battle for air bases. That seems to be the trend of the war for the immediate present."

Asked if any new airfields have been established or captured by American forces in the Pacific, he said only "I can't imagine standing still."

300 Seabees

Knox said naval personnel on Attu consisted of about 300 Seabees naval construction men.

At the same time Knox disclosed the North Pacific area's joint army-navy operations are under the command of Rear Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid. Reporting to Kinkaid is Rear Admiral Francis W. Rockwell, commander of amphibious forces, Pacific fleet, who was responsible for transporting troops to the point of attack and providing for their landings.

Ashore, on Attu, ground operations were under the immediate command of Maj. Gen. Eugene M. Landrum, of the army, while Maj. Gen. William O. Butler commanded army air forces.

No Ships Lost

Knox commented:

"It is notable that this operation, under conditions of weather in which fog and low visibility contributed to the difficulty of transport of the ground forces and the landing of a large force of men, was accomplished without the loss of a single ship or a single man, and that casualties on shore were surprisingly low.

"This fortunate outcome cannot always be anticipated in amphibious operations which are well known to be the most difficult and dangerous in all modern military warfare.

"I cannot speak too highly of the coordination and cooperation between the army and the navy throughout this operation."

1,791 Japanese Dead

Japan's dead in the Attu battle were 1,791.

30.24 - 4661

Besides the American dead, 58 men are missing and 1,135 were wounded to bring total casualties to 1,535.

There were no reports of Japanese wounded, and only eleven Nipponese were taken prisoners. The total of Japanese dead also does not take into account the numerous enemy soldiers who were killed by bombs dropped from American planes or naval shells hurled onto the island in the initial phases of the camapign.

Total Not Known

The exact total of enemy dead may never be known, for the men killed early in the campaign all were cremated or buried before American troops learned their number.

For the 342 American deaths, the United States gained an island that, although tiny in area and lacking in most vegetation, is of major strategic importance. It can serve as a weather station to guide naval and air forces in the North Pacific, as the source of renewed attacks on Kiska, or to control supply lanes to Kiska.

But, more important, is the possibility that completion of the Attu airfield, started by the Japanese, will permit American planes to raid the enemy's territory. Most logical of the points of aerial assault would be the Japanese naval base at Paramushiro. That big base—the largest the Japanese have in the North Pacific—is only 630 nautical miles west of Attu, at the northern end of the Kurile island chain in which Japan itself is located.

Lewis Sends Reply

"I have your letter of June 4.

"I have no power to direct. I shall, however, recommend to the policy committee of the United Mine Workers of America that it direct the mine workers to return to work on Monday, June 7."

A short time later he made the recommendation and the policy committee unanimously adopted it.

Mr. Lewis did not let the occasion pass, however, without another denunciation of the War Labor board, which he has refused to recognize during the long wage dispute. In a speech to the policy committee, Mr. Lewis accused the board of adopting a "piously arrogant" attitude, and of issuing "unlawful directives."

Attacks WLB Members

"These little strutting men of the WLB have sought to place upon the miners the responsibility for this work stoppage, which rests actually on their own smug shoulders," he said.

With today's fast-moving developments, there was ended for the government a tense period of crisis which set in yesterday when President Roosevelt, as wartime commander-in-chief, issued an order directi[illegible]e miners to return to work on Monday.

It marked the end, too, of a personal struggle between the President and Mr. Lewis, one-time political allies turned enemies, and a major triumph for the President's War Labor board which had demanded a policy of "getting tough" with Mr. Lewis rather than making any concessions.

With the end of the strike, the wage controversy will revert to the War Labor board which presumably will determine then whether to order a resumption of negotiations on portal-to-portal pay.

Bargaining between the mine owners and the United Mine Workers was underway on this issue when the work stoppage began last Monday midnight with expiration of a temporary agreement under which coal was being mined.

Although there seemed to be some indications that an agreement on the issue was not far off, the WLB ordered negotiations halted and announced that it would not approve any agreement reached under "strike coercion." It took the adamant attitude that no concessions should be granted while a strike continued. Otherwise, it held, the government's whole policy of settling wartime labor disputes without work stoppages would break down.

Strike Stirs Congress

Mr. Lewis finally gave in at the end of a day in which the cry was heard in Congress that he should be jailed, and the government maneuvered to place strong pressure on him to call off the strike.

Among the latter moves was a press conference statement by President Roosevelt that the draft law would come into operation against any recalcitrant strikers who have been deferred from service with the armed forces because of their occupation, and House passage of legislation providing fines and prison sentences for any one instigating or aiding a strike in a government-operated war facility.

Then, Secretary Ickes, as Federal boss of the mines, dispatched this message to the miners' chieftain:

"As operator of the coal mines on behalf of the United States government, I expect that you will direct the members of the United Mine Workers of America to return to work on Monday, June 7."

It was in reply to this that Mr. Lewis disclosed he was ready to bow to the government. In addition to sending his reply to Secretary Ickes, he also had copies distributed to reporters.

In his speech to the U.M.W. policy committee, Mr. Lewis said negotiations for a solution of the crisis were proceeding favorably under Secretary Ickes when the WLB stepped in.

"Fearful lest a solution be reached under auspices not compatible with the self importance of the WLB, that body on Wednesday maliciously commanded that these negotiations cease forthwith," he said.

Attacks Labor Board

"Thereby this jealous and vindictive body again demonstrated that its members place their own vanity above the national interest. This piously arrogant attitude is consistent with their earlier unlawful directives forbidding collective bargaining negotiations except under their capricious auspices, which directives were primarily responsible for the present crisis."

"The operators," he added, "have taken full and collusive advantage of these maneuvers, likewise placing their selfish interests above existing legislation and the national good.

"The mines, however, are closed. The nation needs coal. By malicious propaganda, these little strutting men of the WLB have sought to place upon the miners the responsibility for this stoppage, which rests actually on their own smug shoulders.

"Notwithstanding these abusive tactics, the miners and their leaders, as patriotic Americans, placed the law and the national interest above their own ungranted and long deferred claims for justice and equity."

Referring to Secretary Ickes, he said: JUN -5 1943

"The solid fuels administrator is a duly constituted agent of the government, and we desire to cooperate with him. The operators, by their collusion with the War Labor board and by other unworthy and obstructive tactics, have forfeited their prerogatives of remaining masters in their own house.

"We have the assurance of the President that as soon as the mine workers return, the disposition of the dispute will forthwith proceed. We interpret this to mean that collective bargaining will proceed forthwith, with the operators acting in good faith to achieve a solution forthwith.

Demands Justice, Equity

"We shall demand and expect that justice and equity will be granted to the miners by the lawfully constituted agencies of our government, in due course."

The assertion that Mr. Lewis should be jailed came from Senator Eastland (D-Miss) during a flurry of Senate debate in which Senator Byrd (D-Va) declared that "dissolution here at home" and a "national disaster" might follow if Mr. Lewis successfully defied the government.

"I think John L. Lewis' wrong is 100 times worse than crimes for which death is the penalty," Senator Eastland shouted.

The House, meantime, by vote of 231 to 141, approved the measure providing for prison sentences and fines for persons instigating or leading strikes in government-operated plants. The bill, which now goes to the Senate for action on amendments, also prohibits use of union funds to support a strike or to aid in a political campaign.

Mr. Roosevelt discussed the draft law and strikes after a reporter asked at his press conference whether troops would be sent to the mine fields Monday.

As to the use of troops, he preferred not to comment, he said, because he hoped the miners would return to work. Then he volunteered that a good deal had been written about the possible induction of strikers into the Army.

There is nothing startling or new about that situation, he added, explaining it in this manner:

The rule is simple and applies to all, not only the miners. It simply is that where a man has been deferred from induction into the armed services because of his occupation he normally remains deferred so long as he continues to work at that job. But if he quits work, the reason for his deferment ends and he is liable for induction.

Miners to Get More Pay

After Mr. Lewis advised he was recommending that the miners go back to work, Secretary Ickes issued a statement giving the miners a "guarantee that the mines will be operated so as to safeguard the (Union) rights of the workers."

He also told them that a $30 boost in vacation allowances—from $20 to $50—would be awaiting them, and that changes in working conditions ordered by the War Labor board would be effective. The WLB ordered the boost in vacation pay, and also directed that the mine owners supply certain equipment which the miners heretofore have paid for. This change will save the miners 8 to 15 cents a day.

Coal men estimated the shutdown would cost the nation 10,000,000 tons of fuel. It already has resulted in some restriction of production including the closing of a blast furnace at Birmingham, Ala.

WLB DIRECTS MILK DELIVERY ORDERS OBEYED

Telegram to Union Leaders Says Drivers' Stand Is Form of Strike.

JUN -5 1943

Washington, June 4 (A. P.).—The War Labor Board declared today refusal of milk drivers in New York city to comply with orders of the Office of Defense Transportation is "a form of strike" which violates labor's no-strike pledge, and ordered milk deliveries continued without interruption.

Wayne L. Morse, public member of the board, sent this telegram to officials of the A. F. of L. Brotherhood of Teamsters there:

"The board regards the present refusal of the milk drivers in New York city to comply with the directions of their employers in so far as such directions are based upon existing orders of the ODT, as a form of strike in violation of labor's war time no-strike pledge to the nation.

"Accordingly, the drivers are directed to comply with the existing orders of the ODT unless or until such orders are modified. Pending a final solution of the current labor dispute by the War Labor Board, the milk distributors are directed to make no layoffs.

"The War Labor Board yesterday held a preliminary conference with officials of the ODT and other interested Government agencies and is appointing a division of the board to confer immediately with such agencies, and if necessary with the War Mobilization Board, with a view to eliminating any injustices found to exist in the present situation.

"In accordance with its established policies, the board will continue its efforts to settle the existing labor dispute only while milk deliveries continue without interruption because of the dispute."

The telegram was addressed to Michael J. Cashal, vice-president of the teamsters; Fenton G. Hibbets, Thomas O'Leary, William Egelking, Lawrence McGinley and Fred Conrad, all local union presidents in New York city, Newark, N. J., and Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Mayor Expects Compliance.

Mayor La Guardia, a few minutes after he had promised that drastic action in the milk tieup was under way, announced that he would take immediate steps to see to it that the War Labor Board order that milk deliveries be made without interruption was obeyed.

After taking time to digest the WLB order, the Mayor made the following statement:

"I expect compliance by both sides. As I interpret the order, it means first, deliveries must be made in accordance wtih the Government order. Second, employees must comply. No slowdowns or no refusal to deliver and no layoff. I construe it to mean what it says. No man will be laid off and the status quo on employment will continue until the final report of the committee designated in the order.

"I assured Washington I will give full and complete co-operation in enforcement of the order. This means delivery of milk and protection of the men against layoffs."

This statement by the Mayor followed by several hours the charge by the Milk Dealers Association that refusal of the union to permit double deliveries of milk to retail stores today was "sabotage of the war effort."

At the very moment the Mayor was taking action, the police reported their first case of violence in the milk case and that resulted in a full case of bottled milk being dumped into a Harlem gutter.

The action took place in front of the Muller Dairies, Inc., 470 West 128th street, where an unidentified Harlem dealer, tired of listening to the pleas of mothers for milk, went to get some milk in his own car. He was toting a case of milk to his car with a Muller employee behind him with another case when he heard a shout, turned around and saw two or three men taking the Muller employee's case away from him. In a moment the milk was running down the gutter.

It was said that the assault was by men who had been picketing a nearby milk distributor. They fled before police arrived, and at Muller's it was said they did not know the retailer who had come for the milk.

Menace to Health

Dr. Ernest L. Stebbins Commissioner, said that constitutes a health menace and declared that if it went beyond today the Board of Health will have to take action to restore distribution for the benefit of th: city's children.

Meanwhile, mothers with babies in their arms were in many instances going from store to store in a vain effort to get milk needed by infants and small children. The Mayor had promised action after a conference with Michael J. Cashal, head of the drivers union. Mr. Cashal declined to discuss what took place in his talk with the Mayor, but placed full blame for the situation on the milk dealers who, he charged, were doing everything within their power to aggravate the drivers and at the same time hiding behind the Government.

Edward O. Mather, director of the milk dealers association, said the union had been engaging in "a clear conspiracy to violate the law" and characterized their action as "ruthless and callous maneuvers by power - drunk union leadership" and called on the Department of Justice to take immediate action against the union.

Mayor Did Talking.

The Mayor said that he did all the talking in his conference with Mr. Cashal.

"The situation is not as good as it was yesterday," he added. 'Frankly, I don't like it.

Told that the milk association wanted the Department of Justice to take action, the Mayor said that was not the way to settle the matter.

Mr. Cashal said that he was at home last night and therefore did not know what might have happened among the drivers during the night. He insisted, however, that the union had not sent out any flying squads or otherwise been guilty of any violence.

"I think I am entitled to a little rest once in a while," he said in explanation of his being home when the city was in the midst of a milk crisis growing out of action by his union.

He repeated that the milk association was responsible for everything that had happened and that labor was entitled to disagree with a Government regulation—that such disagreement did not constitute fighting the Government.

Store Deliveries Cut.

It was difficult to determine how much milk was delivered to retail stores, but Mr. Mather said that "practically none" was delivered and that the union had sent out flying squads to all plants and distributing stations to prevent trucks already loaded from moving. Not only have the drivers refused to take out double loads of milk, but they have suddenly refused to follow a custom of long standing — that of picking up empty bottles and cases.

This represents another clear violation of ODT orders which state that companies may not send out empty trucks for the specific purpose of picking up empties.

"This is clearly an attempt by the union in its program to break down the ODT order to force the milk companies to violate the expressed terms of the order," Mr. Mather said. "The milk companies must comply and have been complying with the ODT order. The union, in its fight with the Government, has not only interfered with such changes in distribution as would have to be made if the companies are to distribute the necessary milk while complying, but have this morning recklessly interfered with the normal operation of wholesale distribution."

Mr. Mather warned that this union action made it likely that 3,000,000 quarts of milk now available for distribution may have to be dumped.

No Sunday Deliveries.

Tomorrow both retail, or door-to-door, and wholesale deliveries are scheduled under the ODT gasoline curtailment order, but on Sunday neither type of delivery is to be made. Thus, if double supplies are not given to homes and stores tomorrow, there will be little, if any, milk available on Sunday.

Mr. Cashal said today that the union officials might not be able to control its men if they were docked for the off days under the new schedule. They have been reporting for work every day.

Meanwhile opposition to the half-cent a quart decrease in the price of delivered milk brought opposition from three quarters. The decrease, announced yesterday and effective Monday, was ordered by the Office of Price Administration with the explanation that it was made possible by the savings in labor costs under the skip-a-day schedule.

Mr. Cashal said the drivers resented the price decrease because "it comes out of their hides," explaining that the only savings which the milk companies could affect would be by dismissal of a large number of drivers.

RIGID LABOR CURBS ADOPTED IN HOUSE

JUN - 5 1943

Amended Connally Bill Could Bring Prison Term for Strike Leader.

WASHINGTON, June 4—(AP) The House carved out today a powerful cudgel with which to deal with wartime strikes.

By a record vote of 231 to 141 it returned to the Senate the vastly-amended Connally bill under which union leaders could be sent to prison for a year for instigating or directing a strike or using union funds to further a work interruption in a government-operated industry.

One hundred Democrats and 131 Republicans voted for the bill. Against it were 89 Democrats, 48 Republicans and four minor party representatives.

Faces Fight in Conference

The Senate, in passing the original Connally bill May 5, had demonstrated opposition to such stiff legislation, and indications were the measure would be buffeted around in conference between the two branches before a compromise could be worked out.

Salient provisions of the House Measure include these:

No strike could be called under any circumstances in a government-seized plant, but the right of an individual to stop work would not be interfered with.

In a war industry not under government operation, a strike could be called only after 30 days' notice and a secret ballot of workers involved, with the Labor department supervising the voting.

Labor unions would be required to file annually a statement showing their financial and membership status.

Unions would be prohibited from making political contributions in elections for Federal offices.

Property seized by the government as a result of labor difficulties would have to be returned to private ownership not later than 60 days after the cause for seizure was removed.

Board Powers Increased

The National War Labor board would have power to take jurisdiction in any labor dispute, except those already covered by the Railway Labor act, could compel parties to come before it (a power it does not have now) could order maintenance of the status quo for 60 days, and could issue a closed shop or maintenance of union membership order.

Individuals striking in violation of the 30-day notice and secret ballot sections would lose for one year their status under the National Labor Relations act and their protection under the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction act; so would union officers.

The section with the "teeth" in it provides for a $5,000 fine and a year imprisonment for anyone instigating or directing a strike in a government-operated industry.

Announcement of John L. Lewis' decision to urge striking miners to return to work had not been made when the House voted, and it was expected a strong attempt would be made to remove this section from the bill in conference.

As finally passed, the bill embodied major provisions of the bill of Senator Connally (D-Tex) passed by the Senate, and a substitute drafted by the House Military committee. The committee substitute contained major provisions of the bill of Rep. Smith (D-Va) which the House passed Dec. 3, 1941, and which the Senate shelved.

As it left the House, though, the bill bore the name of a Republican, Rep. Harness of Indiana. Rep. Harness had offered a substitute which in turn was amended by Rep. Smith to restore the measure to a reasonable likeness of the Connally-Military committee bill.

The only new language written in was the ban drafted by Rep. Harness against political contributions and an amendment by Rep. Gwynne (R-Iowa) prohibiting a member of the War Labor board from sitting in a case in which he had a direct interest.

CATALINA PLANE BLEW UP U-BOAT

JUN - 5 1943

Washington, June 4 (A. P.).—A Navy Catalina patrol plane swooped down on a surfaced U-boat in the South Atlantic and blew it in two before the sunbathing crew could get into action.

The Navy in telling of the incident yesterday gave no indication, however, of the probable nature of several objects which looked like long cylindrical tanks, that floated up after the submarine had been blown out of the water by exploding depth charges. The attack occurred several months ago.

The submarine was spotted by Aviation Machinist's Mate Billie Goodell of Bessemer, Ala. The plane's pilot, Lieut. (j.g.) William R. Ford of Crescent City, Fla., reached the submarine so quickly, the Navy said, that the raider's crew was unaware of the plane's approach until too late to act.

early meeting of President Roosevelt with Winston Churchill and Joseph Stalin "to settle now the issues that are in the minds of the people of America and the conquered countries."

Roosevelt Is Informed

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—China's Foreign Minister told President Roosevelt today about the details of the fighting in China, and asserted afterward that air reconnaissance indicated the Japanese retreat in the Ichang area appears to be turning into a rout.

The envoy, T. V. Soong, commented to reporters that the Chinese are now fighting for the first time with an air umbrella, and "what a world of difference it makes." Chungking, the provisional Chinese capital, now is safe, he said.

Los Angeles Hearings On Japs Open Tuesday

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Representative Mundt (R., S. D.) left tonight with Representaitve Eberharter (D., Pa.) for Los Angeles to join Representative Costello (D., Cal.) as a sub-committee of the Dies committee on un-American activities, to begin public hearings Tuesday on the "Japanese situation on our West Coast."

"The War Relocation Authority has been releasing Japanese from relocation centers at the rate of about 1,000 a week and investigators have disclosed that the ratio of disloyal to loyal Japanese is alarmingly high," Mundt said.

"The sub-committee will also investigate the actions of the Japanese organization known as 'Butokukai,'" he said.

Full Segregation Planned

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—German and Italian prisoners of war are held at Crossville, Tenn., but in separate compounds. As soon as facilities are available, either the Germans or Italians will be moved to another camp.

The War Department said that reporters could visit the prison camp, but that interviews with prisoners would not be permitted.

New Protocol For Aid To Russia Forecast

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Allied officials said today that a new protocol for American-British-Canadian aid to Russia probably will be signed soon.

Imminence of the new pact became known after the return from Moscow of Maj. Gen. James H. Burns, executive officer of the Anglo-American munitions assignment board.

Officials interested in the Russian situation said they understood that the new protocol will provide steep increases in the amounts of food and industrial machinery and materials, but without any substantial lessening of munitions shipments.

'Coronation Scot' Train To House Army Officers

JUN - 5 1943

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 4—The "Coronation Scot," de luxe British passenger train which was exhibited at the New York World's Fair, was presented to the United States today to provide temporary living quarters for Army officers.

A deed transferring the train to the government was executed by R. B. White, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, acting as agent for the London, Midland & Scottish Railway Company.

The deed stipulated that the train be turned over to Major Gen. Edmund B. Gregory, Quartermaster General of the Army. It will be stationed at Jeffersonville, Ind., for use of officers of the quartermaster depot there.

The "Scot" consists of eight cars, two coaches, a coach lounge, a first-class diner, a third-class diner, a kitchen, a sleeper with twelve berths and a club car.

N. Y. A. Drops Japanese From Training Centers

Ousts 275, All U. S. Citizens, After Dies Investigation

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP).—The National Youth Administration, caught in the middle of a dispute over whether Japanese are being released "willy-nilly" from war relocation centers, stepped out of the range of fire today by releasing about 275 young men and women Japanese evacuees, all United States citizens, from its training centers.

The N. Y. A.'s action was announced by the War Relocation Authority, which said it followed "recent unfounded allegations by an investigator of a Congressional committee."

Robert Stripling, chief investigator of the Dies Committee, told reporters last Saturday that many Japanese-Americans who had been released for farm, industrial and domestic work had been trained in espionage and sabotage in Japan.

Under an agreement worked out early in April, the N. Y. A. agreed to train young men and women released by the W. P. A. This arrangement now has been dissolved by the N. Y. A., the relocation authority announced, and those enrolled in vocational courses "with the objective of preparing themselves for war work" will leave at once.

In recent weeks, the W. P. A. said, about 275 evacuees, "all of them American citizens whose records and reliability had been carefully checked," were enrolled in N. Y. A. training courses.

2-TERM LIMIT FOR PRESIDENT GAINS SUPPORT

JUN - 5 1943

Both Senate Republicans and Democrats Back New Proposal.

GEORGE FAVORS EIGHT YEARS

Some of Roosevelt's Friends Say He Should Be Permitted to Finish Out War in Office.

Washington, June 4 (A. P.).—A proposal to limit future Presidents to eight years in office attracted strong Democratic and Republican support in the Senate today with the prospect that it may become one of the major talking points both for and against a possible fourth term nomination for President Roosevelt.

Minority backing for the proposal—a resolution for a constitutional amendment—came from Republican leader McNary of Oregon, who told reporters:

"I think Congress should pass the resolution and submit the question to the Legisaltures of the various States for their consideration." Harrison E. Spangler, Republican National Committeeman chairman, said that its adoption would be "a great thing for the nation."

Across the political fence, Senator George (D.-Ga.) said that he would support the proposal with the understanding that it will not directly affect President Roosevelt's tenure in office.

The measure, introduced by Senator Bailey (D.-N. C.) in a form requiring a two-thirds vote of both houses and ratification by three-fourths of the State Legislatures, provides that no person shall be chosen or be eligible to hold the office of President if he has held that office during all or part of two prior terms.

While some legislators said that a majority Senate vote in favor of the resolution might be interpreted as a congressional slap at any fourth-term ambitions the President may have, others said they were not so sure Mr. Roosevelt's friends might not argue that if the President is allowed to finish out the war in office the proposed amendment would offer assurance that he would not seek a fifth term.

MOVEMENT OF OIL REPORTED AT PEAK

Industry Unable to Provide More to East, Says Council Member.

WASHINGTON, June 4. — (AP) If coal strikes cause a shortage of fuel next winter in eastern states, the oil industry will not be able to give much relief there, says Frank Buttram, Oklahoma City, member of the Petroleum Industry War council.

"Not even if the two big pipelines under construction from Texas are completed on schedule in December will there be sufficient oil supplies on the Atlantic coast to meet the demands," Mr. Buttram told a reporter.

Mr. Buttram is in Washington for a council meeting.

A 20-inch line under construction will carry such products as gasoline and kerosene, while a 24-inch line is for a light weight crude oil, he said.

As to whether the shortage of gas and oil here is due principally to lack of transportation facilities, Mr. Buttram said the truth is there would's be sufficient oil and gas available if every bit of transportation needed could be used.

"It's simply that war demands have increased so fast we can't keep up, with production falling off so rapidly," he added. "You might consider transportation the spigot, but even if you turned it on full force, nothing would come out if the barrel's empty."

Mr. Buttram predicted that the country would discover in about six months that there isn't enough oil and gas to meet civilian and war requirements.

"And this condition won't be rectified until the wild-catter is given an opportunity, through an increase in the price of crude oil, to go out and discover new oil wells," he said.

LACK OF GASOLINE ENDANGERS CROPS

Washington, June 4 (A. P.).—A Senate investigating committee was told today by farm group leaders that hundreds of farm machines are stalled for lack of gasoline in the East.

Appealing to a Senate Agriculture subcommittee for aid, representatives of farm co-operatives declared that crops on many farms from Maryland to Maine are jeopardized by lack of fuel for tractors, trucks and gas engines.

Robert E. Allen, of the Petroleum Administration for War, told the committee that the need of fuel for "unusually heavy" military operations overseas, transportation difficulties and the Mid-West flood had accounted largely for the recent shortage.

"But one of our biggest troubles," he added, "is the non-essential civilian use of gasoline. I believe it is still occurring but to a lesser degree."

"Then the preferred status of gasoline for the farmer over the civilian is of no practical value," remarked Senator Aiken (R.-Vt.) "when the non-essential civilian driver gets gas and the farmer doesn't."

Mr. Allen explained that control of non-essential consumption remained one of the "greatest difficulties," but, he declared, his agency now expects 'to take care of the farmers' gasoline needs up to the limit of supplies."

ROOSEVELT FAVORS OVERTIME PAY FOR RAILWAY WORKERS

Employes in Non-Operating Class Would Benefit Under Proposal.

JUN - 5 1943

WASHINGTON, June 4—(AP) President Roosevelt indicated today that he favors time and a half pay after 40 hours for "non-operating" railway employes, the same as now applied in non-railroad industries. The railway workers are now on a 48 hour week.

If such a program should be worked out, more than 1,000,000 white collar and other non-operating railroad employes will receive an increase of slightly more than six cents an hour, independently of any change in basic rates of pay recommended by a special emergency board in a report May 24.

Recommends 8-Cent Raise

This report recommended a straight eight cents an hour raise instead of 20 cents asked by the workers and referred, without recommendation, to the fact that such workers are not eligible for overtime until after 48 hours. Managements and brotherhoods have until June 24 to act on the report, while the stabilization and war mobilization offices have a similar period in which to modify it or let it take effect.

The President's deference to the overtime question came in reply to a press conference inquiry whether he believed the wage controversy could be settled on the basis of the emergency board report.

Without replying directly, he said one matter the mediators had not taken up was that of premium pay. He added there are large numbers of rail employes such as track walkers and white collar men who do not enjoy time and a half privileges on the same basis as similar workers in other industries and who are not on a mileage pay basis as are rail operating employes.

He did not believe it fair, he said, for a man working in Grand Central station not to get overtime premium pay while a man in a department store around the corner did.

Writes to Pelley

The President said he had written John J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, and George M. Harrison, head of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, to look into the matter.

It developed later, however, that the President undoubtedly referred to oral discussions he had had with union officials, for the letter released by his press secretary dealt with another railroad dispute—that involving the manning of Diesel locomotives and rates of pay for enginemen on them and firemen and helpers on steam and electric locomotives.

This also has been reported on by an emergency board which rejected most of the union recommendations.

The President in a letter to Mr. Pelley only suggested that carrier representatives meet with those of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, who he said are unsatisfied with the board report, and resolve the points in question without interfering with the "full and adequate prosecution of our war program."

WAR RISK RATES

WASHINGTON, June 4— The War Shipping administration today made public a reduction in the scale of war risk insurance rates covering fishing vessels. Simultaneously it was announced that war risk hull insurance on fishing vessels may be available for periods up to 90 days. Thirty days was the previous limit.

Food Delegates Predict Relief Conference Soon

Montreal Mentioned as Site of Smaller Parley

HOT SPRINGS, Va., June 4 (AP).—Prospects of an early international conference on relief to follow the United Nations food conference, which closed yesterday, was the dominant topic among the food delegates today as they departed for home.

There was talk of Montreal as a possible site for the relief conference. Washington was also mentioned, as well as Hot Springs.

It was generally expected, however, that the relief conference would be much smaller than the food conference, and that it would begin its deliberations some time before mid-July.

Relief problems as such were excluded from the food conference, but in its final recommendations the conference stressed the urgent need of producing food enough to supply the material basis for relief of regions devastated by the war. Problems of actually organizing and administering relief were left to a later gathering.

In adopting yesterday at its closing session a declaration of principles and thirty resolutions aimed at paving the way toward a well fed world, the food conference launched in effect an international share-the-food movement stressing primarily the responsibility of individual governments for achieving equitable distribution of food within their own countries as well as collaborating internationally toward an expanded, well balanced world economy.

Will Reopen Rubber Case

W. L. B. Decides to Review Its Wage Order Causing Akron Strike

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP).—The War Labor Board decided today to reopen the wage case involving four major rubber companies and about 50,000 employees represented by the Congress of Industrial Organizations United Rubber Workers. W. L. B.'s decision allowing a three-cent hourly wage increase was followed by a strike at Akron, Ohio, two weeks ago.

The board will hold a public hearing June 14 "for the purpose of receiving new evidence and arguments on the question whether the board erred in its evidence order of May 21," as alleged by the union. It sought an eight-cent increase. The companies involved are Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone and United States Rubber.

Lt. Lou Zamperini Reported Missing

TORRANCE, Calif., June 4. — (AP) Lt. Lou Zamperini, one of the best distance runners who ever performed for the University of Southern California, has been missing since May 27 in the South Pacific war theater, his mother, Mrs. Anthony Zamperini, was notified today from Washington.

Zamperini, who set the NCAA record for the mile run in 1938 with a mark of 4 minutes 8.3 seconds, participated as bombardier in several bombing expeditions, including the Christmas Day attack on Japanese-held Wake Island. He reported in letters home that his plane was heavily shot up at times.

At 18, he was a member of the American team which competed in the 1936 Olympic games at Berlin. He ran seventh in the 5,000 meter run. An international incident almost resulted after the games when he tore down a Nazi flag in front of Hitler's Berlin chancellery.

PACKARD WORKERS ORDERED BY WLB TO END WALKOUT

JUN 5 1943

Action Taken as Employes Again Ignore Company, Union Appeals.

DETROIT, June 4. — (AP) The National War Labor board, in a strongly-worded message, tonight called upon workers who left their jobs at Packard Motor Car company in a racial dispute to "resume production of vitally needed war material at once."

The action came after 90 per cent of the employes had ignored for a second day the back-to-work call of company and union officials and of local representatives of governmental agencies.

The WLB order, signed by Carl R. Schedler, deputy executive director of the board in Washington, said:

"The critical war aid of our country demands that the production of vitally needed war material x x x be resumed at once.

WLB Affirms Decision

"The WLB will affirm the decision of your international union, your local union, your local union president and the plant committee and join them in urging you to comply with the policies of the executive order of the President of the United States and with labor's pledge not to strike for the duration of the war."

Meanwhile, a meeting of the executive board of Packard Local 190, United Automobile Workers—C.I.O., called to consider the issuance of an ultimatum to the men to return to work Sunday or Monday on their regular shifts or face discipline by the union, broke up without a decision.

Crowds milled around all the gates of the plant throughout the day but there was no disorder. There were no established picket lines.

Earlier today, C. E. Weiss, director of industrial relations for the company, addressed the men at one gate, telling them the doors were open for them to work and that "production was awaiting them."

Small Percentage Returns

A company spokesman said about 10 per cent of the employes returned to work on the day shift and union officials estimated that about the same number went back on the 4 p. m. shift.

Leo LaMotte, East Side regional director of the U.A.W.-C.I.O., said the walkout was "completely unauthorized."

A company spokesman said the walkout was in protest against upgrading to better jobs of three Negro workers on the final assembly line of aviation engines, while union leaders said the employes were not opposed to upgrading of Negroes but were against the mixing of white and Negro workers.

The stoppage began at 1:30 a. m. yesterday and within a few hours production of Rolls-Royce aircraft engines and Packard marine engines had been halted. Only Negroes reported for work on the late day shifts yesterday and they were joined today by a few white workers, the company said, but production was not resumed.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, meeting here in an emergency war conference, demanded in a telegram to President Roosevelt that the government take over the Packard plant.

A.F.L. MINE UNION HITS LEWIS' PLEA

Progressives Oppose U.M.W. Petition for Reentry Into Labor Federation.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 4—(AP) The executive board of the Progressive Mine Workers of America formally petitioned the American Federation of Labor executive council today to reject John L. Lewis' bid for reentry of the United Mine Workers of America into the A.F.L.

Contending that readmission of the U.M.W.A. into the A.F.L. would be "constitutionally impossible" as long as the P.M.W.A. holds its A.F.L. charter as the only international A.F.L. mine union, P.M.W.A. officials said they were confident the executive council "would not stoop to shoddy trickery to void the P.M.W.A. charter."

The letter, addressed to the executive council in Washington, was signed by President Lloyd A. Thrush, Vice-President William Crompton, and Secretary-treasurer John Marchiando.

The A.F.L. council is scheduled to consider the Lewis petition at its next regular quarterly meeting in August. William Green, A.F.L. president, is head of the executive council.

Asserting that the 1938 A.F.L. charter held by the P.M.W.A. guarantees its jurisdiction and identity as the only A.F.L. mining union, the letter continued:

"We cannot believe that the A. F.L. executive council would now shamelessly disregard principle and permit the entry into its fold of the high priest of dictatorial unionism, even though the organization he (Lewis) purports to represent has much greater numerical and financial strength than the P.M.W.A."

BRICKER DEFENDS PRIVATE BUSINESS

JUN 5 1943

Enterprise Needed, Local Government Essential, Says Ohio Governor.

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—(AP) Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio today asserted "we must preserve intact as a vital living force among our people the bill of rights."

The governor, in an address to the Chamber of Commerce, also said "We must maintain local government. x x x We must recapture the spirit of private enterprise."

"We owe ourselves and them (the soldiers overseas) the duty of keeping the fires of freedom burning brightly here at home against the day of their victorious return," he charged.

"We must maintain local government. A strong local government x x x is the foundation of our representative system of government.

"We must preserve intact as a vital living force among our people the bill of rights," the governor continued. "The censorship of news should be limited to war matters. The power of the Federal government should not be used to intimidate or coerce those who speak in opposition to our public officials.

"A dangerous step has been made toward the destruction of the bill of rights in denying to the American people and enforcing that denial by our armed forces the facts revealed at the food conference at White Sulphur Springs.

"Finally, we must recapture the spirit of private enterprise. . . related to this need is the necessity for the return of much government property when the war is won to private ownership and private management."

P. M. W. Urges A. F. of L. To Reject Lewis's Union

'Cannot Believe' Federation Would 'Stoop to Trickery'

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 4 (AP).—The executive board of the Progressive Mine Wolkers of America formally petitioned the American Federation of Labor's executive council today to reject John L. Lewis's bid for re-entry of the United Mine Workers of America into the A. F. of L.

Contending that readmission of the U. M. W. into the A. F. of L. would be "constitutionally impossible" as long as the P. M. W. holds its A. F. of L. charter as the only international A. F. of L. mine union, P. M. W. officials said they were confident the executive council "would not stoop to shoddy trickery to void the P. M. W. charter."

The A. F. of L. council is to consider the John L. Lewis petition at its next regular quarterly meeting in August. William Green, A. F. of L. president, is head of the executive council.

Asserting that the 1938 A. F. of L. charter held by the P. M. W. guarantees its jurisdiction and identity as the only A. F. of L. mining union, the letter continued:

"We cannot believe that the A. ## Bundsman Wernecke Convicted in Chicago

Chicago, June 4 (A. P.).—William Bernard Wernecke, 36 years old, formerly known nationally as a German - American Bund leader, was convicted today by a Federal court jury on two counts of an indictment charging violations of the selective service act.

The jury deliberated an hour. Federal Judge John P. Barnes set arguments on a new trial motion for June 11.

The jury convicted Wernecke of making untrue statements in a Selective Service questionnaire and of falsely assuming the role of a minister to evade the draft.

Awarded Many Medals In Aerial Combat Work

JUN 5 1943

Frostburg, Md., June 4 (AP)—Master Sergeant John C. Lewis, home on leave from the New Guinea battlefront, has a distinguished collection of medals to show for his 360 hours of aerial combat duty.

Lewis has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross three times and the Air Medal twice for exploits with his squadron which was cited four times for achievements in battle. The sergeant bombardier was credited with hits on four ships, including a 10,000-ton transport, and a Jap destroyer, in five days of the Bismark Sea battle.

Mahoney's Son Receives Silver Star From Navy

Led Gun Crew on Cargo Ship Which Downed 8 Nazi Planes

NORFOLK, Va., June 4 (AP). — The Silver Star Medal was presented today to a naval officer whose armed guard crew aboard a merchant ship shot down eight German planes and scored hits on twelve others during seven days of almost uninterrupted attack by enemy planes and submarines in the North Atlantic.

Rear Admiral Herbert F. Leary, Commandant of the 5th Naval District, presented the medal to Lieutenant (j. g.) Jeremiah E. Mahoney, U. S. N. R., twenty-five years old, of New York, in ceremonies at the Navy's armed guard school at Little Creekton.

[Lieutenant Mahoney is the son of former Supreme Court Justice Jeremiah T. Mahoney, of 12 East Eighty-sixth Street, who was the Democratic candidate for Mayor in 1937.]

Besides directing the fire of his Navy gunners so efficiently that his ship ran the gantlet of German raiders unharmed and delivered a valuable cargo of military supplies to an Allied nation, Lieutenant Mahoney directed gunfire which exploded a torpedo headed for his ship.

STEPHAN APPEALS ANEW FOR RETRIAL

Cincinnati, June 4 (A. P.).—Max Stephan, Detroit restaurateur convicted of treason, asked the Sixth United States Circuit Court of Appeals again today to order retrial of his case.

Once sentenced to be hanged and scheduled to go into court at Detroit tomorrow for resentence, Stephan appealed from an order issued May 22 by Judge Arthur Tuttle denying him a new trial. The Supreme Court of the United States early this week refused for a third time to review the case.

In today's action counsel for Stephan contended that Judge Tuttle erred in holding that alleged newly discovered evidence "would be immaterial."

Stephan was convicted of aiding Oberleutnant Hans Peter Krug of the German Luftwaffe flee toward Mexico after his escape from a Canadian internment camp.

Detroit, June 4 (A. P.).—Dean Christian Gauss of Princeton University is among the signers of a petition to President Roosevelt urging commutation of the death sentence imposed on Max Stephan.

Bee-Bee Rifle Design Used in Deadly Carbine

New Army Gun Is Three Pounds Lighter Than Latest Garand

PORT CLINTON, Ohio, June 4 (AP).—The bee-bee gun, a toy with which most American boys have riddled empty tomato cans, provided ordnance and industrial gun designers with the idea for one of the Army's newest weapons.

The new firearm—a .30-caliber carbine combining lightness, firepower and accuracy at battle ranges—was demonstrated to newsmen for the first time today by the War Department's Cleveland ordnance district. Production now is nearing full scale at the Standard Products Company's plant in this Lake Erie town.

The carbine is a short-barreled rifle, only thirty-six inches long. Like the bee-bee gun, it weighs less than six pounds, including strap and cartridge clip. That's about three pounds lighter than the newer Garand.

Unlike the air rifle, it spits fifteen high-velocity slugs from one clip with deadly accuracy. The velocity of its bullets at fifty-three feet from the muzzle is 1,900 feet per second, ranking next to the larger Garand rifle's 2,675 feet per second and considerably above older types of hunting rifles, which ranged less than 1,800 yards.

"In combat, it has been the best weapon for the individual ever turned out," says Colonel Forrest C. Shaffer, commanding officer of nearby Erie Proving Ground.

OUTPUT OF STEEL NOT TO BE CURBED

Biggest U. S. Producer Cancels Plans When Coal Strike Is Called Off

[By the Associated Press]

Pittsburgh, June 4—One big steel corporation responded quickly tonight to the calling off of the coal-mine strike by announcing it was canceling plans to curtail production by as much as twenty-five per cent. in this district due to a threatened fuel shortage.

A spokesman for the United States Steel Corporation, which turns out about one third of the nation's steel, said the four-day shutdown of the mines had put the corporation "just at the point where we were feeling the pinch."

"With a return to work on Monday we feel we can avoid slowing down our output," the spokesman added.

One Blast Furnace Closed

The coal strike, which will result in a production loss estimated unofficially at between 10,000,000 and 12,000,000 tons of coal, already had caused one blast furnace of the Republic Steel Corporation to close in Birmingham, with another about ready to close there and two preparing to be banked in Pennsylvania.

Meantime, the miners apparently were prepared to go back to work on Monday in compliance with instructions of their international policy committee.

Spokesmen at union headquarters of districts in western Pennsylvania said the men would respond quickly to the back-to-work order.

Leader Sees No More Trouble

"They will all go back, and there will be no more trouble," predicted William Hargest, secretary-treasurer of the union's Pittsburgh District 5, after receiving official notification of the policy committee's action in Washington.

Hargest said the direct orders to locals were being dispatched by telegram from Washington tomorrow.

Renewal of the coal supply Monday will enable the Hillman Coal and Coke Company, for one, to save most of the coke charge burning slowly in its 1,500 to 1,600 beehive ovens since the strike began Monday midnight.

West Virginia Situation

Word from Charleston said the West Virginia coal fields received with hopeful interest the request of John L. Lewis to return to work but there remained the question of how many would respond.

In obedience to President Roosevelt's directive that bituminous coal men go back to work twenty-five Harrison county "strip" miners resumed operations.

Willkie Sees End Of Comintern As "Genuine Move"

Chattanooga, June 4 (AP)—Recent dissolution of the Comintern is a "genuine move" which should make it "easier for other countries to cooperate with Russia," Wendell L. Willkie said here today.

Asked at a press conference if he had discussed the matter with Premier Joseph Stalin during his visit in Russia last year, Willkie smiled and said that was a question he could not answer.

The comment was the only one the 1940 Republican Presidential nominee would make on national or international affairs. He told reporters he was in Chattanooga "for the sole purpose" of seeing friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Willkie were the overnight guests of Jo Conn Guild, former associate. He will make a commencement address tomorrow at Birmingham-Southern College in Birmingham.

WOMAN, 53, IS SAID TO PERIL DEFENSE

U. S. Charges Presence Of Naturalized Citizen In Coast Area Is Dangerous

JUN - 5 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Philadelphia, June 4—The Federal Government charged today in a petition filed in Federal Court that the continued presence of Mrs. Olga Schueller, 53-year-old naturalized native of Germany, in the Third Eastern Defense Area would be "dangerous to the national defense."

Mrs. Schueller, who has a son in the United States Navy, has refused to obey an order issued by Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commander of the Third Area, that she move from Philadelphia to some place outside the district, which extends along the Atlantic Coast.

In a petition to Federal Court asking that the order be annulled, she declared she has been "a loyal American citizen" and never has engaged in subversive activities.

Replies To Petition

Replying to this petition, Gerald A. Gleeson, United States attorney, said today on behalf of General Drum that the exclusion order was based upon the "administrative record" compiled following a hearing given Mrs. Schueller before a board of three army officers and "on investigative reports, summaries and recommendations."

Declining to give particulars presently, Gleeson said the "administrative record" will be offered in evidence at a hearing before Federal Judge J. Cullen Ganey next Thursday, but added that the investigative reports, summaries and recommendations will be kept secret because they "contain certain confidential information which might aid the enemy."

HALIFAX DEFENDS AERIAL CAMPAIGN

Providence, R. I., June 4 (A. P.)—Lord Halifax, British Ambassador to the United States, said here today, in commenting on the Pope's plea for humane air warfare, that the Allied aerial attack on the Axis has become inescapable, is being directed with the greatest possible precision against military targets exclusively and is accomplishing more damage to the enemys war potential than we probably know.

The Ambassador made the statement at a press conference conducted before Lady Halifax and their son, Lieut. Richard F. Wood, began a busy round which included a visit to the State House, an inspection trip to the Quonset Naval Air Station and Camp Endicott, Seabee Training Center, and a luncheon at a hotel.

The visitors evinced a lively interest in Rhode Island's history and revolutionary relics during their tour of the State House.

"My regiment, the King's Royal Rifles, was originally formed in New England to fight the Indians," said Lieut. Wood, legless veteran of the war in Africa. "The regiment was then called the Sixty-second Americans. We had to drop that when you beat us."

FREEDOMS AT STAKE, FRANK GANNETT WARNS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 4—(AP) Publisher Frank Gannett, addressing the Genesee Methodist conference, tonight characterized the government's anti-trust suit against the Associated Press as "an assault upon the freedom of the press."

Said Mr. Gannett: "We have lost freedom of the radio. We nearly lost the integrity of the Supreme court, and now freedom of the press is in danger.

"We must remember," he declared, "that freedom of the press is not some special license for newspapers; it is a right of the public to be informed. We must fight always for our freedoms. They could be lost in the twinkling of an eye. Freedom of worship is at stake too. The church and every member of a church should join in the fight to preserve the Constitution in full."

Sees Interest in Orient Outweighing Europe

Rochester, N. Y., June 4 (A. P.).—The Orient, as a sphere of interest will be more important to the United States after the war than contact with Europe, in the judgment of Bishop Edwin F. Lee, who has served in the Far East.

He spoke at the Genesee Methodist Conference. He was in charge of the Singapore area of the Methodist Church until forced to evacuate by the invading Japanese.

Revolt In Argentina Hailed By Waldo Frank

JUN - 5 1943

New York, June 4 (AP)—Waldo Frank, lecturer and author of books on South America, said tonight the revolt in Argentina meant that that nation was "once again moving back to its rightful position of leadership."

Frank, who was assaulted and beaten in Buenos Aires in the fall of 1942 by a group which objected to printed comment of his interpreted as being critical of the Argentine Government, issued a statement saying:

"The revolt means that the army has abandoned its alliance with the reactionaries. There is every reason to hope that it will form a new alliance with the country's liberal elements."

WAR AT DECISIVE POINT, SAYS JAPANESE PREMIER

NEW YORK, June 4. — (AP) Premier Hideki Tojo today told members of the Imperial Rule Assistance Political society that the war has "entered a decisive stage" and that the Japanese government was "looking forward to greater co-operation in the future on the part of people on the home front," according to a broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications commission and reported to the OWI.

Tojo spoke at a luncheon meeting of the society which was founded a year ago to "help make government acts acceptable to the people and to strengthen morale at home," the OWI said.

JUN - 5 1943

An earlier broadcast of the society's first general meeting in Tokyo carried a speech by Nobuyuki Abe, the president, who called for "total effort" in the "grave war situation."

Tojo warned the people that they must steel themselves for further sacrifices.

What's Behind The War News

By GLENN BABB

Argentina has a new government and it appears certain that soon she will have a new policy toward the war whose effects no people can escape. The regime set up by General Pedro Ramirez' lighting coup supplants the last government in the new world that maintained relations with the Axis. Although the intentions of the new junta are not entirely clear there seems little doubt that those ties will be ended.

For one thing the revolutionary leaders are pledged to the fulfillment of Argentina's international agreements. This is generally interpreted as a promise to carry into effect the 18-months-old Rio de Janeiro resolution calling for a rupture of relations with the aggressor totalitarian states that had attacked the United States.

For the United Nations an Argentine break with Berlin, Rome and Tokyo would be one of the war's major gains. The Axis embassies in Buenos Aires, whose huge staffs are packed with military and naval observers, propaganda specialists and sinister agents of many kinds would be closed. That would deprive the enemy of a military asset of great value, his one listening post and peephole in the western world.

Although Argentina some months ago limited foreign embassies to a file of 100 words daily of coded telegrams, there is no doubt that Axis agents there have been able to crowd into their reports home great quantities of valuable information. Ship movements in the south Atlantic have been watched and reported and this has contributed to the U-boats' successes. Because of this situation no United States merchant vessels have visited Buenos Aires for nearly a year, unloading instead at Montevideo, further up the river Plate. The ending of this vicious situation unquestionably will be a big help to the Allies in the grim battle of the Atlantic.

If Argentina expels the Axis embassies it will mean the purging of one more continent of Axis influence. The "new order" then will be confined to the single land mass of Asia and Europe, boxed in, blockaded and besieged, with no effective contacts anywhere beyond the oceans. And Argentina's long-delayed alignment with her sister nations would bring to the two Americas a solidarity, mutual trust and unity of purpose never before known over so great a portion of the earth's surface.

It would be a mistake to assign to the neutrality and other foreign issues too large a role in the strife that culminated in yesterday's rising. The chief division doubtless was over domestic questions although it is difficult to separate these from the fundamental division between those who favored the American ideals of freedom and democracy and those who found the totalitarian, Fascist way sympathetic. But there was great dissatisfaction with the dictatorial methods of the Castillo regime, with the state of siege that fought criticism and opposition with weapons like those of the Nazis, with the political dodges that largely nullified the numerical strength of the "democratic" groups.

But there is also no question that there has been a growing fear among Argentines that their government was backing the wrong alliance in the struggle for mastery of the world; that Castillo's "prudent neutrality" policy actually placed the country in the Fascist camp and that it might do the nation untold danger unless corrected. Probably nothing has done more to bring this feeling home than the fact that Argentina, one of the world's great food producers, was not invited to the United Nations food conference.

The Argentine overturn is also a significant index of neutral judgment on the course of the war. Neutrality was not such a bad policy when it appeared either that the Axis would win or the war would result in a stalemate. But the neutral consensus now is that the Allies will win a complete victory and that the world of the future will be in the hands of the nations now leagued together for the destruction of the aggressors. It seems clear that a great proportion of the Argentine people do not care to see their country left high and dry in an isolation that could be disastrous.

AT A U.S.BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, JUNE 4-(AP)-LIEUT.WILLIAM R. SMITH, 26, OF WILKES-BARRE, PA., BROUGHT THE FLYING FORTRESS "FIRE BALL" BACK FROM THE MAY 19 KIEL RAID WITH THREE CREW MEMBERS UNCONSCIOUS FROM LACK OF OXYGEN.

JUN -5 1943

A GERMAN CANNON BALL DISRUPTED A SECTION OF THE PLANE'S OXYGEN SUPPLY SYSTEM AT AN ALTITUDE OF 26,000 FEET, IT WAS REPORTED TODAY AND THE THREE COLLAPSED.

A FOURTH, ALTHOUGH GASPING FOR BREATH AND OUT ON HIS FEET, CONTINUED FIRING AT THE LAST OF THE GERMAN PURSUERS.

A FIFTH ATTEMPTED TO BAIL OUR, BUT WAS KILLED WHEN HIS PARACHUTE HARNESS CAUGHT ON THE FORTRESS DOOR.

THE OXYGEN LINE TO THE REMAINDER OF THE CREW WAS UNDAMAGED.

BACK OVER ENGLAND AFTER THE ROUND TRIP FLIGHTSOF NEARLY 1,000 MILES, SMITH BROUGHT THE FORTRESS DOWN ON AN OUTLYING FIELD.

"I BET THERE WASN'T A PINT OF GASOLINE LEFT IN OUR TANK," SMITH SAID.

TELLING THE STORY, SMITH SAID:

"THAT 20 MILLIMETER SHELL WAS ONE OF THOSE 1,000 TO ONE CHANCE SHOTS WHICH KNOCKED OUT THE EMERGENCY OXYGEN BOTTLES AS WELL AS THE REGULAR SUPPLY SYSTEM."

HE SAID HE FIRST LEARNED OF THE CREW'S PLIGHT WHEN THE CO-PILOT, FLIGHT OFFICER DON R.JOYCE, OF ARKANSAS CITY,ARK., CALLED BACK ON THE INTERCOM TO SEE IF THE CREW WAS OKAY.

30.24-4669

HE GOT NO REPLIES FROM SERGEANTS JASPER B.GAY, MOBILE,ALA., RADIO OPERATOR-GUNNER; LEWIS TURBERVILLE, TABOR CITY,N.C., LEFT WAIST GUNNER; REUBEN A.MILLS, BENTON,ARK., TAIL GUNNER; KENNETH W. GORSUCH, JOPLIN,MO., BALL TURRET GUNNER, OR LEWIS T.BAKER, LOUISVILLE,KY., RIGHT WAIST GUNNER.

"JOYCE TOLD ME 'I THINK WE'VE GOT FIVE DEAD MEN BACK THERE,'" SMITH SAID.

JUN -5 1943

"YOU CAN IMAGINE WHAT A FEELING THAT GAVE ME. I SENT THE BOMBARDIER, SECOND LIEUT.WILLIAM A.WINTER, OF SAN FRANCISCO, BACK TO INVESTIGATE AND HE TOLD US THE SITUATION.

"BY THIS TIME WE WERE WELL OUT OVER THE NORTH SEA AND FLYING MUCH LOWER. SOON WE GOT DOWN TO A LOWER ALTITUDE AND GAY, TURBERVILLE, MILLS AND GORSUCH REVIVED. TURBERVILLE NEVER HAD BECOME ENTIRELY UNCONSCIOUS AND KEPT FIRING AT THE GERMANS.

"POOR BAKER HAD TRIED TO BAIL OUT BUT HIS PARACHUTE HARNESS CAUGHT ON THE DOOR.

"WE STRUGGLED AND STRUGGLED TO GET BAKER BACK INTO THE PLANE AND FINALLY SUCCEEDED JUST BEFORE WE ARRIVED OVER THE ENGLISH COAST, BUT IT TOOK EIGHT OF US TO DO IT. I HAD TURNED OVER THE CONTROLS TO THE COPILOT AND GONE BACK TO HELP."

THEN BEGAN THE WORRY FOR THE CREW WHETHER THE PLANE COULD BE GOTTEN SAFELY BACK TO BASE.

THE BOMB BAY DOORS WOULDN'T CLOSE, SMITH SAID, AFTER THE BOMBS WERE DROPPED AND HE "GUNNED" THE ENGINES TO TRY TO FORCE THEM SHUT.

"THAT," HE SAID, "USED GASOLINE. OUR GAS GOT SO LOW THAT JUST BEFORE WE SIGHTED ENGLAND I TOLD THE CREW TO PREPARE FOR A LANDING IN THE CHANNEL. WE REALLY WERE SWEATING IT OUT."

AS SOON AS THE LANDING WAS MADE, AT A FIGHTING FRENCH AIRDROME, THE CREW RUSHED BAKER TO A HOSPITAL, BUT A DOCTOR SAID HE HAD BEEN DEAD BEFORE THE FORTRESS LANDED.

DEATH, THE DOCTOR SAID, RESULTED FROM LACK OF OXYGEN AND EXPOSURE IN THE 32 DEGREE BELOW ZERO TEMPERATURE AT 26,000 FEET.

JUN -5 1943

BAKER WAS THE SON OF MRS.ANNA R.TINGLE, OF SMITHFIELD,KY.

THE OTHER CREW MEMBERS WERE SECOND LIEUT.CLARK L.NEWTON, MEDFORD,MASS., NAVIGATOR; SERGT.ANGELO FULLIN, ALLENTOWN,PA., TOP TURRET GUNNER. FIRST LIEUT WALTER A.BLAIR, BRISBANE,CALIF., IS THE REGULAR BOMBARDIER, BUT DIDN'T GO ON THE RAID.

AT A U.S. BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, JUNE 4-(AP)-THE "BALL BOYS," FORTRESS SQUADRON WHICH HAS PARTICIPATED IN MOST OF THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE ATTACKS ON EUROPE SINCE ITS ARRIVAL IN BRITAIN, APPEARS TO BE HEADED TOWARD A RECORD FOR KEEPING ITS LOSSES DOWN.

TO DATE, THE SQUADRON HAS LOST ONE FULL CREW AND THE WAISTGUNNER OF ANOTHER FORTRESS IN SOME OF THE THICKEST FIGHTING OVER EUROPE.

THE OUTFIT WAS DUBBED "THE BALL BOYS" BECAUSE EVERY FORTRESS IN THE GROUP BEARS THE NAME OF SOME KIND OF BALL.

WHEN A NEW BOMBER WAS ASSIGNED TO THE SQUADRON BACK AT BIGGS FIELD, EL PASO, TEX., ITS COMMANDER, CAPT.CLINTON F.BALL, 25, OF WACO, TEX., CHRISTENED HIS SHIP "LINDA BALL" AFTER HIS YEAR-OLD DAUGHTER.

THE SQUADRON DECIDED TO EXPAND ON THE "BALL" IDEA IN NAMING THE FORTRESSES.

SOME OF THE PILOTS, ALL OF WHOM ARE FIRST LIEUTENANTS, AND NAMES OF THEIR BOMBERS:

MAX PINKERTON, 27, SAN ANTONIO, TEX., "CANNON BALL."

WILLIAM PETERS, 22, HIGHLAND PARK, ILL., "SNOWBALL."

WILLIAM R.SMITH, 26, WILKES-BARRE, PA., "FIRE BALL."

CARL WILSON, 23, ALICE, TEX., "EIGHT BALL."

JOHN MOSS, 22, DES MOINES, N.M., (CORRECT), "SPEED BALL."

ROBERT ADAMS, 26, DECATUR, ALA., "HIGH BALL."

DONALD MORRIS, 23, AURORA, ILL., "FOUL BALL," SO NAMED BECAUSE ITS ENGINES WERE TROUBLESOME AT FIRST.

NAMES OF OTHER FORTRESSES INCLUDED "SPITBALL," "MEATBALL," AND "SCREWBALL."

CAPT.BALL IS A WEST POINT GRADUATE AND NOW IS SERVING WITH THE ARMY IN NORTH AFRICA.

MANY MEMBERS OF THE SQUADRON'S PERSONNEL ARE FROM THE NEW ENGLAND STATES.

THE FORTRESS NAMED "SPAREBALL," PILOTED BY SECOND LIEUT.JOSEPH MELI, 24, OF BROOKLYN, IS THE SQUADRON'S ONLY BOMBER CASUALTY TO DATE. MELI AND HIS CREW FAILED TO RETURN FROM THEIR FIRST RAID.

MEMBERS OF HIS CREW:

SECOND LIEUTENANTS ROBERT P.COOPER, STUART, IOWA, CO-PILOT; JACK HOWELL, JACKSONVILLE, FLA., NAVIGATOR; HOWARD E.LEWIS, NAMPA, IDAHO, BOMBARDIER; SERGEANTS DEWEY K.BISHOP, HARRISBURG, PA., TOP TURRET GUNNER; LOUIS M.HILSCHER, INDIANAPOLIS, RIGHT WAIST GUNNER; CHARLES D.SUMMERS, UPPER DARBY, PA., LEFT WAIST GUNNER; STANFORD W.HENRY, DETROIT, BALL TURRET GUNNER; MELVINE HUGO, AMSTERDAM, N.Y., TAIL GUNNER, AND BERNARD A.GUENZIG, BRIDGEPORT, CONN., RADIO OPERATOR-GUNNER.

JUN -5 1943

SERGEANT LONNIE OWENS OF BELCHER, KY., TAIL GUNNER ON "SPEEDBALL," SAID HE SAW WHAT HAPPENED TO "SPAREBALL", WHICH APPARENTLY WAS CRIPPLED BY FLAK ON THE WAY HOME.

"SOON AFTER WE CROSSED THE COAST I SAW MELI DROP OUT OF THE FORMATION WITH ONE ENGINE ON FIRE," OWENS SAID. "AS SOON AS HE LAGGED BEHIND SIX FOCKE-WULFS JUMPED ON HIM. HE WAS LOSING ALTITUDE FAST.

"I SAW FIVE MEN BAIL OUT -- THAT'S ALL. THE FOCKE-WULFS MADE ANOTHER PASS AT THE BOMBER AND IT WENT DOWN IN A SPIN FOR ABOUT 2,000 FEET. THEN ITS LEFT WING BROKE OFF. A FEW SECONDS LATER THE WHOLE PLANE SEEMED TO DISINTEGRATE."

THE SQUADRON'S ONLY OTHER CASUALTY WAS SERGEANT LEWIS T.BAKER, OF LOUISVILLE, KY., THE WAIST GUNNER ON THE "FIREBALL."

BERN, JUNE 4-(AP)-ITALIAN WAR CORRESPONDENTS HOME FROM THE AFRICAN FRONT, ARE [redacted] COVERING THE HOME FRONT AND THEIR REPORTS ON THE ALLIED AIR ATTACKS UPON ITALY ARE FULL OF BRAVADO AND INVECTIVE, [redacted] DIRECTED CHIEFLY AGAINST AMERICANS.

THEIR STORIES APPEARED TO BE TRYING TO COVER THE STRAIN OF ITALIAN SUFFERING FROM THE DAILY POUNDING OF MILITARILY IMPORTANT CITIES AND LINES OF COMMUNICATIONS.

THE INVECTIVE, WHICH USUALLY REFERS TO AMERICAN AVIATORS AS "SKY GANGSTERS" ACCUSES THE PILOTS OF MACHINE-GUNNING WOMEN AND CHILDREN AND DELIBERATELY DESTROYING CHURCHES. SO STRONG WAS THEIR LANGUAGE THAT ITALIAN NEWSPAPERS WERE STOPPED AT THE SWISS BORDER FOR THREE DAYS.

ALESSANDRO PAVOLINI, FORMER MINISTER OF POPULAR CULTURE, [redacted] WROTE IN IL MESSAGGERO THAT THE ALLIED BOMBINGS COULD NOT INDUCE

REVOLT OR SURRENDER IN ITALY BUT ON THE CONTRARY WOULD MAKE THE

ITALIANS, "MANY OF WHOM HAVE NO LONGER ANYTHING TO LOSE" FIGHT WITH "COURAGE AND DISPAIR." THE BOMBINGS, HE SAID, PRODUCE ONLY HATRED FOR THE ENEMY SPIRIT.

THE SWISS PAPER LA LIBERTE OF FRIBOURG ASKED HOW MUCH OF THE PUBLICIZED ITALIAN OPINION WAS A SINCERE EXPRESSION OF CONFIDENCE AND HOW MUCH WAS "FEIGNED ASSURANCE TO HIDE APPREHENSION FROM THE OPPONENT."

JUN -5 1943

THE ROME CORRESPONDENT OF THE ZURICH PAPER DIE TAT [redacted] SAYS THAT ITALIAN [redacted] OPINION IS DIVIDED ON WHETHER THE AIR ATTACKS ARE A PRELUDE TO THE INVASION. ON THE QUESTION OF WHETHER CONTINUATION OF THE WAR WILL RESULT IN FURTHER DESTRUCTION OF CITIES, FASCIST PROPAGANDA EMPHASIZED THE DECLARATION OF THE FORMER SPANISH AMBASSADOR TO THE VATICAN, JOSE MARIA YANGUAS Y MESSIA, THAT THE BOMBING OF OPEN CITIES WAS CONTRARY TO INTERNATIONAL LAW.

THE ITALIAN ATTITUDE TOWARD BOMBING HAS CHANGED WITH ALLIED DOMINATION OF THE SKIES. STEFANI NEWS AGENCY, WHICH IN THE PAST THREE YEARS GAVE ONLY A FEW LINES TO POPE PIUS X11'S EXHORTATIONS ON THE CONDUCT OF THE WAR, FOR THE FIRST TIME QUOTED FULLY HIS

PREMIER MUSSOLINI'S NEWSPAPER IL POPULO D'ITALIA, WHICH A YEAR AND A HALF AGO SPLASHED ON THE FRONT PAGES ITALIAN AVIATION BOMBINGS OF LONDON, WROTE AN EDITORIAL ON THE POPE'S SPEECH UNDER THE HEADING "MEN AND BEASTS."

IT WAS RECALLED HERE THAT MUSSOLINI ASKED ADOLF HITLER FOR THE "PRIVILEGE" OF PARTICIPATION IN THE LONDON RAIDS.

ITALIAN LEADERS WERE OBVIOUSLY CONCERNED WITH THE TOLL INFLICTED ON ITALY'S WAR POTENTIALITIES BY THE ALLIED ATTACKS.

SWISS PAPER
THE/GAZETTE DE LAUSANNE, COMMENTED ON A ROME REPORT THAT THE ISLAND OF PANTELLERIA, WHOSE AIRFIELD WAS GOUGED BY ALLIED ATTACKS, WAS NO LONGER RECEIVING SUPPLIES FROM THE MAINLAND.

AFTER PANTELLERIA THE CITIES OF PALERMO, SYRACUSE, MESSINA AND OTHERS AS FAR AS NAPLES CAN "EXPECT" CONSTANTLY MORE FREUENT

FREQUENT ATTACKS UNTIL "THE DAY GEN. BERNARD MONTGOMERY AND GEN. HAROLD ALEXANDER REENTER THE SCENE," THE SWISS PAPER SAID.

JUN -5 1943

THE ROME CORRESPONDENT OF THE TRIBUNE DE GENEVE WROTE THAT REFUGEES FROM THE ITALIAN CITIES WHICH TODAY ARE "VIRTUALLY HEAPS OF RUINS"--INCLUDING MESSINA, PALERMO, TRAPANI AND CAGLIARI--INCLUDE ONLY THOSE WITH THE MEANS AND OPPORTUNITY OF ESCAPING NORTHWARD. THE MASSES ARE COMPELLED TO REMAIN IN THEIR HOMES BUT THE NUMBER LEAVING IS INCREASING THE ECONOMIC PROBLEMS OF THE FASCIST GOVERNMENT.

DESPITE A DECREE FORBIDDING ANY TO COME TO ROME EXCEPT

ON BUSINESS, THE TRIBUNE WRITER SAID, HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS HAVE TAKEN THE ROADS TO THE CAPITAL WHERE THE POPULATION IS NOW REPORTED TO HAVE REACHED TWO-AND-A-HALF MILLIONS, OR A MILLION MORE THAN THE CENSUS FIGURE OF A FEW MONTHS AGO.

DESPITE REPORTS THAT ROME MAY BE BOMBED AND THE REMOVAL OF THE MARCUS AURELIUS STATUE FROM THE XX CAPITOLE WHERE IT STOOD 400 YEARS, MOST ITALIANS FEEL SAFE BECAUSE OF THE PRESENCE OF THE POPE.

THE FASCIST PRESS ~~XXXXX~~ PROMINENTLY DISPLAYED CORRESPONDENTS' STORIES FROM SOUTHERN ITALY WHERE CITIES ARE NOW LISTED IN A ROLL OF ~~XXXXXXXXXXXXXX~~ "MUTILATED IN THE GREAT WAR."

ONE CORRESPONDENT IN REGGIO CALABRIA REPORTED THAT "EVERYBODY KNOWS THE ENEMY WAS HERE YESTERDAY, HERE TODAY AND WILL BE HERE TOMORROW" AND SAID THAT SICILIANS GIVE THE IMPRESSION OF BEING FATALISTIC DAMAGES WERE DESCRIBED AS ENORMOUS AND THERE ARE CITIES WITHOUT A SINGLE STREET UNHIT.

NAPLES WAS DESCRIBED AS A CITY THAT HAS"LOST ITS VOICE " AND WHOSE PEOPLE PASS LIKE SHADOWS ON STREETS WHERE HOUSES XX STRETCH MILE AFTER MILE WINDOWLESS, SHATTERED, LIKE CHARRED SKELETONS. ##

STOCKHOLM, JUNE 4-(AP)-GERMAN MILITARY CIRCLES MAINTAINED TODAY THAT EVERY DAY THE ALLIES DELAYED THE EUROPEAN INVASION HELPED THE AXIS, FOR "GENERAL TIME IS NOW ON OUR SIDE." THEY REITERATED "NOTHING CAN FORCE GERMANY TO LAUNCH A BIG OFFENSIVE."

THE BERLIN CORRESPONDENT OF THE SVENSKA DAGBLADET QUOTED INFORMED MILITARY SOURCES AS SAYING THAT THE ALLIES MUST START AN OFFENSIVE BUT "IF THEY DON'T DO IT NOW THEY NEVER CAN START."

(CBS IN NEW YORK REPORTED TODAY THAT THE BRITISH RADIO RECORDED THE BERLIN RADIO AS TELLING ITS OVERSEAS LISTENERS THAT "GERMANY IS ON THE EVE OF LAUNCHING AN UNEXPECTED OFFENSIVE AGAINST THE ALLIES."

("THE EUROPEAN FORTRESS IS SO STRONG," A GERMAN COMMENTATOR WAS QUOTED AS SAYING, "THAT IT ENABLES GERMANY AND ITALY TO LAUNCH A BIG SCALE OFFENSIVE AGAINST THE ALLIES." JUN -5 1943

(THIS CONTRASTED WITH EARLIER REPORTS REACHING STOCKHOLM WHICH QUOTED THE GERMANS AS SAYING THAT THEY PLANNED NO OFFENSIVE THIS SUMMER.)

ANOTHER SWEDISH CORRESPONDENT REPORTED THE NAZI CLAIM THAT IT CAN NOT BE CONQUERED FROM THE AIR. HE SAID THAT THE GERMANS INSISTED THAT "EISENHOWER SILL WANT 99 PER CENT SECURITY BEFORE LAUNCHING AN ATTACK."

THE NAZIS ACKNOWLEDGED, HOWEVER, THAT BOMBARDMENTS OF THE ITALIAN ISLAND OF PANTELLERIA WAS OBVIOUSLY THE PRELUDE TO INVASION, THE SWEDISH CORRESPONDENTS REPORTED.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, SATURDAY, JUNE 5-(AP)- RESUMING AN AERIAL OFFENSIVE WHICH HAD BEEN STALLED BY BAD WEATHER, ALLIED BOMBERS YESTERDAY DROPPED 18 TONS OF BOMBS ON WEWAK, NEW GUINEA, THE HIGH COMMAND ANNOUNCED.

THIS BROUGHT TO 174 TONS THE TOTAL OF BOMBS DROPPED IN SEVEN RAIDS ON WEWAK AND LAE. YESTERDAY'S RAID WAS THE FOURTH SINCE MAY 27 ON WEWAK DURING WHICH THE TOTAL TONNAGE DROPPED WAS 74. ONE HUNDRED TONS HAVE BEEN DROPPED IN THREE RAIDS ON LAE.

RANGING 750 MILES ABOVE AUSTRALIA TO BABO IN THE MACCLUER GULF OF DUTCH NEW GUINEA, MEDIUM BOMBERS STARTED FIRES WHICH COULD BE SEEN FOR 40 MILES.

BELOW THERE ON THE AROE ISLANDS, A JAPANESE FLOAT PLANE WAS DESTROYED AND TWO DAMAGED.

THE LATEST RAID ON WEWAK, AN AIRDROME AND SUPPLY BASE OF THE ENEMY 450 MILES NORTHWEST OF ALLIED-HELD PORT MORESBY, STARTED A SERIES OF EXPLOSIONS.

JUN -5 1943

TO THE NORTHWEST OF AUSTRALIA, THE ISLAND OF TIMOR, A FREQUENT TARGET RECENTLY, WAS RAIDED BY MEDIUM BOMBERS WHICH STRUCK AT NIGHT AT KOEPANG AND LAUTEM.

THE ENCOUNTER WITH THE JAPANESE FLOAT PLANES WAS MADE BY LONG RANGE FIGHTERS WHILE ATTACKING THE ENEMY'S SEAPLANE BASE ON THE AROES. NINE FLOAT PLANES ROSE TO INTERCEPT. YESTERDAY'S COMMUNIQUE ALSO HAD LISTED A FIGHT WITH FLOAT PLANES OVER THE AROES DURING WHICH ONE WAS DOWNED AND ANOTHER DAMAGED.

THE RAIDERS OF BABO, MEDIUM UNITS, ATTACKED THE AIRDROME, SEAPLANE BASE, BARRACKS AND DISPERSAL AREAS. THE BIG FIRE WAS BELIEVED TO BE A FUEL DUMP.

THE FIRE WAS SO GREAT THAT IT ILLUMINATED THE ALLIED PLANES AT 9,000 FEET.

SMALLER FIRES AROUND THE AIRDROME APPEARED TO BE BURNING PLANES.

AS ON THE OTHER SIX HEAVY RAIDS, NOT A SINGLE JAPANESE PLANE ROSE IN OPPOSITION. SPORADIC ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE WAS ENCOUNTERED BUT ALL OUR PLANES RETURNED TO THEIR BASE.

LIBERATORS OPENED THE ATTACK AND WERE FOLLOWED IN BY THE FORTRESSES. THEN LIBERATORS STRUCK ANEW.

A SPOKESMAN AT ALLIED HEADQUARTERS POINTED OUT THAT THE REPORT ON THE BABO RAID WAS A DELAYED ONE. THE RAID, IN WHICH CATALINAS PARTICIPATED, OCCURRED THE NIGHT OF JUNE 3.

BUENOS AIRES, JUNE 4--(AP)---A MILITARY GOVERNMENT HEADED BY GEN. PEDRO RAMIREZ, FORMER MINISTER OF WAR, APPEARED TODAY TO HAVE SUPPLANTED THE REACTIONARY AND ISOLATIONIST REGIME OF PRESIDENT RAMON S. CASTILLO AS A THE RESULT OF A SWIFT AND RELATIVELY BLOODLESS COUP.

CASTILLO AND MOST MEMBERS OF HIS CABINET FLED ABOARD THE GUNBOAT DRUMMOND AT A DAWN AS SOME 7,000 (CORRECT) TROOPS UNDER A RAMIREZ ASSOCIATE, GEN. ARTURO RAWSON, MARCHED ON THE CAPITAL.

BEFORE THE FLIGHT, CASTILLO SIGNED A DECREE APPOINTING GEN. RODOLFO MARQUEZ CHIEF OF "THE FORCES OF REPRESSION" CHARGED WITH SUPPRESSING THE MOVEMENT AND THEN HE HEADED UP THE RIO DE LA PLATA TO THE NAVAL BASE AT RIO SANTIAGO.

THERE WAS NO IMMEDIATE STATEMENT OF THE NEW COUNCIL'S POLICY, BUT CROWDS CHEERED THE TROOP MOVEMENT WITH CRIES OF "LONG LIVE DEMOCRACY" AND "LONG LIVE FREEDOM" AND

JUN -5 1943

CASTILLO HAD BASED HIS WHOLE FOREIGN POLICY ON CONTINUED MAINTENANCE OF RELATIONS WITH ALL BELLIGERENTS, MAKING ARGENTINA THE ONLY NATION IN THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE TO KEEP OPEN CHANNELS TO ROME, BERLIN AND TOKYO.

THE COUNCIL IS MADE UP OF THREE MEN, RAMIREZ, GEN. JUAN GIOVANELLI AND A NAVAL OFFICER WHO WAS NOT IMMEDIATELY IDENTIFIED. THE COUNCIL APPOINTED GEN. ARTURO RAWSON, WHO LED THE INVASION OF THE CITY, AS MINISTER OF WAR.

MARQUEZ HAD STEPPED OUT OF THAT ROLE AFTER A FEW HECTIC HOURS, SAYING TROOPS REFUSED TO OBEY HIS ORDERS.

FROM RIO SANTIAGO CASTILLO ISSUED A MESSAGE TO THE NATION, BROADCAST BY OFFICIAL AND COMMERCIAL RADIOS, DECLARING HIS INTENTION TO RESIST THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A MILITARY REGIME.

HE ASKED THE ARMED FORCES OF THE COUNTRY TO SHOW LOYALTY T HIS GOVERNMENT, A REQUEST WHICH APPARENTLY FELL ON DEAF EARS.

MARQUEZ RESIGNED HIS JOB AS HEAD OF THE REPRESSIVE FORCES IN MIDAFTERNOON ON THE GROUND THAT TROOPS DID NOT OBEY HIS ORDERS.

JUN -5 1943

THE NAVY KEPT ALOOF FROM THE CONFLICT. SPOKESMEN ANNOUNCED IT WOULD BE NEUTRAL.

ALTHOUGH POLITICAL IMPLICATIONS OF THE MOVEMENT WERE NOT IMMEDIATELY DEFINED, FIRST INDICATIONS WERE THAT THE REVOLT WAS A PRO-DEMOCRATIC COUP.

(A DISPATCH FROM SANTIAGO, CHILE, SAID ADVICES THERE OFFICIALLY REPORTED THE UPRISING WAS AIMED AT SWINGING ARGENTINA INTO LINE WITH THE WAR POLICY OF OTHER AMERICAN NATIONS AND CASTING ASIDE THE CASTILLO GOVERNMENT.)

A PROCLAMATION CIRCULATED FROM THE ARMY BASE AT CAMPO DE MAYO, 15 MILES FROM BUENOS AIRES, SAID THE REVOLUTIONARY LEADERS PLEDGED ARGENTINA'S ADHERENCE TO HER INTERNATIONAL TREATIES AND AGREEMENTS.

RAMIREZ WAS CONSIDERED A RIGHTIST, BUT RAWSON HAS BEEN KNOWN FOR HIS DEMOCRATIC IDEAS AND HIS SYMPATHY FOR THE CAUSE OF THE UNITED NATIONS.

RADICAL (LIBERAL) PARTY LEADERS OPPOSED TO CASTILLO'S CONSERVATIVE REGIME SAID THEY HAD NO LINKS WITH THE MOVEMENT, BUT FAVORED THE REVOLT.

JUN -5 1943

A SPECIAL EDITION OF THE NEWSPAPER NOTICIAS GRAFICAS WAS ISSUED ~~HIM~~ BEARING THE STREAMER HEADLINE: "TRIUMPHANT REVOLUTION."

(A STATEMENT BROADCAST BY ALL ARGENTINE RADIO STATIONS SAID CASTILLO WAS TRANSFERRING THE SEAT OF HIS GOVERNMENT TO AN ARGENTINE WARSHIP AND PRIVATE ADVICES SUBSEQUENTLY RECEIVED IN SANTIAGO, CHILE, SAID HE AND HIS ASSOCIATES HAD MOVED ABOARD A FEDERAL MINE-SWEEPER IN THE BUENOS AIRES HARBOR.

(THE BROADCAST STATEMENT SAID CASTILLO WAS DETERMINED TO ~~HOLD~~ MAINTAIN ARGENTINE INSTITUTIONS AND TO OPPOSE "A GOVERNMENT BY FORCE WHICH DOES NOT RESPECT THE POPULAR WILL OF THE COUNTRY.")

there was bloodshed in a clash on the outskirts.

gen. pedro ramirez, minister of war in the castillo cabinet, was ~~HXXXX~~ identified as the leader of the revolution.

government quarters described the revolt simply as "a military movement." castillo assigned gen. rodolfo marquez to combat the movement with "forces of repression" made up of men loyal to his conservative regime and "policy of prudence" in world affairs.

( PORT AUTHORITIES IN MONTEVIDEO, CAPITAL OF NEIGHBORING URUGUAY, WERE ORDERED TO BE ON THE LOOKOUT FOR AN ARGENTINE NAVY GUNBOAT, WHICH WAS REPORTED WITHOUT CONFIRMATION BEING USED BY CASTILLO AND OTHER MEMBERS OF HIS GOVERNMENT TO FLEE.

THE CLEAVAGE BETWEEN CASTILLO'S CONSERVATIVES AND THE SOCIALIST AND RADICAL OPPOSITION HAS GROWN MORE BITTER DURING HIS REGIME. CASTILLO WANTS NEUTRALITY AND ISOLATIONISM; THE OPPOSITION, LED BY DR.HONORIO PUERREDON, FAVORS CLOSER COOPERATION WITH OTHER AMERICAN REPUBLICS AND FRANKER SUPPORT OF THE UNITED STATES.

CASTILLO HAS BEEN PRESIDENT SINCE JUNE 27, 1942, WHEN THE SENATE ACCEPTED THE RESIGNATION OF THE NEAR-BLIND ROBERTO M.ORTIZ AS CHIEF EXECUTIVE. IT WAS THE CROWNING STEP OF HIS POLITICAL CAREER, ALTHOUGH AS VICE-PRESIDENT HE HAD ACTUALLY RULED THE REPUBLIC SINCE JULY, 1940 WHEN ORTIZ TOOK A LEAVE OF ABSENCE BECAUSE OF ILLNESS.

HIS POLITICAL CAREER UP TO HIS ASSUMPTION OF THE VICE-PRESIDENCY--HE WAS ELECTED WITH ORTIZ EARLY IN 1940--WAS STEADY, BUT NOT MARKED BY DISTINCTION. HE WAS MINISTER OF JUSTICE AND PUBLIC INSTRUCTION AND LATER MINISTER OF INTERIOR IN THE CABINET OF PRESIDENT AUGUSTIN P.JUSTO, WHOSE PRESIDENCY PRECEDED THAT OF ORTIZ.

Mandel, French Foe Of Nazis, Reported Dead In Reich Pen

Ex-Cabinet Minister Hated By Germans Both As Jew And As Bitter Opponent

JUN -5 1943

(By the Associated Press)

New York, June 4—Georges Mandel, the former French Cabinet Minister who was popularly believed to have more secret information on French politicians than any other man in the world, was reported dead in a German prison, an NBC dispatch from Switzerland said tonight.

Mandel, who would have been 58 tomorrow, was doubly hated by the Germans as a Jew and as a strong French politician who long opposed them. He was among those Government leaders who left France to set up a government in Africa shortly before the armistice in 1940 and were turned back aboard their ship.

Jailed By Petain

The Government of Marshal Petain clapped him in jail along with Gen. Maurice Gamelin and former Premiers Leon Blum and Paul Reynaud. Never brought to trial on the "war guilt" charges prepared by the Vichy Government, Mandel finally fell into German hands when the occupation line was overrun last November and he was transferred to Germany.

A French political figure since the World War, Mandel was hated by many because he was a ruthless political foe, a man with a biting wit and an amazing memory for facts which he assiduously collected.

Kept Secret Dossiers

Many were kept in secret dossiers and his pockets were always filled with little scraps of paper on which he noted down information gleaned from conversations in the Chamber of Deputies lobbies or long hours of study in the chamber library.

He was also feared because in the dying years of the Third Republic too many French politicians had things to hide.

Born Jeroboam Rothschild in a Paris suburb, Mandel entered politics as secretary to France's first World War Premier, Georges Clemenceau. Mandel was then not yet 21 years old and he held the job for fifteen years.

Called "The Tiger Cub"

So successfully did he emulate his master, who was a stickler for honesty among his associates, that Mandel became known as "The Tiger Cub." Each time he won a political victory or a Cabinet post he would lay a wreath before Clemenceau's statue on the Champs Elysee.

His reorganization of France's postoffice, telephone and telegraph system in 1934 was an outstanding job, but he fired many employes and won more enemies. When Blum became Premier in 1936 Mandel went out, for he was Rightist.

When Edouard Daladier came to power, Mandel was brought back and was credited by many observers with much of the iron that went into that ill-fated Premier's terms. Many thought Mandel would be the strong man needed for Premier, or even dictator, of wartime France . . . but the Germans got there first.

Nile Kinnick Jr. Killed in Action, Football Star

Naval Ensign Was Named All-American Halfback in '39; Won Many Trophies

OMAHA, June 4 (AP).—Naval Ensign Nile C. Kinnick jr., All-American halfback on the University of Iowa football team four years ago, has been killed in action. The parents of the twenty-four-year-old flyer, who was attached to an aircraft carrier, said today they received word from the Navy Department that Nile had been killed and that his body had not been recovered.

In Washington, the Navy said that Ensign Kinnick was lost June 2, when his airplane made a forced landing at sea. A crash boat arrived at the scene within a few minutes but was unable to find Kinnick, who had been seen to fall free of the plane, it was reported.

Won Many Trophies

In addition to his All-American rating in 1939, Ensign Kinnick won the Heisman Trophy given by the Downtown Athletic Club of New York City, the Maxwell Trophy presented by the Racquet Club of Philadelphia and the Walter Camp Award of the Touchdown Club of Washington.

The Associated Press poll named him the athlete of the year, with an eight-point lead over the baseball star, Joe DiMaggio, and he won "The Chicago Tribune" trophy as the most valuable player in the Big Ten Conference.

The team on which Kinnick played was coached by Dr. Eddie Anderson, and won the title "Iron-Man" team, because most of the members played continuously in the game they started. Kinning played on successive Saturdays, without rest, against Indians, Michigan, Wisconsin, Purdue, Notre Dame and Wisconsin, and went forty-two minutes against Northwestern in the final game of the season.

When he was presented with the Heisman trophy in 1939, the football star said: "I thank God I was born to the gridirons of the Mid-West and not the battlefields of Europe. I can confidently say that the boys of this country would rather win this trophy than the Croix de Guerre."

Enlisted in Navy in 1941

However, when he saw that war was coming, he gave up his studies of law at the University of Iowa and enlisted in the Navy in September, 1941. He began training in Kansas City three days before Pearl Harbor.

After he was graduated with an academic degree and winning membership in Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity, he turned down offers to play professional football, and returned to Iowa to study law and coach freshman football. He had completed a year of law when he joined the Navy.

He was born at Adel, Iowa, and was trained early for a football career in college by his father, who was a quarterback at Iowa State College at Ames in 1914. The elder Kinnick now is an analyst for the Federal Land Bank in Omaha.

Surviving, besides his parents, are two brothers, Ben, a Marine Corps pilot, and George, a senior at an Omaha high school.

Lou Zamperini Missing In Action Since May 27

Torrance, Cal., June 4 (AP)—Lieut. Lou Zamperini, one of the best distance runners who ever performed for the University of Southern California, has been missing since May 27 in the South Pacific war theater, his mother, Mrs. Anthony Zamperini, was notified today from Washington.

Zamperini, who set the NCAA record for the mile run in 1938 with a mark of 4 minutes 8.3 seconds, participated as bombadier in several bombing expeditions, including the Christmas Day attack on Japanese-held Wake Island. He reported in letters home that his plane was heavily shot up at times.

At 18, he was a member of the American team which competed in the 1936 Olympic games at Berlin. He ran seventh in the 5,000 meter run. An international incident almost resulted after the games when he tore down a Nazi flag in front of Hitler's Berlin chancellery.

Grandson Of T. R. Is Staten Island Hospital Patient

New York, June 4 (AP)—Capt. Quentin Roosevelt, 23, grandson of the late President Theodore Roosevelt and namesake of an uncle who was killed in World War I, today was a patient at the Halloran General Hospital, Staten Island, under treatment for a wound received in February in the Tunisian campaign.

"Our boys in the infantry can do anything German infantry can do, and more," he said. "Our artillery is far superior and our system of artillery, I would say without a doubt, is the best in the world. Our system is simple and effective and works well under any conditions."

Captain Roosevelt was struck by a .30-caliber bullet from the gun of a low-flying Messerschmitt.

He expects to remain at the hospital for a week or two and then take it easy for about two months.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, JUNE 2-(DELAYED)-(AP)--
PANTELLERIA--MUSSOLINI'S ROCK--IS THE LOWLIEST AND MOST FORLORN OUT-POST OF THE SHRUNKEN ITALIAN EMPIRE.

JUN -5 1943

BOMBED ALMOST DAILY FOR THE PAST MONTH AND SLASHED AND TORN BY THE BIG GUNS OF BRITISH WARSHIPS IN TWO FIERCE SHELLINGS FROM THE SEA, THE ISLAND IS PROBABLY THE UNHEALTHIEST SPOT HELD BY FASCIST TROOPS.

REARED UP BY VOLCANIC ACTION IN A BYGONE GEOLOGICAL AGE, THE LITTLE ISLAND, ABOUT 50 SQUARE MILES IN AREA, IS LOCATED ALMOST IN THE MIDDLE OF THE SICILIAN STRAITS SOME 45 MILES FROM THE NEAREST TIP OF AFRICA AND 60 MILES FROM SICILY.

AMERICAN FLIERS WHO HAVE MADE HUNDREDS OF SORTIES OVER THE ISOLATED OUTPOST KNOW ITS EVERY JAGGED CRATER BETTER THAN THEY KNOW THEIR OWN HOME STATES.

MUSSOLINI'S TARDY DECISION IN THE 1930S TO TURN PANTELLERIA INTO A BASE FOR SMALL NAVAL SHIPS, SUBMARINES AND AIRCRAFT AS A RIVAL FOR THE BRITISH BASE AT MALTA 155 MILES AWAY IS THE CAUSE OF THIS ISLAND'S PRESENT TRIAL BY FIRE.

PANTELLERIA IS ABOUT TWO-THIRDS THE SIZE OF MALTA BUT CONSIDERABLY INFERIOR TO THE BRITISH STRONGHOLD IN MILITARY AND NAVAL IMPORTANCE. (HOWEVER, IT IS IMPORTANT AS A BARRIER TO ALLIED SHIPMENT THROUGH THE MEDITERRANEAN OF AMERICAN AND BRITISH SUPPLIES FOR THE MIDDLE EAST, RUSSIA, INDIA AND CHINA.)

ABOUT 9,500 CIVILIANS LIVED IN PANTELLERIA IN PEACETIME, WITH 4,000 RESIDING IN THE TOWN WHICH BEARS THE SAME NAME AS THE ISLAND. THEY EXPORTED WINE, DRIED FISH AND AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS WHICH ARE GROWN ON THE THIN, ROCKY SOIL.

JUN -5 1943

IT IS ONLY AN EIGHT-MILE WALK FROM ONE END OF PANTELLERIA TO THE OTHER, AND ITS GREATEST WIDTH IS JUST OVER FIVE MILES.

LARGE CLIFFS FACE THE SEA ON THE EAST AND SOUTH COASTS OF THE OVAL-SHAPED ISLAND, AND THE HIGHEST POINT IS 2,750-FOOT MONTEGRANDE IN THE CENTER.

ONLY SHALLOW DRAFT NAVAL AND MERCHANT VESSELS MAKE USE OF THE SMALL INNER HARBOR, ENCLOSED BY A BREAKWATER, BUT LARGE SHIPS CAN ANCHOR FARTHER OFFSHORE.

WHAT HAS BEEN HAPPENING TO PANTELLERIA, ALLIED QUARTERS SAY, MUST BE PERSONALLY PAINFUL TO MUSSOLINI, FOR THE ISLAND EMBODIED HIS BROKEN DREAMS OF ITALIAN NAVAL DOMINION OVER "MARE NOSTRUM--OUR SEA."

NEW YORK, JUNE 4-(AP)-THE MOVEMENT IN ARGENTINA TO OUST PRESIDENT RAMON S.CASTILLO GOT UNDER WAY MORE THAN A YEAR AGO WHEN HIS STAND FOR "PRUDENT NEUTRALITY" ALIENATED A LARGE BLOC OF HIS FOLLOWERS.

SOUTH AMERICAN SOURCES IN NEW YORK SAID TODAY THAT CASTILLO ASSURED HIS OWN DOWNFALL A FEW DAYS AFTER PEARL HARBOR WHEN HE DECLARED A STATE OF SIEGE--A MODIFIED FORM OF MARTIAL LAW--AND ANNOUNCED HIS NEUTRALITY POLICY.

ARGENTINA'S MAINTENANCE OF RELATIONS WITH THE AXIS PERHAPS WAS NOT THE OUTSTANDING FACTOR IN THE SITUATION THAT LED TO CASTILLO'S OVERTHROW--IN THE OPINION OF ARGENTINES HERE--BUT INTENSIFIED DISCONTENT OVER A TENSE DOMESTIC POLITICAL SITUATION.

NEW YORK, JUNE 4 -(AP)—PRIVATE ADVICES FROM BUENOS AIRES TODAY SAID THAT PRESIDENT RAMON S. CASTILLO HAD LEFT THE CAPITAL CITY, BUT THAT IT WAS NOT CERTAIN THAT HE HAD ABANDONED THE GOVERNMENT.

THE ADVICES ADDED THAT IT WAS N O T YET CLEAR WHETHER THE REVOLT WHICH BROKE OUT IN BUENOS AIRES THIS MORNING WAS PRO-ALLIED. CASTILLO HAS SPONSORED THE POLICY UNDER WHICH ARGENTINA HAS REMAINED THE LAST COUNTRY OF THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE TO MAINTAIN RELATIONS WITH THE AXIS.

BOYLE

AN ADVANCED AMERICAN BOMBER BASE IN NORTH AFRICA, June 5.—(AP) Scores of American Flying Fortresses in a powerful, rocking blow at the Italian navy damaged three 35,000-ton battleships —the pride of Mussolini's fleet—in a daring daylight raid on Spezia today, and also hit a heavy cruiser and one merchant ship in rain of armor-piercing bombs.

The battleships were all of the 1940 Littorio class, the Littorio itself, the Vittorio Veneto, and the Roma, mounting nine 15-inch guns, 12 6-inch guns and 12 anti-aircraft guns.

Fires Sweep Harbor Area

Great fires were left raging in oil depots and harbor installations, and the American air fleet returned without the loss of a single ship.

Carrying giant, 2,000-pound "battleship busters"—bombs that can smash through armor—the Flying Fortresses made the longest operational flight of the North African campaign for the first surprise daylight assault on the Spezia naval base in the northwest coast of Italy.

All came back despite minor Italian fighter opposition and the heaviest flak the Italian fleet could hurl aloft in a desperate effort to parry this stab at the heart of the Italian naval defenses.

The raid was a painful offensive blow at the hiding Italian navy, a navy possibly being held in reserve to fight any Allied invasion of Italian soil.

Spezia No Haven

The invasion-jittery Italians had hoped Spezia harbor might be a haven safe from the far-ranging Fortresses, but the big American planes made the long over-water hop to explode that hope.

The last raid on Spezia was by the R.A.F. on April 18, when a destroyer was sunk.

The Littorio class battleships are approximately 775 feet long, and each of these fugitive "reluctant dragons" of the dwindling Fascist navy has an aft catapult carrying three scout planes.

The huge armada of attacking Fortresses included many of the same planes which, 100-strong, struck at La Maddalena in Sardinia April 10, sinking the 10,000-ton Gorizia with two direct hits.

Gorizia in Harbor

The Gorizia is now in Spezia harbor, but it was not known whether it was the cruiser hit there today.

Direct hits or near misses with 2,000-pound bombs were reported on all three of the battleships and the heavy cruiser. The near misses were within 50 feet, close enough with one-ton bombs to cause heavy damage in the opinion of air bombing experts.

The merchant vessel struck was estimated to be 350 feet in length. Fire and smoke from jetties, oil depots, storage areas, and electrical shops in the navy yard indicated that the shore installations as well as the ships were hit hard.

In Air Eight and a Half Hours

The returning fliers, fagged from their eight and a half hour ride but jubilant over the result of their first great smash at a far away Italian naval shelter, leaped from the unscarred Fortresses for coffee and doughnuts.

Among them were Capt. David Pett of Royal Oak, Mich., a pilot and squadron leader on his 50th raid.

"It was a long tiring trip but it was wonderful to see it work out so successfully," said Capt. Pett.

"The fact that the flak didn't bother us and that there were no fighters to speak of made it perfect. The Italians won't use those three ships for a long time—and they may have to pump a couple up to get them to the surface."

Although some of the other fliers were not so optimistic as to the extent of the damage inflicted on the battleships, one of which was caught in the outer harbor and the other two in an area enclosed by a sea wall, all thought the raid was an extremely punishing and heavy blow to the already wobbly Italian naval morale.

Veterans in Raid

Among the planes on the raid were the "Pegasus," a veteran of 39 missions against the Axis, and the "Heinie Headhunters," with 53 missions behind it.

It was the first combat mission for Lieut. Martin Kahel, of Long Island City, N. Y., who gave up a post in a transport ship to become a B-17 navigator.

"Through the driftmeter I saw the whole thing," said Lieut. Kahel. "There is no other thrill like that. It looked like a movie only real—so real it comes up and hits you.

"It looked like the previous squadron hit the right deck of a ship at the end. But our bombs, at least four or five of them, hit within 50 to 75 feet of a ship—close enough to crack its seams so it will be in drydock. I never will forget the sight of the battleships' guns firing at us or the flames and black smoke of the bombs from the heavy Fortress formations."

SPEED VIEWED AS INDICATING NEW WAR STEP

Summons And Parleys In Africa Spur Talk Of Invasion

JUN - 6 1943

Unusual Activity Of Service Chiefs Follows Meeting

JUN - 6 1943

[By the Associated Press]

London, June 5—Prime Minister Churchill hastily summoned his War Cabinet for hours of secret session immediately after his dramatic return today from war conferences in Washington and Africa.

This was viewed in some quarters as meaning that major military operations were pending and needed quick and final approval.

Starts New Invasion Talk

His swift actions at any rate created a new outburst of invasion enthusiasm and appeared certain to add to Axis fears of a sudden and simultaneous attack in many places.

The meeting in Tunisia of Churchill, Gen. George C. Marshall, United States Army Chief of Staff, and African war leaders was noted here with much interest, and gave further stimulus to speculation about an offensive launched from North Africa.

Unusual activity among service chiefs was reported by the London press in the wake of the Cabinet meeting.

Churchill supposedly told his Ministers the details of his conference with President Roosevelt and outlined plans to carry the war to unconditional surrender of the enemy.

Commons Report Expected

He is expected to elaborate somewhat at the next session of Commons, but the world will have to wait and see the riddle unfold on the field of battle.

Few expect him to go into the finer points of the military problems involved, but it was suggested that probably he would be able to assure the Commons that the plans now made should see the United Nations all the way to victory.

Churchill returned to England at dawn today and hurried to London.

The final stage of his flight across the dangerous Bay of Biscay was made in the dark of the moon with picked air fighters accompanying

Churchill's bomber and watching anxiously for the Nazi aerial pack which on Tuesday shot down a British passenger plane carrying Leslie Howard, the actor, and twelve other passengers.

Think Nazis Sought Leader

The unusual precaution was taken in the belief that the Germans were gunning for Britain's war leader both when they destroyed Howard's plane and when yesterday they riddled a Canadian bomber on the same route and forced seven wounded flyers to parachute to safety in Portugal. No trace has been found of Howard's plane or its passengers.

Churchill was accompanied on the final night dash by Anthony Eden, Foreign Secretary, who flew to North Africa to join him in the North Africa talks, and by General Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the imperial general staff, who was with him at the big conference in Washington, where the Allies mapped their global war strategy.

"Zero Hour," Says Headline

The Prime Minister's homecoming coincided with a rash of "invasion" talk in England, with mounting speculation that the first Allied blow would strike the Italian islands of Sardinia, Sicily and Pantelleria.

The Daily Mail bore the blaring headline: "Zero hour in the battle for bastion islands."

Last night the Rome radio warned the Italian people that "the Allied attack is coming" and exhorted the defenders of Pantelleria to stand fast.

Churchill is expected to make a report to the House of Commons soon on the results of his trip to the United States and Africa, but it was pointed out that he obviously would be unable to give any particulars of the strategy agreed upon.

JUN - 6 1943

Downing Street Statement

A statement from No. 10 Downing Street said Churchill flew from the United States to Gibraltar, and then visited the headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in Algiers. He then was joined by Eden and together they visited Tunis and the British and United States armies in northwest Africa.

"Yesterday," the official statement said: "Admiral Cunningham, commander in chief in the Mediterranean, gave a luncheon at which Generals Giraud and de Gaulle and the whole new French committee for national liberation met the Prime Minister and the Foreign Secretary. Proceedings were most cordial."

Churchill Home, Begins Talks With Aides

JUN - 6 1943

[By the Associated Press]

London, June 5—Prime Minister Winston Churchill flew home today by way of North Africa from the Washington war council at which full accord was reached on a future Allied course on all fronts—an accord which was expected to be interpreted into action first with an invasion of Europe.

The Prime Minister, who saw Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in North Africa, landed at a British airdrome at dawn and proceeded immediately to London.

Begins Talks With Aides

He plunged immediately into consultation with his Cabinet colleagues and service chiefs. There was some speculation that his report to the House of Commons would not be made immediately but would await a fuller shaping, and it was suggested Parliament might extend its next series of sessions to hear him.

Not only was his plane escorted by fighter craft on the later stages of the journey, but Churchill's flight was timed so the plane passed the Axis-patrolled Bay of Biscay at night, with no moon.

Accompanied By Eden

He was accompanied by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who flew from Britain to join him in the North Africa talks, and by Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the imperial general staff, who was with him at the Washington conference with President Roosevelt and the British and American general staffs.

In North Africa, Churchill also had what was described as a "most cordial" meeting with Gen. Charles de Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud, who earlier in the week settled their differences and set up a provisional French Government under their joint leadership.

Invasion Is Awaited

Churchill's homecoming coincided with mounting speculation that the Allied blow was about to fall upon Hitler's so-called European fortress.

The invasion talk, which has been the main topic of London newspapers, reached its highest pitch this morning.

The Daily Mail, referring to the Allied aerial hammering of Italy and her Mediterranean outposts, featured a headline: "Zero Hour In Battle For Bastion Island."

"Attack Coming," Rome Says

The Italians, as well as the Germans, have been broadcasting reports of great Allied invasion preparations in the Mediterranean. Last night the anxious Rome radio broadcast a warning that "the Allied attack is coming" and called upon menaced Pantelleria to stand fast.

The Axis had been putting out various reports that Churchill was here or there in the Mediterranean area, and for the last week there has been a great concentration of German planes over the Bay of

Biscay, apparently gunning for the Prime Minister.

Belief this was the case was heightened after an enemy plane last Tuesday shot down a British passenger plane en route from Lisbon to Britain with thirteen passengers, including Actor Leslie Howard. No trace of the plane or passengers has been found.

The end of the Washington conference was announced May 27. Churchill then flew to Gibraltar, and then visited the headquarters of General Eisenhower.

He was jointed there by Eden and together they visited Tunis and the British and United States armies in northwestern Africa.

Luncheon With French

Their stay ended yesterday when the newly formed French provisional Government lunched with them, it was announced.

No. 10 Downing street said:

"Yesterday Admiral Cunningham, commander in chief in the Mediterranean, gave a luncheon at which Generals Giraud and De Gaulle and the whole new French Committee for National Liberation met the Prime Minister and the Foreign Secretary. Proceedings were most cordial."

Axis Was Close

(Axis sources, apparently fishing for information, had hit close to the fact in reporting that Churchill flew to Gibraltar after the Washington conference, but some broadcasts said he conferred with Allied generals there and then flew on to England, while others hinted he had gone on to other theaters of the war.)

Diplomatic observers said that in view of the important decision which had to be made in North Africa following the Washington conferences Churchill felt a second and senior member of the British War Cabinet should be with him. Eden, therefore, flew to Africa.

Neither In French Talks

It was understood in London that neither Churchill nor Eden participated in the Giraud-De Gaulle conversations, which resulted in the establishment of the French central authority in Algiers.

Eden's absence from Commons was noted this week, but it was not until a day or two ago that it became known in some quarters he had joined the Prime Minister.

Allied War Plans Discussed in Africa

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 5 — (AP) Prime Minister Churchill came to North Africa after his recent conferences with President Roosevelt, it was disclosed today, to lay before Allied field commanders the war plans approved in Washington by the two leaders and their military advisers.

During the past week the prime minister, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, and the American and British chiefs of staff, Gen. George C. Marshall and Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, have held conferences with Allied army, navy and air commanders of the North African theater "on details of a plan for striking the most powerful possible blow at the Axis," the official announcement said.

U. S. Army Expanding

Gen. Marshall held a press conference at the conclusion of the military talks and, speaking of the growth of the American army at home, he told newsmen that the situation had changed tremendously for the better in the past six or eight months.

He said it no longer was necessary to allocate troops and equipment to meet emergencies. The army has reached such a stage of development, he said, that coordinated offensives can be carried out as a program born of careful long-range planning.

The conferences attended by Mr. Churchill here actually were a continuation of the recent Washington strategy meetings and were designed to put into effect the general plans decided upon in the United States.

In Washington, Mr. Churchill, President Roosevelt, and high military officers of both the United States and Britain took up the question of how and where the Allies could best employ their forces to attain victory in the shortest possible time.

Tour Battle Scenes

Along with Mr. Churchill, Gen. Marshall and Gen. Brooke also took advantage of their visit to look over the scene of the final victory which drove the Axis from Africa.

The prime minister also held an informal press conference here and, like Gen. Marshal, expressed satisfaction with the results of the war of extermination being waged against enemy submarines.

Mr. Churchill said he was highly pleased with the French unity achieved through the agreement between Generals Charles de Gaulle and Henri Giraud and the establishment of the new French "Committee for National Liberation."

Gen. Marshall told the correspondents that the collapse of the Axis in Tunisia demonstrated to Berlin that the Allies could get together in a land, sea and air offensive. He said he had worked intimately with Gen. Eisenhower as Allied commander in chief in complete confidence at all times.

Marshall Pays Tribute

The United States Chief of Staff paid special tribute to the French forces in the Tunisian campaign, which he said had acquitted themselves admirably. He attended Memorial Day services of the American Thirty-fourth Division.

[General Marshall was quoted in a BBC broadcast as saying while in North Africa that "we are out to win this war in the quickest and most economical way."

Airman Retains His Dog by Help Of Eisenhower

BY LUCE

Parents of Dead Co-owner Seek Pet, but General Puts Flyer's Claim First

JUN - 6 1943

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 5 (AP).—This is a story of Duckworth, a little black and white cocker spaniel with a heart filled with devotion for two American Spitfire pilots—one dead, the other living—and a letter General Dwight D. Eisenhower wrote to make sure the comradeship of an American flyer and his dog would not be broken.

The story actually began when Lieutenant Harold F. Taff, of Otto, Ind., and Lieutenant Richard J. East, of New York, brought the spaniel on a troopship across the Atlantic and set up home together at a Tunisian fighter airdrome. With Allied victory near, Lieutenant East failed to return one day from a mission.

Then the Army mailman brought a message to General Eisenhower from Dr. Bion R. East, of the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, which said he and his wife had been notified that their son was missing and asked if the pet dog might be returned to them, "if it is not inconsistent with general policy and it doesn't interfere with the war effort."

"Dick's mother would particularly appreciate it," the father wrote. "If the dog could be placed on a plane or freighter coming to New York Harbor, I could meet the dog and take him to our home."

The Allied commander in chief, who had not known about Duckworth's co-master, ordered the request granted. Just in time Lieutenant General Carl A. Spaatz, Allied air commander of the Northwest African Air Force, learned of the situation and dispatched an explanation to General Eisenhower, and Duckworth and the former Indiana University student were reunited.

To the parents of the dead pilo went this reply from Genera Eisenhower: "When I receive your letter asking for the return of the dog owned by your son, I was deeply touched. I immediately directed that every effort be made to comply with your request. Today I received from General Spaatz a report in which appears the following statement:

"'It is learned that the dog Duckworth belonged jointly to Lieutenant East and his best friend, Harold Taff. Lieutenant East was killed in action April 4. His plane and grave were located after our forces moved into the Tunis area. The loss of his best friend deeply affected Taff. The commanding officer of the fighter group brought Taff with the dog to the airplane. Taff was heartbroken at the thought of losing his dog and wanted to spend every possible minute with him until the plane took off. He placed him in the plane and carefully tied him. He left the plane just before the take-off. Colonel West had been waiting in his car to take Taff back to his quarters, but Taff was seen to thank him and walk away from the car to an adjoining field.'

"Under the circumstances, and in particular in view of the statement that the dog was jointly owned by your son and his best friend, and especially as Taff has shown strong affection for the dog, I believe you will agree with me it would be unwise to return the dog to you as requested.

"The friendship of a dog is precious. It becomes even more so when one is so far removed from home as we are in Africa. I have a Scottie. In him I find consolation and diversion. For me he is theone 'person' to whom I can talk without the conversation turning back to the war. Duckworth is performing a patriotic service. I respect the quality of warm friendship shown by Taff for the dog. I am confident you and Mrs. East will view the situation similarly despite your natural and understandable desire to have with you this close companion of your gallant son who died for his country on the field of battle."

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, June 5—Nearly 125 tons of bombs dropped from United States Liberators of the Middle East air force smothered Grottalgie airdrome near Brindisi, in southeastern Italy, in a two-wave assault yesterday while air forces from northwest Africa shuttled over Pantelleria, Sicily and Italy in their daily blows at Premier Mussolini's anti-invasion strongholds.

Lieut. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz's forces struck at Catanzaro, on the sole of the Italian boot ninety miles from the Messina strait.

Attacked By RAF

Both Catanzaro and Syracuse were attacked by incendiary-laden Wellingtons Thursday night.

Cairo dispatches said hangars and administration buildings at the large Grottalgie airdrome were covered with direct hits in the daylight raid. Large fires were left burning and columns of smoke and explosions marked the mushrooming destruction. One entire section of the field was said to have been knocked out.

Four Fighters Bagged

All the raiders returned safely, a United States communique said, although they were attacked by a formation of enemy fighters, four of which were shot down.

In Cairo, Col. Keith K. Compton, of St. Joseph, Mo., who led the Grottalgie attack, said he rarely had seen more accurate bombing.

"There were scores of fires which sent great pillars of black smoke into the sky," he recalled, "we completely smothered the area with bursts."

JUN - 6 1943

Grounded Planes Hit

Crewmen said a number of grounded aircraft were destroyed.

Besides Catanzaro and Syracuse, Pangora on the instep of the Italian boot, Milo airfield in northwestern Sicily, Favignana island off the western tip of Sicily, and Pantelleria were hit in the continued bashing of Italy's Mediterranean defenses by the Northwest African air force.

Pangora is the most easterly point in Italy yet attacked by General Spaatz' airmen.

American Lightnings set three hangars afire and damaged the runway at Milo airfield yesterday and attacked Favignana Island.

Defenses Weaken

Pantelleria was attacked by aircraft of both the strategic and tactical air forces, with heavy, medium and fighter-bombers rocking that isle with many loads of explosives and ammunition.

The Italians' anti-aircraft fire under the deluge proved erratic and fading, and no enemy fighters appeared to stem the onslaught.

A fuller reflection of the growing weakness of Axis defenses was shown in the absence of fighter opposition when bomb-carrying Lightnings raided the Milo airfield. There

Italian Airdrome Bombed

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 5 (AP).—American Liberator bombers of the Middle East air force dumped almost 125 tons of explosives on the Grottalgie Airdrome, near Brindisi, in southeastern Italy, yesterday and other Allied air units struck again at the enemy's Mediterranean island strongholds and at additional points on the Italian mainland.

The two-wave daylight assault on the Grottalgie Airdrome splintered hangars and administration buildings with direct hits. One entire section of the field was said to have been knocked out as the whole place was covered with explosions, large fires and columns of smoke.

Catanzaro Pounded

A formation of fighters challenged the big bombers, which blasted four of the enemy planes out of the air, and an American communique said all of the American raiders returned safely. Returning flyers said a number of enemy planes were destroyed on the ground.

Meanwhile, bombers and fighters of the northwest African air force pounded Catanzaro, on the southern coast of Italy; Pangora, on the instep of the Italian boot; Syracuse, in Sicily; Milo Airfield, in northwestern Sicily; Favignana Island, off the western tip of Sicily, and the tiny, oft-batter Island of Pantelleria.

British Wellingtons rained incendiary bombs on Catanzaro and Syracuse Thursday night. In flying to Pangora, the Allied airmen struck at the most easterly point in Italy yet attacked by planes of the Northwest African Air Force.

Milo Airfield and Favignana Island were raided yesterday by American Lightnings which set on fire three of the airfield's hangars and damaged the runway.

Heavy and medium bombers and fighter-bombers of both the strategic and tactical air forces made the newest attack on Pantelleria, blasting and machine-gunning military establishments there.

The bomb-carrying Lightnings also encountered no enemy fighters in the raid on Milo Airfield, indicating further that enemy aerial resistance is steadily disappearing. Anti-aircraft fire there also was light, but there was intense machine--gun fire in the vicinity of the airport.

Only Two Planes Lost

The operations, in which all types of aircraft were used, cost the Allies only two planes.

The enemy struck back with a raid last night on Algiers by a force described officially as small. Although two of the raiders were shot down, the attack caused some casualties and created some damage.

Reconnaissance photographs of Leghorn, attacked by almost 100 four-engined American bombers on May 28, showed today that a large oil refinery there was put out of action. Seventeen of nineteen storage tanks in one section of the city were burned out and eight others were destroyed in another area. Gas holders, service tanks, packing units and conveyers were destroyed or severely damaged.

The anti-aircraft fire, too, was light. But machine-gun fire in the vicinity of the airport was intense.

Two Planes Lost

The Allies lost only two planes in the operations in which aircraft of all types were used.

In turn, the enemy raided Algiers last night with a force which was officially described as small. Two of the raiders were destroyed. There were some casualties and some damage, however.

Reconnaissance photographs meanwhile showed that the Fortress attack on Leghorn on May 28 put the large oil refinery there out of action.

Oil Tanks Burned Out

Seventeen of nineteen tanks in the northwest section of the city were burned out and eight others were destroyed in another area. Gas holders were severely damaged, while service tanks, packing units and conveyers were destroyed or badly damaged. Much wreckage was evident among the railway installations and pipe lines running into the plant. The Butein plant and lubricating plant also were damaged.

The Middle East command, in a communique issued at Cairo, said its light bombers had forced the

...he Aegean Sea ...ring an attack ...anto Island.

...munique broad- ... by Rome reported two Allied raids near Taranto naval base in southern Italy, presumably the attacks mentioned in the Allied announcement as having been carried out Thursday night.

Damage Admitted

(Rome said the double raid "caused victims and damage" near Taranto and that a Liberator was shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

(Four Allied planes were reported by Rome as shot down over Pantelleria by anti-aircraft fire and four from a formation which flew over Trapani province, Sicily.

(A twin-engined plane was said to have crashed into the sea near Savignana island while German fighters, in a raid over Malta, claimed to have downed a Spitfire.

A supplement to the communique said that in the Taranto raids casualties among the civilian population were twenty-four dead and forty-one injured.

Africa Troops Call for Harsh Steps in Strikes

'Stars and Stripes' Survey Reports 90% Willing to Trade Jobs With Strikers

ALGIERS, June 5 (AP).—"The Stars and Stripes," American soldier newspaper, in its North African edition published today a survey of comments of United States troops on the strikes back home, especially the coal mine walkout. (The survey obviously was conducted before it was known that the mine union had ordered the strikers back to work on Monday.)

"Almost 90 per cent of the men urged drastic government action against the strike leaders as well as against the strikers themselves," the Army newspaper said.

"The Stars and Stripes" said its staff writers conducted a "great many personal interviews" in which the question was asked: "What do you think of the coal strike?" Besides this, hundreds of unsolicited letters were sent to the newspaper office by soldiers.

"Fully 70 per cent declared the strikers should be inducted into the Army and returned to work on 'C' Army rations," the front page article said.

"A substantial minority expressed concern that the people back home still don't realize that the war is going on. None of the soldiers had any use whatever for John L. Lewis.

"Almost without exception the soldiers offered to change places with the strikers."

"The Stars and Stripes" quoted Sergeant Frank Middledorf, of Lafayette, Ind., a former railway worker and member of the mail clerks' union, thus:

"Reading and hearing about strikes in vital industries back home really burn the fellows up. I say induct the strikers into the Army, if they don't appreciate that their lot is better than ours."

In about 10 per cent of the cases, soldier criticism accused labor leaders of trying to prolong the war by holding up supplies and making more money for themselves, the newspaper said.

Staff Sergeant E. Ditchkus, of Kearny, N. J., who said his father had been a Pennsylvania coal miner for nineteen years and that he knew personally what it was to be hungry during a strike, was quoted as saying:

"The government should really outlaw strikes in time of war, even ...s to induct the strikers."

...Henry Persike, of Brook- ...at regardless of the reason for strikes, "these can't be bad enough to go through with them now. We can easily lose the war as a result of strikes," "Stars and Stripes" quoted him as saying.

"There is no reason why they can't settle their differences by arbitration," said Master Sergeant Robert Guy, of Wichita, Kan., who has been on four bomber missions. "I remember when the men of my old outfit had finished up twenty-six planes of a struck plant in California so we could get them on their way to England. I'll never forget those rotten days."

The newspaper said that of the 10 per cent who registered approval of strikes, even in war time, Sergeant Joseph Harris, of Brooklyn, entered a representative view:

"The men in the coal pits deserve every break they can get and if strikes are their only means, let them exercise that American right. Inducting them into the Army won't solve the trouble unless they are sent back to their jobs. But that would set unionism back fifty years. It just wouldn't be true democracy."

GIRAUD SEEN REMAINING AS ARMY'S CHIEF

De Gaulle's Earlier Opposition Overcome, Informants Say

JUN - 6 1943

Compromise Is Believed Reached During Session Of Committee

[By the Associated Press]

Algiers, June 5—Gen. Henri Giraud will remain as commander in chief of the French North African Army despite earlier opposition by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, political informants said tonight.

Belief that a compromise had been reached in what was probably the greatest stumbling block to a union of de Gaulle's Fighting French and Giraud's forces was expressed after the conclusion of today's session of the French Committee for National Liberation.

It was reported that de Gaulle has agreed to permit Giraud, co-chairman of the committee, to remain as head of the army provided he does not take command in the field; in return Giraud agreed to place several Fighting French generals in key positions in the newly merged army.

JUN - 6 1943

Juin May Command

Although there was no official announcement, it was understood that the committee was considering the formation of an army corps combining the elements of the Fighting French and the North African Army to symbolize the new unity. It was believed that the corps would probably be commanded by Gen. Alphonse Juin.

Both de Gaulle and Giraud today addressed the Algerian Assembly, local parliamentary group sitting as a financial committee. The two were received enthusiastically with de Gaulle getting slightly more applause as they entered the chamber.

Unity Stressed

In their speeches they stressed unity as imperative to the war effort and victory. Giraud remarked that in time of war there were no elections under the French law and there should be no politics but an all-out drive to win the war.

A committee spokesman earlier had erroneously described the meeting as that of members of the French Chamber of Deputies. There are some two-score deputies here but they have not met as yet.

The resignation of Gen. Auguste Nogues, who on Thursday had been removed as resident general of Morocco and succeeded by Gabriel Puaux, former high commissioner in Syria, was made public today.

Opposed Allied Landings

De Gaulle had demanded his dismissal and Nogues, who opposed the Allied landings last November, issued a statement saying he was resigning in the interests of French unity.

"November 8, 1942, we had the duty of keeping our word," Nogues said in telling of that fateful date when he was under Vichy rule. "We performed our duty with sorrow. In acting thus we avoided German intervention. Having been disciplined up to the point of even sacrificing their sentiments, it is with enthusiasm that our troops have formed themselves again in one bloc and taken up the struggle at the side of the Allies against the common enemy."

The new French committee is planning the creation of a War Cabinet to be drawn from its membership, a reliable report said.

Possible Posts

It was virtually certain that Rene Massigli would be given the foreign affairs portfolio as he is already acting in that capacity. Giraud might have the war Ministry and de Gaulle that of Interior.

Several members of the earlier Giraud Government still remain to be ousted if all of de Gaulle's demands are met by the new executive committee. One of these is Gen. Rene Prioux, chief of staff of the French North African army, is reliably reported to have been confined to his quarters for several days.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, American commander in chief of the Allied armies, visited de Gaulle today, returning a recent visit paid him by the Fighting French leader.

Nogues Quits His Morocco Post As Governor

JUN - 6 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Algiers, June 5—Gen. Auguste Nogues presented his resignation as Resident General of French Morocco to Gen. Henri Giraud today with the assertion he placed French unity above all other considerations and, in a message to Moroccans, defended his conduct in office.

(An Algiers radio broadcast recorded in London said that Gabriel Puaux, former French High Commissioner in Syria, had been appointed Resident General of Morocco to succeed Nogues.)

Resisted "With Sorrow"

Seeking to explain why French troops under him in Morocco resisted the Allied landings, Nogues said in his message that "November 8, 1942, we had the duty of keeping our word. We performed our duty with sorrow. In acting thus, we avoided German intervention. Having been disciplined up to the point of even sacrificing their sentiments, it is with enthusiasm that our troops have formed themselves again in one bloc and taken up the struggle at the side of the Allies against the common enemy."

Demanded By De Gaulle

The ousting of Nogues was one of the measures demanded by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, the Fighting French leader.

Formation of a streamlined war cabinet, within the framework of the newly organized French Committee for National Liberation was considered likely in political quarters.

Committee Reconvenes

The committee met again today to consider the feasibility of General Giraud continuing as commander in chief of the army and the removal of additional officials.

Another matter being considered is the creation of a war cabinet within the committee. It was thought certain that Rene Massigli would be charged with foreign affairs, as he already is acting in that capacity. Giraud might have the war portfolio and de Gaulle that of the interior.

Chamber To Meet

Giraud and de Gaulle this evening are scheduled to address a "symbolic" session of the Chamber of Deputies, to be attended by almost fifty members of that body who are in North Africa.

While the session will not be an official one, since there will not be a quorum present, it is being held to demonstrate that the Chamber still is in existence despite its abolition by Marshal Petain. Since all Vichy legislation and decrees have been annulled by the new regime, the Chamber is legally in existence again, although non-functional.

Many of the Deputies are in the army. Despite a law which forbids the presence of uniforms in the Chamber, many will wear them because they have no civilian clothes. They left them in France and clothes are hard to get here.

Leaders Stress Unity

The committee had new expressions of unity from de Gaulle and Giraud, voiced in radio addresses last night to the French people on the first anniversary of Bir el Hacheim, when Fighting French forces below El Alamein broke through German armor in a strategic withdrawal.

"The only issue is the crushing of the enemy," de Gaulle said.

"All the fighting men of France are grouped now on a single road," Giraud asserted.

Committee Called Temporary

Both leaders emphasized that the life of the committee was temporary, until it could turn its functions over to a liberated French people.

Ahead of the committee were questions of continuing Giraud as a headquarters commander in chief of the French army in return for concessions which would place Fighting French officers in high posts in the field and the discussion of the war effort in parts of the French Empire not under Axis control.

Catroux Starts New Job

General Catroux assumed his powers as Governor General of Algiers yesterday. They were surrendered by Marcel Peyrouton, who had been dismissed by the committee after a mixup in resignation letters Peyrouton addressed to both de Gaulle and Giraud.

Vice-Admiral Emile Muselier still held his post as deputy commander in chief in charge of public order in the Algiers area, but it was believed he would be relieved of the office on the ground the situation no longer required it.

Only One Motor Left After Sardinia Raid. Pilot Pancakes Into Mediterranean 4 Miles From Shore

An Advanced United States Medium Bomber Base, North Africa, June 2 (Delayed)—A flight surgeon riding as an observer told today how a Mitchell bomber shot up by enemy fighters carried him and a crew of five over 225 miles of open sea with one engine out and a wing on fire before it pancaked into the Mediterranean near the Allied shore.

Major John L. Coglend, of Burke, N. Y., a former physician for the Hartford (Conn.) Board of Health, said he thought that at any moment during the two hours and ten minutes the bomber would explode and kill all aboard.

Members Of Crew

Riding with him when the bomb took off to bomb Sardinia were:

LIEUT. CHARLES W. SMITH, pilot, of Fairfax, S. C.

LIEUT. ALBERT B. FERRY, co-pilot, of Bradley Beach, N. J.

LIEUT. BENEDICT J. O'MARA, bombardier, DeWitt, Iowa.

STAFF SERGEANT FRED F. HECKS, turret gunner, Tacoma, Wash.

SERGT. WALTER I. SUNDSTROM, radio gunner, Eveleth, Minn.

"As we climbed to 10,000 feet with our target in sight, a group of enemy fighters did an unusual thing—they rode through their own heavy flak to jump us before we dropped our bombs," recalled Coglend, who has made seven flights over enemy territory "to study the reaction of our men under combat."

As he got behind the copilot to look at the target two Me-109s swept the American bomber with tracer bullets.

Bullets Sound Like Hail

"It sounded like the patter of hail," said Coglend. "I sat there open-mouthed as I saw the bullets rip through the left engine and wing. Then a dozen bullets smashed the window by the copilot and one went through his parachute.

"The phone was knocked out and the bombardier had no way to tell us if the bombs were away. The rudder had been hit, too, and both the pilot and copilot had to work with all their strength to maneuver us into a turn and dive. The German fighters didn't follow us down or we would be dead."

As they rode down until they were just above the sea, the radio gunner shouted back, "the ship is on fire!"

Fire In Right Motor

"We looked out and saw fire in the right motor," Coglend said. "We cut off the motor and put out the fire with an extinguisher. But it started up again and two more fires started in the right wing.

"We began pumping gas outside. The tanks on both the right and left wings had been pierced by bullets, but they were self-sealing.

"It was 4.36 when we left the target and for two hours and ten minutes we nursed the plane back, only twenty-five feet above the sea, on one motor, which cut our speed from 200 to 150 miles an hour.

"Two other planes of our formation stayed by us as Lieutenant Smith did everything humanely possible to save the ship, for which he had a strong sentimental attachment.

Still 120 Miles Away

"At 6.05 P. M. we were still 120 miles from our airport and the radio gunner called, 'the top skin is beginning to crumble.' I looked out and saw a fire blazing like a furnace in the upper surface of the wing, where a square yard was already burned away. We thought any moment she would blow up."

"When the radio gunner called up that the fire had reached the main wing span Smith decided we had to set down in the sea, although he hated giving up the ship. But he knew he had to in order to save the crew.

"I crawled back and shouted to the two gunners, 'get ready to crash into the sea.'

Smoke Pours Into Ship

"We braved ourselves. The smoke pouring into the ship made the air so thick we could harly breathe. You could see the licks of flame from the wing. We set her down at 120 miles an hour and we hit with a terrific impact.

"I felt as if I had gone right to the bottom. In less than a second the water poured in and flooded the plane. The co-polit clambered out the escape matchc overhead with us boosting him like fat walruses.

"We weren't under water long enough to be out of breath. All of us followed the co-pilot except the radio gunner and the turret gunner, who got out through the camera door at the rear.

Sinks In 3 Minutes

"We all climbed onto the ship, which floated tail up for three minutes before sinking. That gave us time to get out the life raft and inflate it and move away quickly because we still were afraid the plane would explode as a result of the crash damage."

Coglend said they thought they had landed about three quarters of a mile from the shore, but that after paddling for some time "we decided we had been a little optimistic and that we really were three or four miles out."

They were picked up by an Arab fishin gboat, which took them to the seaside home of the Caid, a local Arab leader. Coglend, who is tanned, husky and as healthy looking as any flyer, treated the cuts and bruises on himself and the rest of the crew. Then what do you think this freshly-dunked doctor did?

"I went swimming in the Mediterranean," said Coglend. "You know we don't get a chance like that very often."

CASTILLO RESIGNS, GENERAL RAWSON IS NEW PRESIDENT

JUN - 6 1943

Argentine Ruler Names Cabinet of Military, Naval Officials.

POLICY NOT REVEALED

First Actions Indicate Government Will Have Pro-Allied Flavor.

BUENAS AIRES, June 5—(AP) General Arturo Rawson formally became the new president of Argentina tonight, succeeding Ramon Castillo who returned to surrender the office after a brief period of defiance aboard a warship.

Gen. Rawson's new 10-man governmental leadership includes only two civilians, the others being army and naval leaders who marched with the general to oust the Castillo government yesterday.

Policies Not Announced

Although under Castillo Argentina had remained neutral and was the only South American government maintaining relations with the Axis, there was no official indication immediately of the policies of the new leaders.

The other ministers under Gen. Rawson are:

Vice-President — Rear Admiral Sabo Sueyro.

Minister of the Interior—Rear Admiral Segundo Storni.

Minister of Agriculture—General Diego Mason.

Minister of Foreign Affairs—General Domingo Martinez.

Minister of Public Works—General Domingo Pistarini.

Minister of Finance—Jose Maria Rosa.

Minister of the Navy—Rear Admiral Benito Sueyro.

Minister of Justice—Horace Calderon.

Minister of War—General Pedro Ramirez.

Rosa and Calderon are the only civilian cabinet members.

An Associated Press dispatch from Montevideo said Uruguayan officials were disappointed over the almost completely military character of the new government, and the fact that several members were known as extreme rightists. This, they said, apparently exploded earlier hopes that Argentina finally would be ruled by a democratic team.

Anti-Liberals in Cabinet

(One Uruguayan official said Rosa was "known as an anti-liberal. Other sources, however, said the new government might be rightist in internal matters, and pro-Allied in international policy. Others suggested a wait-and-see attitude).

An official announcement of the new regime was issued tonight after all-day conferences of Gen. Rawson and his aides.

Castillo was set free after formally resigning the presidency, but two of his ministers were imprisoned.

They are Interior Minister Miguel Culaciati, who was a prisoner of the Second infantry regiment in the capital after giving up with Mr. Castillo at La Plata, and Daniel Amadeo Y. Videla, agriculture minister, who was taken in custody by

[illegible]en to Penitentiary

The two were taken to the federal penitentiary to await prosecution, a Government House announcement said.

"The regular courts will investigate their actions in the administration," it added, but gave no indication of the charges against them.

Government House also made public the text of President Castillo's resignation which was addressed to General Rawson from La Plata. It said:

"I present to the commandant my indeclinable resignation from the office which I have discharged."

Other members of the scattered Castillo cabinet, which took to the naval minesweeper Drummond ahead of Gen. Rawson's 7,000 marchers yesterday and first announced determination to govern while afloat in the Rio de la Plata, were let go on their return.

These included Foreign Minister Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, the "torpedoman" of the post-Pearl Harbor pan-American solidarity conference held at Rio de Janeiro in January, 1942, and the mouthpiece of President Castillo's "policy of prudence."

Anti-aircraft guns were mounted in the Plaza de Mayo, in front of Government House where Gen. Rawson and his aides worked all night, and all government buildings were kept under strict military and police surveillance.

Culaciati, who had to enforce many of Castillo's stern measures, including the "state of siege" which forbade Argentine public discussion of war issues, was understood to be confined in military barracks here.

Offer to Surrender

Castillo and Navy Minister Mario Fincati, after cruising indecisively on the minesweeper Drummond and crossing the wide estuary to Uruguay and back, finally offered their surrender to the commander of the army garrison at La Plata, in Buenos Aires province.

Castillo's resignation was quickly forthcoming and the news of it was broadcast in a communique read over the government station.

Gen. Rawson, ruling under martial law, addressed a message to the governors of the 14 provinces and 10 territories of Argentina, asking them to retain their powers for the time being. He identified himself as chief of the "military movement of the government of the nation" and added in personal messages to each:

"I therefore request Your Excellency to take adequate measures to keep order and public peace until necessary measures to carry on the aims inspired in this movement are adopted. May God keep Your Excellency." He signed as a brigade general.

Fleet Consolidated

Gen. Rawson also ordered the high seas fleet based at Puerto Belgrano, on the Atlantic, to steam to Buenos Aires and join the already assembled river fleet.

The one-day revolution took the lives of approximately 50 soldiers, ousting the only regime in the western hemisphere still tolerating Axis agents who communicate with Germany, Italy, and Japan, and resulted in a three-man junta headed by Gen. Rawson, his close friend, Gen. Pedro Ramirez, and Rear Admiral Benito Sueyro, who retained his post as chief of naval operations.

Castillo's resignation strengthened the military's hold, and life in Buenos Aires quickly was returning to normal. Shops were open, the people were back at work. Celebrations on the overthrow were banned; tomorrow's horse racing and soccer events will be held on schedule.

---

The democratic leaders of the radical party expressed their faith in Rawson's avowed statement that Argentina's political and moral health would be assured once it is freed of "a series of governments which are outside the popular will."

Muzzled By State Of Siege

Castillo had muzzled full expression of the country's sentiments through his "state-of-siege" decree, which banned public and press discussion of international matters connected with the war.

The military seized power a few hours before Castillo's conservative group was to have named the wealthy Robustiano Patron Costas for its candidate in the September Presidential election. He was Castillo's choice to carry on a strict neutrality policy, a course that left Argentina out on a limb from the Pan-American pro-Allied countries.

Rawson and his associates conferred today in Government House which was surrounded by military guards. Throughout the morning a stream of army officers called on them, received orders and departing.

Domestic Policy Affected

Domestic policies also appeared to be involved in the revolt, but these are linked with international policy because of Argentina's position as a heavy exporter of live stock and agricultural products and her dependence on industrial nations for equipment.

Late today there still was no announcement of the Junta's course in international affairs.

Castillo's resignation strengthened the military's hold, and life in Buenos Aires quickly was returning to normal. Shops were open, the people were back at work. Celebrations on the overthrow were banned; tomorrow's horse racing and soccer events will be held on schedule.

Denies Disorders

The following communique was broadcast over the official radio early tonight.

"The commander in chief of the armed forces, in the face of malignant reports which have been circulated, deems it necessary to declare the most perfect order prevails throughout the republic, which it will be impossible to alter.

"The deposed government already has resigned, including Ramon Castillo, who has been let free."

50 Reported Killed; Capital Calm Now

JUN - 6 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Buenos Aires, June 5—Argentina's one-day revolution cost the lives of about fifty soldiers, it was disclosed today as the new military junta headed by pro-Ally Gen. Arturo Rawson banned all celebration of the overthrow of President Ramon Castillo's government and ordered the country back to work.

Spectators Crowd Plaza

Leaders of the revolt slept late in the Government House after attending a wake for soldiers who were killed in yesterday's only serious clash at the naval engineering school. It previously had been announced that only one soldier and fourteen civilians were killed as 7,000 troops under Rawson marched into the city and forced Castillo and his Cabinet to flee.

Buenos Aires was back almost to normal. Shops were open and complete oder prevailed. Onlookers crowded the Plaza de Mayo, but they were prevented by a military guard from passing alongside Government House.

The latest official orders given by General Rawson spiked any plans there might have been for a celebration. He said today would not be a holiday and that all public officials should attend to their jobs.

A strict censorship had been clamped on all publications and communications. Police in the province of San Juan arrested editors of the newspaper La Accion because it announced the revolt on billboards. News of the revolt apparently was received calmly throughout the country, though troops were restricted to their barracks as a safety measure.

May Meet Today

It was reported that the leaders of the military council probably would meet later today to continue the formation of a new government. Roberto Repetto, president of the Supreme Court, said he had received no further word from Castillo since a message of yesterday in which Castillo declared he still was President and would rule the country from the minesweeper Drummond.

Repetto said that, in his opinion, if Castillo resigned as President it then would be necessary for the Congres to discuss his resignation before it could become official. The Supreme Court had taken no action toward recognition of a new Government.

Pledge Reported

The international significance of yesterday's bold stroke by General Rawson and other military leaders in forcing President Ramon Castillo to flee to an Argentine warship still was not clear, but there were these factors:

1. One of the first acts of the provisional government was the arrest of a prominent pro-Axis nationalist, Manuel Fresco.

2. One of several proclamations said to have been issued by Rawson pledged Argentina's cooperation in a "true American union of collaboration and compliance with our international pacts."

3. Pro-Democratic newspapers published an announcement, said to emanate from the revolutionaries, pledging compliance with a resolution adopted by the conference of American foreign ministers at Rio de Janeiro recommending that all American republics break with the Axis. These newspapers also called the revolt "democratic in character."

Some reports, however, indicated the objectives of the revolutionaries were largely domestic.

Called Safety Measure

The revolt occurred on the day the Conservatives were to name a candidate to succeed Castillo.

Rawson, addressing a crowd beneath the Government House balcony, said his movement was "without any political leaning" and was aimed at guaranteeing "the safety of the people and our nation" because the Castillo administration had failed to respect "our institutions and culture."

Gen. Pedro Ramirez, who had been Castillo's War Minister; Gen. Juan Giovanelli, an unidentified naval officer; Rear Admiral Benito Sueyro, who retained the post of chief of naval operations and General Rawson were said to comprise the military junta now fulfilling the function of government.

Gen. Rawson, who led the troops on their triumphant march from their barracks outside Buenos Aires to the Government House, has served in the army's general staff and held various regimental commands. In 1924 as a lieutenant colonel, he was military attache in La Paz, Bolivia. As director general of remount, he established the Argentine Equestrian federation and only recently organized a Pan American federation, of which he was elected president.

Like his colleague, Gen. Ramirez, Gen. Rawson was born in 1884. He is a member of a distinguished family and his father was an army officer.

Gen. Rawson has a reputation as a swordsman and participated in a saber duel three years ago with Gen. Benjamin Menendez. Both were wounded but the judges decided that Gen. Menendez was unable to continue because of the extent of his injuries.

Gen. Ramirez, who is 60 years old, was a comparatively unknown military figure until his appointment to the cabinet six months ago.

His appointment to succeed Gen. Juan Tonazzi came as somewhat of a surprise because of Gen. Ramirez' lack of political affiliation.

Head of New Argentine Regime Is Veteran Professional Soldier

JUN - 6 1943

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, June 5—(AP) Gen. Arturo Rawson, the 50-year-old head of the new provisional military government in Argentina, is a professional soldier and has devoted most of his life to the cavalry.

At the Argentine military college, Gen. Rawson was a classmate of Gen. Pedro P. Ramirez, Argentine Minister of War who broke with President Ramon Castillo to engage in yesterday's revolt as one of the top leaders.

Both entered the college in 1902, but Gen. Ramirez finished a year earlier than Gen. Rawson.

Gen. Ramirez appointed Gen. Rawson as commander of cavalry last year to succeed himself when he was called to President Castillo's cabinet as Minister of War.

that he had resigned because of a dispute with the president. He said reports that he had been consulted by politicians concerning his candidacy in the September presidential elections were not true.

Gen. Ramirez was born in the town of La Paz in Entre Rios province, Jan. 10, 1884. He was graduated as a second lieutenant in 1904 and became a first lieutenant in the cavalry in 1910. The following year he was sent to Germany to complete his studies and remained there until 1913.

In 1931 he was military and air attache in the Argentine embassy at Rome but returned to take over the command of the second cavalry brigade a year later. He became a brigadier general in 1937 and a major general in 1942, when he was designated as commander of the cavalry.

WEIGHS UPSET IN ARGENTINA

Head Of Nation's Socialist Party Not Sure Revolt Is Real Democratic Move

Dr. Nicolas Repetto Would Delay Judgment Until New Policies Are Announced

JUN – 6 1943

[By the Associated Press]

New York, June 5—Dr. Nicolas Repetto, leader of the Argentine Socialist party, said here today that the revolt in his country was a "palace revolution" rather than an expression of democratic sentiment.

He told a general press conference that Gen. Arturo Rawson, head of the new Government, and Gen. Pedro Ramirez, War Minister under deposed President Castillo and now a leader of the revolutionary government, both were "members of the Castillo party and of definitely conservative leanings."

The conference was arranged by the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs.

Would Reserve Judgment

He also issued a prepared statement which said:

"In my opinion, it is necessary to reserve judgment about the significance and ultimate consequences of the military seizure of the government in Argentina.

"Up to now, all that is known with certainty are the names of the generals who head the movement: Both have belonged to or have been very close to the political atmosphere of President Castillo.

Must Know Political Program

"To judge this military movement fairly, it is necessary to know its political program and to see how it will be fulfilled in action. Thirteen years ago the people of Buenos Aires acclaimed a victorious general, all of whose promises have remained unfulfilled.

"I am sure that the United States Government follows with great interest all that is happening in Argentina and that, at any time, it will know how to shape its conduct in accordance with traditional principles.

"In my opinion we should wait until the group of victorious military leaders calls for free elections and gives the country a constitutional President elected by the people.

Should Be Recognized

"It is this President who should be recognized by the United States as the legitimate Government of Argentina.

"A President elected under these conditions would immediately rupture relations with the Axis powers and would also be a great friend of the United States."

OYHANARTE'S HAT IN RING

Former Argentine Foreign Minister Says He Will Run For President

JUN – 6 1943

Plans Move Under Radical Party—Lauds Ousting Of Castillo

[By the Associated Press]

Chicago, June 5—Dr. Horacio B. Oyhanarte, former Argentine Foreign Minister, said today he plans to run for President of Argentina as the candidate of the Radical party.

Dr. Oyhanarte, a noted lawyer, writer and speaker, in a statement expressed pleasure at the overthrow of President Ramon G. Castillo, whose administration Oyhanarte termed an "authoritarian Government."

Was Requested To Return

He said he had been requested recently by Dr. Gabriel Oddone, president of the Radical party, whose members indorsed the revolutionary movement, to return and lead the party's campaign for "more democratic government." The Radical (Liberal) party has sought for a long time to line up Argentina with the United Nations.

A spokesman for Dr. Oyhanarte, Charles R. Aiken, said the Argentinian expected to leave Chicago within a few days.

Dr. Oyhanarte left office as Foreign Minister in 1930. Four years later he was imprisoned for some six months before he escaped. Since then he has spent much time in London and Paris studying law. He has been in Chicago several months.

Lauds Coup

Dr. Oyhanarte said the revolutionary group headed by Generals Pedro Ramirez and Arturo Rawson was trusted by the Argentinian people.

"The nation which founded democratic principles in the Southern Hemisphere could not allow its Government to change administrations without proper legislative procedure or without public reaction," Dr. Oyhanarte said. "Such would have been the case had President Castillo gone ahead with his plans.

"This reaction (the coup) will allow the Argentine to return to legal and institutional government, done away with by the authoritarian government which assumed power in 1930, and re-enter the human and continental solidarity of which Argentine has been a leader."

London Hails Move

The sudden stroke by which an Argentine Army group chased out President Ramon Castillo and took over the government was hailed in United Nations capitals yesterday as bad news for the Axis, The Associated Press reported.

There was no official comment in either London or Washington, but one qualified observer in the United States capital remarked that the situation "looks pretty good" for a severance of Argentina's diplomatic ties with the Axis.

London afternoon newspapers referred to the Castillo government as pro-Axis and Lord Beaverbrook's "Evening Standard" said editorially that "the Argentines have struck a fierce diplomatic blow and sounded a warning which other politicians still sitting in neutrality's saddle would do well to heed."

"The Standard" added that the Argentine revolution has started a campaign which would lead "to the collapse of every vestige of Fascist influence throughout the world."

On the basis of enemy broadcasts recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, the Office of War Information reported that Axis reaction was marked by extreme caution coupled with efforts to minimize its effect by disseminating misinformation.

Nazis Are Cautious

Taking a position in keeping with its propaganda practices, the German D. N. B. news agency held it was significant that "the first news of the revolt came from British and American sources."

If the reports should be confirmed, it said, "this, in the opinion of local (Berlin) political circles, would be proof of United States wirepulling which is attempting, by all means at its disposal, to draw the last independent South American states into the war against the tripartite pact powers under the guise of 'American solidarity.'"

O. W. I. said the Japanese Domei agency had reported that "unconfirmed British reports" told of "an abortive attempt at revolt against the government." Domei added: "In view of the nature of the abortive revolt, it is obvious that American fifth columnists are interested in seeing Argentina abandon its policy of neutrality and were instrumental in engineering the mutiny."

Elmer Davis, Director of War Information, declared that the revolution "means that even the conservative and military classes in Argentina realize that the Axis is going to lose the war."

LAVAL CALLS 200,000 FOR JOBS IN REICH

France's Military Class Of 1942 Ordered Mobilized "For Work"

Germans Boast Of New Weapons And Peak In War Production

[By the Associated Press]

London, June 5—France's military class of 1942 was ordered mobilized "for work" by Pierre Laval today, while the Germans boasted of new weapons of war and a new peak reached in May in war production.

Laval, speaking on the Paris radio, declared that "200,000 workers must go as the result of a convention between Germany and France between March 1 and July 1," and said it was "entirely untrue" that during a recent trip to Germany "I had to agree to stringent measures. . . . . On the contrary, Hitler was cordial and understanding."

The Vichy chief of government said "French volunteers on the eastern (Russian) front demand that we equal their sacrifice. I have decided to call up the 1942 class without exception for work in order to avoid arbitrariness. . . . Rigorous measures will be taken against anyone who tries to avoid the call-up."

Boast Of New Nazi Weapons

In Berlin, meanwhile, at a meeting of German armament workers, Albert Speer, the Nazi Minister of Munitions, asserted that through "German inventive genius" the Nazis would "furnish the front new arms, new tanks, new airplanes and new submarines in numbers which will enable our soldiers to win victory."

He did not describe any new weapons, but in a speech to cheer the home front, declared that German armament production had reached a new high in May.

Addressing the same meeting, Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels, in another broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, stated that "there is only one effective means against the British and American bombing terror—counter-terror," and that "the whole German people today are inspired only by one thought, to retaliate equal with equal."

"Ghost" Interrupts Goebbels

Reuters reported that a ghost voice interrupted the Goebbels broadcast with such phrases as "Hitler started the bomb war against peaceful towns," "Remember Warsaw—Remember Rotterdam," "The war is lost. Your toiling only prolongs it."

While promising that the Allies would be made to pay for the devastating aerial bombardments of Germany, Goebbels told his countrymen they must meanwhile make the best of the raids.

"We are doing everything that can be done to alleviate them, yet much remains unsolved," he said. "With clenched teeth, we for the time being must put up with this crime."

Goebbels said that the crisis of the winter was at an end, and that "we are taking measures to carry on the war in all circumstances until the enemy goes to the floor. That is the unshakable basis and aim of our war effort."

Germany's Production Claims

Speer told the workers, some of whom were awarded medals, that May war production was six per cent. above May, 1941 claimed that production of heavy anti-aircraft guns had risen thirty-one per cent. over 1941, and said plane production in 1942 was "several times" over the 1941 figure.

Speer also asserted that "the German armament industries are comparatively insensitive to air attacks on account of their far-flung ramifications."

[The British, however, have estimated that aerial attacks have reduced German armament production by thirty to fifty per cent.]

"No Strikes" In Reich

Goebbels said that "to an increasing extent, attacks against England are already being carried out by the Luftwaffe. The figures of (British) planes shot down have increased, which is only the beginning."

"We know this time what we are fighting for," he continued, "and we are holding all the pawns for a truly decisive victory. There are no workmen here who have any intention to strike and there are no Jewish instigators to mislead them."

AIR PHOTOS SHOW GREAT DAMAGE IN OFT-BOMBED RUHR

Thyssen Steel Plant Smashed, Duisburg Factories Idle.

JUN – 6 1943

LONDON, June 5.—(AP) Recent R.A.F. raids on Duisburg and nearby concentrated manufacturing districts of the western Ruhr caused "overwhelming industrial damage" the Air ministry news service declared today on the basis of photographs from five reconnaissance flights.

The report was from the 1,500-ton attack May 12 and the warm-up raid of April 26.

Four Plants Damaged

In the May attack, four plants of the August Thyssen-Vereingte Stahlwerke—one of the largest steel combines in the world—were damaged. Extensive wreckage also was reported in the largest tar distillation plant in Germany. A coke and benzol purifying plant was put out of action. Dozens of other war factories in Duisburg and other smaller surrounding towns were damaged.

The report said nearly the whole commercial and administrative center of Duisburg was in ruins with more than 600 buildings, mostly of the large "city block" type, destroyed or damaged. One area of devastation was reported to cover 48 acres.

One reason for slackening anti-aircraft fire was shown in the pictures which detailed hits on four flak positions.

Great damage was reported at the docks and railway marshalling yards at Duisburg-Ruhrort, the largest inland port in the world.

Where the Ruhr river joins the Rhine, "the damage done must cause a great dislocation and delay which will affect the railway and river communications over hundreds of miles," the news service said.

Melting Mill Hit

The Hamborn plant of the August Thyssen-Vereingte Stahlwerke combine received a direct hit on the sheet melting mill. The bomb made a whole of about 600 square yards. The greater part of two rolling mills were destroyed in another part of the combine plants. The Hamborn produced 2,000,000 tons of pig iron and 2,500,000 tons of steel ingots a year.

Large buildings of the Wanheim branch combine which makes shells and bomb cases also were damaged.

The Rheinhausen plant of the Krupp steel works was hit.

Railway Shops Destroyed

A number of buildings in the Vereingte Stahlwerke's railway workshops were destroyed or damaged, adding to the already immense difficulty the Germans have in replacing trains and locomotives knocked out in RAF sweeps.

The Air Ministry said there was no sign of work at the coke and benzol purifying plant at Gelsenkirchener or at the Bergwerke Thyssen colleries in the Hamborn district.

The leading tar distillation plant of Germany which was hard hit was the Gesellschaft Fur Teerverwurtung in the Meiderich district of Duisburg. Its principal products were liquid fuel, lubricants and explosives.

[By the Associated Press]

London, June 5—Allied aircraft remained grounded last night and the only aerial activity reported in today's Air Ministry communique was scattered raiding by enemy planes which caused a brief alert in London.

Minor damage and a few casualties were reported.

Heavy gunfire drove off the few raiders over London. One enemy plane penetrated the east Midlands area. An enemy plane was destroyed.

Twelve German fighter-bombers swept over a southeast coast town which the German radio identified as Eastbourne yesterday, causing "some damage and a small number of casualties, including some people killed."

Church Destroyed

A vicar saw his church destroyed by a delayed action bomb in the southeast coast raid as he lay under the bushes in his garden.

DNB said in a Berlin broadcast that Allied planes attacked a German convoy off the Dutch coast today and that two of the attacking planes were shot down. The broadcast, which was recorded by Reuters, was not confirmed by Allied sources.

Russians Smash Two Assaults

[By the Associated Press]

London, June 5—Two sharp German attacks—one against Russian bridgeheads west of the Donets river and the other in the Sevsk area southwest of Orel—were thrown back with heavy losses in men and material in the principal overnight land action along the Russian front, the midday Soviet communique said today.

Planes Pound Nazi Train Concentrations At Bryansk And Karachev

Follow Up Withdrawal Of Foe's Equipment After Orel Bombing

[By the Associated Press]

London, Sunday, June 6—Long-range Russian aircraft smashed a concentration of German trains at Bryansk and Karachev Friday night in a mass raid that followed the 520-plane assault on Orel, it was announced early today by the Moscow radio.

The heavy Russian air blows in this sector at the hinge of the central and southern fronts were the only outstanding developments reported in the midnight communique recorded here by the Soviet monitor.

Equipment Moved Back

The bulletin pointed out that the destruction heaped on the Orel railway junction Thursday night had caused the Germans to move back some of their equipment to Karachev and Bryansk, forty and eighty-five miles, respe northwest of Orel.

These trains then were a ked again by the Russians, and "many fires and explosions were caused by direct hits," the communique said.

Russian land pressure on Orel from northeast, east, and southeast, has been heavy since last winter, but there was no suggestion that either side was preparing a land offensive in that sector.

Sevsk Attack

Red army troops also hold a wedge in the Sevsk area, eighty miles south of Bryansk. A German attack in this sector was thrown back with heavy enemy losses, yesterday, the noon communique said.

The German radio said last night that several hundred German planes attacked the great Russian automobile works at Gorki Friday in a raid lasting several hours.

Gorki is on the Volga river 250 miles east of Moscow. A German communique had said earlier that strong German air formations had attacked a Soviet arms plant on "the middle Volga."

Ignore Kuban Area

Neither the Russians nor the Germans had anything to say about the Kuban area of the Caucasus, where Berlin had declared the Red army was attacking last week in great strength.

Only scattered land fighting of local importance was reported by Moscow in the midnight communique which said the Germans lost heavily in hurling an infantry battalion against Soviet lines on the northwestern front, and 200 killed on the Smolensk front.

30,000 Russian Books Printed In Two Years

Moscow, June 5 (AP)—In almost two years of war, the Soviets have published a total of 605,000,000 copies of more than 30,000 books and pamphlets. Ninety-five hundred were devoted to questions dealing with the defense of the Soviet Union.

Probably the most popular was a book on the life of the guerrilla girl Zoya Kozodemianskaya, Russian heroine. A total of 1,500,000 copies of this biography were printed.

40 To 1 Odds For RAF

Reading, England, June 5 (AP)—For every bomber the Germans sent to attack Britain in May, the RAF dispatched forty — most of them four-engined heavyweights—over a much longer haul to blast the Reich, Capt. Harold Balfour, Under Secretary for Air, said today.

In a speech, he said the Germans had sent barely a thousand bombers in the past four months against Britain.

NAZIS RAID GORKI

LONDON, June 5—(AP) The German radio said today several hundred German planes attacked the great Russian automobile works at Gorki yesterday in a raid that lasted several hours.

Gorki evidently was the Volga city referred to in the German communique which said "strong formations" attacked a Soviet arms plant, hitting buildings and starting fires.

Clive Brook's Daughter Leaves Films For ATS

London, June 5 (AP)—Faith Brook, daughter of the film star, Clive Brook, has exchanged greasepaint for a uniform.

The 21-year-old movie and stage actress left Hollywood to become a private in England's A.T.S. after hearing Lord Halifax broadcast an appeal for British women to return to their own country and take up war work.

On her next leave, Faith's father will see her in uniform for the first time.

Clark Gable Is Now Working On Training Films In England

Former Movie Star In Charge Of Six-Man Crew That Is Touring American Air Stations

JUN - 6 1943

[By the Associated Press]

A United States Bomber Station in England, June 5—Capt. Clark Gable, the former motion-picture star, is making training films in England for the United States Army Air Forces, it was disclosed tonight.

With army permission, Gable announced that he was sent to England under orders of Brig. Gen. Luther S. Smith, United States Army Air Forces director of training.

Gable is in charge of a six-man crew, which includes two former Hollywood associates, and they are touring all American air stations in England.

First Interview In England

The announcement was made during an interview here, marking the first time that newspapermen have been permitted by the Eighth United States Air Force officials to talk with Gable since his arrival seven weeks ago.

The interview, however, failed to clear up the question of whether Gable will make any more trips over Nazi Europe in a Flying Fortress. His sole operational mission to date was on May 4, when he rode as an observer in the Fortress "Eight Ball" piloted by Capt. William R. Calhoun, of Birmingham, Ala., in the raid on Antwerp. He took movies of that attack.

Pressed on the point of future flights, Gable's only reply was: "I'll do whatever is necessary to complete my job."

To Return To U. S.

He indicated that he would return to the United States to show films to men undergoing Air Corps training there, possibly upon completion of a film which has been delayed occasionally by bad weather.

Gable's work consists of interviewing and photographing returned raiding crews and hospitalized wounded as well as studying flying conditions and ways to improve equipment and training, particularly that for aerial gunners.

He gets up at 7 A. M. and by 8.30 he is out in a jeep heading for work. He works seven days a week. His only trip to London, he said, came during four days of detached duty there.

Enlisted Last August

Gable, who enlisted as an Air Force gunner last August, is known as a "regular guy" among both officers and enlisted men. Reports are that he once told his colleagues, "For God's sake, forget Clark Gable the movie actor. I want to be considered just one of the boys."

With obvious sincerity he waved aside most questions about himself and what he thinks of English girls.

He introduced other flyers and asked them to tell about a Flying Fortress and its guns. They included three companions on his Antwerp trip—Capt. Joseph Strickland, of Liberty, Miss., navigator; Capt. Robert Yonkman, of Grand Rapids, Mich., bombardier, and Sergt. Willard Stephen, of Spokane, Wash., tail gunner.

Others Introduced

Others introduced were Capt. George Birdsong, of Clarksdale, Miss., pilot, and Sergeants Randall Petersen, of Princeton, Ill., waist gunner; Kenneth Hulse, of Springfield, Mo., top turret gunner and Thomas J. Hansbury, of Philadelphia, and Tim Touchin, of Gallup, N. M., both tail gunners.

Grinning happily, Gable climbed into a Fortress waist-gun position and fired several rounds into a near-by embankment to demonstrate the ease with which the weapon is controlled. His grin changed quickly to concern, however, when he learned a minute later that one bullet had glanced off a rock and embedded itself in the Fortress wing. Had it been deflected in the opposite direction it would have struck in the midst of the group of correspondents standing beside the Fortress' tail.

Flying Fortress Chief Was Once a Boilermaker

By GLADWIN HILL

U. S. FLYING FORTRESS HEADQUARTERS IN ENGLAND, June 5.—(AP) On Dec. 7, 1941, a young air force major named Haywood S. Hansell, Jr., was driving his wife and children along a Virginia highway near Washington, listening to a radio broadcast of "The Mikado."

Suddenly an announcer broke in. "We interrupt this program to bring you an important news bulletin . . . "The Japanese have attacked Pearl Harbor."

JUN - 6 1943

The unreality was not lessened when the radio went right back to Gilbert and Sullivan's whimsy about the emperor of Japan.

Hansell, now a brigadier general in charge of the Flying Fortress section of the U.S.A.A.F. here, was singularly prepared for what had developed.

Worked with Chennault

Ten years before we had worked with Capt. Claire Chennault—now the brigadier general of Flying Tigers fame—and Capt. Luke Williamson in an aerial acrobatic team which developed many of the fighter plane tactics in use today.

Later he was an instructor when a course on the use of air power was introduced at the Air Force Tactical school, and he had a hand in drawing up some of the doctrine in force today.

A year before Pearl Harbor, Hansell went into a third field, the burgeoning Air Corps Intelligence section in Washington, and helped collect the information on which our present air operations are based.

In the summer of 1941, he came to England as an official observer of the RAF.

Possum Is Nickname

A slight man of 39 who might pass for 25, he has a thin, inquisitive nose and mouth and small bright eyes that won him the nickname of "'Possum."

'Possums don't make much noise, but they get around a lot.

The son of an Army doctor, Hansell was born at Fort Monroe, Va., and was taken to China during the Boxer rebellion when one year old, learning to speak Chinese.

He grew up at various Army posts, went to Sewanee Military academy in Tennessee and graduated from Georgia Tech at the age of 20, too young to take up his award of one of the two Army commissions granted to his class.

A Journeyman Boilermaker

Migrating to the West coast, he discovered the difference between an engineering degree and earning a week's pay. He finally went to work for the Steel Tank and Pipe company in Berkeley, Calif., and after "the hardest year's work I ever did," qualified as a journeyman boilermaker and was invited to the boilermakers' ball.

"I couldn't imagine whether you wore dungarees or a tuxedo to a boilermakers' ball, so I decided to err on the side of formality, and wore a tuxedo," he relates. "I was right. I was the only one there in a tuxedo. Everybody else had on full-dress suits."

Later, after three years as an engineer, Hansell decided airplane manufacturing was a promising industry, and that as a preliminary to venturing into the field he should know how to fly. So he joined the Air Force. He never got around to leaving it.

On completing his training in 1929, he was assigned to Langley Field, Va., where he once had to bail out, landing in Chesapeake bay.

JUN - 6 1943

Alive by Chance

Hansell considers it sheer chance that he lived through the next phase of his career, on the Air Force acrobatic team which performed at the Cleveland and Miami air races in 1934 and 1935.

"Chennault used to sit up nights thinking up acrobatics that couldn't be done," Hansell says. "The Navy had a team like ours and we used to compete with them at all the shows. We'd certainly all have been killed if we kept at it long enough."

Hansell went through the tactical school at Maxwell Field, Ala., a classmate of Ira Eaker, now his boss commanding the Eighth Air Force; served on the faculty of the school, and in 1938-39 was one of two first lieutenants among all the captains, majors and colonels at the Army Command and General Staff school at Fort Leavenworth, Kas.

After Pearl Harbor Hansell moved from the head of the European section of the Air Force's War Plans division to co-representative of the Air Force on the General Planning Staff which, with a British commission, mapped out the United States' participation in the war. Then promoted to lieutenant colonel, he became Air Force member of the joint Army-Navy Strategy committee advising the joint chiefs of staff on the employment of American forces.

Last August, when General Eisenhower was commander of the European theater of operations, Hansell came to England as a member of his Air Plans staff, and on New Year's day took over command of the Fortresses.

For several months he had to carry on with a token force, watching his men gradually being whittled away without relief or replacements.

Commanded in Raids

No swivel-chair general, Hansell has first-hand knowledge of what they went through because he has commanded seven raids himself.

The raids on Amiens, France, March 13, was his son Tony's 11th birthday, so Hansell christened one of the Fortresses "Tony H." and dropped a load on the Amiens freight yards.

Austrian Refugee Gets Revenge on Germans; Flushing Lad Busy With Gun in Fortress

At a United States Bomber Station in England, May 25 (Delayed) (A. P.).—A little Viennese refugee from Adolf Hitler's wrath, who once roamed the Austrian and Czecho-Slovak countryside with "kid" guerrilla bands clubbing unwary German sentries over the head, now is getting in more telling licks against the Nazis behind the powerful guns of a Flying Fortress.

JUN - 6 1943

Waist Gunner Sergt. Erie Neuhaus, 20 years old, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neuhaus of 3360 Prince street, Flushing, Queens, is so anxious to knock down German fighters that he's "willing to go out every day and night."

"They can't pull too many raids to suit me," he said quietly.

He didn't appear to be boasting—this 5 foot 5, 120-pound lad with flashing brown eyes and a firm handshake. It's just that he's burning with eagerness to strike back at Hitler.

His Good Reasons.

The little sergeant has a couple of pretty good reasons for wanting to settle some scores with the Germans.

He remembers cruel, heart-rending scenes of Nazi persecutions suffered by his family and friends when Hitler marched into Austria. For another thing, the buddies on a Fortress crew with whom he trained for eight months and flew to England a few weeks ago didn't come back from their first raid. Sergt. Neuhaus missed that raid as he was in a hospital for an appendectomy.

He wasn't content to wait until he was reassigned to another crew. Operations room officers said as soon as the little sergeant would hear a raid was on he would dash in to volunteer as a substitute gunner.

Twice sickness or injuries caused vacancies in regular crews and Sergt. Neuhaus was substitute gunner in the raids on Lorient May 17 and Kiel May 18. But he didn't shoot down any enemy fighters on these raids, he admitted somewhat ruefully. He said:

"I saw some of my tracers hitting two Focke-Wulfs, but they wouldn't go down. I can't understand that."

Older and more experienced gunners explained it takes longer bursts than the sergeant scored to knock 'em down.

He was thrilled and excited to see other gunners hitting the bull's-eye.

"It was fun seeing those German fighters go down," he related with enthusiasm. "Once I saw three Focke-Wulfs shot down at the same time. Boy I love that. I only hope I get one soon."

He'll have more opportunities to bag a Focke-Wulf or Messerschmitt now, for recently he was assigned to a regular crew.

Sergt. Neuhaus's adventurous journey from Vienna to this bomber station began the day he heard Schuschnigg, the Austrian Chancellor, broadcast that the Germans were coming. The 15-year-old boy ran to warn his parents to leave the country. He saw the Nazi legions goosestep into Vienna and the persecution of Jews begin. He mourned an uncle and cousin who died by their own hands when a wave of suicides swept the Jewish population.

Then the boy took matters in his own hands. He ran away from home to the country where by day he worked for an Austrian farmer and by night he roamed with a band of fifty "kid" guerrillas.

These 15 to 20-year-old boys would creep up behind German sentries or any other uniformed Nazi they found alone and club them over the head.

"I don't know whether we ever killed any of them or not," he said. "I don't think so, but we never stayed around to find out. As soon as we'd hit them we'd run like hell."

From Austria, Sergt. Neuhaus said, he wandered on the Sudetenland, Czecho-Slovakia, where he again worked on farms and went on the prowl with another youthful band. Months later he made his way to Athens and got a job on a freight sailing for Palestine. There he left the ship and went to Haifi, where he talked himself into a job with the British Army as truck driver. The job lasted many more months.

Parents Escape to U. S.

Meanwhile, his parents had escaped to the United States. They sent him a ticket to New York in care of the American Consulate at Jerusalem. Unable to get an American visa without a passport, the youth solved that problem, he said, by buying one from a corrupt German consul for $12.

When his ship docked at Marseilles, French authorities took him into custody because he traveled on a German passport. A Danish diplomat, Sergt. Neuhaus said, came to his rescue by saying the boy was his secretary and vouching for him. Finally, in March, 1940, he arrived in New York.

Dishwashing was his first job. Then he learned the machinist trade. He worked for several months at Wausau, Wis., then returned to New York.

The day after Pearl Harbor he tried to enlist. But because he was an alien, six months passed before he was accepted by the air forces.

He's an American citizen now—and very, very proud of it. He was one of 250 aliens in the American forces in England who received naturalization papers recently.

"It sure feels great to be an American citizen," he said.

Yanks Take All of London's Available Athletic Space

(Associated Press Features)

LONDON, June 5.—The Army and the American Red Cross are utilizing every obtainable indoor facility to provide the United States troops in Britain with a well-rounded all-year sports program limited only by shortage of equipment.

A great concert hall in London was converted temporarily into a basketball stadium.

Baseball diamonds were traced in the green of Hyde Park where zealots ride their theories interminably and thousands of strollers take the air when the weather is fine.

Boxing Rings Set-Up

Boxing rings were set up in the auditoriums of service clubs, and patches of suitable earth adjoining the camps were properly cleared for a repertory of athletics.

The England of cricket, croquet and fox-hunting has had a Yankee transfusion and flexes its muscles happily trying to develop skill in the strange games.

The whole sports program is laid down by the Stars and Stripes athletics committee on which are represented, besides the soldiers' newspaper itself, the American Red Cross and the Army special service division. Direct administrator for much of the activity is Gerald Fitzgerald, of St. Paul, who is on the Red Cross staff in London.

Perhaps the first to drive tirelessly for a comprehensive sports program was Major B. M. Llewellyn, of Tacoma, Wash., editor of the Stars and Stripes. Another prime promoter is Captain Stanley M. Bach, of Lexington, Ky., sports officer for the American forces here.

From the beginning, soldiers and sailors and airmen in ETO were able to enjoy competitive recreation of some sort, but the broader, better organized phase did not start until the first of this year. Under auspices of the Stars and Stripes a card of fights was staged in the Rainbow Corner, West-End service club. Fights have been held there once a week ever since, and more than 300 different men, winners of local matches in the camps, have taken part. Each main bout winner is awarded an inscribed leather belt.

Boxing became the best-liked of all sports and grew so popular that numerous centers were set up in parts of the British Isles.

Late in May an elimination tournament was held in London, preparatory to a match between the United States forces championship boxing team and the top British army team. The American team will be available afterward to meet groups of Canadians, Poles and others of the allied troops.

Basketball Strong

Basketball got a quick call. Albert Hall, the vast concert auditorium, was converted into a setting for a basketball tournament. The London base command team won, 15 other teams from various stations in the British Isles having been eliminated.

The Amertex team, representing Lockheed civilian technicians, includes Jack Lippert, All-American from Southern California, Bob Hall of Montana State, and Harry Mat-

RAIDS PUT OUT 2 COAL MINES

Large Nazi Pits Flooded When Dams Were Bombed, Travelers Say

JUN - 6 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Stockholm, June 5—Two of Germany's largest coal mines are out of commission temporarily and tons of fuel badly neded for the Reich's war industries are going up in smoke as a result of RAF bombardments of the Ruhr, recent travelers on the continent reported today.

Breaching of the Moehne dam May 16 loosed flood waters which trapped hundreds of miners in the Sraiherr von Stein and Rarbenberg mines and caused widespread devastation in other Ruhr cities, eyewitnesses said.

Miners Drowned In Pits

Scores of miners drowned in the pits. Equipment was damaged.

"ell broke loose when the dam was mined," one traveler told the newspaper Allehanda. "What was left by the water at Dortmund was later smashed by bombs."

Water was reported to have run three feet deep through the streets. Dortmund was subjected to a terrific bombardment May 23 and 24.

Coal Heaps Set Afire

Due to insufficient transportation facilities, millions of tons of coal are staked in mounds in the vicinity of the Ruhr valley mines. RAF incendiary bombs ignited these

"mountains of coal, causing fires which resist all efforts to extinguish them, it was said.

One traveler said that when he saw the valley it was overcast by clouds of smoke resulting from the bombing of cities and coal fields.

Floods caused by aerial mines also did extensive damage at Elberfeld, Barmen and Gelsen-Kirchen. The Weser-Ems canal, one of Germany's major inland waterway transportation links, was flooded and cannot be used for months.

Ten thousand workmen were sent by plane and car from other sections of Germany for the cleanup. The entire village of Soest was evacuated. The important airdrome of Brackel was not only flooded but bombed.

Spain Has Plan To 'Humanize' AerialBombing

Denies 4-Point Proposal for Zoning Enemy Areas Is Made for Another Nation

MADRID, June 5 (AP).—The Spanish government proposed today a four-point plan which it said would "humanize" aerial bombing, after denying charges which it said were made abroad that "Spain acts in the service of another nation."

A note also said that Generalissimo Francisco Franco sent a special message to the United States in that connection through Myron C. Taylor, when he was in Madrid last year en route from the Vatican.

A communique said that Spain favored no one nation in her campaign and that both sides had received unfavorably previous Spanish proposals concerning bombing.

The four-point Spanish proposal was:

That belligerents themselves declare zones in enemy territory which, in their opinion, constitute objectives for total bombardment, based on military importance.

That other zones be declared "partial objectives" and be divided into "bombardable zones," "dangerous zones" and "unbombardable zones."

That a permanent neutral committee be established, similar to prisoner-exchange committees of the World War, to watch the zones where bombing is not permitted and otherwise regulate terms of the agreement.

That regions in which there are no military objectives or wherein such objectives are insignificant be declared "non-bombardable zones."

Guard Bulgarian Cabinet

Police Reported on Duty to Prevent Possible Assassinations

ANKARA, Turkey, June 4 (delayed) (AP).—Semi-diplomatic sources said today that the homes of all Bulgarian Cabinet members were surrounded by strong police guards in fear that Liberty Front assassins might strike next at government members.

The same sources, who cannot be identified by name, said the Rumanian government had enraged Hungarians by passing a law forbidding foreigners to inhabit military zones.

CHINESE MAKE NEW ADVANCES NEAR ICHANG

Capture Point In Outer Defenses Of Base Japs Used To Start Drive

JUN - 6 1943

Press Says Chiang Troops In Plain Clothes Also Damaged City Itself

[By the Associated Press]

Chungking, June 5—The proportions of the Chinese victory in the upper Yangtze area, which the Chinese call their greatest of the war, continued to grow today and the high command announced the capture of a point in the outer defenses of Ichang, the main base from which the Japanese last month started their drive in the direction of Chungking.

Chineses press dispatches said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's warriors in plain clothes infiltrated into Ichang itself Thursday morning and created "utter disorder and confusion," setting large fires and explosions which shook the city.

Also Capture Kungan

The high command announced the capture of Kungan, south of Shasi on the Yangtze and sixty-five miles southeast of Ichang, from which one Japanese column had set out on the abortive campaign. More than half the garrison was wiped out and the remainder retreated, the war bulletin said.

Dispatches from the front said a number of other points had been captured in a triumphant sweep to the southeast of Ichang, with the fleeing enemy abandoning large quantities of arms and stores and even discarding their uniforms in an effort to escape in Chinese clothing.

One force of about 4,000, making a last ditch stand at Tsingshih, in Hunan province north of Lake Tungting to the southeast of Ichang, was said to be cut into small isolated units.

"Their fate is sealed," the dispatches said.

West Bank Cleared

The entire west bank of the Yangtze, opposite Ichang, was said to be cleared of the enemy, and the communique said Meitseya, in the city's outer defenses, had been taken.

"Several hundred enemy soldiers were killed during the encounter and a large quantity of war supplies was captured," the announcement reported.

On the northern arc of the front in Hupeh province, the communique said a Japanese counter-thrust north of Suihsien had been turned back. Suihsien is about one hundred miles northwest of Hankow.

Chinese Flyers Attack

In the air phase of operations, the Chinese Central News reported that Chinese bombers with a fighter escort today attacked Itu, a Yangtze port below Ichang, and returned to their base without a loss.

Chinese dispatches yesterday announced that their forces had entered Itu, but in view of the air operation it was presumed by observers that the entry was in the nature of a sortie.

Chinese authorities said the Chinese victory of the upper Yangtze was far more important than those scored in the three battles of Changsha, in central China, because in those battles the Chinese hold on a stretch of the Canton-Hankow railway only was threatened, while in the latest battle Chungking itself was menaced.

Proves Quality Of Troops

The battle of the upper Yangtze, they said, demonstrated the excellence of Chinese troops in mountain fighting where they met the Japanese on more equal terms than on flat terrain where the invaders were able to exploit their far superior equipment.

As a result of the victory, it was pointed out, the vital communications line between Hunan and Szechwan provinces has been safeguarded and the flow of rice and other commodities so urgent in the present economic circumstances has been assured.

Authorities dismissed as the "usual Japanese propaganda" the Tokyo assertion that the imperial forces were returning to their bases because "mopping up operations" had been completed.

Japs Reported In Disorderly Retreat

JUN - 6 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Chungking, June 5—Unchecked Chinese forces recaptured Kungan, one of the bases in south Hupeh province from which the Japanese launched their abortive drive on the upper Yangtze front, the high command said in a communique tonight.

Kungan is sixty-five miles southeast of Ichang, the main Japanese base, and slightly south of the Yangtze river.

The communique said more than half the enemy troops at Kungan were wiped out and the rest retreated.

Worst Japanese Defeat

The Chinese said they had captured an important point on the outer defenses of Ichang and repulsed a Japanese thrust to the north from Suishsien, about one hundred miles northwest of Hankow.

China Urges Recognition

Chungking, June 5 (AP)—The Chinese press, jubilant over the formation of a French government in Algiers, called on the Allies today to recognize the French committee as a de facto French government and open relations with it.

The newspaper Ta Kung Pao suggested the committee "should announce the abolition of the Vichy Government" which, the Chinese Times said, "exists only in name."

American Planes Blast Foe's Oil Wells in Burma

Score Direct Hit on Large Tank at Chauk

NEW DELHI, India, June 5 (AP).—Medium bombers of the 10th United States Air Force struck successfully at Japanese oil sources in Burma yesterday and also blasted a factory, an American communique said today.

A direct hit was made on a large oil storage tank at Chauk, thirty-five miles north of Magwe, and other bombs damaged surrounding oil wells. The factory hit by the raiders is at Myaungu, twenty miles north of Chaux.

Belated announcement also was made of an attack by American heavy bombers on June 2 on enemy installations on Diamond Island, southwest of Rangoon. All bombs fell in the target area, the war bulletin said, and damage to buildings was observed. All planes returned from these operations.

Storage warehouses in Aykab and river shipping in the Maungdaw-Buthedaung area of western Burma were bombed by Royal Air Force planes yesterday, a British communique announced.

Archbishop Spellman Ready To Set Out On New Journey

Travels Will Take Him All Around Africa And On To India And China

[By the Associated Press]

Cairo, June 5—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman, of New York, today said he was ready to set out on a new journey that would lead him all around Africa and on to India and China.

He already has covered 60,000 miles from the Aleutians to the borders of Afghanistan.

"I am looking forward to this a great deal, for all the countries I am going to visit now will be new to me," he said. "Except for Iraq and Iran, I already am familiar with Europe, Africa and parts of Asia, as I lived abroad many years."

Places In His Itinerary

The churchman said his new trip would be to Eritrea, Ethiopia, the Sudan, Uganda, Tanganyika, Madagascar, Mozambique, the Union of South Africa, Rhodesia, the Belgian Congo, French Equatorial Africa and other countries in West Africa.

"I expect this to take a little time," he said. "When I go to a new place, I like to cover it thoroughly. Yesterday I spent four hours in a hospital and visited 200 men and talked to them personally. It was a disappointment not to be able to see every man in the hospital and visit every man in every ward."

Speaks Informally

He spoke informally to correspondents at United States Air Force headquarters.

"You understand I couldn't say anything when I was moving in the war zone, but now that I am out of the front lines and on my way to places where the war hasn't come, I feel free to outline my itinerary."

JUN - 6 1943

He said his travels were designed especially to work with American soldiers and chaplains. He is Catholic Military Vicar of the United States Armed Forces.

Many stories are told about Archbishop Spellman who toured North Africa while the campaign raged.

Visits Blasted Church

Once in Tripoli he went to visit a church which had been blasted to pieces. The doors and windows had been shot away and great holes blown in the roof.

Inside he was greeted by a sister who held up a tiny infant which had been abandoned the day before.

The archbishop conversed with the sister a long time in Italian, and when his companion, Brig. Gen. Auby C. Strickland, commander of United States fighter squadrons in the Middle East, asked permission to leave a contribution toward the welfare of the child, Spellman said, "It's all right I've taken care of that."

Just then the archbishop remembered that he was scheduled to offer mass at the Cathedral, and he had only a moment to get there. He was driven through the streets of Tripoli in a jeep.

WARSHIP PLAYS LONESOME ROLE IN ARCTIC WAR

JUN - 6 1943

Mud and Storms of Aleutians Mean Little to Men on Big Ship.

(One of Uncle Sam's big warships was cruising around in the Bering Sea some time ago, and her men were looking for trouble. With renewed activity in the Aleutian area, she may have found it by now, since William L. Worden, who tells her story, was also present when Attu was attacked.)

BY WILLIAM L. WORDEN

ABOARD A WARSHIP IN THE BERING SEA—(AP)—(Delayed) There is a housefly in a cabin on the nickel deck of this vessel.

He is important only because he is one of the few—if not the only—houseflies in all the far-flung Aleutian area; and by being here at all he illustrates how the large vessels of the United States Navy operate in an area without being a part of it.

The various units of the U. S. Army, dug in on the islands of the Aleutian chain, have perforce become a part of them—they live in the tundra, battle the winds, drink the pure water, get to know the blue foxes. The same is true of the naval crews on patrol vessels which operate in close conjunction with ground forces.

But for this ship and other like her, despite their valuable operations here, the Aleutians are only a spot on a map on a rugged shoreline seen through a fog.

The housefly in the cabin was possibly born somewhere in California.

So this floating and independent little world moves without apparent relation to the territory it is defending, hunts Japs through grey seas without anything but a mapmaker's idea of where the Japs may be coming from or what islands they may be seeking to reinforce.

Clean Little World

This is a clean little world. Coming from the muddy shore, a new entrant is suddenly conscious of filthy trousers, greasy jackets and caked boots. Here there are baths, officers eat in spotless jackets, even wear medals sometimes. There are April magazines on board—and not April, 1942, either. People talk casually of the latest radio programs, of movies released last month. They discuss rationing of food and shoes, which to the Aleutian soldier are subjects only dimly realized and not understood at all.

To one fresh from the airfields where a pilot changes his shirt regularly every month and shaves on Saturday night if there is any water, from the infantry outposts where seal liver is a delicacy—it's a strange world.

Even the Aleutian weather penetrates only vaguely to the nerve centers of this world. Small boats pitch and toss, soldiers plough through muck—but to this ship, a Bering storm is little more than a slight roll, a snow flurry only something to be remarked in passing.

Not that these are recreation hall sailors. This ship is an intricate machine of destruction and the men on it are spoiling for a chance to make it work. They are enthusiastic at their posts for a general alarm and their gunnery practice has a snap and drive.

Officers and m[illegible] fascinated by the n[illegible] are defending. Most o[illegible] pt in the dark about [illegible] until they arrived [illegible] there is more rum[illegible] information aboard.

There is lack of information, too, about what is really here. Officers ask about buying furs for wives and sweethearts not realizing that thousands of soldiers have long since denuded the fur markets of Alaska, let alone the Aleutians where there never were any except a few fox pelts. Some of them inquire seriously about officer's clubs and golf links—this in the Andreanoffs, where pilots play volley ball in snowstorms as their sole form of recreation and a bottle of whiskey, if there were any, would bring almost any price its owner named.

Some are surprised to find that Eskimos do not live in the Aleutians; others are surprised to find that thousands of soldiers do. Newspaper readers in New Orleans probably have a better general idea of the Aleutian campaign, censorship notwithstanding. In general, the men have been at sea so much, based at so many out-of-the-way places, that their information is gleaned chiefly from out-dated magazine articles. While the ship has been on duty half around the world (and being reported sunk at various times by most of the Axis navies), there has been little time for its complement to keep up with the news in this one sector.

Many are hurrying to buy the Asiatic campaign ribbon, long common hereabouts but very new to them. This assignment makes them eligible to wear it. After a week of light winds and even some sunshine they are beginning to be politely skeptical about the stories they've heard of Bering sea storms.

Want to Meet Japs

Only one thing still arouses their enthusiasm. That is the possibility that this assignment may at last give them a chance to add a star to one ribbon on their chests—the star indicating just one little argument with some Japanese.

To operate any normal duties one must walk five to ten miles daily, even if only to climb from bed on the ridge to the kitchen in the valley, and back up the 500-foot slope to your ridge bed and lookout.

Arriving from the rear command post, I encountered Capt. Earl Nelson investigating crumpled paper, overturned rice buckets and general oddments on the floor of what had been Japanese barracks. Captain Nelson, of Minneapolis, noted casually he now commanded the front company in that part of the line because its other officers were casualties.

Opposed By Few Snipers

"A few snipers are all we have now (as opposition)," he reported.

Nelson said the next hut provided much better souvenir hunting. Lieut. J. K. Geddes, 22, of Altadena, Cal., insisted we go there immediately. Lieutenant Geddes, piloting a Lightning fighter, had been shot down the previous day in a dogfight with Japanese bombers. He landed his damaged plane in the bay and was rescued by a cruiser type plane.

Geddes' oxfords and flying boots were not exactly suited to hiking six miles through mud. After Geddes got up there with us, puffing slightly, he said:

"By gosh, I'm more glad than ever I'm not in the infantry."

He had two desires: To see a dead Japanese and to get some souvenirs.

Desire To See Dead Jap

"I've been shooting at Japs on Kiska raids since January but never got a good close look at one alive or dead."

Following Nelson's directions, he got a look at one Japanese, very dead.

Only one sniper worked on the position while we were hunting. He was a bad shot. We could hear his bullets whistle overhead.

Returning to the advanced command post, I tried to see a live Japanese. Using field glasses, I could see our men advancing, many of them, but no Japanese. Those in the foxholes use flashless powder exclusively. It's impossible to spot them by tracing bullets. Our own weapons utilize tracers, which give away our positions but make for better shooting.

Jap Camouflage Is Good

The Japanese camouflage is good. The only time you are able to see moving Japanese is when they are forced to retreat across the snowfields. Then everything in our lines opens up on them, even anti-tank guns.

Hungry, I joined a ch[illegible]vline at a command post—also 500 yards down that chowline. Chow consisted of macaroni and corned beef stew, jelly and coffee.

addition of halizone pills which

There were about 200 men in the line when I arrived. The line still was that big when I left. I rinsed my mess kit and got a canteen full from a stream, possibly safe after addition of Halizone pills which everyone received on landing here May 11.

Stream Condition Doubtful

Battling and movement of two armies across these strea[illegible] left them in a doubtful condition, although some salmon and trout are still visible in them occasionally.

I slept on a hill. A sniper was working on an outpost not far away but well above.

I slept well; got up cold; found breakfast of coffee and one slice of corned beef, and looked for more Japanese through field glasses. I still couldn't see any.

I listened to a doctor treating a patient for immersion of the feet. The man had been brought in on a stretcher, wincing while six little bearers struggled. A corpsman took off one boot. The bearded, red-eyed physician looked at the foot; touched the ankle and toes. Then he looked ferociously at the youth and inquired, "Are you an only child?"

The boy looked astonished; then admitted he was.

Patient Gets Reprimand

The doctor roared at the corpsman, "Get him out of here! Show him the path down! Don't carry him a damned step! Twenty men with feet worse than those walked in here today under their own power. He made six men carry him."

The astonished youth put on his boots and limped out. The doctor looked after him and said, "that fellow was not faking. He really thought he couldn't walk. Now he's so mad at me he thinks I'm such a blankety-blank, he's forgotten all about how bad his feet hurt."

I went back to my position, but still couldn't see any moving Japanese. Our artillery now was tearing up the whole mountainside ahead of our advancing infantry.

troops into a panic because there is not one woman within 1,000 miles of this front. They figured the exact size of the contingent because each WAAC is issued four panties and two brassieres.

Tropical Butter

We are still hacking our way through thousands of pounds of tropical butter which, mixed with paraffin refuses to melt at 120 degrees Fahrenheit, we have been told.

An army camp in Alaska living in a white dwelling during the summer, became camouflage conscious just before winter and painted it brown and green while snows fell.

Tropical Huts

It has been a chore to make comfortable dwellings out of some fresh air tropical huts delivered to this base.

However, in steamy New Caledonia natives were delighted with Arctic clothing—the more clothes they wore, the higher their rank.

With United States Troops in Aleutians, June 5—Enough crazy things happen in this army to keep a man sane.

A shipload of sand was sent to an island which resembles nothing so much in the world as an abandoned gravel pit. In a chaplain's hut about 200 miles from Jap-held Kiska hangs a heavy lithographed poster of Italian soldiers and sailors. The chaplain received none of the Japs.

On a flight over a barren seal-infested cape one sees a silo. It was a camouflaged building intended for England's restful countryside where they have cows.

Eighty Jungle Suits

Eighty jungle camouflage suits, reversible for wet and dry weather, arrived here with leafy green helmet covers to match. Anything which remotely resembled an upright piece of greenery on this treeless, bushless waste would be shot on sight.

A shipment of WAACs' brassieres and silk panties threw the young officer was a chartered accountant who had come over from Scotland; another was a western grain inspector. The skipper, the navigator, and No. 1, the first officer, all had seen service in the merchant marine. All are typical of the new Canadian navy.

Sea Runs High

The ship swings to starboard and the discards on the table slide away and slide back. The seas pound harder and wash against the curtained ports.

There was little talk of the new mile-by-mile protection of the Atlantic route to Britain. Instead there was talk of good times in places like New York and Boston last winter and of more good times to come. There was talk of everything, indeed, except the hazards of convoy escort work. The work itself, the changes in course and the weather, were thrashed out but life on board generally was serene.

The fog had come from the southeast and the ships had disappeared into the sinister grayness, and from the distance had come the report of a Nazi undersea pack. But the phonograph played on and the games of rummy went on, and in the meanwhile the corvette,

Canadian Sailors Play Rummy, Talk of Everything But Their Danger.

BY JOHN FERRIS

ABOARD A CANADIAN CORVETTE IN THE NORTH ATLANTIC,—(AP) We are moving, in late afternoon, through fog which the wind shreds and whips across the bridge. More than two days have passed since we had our last clear view of the convoy.

This morning, our fifth at sea, two freighters loomed suddenly like apparitions to port when the yellow watery sun cut briefly through the hurrying gray mist. They were gone in a few minutes; but for all their unearthly approach and silent ghostly recession, they seemed no more impersonal or unreal than all these ships have seemed since we took position in advance of the starboard rank and watched them crawling forward across the vast impermanent surface of the sea.

Peril of Collision

The fog contains elements of contradiction: There is security against prowling submarines in its friendly shroud, but there is peril of collision, too, especially at night when the ships must run without lights. And in clear weather the ships are there, like sitting ducks, for any U-boat commander willing to risk a fight with the escort vessels.

We had had a report that somewhere to the northeast a pack of submarines had attacked a westbound convoy two nights running.

There ought to prevail on board a sense of imminent danger; but danger seems to be the thing farthest from everyone's mind. Lieut. James A. Tullis, of Toronto, the captain, who is only 32, looked elated. In two years of convoy work, he has never seen a submarine. He would like a chance to ram one.

That's the corvette spirit, and the spirit, for that matter, of the whole Royal Canadian navy, built up since 1939 from six British-built destroyers and five minesweepers and about 300-odd officers and 3,292 men to more than 300 fighting ships of all sizes and 50,000 officers and ratings.

Our thousand tons of deadweight rides seven feet at the bow and 16 feet aft; our blue and white camouflage bears the scars of the winter's seas; we have a slightly roguish, slightly vagabond air and our decks are dingy.

Pack Heavy Wallop

We aren't much to look at as we zigzag ahead of the convoy, our nose deep in the mountain swell; and we carry enoug depth charges on deck and ammunition below decks to make life look pretty black to anyone who speculates too long on a torpedo hit.

In the wardroom, four of the corvette's seven officers are playing rummy. Over the amplifiers there and in the crew's quarters, fore and aft, comes the voice of Fats Waller from a phonograph near the pantry:

"You meet some very nice people,
"Some very, very, very nice people;
"You meet the nicest people
"In your dreams."

The record has been playing for 25 minutes. Presently someone will change it—probably to "Thanks For the Boogie' ride; I'm more than satisfied."

As the corvette lurches and rolls, one or another of the rummy players joins his voice with the raspy singer and the others take up the refrain briefly with interpolated ribald comments on the cards they snare. The game proceeds lightly and without rancor. No one stands to lose more than a very little after a month's play, and no one save the young sub-lieutenant who keeps pennies in a discarded salted peanut can, seems to be concerned about the stakes.

The gunnery officer, who is almost as young, was a Halifax optometrist before the war. Another

MINE TRUCE HOLDS FOR TWO WEEKS, LEWIS DISCLOSES

Threat of Strike Continues in Nation's Coal Fields.

JUN -6 1943

MEN RETURN MONDAY

Union's Action May Force Action by Labor Board or Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP) John L. Lewis disclosed today that the coal miners' back-to-work order holds good for only two weeks, and there were reports that the White House had thrown its influence behind legislation which would allow imprisonment of persons instigating strikes.

The explosive "expires-in-two-weeks" clause—keeping the threat of a wartime stoppage in coal production hanging over the nation—was made known when the United Mine Workers announced the text of a telegram ordering the 500,000 strikers back to their jobs.

Approves Work Until June 20

This said that the U.M.W. policy committee had approved "a return to work on Monday, June 7, up to and including June 20."

The development, making clear that Mr. Lewis had not surrendered in his battle with the government and its agencies, immediately posed the questions:

1. Whether President Roosevelt would recognize such a limited order as compliance with his directive that the miners end their strike and "fulfill their war duties."

2. Whether the War Labor board, in view of the deadline, would agree to a resumption of negotiations between the union and the mine owners even after coal production is resumed.

"The reports that the White House is backing anti-strike legislation, coming from authoritative but unquotable sources, said War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes had urged congressional leaders to speed passage of the Connally-Smith bill.

This measure provides for fines and imprisonment of persons aiding or instigating a strike in a government-operated war facility. It also would give statutory authority to the War Labor board, and it was said this latter provision was the one in which Mr. Byrnes had displayed greatest interest.

Ignores Board's Jurisdiction

Throughout the coal wage controversy, Mr. Lewis has refused to acknowledge the board's jurisdiction and, save to denounce it in pungent language, has ignored it. The Connally-Smith bill would permit the board to subpoena Mr. Lewis for attendance at its hearings.

Members of the board were reported to be sharply angered by the form of the miners' back to work order. It was, in effect, a renewed refusal to abandon what the board had termed the tactics of "bringing to the bargaining table the threat of a strike interrupting war production."

Before the union announced the June 20 deadline, the board had refused to approve renewed negotiations pending the miners' actual return to work.

Ready for Conference

Both sides declared their readiness to proceed with bargaining and met this morning. But Ezra Van Horn, chairman of the Appalachian coal conference, announced he had solicited information from the board on procedure and was advised that the board would not recognize the negotiations until coal production resumed.

Charles O'Neill, spokesman for northern mine owners, called this "a very grave mistake." Edward R. Burke, spokesman for the southern operators, said his group felt the back-to-work order of the U.M.W. leadership should permit negotiations to go forward.

Mr. Lewis declared that the miners regard the board's attitude as "mischievous and malicious and complete justification of our previous appraisal of the boards actions."

In explanation of its stand, the board issued a statement saying that the instructions not to resume negotiations until the mine workers "are actually back" on their jobs "reflects the established policy of the board, known to the parties, that negotiations in a case within the jurisdiction of the board may not be continued during a work stoppage."

It added that it was not concerned with meetings between the parties provided they were "not negotiating on the terms of the contract."

Lewis Reveals Order to Men

The disclosure that the U.M.W. leadership's order for renewed coal production Monday—in compliance with President Roosevelt's demand—was only a strategic retreat and not an unconditional surrender came when Mr. Lewis made public the following telegram dispatched to all local unions:

"The national policy committee, by unanimous vote, has authorized a return to work on Monday, June 7, up to and including June 20. This action was taken to protect your union and its membership. Let each member cooperate with this policy. By order of the national policy committee."

It was signed by Mr. Lewis, vice President John O'Leary and Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Kennedy.

Along with it was made public a statement which U.M.W. officials said was adopted unanimously yesterday by the policy committee. This declared that the United Mine Workers recognize "their responsibilities in our war effort," and added:

"It is not the United Mine Workers of America's purpose, in pressing for proper and equitable compensation for services rendered, to hamper the war effort but a simple desire of American coal miners to obtain and maintain an economic footing consistent with other Americans.

"The nation has the greatest storage stocks of bituminous coal in history. There is an ample supply of coal on hand to meet every requirement. Even the present situation has not impaired our war productive effort."

Senate Group Votes 25-Billion Navy-Fund Bill

Appropriations Committee Also Approves Farm Total of $820,000,000

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP).—A $24,850,000,000 naval appropriation bill—the largest in history—and an $820,000,000 farmer-appropriation bill containing a number of controversial features were approved today by the Senate Appropriations Committee. Senate action is expected early next week.

The naval bill contains more than $9,000,000,000 for new ships, and $6,500,000,000 for aviation, in addition to funds for pay, maintenance, subsistence, training and other necessities.

It sets up funds for an additional 27,462 combat and training planes, on top of the 27,500 naval planes heretofore appropriated for.

If the Senate follows an already well established pattern on war-fund appropriations, the naval bill is assured of speedy and possibly unopposed passage. The agriculture supply bill, however, will furnish plenty of room for debate.

Much of it is expected to center on funds for the Farm Security Administration, which some Senators contend should be eliminated entirely. The House Appropriations Committee attempted to transfer the functions of the F. S. A. to the Farm Credit Administration and the Agricultural Extension Service, and to reduce the amount available for the F. S. A. activities, but the attempted transfer was blocked on the point of order that it constituted an attempt to legislate in an appropriations bill.

The Senate committee allowed the F. S. A. $29,000,000 for administrative expenses and grants, $97,500,000 in borrowing authority for making farm-rehabilitation loans, and $30,000,000 for loans to tenants to purchase farms.

The Senate group also restored funds for Federal crop insurance and added $100,000,000 additional for soil-conservation payments, above the $300,000,000 voted by the House.

95 SURVIVORS OF SHIP SAVED

Smart Navigation By Two Bomber Pilots Credited In Rescue

Captain And Crew From Torpedoed Vessel All Picked Up In Mid-Atlantic

JUN —6 1943

Washington, June 5 (AP)—The navy reported today that a small Cuban merchant ship was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine in the Caribbean area early in May. Survivors were landed at Miami.

(By the Associated Press)

Washington, June 5—Smart navigating by two Catalina bomber pilots was credited today with resulting in the rescue of ninety-five survivors of an American torpedoed cargo ship in mid-Atlantic recently.

The loss of the ship previously was announced by the navy on May 13. It was torpedoed by a submarine which attacked at night and was never seen by the lookouts. The radio operator had time to flash only one frantic call for help and to give his position.

The message was picked up at an American Atlantic base and it was an account from that base which was released by the navy today to tell the story of what happened.

"Black As Pitch"

"A navy Catalina bomber piloted by Chief Machinist S. B. Tetreault, and carrying Gunner J. J. Tucker, Jr., as copilot, took the s[illegible]he account said. "The night w[illegible]ck as pitch; there was no moon, the overcast hid even the stars. It was the job of Tetreault and Tucker to navigate their plane through the blackness to a pin-point in the middle Atlantic several hundred miles from their base and find survivors in the dead of night. The job was one to try any navigator's soul and the chance of success was slim."

JUN -6 1943

At the time expected, however, the Catalina reported it had "sighted its objective." The task was eased once the plane was in position by light from ignited oil drums.

2 Lifeboats, 3 Rafts

In the glare of the flames the pilots of the Catalina discerned two lifeboats and three rafts, all loaded. Then the bomber picked up a ship on the horizon and as dawn broke the ship rescued ninety-five men, including the captain and twenty-seven members of the gun crew. Not a life was lost.

For the rest of the morning, Tetreault and Tucker cruised the area looking for the submarine. They were relieved by three Catalinas which searched the area, but there was no claim that the sub was sunk.

Tetreault and Tucker returned to their base after more than fourteen hours in the air.

Tetreault's home is in West Springfield, Mass., and Tucker lives at Chattanooga. Relief pilots on the plane were Lieut. (j. g.) A. E. Tollison, of Moorehead, Miss., and Ensign R. L. O'Flaherty, of Richmond, Va.

KERMIT ROOSEVELT IS DEAD IN ALASKA

Son of Theodore Roosevelt Served in Two Wars.

JUN - 6 1943

WASHINGTON, June 5. — (AP) Major Kermit Roosevelt, 53, son of President Theodore Roosevelt, died while on an assignment with the Army forces in Alaska.

The War department, in announcing his death, said today that advices received thus far had given no details. Since the Alaskan commander reported simply that he died yesterday it was presumed here that death was not due to enemy action. Ordinarily, the phrase "killed in action" is used in reporting a death in combat.

In Alaska Several Months

Officials said Major Roosevelt had been on duty in Alaska for several months, but were unable to say what his assignment was. He was not attached to any particular branch of the service.

Due to ill health, Major Roosevelt had been invalided from the British army in December, 1940, after asking and receiving a commission in the first month after Germany's attack on Poland. While with the British, he took part in the Norwegian campaign and also served in Egypt.

When Russia went to war with Finland, he accepted a commission as a colonel in the Finnish forces and engaged in recruiting in England for the Finnish army.

Back in this country at the time of Pearl Harbor, he entered the American forces.

Major Roosevelt was the second of the 26th President's four sons, and the second to die in the service of his country. Quentin, the youngest, was killed in the first World war in aerial action.

All served in France in that conflict. Kermit, as he did two decades later, first joined the British forces, then served with those of his own country. With the British, he saw action in Mesopotamia.

Of the brothers, Theodore, Jr., was twice wounded in France and Archibald once. Archibald is reported to be in the Pacific war zone in the current conflict, while Theodore, Jr., is a brigadier general with the American forces in Africa, and last month was decorated with the Oak Leaf cluster for gallantry in action.

At the same time, the general's son, Capt. Quentin Roosevelt, was awarded the Silver Star for advancing under fire in the African fighting and securing an advanced artillery observation post. Captain Roosevelt is now a patient in a Staten Island, N. Y., hospital.

Lived Life of Adventure

A banker, engineer and author, Kermit Roosevelt lived a life of high adventure. Besides fighting in two major wars, he went with his father on the latter's famous hunting expeditions to Africa in 1909 and 1910, and later traveled over much of the world. Many of these adventures were recorded in his books, "The Happy Hunting Grounds," "East of the Sun and West of the Moon," and "Trailing the Giant Panda."

In New York, his widow was overcome upon learning of her husband's death. She is the former Belle Willard, daughter of Joseph Willard, former ambassador to Spain.

M'ARTHUR, OTHER LEADERS SERVED WITH DIVISION

Men from Every State of Union to Be Members of New Organization.

JUN - 6 1943

(Editor's Note: The famous old Rainbow Division of World War one will be reactivated, with troops from every state of the union, on July 14. Here is a story about the old Rainbow, written by one of its members, Ted M. Metzger, now chief of the Associated Press bureau at Denver. Metzger, a member of the Iowa National Guard was mustered into service from Iowa university, served 18 months overseas, was wounded in the Champagne offensive, machine-gunned in the ambulance taking him off the battlefield, and bombed from his hospital bed. He recovered, was awarded the Purple Heart, and was a sergeant in a headquarters staff at the time of the Armistice.)

BY TED M. METZGER

DENVER, Colo., June 5.—(AP) The jangle of a field telephone in division headquarters that warm, clear night of July 14, 1918, had a fateful quality. "Francois 570, good luck," the caller said.

The voice was calm but the words were heavy with portent. The simple code message signaled the start of another German offensive, the last desperate thrust for victory.

For five hours, starting at midnight, shells screamed into hte Allied positions along a 50 mile front pivoted on Rheims. Then at dawn, came the familiar gray-green waves.

But the Rainbow Division stood fast, broke up six successive assaults, and, with its French comrades, smashed the offensive completely within three days.

To Be Reborn

That was the famous Rainbow's first real battle test. Now, on July 14, 1943, twenty-five years later, the Rainbow again will come into being.

In 1917, the Rainbow Division—the 42nd—was a composite of National Guard units from 26 states and the District of Columbia. When the new commander, Brig. Gen. Harry J. Collins, orders the colors raised over the reactivated command at Camp Gruber, Okla., next month, the ranks will include men from every state in the union.

The new forty-second will launch its career with the personal blessing of many of its original members, men now in the middle span of life or beyond who have given sons to the new war.

The Rainbow's most distinguished son, General Douglas MacArthur, will not be on hand for the reactivation ceremony, nor for the "champagne hour" when comrades of the old division drink a toast to the past and the future and then shatter their glasses. In his stead will come such former division officers as Major General Matthew A. Tinley of Council Bluffs, Iowa, World War commander of the 168th infantry; Col. J. Monroe Johnson of Washington, former commander of the 117th engineer regiment, and Brig. Gen. William P. Screws of Montgomery, Ala., commander of the famed (Alabama) 167th infantry, and many others from the rank and file of the old fighting Rainbow.

General MacArthur's career with the forty-second was as colorful and convincing as his later performance and leadership at Corregidor and in Australia. Always an impressive soldier and a "stickler" for military discipline, many in the old Rainbow can tell of his disregard for personal safety to be at the front with his men.

Named by MacArthur

It was MacArthur who named the original division and was its first member. He became chief of staff with the rank of colonel, and later served as commanding officer and also commanded the 84th infantry brigade, which with the 83rd made up the Rainbow's infantry section.

The original division was woven into a fine fighting pattern on the plains of Camp Mills, Long Island.

The men came from farms, stores, offices and shops and less prosaic peace-time jobs from New York's east side, Boston, Brooklyn, San Francisco and the deep South. They knew little of war but were eager to learn.

Some of the units had been trained in roughly prepared camps back home. The Iowa regiment wound up its preliminary preparation at Des Moines' state fairgrounds. Others were groomed in city parks. Some had served in Pershing's expedition to Mexico.

With growing pains aplenty, the Rainbow took shape speedily. From August to late October, 1917, there was no surcease from the daily grind of training and seemingly endless waiting for the day of embarkation.

Father Duffy Member

In one infantry brigade were combined the National Guard regiments of New York and Ohio. From the former emerged two famous characters, the late Father Duffy and Col. "Wild Bill" Donovan of the "Fightin' 69th." In the other brigade were like regiments from Alabama and Iowa. Machine gun companies came from Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and Georgia.

The Rainbow's field artillerymen came from Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Maryland and Kansas, the engineers were from North Carolina, South Carolina and California. Missouri furnished the 117th field signal battalion and Texas the supply train, while "MP's" came from Virginia, and the headquarters troop from Louisiana.

The medical corpsmen, field hospital and ambulance units came from the District of Columbia, New Jersey, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Michigan, Nebraska, Oregon and Colorado.

This was Rainbow, Senior, tense for action by mid-October but distressed from the physical discomfort of fighting Long Island's cold damp winds in squad tents heated with Sibley burners which occasionally set the canvas on fire and lighted up entire areas. The men were fretful when they stood in formation almost an entire day in review for Secretary of War Newton D. Baker.

Sailed to Glory, Victory

Late in October the first contingents dropped anchor off the seawall at St. Nazaire, but the convoy was short one transport, the SS President Grant carrying the 168th infantry. Five days at sea and in mid-Atlantic the venerable old ship was unable to keep up with the convoy, and turned back to New York without escort for the perilous backtracking trip. The troops reembarked on the SS Celtic and were but a few days out of Halifax when that Nova Scotian harbor was blasted by explosion.

These escapes from disaster were but a prelude to the history-making days ahead for the regiment and the division which was to crack the Hindenburg line and sustain 13,919 casualties before Nov. 11.

U. S. Air Maps Paved Way for Africa Landing

Photo-Equipped Fortresses Reconnoitered Strategic Area From Secret Bases

JUN - 6 1943

DENVER, June 5 (AP).—The Army disclosed today that American airmen, operating from secret bases, paved the way for the North African invasion by making detailed photographic maps of strategic areas months before that historic event last November.

An expedition sought out and mapped tactical positions, likely invasion points, concentrations of resistance, topographical conditions and landmarks in and about Oran, Algiers, Casablanca, Morocco, Tunis, Bizerte, Rabat and other vital sections.

The War Department said through the public relations office at near-by Lowry Field, where thirty members of the expedition were trained, that the mission brought back the first complete photographs of North Africa expanses, and was one of the most significant examples of the importance of aerial photography in modern warfare.

Leading the expedition was Lieutenant Colonel Paul T. Cullen, of San Gabriel, Calif., former assistant director of the Lowry Field photographic school. Colonel Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, was navigation officer.

A complete roster of the personnel was not announced, but four members of the group were Lieutenant William H. Teague, twenty-three years old, of Weatherford, Tex.; Lieutenant Charles T. Randall, twenty-three, of Newcastle, Pa.; Lieutenant Benjamin E. Nelson, twenty-five, of Granite Falls, Minn., and Lieutenant Edgar M. Cohen, twenty-four, of Altoona, Pa.

Back at Lowry Field recently, the four gave a graphic account of the mission in their photo-equipped Flying Fortresses in which they spanned thousands of miles, often in territory patrolled by enemy aircraft, to unmask the objectives which later became of importance to the invasion forces "a few months later."

Lieutenant Randall said one of the planes—all of them were unarmed—was attacked by three Messerschmitts on one occasion and barely managed to escape by climbing to an extreme altitude.

"We were miles from our objectives," said Lieutenant Teague, describing conditions of the work. "Our Flying Fortresses had to be specially equipped with cameras and plenty of gas tanks. Eacn plane had a 3,900-gallon capacity.

"It was impossible to carry guns of any sort on the bombers. Weight was so carefully allotted that we weren't even allowed to carry coins in our pockets. In case of enemy attack, our only weapon was altitude—but that was enough.

today when an army plane, taking to takeoff from a near-by airfield, crashed through a steel fence and into a residence, Fire Chief Maxie Bennett reported.

Three persons died when the house and an adjacent garage apartment were destroyed by flames from the burning plane. The fourth was struck and killed by the backlash of the heavy fence as the plane burst through it.

They were identified as William Fred Smothers and his sister, Lizzie Smothers, who were in the house; Betty Lou Giddens, 14, in the garage apartment; and Reuben Daniel Foreman, of Winter Garden, Fla., who was walking along the street when the fencing hit him.

The public relations office of the army air base said that the pilot, whose name was not released, was not injured seriously.

Six Killed In Georgia

Social Circle Ga., June 5 (AP)—An army plane crashed atop a hill five miles west of here this afternoon, killing at least six men, Police Chief J. L. Shepherd reported.

He said the plane skidded several hundred yards after hitting the hilltop and burst into flames. The plane's home base and its destination were not known immediately.

Shepherd said he saw five bodies in the wreckage and one man and a dog were thrown clear. Both were dead when reached.

Virginia Ex-Grid Star Killed

Lynchburg, Va., June 5 (AP)—Lieut. William Gerhardt Suhling 3d, USMC Reserve, former football star at the University of Virginia, was killed yesterday in an airplane crash somewhere in California, the Navy Department advised his family today.

Details of the accident were not given in the navy's brief message.

Son of Capt. W. G. ## Destroyer Cogswell Launched In Maine

Bath, Maine, June 5 (AP)—The destroyer Cogswell, named for a father and son, was christened by two sponsors today before sliding into the Kennebec river at the Bath Iron Works yard.

Mrs. Donald C. Bingham, wife of a navy captain and daughter of the late Rear Admiral James Kelsey Cogswell, USN, and Mrs. Francis Cogswell, widow of Admiral Cogswell's son, Capt. Francis Cogswell, USN, stood on opposite sides of the trim fighting craft and simultaneously broke bottles of champagne against her prow. Mrs. Bingham and Mrs. Cogswell were residents of Chevy Chase, Md.

Rear Admiral Cogswell, a native of Milwaukee, died in 1908 after a forty-six-year navy career during which he participated in the battle of Santiago.

4 POWERS SEEN RULING PEACE

Senator Austin Says Absence Of Any One Would Imperil Post-War Hopes

Council Representation Right Of Every State Willing To Help, He Adds

[By the Associated Press]

New York, June 5—United States Senator Warren R. Austin (R., Vt.) said tonight that the United States, Russia, Great Britain and China should take the lead in a post-war council of nations to ensure lasting peace and cooperation among nations.

"The exclusion or omission of any one of these great states would of itself create the possibility of a new world war," he declared.

Speaking on the first broadcast program of a series on post-war planning, "For This We Fight," Senator Austin called for "international organization for strategic security, comprising council, court and military power."

Others On Broadcast

Other speakers were Senator Elbert D. Thomas, (D., Utah); Alan J. Gould, executive assistant to Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, and Earl J. Johnson, vice-president in charge of news services of the United Press, who served as chairman of the discussion.

Discussing the topic, "Underwriting Victory," Senator Austin said:

"Let us start with a council, or similar body, to perform the political functions of republican government. Representation in such council should be the right of every nation that is willing and competent to collaborate in the development of a code of world conduct.

Regional Federations

"Such elaboration of the world government as involves regional federations within the overall organization eventually would be feasible, though I favor starting with a simple implementation of our purpose to work together.

"China, Russia, Great Britain and the United States ought to lead off. They ought to have the will to be and to remain constitutents of such council. Their combined power and prestige would predominate any other probable combination. They flank all of the oceans and they would furnish abutments of the great bridges that must cross them.

"The exclusion or omission of any one of these great states would of itself create the possibility of a new world war."

Power Should Be Available

Senator Austin said that "military power adequate to overwhelm any violator of the code ought to be available to the council."

Gould said that the "main victories" can be underwritten and a just peace can be achieved only "upon the solid foundation of an informed public opinion."

"A free press as we know it could b[illegible] the cornerstone for a new and better world," Gould said. "Certainly its restriction, and the consequent submerging of the truth, contributed to Europe's turmoil and the outbreak of World War II."

Concern For Liberty

Senator Thomas said that "we must realize that in addition to helping to keep order and promote opportunity, we must be concerned for liberty all over the world."

"We should not try to dictate the form of governments under which others should live, but we should know by now that when any powerful nation crushes all freedom and teaches its youth perverted cults of hate and blood and evil, the peace of our world is insecure."

Hirohito Leads Japan in Prayer For Yamamoto

Tojo Kneels Before Ashes of Pearl Harbor Raider at $25,000 State Funeral

By The Associated Press

The ashes of Fleet Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto were buried in the cemetery of Tama Village near Tokio yesterday following a costly and impressive state ceremony intended to perpetuate the hero legend of the man who designed the attack on Pearl Harbor.

The Japanese radio, which broadcast a description of the funeral, said that as Emperor Hirohito led the nation in prayer, Premier Hideki Tojo knelt before the ashes on the especially erected altar in Hibiya Park, near the imperial palace, where royal representatives and the empire's highest military and naval officers were gathered.

Another Tokio broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission quoted Premier Tojo as warning the Japanese that "the greater east Asia war is more and more in a stage of decisive battles and the war situation is becoming increasingly serious."

The radio said Tojo issued the special statement just before the funeral.

The ashes were brought to the altar from the Naval Club, where they had lain in state since soon after the announcement of his death on May 23, through streets "densely lined by silent people," according to the broadcast which was recorded by The Associated Press.

The official announcement of Yamamoto's death said that he died in a plane crash while on combat duty in the Pacific. The exact time and circumstances never have been announced.

Yamamoto's defeats by the American Navy after Pearl Harbor had been pictured as great triumphs to the Japanese people, and the funeral ceremony obviously was intended to perpetuate the legend.

He was given a state funeral, the twelfth non-royal personage and the second navy man to be so honored in Japanese history; it had been announced previously that the lavish state funeral would cost $25,000; and his ashes were buried beside those of another of Japan's naval heroes—Admiral Togo, hero of the Russo-Japanese War, whose ashes were buried in Tama Cemetery nine years ago.

[By the Associated Press]

London, June 5—Italy was reported beset by new troubles today—a rising Greek patriot opposition to her army of occupation—while at home she counted mounting losses from Allied aerial poundings and attempted to instill something of the spirit of defiance in her people.

Reuters recorded a Morocco radio broadcast quoting unconfirmed reports that Mussolini was recalling all Italian troops stationed in Greece.

The Greek Government-in-exile here reported that headquarters of an Italian army corps was menaced by Greek guerrillas who had driven an Italian garrison from one town and killed 200 Italians in another engagement.

Town Evacuated

Italian soldiers, after a fifteen-day battle, have evacuated Metsovon in north-central Greece and Greek forces have already occupied Kalabaka east of Metsovon and have pushed within twenty miles of the headquarters of the Thirty-first Italian Corps command, these reports said.

Meanwhile, the Bulgarian Army newspaper Narond Otbrana was quoted in reports from Ankara as foreseeing "imminent" help for occupied Greece from divisions of the British Eighth Army, reinforced by Greek forces and armies of the Near East for an invasion of Greece and the Balkans via Crete.

20 Units Reported Massed

Twenty Allied divisions have been concentrated for the attacks, the army organ said, and added: "What is going to happen to the Balkans is becoming clear and this interests Bulgaria very directly."

Dispatches to Switzerland from Italy, whose attitude toward bombing has changed sharply with Allied domination of the skies, admitted that many Italian cities now are virtually "heaps of ruins," but predicted that the rain of bombs would only make the Italian people fight with "courage and despair." The dispatches speculated on whether the onslaughts against her island outposts were the prelude to invasion.

"Front Line Trench"

The Italian Foreign Office's Relazioni Internationali was quoted by Reuters News Service as calling all Italy a front-line trench and as saying that Washington (D. C.) quarters were predicting an early invasion of the Italian islands.

Mussolini's own newspaper, which a year and a half ago gave great prominence to Italian aviation bombings of London, carried, under the heading "Men and Beasts," an editorial on the Pope's recent speech in which he repeated his plea that belligerents observe the laws of humanity.

Cities In Ruin

The article in the Il Popolo d'Italia recalled to some observers that Mussolini had asked Hitler for the "privilege" of participating in the London raids.

The Rome correspondent of the Swiss Tribune de Geneve wrote that Messina, Palermo, Trapani and Cagliari are virtually heaps of ruins. Many refugees are fleeing, he wrote, despite decrees compelling them to remain at home. He said the population of Rome is reported to have reached two and a half millions, a million more than the census figure of a few months ago.

Naples Shattered

Cities are now listed in a roll of "mutilated in the great war," the dispatches said. Naples was described as a city that has "lost its voice" and where people pass like shadows on streets where houses stretch mile after mile windowless and shattered.

Germany, where the day's reports told of new defensive preparations and new troubles in the occupied areas, attempted to take the offensive on the war of nerves by broadcasting to overseas listeners that "Germany is on the eve of launching an unexpected offensive against the Allies."

President Of Liberia Undergoes Operation

New York, June 5 (AP)—Walter Walker, consul general of Liberia, said tonight that Liberian President Edwin Barclay had undergone an operation on his left ankle at the Hospital for Joint Diseases and was resting comfortably.

He added the peration was performed by Dr. Leo Myer, and described it as more painful than serious.

President Barclay entered the hospital early this afternoon, and Mayor F. H. LaGuardia announced the city's official reception for him, planned for next Monday, had been postponed indefinitely.

By GLENN BABB

The in-between phase of the war linking the triumph in Africa with the next active chapter appears near an end. Last week brought strong indications that the period which Allied leadership has devoted to reviewing the war outlook, reassessing its resources and prospects and preparation of the next blow was about to give way to blazing action.

The battle of the Mediterranean already was well under way; in fact, it had begun even before Tunisia was cleared of the enemy. The Allies were steadily increasing their dominance of the skies above and the waters around southern Italy and its island approaches and it was difficult to see how the entry of the land forces into this battle—the beginning of invasion—could be much longer delayed. There was no reason to assume, however, that the United Nations offensive would be confined to the Mediterranean and its shores. All around Hitler's fortress of Europe stood Allied armies ready for the command to advance.

Prime Minister Churchill returned to London from the Washington war council. En route he made a dramatic visit to North Africa which afforded evidence that the Post-American interim was just about over. Accompanied by Generals Marshall and Brooke, the American and British army chiefs of staff, and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Mr. Churchill conferred with the commanders of the great Allied army, air and naval forces arrayed along the North African coast looking across toward Italy. "Details of plans for striking the most powerful possible blow at the Axis" formed the subject matter of these conferences, said an official announcement.

For the theatrical setting of a pre-battle speech to American and British troops, the prime minister chose the ruins of the amphitheater of ancient Carthage, stirring memories of another war to a finish of 2,000 years ago when mastery of the Mediterranean and world dominance were at stake.

The softening up of Italy, especially Pantelleria, Sicily and Sardinia, the islands which still bar clear sailing for the Allies through the Mediterranean and also offer a pathway for invasion, went on at accelerated pace. There was a lull, however, in the terrible air punishment of the German Reich, perhaps an indication that still heavier blows were being prepared for early delivery.

The besieged continent shuddered under the double impact of the Allied air assault and the war of nerves. Doctor Goebbels and other German spokesmen tried to fortify the spirits of their own people and their Italian allies with talk of the impregnability of Europe's fortifications, of great stores of arms prepared for the coming summer test, of mysterious new weapons, of the readiness of the Axis for either offensive action or defense. Nevertheless Italy awaited her hour of doom with indications of mounting fear. Both Berlin and Rome sought frantically for clues as to where and when the blow would fall.

The great American and British air fleets based on North Africa and the British navy gave the Italians no respite. Pantelleria, most distant of the island outposts, underwent a savage unremitting hammering both from the skies and the sea. Four times during the week Admiral Cunningham's ships came close to shell the little island heavily, while Flying Fortresses and other Allied planes added daily bombardments. Admiral Cunningham's ships dashed in close to the Italian mainland to smash a convoy just off the entrance to the Messina channel.

Attu Cleaned Up

But while action in the European theater was in the preparatory stage, the Pacific war witnessed the cleaning up of some unfinished business. Except for dealing with a few isolated nests of snipers Ameri[illegible]ces completed the occupati[illegible] Attu in the Aleutians. A Navy communique disclosed the cost of rooting the enemy from this strategic American outpost which looks across the north Pacific toward Japan's own island bases, beginning some 700 miles to the west: 342 American soldiers killed, 1,135 wounded, 58 missing. Known Japanese dead, not including many buried or cremated by the enemy, totalled 1,791. Only 11 prisoners were taken, showing how well the Japanese still observe the merciless code of their war machine, which is win or die, no surrender.

China, bolstered by American air power, contributed a highly significant victory to the Allied cause, turning what appeared a fortnight ago to be a dangerous threat to Chungking into a crushing defeat of Japanese armies along the upper Yangtze river. Beginning with the recapture late in May of the stronghold of Yuyangkwan, 35 miles south of the main enemy base at Ichang, the Chinese swept the invaders back to the Yangtze along a wide front, erasing two deep and dangerous areas of penetration.

The entire region between Yuyangkwan and Ichang was cleared of columns which had been thrusting deep into Hupeh province in a region less than 300 miles from Chungking. A similar success was scored in the "rice bowl" area of northern Hunan, between Tungting lake and the Yangtze, where dozens of towns seized by the Japanese in a drive two months ago were recovered.

U. S. Planes in Action

Whether the Japanese abandonment of so much valuable, dearly-bought territory was due entirely to defeats by Chiang Kai-Shek's armies was not clear. Close observers in Washington were somewhat puzzled. But one thing was obvious: the 14th United States Army Air force had become a tremendous factor in the China war, perhaps the difference between victory and defeat. Devastating attacks by American Liberator bombers and Warhawk fighters against Japanese bases and lines of communications undoubtedly had much to do with the Japanese setback. Most important of all, the American airmen brought proof that China was not fighting alone, that despite all handicaps the Allies were able to bring aid to bear directly on a critical battlefield.

Events in the politico-diplomatic field favored the Allies. Joseph E. Davies returned to Washington from Moscow to deliver Premier Stalin's reply to President Roosevelt's letter. Both the original letter and the answer remained secret but the President declared that the understanding between himself and the Russian leader was excellent. Presumably this meant that leaders of the three great powers leagued against Hitler, Britain as well as America and Russia, were in agreement on the war's next moves, perhaps on plans for an early meeting of the three.

A gain for the Allies not of their own making appeared to have been scored in Argentina, where the isolationist regime of President Ramon S. Castillo, the only American government which maintained relations with the Axis, was overthrown by military leaders. While the new regime did not disclose its foreign policy immediately, the overturn was hailed by those Argentine elements friendly to the United Nations and in Washington and London it was believed that it would be followed by a rupture of Argentine-Axis relations. That would deprive the enemy of his last listening post in the western world and make the Americas solid in support of the Allied cause.

The Allies continued to win the war against the submarine. The margin of new building over sinkings rose to a new high; so did the toll of U-boat kills by Allied navies and air forces.

JUN - 6 1943

THE BROADCAST GAVE NO DETAILS OF THE "NEW WEAPONS."

MINISTER OF PROPAGANDA PAUL JOSEPH GOEBBELS TOLD THE SAME MEETING AT THE BERLIN SPORTSPALAST THAT GERMANY HAD IN HER HANDS ALL THE ESSENTIALS OF A TRULY DECISIVE VICTORY.

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID THE OCCASION WAS TO AWARD MEDALS TO GERMAN WORKERS.

HE ASSERTED THAT PRODUCTION OF HEAVY ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS HAD INCREASED 31 PER CENT SINCE 1941 AND THAT PLANE PRODUCTION IN MAY WAS "SEVERAL TIMES" OVER THE 1941 AVERAGE.

(HIS SPEECH APPARENTLY WAS A PROPAGANDA EFFORT TO BOLSTER GERMAN MORALE, BESET BY DEFEATS IN TUNISIA AND RUSSIA AND BY TERRIFIC AERIAL BLOWS FROM THE RAF AND UNITED STATES AIR FORCE. BRITISH ESTIMATES HAVE SAID GERMAN PRODUCTION HAS BEEN CUT FROM 30 TO 50 PER CENT BY AERIAL ATTACKS.)

MADRID, JUNE 5-(AP)-A PLAN TO "HUMANIZE" THE WAR BY AN INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENT CLASSIFYING ALL BELLIGERENT TERRITORY AS TOTAL AIR-WAR ZONES, PARTIAL AIR-WAR ZONES, AND SAFETY ZONES, WAS PROPOSED TODAY BY THE SPANISH GOVERNMENT.

A FOREIGN OFFICE COMMUNIQUE ALSO DENIED THAT SPAIN ACTED IN THE SERVICE OF ANOTHER POWER IN ITS CURRENT CAMPAIGN TO STOP BOMBING OF CIVIL POPULATIONS.

JUN -6 1943

UNDER THE SPANISH PLAN, BOMBING WOULD BE UNLIMITED IN TOTAL AIR-WAR ZONES, RESTRICTED IN CERTAIN AREAS OF PARTIAL AIR-WAR ZONES, AND BANNED ENTIRELY IN "SAFETY ZONES."

EACH BELLIGERENT WOULD DECLARE WHAT IT CONSIDERS TOTAL WAR OR PARTIAL ZONES OF ENEMY TERRITORY, WHILE AN INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE WOULD WATCH ZONES WHERE BOMBING WAS NOT PERMITTED, AND OTHERWISE REGULATE TERMS OF THE AGREEMENT.

THREE PAGES OF THE FOUR-PAGE COMMUNIQUE WERE DEVOTED TO MEETING THE FLOOD OF CRITICISM WHICH GREETED THE RECENT SPANISH CAMPAIGN AGAINST AIR BOMBARDMENT.

THESE CRITICS ON THE ALLIED SIDE CHARGED THAT THE SPANIARDS MADE THE PLEA ON BEHALF OF THE AXIS, AND ONLY WHEN ALLIED AIRPOWER WAS PREDOMINANT. THE SPANIARDS MADE NO OBJECTION, THEY SAID, WHEN AIR BOMBINGS WERE LEVELING BRITISH CITIES.

PERMITS REVISION

OF OBJECTIVES

FOR INVASION (800)

BY DANIEL D[illegible]

(ADVANCE) ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA-(AP)-

THE WEIRD MYSTERY PLANE THAT SIX MONTHS AGO WAS BRANDED BY RUMOR AS A FLYING COFFIN AND THE BIGGEST FLOP OF AMERICAN AVIATION HAS BECOME THE QUEEN OF FIGHTER AIRCRAFT ON THE SOUTHERN EUROPEAN FRONT.

IT IS THE P38 LIGHTNING, WHOSE TWIN FUSELAGES MAKE IT LOOK LIKE SOMETHING THAT DROPPED IN FROM A FAR-OFF PLANET. JUN - 6 1943

BEFORE THE P38 WAS BATTLE-TESTED UNDERCOVER CRITICS SAID IT WOULD FLUTTER TO PIECES IN A DIVE, THAT IT WOULD KILL ITS PILOT IF HE HAD TO BAIL OUT, THAT ITS GUNNERY WAS POOR AND ITS MANEUVERABILITY ALMOST NIL.

SO LIEUT. GEN. CARL SPAATZ BROUGHT THE P38 TO THE MEDITERRANEAN [illegible]--AND IT CLEANED UP.

THE TWO MAIN POINTS ABOUT THE P38--WHICH THE GERMANS AND ITALIANS LEARNED WITH DISMAY--ARE VERSATILITY AND ITS LONG-RANGE FIGHTING PROWESS.

BECAUSE OF ITS RANGE, PREVIOUSLY BELIEVED IMPOSSIBLE FOR FIGHTERS, ALLIED GENERALS CAN REVISE THEIR VIEWS OF WHICH EUROPEAN POINTS ARE FEASIBLE FOR INVASION.

JUN - 6 1943

IN COMBAT, THE P38S AVERAGE APPROXIMATELY TWICE AS MANY VICTORIES AS LOSSES. IT IS ADMITTED THAT THEY ARE NOT TWICE AS FORMIDABLE AS THE MESSERSCHMITT 109S AND THE FOCKE-WULF 190'S WHICH THEY VANQUISHED, OF COURSE. THE SMART TACTICS OF HIGHLY TRAINED AMERICAN PILOTS AND SUPERIOR NUMBERS ALSO HAVE SOMETHING TO DO WITH IT.

BUT THE P38'S VERSATILITY MAKES IT NOT ONLY A JACK, BUT A MASTER,

JUN - 6 1943

OF MANY FLYING TRADES. IT PROTECTS BOMBERS ON LONG ROUND-TRIPS. IT IS A FIERCE STRAFING WEAPON. AS A BOMBER IT IS INCREDIBLY ACCURATE, AND HAS ACHIEVED NOTABLE SUCCESSES AGAINST DIFFICULT SHIP TARGETS.

THE LIGHTNING PILOTS SAY THE THREE HEAVY MACHINE GUNS AND ONE CANNON, FIRING STRAIGHT AHEAD INSTEAD OF IN A CONVERGING CONE, MAKE THEM MORE CERTAIN OF HITTING FAST-MOVING TARGETS.

JUN - 6 1943

THEY SAY THEY CAN OUTMANEUVER THE BEST GERMAN FIGHTERS AT MEDIUM ALTITUDES AND HOLD THEIR OWN IN THE SUB-STRATOSPHERE.

THEY SAY THE LIGHTNING IS FAST ENOUGH SO THEY DON'T HAVE TO WORRY ABOUT BEING OUTSPEEDED AND IT STILL FLIES WHEN BADLY SHOT UP. MANY OF THEM HAVE COME HOME ON ONE ENGINE. ONCE PILOT BILL HOELLE OF SAN MATEO, CALIF., HIT A TELEPHONE POLE WITH A WING, FLEW UPSIDE DOWN FOR TEN MINUTES, BUT LANDED SAFELY.

THE ONLY THING THE PILOTS REALLY COMPLAIN ABOUT IS THE SMALL COCKPIT. A MEDIUM-SIZED MAN MUST LEAVE SOME OF HIS HEAVIER FLYING TOGS BEHIND. IF THE COCKPIT HEATER BECOMES TEMPERAMENTAL ABOVE 20,000 FEET THE FLIER WOULD GLADLY EXCHANGE HIS COCKPIT FOR AN ICY IGLOO.

JUN - 6 1943

MORALE AMONG THE LIGHTNING PILOTS IS TOPS. THE OLD BUGABOO THAT THE TWIN-FINNED TAIL WOULD CUT THEM TO PIECES IF THEY HAD TO BAIL OUT WAS BANISHED LONG AGO. SCORES HAVE PARACHUTED SAFELY.

AND THERE IS NO RECORD OF ANY P38 IN AFRICA FLUTTERING TO PIECES IN A DIVE.

TYPICAL OF PILOT SPIRIT IS THE CASE OF LIEUT. THOMAS (ACE) WHITE OF KELSO, WASH., WHO WON THE DFC, AIR MEDAL AND SIX OAK LEAF CLUSTERS.

IN A CRASH LANDING HIS PLANE NOSED OVER AND HE WAS HUNG UP IN THE BURNING WRECKAGE. HE FINALLY SHOT A HOLE IN THE WINDSHIELD WITH HIS PISTOL AND CLAMBERED OUT BEFORE FAINTING FROM A NECK INJURY. INVALIDED HOME, HE TURNED TO A FRIEND AS HE PREPARED TO LEAVE AND SAID:

"IT'S TOUGH TO MISS THE FINAL SHOW."

THE LEADING AMERICAN ACE IN NORTH AFRICA IS MAJOR LEVI R.CHASE OF CORTLAND, N.Y., WHO BAGGED 10 GERMANS WITH THE OLD P-40 SQUADRONS. THEN COME TWO LIGHTNING PILOTS, SECOND LIEUT. WILLIAM J.SLOAN OF RICHMOND, VA., AND FIRST LT. MELDRUM L.SEARS OF PARIS, ILL., WITH SEVEN EACH.

JUN - 6 1943

THIS CORRESPONDENT HAS A PERSONAL REASON FOR LIKING THE LIGHTNINGS. AROUND THE FRONT LINES I COULD NEVER LEARN TO TELL SPITFIRES, WARHAWKS, MESSERSCHMIDTS AND FOCKE-WULFS APART, AND SO SPENT CONSIDERABLE TIME AND ENERGY TAKING OVER. BUT THE P38 NEVER FOOLED ME. I COULD RECOGNIZE THE STRANGE WARBIRDS INSTANTLY, AND IT WAS A PLEASURE TO STAND UPRIGHT WATCHING THEM GO TO WORK ON THE SWEATING ENEMY.

AN ADVANCED AMERICAN MEDIUM BOMBING BASE IN NORTH AFRICA, JUNE 4 -(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE WINGS OF A PET PARROT, SERGEANT, HELPED LIFT A MOUNTAIN-CLIMBING B-26 MARAUDER BOMBER INTO THE SKIES--OR SO ITS CREW SOLEMNLY SWEARS--AFTER A JUMPING JACK TAKEOFF GAVE THEM THE THRILL OF THEIR LIVES.

JUN - 6 1943

THE PLANE WAS LUMBERING DOWN THE RUNWAY WHEN ONE MOTOR LOST ITS POWER, TOO LATE FOR THE PILOT, LIEUT.ROBERT W. (SWAG) SWIGARD, 728

30.24-4713

MAGNOLIA ST., LONG BEACH, CALIF., TO TRY TO STOP.

"WE WERE ONLY MAKING 110 MILES AN HOUR," HE SAID. "I NOSED IT OVER A RAISED ROAD AT THE END OF THE RUNWAY, BOUNDING ONE WHEEL. WE HIT ON THE OTHER SIDE AND GAINED A LITTGE MORE SPEED AS WE ROSE OVER THE VALLEY AND THEN BOUNCED AGAIN ON A SLOPING HILLSIDE WHEAT PATCH.

"THERE WAS AN ARAB AND SOME GOATS ON THE HILL. HE THREW HIMSELF DOWN AND BEGAN TRYING TO PAW HIMSELF A FOXHOLE WHEN HE SAW US HEADING HIS WAY."

JUN -6 1943

"WE MOWED HIS GRAIN FOR 200 YARDS," SAID SERGEANT LON L.STONE, ENGINEER GUNNER, OF JANESVILLE, WIS.

"AFTER WE MADE IT OVER THE HILL WE CAME TO ANOTHER VALLEY AND WE GOT UP ENOUGH SPEED TO CLIMB OUT OF DANGER," HE ADDED. "'SWAG' WAS AS WHITE AS A SHEET WHEN IT WAS OVER."

"WE HAD FLAK BOMBS ABOARD AND IF SWAG HADN'T KEPT IT FROM STALLING BY A BEAUTIFUL FLYING JOB WE WOULD BE PUSHING UP DAISIES BY NO " SAID THE CO-PILOT, FLIGHT OFFICER ALFRED C.COLEMAN, OF MONTELL, TEX TE IT WAS ALL OVER SWAG AND I DEBATED WHETHER TO RIDE KIDDIE CARS LK THE REST OF OUR LIVES."

JUN -6 1943

"WE HAD A PET PARROT NAMED SERGEANT, IN OUR NAVIGATOR'S COMPARTMENT," SAID SWIGARD. "HE GOT EXCITED AND FLEW UP AGAINST THE ROOF AND HELPED LIFT US OFF THE GROUND. WE WOULD NEVER HAVE GOT OFF WITHOUT HIM."

"YEAH, BUT WE OUGHT TO GROUND THAT BIRD," SAID COLEMAN. "EVERYTIME WE TAKE HIM UP SOMETHING HAPPENS. HE'S BAD LUCK."

BY UNANIMOUS VOICE VOTE SERGEANT HAS BEEN READ OUT OF THE FORCE.

30.24-4713

A U.S. FIGHTER BASE IN NORTH AFRICA, JUNE 4-(DELAYED)-(AP)-AN INTREPID LITTLE OKLAHOMA FLIER WHO FLOPS BOMBS FROM HIS SWIFT P-38 LIGHTNING FIGHTER IS LEADING THE "SKIP BOMB" ASSAULT ON HEAVILY FORTIFIED PANTELLERIA ISLAND OFF THE COAST OF SICILY.

WITH DOUBLE BULLS EYES WHILE SKIMMING IN AT 350 TO 400 MILES AN HOUR, LIEUT.COL.ERNEST C.YOUNG OF STILLWATER, OKLAHOMA, EXECUTIVE OFFICER OF A O-38 GROUP, HAS SMASHED AN UNDERGROUND HANGAR AND A HEAVY GUN CASEMENT.

JUN -6 1943

THE TECHNIQUE IS TO ROAR IN AT A LOW ALTITUDE AND RELEASE A HALF-TON BOMB WITH A DELAYED FUSE IN FRONT OF A TARGET. IT SKIPS ACROSS THE GROUND LIKE A FLAT PEBBLE AND STRIKES THE OBJECTIVE WITH DEVASTATING POWER.

THE LATEST FEAT OF DESTROYING THE GUN CASEMEN--CONCRETE STEEL REINFORCED STRUCTURES WHICH RESEMBLE THE GIANT PILLBOXES OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE AND PROTECT THE HEAVY COASTAL GUNS--WAS MADE AS B-25'S MITCHELLS BOMBED NEARBY AND DIVERTED MUCH FLAK.

BUT YOUNG AND THREE OTHER P-38 PILOTS WHO SPED IN SIMULTANEOUSLY RAKING KEY MILITARY INSTALLATIONS WITH STRAFING FIRE HAD TO WEATHER A HEAVY BARRAGE OF 50-CALIBRE MACHINEGUN SLUGS BEFORE THEY COULD DROP THEIR CALLING CARDS.

JUN -6 1943

YOUNG RELEASED HIS BOMB WHEN HE WAS ONLY 10 FEET ABOVE THE GROUND AND 50 FEET IN FRONT OF THE GUN CASEMENT, WHICH IS ABOUT 15 FEET HIGH AND 20 FEET ACROSS THE TOP.

"I HEARD IT HIT AND EXPLODE BUT OF COURSE I DIDN'T STICK AROUND TO SEE THE RESULTS," YOUNG SAID.

JUN -6 1943

HIS WINGMAN, LIEUT.RUSSELL C.WILLIAMS, 101 MAGNOLIA AVENUE, FLORAL PARK, N.Y., CONFIRMED THE DIRECT HIT, HOWEVER.

YOUNG ALMOST LOST HIS LIFE WHEN HE MISSED BY A BARE THREE FEET THE HEAVY ARM OF A 20-FOOT DOCK CRANE AS HE DIPPED DOWN ON THE ATTACK.

"I WAS REALLY SHAKEN BY THAT CRANE LOOMING UP BECAUSE I HADN'T EXPECTED IT. THAT WORRIED ME MORE THAN THEIR BULLETS."

YOUNG SAID THAT ANY SUCCESS RESULTING FROM HIS RECENT SKIP BOMB ATTACKS BELONGED LARGELY TO HIS CREW CHIEF, TECHNICAL SERGEANT F.L.NORMAN OF GREYBULL, WYO., WHO YOUNG SAID, KEPT THE PLANES IN PERFECT SHAPE.

JUN -6 1943

OTHER PILOTS ACCOMPANYING HIM BESIDES WILLIAMS WERE FLIGHT OFFICER MELVIN A.SHEETS, SUTTON DRIVE, FORT WAYNE, IND., AND LIEUT.HOWARD M. PRYOR OF TROY, N.Y.

A U.S.FIGHTER BASE IN NORTH AFRICA, JUNE 4-(DELAYED)--(AP)- THEY CALL THEMSELVES "THE LIGHTHOUSE BOYS" BECAUSE THEY'VE SHOT UP EVERY LIGHTHOUSE THEY'VE SEEN IN TUNISIA, SARDINIA AND SICILY AND THEIR MOTTO IS "WE DON'T HAVE ANY HEROES AND WE DON'T WANT ANY."

YET WITHOUT A SINGLE FRONT PAGE TRIGGER SHOOTER THIS GROUP OF P-40 FIGHTERS IS TURNING OUT ONE OF THE BEST BALANCED FLYING RECORDS OF THE WAR.

JUN -6 1943

THE GROUP IS COMMANDED BY LIEUT.COL.GORDON H.AUSTIN, OF 848 CLAY AVENUE, SCRANTON, PA., SON OF THE LATE MAJOR GENERAL FRED T.AUSTIN, FORMER CHIEF OF FIELD ARTILLERY, U.S.ARMY, HAS SHOT DOWN 35 ENEMY PLANES AND BURNT UP DOZENS MORE ON THE GROUND.

THREE DAYS AGO THEY BLASTED 18 OUT OF 25 ITALIAN SEAPLANES WHICH THEY SURPRISED AT A BASE ON STAGNONE ISLAND OFF THE WESTERN TIP OF SICILY.

ITS MEMBERS CLAIM THAT IN SEVEN WEEKS THEY HAVE SPENT MORE TIME IN THE AIR ON COMBAT MISSIONS THAN THE P-40'S OF THE DESERT AIR FORCE DID IN SEVEN MONTHS. THEY HAVE MADE 1,100 SORTIES AND THEY FLEW FIVE MISSIONS IN 35 DAYS.

JUN -6 1943

ALL THEIR MISSIONS WERE OVER WATER-- ONLY ONE LESS THAN TWO AND ONE HALF HOURS--AND THEY HAVE FLOWN THE LONGEST OPERATIONAL FLIGHT MADE BY P-40'S IN AFRICA. THEY ARE OPERATING WITH GENERAL JAMES DOOLITTLE'S STRATEGIC AIRFORCES AND THEY ARE THE ONLY SINGLE-ENGINED FIGHTERS TO OPERATE OVER SICILY AND SARDINIA.

"WE REALLY MEAN IT WHEN WE SAY WE DON'T WANT ANY HEROES," SAID CAPTAIN JOHN C.A.WATKINS, ASSISTANT OPERATIONS OFFICER AND FORMER AVIATION EDITOR OF THE BALTIMORE SUN AND A MEMBER OF A FAMILY WHICH HAS SENT SIX MEN INTO THE ARMED SERVICES.

"THERE IS NO COMPETITION AMONG US TO SEE WHO CAN GET THE MOST ENEMY FIGHTERS. OUR JOB IS TO BRING BACK OUR BOMBERS SAFELY AND IF WE HAVE DONE THAT WE THINK WE HAVE DONE A GOOD JOB WHETHER WE HAVE SHOT DOWN ANY OF THE ENEMY OR NOT. WE ARE PROUDER OF THE FACT THAT WE HAVE NEVER LOST A BOMBER AS THE RESULT OF ENEMY PLANE ACTIVITY WHILE WE WERE ON ESCORT DUTY THAN WE DO OF THE NUMBER ~~BOYS" BY BOYLE XXX THAN WE DO OF THE NUMBER~~ OF NAZI PILOTS WE HAVE BROUGHT DOWN."

BUT WHILE PROTECTING BOMBERS IN FOUR MISSIONS OVER SARDINIA AND SICILY THE GROUP HAS INTERCEPTED AND DESTROYED 29 ENEMY AIRCRAFT IN

30 24- 4715

30.24-4715

COMBAT AND STRAFED AND BOMBED OTHERS ON THE GROUND. THEY ALSO BAGGED SEVEN GIANT 6-ENGINED MERSEBURG 323'S IN A SINGLE ENGAGEMENT NORTH OF CAGLIARI, SARDINIA, WHICH APPARENTLY WERE CAUGHT WHILE BRINGING IN SUPPLIES.

JUN - 6 1943

"WE PACKED BOMBS TO GET SHIPS AROUND BIZERTE AND TUNIS," SAID WATKINS, "ON ONE TRIP JUST AFTER DROPPING OUR BOMBS WE SAW THREE ITALIAN TORPEDO BOATS AND TWO LARGE SEA-GOING TUGS JUST OUTSIDE TUNIS. WE SWUNG AROUND AND CAME IN ON DECK AND STRAFED AND SANK ALL FIVE. ON ANOTHER SWEEP WE GOT A 7,000-TON ITALIAN MERCHANT SHIP."

DISCUSSING THE PERFORMANCE OF HIS GROUP, COLONEL AUSTIN SAID:

"WE HAVE DONE EVERY TYPE OF MISSION AND NEVER TURNED ONE DOWN--BOMBING, STRAFING, SKIP-BOMBING WORK, COASTAL PATROL AND SEA SWEEPS. WE HAVE EXPLOITED ALL POSSIBILITIES OF THE P-40'S AND HAVE OPERATED AT EXTREME RANGES. THEY'RE DARN GOOD PLANES--ALL WE'D LIKE IS A LITTLE MORE SPEED AND A HIGHER RATE OF CLIMB."

JUN - 6 1943

COLONEL AUSTIN HIMSELF HAS SHOT DOWN ONE ME-323. AMONG OTHER OUTSTANDING MEMBERS OF THE GROUPS ON THE GROUND AND ALOFT ARE MAJOR EVERETT B.HOWE, SQUADRON COMMANDER OF WALDRON, MICH., WHO IS CREDITED WITH A ME-109 AND A MA-202; CAPTAIN JOSEPH A.BLOOMER OF LAMBERTVILLE, N.J., A SQUADRON COMMANDER WHO HAS BAGGED ONE ME-109; CAPTAIN WILLIAM A.REED, SQUADRON COMMANDER, OF MARION, IOWA, ONE ME-109, AND CAPTAIN KENNETH SETTERDAHL, ROCK ISLAND, ILL.; CAPTAIN BUNN HEARN JR., WILSON, N.C. SON OF A FORMER BIG LEAGUE PITCHER AND NOW BASEBALL COACH AT THE UNIVERSITY OF ~~SOUTH~~ NORTH CAROLINA; CAPTAIN HAROLD CROSELY, FLIGHT LEADER OF GARDNER, MASS., LIEUT.JAMES F.GARRETT, BELMONT, MASS.; AND CAPTAIN HERSHEL H.GREEN, MAYFIELD, KY.

COL. KEITH K.COMPTON OF ST.JOSEPH, MO., LEADER OF THE ATTACK, SAID IN CAIRO THAT HE RARELY HAD SEEN MORE ACCURATE BOMBING.

"THERE WERE SCORES OF FIRES WHICH SENT GREAT PILLARS OF BLACK SMOKE INTO THE SKY," HE SAID. "WE COMPLETELY SMOTHERED THE AREA WITH BURSTS."

BY PAUL KERN LEE

(ADVANCE)..VALETTA, MALTA--(AP)-JOSEPH THE HACKMAN WAVED A GNARLED HAND AS MANY PLANES ROARED PAST OVERHEAD AND EXCLAIMED "OURS TAJJEB" (GOOD), THEN GESTURED DEPRECATINGLY TOWARD SICILY AND RASPED "MUSSOLINI HITLER MHUX TAJJEB" (NO GOOD).

BESIEGED, BOMB-BATTERED AND BLOODY FOR THREE YEARS, MALTA NEVER GAVE UP. TODAY, HAVING BOUND UP HER WOUNDS, OBTAINED SUFFICIENT IF NOT YET ABUNDANT FOOD AND STARTED THE GIGANTIC TASK OF REBUILDING, SHE IS ON THE OFFENSIVE.

THE HORSE JOGGED ON PAST BLASTED HOUSES WHERE WORKMEN SAW BROKEN STONES INTO NEW, USEFUL SHAPES AS IF THEY WERE BLOCKS OF WOOD.

THE GREAT GROUP OF PLANES QUICKLY BECAME DISTANT SPECKS, OUTWARD BOUND TO ATTACK THE ENEMY WHO FAILED TO DEFEAT THIS EIGHT-BY-SEVENTEEN-MILE ISLAND.

JUN - 6 1943

WHEN ITALY ENTERED THE WAR IN JUNE, 1940, MALTA'S NUMBER APPEARED TO BE UP, BUT THE ISLAND HUNG ON IN THE FACE OF GROWING ONSLAUGHTS. THE REALLY HEAVY ATTACKS BEGAN AFTER THE GERMANS CAME IN FORCES TO SICILY AND NORTH AFRICA. DAY AFTER DAY 150 TO 200 BOMBERS POUNDED MALTA. THIRTEEN THOUSAND TONS OF BOMBS FELL IN A YEAR. BY THIS TIME LAST YEAR THREE-FOURTHS OF VALETTA'S BUILDINGS WERE UNUSABLE. THE ISLAND HAD BEEN UNDER ATTACK 12 HOURS A DAY.

THEN, LAST MAY, SPITFIRES WERE FLOWN TO THE ISLAND FROM THE AMERICAN CARRIER WASP. THEY SAVED THE DAY. FROM THEN ON GERMAN AND ITE LOSSES SOARED.

THANKS TO MALTA'S RESOLUTE DEFENSES AND GREAT ROCK CAVERNS, ASUALTIES HAD BEEN FEWER THAN AXIS AIRMEN KILLED.

BUT AFTER THE BLITZ CAME THE SIEGE. BRINGING CONVOYS TO MALTA WITH THE BAREST NECESSITIES -- MUNITIONS, FOOD AND GASOLINE -- BECAME A MOST HAZARDOUS ASSIGNMENT.

JUN - 6 1943

FOR A LONG TIME AFTER THE GREAT, DAMAGING CONVOY BATTLE LAST AUGUST, NO SUPPLIES CAME TO MALTA'S HARBORS. THE TINY ISLAND WITH 250,000 PERSONS CANNOT FEED ITSELF. BUT MALTA STUCK TO HER CAVES AND THERE WAS NO SURRENDER.

THE AXIS NEVER TRIED AN INVASION, POSSIBLY BECAUSE OF THE LESSON LEARNED WHEN AN ITALIAN SPEEDBOAT ATTACK ON GRAND HARBOR COST THEM 26 RAIDERS OUT OF 26.

THE ALLIED VICTORY IN THE AFRICAN DESERT AND THE CAMPAIGN IN TUNISIA BROUGHT A TREMENDOUS BOOST TO MORALE HERE. MALTA'S PLANES LOGICALLY TOOK TO THE OFFENSIVE. THEY POUNDED GERMAN AIRFIELDS IN TUNISIA AND SHOT DOWN ENEMY AERIAL TRANSPORTS HEADING FOR SICILY.

WHEN THE END OF NOVEMBER THE FIRST CONVOY SINCE AUGUST ARRIVED, AND THE OFFENSIVE WAS STRENGTHENED. MALTA-BASED PLANES PLAYED AN IMPORTANT ROLE IN THE FINAL ACTION IN TUNISIA.

JUN - 6 1943

THE SIREN SOUNDS. MALTA HAS BEEN BOMBED ONLY ONCE IN FIVE MONTHS, AND IT WAS A PEDDLE AFFAIR THEN. THE SIRENS MEAN LITTLE ANYMORE.

"PROBABLY RECONNAISSANCE PLANES," SAYS A KNOWING MALTESE. "THEY

JUN - 6 1943

"BAD TIMES ARE OVER NOW," SAID SCHEMBRI IN A SOFT [illegible] "WE STILL NEED SOME THINGS: HOT BATHS, PERHAPS MORE CIGARETTES, A WIDER DIET FOR THE CHILDREN, BUT MALTA GOES ON. MALTA WILL ALWAYS GO ON. MANY OF OUR BEAUTIFUL HOMES ARE IN RUINS. THEY CANNOT BE RESTORED OR REPLACED. IN THAT RESPECT MY LOVELY MALTA WILL NEVER BE THE SAME. IT MAKES ME SAD, SOMETIMES."

JUN - 6 1943

THEN HIS SOFT BROWN EYES FLASHED AS HE ADDED WITH UNEXPECTED VEHEMENCE:

"THOSE WHO DID THIS ARE PAYING NOW; THEY'LL CONTINUE TO PAY, EVEN THOUGH THEY CAN NEVER PAY IN FULL."

DOWN THE STREET IN A LITTLE CURIO SHOP ANOTHER ARTISAN WAS FASHIONING ASH TRAYS FROM MALTA STONE. "THIS ROCK SAVED MALTA," HE EXPLAINED. "I AM PREPARING FOR THE TOURIST BOOM WHICH MUST SURELY FOLLOW THE WAR. THIS ROCK CUTS LIKE CHEESE, BUT OUT IN THE AIR HARDENS LIKE GRANITE. THIS ROCK SAVED MALTA AS SURELY AS OUR PLANES AND GUNS."

JUN - 6 1943

HE DISPLAYED A PECULIAR NECKLACE. "HERE'S ANOTHER MALTA SOUVENIR THESE ARE LOCUST BEANS. MANY OF US ATE THEM IN THE BAD TIME. THEY TOO SAVED MALTA, THESE UGLY, BITTER, LITTLE BEANS." HE MADE A WRY FACE, BUT FONDLED THE NECKLACE REMINISCENTLY.

THE LACE-MAKERS AND PIPE CARVERS ALSO EXPECT A BOOM AFTER THE WAR. ON A BROADER SCALE, MALTA'S BUSINESS LEADERS RECOGNIZE THEIR POSITION AT A MEDITERRANEAN CROSSROADS AND HOPE TO MAKE THE ISLAND A POST-WAR TRADE AND DISTRIBUTION CENTER.

STORIES OF SUCH PLANS OCCUPY THE INSIDE PAGES OF THE TIMES, ALONG WITH HONEY TALES OF SOCIAL FUNCTIONS AND LETTERS TO THE EDITOR, MUCH LIKE IN ANY SMALL AMERICAN CITY.

ONE RECENT LETTER SUGGESTED THE NAVY NAME A NEW AIRCRAFT CARRIER "MALTA" IN REMEMBRANCE OF THE ANGRY ITALIAN RADIO EXCLAMATION THAT "MALTA IS AN UNSINKABLE AIRCRAFT CARRIER."

JUN - 6 1943

SUCH IT REALLY IS. SHAPED ROUGHLY LIKE A BROAD-BEAMED CARRIER, MALTA HAS GREAT RUNWAYS ACROSS HER DECK, STARTING POINTS FOR THE OFFENSIVE THAT SWEEP DAY AND NIGHT OVER SICILY AND [illegible] MOSTLY COME TO LOOK NOWADAYS, BUT THEY'RE LUCKY TO DO THAT. WE'LL TEAR THEM TO PIECES."

HE WAS RIGHT. THE ALERT LASTED ABOUT FIVE MINUTES. MEN SERVICING AIRCRAFT AND REPAIRING BLITZED HOUSES HARDLY PAUSED TO GLANCE ALOFT.

THIS IS MALTA, GC. THE INITIALS GO WITH MALTA AS D.C. GOES WITH WASHINGTON. THEY STAND FOR THE GEORGE CROSS, AWARDED THE ENTIRE COLONY FOR ITS HEROISM AGAINST BLITZ AND SIEGE.

THE TIMES OF MALTA, WHICH HASN'T MISSED A SINGLE DAY'S PUBLICATION, CARRIES IN ONE CORNER OF ITS FRONT PAGE:

JUN - 6 1943

"HM KING GEORGE VI AWARDED TO MALTA THE GEORGE CROSS ON THE 936TH DAY OF THE WAR 15/4/1942."

THE TIMES RECENTLY RESUMED CARRYING PICTURES AND ENLARGED TO FIVE COLUMN WIDTH.

TEHERAN (AP)-THE GHOST OF THE ORIGINAL IDEA OF ARYAN SUPREMACY---A CONCEPT WHICH FOOUR SCORE YEARS AFTER ITS BIRTH HELPED BRING ABOUT THE SECOND WORLD WAR---HAUNTS A TEHERAN RESTAURANT, LOOKING OVER YOUR SHOULDER AS YOU EAT YOUR KABABS AND DRINK YOUR DUGH.

THIS MALEVOLENT SPIRIT - STRANGELY ENOUGH, ITS ORIGINAL WAS A FRENCHMAN - IS KNOWN ONLY TO THOSE WELL VERSED IN THE HISTORY OF IRAN. I HAD DINNER WITH A MAN WHO TRAILED THE GHOST TO ITS LAIR---CAPTAIN EDWIN M.WRIGHT, AN AMERICAN EXPERT ON IRAN, AN INTELLIGENCE OFFICER OF THE PERSIAN GULF SERVICE COMMAND.

WRIGHT, 46, SON OF A MISSIONARY , WAS BORN AT TABRIZ, ABOUT 350 MILES NORTHWEST OF TEHERAN, AND HAS SPENT 31 YEARS IN IRAN. HE HAS STUDIED AND TAUGHT AT COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY AND WAS GRADUATED FROM WOOSTER (OHIO) COLLEGE IN 1918. HE CAME TO THE PGSC FROM THE DONOVAN OFFICE OF STRATEGIC SERVICES. HIS WIFE AND THEIR ONE CHILD, BORN IN IRAN, LIVE AT WASHINGTON.

WHILE CAPTAIN WRIGHT AND I LEVELED HEAPS OF BUTTERED RICE MIXED WITH RAW EGGS AND TOPPED BY GRILLED VEAL (KABABS) AND DRANK OUR WATER-THINNED SOUR MILK (DUGH) HE TOLD ABOUT HIS INTRIGUING DISCOVERY.

THE RESRAURANT IS THE LOGHANTE, IN BAHARISTAN SQUARE, A STONE'S THROW FROM THE IRANIAN PARLIAMENT BUILDING. IT STANDS NOW BEHIND A MODERN FACADE OF YELLOW BRICK, BUT WITHIN THERE IS MUCH OF THE PAST.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO THIS THE ORNATE RECEPTION SALON OF THE FIRST MINISTER OF THE BRILLIANT COURT OF NASIR ED DIN SHAH, IRAN'S SOVEREIGN. MANY A FINER AND LARGER PALACE HAS BEEN ERECTED IN TEHERAN SINCE THEN.

THE SALON IS STILL A PLACE OF MIRRORS, CRYSTAL, AND GILDED WOOD CARVING, SURMOUNTED BY LIFESIZE PAINTED WALL PANELS OF THE SHAH SQUATTING AMID THE SILKEN CUSHIONS OF A JEWELED THRONE, FLANKED BY HIS SIX SMALL SONS, HIS MINISTERS AND, IN OTHER PANELS, BY THE REMAINDER OF THE COURT.

IT IS EASY TO VISUALIZE THE POMP OF THE 1850'S WHICH TURNED THE HEAD OF AN IMPRESSIONABLE FRENCH DIPLOMAT AND INSPIRED HIM TO WRITE ONE OF HUMANKIND'S MOST TROUBLESOME FALLACIES.

WALL PAINTING PORTRAYS THIS FRENCHMAN, JOSEPH ARTHUR COMTE DE GOBINEAU, WHO WAS CHARGE D'AFFAIRES FOR THE FRENCH DIPLOMATIC MISSION TO IRAN.

THE COUNT STANDS THERE IN WHITE GLOVES AND STUDIED NONCHALANCE, THE BOTTOM GOLD BUTTON OF HIS CREAM-COLORED VEST UNFASTENED. HE WEARS A BLUE, HIGH-COLLARED JACKET, BROWN PANTS WITH A CREAM STRIPE DOWN THE SEAM AND A BLUE, VISORED CAP DECORATED WITH GOLD BRAID. HIS FACE IS FAIR, HIS EYES ARE PALE BLUE AND HE WEARS A CLOSELY-TRIMMED BROWN GOATEE AND MUSTACHE.

JUN - 6 1943

THIS WAS THE MAN WHO WAS PREACHING THE IDEA OF THE SUPER MAN EVEN BEFORE FRIEDRICH WILHELM NIETZSCHE DID ANY HEAVY THINKING ON THAT THEME WHICH ADOLF HITLER WAS TO EMBELLISH SO BRUTALLY IN THE SUCCEEDING CENTURY.

"THE COUNT DE GOBINEAU WAS A MONARCHIST IN FRANCE PRIOR TO THE RULE OF NAPOLEON III," WRIGHT RELATED. "HE LOST FAITH IN THE CORRUPT REPUBLIC OF HIS DAY, YET HE WAS APPOINTED TO REPRESENT IT IN IRAN WHERE NASIR ED DIN SHAH HAD ONLY RECENTLY COME TO THE THRONE.

"DE GOBINEAU WAS FASCINATED BY THE ENERGY OF THE NEW KING, BY THE RICH AND LAVISH ENTERTAINMENT, BY THE DIGNITY OF THE COURT AND THE SEEMING DISCIPLINE AND ORGANIZATION. HE ATTEMPTED TO RATIONALIZE THE CONTRAST BETWEEN IT AND HIS OWN COUNTRY. HE HIT UPON THE THEORY NOW KNOWN AS THE ARYAN RACIAL IDEA.

"THE EARLY IRANIAN KINGS, 2,500 YEARS AGO, CALLED THEMSELVES 'KING OF THE ARYAN TRIBES.' THE NAME IRAN IS A MODERN PERSIAN FORM OF THE OLDER WORD ARYAN.

"DE GOBINEAU DEVELOPED THE THEORY THAT IRAN'S GLORIES WERE TRACEABLE TO ITS ARYAN DESCENDENCY. THIS IGNORES THE HISTORIC INVASIONS OF THE ARAB, TURK AND MONGOL AND THE OBVIOUS FACT THAT THE KADJAR DYNASTY (NASIR ED DIN SHAH'S LINE) WAS LARGELY TURKISH. IN FACT, THE LANGUAGE OF THE COURT AT THE TIME WAS TURKISH."

DE GOBINEAU, FITTING TOGETHER HIS TOO EAGER HYPOTHESIS, FIGURED THAT FRANCE HAD DEGENERATED BECAUSE OF HER MIXED POPULATION.

HIS REASONING LATER FORMED THE BACKBONE OF HIS MOST CHARACTERISTIC WRITTEN WORK, "ESSAI SUR L'INEGALITE DES RACES HUMAINES."

HE FOUND THE RACES OF MANKIND "INNATELY UNEQUAL IN TALENT." FOR HIS SUCCESSORS IT WAS AN EASY STEP TO THE CONCLUSION THAT THERE SHOULD BE A MASTER PEOPLE UNDER WHOM ALL OTHER PEOPLES SHOULD BE RANKED.

JUN - 6 1943

"FRANCE WAS NOT ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT DE GOBINEAU'S IDEAS," CAPTAIN WRIGHT WENT ON. "BUT IN GERMANY THEY WERE ENTHUSIASTICALLY ACCEPTED. DE GOBINEAU SOCIETIES GREW UP. THE PHILOSOPHER NIETZSCHE WAS CONVERTED AND FOUND IN THE THEORY THE FOUNDATION FOR HIS SUPER MAN IDEAS. THE SUPER MAN WAS THE ARYAN MAN. ALL OTHERS SHOULD BE SLAVES TO THIS SUPPOSEDLY HEORIC RACIAL BEING.

"ANOTHER IMPORTANT CONVERT WAS THE COMPOSER WILHELM RICHARD WAGNER. ENAMORED OF DE GOBINEAU'S IDEOLOGY, HE BECAME A STUDENT OF THE MASTER AND EVEN MARRIED DE GOBINEAU'S DAUGHTER. SO WHILE NIETZSCHE STUDIED ZOROASTER, WAGNER WROTE OPERAS OF THE GERMAN GODS--THE ARYAN GODS--THE EXPRESSION OF THE SOUL OF A PURER RACIAL ANCESTRY.

JUN - 6 1943

"THIS COMPLETED TWO STAGES OF METAMORPHOSIS FOR THE ARYAN MYTH--THE HISTORICAL-PHILOSOPHICAL (DE GOBINEAU AND NIETZSCHE) AND THE ARTISTIC (WAGNER). AFTER SEEING GERMANY RISE TO NEAR-GREATNESS IN 1914-18 AND THEN COLLAPSE, ADOLF HITLER BEGAN TO WORSHIP WAGNER AND COMPLETED THE CYCLE BY GIVING THE THEORY A POLITICAL AND MILITARY BASE."

JUN - 6 1943

WHILE WRIGHT ORDERED THE DESERT, I STUDIED THE FACES OF THE OTHER DINERS.

ONE LOOKED IN VAIN FOR ANY SIGN OF "INNATE" SUPERIORITY. MOST WERE IRANIANS, A HARDY COURAGEOUS PEOPLE WHO ARE PROUD OF THEIR LONG HISTORY OF CULTURE, YET A PEOPLE AS MIXED IN BLOOD AND HERITAGE AS ANY OTHER WHICH HAS BEEN CAUGHT IN THE TIDES OF CONQUEST.

THE PIANO, VIOLIN, DRUM AND ACCORDION TOOK UP "OH JOHNNY, OH JOHNNY, HOW YOU CAN LOVE.." AND A HUSKY YORKSHIREMAN TAPPED WITH HIS HEAVY BOOTED FOOT. POLES RUBED SHOULDERS WITH THEIR RUSSIAN, BRITISH AND AMERICAN ALLIES. THE SCENE DEFIED ANY CHOICE OF AN INHERENTLY SUPERIOR RACE.

BUT ONE COULD ALMOST SEE BEYOND THE ORNATE WALLS OF THIS FORMER PALACE.

JUN - 6 1943

SOMEWHERE ON AN ALLIED TRANSPORT ROUTE THROUGH IRAN TO RUSSIA A JEWISH TRUCKDRIVER FROM THE BRONX WOULD BE DOG-TIRED AT THE WHEEL OF HIS BIG "FOUR-BY-SIX" BUT STILL HIGH-HALLING; SOMEWHERE ELSE A SWEDISH ENGINEER FROM MIDDLE WEST AMERICA WOULD BE FRETTING LATE OVER THE BLUEPRINT OF ANOTHER AMERICAN ARMY INSTALLATION IN IRAN; AN ITALIAN LAD FROM MULBERRY STREET WOULD BE TUNING THE MAGNETO OF A PLANE CONSIGNED TO RUSSIA, AND AN AMERICAN NEGRO MESS SERGEANT WOULD BE PLANNING THE NEXT DAY'S MEALS.

ONE COULD SEE MEN --- AND WOMEN --- OF EVERY CONCEIVABLE PHYSICAL HERITAGE CONTRIBUTING TO A COMMON CAUSE, THE PROSECUTION OF A WAR WHICH WOULD PROVE THAT NO PEOPLE HAS THE "INNATE" RIGHT TO SET ITSELF OVER OTHERS.

THE LANGGOER AIRDROME AND THE VILLAGE ITSELF WERE ATTACKED BY MEDIUM BOMBERS WHICH STARTED FIRES. THE TWO-ENGINED PLANES ALSO BOMBED AND STRAFED DOBO, SETTING FIRES WHICH COULD BE SEEN 40 MILES AWAY. A COASTAL VESSEL IN THE VICINITY TOOK A DIRECT HIT.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, JUNE 5-(AP)-MASTERS AND VIRTUAL MONOPOLISTS OF THE NEW GUINEA SKIES, BIG BOMBERS OF LIEUT. GENERAL GEORGE C. KENNEY ARE PUTTING ON THE MOST IMPRESSIVE SHOW OF CONCENTRATED AIR ASSAULT YET UNLEASHED IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC.

WHEN LIBERATORS AND FLYING FORTRESSES DUMPED 18 TONS OF BOMBS YESTERDAY ON AIRDROMES IN THE VICINITY OF WEWAK, NEW GUINEA, THEY INCREASED TO 174 TONS THE WEIGHT OF BOMBS DROPPED IN SEVEN RECENT RAIDS, MADE ON THAT ENEMY BASE AND ONE AT LAE. YET NOT A SINGLE JAPANESE PLANE HAS TAKEN THE AIR TO OPPOSE DELIVERY OF SUCH BATTERING RAM BLOWS.

JUN - 6 1943

THE ONLY OPPOSITION HAS BEEN SUPPLIED BY ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE AND THERE ARE SIGNS THAT EVEN IT IS WANING. WHEREAS IN OTHER RAIDS, THE ACK ACK WAS DESCRIBED AS INTENSE, TODAY'S COMMUNIQUE SAID THAT YESTERDAY OVER WEWAK IT WAS "SPORADIC" AND ALL THE RAIDERS GOT SAFELY HOME.

THEIR BOMBS SET OFF EXPLOSIONS, BELIEVED TO BE FROM AMMUNITION AND FUEL DUMPS. FIRES OBSERVED ON THE AIRFIELDS OF DAGUA, BORAM AND WEWAK APPEARED TO BE BURNING PLANES.

THE COMMUNIQUE CONTAINED A DELAYED REPORT OF A RAID JUNE 3 BY CATALINAS ON THE AIRDROME AND SEAPLANE BASE OF BABO, DUTCH NEW GUINEA, IN WHICH BOMBS STARTED ONE FUEL FIRE SO INTENSE THAT IT LIGHTED UP THE RAIDING PLANES AT HEIGHT OF 9,000 FEET AND COULD BE SEEN FOR 40 MILES AWAY.

JUN - 6 1943

SMALL SCALE RAIDS ALSO WERE REPORTED ON TIMOR AND THE JAPANESE FLOAT PLANE BASE OF TABERFANE IN THE AROES IN WHICH ONE OF NINE INTERCEPTING FLOATPLANES WAS DESTROYED AND TWO DAMAGED.

FOLO BUENOS AIRES

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS JUN - 6 1943

MONTEVIDEO, JUNE 5--URUGUAYAN OFFICIALS INTERESTED IN MUSTERING A STRONG PAN-AMERICAN FRONT AGAINST THE AXIS EXPRESSED SURPRISE AND DISAPPOINTMENT TONIGHT AT THE PERSONNEL OF GEN. ARTURO RAWSON'S NEW MILITARY REGIME IN ARGENTINA.

BECAUSE OF ITS ALMOST COMPLETE MILITARY CHARACTER AND THE FACT THAT SEVERAL OF THE NEW MINISTERS ARE KNOWN AS EXTREME RIGHTISTS, THESE SOURCES SAID THEIR OWN EARLIER HOPES THAT ARGENTINA FINALLY WOULD BE RUSED BY A DEMOCRATIC REGIME HAD BEEN EXPLODED.

ONE IMPORTANT OFFICIAL OF THE URUGUAYAN GOVERNMENT EXCLAIMED "OH! THIS COLD SHOWER UPON OUR HOPES," WHEN HE WAS TOLD THAT ONLY TWO CIVILIANS--ONE OF THEM, JOSE MARIA ROSA, KNOWN AS AN ANTI-LIBERAL--WERE INCLUDED IN THE NEW CABINET. JUN - 6 1943

A QUICK CANVASS OF THE DIPLOMATIC CORPS REVEALED SIMILAR DISAPPOINTMENT AS THE IMMEDIATE REACTION TO THE BUENOS AIRES ANNOUNCEMENT. NO GOVERNMENT DIPLOMATIC OFFICIAL WANTED TO BE QUOTED BUT THE GENERAL CONSENSUS WAS THAT THE ACTUAL CONSTITUTION OF THE ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT TENDED TO UNDO THE FIRST HOPEFUL EXPECTATIONS AROUSED BY THE OVERTHROW OF RAMON CASTILLO'S ISOLATIONIST GROUP.

30.24-4723

THERE WERE A FEW, HOWEVER, WHO TEMPERED THEIR CRITICISM, SAYING THAT IT WAS STILL TOO EARLY TO MAKE ANY PREDICTION ON THE NEW REGIME'S PLANS FOR THE FUTURE. THEY EVEN SAW THE POSSIBILITY THAT THE GOVERNMENT MIGHT PERMIT THE HOLDING OF THE ELECTION WHICH WAS SCHEDULED FOR SEPTEMBER.

OTHER SOURCES SUGGESTED THAT WHILE THE NEW GOVERNMENT MIGHT CARRY A RIGHTIST TINGE INSOFAR AS ITS INTERNAL POLICIES WERE CONCERNED, THERE WAS REASON TO HOPE THAT IT MIGHT ADOPT A PRO-ALLIED STAND IN INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS.

JUN - 6 1943

THIS LATER HOPE WAS BASED APPARENTLY ON THE ORIGINAL PROCLAMATION ISSUED YESTERDAY IN WHICH RAWSON ANNOUNCED THAT THE REVOLUTIONARY GOVERNMENT WOULD ABIDE BY INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS AND WOULD PERFECT HER PART IN AMERICAN SOLIDARITY.

THE HOPE THAT THE GOVERNMENT HAD TAKEN A TRUE-ANTI-AXIS LINE BLOSSOMED YESTERDAY WITH THE ANNOUNCEMENT IN BUENOS AIRES THAT FORMER GOVERNOR MANUEL FRESCO OF BUENOS AIRES PROVINCE, LEADER OF THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT AND A NAZI SYMPATHIZER, HAD BEEN ARRESTED.

BUT TODAY IT WAS LEARNED THAT FRESCO WAS RELEASED YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

THE FEAR THAT A NATIONALIST BLIC WAS INCLUDED IN THE NEW CABINET WAS EXPRESSED WHEN IT BECAME KNOWN THAT ROSA AND HORACE CALDERON--BOTH OF WHOM ARE KNOWN TO HAVE NAZI TENDICIES--HAD BEEN GIVEN THE FINANCE AND JUSTICE, AND PUBLIC EDUCATION PORTFOLIOS.

LIBERAL CIRCLES HERE DID NOT ATTEMPT TO DISGUISE THE PAINFUL IMPRESSION CREATED BY THE ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE COMPLETE CABINET. AND SOCIALISTS IN BUENOS AIRES WERE FRANK IN THEIR CONDEMNATION. THE OFFICIAL SOCIALIST NEWSPAPER, LA VANGUARDIA, WAS FORBIDDEN TO BE CIRCULATED IN THE ARGENTINE CAPITAL TODAY.

ON THE OTHER HAND, IF LIBERAL SENTIMENT BRANDED THE CABINET AS RIGHTIST AND ULTRA CONSERVATIVE, IT BROUGHT NO CHEER TO THE CONSERVATIVES EITHER. ALTHOUGH THE MAIN LEADERS OF THE CONSERVATIVE GROUPS WERE NOT AVAILABLE FOR COMMENT, THEIR LIEUTENANTS WERE STRONG IN THEIR CONDEMNATION.

JUN - 6 1943

SEVERAL OF THE MILITARY MEMBERS OF THE CABINET HAVE NOT BEEN ACTIVE POLITICALLY, AND THEIR AFFILIATIONS AND POLICIES ARE NOT KNOWN. OTHERS, INCLUDING ADMIRAL SEGUNDO STORNI, ARE GENERALLY BELIEVED TO BE THE LEAST EXTREME OF THE RIGHTISTS. ROSA, WHO WAS FINANCE MINISTER UNDER GENERAL JOSE URIBURO, IS THE OWNER OF THE PRINTING PLANT WHERE EL PAMPERO, PRO-AXIS NEWSPAPER, IS PUBLISHED. CALDERON, WHO HAS BEEN ABSENT FROM POLITICS FOR A LENGTHY PERIOD, WAS A CABINET MINISTER UNDER THE CONSERVATIVE PRESIDENT, VICTORINO DE LA PLAZA NEARLY 30 YEARS AGO.

GENERAL DOMINGO MARTINEZ, FOREIGN MINISTER IN THE NEW CABINET AND FORMER CHIEF OF POLICE UNDER CASTILLO, IS ALSO CONSIDERED TO BE A RIGHTIST.

JUN - 6 1943

CHAMPIONS OF A DEMOCRATIC RULE COULD FIND NO HOPE IN ONE OF THE EARLY MEASURES REPORTED PUSHED THROUGH BY THE NEW CABINET WHICH CURBED ACTIVITIES BY POLITICAL PARTIES, RULING THAT NOT MORE THAN THREE PERSONS WOULD BE ALLOWED TO MEET INSIDE THE HEADQUARTERS OF EACH PARTY WITH THE EXCEPTION OF PAID EMPLOYEES.

THE MOST MARKED POLITICAL ABOUT-FACE DURING THE DAY WAS THAT OF THE UNION CIVICA RADICALS, SEVERAL OF WHOM HAD BOASTED YESTERDAY

JUN - 6 1943

JUN - 6 194

THAT THEY HAD BEEN IN CONTACT WITH THE REVOLUTIONARY LEADERS. TONIGHT'S DEVELOPMENTS LEFT THEM SO CHAGRINNED THAT IT RESULTED IN THE DEFERMENT--AND POSSIBLE CANCELLATION--OF PLANS FOR A COURTESY CALL RADICAL CONGRESSMEN INTENDED TO MAKE UPON THE NEW CABINET.

(ENDS NOTE:--THE SECOND GRAPH A119 MAKE READ "WOULD BE RULED" NOT "RUSED" AS SENT.)

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO, JUNE 5-(AP)-FEDERAL JUDGE ROBERT COOPER TODAY DISMISSED THE PUERTO RICO POWER AND LIGHT COMPANY'S ALLEGATION OF BAD FAITH AGAINST GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS IN A MOTION CONTESTING THE FEDERAL WORKS AGENCY'S EXPROPRIATION LAST YEAR OF THE UTILITY PROPERTY.

THE UTILITY HAD ALLEGED THAT MAJ.GEN.PHILIP B.FLEMING, FEDERAL WORKS ADMINISTRATOR, AND OTHERS HAD USED A SUBTERFUGE IN TAKING THE PROPERTY OVER UNDER THE PRESIDENTIAL WAR POWERS ACT. JUDGE COOPER DECLARED HIMSELF "CONVINCED THE TESTIMONY DOESN'T SUPPORT THE ALLEGATION OF BAD FAITH ON THE PART OF UNITED STATES OFFICIALS."

JOSEPH MCPHERSON, SPECIAL ASSISTANT TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL, URGED FURTHER TESTIMONY TO VINDICATE THE GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS, BUT THE COURT HELD THIS WAS USELESS AND NEEDLESS IN VIEW OF THE UTILITY'S LACK OF SUFFICIENT EVIDENCE AND CONSEQUENT DISMISSAL OF THE ALLEGATION.

THE UTILITY'S MOTION CHALLENGING CONSTITUTIONALITY AND APPLICABILITY OF THE WAR POWERS ACT STILL IS BEFORE THE COURT. IF THIS IS OVERRULED, ATTORNEYS WILL BEGIN TESTIMONY ON VALUATION OF THE PROPERTY.

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO, JUNE 5-(AP)-HEARINGS IN THE BELL CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE INVESTIGATION OF PUERTO RICAN AFFAIRS WERE RECESSED TODAY UNTIL NEXT WEEK.

SENATE PRESIDENT LUIS MUNOZ MARIN TOLD THE COMMITTEE YESTERDAY THE ISLAND WOULD ABANDON GOVERNMENT EXPERIMENTS TO BUILD UP INDUSTRY IF THEY PROVED FAILURES.

THE LEADER OF THE POPULARES PARTY SAID IT WAS TO BE EXPECTED SOME VENTURES WOULD NOT BE TOTALLY SUCCESSFUL AT THE BEGINNING.

REP. FRED L. CRAWFORD (R-MICH) ASKED MUNOZ MARIN IF HE THOUGHT THE DEVELOPMENT BANK COULD BE INCLUDED WITHIN THE CATEGORY OF POSSIBLE FAILURES.

JUN -6 1943

"SIR," REPLIED MUNOZ MARIN," THE WORLD IS IN THAT CATEGORY."

HAVANA, JUNE 5-(AP)-THE NAVY ANNOUNCED TONIGHT THAT THE GOVERNMENT HAD TAKEN CONTROL OF ALL PLEASURE CRAFT IN CUBA TO FORM A COAST GUARD.

DIVIDED INTO FLOTILLAS OF 10 VESSELS EACH, THE CRAFT WILL PATROL CUBA'S LONG COASTLINE AND ENGAGE IN RESCUE WORK.

TORONTO, JUNE 5-(AP)-THE FINANCIAL POST SAID TODAY THAT WITH THE LIFTING OF RESTRICTIONS ON USE OF ELECTRIC POWER BY THE NEWSPRINT INDUSTRY IN QUEBEC PROVINCE, "CANADA'S PRESENT RATE OF NEWSPRINT PRODUCTION CAN BE MAINTAINED UNTIL THE END OF 1943, BUT ONLY AT THE COST OF EATING INTO INVENTORIES."

THE PUBLICATION SAID IN A MONTREAL DISPATCH BY JOHN E.LANGDON, ITS EASTERN EDITOR:

"THE ONLY WAY IN WHICH THERE COULD POSSIBLY BE ANY INCREASE IN THE SUPPLY OF PAPER DURING THE MONTHS AHEAD IS FOR THE INDUSTRY TO REDUCE THE AMOUNT OF PULP WHICH IT HAS AGREED TO DELIVER TO THE UNITED KINGDOM AND THE UNITED STATES."

THE LITTORIO, VITTORIO VENETO AND ROMA ARE THREE PROUD MAINSTAYS OF MUSSOLINI'S BATTLE FLEET, BUT TWO--THE LITTORIO AND THE VITTORIO VENETO--HAVE BEEN CRIPPLED DUCKS FOR MUCH OF THE WAR.

AMERICAN LIBERATOR BOMBERS SCORED NUMEROUS DIRECT HITS ON THE 35,000-TON LITTORIO AND THE 25,000-TON CONTE DI CAVOUR IN AN ATTACK IN THE MEDITERRANEAN LAST JUNE 15. THE LIBERATORS ATTACKED AN ITALIAN FLEET APPARENTLY ENROUTE TO SLASH AT A BRITISH CONVOY.

THE LITTORIO HAD BEEN KNOCKED OUT OF ACTION, PERHAPS FOR 18 MONTHS, BY THE FIERCE RAF TORPEDO ATTACK AT THE NAVAL BASE OF TARANTO THE NIGHT OF NOV. 11-12, 1940.

AN AXIS BROADCAST LAST AUGUST SAID THAT THREE BATTLESHIPS WERE DAMAGED AT TARANTO, AND "TWO OF THESE BATTLESHIPS WERE IN SERVICE AGAIN AFTER FOUR MONTHS AND THE THIRD ONE AFTER 18 MONTHS, ALTHOUGH THE LITTORIO WAS HIT BY TWO TORPEDOES." THE BROADCAST IMPLIED IT WAS THE LITTORIO THAT TOOK 18 MONTHS TO REPAIR.

THE VITTORIO VENETO WAS HEAVILY DAMAGED IN THE BATTLE OF MATAPAN IN MARCH, 1941, WHEN THE BRITISH SMASHED FIVE AND POSSIBLY EIGHT ITALIAN WARSHIPS, WITHOUT A SINGLE BRITISH SHIP BEING HIT.

IN JULY, 1941, THE VITTORIO VENETO WAS REPORTED UNDERGOING REPAIRS IN AN ITALIAN NAVAL BASE.

JUN -6 1943

THERE ARE FOUR BATTLESHIPS OF THE LITTORIO CLASS, THE FOURTH BEING THE IMPERO, WHICH BY NOW MAY HAVE BEEN COMPLETED AND PUT IN SERVICE.

THE ROMA WAS COMPLETED ONLY LAST YEAR, THE LITTORIO ON MAY 1, 1940, AND THE VITTORIO VENETO ON APRIL 30, 1940.

ALL THESE SHIPS ARE OF 35,000-TONS, 775 FEET LONG, WITH A NORMAL COMPLEMENT OF 1,600 MEN. THEY ARE ARMED WITH NINE 15-INCH GUNS, TWELVE 6-INCH GUNS, AND TWELVE 3.5 INCH ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS, AND CARRY THREE AIRPLANES. EACH HAS TWO CATAPULTS.

THIS REVOLUTION, LIKE SO MANY OF THE INTRIGUING SOUTH AMERICAN

UPHEAVALS, CONCEALS MORE THAN IT REVEALS TO THE OUTSIDE WORLD. THERE ARE MANY POINTS WHICH AREN'T YET CLEAR AND WE SHOULDN'T JUMP TO CONCLUSIONS.

JUN -6 1943

HOWEVER, ONE REMARKS CAUTIOUSLY THAT THE REVOLUTIONARY GOVERNMENT APPEARS TO BE HEADED BY SOLID CITIZENS WHO ARE TRYING TO ESCAPE FROM WHAT THEY CHARGE HAS BEEN A REACTIONARY ATTITUDE ON THE PART OF PRESIDENT RAMON S.CASTILLO NOT ONLY TOWARDS FOREIGN RELATIONS BUT DOMESTIC AFFAIRS. IT'S NO SECRET, OF COURSE, THAT HIS INSISTENCE ON MAINTAINING DIPLOMATIC TIES WITH THE AXIS--LAST OF THE AMERICAS IN THIS CATEGORY--HAS MADE OTHER PAN-AMERICAN GOVERNMENTS REGARD HIM COLDLY.

UNDOUBTEDLY FOREIGN RELATIONS FIGURE HEAVILY IN THE CALCULATIONS OF THE REVOLUTIONISTS. THEY APPEAR TO FEEL THAT THEIR COUNTRY HAS BEEN PLAYING AN ISOLATIONIST ROLE TO HER OWN DISADVANTAGE.

IN THIS CONNECTION I HAZARD THE GUESS THAT THE STRAW WHICH BROKE THE CAMEL'S BACK WAS THE FACT THAT THIS GREAT COUNTRY RECEIVED NO INVITATION TO THE RECENT UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE DEALING WITH POST-WAR FOOD PROBLEMS. THE BUENOS AIRES NEWSPAPER CRITICA ON MAY 17 WAS OUTSPOKEN IN CONDEMNING ARGENTINA'S ABSENCE FROM THIS VITAL DISCUSSION.

JUN -6 1943

APART FROM THE QUESTION OF PRINCIPLE, INVOLVING ARGENTINA'S STAND IN THE WAR, HER FINANCIAL AND TRADE INTERESTS HAVE BEEN INVOLVED HEAVILY. ALSO, BECAUSE OF HER "NEUTRALITY" STAND SHE HASN'T BEEN ELIGIBLE FOR LEASE-LEND AID, AND HAS SEEN HER NEIGHBORS IMPROVING THEIR MILITARY POSITION THROUGH THIS ASSISTANCE.

THEN THERE IS, I BELIEVE, ANOTHER IMPORTANT ASPECT OF THE REVOLT WHICH DOESN'T APPEAR ON THE SURFACE. THE REVOLUTION STRIKES ME AS BEING MARKED WITH THE "LEFTIST" SWING WHICH WE ARE SEEING IN SO MANY COUNTRIES. BY THAT I DON'T REFER TO A RADICAL MOVEMENT, BUT TO A DEFINITE TURN AWAY FROM CONTROL BY VESTED INTERESTS. CASTILLO'S OPPONENTS CLAIM THAT HIS GOVERNMENT STOOD FOR THOSE INTERESTS.

IF THE NEW GOVERNMENT BRINGS ARGENTINA INTO THE ALLIED FOLD IT WILL BE A BOON FOR THE UNITED NATIONS. EVER SINCE THE WAR STARTED THE ARGENTINE HAS BEEN A HOTBED OF AXIS SPYING.

JUN -6 1943

RAYMON LAVALLE, FORMER ARGENTINE CONSULAR-ATTACHE IN TOKYO, ANNOUNCED IN NEW YORK ON APRIL 18 THAT HE HAD RESIGNED FROM HIS COUNTRY'S FOREIGN SERVICE IN PROTEST AGAINST ITS NEUTRALITY. HE DECLARED "THE ARGENTINE HAS BEEN THE EYES AND EARS OF THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT IN THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE."

MOREOVER, GERMANY AND ITALY CUSHIONED THE SHOCK OF THE WAR BLOCKADE WITH A SMALL BUT STEADY FLOW OF MONEY AND MATERIALS FROM THE ARGENTINE. GERMAN CONTROLLED FIRMS IN THE ARGENTINE TRANSMITTED TO BERLIN EVERY POSSIBLE CENT OF PROFITS THROUGH NEUTRAL POINTS. GERMANY'S NEUTRAL NEIGHBORS INCREASED MANYFOLD THEIR PURCHASES OF ARGENTINE PRODUCTS, AND NONE DISPUTED THAT MANY OF THESE GOODS WERE RELAYED TO THE AXIS COUNTRIES.

ONE RESULT OF THE REVOLUTION MAY BE TO RELEASE A FLOOD OF PENT-UP CRITICISM OF THE CASTILLO GOVERNMENT. SINCE DECEMBER 16, 1941, HE HAD RULED UNDER A STATE OF SIEGE "OF A PREVENTIVE CHARACTER", WHICH FORBADE CRITICISM OF THE GOVERNMENT'S FOREIGN POLICY.

TORONTO, JUNE 5-(AP)-THE FINANCIAL POST SAID TODAY THAT WITH THE LIFTING OF RESTRICTIONS ON USE OF ELECTRIC POWER BY THE NEWSPRINT INDUSTRY IN QUEBEC PROVINCE, "CANADA'S PRESENT RATE OF NEWSPRINT PRODUCTION CAN BE MAINTAINED UNTIL THE END OF 1943, BUT ONLY AT THE COST OF EATING INTO INVENTORIES."

DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING ELECTRIC POWER SUPPLY INCLUDED AN ANNOUNCEMENT BY POWER CONTROLLER H.J. SYMINGTON THAT POWER TAKEN AWAY FROM THE PULP AND PAPER INDUSTRY WAS BEING RESTORED, BUT THE FINANCIAL POST SAID "MANUFACTURERS HAVE BEEN INFORMED THAT THIS RETURN OF POWER APPLIES TO QUEBEC MILLS ONLY."

(THIS WOULD APPEAR TO LEAVE THE BIG THOROLD, ONT., MILL OF ONTARIO PAPER CO., LTD., OWNED BY THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, THE ONLY IMPORTANT MILL IN THE DOMINION NOW CURTAILED BECAUSE OF CLAIMED ELECTRIC POWER SHORTAGE. THIS MILL HAS BEEN CUT TO ABOUT 40 PERCENT OF CAPACITY SINCE LAST AUTUMN.)

London, M June 5-(AP)-The Norwegian gobernment reported today that the Germans had ordered all Norwegian men not yet conscripted into labor services to take medical examinations in a move interpreted as a Nazi effort to strengthen the northern wall of the European defenses.

Already 10,000 Norwegians have been impressed into work on fortifications but German needs for manpower still were believed unfilled for both defense and food production work. MASSACRE BAY, ATTU ISLAND, MAY 27-(DELAYED)-(AP)-IN 17 DAYS UNDER FIRE THE AMERICANS HAVE BUILT CONSIDERABLY MORE MILES OF ROADS THAN THE JAPANESE DID IN THE PREVIOUS 11 MONTHS WHEN THEY HELD THIS ALEUTIAN ISLAND UNOPPOSED.

JUN -6 1943

OUR MACHINES HAVE CHEWED THE ATTU SOIL TO A SOUPY BARNYARD MUCK, AND THEREBY MADE POSSIBLE THE ADVANCE OF AMERICAN TROOPS CLEAR ACROSS THE ISLAND, WHERE THE JAPANESE TRIED HAND DEVELOPMENT AND FAILED.

THE SOUP BEGINS ON THE BEACH, GOES INLAND OVER HILLS, VALLEYS, RIDGES AND MOUNTAINS TO WITHIN SNIPER SHOT DISTANCE OF THE ACTUAL FIGHTING LINES. THROUGH IT GO ROADS--NOT HIGHWAYS SUCH AS IN THE STATES, BUT ROADS NEVERTHELESS--OVER WHICH SUPPLIES, FOOD, AMMUNITION, BLANKETS, AND DRY SOCKS CAN BE TAKEN BY CATERPILLARS, TRAILERS AND EVEN JEEPS.

HERE AT MASSACRE BAY THE PRINCIPAL SUPPLY ROAD USED TO BE A CLEAR LITTLE STREAM. THE STREAM STILL IS THERE, STILL RUNNING SWIFTLY, BUT IT NO LONGER IS CLEAR. TRACTORS CHURN THROUGH IT BY THE HUNDREDS, USING GRAVEL OF THE CREEK BOTTOM AS A ROADWAY.

"DRIVE SLOW," "BAD TURN AHEAD," "LOW GEAR, HILL," READ SIGNS STANDING IN WATER SIX INCHES TO A FOOT DEEP. THE ROAD TWISTS AS THE CREEK TWISTED, AND DRIVERS HAVE TO STAND UP IN TRACTORS TO SEE OVER TUNDRA BANKS OBSCURING TRAFFIC AHEAD.

JUN -6 1943

HIGHER IN THE HILLS THE ROAD LEAVES THE STREAM AND GOES RIGHT UP THROUGH THE TUNDRA. BULLDOZERS HAVE GONE AHEAD CUTTING AWAY THE TOPSOIL TO A THREE OR FOUR-FOOT DEPTH, WHERE SOMETIMES FAIRLY SOLID DIRT IS REACHED. OCCASIONALLY THIS SUB-DIRT EVEN IS DRY IN CONTRAST TO THE SQUASHY MOSS-COVERED TOP, BUT USUALLY THERE IS MUD OVER SOLID GROUND ANYWHERE FROM SIX INCHES TO THREE FEET DEEP.

PATHFINDING TRACTORS HAVE THE TOUGHEST TIME. NOT ONLY ARE THERE SNOWBANKS WHICH WILL HOLD UP ALMOST ANYTHING, AND OTHER EQUALLY INNOCENT APPEARING SNOWBANKS WHICH HIDE CAVERNS A DOZEN FEET DEEP, BUT THERE ARE BITS OF SOIL WHERE THE ONLY WAY TO LEARN WHETHER IT IS SOLID IS TO TRY GOING OVER.

CORIES LAKE, ATTU, MAY 27-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THERE IS ONE SMALL SATISFACTION TO LIFE ON ATTU, 17 DAYS AFTER ARRIVAL. ALTHOUGH THOROUGHLY SICK OF MOUNTAIN VIEWS AND THE WATER UNDERFOOT, EVERYONE HAS FOUND THE EXPERIENCE GOOD FOR BULGING WAISTLINES.

TO OPERATE ANY NORMAL DUTIES ONE MUST WALK FIVE TO 10 MILES DAILY, EVEN IF ONLY TO CLIMB FROM BED ON THE RIDGE TO THE KITCHEN IN THE VALLEY, AND BACK UP THE 500-FOOT SLOPE TO YOUR RIDGE BED AND LOOKOUT.

ARRIVING FROM THE REAR COMMAND POST, I ENCOUNTERED CAPT. EARL NELSON INVESTIGATING CRUMPLED PAPER, OVERTURNED RICE BUCKETS AND GENERAL ODDMENTS ON THE FLOOR OF WHAT HAD BEEN JAPANESE BARRACKS. CAPTAIN NELSON OF 4409 BRANSON ST., MINNEAPOLIS, NOTED CASUALLY HE NOW COMMANDED THE FRONT COMPANY IN THAT PART OF THE LINE BECAUSE ITS OTHER OFFICERS WERE CASUALTIES.

"A FEW SNIPERS ARE ALL WE HAVE NOW (AS OPPOSITION)," HE REPORTED.

JUN -6 1943

NELSON SAID THE NEXT HUT PROVIDED MUCH BETTER SOUVENIR HUNTING. LIEUT. J.K.GEDDES, 22, OF ALTADENA, CALIF., INSISTED WE GO THERE IMMEDIATELY. LIEUTENANT GEDDES, PILOTING A LIGHTNING FIGHTER, HAD BEEN SHOT DOWN THE PREVIOUS DAY IN A DOGFIGHT WITH JAPANESE BOMBERS. HE LANDED HIS DAMAGED PLANE IN THE BAY AND WAS RESCUED BY A CRUISER TYPE PLANE.

GEDDES' OXFORDS AND FLYING BOOTS WERE NOT EXACTLY SUITED TO HIKING SIX MILES THROUGH MUD. AFTER GEDDES GOT UP THERE WITH US, PUFFING SLIGHTLY, HE SAID:

FOLLOWING NELSON'S DIRECTIONS, HE GOT A LOOK AT ONE JAPANESE, VERY DEAD.

JUN -6 1943

ONLY ONE SNIPER WORKED ON THE POSITION WHILE WE WERE HUNTING. HE WAS A BAD SHOT. WE COULD HEAR HIS BULLETS WHISTLE OVERHEAD.

RETURNING TO THE ADVANCED COMMAND POST, I TRIED TO SEE A LIVE JAPANESE. USING FIELD GLASSES, I COULD SEE OUR MEN ADVANCING, MANY OF THEM, BUT NO JAPANESE. THOSE IN THE FOXHOLES USE FLASH-LESS POWDER EXCLUSIVELY. IT'S IMPOSSIBLE TO SPOT THEM BY TRACING BULLETS. OUR OWN WEAPONS UTILIZE TRACERS, WHICH GIVE AWAY OUR POSITIONS BUT MAKE FOR BETTER SHOOTING.

THE JAPANESE CAMOUFLAGE IS GOOD. THE ONLY TIME YOU ARE ABLE TO SEE MOVING JAPANESE IS WHEN THEY ARE FORCED TO RETREAT ACROSS THE SNOWFIELDS. THEN EVERYTHING IN OUR LINES OPENS UP ON THEM, EVEN ANTI-TANK GUNS.

JUN -6 1943

HUNGRY, I JOINED A CHOWLINE AT A FIELD KITCHEN 500 YARDS BEHIND OUR COMMAND POST--ALSO 500 YARDS DOWN THAT CHOWLINE. CHOW CONSISTED OF MACARONI AND CORNED BEEF STEW, JELLY AND COFFEE.

THERE WERE ABOUT 200 MEN IN THE LINE WHEN I ARRIVED. THE LINE STILL WAS THAT BIG WHEN I LEFT. I RINSED MY MESS KIT AND GOT A CANTEEN FULL FROM A STREAM, POSSIBLY SAFE AFTER ADDITION OF HALIZONE PILLS WHICH EVERYONE RECEIVED ON LANDING HERE MAY 11.

BATTLING AND MOVEMENT OF THE TWO ARMIES ACROSS THESE STREAMS LEFT THEM IN A DOUBTFUL CONDITION, ALTHOUGH SOME SALMON AND TROUT ARE STILL VISIBLE IN THEM OCCASIONALLY.

I SLEPT ON A HILL. A SNIPER WAS WORKING ON AN OUTPOST NOT FAR AWAY BUT WELL ABOVE.

I SLEPT WELL; GOT UP COLD; FOUND BREAKFAST OF COFFEE AND ONE SLICE OF CORNED BEEF, AND LOOKED FOR MORE JAPANESE THROUGH FIELD GLASSES. I STILL COULDN'T SEE ANY.

I LISTENED TO A DOCTOR TREATING A PATIENT FOR IMMERSION OF THE FEET. THE MAN HAD BEEN BROUGHT IN ON A STRETCHER, WINCING WHILE SIX LITTER BEARERS STRUGGLED. A CORPSMAN TOOK OFF ONE BOOT. THE BEARDED, RED-EYED PHYSICIAN LOOKED AT THE FOOT; TOUCHED THE ANKLE AND TOES. THEN HE LOOKED FEROCIOUSLY AT THE YOUTH AND INQUIRED, "ARE YOU AN ONLY CHILD?"

JUN -6 1943

THE BOY LOOKED ASTONISHED; THEN ADMITTED HE WAS.

THE DOCTOR ROARED AT THE CORPSMAN, "GET HIM OUT OF HERE! SHOW HIM THE PATH DOWN! DON'T CARRY HIM A DAMNED STEP! TWENTY MEN WITH FEET WORSE THAN THOSE WALKED IN HERE TODAY UNDER THEIR OWN POWER. HE MADE SIX MEN CARRY HIM."

THE ASTONISHED YOUTH PUT ON HIS BOOTS AND LIMPED OUT. THE DOCTOR LOOKED AFTER HIM AND SAID, "THAT FELLOW WAS NOT FAKING. HE REALLY THOUGHT HE COULDN'T WALK. NOW HE'S SO MAD AT ME, HE THINKS I'M SUCH A BLANKETY-BLANK, HE'S FORGOTTEN ALL ABOUT HOW BAD HIS FEET HURT."

I WENT BACK TO MY POSITION, BUT STILL COULDN'T SEE ANY MOVING JAPANESE. OUR ARTILLERY NOW WAS TEARING UP THE WHOLE MOUNTAINSIDE AHEAD OF OURADVANCING INFANTRY.

Army Airmen Hit Kiska 5 Times

JAP DESTROYER SUNK, 15 PLANES SMASHED IN RAID

Allied Airmen Set Cargo Vessel, Corvette Ablaze in Solomons.

KISKA IS POUNDED

Gun Emplacements, Buildings Hit During Five U.S. Attacks.

WASHINGTON, June 6. — (AP) Raiding Japanese shipping off enemy-held Bougainville island in the Solomons, American fliers beat off heavy fighter plane opposition, sank a destroyer and left a cargo ship and corvette blazing in the sea.

The Navy, announcing this today, said dive bombers, torpedo bombers and fighters joined in the raid and the furious air battle which developed when enemy planes flew out in an unsuccessful effort to avert the attack.

Warhawk, Corsair and Lightning fighters, together with gunners on bomber planes, accounted for at least 15 of what the Navy described as a "large force of Japanese Zero fighters." Three other enemy fighter planes were damaged. Four U. S. planes are missing.

Several Bombs Hit Warship

While the air battle raged, Dauntless dive bombers and Avenger torpedo planes struck hard at the shipping. Several of the biggest bombs carried by the planes struck on the destroyer. It "undoubtedly sank," the Navy communique reported.

Other bombs hit the cargo ship, which might have been carrying supplies to enemy bases on Bougainville, and the corvette, setting them afire. The corvette, not described, was the first craft of that type reported in action under a Japanese flag. It was assumed that it was similar to the speedy and deadly craft given that name by the United Nations, resembling a small-version destroyer.

Only a few hours before the assault on the enemy shipping, other bombers had flown out to pound Kahili again. In that raid on an enemy base near Buin on the southern tip of Bougainville island, Army Flying Fortresses were employed. Results of their attack were not reported.

JUN - 7 1943

Kiska Blasted Again

In the North Pacific, aerial raids were resumed upon Kiska, principal base established by the Japanese in the Aleutians. Liberator heavy bombers and the new Ventura medium bombers joined in five assaults there.

Bombs struck squarely in some gun emplacements while others blasted buildings erected by the enemy on Kiska. Lightning and Warhawk fighter planes accompanied the bombers, but there was no report of any enemy opposition.

The assaults on Kiska were interpreted by some observers as a renewal of an aerial drive to soften the Japanese base made vulnerable by capture of the enemy positions on Attu to the west in the Aleutians. In event it should be determined to invade Kiska and drive out the Japanese—as was done on Attu—the bombing raids would aid in weakening defenses.

BY RELMAN MORIN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 6 (AP)—Spearheaded by the largest formations of Flying Fortresses ever sent from Africa, Allied air and naval forces struck new and damaging blows yesterday at Pantelleria, Sardinia and Sicily and loosed a cascade of battleship-busting bombs on Mussolini's anti-invasion fleet in its hideaway harbor at La Spezia, headquarters announcements said today.

JUN—7 1943

TRIPLE ASSAULT

British warships poured a new weight of hot steel into the battered coastal defenses of Pantelleria at dawn Saturday in the fifth naval bombardment of that eight-mile-long, four-mile-wide stepping stone isle in seven days. Pantelleria shore guns again failed to inflict casualties or damage on the attacking force.

Following this up yesterday, Mitchells, Lightnings and Warhawks made a triple assault on that island.

The official box score of the 1400-mile round trip of the fortresses to La Spezia yesterday was not yet in.

It was the largest four-engined bomber raid ever carried out from Africa, however, and the preliminary reports showed these results: A large number of 2000-pound armor-piercing missiles scattered in the midst of three of Italy's largest battleships, huge harbor areas blasted and rent and consumed in fire, a merchant ship exploded, and a large barge sunk.

Over 100 Forts in Raid

(Well over 100 Flying Fortresses evidently participated in the bombardment. The biggest previous raids by the "Forts" based in Africa were on March 31, when about 100 of them blasted concentrations of small vessels at Cagliari in Sardinia, possibly spoiling Axis plans for an evacuation of German and Italian forces from Tunisia; on April 10 when 100 attacked La Maddalena in Sardinia, sinking the 10,000-ton cruiser Trieste and damaging the 10,000-ton Gorizia, and on May 30, when more than 100 attacked Naples.)

Dispatches from the Fortress base last night by Associated Press correspondent Harold V. Boyle, which gave the first news of the raid, said the 35,000-ton battleships Littorio, Vittorio Veneto and Roma—perhaps half the backbone of the Italian battle fleet—were damaged by hits and near misses of armor-piercing bombs, and a heavy cruiser was hit.

Southern Sardinia came in for a double attack, with Lightnings sweeping over the airdrome at Monserrato and Marauders working over shipping at Porto Ponte Di Romano, where they hit a 500-foot motor ship and other targets.

Over in a Flash

Two lightning pilots attacking Monserrato each knocked down Messerschmitt 109's as they raced in over the target. They were Lieutenant Arthur C. Franke of Cary, Ill., and Second Lieutenant William W. Whalen, 4321 Eighth street, Seattle, Wash.

Another participant in that operation, Captain George A. Rush, 3838 Harrison street, Kansas City, Mo., said, "We fooled 'em today. We came in from the sea, skipped over the hills and then headed straight for Monserrato. Just as we came over the hills we formed a company front and picked the target. I landed one right on one of the hangars. It was all over in a flash."

While one force of Lightnings was raking Monserrato, another dumped salvoes on the nearby landing field at Cape Terra. Hits were seen among approximately a dozen aircraft on the ground, as well as buildings.

The only serious fighter opposition encountered in all these operations was over Pantelleria where Messerschmitts and Focke-Wulf 190's attempted to ward off the recurring blows. They failed and lost four planes.

Smoke Blots Out Area.

The communication from Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters said only that "hits were observed in the dock area, among warships and other shipping. There were large explosions and many fires."

Airmen on the expedition said there was no doubt the harbor and ships in it took a pasting, but fire and smoke blotted out the whole area from view so quickly that accurate observation was impossible, and it has been necessary to wait for later aerial reconnaissance to establish the results.

It was the longest raid yet made from northwest Africa and Lieut. H. A. West, navigator, of Tuckahoe, N. Y., said "we could see Genoa" as the Fortresses roared over their target.

Spezia, 50 miles southeast of Genoa, came in for its first attack of the war April 18, when a destroyer was sunk, but that assault was by the RAF based in Britain.

The Italian communication, received here in a broadcast, asserted that damage was small but described the air bombardment of Pantelleria as repeated and violent.

The raid demonstrated the "blanket coverage" that Allied air power is able to extend over all Italy from north and south. Previously the Fortresses had hit Leghorn, 40 miles south of Spezia, in their farthest north blow.

Surprise Italian Defenders.

The armada apparently took the Italian defenders by surprise with their long over-water flight and only three fighters were seen to oppose the swarm of bombers. The anti-aircraft guns, too, appeared to be erratic and not up to usual strength. Although they flew without fighter escort all the Fortresses came home safely, despite an Italian claim of shooting one down.

The RAF's heavy four-engined bombers from the Middle East delivered the sole blow against Sicily, attacking the harbor at Catania Friday night.

JUN - 7 1943

Although the Axis' aerial losses at Pantelleria were known to be great and although the land installations there have been battered daily for the last few weeks, the strategic importance of the volcanic little isle is such that it continued to drain the enemy's resources in the Mediterranean area.

In the full 24 hours of operation, the Allies in northwest Africa lost only three planes to the Axis' six. The Italians declared the Allies had lost 10 planes in the forays.

Aegean Area Raided

The Desert Air Force lost an additional plane, however, in raids which took in Levkas island off the west coast of Greece and Stampalia island in the Aegean as well as Catania in Sicily.

These long-range fighters destroyed two sailing vessels in the harbor of Stampalia, Italian island in the Dodecanese group northeast of Crete, and damaged a tug and dredger off Levkas island, south of Corfu.

De Gaulle Calls A 4th Republic Goal of French

At Mass Meeting in Algiers, He Says Nation Will Free Self, Fight as Allies' Equal

DE LUCE

By The Associated Press

ALGIERS, June 6.—General Charles de Gaulle, addressing a morning mass meeting of his political adherents at a theater here today accused Marshal Henri Petain, Vichy chief of staff, of being an "evangel of decadence," and asserted that "the instinct of the French people guides them to a fourth republic."

"France does not ask to be liberated by others, even by her best friends—she does not want gifts," he said. "We intend to win liberty ourselves, with the aid of others."

Two thousand listeners, including twenty-six Communist members of the French Chamber of Deputies, soldiers of the Fighting French, several Catholic priests, red-fezzed Moslems and one Arab sheik in a flowing robe applauded De Gaulle's brief speech.

Asking the crowd to give an ovation to the French Committee of National Liberation which he has formed with General Henri Honore Giraud, De Gaulle said: "We are making this unity for the glory of the republic and the republican regime. We are fighting on to victory as the equals of our allies."

The meeting was organized by the De Gaullist "Groupe Combat," which flourished under cover at Algiers for more than three months after the Allied landings in North Africa in November.

Before De Gaulle and Giraud

reached an agreement last week, Vice-Admiral Emile Muselier, Giraud's deputy in charge of maintaining order at Algiers, had refused to permit today's meeting. Later, however, he was overruled by Giraud.

De Gaulle implied in his speech that the "Groupe Combat" would continue in existence as a political instrument of the Fighting French movement in North Africa.

Many wept when Rene Capitan, local head of the "Groupe Combat," mentioned in his introductory speech that the son of a Communist Deputy named Moquet, who was sitting on the stage with De Gaulle, had been shot by the Germans for resistance in France.

Andre Philip, one of De Gaulle's appointees to the National Liberation Committee, introduced De Gaulle to the audience as "the symbol of our spiritual restoration."

The crowd hissed and booed at every reference by the three speakers to Petain and the "traitor band" at Vichy.

Hails R. A. F. in Tunisia

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 6 (AP).—No campaign of the future will overshadow the victory won in North Africa, Prime Minister Churchill told 3,000 cheering Allied troops assembled in the ancient amphitheater at Carthage during his recent Tunisian trip, it was disclosed officially today.

This campaign makes a long step toward peace, home and honor, the Prime Minister declared.

To Allied airmen at one of the bases wrenched from the Axis Churchill commented: "Remember we had Corporal Hitler all the time to help us. This self-made and self-unmade man has added sauce to the goose you've caught, killed and eaten."

Churchill expressed an opinion that the R. A. F. not only had stemmed the tide but carried forward the British 1st and 8th Armies. But, he added jocularly, while the R. A. F. might think it did everything, the army and navy still had a part to play.

He forecast that after the war the Allies would use air power to build up a better world and not to crush small nations as Hitler did.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden spoke briefly, saying: "The first thing a Foreign Secretary must learn to do is obey the Prime Minister. I tried another method once, but it didn't work."

At this point Churchill applauded enthusiastically.

Paying tribute to the R. A. F. for winning the battle of Britain without which there would have been no good tidings now, Eden said a new chapter was about to open—not the least perhaps but no none knew that.

"You may be sure that plans laid in Washington are entirely adequate and I believe their scope will satisfy all who cry out for strong, aggressive and immediate action."

The commanding general of U. S. forces in China, India and Burma attended the recent Washington conferences of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill. He came here from London, where he talked with Lieut. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, U. S. commander in the European theater of operations. In his globe-girdling trip from and back to China, the general is talking with other United States commanders in the interest of coordinating the Allied war effort.

He expressed optimism and complete satisfaction and events within his own theater, where he is chief of staff to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek as well as American commander.

"I am certain of one thing—as time goes on, we shall have more and more reason to be proud of our great ally, China," Gen. Stilwell said.

JUN - 7 1943

He conferred here with Major Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commanding U. S. forces in the Middle East. Gen. Stilwell was accompanied by Brig. Gen. William D. Olds, chief of staff of the Tenth U. S. Air Force, and Col. Frank D. Merrill, operations officer.

The war bulletin did not offer any details of the attack. Catania has been one of the most frequently bombed Sicilian coastal cities.

Plane Booty in Tunisia Grows

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 6 (AP).—An additional seventy-five abandoned or wrecked Axis aircraft have been found in the Tunis, Bizerte and Cape Bon areas, making a total of 633 such planes discovered in northeastern Tunisia since the campaign ended, it was announced today. Most of the new discoveries were fighter planes and more than forty-five of them were German types.

MARSHALL HINTED AS INVASION HEAD

British Journal Publishes Report, Quoting High Allied Sources.

LONDON, Monday, June 7—(AP) Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. Army chief-of-staff, may lead the Allied invasion of Europe, The Daily Herald said tonight, speculating that he might transfer his staff officers to the Mediterranean or European theater of operations and remain out of the United States for the duration of the war.

The newspaper, quoting American and British military circles as the source of its information, predicted a reorganization of the Allied command preceding any sea or air invasion across the Mediterranean and went on:

"It is possible that the ultimate lineup may be Gen. George C. Marshall as supreme commander-in-chief, with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gen. Sir Harold Alexander bracketed as his immediate lieutenants. Everybody expects General Montgomery will again lead the British Eighth army.

British Would Lead in North

"It is confidently believed that an American will command any Allied offensive in the Mediterranean, while a British general might direct any invasion in northern Europe—that is, an invasion via northern or western France, Belgium, Holland, Norway or Denmark."

The Daily Express called General Marshall a "weighty addition" to the recent North African conferences headed by Prime Minister Churchill and commented that his presence was "deeply significant—more so that General Marshall should have been instructed to accompany Mr. Churchill from Washington. x x x It seems evident that their presence with Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, British chief-of-state, was to set the seal on tactical plans now being put into operation by General Eisenhower and his chiefs."

No Talk, Only Action

The newspaper said the conference was summed up in London as "putting the finishing touches to the United Nations' summer campaign. Now there will be no more talk, only action." It predicted that American troops—particularly Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army—will play a far larger role than in the past.

The Express cautioned that a Mediterranean invasion may be delayed until the Allied command is certain the Italian naval units are so damaged by bombing that they will be unable to leave port for a considerable period.

Submarines Hit 8 Axis Ships in Offshore Raids

British Craft Hug Italian Coast, Sink Six Vessels and Bombard Airfield

LONDON, June 6 (AP).—British submarines operating off the shores of Monte Carlo and into or near Italian ports on the mainland, Corsica and Sardinia, have sunk six enemy ships, severely damaged another and probably torpedoed an eighth, the Admiralty announced tonight.

JUN - 7 1943

One skipper surfaced his craft off Calvi in northern Corsica and bombarded an enemy airfield.

Ships sunk were one large and two small supply vessels, an unspecified small ship, a medium tanker and an anti-submarine naval auxiliary.

When the Calvi airfield was attacked Italian shore batteries replied ineffectively. The commander then took his craft into the Strait of Bonifacio sea, between Corsica and Sardinia, where he sank two small supply ships.

Later, the submarine found the anti-submarine naval auxiliary lying at anchor in the entrance of Augusta Harbor in Sicily and drove a torpedo into her side. This was reported "followed by a heavy explosion as the vessel blew up."

The tanker was sunk near Monte Carlo, in the Gulf of Genoa. In the same area two torpedo hits were "probably scored on a large supply ship which was proceeding under strong escort," the Admiralty said. Countermeasures prevented the submarine from observing final results, the Admiralty said.

A large supply ship was torpedoed in Catania Bay, Sicily, "and when last seen was stopped and down by the stern."

Yet another submarine "engaged in harassing the enemy's coastwise shipping torpedoed and sank a supply vessel of large size near the Gulf of Policastro in southwest Italy," the communique said. A small ship was sunk by gunfire in that area.

French coastal districts while a squadron of Nazi bombers hit a southeast coastal town with explosives and machinegun bullets.

The recent idleness of both the United States and R.A.F. heavy bombers, whose last raids were made May 29, had led to some conjecture that British-based squadrons had been transferred to the Mediterranean area, but the lack of activity was attributed officially to bad weather over the continent.

The Nazi attack on the English coastal town (Eastbourne, said the Nazi radio) was made this afternoon, with bombs falling in residential areas causing some casualties and demolishing a number of dwellings, a store and a garage.

Two minesweepers were set on fire, a locomotive derailed and five others damaged in the R.A.F.'s attacks on Axis transport.

Whirlwind bombers with Typhoon escorts found a line of minesweepers in Dover strait, the Air ministry reported, and two of them were left blazing after mast-height attacks with bombs and cannonfire.

Spitfires of a Canadian squadron hunted in pairs over northern France and, despite anti-aircraft fire thrown up by gunners aboard two trains, damaged the locomotives.

NOTHING BUT GIANT RAIDS FROM NOW ON

LONDON, Monday, June 7 (AP)—The Daily Mail said flatly today that the RAF has adopted a new bombing policy which will consist hereafter of giant raids only—with no lesser raids of the "pot-boiling" variety.

"The requisite scale may well be far ahead even of the recent sensational 2000-ton raids on the Ruhr," the newspaper said. "The actual obliteration of a large industrial centre in a single night already is a physical possibility and one at which the bomber command is aiming."

NEW U.S. AIR UNITS ARRIVE IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Monday, June 7—(AP) Another large contingent of American airmen arrived recently at a British port, trained and ready to join the great Allied air offensive to soften up Europe for an invasion, it was announced today.

The new arrivals included operational units.

The dates and numbers of newcomers to the rapidly-growing U. S. army air forces in Britain are kept secret by security regulations, but it is known that flying crews and ground personnel have been arriving at fairly regular intervals.

The latest American arrivals were welcomed by a U. S. military band which made the fliers feel at home with a round of hot jazz numbers.

Bombers themselves have been streaming across the Atlantic in large groups as the weather improved. While these usually carry their own crews, added ground personnel, bombs, ammunition and other supplies are funneled over by sea.

Tass Says Nazis Insist Italy's Navy Get Into War

Berlin Ultimatum to Il Duce Called Probable

LONDON, June 6 (AP).—Tass, the Russian official news agency, said in an Istanbul, Turkey, dispatch today that the Germans are making "insistent demands" for immediate withdrawal of the Italian Navy from Adriatic bases for effective use in Mediterranean operations. Tass added that the discussion has become so acute that a German ultimatum to Premier Benito Mussolini is regarded at Rome as probable.

German representatives at Rome were reported to be demanding that the Italian fleet "abandon its policy of expectancy, now that the menace of Europe has reached its climax." Admiral Arturo Riccardi, chief of the Italian naval staff, and other high officials were said to have joined in discussing Italian naval strategy with the Germans.

Nazi officials at Rome, the dispatch to Tass said, are talking of the "tragic consequences of the passive attitude of the Italian Navy and its consequences to Marshal Erwin Rommel's and Colonel General Jurgen von Arnim's armies in Tunisia."

PRE-ATTACK CHECK MADE BY ALLIES

Churchill's Talks in Africa Viewed by British as Invasion Preparation.

LONDON, June 6.—(AP) Prime Minister Churchill's visit to North Africa with the British and American chiefs of staff, Gen. Sir Alan Brooke and Gen. George C. Marshall, was widely viewed in the press today as a last minute check-up of plans for the next phase of European invasion, already in progress from the air.

Further evidence of German apprehension came in a Morocco radio report of new mass arrests of potential Allied helpers all along the French coast, mainly at Brest, Dieppe, Lorient and Le Havre.

A report from La Linea, Spain, opposite Gibraltar, said the harbor of the British bastion at the western tip of the Mediterranean was practically bare of shipping and virtually all Allied naval units and merchant ships had sailed. No large warships, and few freighters, were reported in the harbor.

The German radio said occupation authorities had clamped a state of emergency down again on the important Norwegian port of Bergen. The report added that the siege would not be lifted until the Bergen territory had a record of no sabotage for a month. The Germans said military guards were greatly reinforced, that hundreds of storm troopers were patrolling the streets and that 600 residents were sent to labor concentration camps. Bergen is a potential invasion point.

Most of the British press inclined to the view that the next major blow would fall upon the Italian island outposts or the Balkans. There was no general agreement whether the action might start in a few days or be delayed until bombs and shells softened the enemy still further.

Word of Caution Likely

Mr. Churchill held a series of private conversations today at 10 Downing street. His brief war report at the next sitting of Commons is not expected to tell much to friend or foe. It was a good guess that he might have a word of caution against the danger of overconfidence since the Tunisian victory.

The lull in the heavy bombing offensive extended to eight days. The last big raids were on May 29 when the R.A.F. bombed Wuppertal and the U. S. A.A.F. raided St. Nazaire and Rennes. Observers, however, attached no tactical significance to the recess, blaming weather over the continent.

The Moscow radio reported fresh fighting inside Hitler's Europe. Yugoslav guerrillas were said to have again repulsed German and Italian punitive forces in heavy fighting in Bosnia and Montenegro.

Back in Action Now With "Pappy's Hellion II"

BY LEO BRANHAM

A U. S. BOMBER STATION IN BRITAIN, June 4 (Delayed)—Ten young men went out in the American flying fortress, "Pappy's Hellion II," to take a crack at Lorient May 17, but only five came back—and these by parachute.

The bomber, badly damaged by enemy shells, fell blazing into the English Channel and half of her crew was swallowed up.

But "Papy's Hellion III" has been freshly painted on a new fortress. Survivors of its predecessor have just returned from a rest leave and, bolstered by replacements, are ready to make the Germans pay for the loss of their comrades.

"We're out for revenge," said Lieutenant Varney D. Cline, 26, of Pineville, W. Va., the pilot and a former school principal.

Danforth, Me., Man Also in Thrilling Action

BRANHAM

A U. S. BOMBER STATION IN BRITAIN, June 3 (delayed) (AP)—Captain Elzia le Doux of Eunice, La., pilot and squadron commander, told today how the fortress "Concho Clipper," piloted by Lieutenant Colonel J. (Colonel is Christian name) Russell, 23, of San Angelo, Tex., went down after a recent attack operation.

Crippled by flak, the "Concho Clipper" lagged behind tis formation and spiraled down thousands of feet with a swarm of enemy fighters on its tail, Le Doux said.

Six parachutes billowed out from the plane before Le Doux and other fliers lost sight of it.

Le Doux said he believed Russell attempted to crash land, and was convinced that if the parachutists and other crewmen escaped enemy bullets there was an excellent chance that they survived.

ROMMEL'S ELITE LAND, ENTER BRITISH CAMPS

AT A BRITISH PORT, June 6—(AP) Thousands of members of Marshal Rommel's Africa corps, who just a year ago threatened Alexandria and the Suez canal, landed in Britain today as prisoners of war.

For hours these Nazi troops, once members of Marshal Rommel's elite, marched along in groups under strong armed guards to temporary camps which had been constructed near this port.

They wore brown uniforms with big yellow patches on their backs denoting their prisoner status. The majority looked fit and seemed interested in their surroundings but were oblivious to a few spectators who saw them taken from a transport. There were no demonstrations.

752 NAZI PLANES DOWNED BY REDS

Week's Toll Boosts Total Since May 1 to 2,821; Land Fighting Slows.

LONDON, Monday, June 7—(AP) Russian pilots and gunners smashed 752 German planes from May 30 through June 5, a week of violent and massive air raids, Moscow reported early today, to make a five-week toll of 2,821 Nazi aircraft destroyed in the air and on the ground in Russia.

The 752 German planes were wrecked in the week ending Saturday against a los of but 212 Soviet aircraft, said the Russian midnight communique as recorded by the Soviet Monitor. The Germans' May losses had been put at 2,069 planes.

Ground Fighting Quiet

With ground fighting on a relatively minor scale—save for a German claim of an advance on the central sector in a six-day battle—the war on the eastern front had been waged mainly in the air, with Russian planes pounding German lines and transport, with the Nazis raiding Kursk with 500 planes and the Soviets striking at German-held Orel with 520 planes. [illegible] Russians reported 123 German planes downed in the Kursk attack.

Three hundred Germans were killed Sunday in fighting on the western front, and 200 more were destroyed in the repulse of tank and infantry counterattacks in the Sevsk area, the midnight communique reported.

German radio reports Sunday declared that the "battle of Velizh" had ended on the central front between Smolensk and Velikie Luki after six days of violent fighting, with Nazi lines "moved forward to a more favorable position."

The Russians made no mention of this area.

The German charges in the Sevsk sector, said the midnight bulletin, were intended to "win back positions lost the day before," but all were beaten back, and four German tanks were disabled.

German Company Wiped Out

Scouts on the western front killed 100 Germans in a foray into enemy lines, and brought back prisoners, it continued, and south of Balakleya on the Donets front Soviet heavy guns wiped out nearly a company of Germans and wrecked fortifications.

Twenty-two German planes were reported downed in air battles Sunday, with another five destroyed by anti-aircraft gunners, while Russian planes were credited with smashing several railway trains, sinking four self-propelled troop-carrying barges and damaging three enemy patrol vessels, as well as hitting German trucks and supply dumps.

A German broadcast said that German air attacks had destroyed two "extremely important railway bridges" across the Volkhov Sunday night to break up Russian supply lines on the Leningrad front. It reported seventeen Soviet airplanes were shot down by German escorts, without loss.

Spain Frees 3,347 Prisoners

MADRID, Spain, June 6 (AP)—The Spanish Government released 3,347 political prisoners conditionally today. These were part of a group of 6,954 political prisoners whose freedom was approved by the Franco Cabinet on May 27.

Incendiaries in Balloons Start Fires in Sweden

Origin of Bombs Unknown; Some Land in Denmark

STOCKHOLM, June 6 (AP).—Balloons carrying incendiary bombs floated over southern Sweden early today and started fires at various points.

A machine shop was set afire at Varnamo, where ten of the flask-shaped incendiaries were found. The bombs contained a liquid which burst into flame upon touching the ground. Authorities are investigating to ascertain the origin of the bombs.

Swedes to Leave Rome, Fearing Allied Bombings

Colony Decides to Remove Families; Diplomats to Stay

STOCKHOLM, June 6 (AP).—The Rome correspondent of the newspaper "Dagens Nyheter" reported tonight that Swedes in the Italian capital had decided to remove their families, apparently fearing Allied bombings of Rome.

The decision was made as the Swedish colony in Rome met today to celebrate Sweden's flag day, the correspondent said. Since the evacuation is to start immediately, the colony also observed the 85th birthday of King Gustav V of Sweden, which is June 16.

The Swedish diplomatic staff, headed by the Minister, Joen Lagerberg, will remain in Rome, the dispatch said. It gave no indication as to how many persons are involved in the decision to leave and a Foreign Ministry spokesman here said he could not immediately estimate the number.

ENEMY RETREAT IS BLOCKED BY CHINESE TROOPS

Mopping-Up Operations Intensified on Yangtze; Planes Bomb Japs.

CHUNGKING, June 6 — (AP) Counter-attacking Chinese troops have cut off the retreat of several Japanese units on the Yangtze river front of central China and are intensifying their mopping-up operations, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

Enemy troops remaining in the outskirts of Itu, Yangtze river port about 18 miles below Ichang, which the Chinese entered Thursday, were bombed yesterday by Chinese airmen who forced the Japanese to flee in several groups, the communique said.

Chinese forces driving on Owchihkow, about 60 miles southeast of Itu, were reported to have retaken a number of points outside the town.

Jap Crossing Thwarted

The war bulletin disclosed that a Japanese attempt to cross a new channel of the flooded Yellow river near Chuhsienchan, 35 miles southeast of Chengchow in eastern Honan province, was repulsed. The Chinese counter-attacked, inflicting considerable losses, and forcing them to retreat toward Chinchengcui.

Japanese planes crossed the provincial border this afternoon and headed toward Chungking, causing an air raid alarm in the capital, but the raiders turned northward and attacked Liangshan, 110 miles northeast of here.

Other Japanese planes attacked Enshih, provisional capital of Hupeh province. The Central Chinese News agency said Chinese airmen shot down two Japanese planes at Enshih and two others at Liangshan, in eastern Szechwan province. All four wrecked planes were found with the members of their crews dead, the news agency said.

Jap Reinforcements Attacked

Japanese positions at Chaoshih, north of the Yangtze river in central Hupeh province, were attacked by the Chinese yesterday and the communique said losses were inflicted on the enemy. Japanese reinforcements headed toward Chaoshih also were attacked and suffered heavy casualties.

In a Chinese counter-attack on Tuachwochan, south of Linchwan in southeastern Shansi province, several Japanese-held points were said to have been retaken as the enemy retreated northward.

ALLIED FLIERS LASH JAPANESE IN BURMA

NEW DELHI, June 6—(AP) American and British planes flew through breaks in the monsoon to harass Japanese invaders of Burma, and patrols on the Arakan front were active in the Maungdaw-Buthedaung area near the Indian frontier, communiques said today.

Medium American bombers hit warehouses and rail facilities at Alon in upper Burma, which the monsoon by-passes. The British attacked a ferry and warehouses at Buthedaung and damaged bridges, a river craft and steamer in the drenched Mayu peninsula. Some grounded Japanese planes were damaged at the Kanguang airfield. Neither American nor British forces lost a plane.

A British patrol near Maungdaw killed five Japanese and wounded many others without loss, the British communique said.

Excellent Hospital Care Provided For Wounded U. S. Troops in India

By THOBURN WIANT

SOMEWHERE IN INDIA, June 5—(Delayed)—(AP) Two bomber crewmen who had amazing escapes from death were among 13 American patients flown 1,300 miles in a special plane to a general hospital in this port town on the Arabian sea today.

I made the trip because I wanted to see how injured and ill Americans are being treated. They are almost as well off as they would be back home.

Lieut. George Wood, 30, of St. Petersburg, Fla., who was in charge of the patients, said none was in grave condition but that they were brought here to be given the best possible treatment available.

The patients, including five stretcher cases, left an advance hospital two hours after dawn and arrived here before nightfall, little the worse for wear. The trip by train would have required several days.

Our pilot, Lieut. Robert Beck, 22, of Long Beach, Ind., made the flight in two hops, stopping at noon to gas up and eat.

The two combat crewmen who had close shaves were Sergeants William Harbes, 25, of Johnson City, Tenn., engineer-gunner, and James McAuliffe, 26, of Boston, radio-gunner.

A few weeks ago their medium bomber caught fire on a takeoff and crashed. Five bombs exploded, killing three other crewmen. Sergeant Harbes suffered hip and head injuries. Gunner McAuliffe had a compound fracture of the right ankle. The bombardier, who also got out alive, already is back on the job.

Gunner McAuliffe said the explosion picked up one of the plane's motors and dropped it only five feet from him. "It's still hard for me to realize I'm still alive," he said.

Japanese Dive-Bombers In Fruitless Raid on Wau

Allied Planes Blast Koepang, Down 3 of 8 Zeros

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, June 7 (Monday) (AP).—Sixteen Japanese dive-bombers and four fighters raided Wau, New Guinea, on Sunday, but inflicted slight damage, an Allied communique announced today.

Allied four-engined bombers struck at Koepang in Timor and shot down three of eight Zeros which attempted interception.

"Our heavy units bombed the town (of Koepang) and Penfoei airdrome, causing fires and explosions in the barracks area and along the waterfront," the communique said.

The last Japanese raid on Wau, Allied base thirty-five miles southwest of Salamaua, was on May 17. The enemy sent forty-three raiding planes that day, but they also failed to inflict major damage.

ALLIED BASE AT WAU RAIDED BY JAPANESE

16 Dive-Bombers Do Little Damage—Liberators Hit Timor

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Monday June 7 (AP)—The Japanese dive-bombed the Allied mountain base at Wau, high n the mountains overlooking the Japanese coastal holdings in the Lae-Salamaua area, with sixteen planes yesterday, but inflicted no appreciable damage. There were no casualties.

Four fighters accompanied the dive-bombers in the eleventh raid against Wau. Anti-aircraft fire caught one enemy plane and it was last seen smoking and falling rapidly.

There was no ground activity in the Mubo area, twelve miles south of Salamaua.

A formation of four-engined Liberators raided Japanese positions in Kupang, Timor and the barracks area at the Penfui airdrome near by. A number of fires and explosions were seen among the barracks and along the waterfront.

After having left the target, which was heavily defended by anti-aircraft fire, the Liberators were intercepted by eight Japanese fighters. Three Zeros were shot down and all the Liberators returned to their base.

Tropical storms, which have been limiting recent offensive measures by air, again probably prevented other air activity throughout the Southwest Pacific area.

DOVER MAN DRIVES OFF 3 JAP SUBS

JUN - 7 1943

Tells of Unique Shore Artillery Duel on Tulagi

(The following story, written by Sergeant John W. Black, Clinehurst, R. F. D., Penns Grove, N. J., marine corps combat correspondent, was distributed by the Associated Press.)

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, May 29 (Delayed)—How his field artillery unit forced the withdrawal of three Japanese submarines which were shelling Tulagi is told by Major Ernest P. Foley, Centre street, Dover, Mass., holder of the Silver Star medal for gallantry.

WATCHFUL WAITING

"There wasn't much for our artillery to do on Tulagi," 28-year-old Major Foley related. "We placed our guns in advantageous positions and adopted a policy of watchful waiting. We were ready for any attempt the Japs might make.

"One afternoon a Jap sub surfaced close to shore, but our gunners plunked a couple of shells alongside his pig boat and he crash dived in a hurry. But the next morning he came back with two more submarines as reinforcements. They laid off shore, almost out of range, and began shelling us with their deck guns. Our boys elevated their guns to maximum range and let go. After we blew the gun crew off one, the three subs gave up."

Just a few weeks after his initial brush with the enemy, Major Foley was transferred to Guadalcanal, where he earned his citation by risking his life repeatedly to maintain artillery supporting fire for the hard-pressed infantry units.

Continuous Shelling

Six hours of continuous shelling by the Japs shattered communication links between the forward observation post and his own batteries. Accompanied by Corporal James R. McCarthy, Jr., 399 Pearl street, Waterbury, Conn., Major Foley made several trips between the observation post and the command post, despite heavy enemy fire, to bring back accurate information.

Major Foley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Foley, Dover, Mass., graduated from Dover High School in 1932 and from Tufts College, Medford, Mass., in 1936. After leaving college, he was employed by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad as an electrical engineer until called to active duty by the marine corps, Feb. 24, 1941, with the rank of first lieutenant.

AMERICAN ENGINEER LOST

R. W. Parkhurst Missing 3 Weeks on Trip in Australia

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 5 (Delayed) (AP)—R. W. Parkhurst, American bitumen engineer attached to the Allied Works Council directorate, was reported missing today. The plane in which he was making an inspection tour was three weeks overdue and was presumed lost.

A graduate of Cornell University, Mr. Parkhurst served in the United States Army Engineer Corps in France during the First World War. He later became affiliated with the Trinidad Asphalt Company of London and had represented that firm in Australia and New Zealand since 1925.

PACIFIC AIR POWER WILL BE INCREASED

JUN - 7 1943

Substantial Boost Assured, Australian Leader Declares.

SYDNEY, Australia, June 6—(AP) Prime Minister John Curtin said today Allied air strength in the southwest Pacific "is to be considerably increased in the near future" as a result of representations to Washington by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and the Australian government.

Addressing the New South Wales Labor party conference, Mr. Curtin said that the U. S. squadrons in this theater already slightly outnumbered those of the Royal Australian Air Force.

The prime minister said his foreign minister, H. V. Evatt, negotiated in Washington for increased numbers of U. S. aircraft for use by Australians. The aim is to double the strength of the R.A.A.F. as swiftly as personnel can be trained, he said.

Referring to the recent Washington conference, Mr. Curtin said: "I say with gratitude and may say with pride that Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt agreed that the war in the Pacific will be prosecuted with the same vigor as the war in Europe."

(Prime Minister Churchill spoke at a Washington press conference May 25 on sound and good conclusions having been reached for prosecuting the war in the Pacific with the greatest of vigor and he talked of the possibility of waging war with equal force on both fronts.)

New Zealand Plane Missing

WELLINGTON, N. Z., June 6 (AP).—A Royal New Zealand Air Force flying boat with eight passengers and a crew of seven aboard was reported missing tonight. An announcement that an extensive search was being made gave no further details.

MALTA SWINGING TO OFFENSIVE; TO GET REVENGE

Great Rock Caverns Salvation of Island—Many Axis Airmen Downed.

By PAUL KERN LEE

VALETTA, Malta—(AP) Joseph the Hackman waved a gnarled hand as many planes roared past overhead and exclaimed "Ours tajjeb" (good), then gestured deprecatingly toward Sicily and rasped "Mussolini Hitler mhux tajjeb" (no good).

Besieged, bomb-battered and bloody for three years, Malta never gave up. Today, having bound up her wounds, obtained sufficient if not yet abundant food and started the gigantic task of rebuilding, she is on the offensive.

JUN - 7 1943

Stones Are Sawed

The horse jogged on past blasted houses where workmen saw broken stones into new, useful shapes as if they were blocks of wood.

The great group of planes quickly became distant specks, outward bound to attack the enemy who failed to defeat this eight-by-17-mile island.

When Italy entered the war in June, 1940, Malta's number appeared to be up, but the island hung on in the face of growing onslaughts. The really heavy attacks began after the Germans came in forces to Sicily and North Africa. Day after day 150 to 200 bombers pounded Malta. Thirteen thousand tons of bombs fell in a year. By this time last year three-fourths of Valetta's buildings were unusuable. The island had been under attack 12 hours a day.

Spitfires Save Island

Then, last May, Spitfires were flown to the island from the American carrier Wasp. They saved the day. From then on German and Italian plane losses soared.

Thanks to Malta's resolute defenses and great rock caverns, casualties had been fewer than Axis airmen killed.

But after the blitz came the siege. Bringing convoys to Malta with the barest necessities — munitions, food and gasoline — became a most hazardous assignment.

For a long time after the great, damaging convoy battle last August, no supplies came to Malta's harbors. The tiny island with 250,000 persons cannot feed itself. But Malta stuck to her caves and there was no surrender.

The Axis never tried an invasion, possibly because of the lesson learned when an Italian speedboat attack on Grand harbor cost them 16 raiders out of 16.

The Allied victory in the African desert and the campaign in Tunisia brought a tremendous boost to morale here. Malta's planes quickly took to the offensive. They pounded German airfields in Tunisia and shot down enemy aerial transports heading for Sicily.

Near the end of November the first convoy since August arrived, and the offensive was strengthened. Malta-based planes played an important role in the final action in Tunisia.

Only One Raid in Five Months

"The siren sounds. Malta has been bombed only once in five months, and it was a feeble effort then. The sirens mean little anymore.

"Probably reconnaissance planes," says a knowing Maltese. "They mostly come to look nowadays, but they're lucky to do that. We'll tear them to pieces."

He was right. The alert lasted about five minutes. Men servicing aircraft and repairing blitzed houses hardly paused to glance aloft.

This is Malta, G.C. The initials go with Malta as D.C. goes with Washington. They stand for the George Cross, awarded the entire colony for its heroism against blitz and siege.

The Times of Malta, which hasn't missed a single day's publication, carries in one corner of its front page:

"HM King George VI awarded to Malta the George Cross on the 956th day of the war 15/4/1942."

The Times recently resumed carrying pictures and enlarged to five column width.

In a little nook on Brittania street near the shattered opera house, engraver Anthony Schembri rolled out a silver coin and fashioned a George Cross as a souvenir for a gunner from an American ship.

Malta Carries On

"Bad times are over now," said Schembri in a soft voice. "We still need some things: hot baths, perhaps more cigarettes, a wider diet for the children, but Malta goes on. Malta will always go on. Many of our beautiful homes are in ruins. They cannot be restored or replaced. In that respect my lovely Malta will never be the same. It makes me sad, sometimes."

Then his soft brown eyes flashed as he added with unexpected vehemence:

"Those who did this are paying now; they'll continue to pay, even though they can never repay in full."

Down the street in a little curio shop another artisan was fashioning ash trays from Malta stone. "This rock saved Malta," he explained. "I am preparing for the tourist boom which must surely follow the war. This rock cuts like cheese, but out in the air hardens like granite. This rock saved Malta as surely as our planes and guns."

He displayed a peculiar necklace. "Here's another Malta souvenir. These are locust beans. Many of us ate them in the bad time. They too saved Malta, these ugly, bitter, little beans." He made a wry face, but fondled the necklace reminiscently.

JUN - 7 1943

3024-4735

The lace-makers and pipe carvers also expect a boom after the war.

On a broader scale, Malta's business leaders recognize their position at a Mediterranean crossroads and hope to make the island a postwar trade and distribution center.

Stories of such plans occupy the inside pages of the Times, along with homey tales of social functions and letters to the editors, much like in any small American city.

One recent letter suggested the Navy name a new aircraft carrier "Malta" in remembrance of the angry Italian radio exclamation that "Malta is an unsinkable aircraft carrier."

Such it really is. Shaped roughly like a broad-beamed carrier, Malta has great runways across her deck, starting points for the offensive that sweep day and night over Sicily and Italy.

CONGRESS OUSTED BY GEN. RAWSON

Argentine Head Also Decrees Ban on Communist Activities.

JUN - 7 1943

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BUENOS AIRES, June 6—Gen. Arturo Rawson's revolutionary government tonight decreed the dissolution of the Argentine Congress, and also displayed an anti-Communist character by ordering the police to suppress any Communist statements and to close down the Communist newspaper La Hora.

The action against the Congress occurred after a long meeting among Gen. Rawson and his new ministers, most of them military officials. All the men who overthrew President Ramon Castillo Friday are to take their oaths of office tomorrow.

(Gen. Rawson's dissolution of Congress was not immediately explained through the Argentine censorship. It was a more drastic step than any taken by the deposed Castillo regime, which was backed by the Senate but opposed by the Chamber majority of Radicals and Socialists who fought Castillo's isolationist policy and his maintenance of diplomatic relations with the Axis.)

Cooperation Assured

Earlier, sources which are considered reliable had said that Gen. Rawson had assured other hemisphere governments that he would follow a policy of close Pan-American cooperation.

(This in itself did not give any club to Gen. Rawson's intentions, since Castillo's regime also maintained that it was following such a policy, even though that course allowed Axis agents to use Argentina as a listening post and intelligence center against the United Nations.)

It was reported that the only two civilians in Gen. Rawson's cabinet, Jose Maria Rosa, Finance minister, and Horace Calderon, Justice minister, had handed in their resignations tonight.

Secret Statement Reported

The action against the Communists today was taken after authorities declared that that group was preparing a secret political statement, and La Hora was closed after its morning edition carried a forthright plea for restoration of constitutional rights, for diplomatic relations between Argentina and Russia, and for a pledge to join the United Nations.

Fourteen persons were arrested at La Hora's offices. Other newspapers did not comment on appointments in the new government which took over from the isolationist Castillo regime.

All newspapers published as usual, including the pro-Nazi mouthpieces, El Pampero and El Cabildo.

Fresh Assurance Given

A competent source in Buenos Aires said Gen. Rawson had given the heads of American diplomatic missions here fresh assurances that his government would follow a policy of pan-American collaboration.

These assurances, this source said, were first conveyed individually to the American ambassadors and ministers through Capt. Carlos Martinez, and then repeated in a message last night to a conference of the American diplomats at the home of the Chilean ambassador, Conrado Rios Gallardo. U. S. Ambassador Norman Armour attended that meeting.

The sincere tone of the message especially impressed the diplomats, the informant said. Such assurances, if confirmed, might reopen the possibilities of resuming Lend-Lease negotiations and enable Argentina to obtain military equipment on the same basis as other American countries.

Await Formal Notice

Rios Gallardo said the meeting decided that the diplomats should await formal advices from the new government about its make-up "before negotiating its recognition by the governments we are representing."

Gen. Rawson assumed the presidency yesterday immediately after the resignation of the deposed Conservative leader, Ramon S. Castillo. Unconfirmed reports said Gen. Rawson was not prepared to relinquish Argentina's neutrality in the war. At present this is the American nation maintaining diplomatic relations with the Axis. (Travelers reaching Montevideo from Buenos Aaires said there was a growing impression in the Argentine capital that the new regime might adopt a pro-Allied attitude in its international relations.)

No official statement was anticipated before noon tomorrow, when the 10 new cabinet ministers, eight of whom are military men, will be sworn in.

Calm Prevails

Calm prevailed in Buenos Aires, and the government carried on business as usual except for the fact that the Ministry of Agriculture was occupied by army troops. The government announced it would prosecute both Daniel Amadeo Videla, the former Minister of Agriculture, and Miguel Culaciati, deposed Minister of the Interior, who were arrested yesterday upon their return from Uruguay.

Castillo, himself, and the other members of his regime were set free upon their return from their one-day exile aboard the minesweeper Drummond and were reported resting today at their homes.

Carlos Alberto Acevedo and Salvador Orio, Ministers of Finance and Public Works respectively in the Castillo government, arrived this morning by boat from Montevideo, Uruguay. They were not arrested, and went to their homes. Thus, fifty hours after Señor Castillo and his Ministers had fled the country, al lhad returned.

Leaves Rio by Plane

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 4 (AP).—President Morinigo left by plane today for Recife en route to the United States, accompanied by American Ambassador Wesley Frost and other officials.

Army Air Transport Service Exceeds Pre-War World Total

Conversion of Passenger Planes Major Factor in Rapid Expansion.

JUN - 7 1943

WASHINGTON, June 6. — (AP) The Office of War Information said tonight that the Army Airforce Transport command now is greater than the world's combined air transport organizations — military and civilian — before the European war started in 1939.

This expansion, the OWI said, has been achieved by converting passenger and bomber planes to meet cargo-carrying needs, for "not a single plane originally conceived solely to carry cargo is in service in the Western hemisphere although several are in process of design and manufacture."

The agency, in a long review of American Army and Navy air transportation accomplishments and possibilities, forsaw continued expansion of air transport facilities after the war and quoted the Civil Aeronautics administration's "sober contemplation" that before 1950 the United States may well have half a million private, commercial and military planes in active service.

20 Million Passengers Yearly

And, the OWI added, "the National Resources Planning board estimates that 'within the next decade or two, air travel in the United States will assume approximately 70 per cent of present day Pullman rail travel, or about 6 billion revenue passenger miles, which means approximately the transportation of 20 million passengers a year."

However, the OWI repeated the CAA's warning against "extravagant claims on the subject of peacetime air transport.

"High cost per ton-mile (not a prime consideration in military operations) and immense problems of refueling are deterrent factors, and it is unlikely that the airplane will drive other forms of transportation out of business as some aviation enthusiasts are inclined to prophesy."

"During 1943," the OWI continued, "the total production of the American aviation industry—cargo and combat planes together — will reach the total of $20,100,000,000, a fourth of our war budget for the year and almost a seventh of the estimated national income.

"This is in contrast with the automobile industry which at its peak in 1941 reached only to $3,700,000,000."

Millions of Men Available

Looking toward the pool of men and plants upon which the aircraft industry could call if needed in the future, the OWI noted:

Two and one-half million trained workers are now turning out cargo and combat planes; among the air-minded persons after the war will be "probably the majority" of over three million men who will be in the air forces by the end of this year; almost all airplane plants are capable of total conversion to the production of civil aircraft.

By 1945, the OWI said, it is expected that transport planes in the 100,000 to 120,000-pound class will be flying in quantity. The agency added:

"On trips the length of New York to Chicago, such airplanes would carry 15 tons at 250 miles an hour. This is a capacity of 3,750 ton miles —about ten times as much as the DC-3, the workhorse of the airlines."

TERM LIMIT BILL STOPS FIFTH RUN

JUN - 7 1943

Cannot Affect 1944 Aspirations of Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—Reduced to its predictable effect on the moot question of the coming Presidential campaign, the fourth-term enigma, the proposed constitutional amendment limiting Presidential tenure to two terms or parts of terms, looks more like an anti-fifth term than an anti-fourth term move.

JUN - 7 1943

MAY AID PRESIDENT

There is evidence it is so viewed by some ardent fourth-term advocates. They are inclined to regard it as calculated to strengthen rather than weaken Roosevelt fourth term sentiment in the country.

It is practically impossible that the amendment could become effective before the 1944 elections. Its author, Senator Bailey, North Carolina Democrat, has safeguarded it against retroactive application as an ouster to Mr. Roosevelt if he should run a fourt time and be elected. If ratified during that fourth term, however, it would bar a fifth-term Roosevelt candidacy.

Anti-fourth termers, Republican or Democratic, appear to be relying largely on their hopes for substantial evidence of public disfavor for multiple White House terms for any effect the Bailey proposal might have on Mr. Roosevelt's decision or on Democratic Presidential ticket making next year. There is unquestionably some smouldering opposition to a fourth term in Democratic Congressional ranks and among some party figures of consequence outside Washington.

It remains to be seen, however, just how far any Democrat might care to go in voicing that opposition at scheduled Senate sub-committee hearings. Nor is there much doubt that the pro-fourth termers can rally favorable testimony, based on the "don't-change-horses-in-the-middle-of - the - stream" argument, if they desire to offset obvious anti-fourth term witnesses who may be called.

The Bailey move, although he described it as not merely a "political gesture," tends to bring to the surface again the fact that even in voicing Roosevelt fourth-term hopes, such Presidential champions as Governor Neely of West Virginia and Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania have made their arguments conditional on continuance of the war. Senator Bailey is understood to have consulted numerous party colleagues in the Senate before handing in his resolution. The fact that he found it desirable to add to it the proviso that it should not apply against any presidential incumbent at the time of its ratification, so far as his current term was concerned, indicates some degree of favor for at least Senate discussion of the question even among pro-fourth termers.

NAVY BOMBER SINKS U-BOAT IN GUN BATTLE

Washington, D. C., June 6 (AP).—Depth-charges from a Navy patrol plane shattered an enemy submarine and sent it plunging to the bottom of the Atlantic after a short engagement in which shells from the U-boat's guns riddled one wing of the plane.

The sinking, the Navy said today, took place in April. It was the first credited to the new Vega Ventura bombers, high-speed twin-engined medium bombers that have been officially reported in service only in recent weeks.

Piloted by Lieut. (JG) Thomas Kinaszcuk, 141 Court St., Elizabeth, N. J., the plane sighted the sub fully surfaced and dived from several miles distance.

"The submarine commander at first elected to fight it out," the Navy reported. "The sub's deck guns opened fire on the Ventura, riddling one wing. Undeterred, Lieut. Kinaszcuk pushed the rugged warplane through the shellfire.

"Then the sub attempted to crash-dive. Whistling along virtually on the surface of the water, the patrol bomber went in over the nearly-submerged conning tower and four depth bombs were released, three creating an in-line pattern just ahead of the sub's course and the fourth striking just forward of the conning tower."

The plane was pulled up sharply so that results could be observed by Lieut. Robert J. Slagle, Jonesboro, Ark., the second pilot.

Aviation Machinist Mate Joseph A. Holt, 1946 53d St., Brooklyn, was among the Ventura's crew.

No, Said Churchill— . I'm No Giant Panda

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP). — Prime Minister Winston Churchill is back in London, but his quips still are being repeated in Washington. "The Washington Post" relates this one:

He agreed to meet all of the British Embassy's hundreds of employees at a garden party. Yes, the married men could bring their wives; the married women could bring their husbands. Then came the question of employees' children.

"Would you consent to that, Mr. Prime Minister?" asked Viscount Halifax, the British Ambassador.

"No," replied Mr. Churchill. "What do they think I am—a giant panda?"

MAJOR ROOSEVELT TO BE BURIED IN ALASKA

JUN — 7 1943

WASHINGTON, June 6 — (AP) Major Kermit Roosevelt probably will be buried in Alaska where he died June 4.

This was indicated by wartime custom which calls for burial of members of armed forces overseas until after the war, when bodies can be returned to the United States.

The death of the 53-year-old son of Theodore Roosevelt was announced by the War department yesterday. The wording of the announcement indicated that he probably died from natural causes.

Two other sons of the former president now are on active duty with the Army. They are Brig. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., in North Africa, and Major Archibald Roosevelt in the Pacific area. A fourth son, Quentin Roosevelt, died in action in the first World war while serving as a flier.

BLAZING OIL SLICK TRAPS MANY OFF VIRGINIA SHORES

Terrific Blast Showers Fragments on Coast Guard Ship 1700 Yards Away.

FREIGHTER IS BLAMED

Ammunition-Laden Vessel Veered Suddenly, Says Survivor.

JUN — 7 1943

35 NAVY MEN LOST

Personnel of Gun Crews Killed; Investigation Is Launched.

NORFOLK, Va., June 6—(AP) Two American cargo ships, a tanker and an ammunition-laden freighter, collided off the U. S. East coast before dawn several days ago, causing terrific explosions and blazing oil slicks that took the lives of 84 of the 151 men aboard.

Survivors, landed at Norfolk by Coast Guard and naval rescue ships, said the two vessels were proceeding in opposite directions on parallel courses when the freighter veered suddenly and rammed her bow into the tanker's port side aft of the forecastle head.

The explosions were so tremendous that wreckage and debris hurtled through the air and showered the decks of a Coast Guard ship a quarter mile away.

Sixty-six of the 69 men aboard the freighter perished in the blast that tore her to pieces and plunged her to the bottom almost immediately after the collision.

Lifeboats Burned Quickly

Eighteen of the tanker's complement of 82 were lost in the inferno that devoured all her lifeboats before they could be launched, and forced her crew to leap overboard.

Among the victims were 35 members of Navy gun crews, 25 of them aboard the freighter and 10 aboard the tanker.

Among the survivors was Deck Cadet W. J. Leonard, 21, of Malverne, N. Y., who was in the tanker's wheelhouse. He said the freighter changed course suddenly and her bow struck the tanker's port side a glancing blow. The impact knocked Cadet Leonard down—and saved his life.

"The amidships house was quickly ringed by flames," he related, "and a sheet of flame swept through while I was on the floor. The captain, the first, second and third mates, six Navy gunners, and two signalmen were in the house. I believe they were all lost. They must have swallowed the flames."

Two Explosions

Cadet Leonard heard two explosions, he reported, and he believed the first was aboard the freighter and the second from the tanker. The freighter sank almost immediately, he added.

Escaping from the amidships house, the deck cadet jumped overboard and later climbed on a life raft, carrying about 20 men. A naval ship picked them up an hour later.

"It was hotter than Hades on the raft," said Cadet Leonard, who escaped with minor arm burns. "The wind kept changing, bringing the blazing oil nearer, and then blowing it away from us. I heard some men yelling as they struggled in the oil, but we could not help them."

A messman, Martin Varnell, 30, of Houston, Tex., was asleep. Awakened by a shipmate, he fled from his smoke-filled quarters to the deck and started toward the lifeboats, only to discover they were afire from flaming gasoline scattered by the explosion.

"I saw three men dead on the poop deck," Varnell related. "I believe they were Navy gunners. One had his arms and legs blown off."

Swam for an Hour

Varnell leaped over the side and swam for more than an hour before he was rescued by a Coast Guard vessel whose crew told him their deck had been showered by debris which the blast had rocketed across a quarter mile of water.

"I don't see how we got out of it," said the puzzled messman.

He said he did not see the freighter and that at first he thought the tanker had been torpedoed. Several other crewmen said they too thought the tanker had been attacked by a submarine.

Varnell reported the tanker was still afloat and burning when he was picked up by the Coast Guard ship.

The freighter's entire merchant crew of 41 and 25 of her 28-man gun crew were lost. Of the three survivors two were in such serious condition they could not be questioned. The third was Edward Matagora, 20-year-old Navy gunner of Newburgh, N. Y., badly burned about the face.

Disregarded Lifebelt

From his bed in a naval hospital Matagora told a reporter how he was awakened by a shipmate, ran to the deck and leaped overboard without a lifebelt. He was rescued by a Coast Guard ship after swimming for two hours, the first ten minutes of which he fought for his life through a blazing oil slick, diving frequently and swimming under water. He said he would have burned to death if he had been wearing a lifebelt, as it would have prevented his swimming beneath the surface.

Matagora too said he did not see the tanker and had not known whether the sinking came from a torpedo, a mine explosion or a collision.

The Navy said that crew lists were not available.

Middleditch, First U. S. Ace In Africa, Home

9th Air Force Hero Will Show Student Pilots How to Down Messerschmitts

Special to the Herald Tribune

UNION, N. J., June 6.—When he was seven years old, Lyman Middleditch jr. caught the flying fever and began building model airplanes for fun. Twenty years later it swept him away to North Africa, where he flew bigger planes, but not for fun. He returned to his temporary home here today, a major in the United States Army Air Forces and the first American ace of the first group of American flyers to help drive the Nazis out of Africa.

Last July Major Middleditch, then a second lieutenant stationed at Mitchel Field, waved goodby to his bride of two months, the former Miss Ruth Melcher, of 12 Carpenter Place, Union, and flew off to Egypt with the 57th Fighter Group to support the British 8th Army.

Before reaching the front, however, Major Middleditch had his first encounter with an aerial enemy against which his guns were powerless. This was the sand fly, which knocked him flat in Palestine. But after becoming immune to the fever planted by this pest, Major Middleditch resumed his trip, reaching the front early in September.

Beginning as the leader of an element of the 64th Squadron, which won fame as the Black Scorpions, flying Curtiss Warhawks (P-40s), Major Middleditch escorted Boston and other American bombers over the German lines to blast enemy troops and supply lines.

In October, Major Middleditch said, he got his first "squirt" at a Messerschmitt during an attack on a landing field near Daba. He hit the Nazi from behind at 300 yards.

A few days later he got his biggest bag of the war, becoming the hero of the heaviest air fighting up to that time. This was Oct. 27, when Major Middleditch, attacked by four Messerschmitts, shot three down in flames and sent the fourth scurrying home.

He was in a flight of Allied fighter-bombers returning from an attack on the Daba airfield when twenty German fighters, twenty Stukas and twenty Italian fighters tried to intercept them.

"Four Messerschitts singled me out and came in for a kill," he said. "I got one at 300 yards and then another at the same distance. But they kept diving on me and as the third passed I gave him a squirt at five feet. He fell into the drink. I gave the fourth a squirt at 600 yards, missing him by three feet. This scared him away."

Major Middleditch won the Distinguished Service Cross for this action, but he was too busy at the front to leave for Cairo to receive it at a ceremony scheduled there, so Major General Lewis H. Brereton, commander of the American forces in the Middle East, came out to the desert on Nov. 15 to pin the medal on him.

Later, when he returned to Cairo after chasing the Nazis all the way to Tunisia, where he downed his fifth Messerschmitt, thereby becoming the first ace of the 9th American Air Force, he received the British Distinguished Flying Cross and was promoted from a captain to major.

For the first time in almost a year, the twenty-eight-year-old flyer enjoyed being grounded today. He was with his wife at the home of her parents here. Major Middleditch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Middleditch sr., of Monmouth Hill Club, Highlands, N. J. After being graduated from Stevens Institute of Technology in 1937, he got into the air force in 1940 after being turned down twice for high blood pressure and faulty vision.

'TROUBLE' FOR JAPS SEEN BY NIMITZ

Formidable Force Growing in Pacific, Says Naval Commander.

JUN — 7 1943

BERKELEY, Calif., June 6. — (AP) Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the U. S. Pacific fleet, addressed a University of California alumni luncheon today, announcing that he came to the United States for a conference which he hoped would "carry trouble" to the Japanese.

Declaring that "by the end of the year our planes and ships in the Pacific will represent a very formidable force," Admiral Nimitz denied that forces in his theater are being neglected.

"We are really getting our share of the war material in the Pacific," he said.

Time Aids Allies

"Time is working for us now. We are turning out planes and ships of war faster than the Japanese can. It is simple arithmetic—subtraction for them and addition for us."

Admiral Nimitz received an honorary doctor of laws degree at the University of California's annual commencement exercises this afternoon. He headed the university's naval R.O.T.C. unit from 1926 to 1929.

"Much as I desire to be here, I couldn't have left my post unless I had a job to do," he explained in his talk to the alumni. "I am happy that commencement day coincided with a conference which I have been called on to attend—a conference which is not particularly solicitous as to the welfare of Hirohito, and which I hope will carry trouble to the Japanese."

Reserves Are Lauded

Noting that more than 90 per cent of the Navy's officers are now reservists, he assumed the alumni group that "the reserves are coming through in grand fashion, as if they had been in the Navy all their lives."

The admiral recalled that it was just 12 months ago—June 2, 1942, on the third day of the Battle of Midway that "we turned back the Jap fleet and from that time on the Japanese have never made a serious threat to the security of our Pacific coast."

Then, without mentioning by name Admiral Yamamoto, the Japanese militarist whose death was recently announced in Tokyo, Admiral Nimitz said "The man who planned the attack on Pearl Harbor and who wanted to dictate in the White House has been buried in Tokyo with honors.

"He may have thought that Washington was a hotter place than it is, but he is now thinking over his sins in a still hotter place."

Japs on Defensive

He said the Japanese are now on the defensive in the Pacific, attempting to hold what they already have taken.

"They are attempting now to knock out China," he declared. "We must do everything in our power to aid China, because we must use the bases in China to attack Japan."

Baldwin Lauds Russian Bravery In Letter to Soviet President

HARTFORD, June 6.—(AP) Governor Baldwin today in a letter to Michael Kalinin, president of the U.S.S.R., paid tribute to the "valiant people of Russia" on the second anniversary of their war against Germany and called upon the people of Connecticut to participate in the "write to Russia" program being sponsored now by the Russian War Relief committee.

In his letter to President Kalinin, whose exact title is president of the Presidium Supreme Council, the governor wrote:

"I am writing to you to express the admiration of the people of Connecticut for the heroic defense which the people of Russia have waged against our common enemy during the past two years; and to commend, particularly, the people of Kalinin, the city which bears your name."

The second anniversary of the invasion of Russia by the Nazis will be observed on Tuesday, June 22.

The governor compared Kalinin, Russia, to the city of Hartford and outlined for President Kalinin the efforts Hartford workers are making towards victory.

"The Hartford Russian War Relief organization," the governor wrote, "has informed me that the city of Kalinin is approximately the same size and corresponds in many ways to our capitol city of Hartford. Here in Hartford and throughout Connecticut we are working day and night to produce more and more implements of war, more supplies, more food, because we know that our brave men and the brave men of all countries need these things to carry on the fight for victory."

In a statement to the people of Connecticut, Governor Baldwin urged the writing of congratulatory messages to the people of Russia on the "triumphal struggle."

"We have contributed as a nation, arms and munitions and supplies of food and clothing," the governor said, "and, as individuals we have contributed to the Russian War Relief Fund. Now we are called upon to contribute our time and our effort in sending a note of friendly greeting to a people who have had little to cheer them through these last two years."

Special stationery to be used for these letters to Russia may be obtained, it was announced, at any of the Russian War Relief headquarters throughout the state.

18 SOL... ...LLED IN TRUCK ACCIDENT

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 6—(AP) Eighteen soldiers were killed and eight others injured late yesterday when an army truck in which they were returning to a maneuver area after a week-end leave crashed through a bridge rail and down a 30-foot embankment, the Second Army public relations office reported today.

The accident occurred, the announcement said, when the truck left the road on a curve leading to a one-way bridge spanning a railroad track.

Several of the occupants of the truck were pinned beneath the vehicle. Sixteen were dead when the bodies were removed from the wreckage, two died later at hospitals, and the condition of two of the remaining injured was reported still critical.

Vichy Has a Hard Time Whipping Men Into Line

(By the Associated Press)

The French secretary-general for propaganda, Paul Creyssel, felt it necessary yesterday to protest to Frenchmen that "too many" of them didn't understand "the idea of policy" of the Vichy government, and declared that "all Frenchmen" ought to support the government.

Creyssel made the plea in a speech at Marseilles, the German radio reported, saying that "too many Frenchmen still have not understood the idea of policy of the marshal (Petain) and Chief of Government (Pierre Laval) while expecting from abroad the liberation of the country."

EISENHOWER IS "DAD" OF YEAR

Honor Conferred on Him by National Committee

JUN -7 1943

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander in chief of Allied forces in North Africa, today was designated the "number one father of the year."

Alvin Austin, executive director of the National Father's Day committee, cabled the American general, informing him of his selection by the committee as the outstanding father of 1943:

"Because of the brilliant victory of the United Nations forces, because of its stirring example in fortitude, because of its value to the cause for which we are fighting—the protection of our homes and our liberty—and because of your sterling qualities of leadership and inspiration to the youth of today and all future generals, we have bestowed upon you the designation of the number one father of the year. Congratulations and continued success until complete victory is ours."

General Eisenhower is the father of one son, John, now a cadet in the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Father's Day this year will be June 20. The national committee said the celebration of the day would be geared to the war effort, with the slogan, "Honor a fighting American—your dad."

ARGENTINE COUP D'ETAT APPROVED IN BERLIN

NEW YORK, June 6 — (AP) C.B.S. announced today the recording of a Berlin English-language broadcast which implied Nazi approval of Argentina's new government and said that a "desire to intensify the anti-Communist policy" of the Argentine motivated the coup d'etat.

The broadcast, expressing no sympathy for ex-President Ramon S. Castillo, was quoted as saying:

"x x x It is expected that the domestic situation in Argentina will be clarified soon and it remains to be seen whether the high hopes of Washington and London to drag this South American republic into the war will be successful."

JUN -7 1943

INJURED WRITER RETURNS HOME

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—J. Wes Gallagher, Associated Press war correspondent who suffered a compression-type fracture of the spine in a jeep accident near Bizerte, Tunisia, May 7, arrived here by plane today and said he was "feeling fine."

He is in a plaster cast which he expects to wear another four months.

What's Behind The War News

By CARL C. CRANMER

All indications at this stage are that Germany intends to leave Italy, the down-at-heel ally, to fend for herself in the desperate hour of invasion apparently approaching.

Adolf Hitler seems to have come to regard Benito Mussolini — the Johnny-come-lately in the battle with France, the irresponsible associate in the premature invasion of the Balkans, the less than half-hearted partner on the Russian front, the luckless loser in Africa—more of a liability than an asset.

When Italy lost her empire in Africa and proved unable to maintain an air and sea barrier across the Mediterranean, she lost the only strategic advantage that she was able to contribute to the Axis.

Italy is really outside the fortress of Europe. The 2,592 miles of coastline of her exposed peninsula and the 1,562 miles of sea frontier of her two principal islands, Sicily and Sardinia, apparently are beyond even the resources of Hitler to defend.

If the German Fuehrer meant to make an all-Axis fight for Italy it is certain that the emergence of a powerful, victorious army in Africa, controlling all the southern shore of the Mediterranean within a few hours striking distance of the peninsula, would have provoked a feverish reaction on his part long before now.

The flow of troop trains through the Brenner pass would have been evident. The daily influx of German air squadrons would have become apparent. But the cables from Bern, Anakara and Stockholm, from which such reports might be expected, contain not a single rumor of a German rush to save Rome. Instead, such reports as are available, tell of German efforts to strengthen the Balkan front.

No Token Force Sent

More surprising, the Germans apparently have neglected to send a convincing token force to bolster the shaky morale of the Italians. The German radio has made one brief announcement of a German garrison arriving in Sardinia. It apparently was not large or both the German and Italian governments would have created a fanfare over such a demonstration of Axis solidarity.

Most of the estimated 200,000 Germans in Italy apparently have been air force personnel troops for the defense of airports, and technicians sent to advise the Italians.

Another indication of a Hitler decision to cut his losses in Italy's war effort is the virtual absence of a fighter plane defense for La Spezia, where a major part of the Italian fleet was based when American Flying Fortresses made their armor-splitting attack Saturday.

The pilots making that assault reported sighting but three enemy fighters in the air, and the anti-aircraft fire was reported both weak and inaccurate. This ineffectual defense can hardly have been due entirely to surprise of the defenders, for a previous night attack by the R.A.F. in April, and a daylight raid by the Fortresses on nearby Leghorn only a few days ago plainly showed the base was within bombing range.

Italy's First Line of Defense

The Italian fleet is Italy's first line of defense, the force which Mussolini might gamble in the last extremity to meet a sea-borne invasion. To preserve that battlefleet intact until the decisive hour might reasonably be expected to have been the chief concern of Axis air forces.

It would be difficult to imagine an attack on one of Germany's key naval bases meeting so little opposition as was encountered at La Spezia.

Yet, the German high command was able to send 500 planes, according to Russian account, on a single day to attack Kursk on the eastern front.

The lack of defense of La Spezia, the strong defenses of German naval bases and the concentration of planes for an attack on Kursk may be an index of the relative importance Hitler attaches to the eastern front, the German front, and the Italian front.

Russia Decisive Area

In his view the Russian front still is the decisive area of the war. He may launch a third great summer offensive in Russia or he may count on wearing the Russians out by assuming the defensive.

If he can reduce the Russians to impotence either way, he may calculate that he will yet have time to turn his face the other way.

But unless the Italian army puts more heart into a battle on home soil than it did in Africa, its resistance may collapse with surprising promptness in event of Allied invasion. The nerve war against Italy is of greatest importance, for it is in the amount of the Hitler allows himself in Russia that he may err.

Gen. George C. Marshall, United States Army chief of staff, was quoted in North Africa Saturday as saying that the "continuity of offensives" was of paramount concern to the Allies.

This suggests that whatever revisions were made in Allied strategy in the Washington conferences were in the interest of speeding up the schedule and concerned not the next Allied offensive but the subsequent moves.

THIS COMMENT, THE DISPATCH ADDED, HAS THE DOUBLE PURPOSE OF EXCULPATING THE GERMANS FOR THE LOSS OF NORTH AFRICA AND COMPELLING THE ITALIAN COMMAND TO TRANSFER THE ITALIAN NAVY FROM THE ADRIATIC TO THE MEDITERRANEAN.

JUN - 7 1943

THE MAJORITY OF THE ITALIAN ADMIRALS WERE SAID TO BE INSISTING ON A CONTINUATION OF THE PRESENT NAVAL POLICY; THAT IS, THE RETENTION OF THE FLEET IN ADRIATIC BASES TO PRESERVE THE ITALIAN MAINLAND.

(ADVANCE) LONDON, JUNE 6-(AP)-A BOARD OF TRADE SPOKESMAN TODAY SUMMED UP GREAT BRITAIN'S EXPERIENCE WITH CLOTHES RATIONING ON THE SECOND ANNIVERSARY OF ITS INTRODUCTION AND SAID, "ON THE WHOLE THE SYSTEM HAS WORKED LIKE CLOCKWORK."

HEAVIEST USERS OF CLOTHING COUPONS ARE BOYS BETWEEN 14 AND 16, HE SAID, PRESUMABLY BECAUSE OF LEAVING SCHOOL AT ABOUT THAT AGE AND CHANGING OVER TO ADULT CLOTHING.

OFFICIAL FIGURES SHOW THAT MEN ON THE AVERAGE SPEND 26 PER CENT OF THEIR COUPONS ON SHIRTS AND UNDERWEAR WHILE WOMEN USE 19 PER CENT OF THEIRS ON UNDERWEAR AND 18 PER CENT ON STOCKINGS.

MOST NEW BUSINESS IN COTTON DURING THE WEEK WAS FOR SHEETS, PILLOWCASES AND TOWELS FOR THE UTILITY TRADE. THE CONTROL PLACED SPONSORED ORDERS FOR AUSTRALIA AND ALSO BOOKED QUANTITIES OF HOSIERY YARNS OF ALL COUNTS. OTHER YARN BUSINESS WAS SCRAPPY.

MANUFACTURERS WERE RELUCTANT TO ACCEPT EXPORT ORDERS BECAUSE OF THE DIFFICULTY IN OBTAINING THE NECESSARY YARNS.

-DASH-

THE WOOL YARN MARKET WAS FAIRLY ACTIVE AND FIRM. EXPORT ALLOCATIONS MAINLY WERE FOR EMPIRE COUNTRIES, LEAVING LITTLE FOR THE UNITED STATES AND SOUTH AMERICA.

THE AMOUNT OF BUSINESS AUTHORIZED FOR CANADA WAS LESS THAN IN THE PRECEDING ALLOCATION PERIOD. INDICATIONS ARE THAT A GREATER PROPORTION OF TOTAL PRODUCTION WILL BE REQUIRED FOR THE UTILITY CLOTHING SCHEME.

JUN - 7 1943

-DASH-

PRICE STABILITY WAS THE MOST PROMINENT FEATURE OF THE RAYON YARN INDUSTRY. ORDER BOOKS FOR AUGUST DELIVERY WERE JUST OPENED AT PREVAILING PRICES. IT NOW IS NEARLY TWO YEARS SINCE THE LAST INCREASE.

REPRESENTATIVES OF VARIOUS RAYON SECTIONAL GROUPS MET IN LONDON AND DECIDED TO FORM THE BRITISH RAYON FEDERATION TO COORDINATE TRADE STATISTICS AND RESEARCH AS WELL AS TO ESTABLISH A LIAISON WITH SIMILAR BODIES OF OTHER TEXTILE INDUSTRIES.

Lmam Add Russian  communiques.

THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND SAID "THE DAY WAS QUIET" SAVE FOR LIVELY FIGHTING IN THE KUBAN, IN THE WESTERN CAUCASUS.

RUSSIAN DISPATCHES SAID MASSIVE AIR BATTLES WERE JOINED IN THE KURSK AREA, WHICH IS NEAR THE OREL AND BRYANSK REGIONS WHERE THE SOVIETS MOUNTED TWO LARGE BOMBING RAIDS ON GERMAN CONCENTRATIONS.

THE GERMAN REPORT OF THE ALLEGED VELIZH BATTLE IS THE LATEST OF A SERIES OF ACCOUNTS FROM BERLIN OVER SEVERAL WEEKS, TELLING OF LARGE SCALE RUSSIAN ATTACKS, ALL OF WHICH THE NAZIS SAID WERE FRUSTRATED. NONE OF THESE REPORTS EVER HAS BEEN DIGNIFIED BY OFFICIAL RUSSIAN COMMENT. THE FREQUENCY OF SUCH REPORTS SUGGESTS THAT THE GERMAN PROPAGANDA MACHINE MAY BE SERVING THEM UP IN AN EFFORT TO EXPLAIN THE TARDINESS OF A FULL-BLOWN GERMAN OFFENSIVE. THE NAZI DRIVE LAST YEAR WAS LAUNCHED IN MAY.)

THE RUSSIAN NOON COMMUNIQUE TOLD OF LIVELY SKIRMISHES ON THE WESTERN FRONT AND ALONG THE DONETS IN WHICH ABOUT 800 GERMANS WERE KILLED AND NUMEROUS FIRE POINTS WERE CHEWED UP BY SOVIET ARTILLERY. THE RUSSIANS IGNORED THE KUBAN AREA, WHERE THE GERMANS SAID RUMANIAN AND NAZI TROOPS REPULSED A NUMBER OF ATTACKS NORTHWEST OF KRYMSKAYA. THE RUSSIANS TOLD OF EFFECTIVE ARTILLERY FIRE IN THE BALAKLEYA, IZYUM AND SEVSK AREAS OF THE DONETS LINE.

JUN - 7 1943

THE GERMAN COMMUNIQUE SAID A STRONG FORMATION OF HEAVY GERMAN BOMBERS AGAIN ATTACKED ARMS PLANTS IN GORKI ON THE VOLGA, 250 MILES EAST OF MOSCOW, AND THAT "LARGE FIRES WERE CAUSED." SUCH A FLIGHT WOULD ENTAIL A ROUND TRIP OF ABOUT 1,000 MILES FROM NAZI BASES.

DISPATCHES FROM MOSCOW TOLD OF VIGOROUS AIR ACTIVITY. THE PRAVDA WAR CORRESPONDENT CABLED FROM THE FRONT:

"SOVIET PILOTS, AFTER FINDING THE MOST VULNERABLE PLACES IN THE ENEMY DEFENSE, CONTINUE TO INFLICT CRUSHING BLOWS. RED FIGHTER PILOTS HAVE CONSIDERABLY INCREASED THEIR SKILL."

JUN - 7 1943

A NEW RUSSIAN FIGHTER PLANE, THE LAVOCHKIN-5, WAS MENTIONED FOR THE FIRST TIME. IT AND THE YAROVLEV-7 WERE SAID TO HAVE CARRIED THE BRUNT OF THE DEFENSE OF RUSSIAN-HELD KURSK ON JUNE 2, WHEN THE RUSSIANS SAID 162 OF 500 ATTACKING GERMAN PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN.

NO DETAILS OF THE NEW PLANE WERE GIVEN EXCEPT FOR A STATEMENT OF PILOTS WHO DECLARED FLYING IT WAS "LIKE RIDING IN A SLEIGH."

Some sections of the press seemed to anticipate this.

"It is a mistake to regard the Italian campaign as a foregone conclusion with victory speedily achieved," said the Sunday Graphic, "Misled by atrocity propaganda, the Italians may very well put up a stubborn and prolonged struggle."

JUN -7 1943

In a similar vein, the Sunday Chronicle said:

"Every sign points to the fact that we are on the edge of what he hope and pray will be decisive events. x x x We know the battle will certainly be bloody. It may well be long."

THE OTHER SURVIVORS ARE LIEUT.DAVID C.COX, 24, OF GREENSBORO, N.C., CO-PILOT; LIEUT.JOSEPH A.ADAMS, 22, OF JASPER, TEX., BOMBARDIER; LIEUT.SIDNEY D.LOVITT, 25, OF PROVIDENCE, R.I., NAVIGATOR, AND SERGT. LYLE G.COLBY, 24, OF HARLOWTON, MONT., TOP TURRET GUNNER.

THE CREW BAILED OUT BEFORE THE FORTRESS FELL. THE SURVIVORS LANDED ON THE COAST, BUT THEIR FIVE COMRADES, WHO HAD JUMPED EARLIER, DROWNED.

THOSE LOST WERE;

JUN -7 1943

SERGEANTS A.J.MCKINNEY, 24, COLGATE, OKLA., LEFT WAIST GUNNER; J.P.PENFIELD, 24, BROCKWAY, PA., TAIL GUNNER; E.M.STURGES, 23, HUGO, OKLA., BALL TURRET GUNNER; V.M.CAREINS, 24, CUMBERLAND, O., RIGHT WAIST GUNNER; AND HENRY J.KOWALIK, 24, SILVERLAKE, WIS., RADIO OPERATOR AND GUNNER.

THE LORIENT MISSION PROVED A ROUGH ONE FOR THE FORTRESS CREWS, BUT THEIR COURAGE, COOLNESS AND FLYING SKILL WERE AN OUTSTANDING EXAMPLE OF THE FIGHTING QUALITIES OF THE U.S. EIGHTH AIR FORCE.

FLAK BEGAN BURSTING ALL AROUND THE "PAPPY'S HELLION II" THREE MINUTES BEFORE ADAMS GOT HIS BOMBS AWAY. AND IMMEDIATELY FROM 20 TO 30 ENEMY FIGHTERS BEGAN A CONSISTENT ATTACK.

PENFIELD SHOT DOWN TWO AND STURGES DOWNED ONE. THEN THE FOCKE-WULFS POURED A HAIL OF CANNON AND MACHINE-GUN FIRE INTO THE BOMBER, WOUNDING PENFIELD IN BOTH LEGS AND MISSING CLINE'S HEAD AND LEGS BY INCHES.

JUN -7 1943

HALF OF THE SHIP'S HORIZONTAL STABILIZER, THE LANDING GEAR AND ONE WHEEL WERE SHOT AWAY. A THREE-FOOT HOLE WAS TORN IN THE LEFT WING BY CANNON FIRE WHICH EXPLODED THE GASOLINE TANK THERE AND IGNITED THE WING.

"WHEN THAT BLAST HIT OUR BOMBER IT STOOD RIGHT UP ON ITS TAIL AND WENT OUT OF CONTROL," SAID CLINE. "COX AND I HAD A TIME GETTING HER LEVEL AGAIN."

THE RIDDLED BOMBER STARTED TO FALTER, BUT CLINE OUTWITTED A FOCKE-WULF WHICH WAS LURKING BEHIND TO MAKE THE KILL BY DIVING DOWN INTO THE SAFETY OF A FORTRESS FORMATION.

SOON, HOWEVER, THE BOMBER STRAGGLED BEHIND AND AGAIN CLINE AND COX OUTFOXED A FOCKE-WULF BY DIVING STEEPLY INTO ANOTHER FORMATION OF BIG BOMBERS.

JUN -7 1943

ALL THIS TIME IT TOOK THE COMBINED EFFORTS OF THE PILOT AND CO-PILOT TO HOLD THE SHIP ON AN EVEN KEEL.

THE SITUATION WAS GROWING PROGRESSIVELY MORE DANGEROUS. KOWALIK WAS SEEKING TO CONTACT THE OTHER FORTRESSES AND ASK THEM TO THROTTLE BACK TO THE STRICKEN SHIP'S SPEED, AND TO REACH BRITISH AIR AND SEA RESCUE CRAFT, BUT DISCOVERED THAT THE RADIO WAS UNWORKABLE.

COX POLLED THE CREWMEN, WHO VOTED UNANIMOUSLY TO STAY WITH THE FLOUNDERING CRAFT RATHER THAN BAIL OUT OVER ENEMY TERRITORY.

JUN -7 1943

JUN -7 1943

3024-4741

30.24-4741

THE FORTRESS WAS NOW HEADING OUT OVER THE SEA TOWARD ENGLAND AT 27,000 FEET.

CAREINS CRAWLED BACK TO THE WOUNDED PENFIELD AND CARRIED HIM TO THE WAIST GUNNER'S COMPARTMENT.

"CAREINS CAME TO ME WITH TEARS IN HIS EYES AND SAID THAT PENFIELD WAS BADLY WOUNDED, BUT HE HAD PUT A PARACHUTE ON HIM AND FELT SURE HE COULD HELP THE WOUNDED MAN TO BAIL OUT," CLINE RELATED.

"ALL THIS TIME STURGES WAS IN THE BALL TURRET ONLY FOUR FEET FROM THE BLAZING WING WHICH WAS GETTING SO HOT THE ALUMINUM COVERING WAS MELTING AND ROLLING OFF IN LITTLE BALLS," CLINE CONTINUED. "IN A CALM VOICE AND AS COOL AS ICE HE GAVE US RUNNING ACCOUNTS OF THE PROGRESS OF THE FIRE."

JUN -7 1943

FOR THE THIRD TIME CLINE DIVED THE STRAGGLING FORTRESS INTO FORTRESS FORMATIONS BELOW HIM--THIS TIME THE LAST FORMATION. A FOCKE-WULF WAS STILL TRAILING, BUT JUST AS THE BOMBER BEGAN TRAILING BEHIND AGAIN A SPITFIRE ESCORT APPEARED AND ENGAGED THE GERMAN CRAFT.

"THOSE SPITS WERE THE MOST BEAUTIFUL THING I EVER SAW IN THE SKY," SAID LOVITT. "TO US THEY SEEMED LIKE ANGELES FROM HEAVEN."

CLINE CONTINUED; "THE FIRE WAS GETTING PRETTY HOT NOW AND WE WERE AFRAID THE BOMBER MIGHT EXPLODE ANY MINUTE. I ORDERED THE CREW INTO BAIL OUT POSITIONS AS SOON AS WE SIGHTED THE ENGLISH COAST."

COX SAID HE ORDERED THE CREW TO JUMP WHEN THE BOMBER WAS DOWN TO 12,000 FEET AND OVER THE ENGLISH COAST BUT FOUND THAT THE MEN IN THE WAIST SECTION ALREADY HAD BAILED OUT.

THE REST OF THE CREW DELAYED THEIR JUMPS AND LANDED SAFELY ON THE COAST.

"THEY BAILED OUT TOO SOON--WHEN WE WERE STILL 20 MILES FROM THE COAST," COLBY SAID. "I SAW ALL THEIR PARACHUTES OPEN."

AGAIN CLINE TOOK UP THE STORY; "SPITFIRES CIRCLED OVERHEAD, FOLLOWED THEM DOWN TO THE WATER AND RADIOED THEIR POSITIONS TO SEA AND AIR RESCUE BOATS," HE SAID, "BUT BY THE TIME THE BOATS ARRIVED, 30 MINUTES LATER, THE BOYS HAD GONE UNDER. THE BOATS AND A BRITISH FLYING BOAT SEARCHED ALL THAT DAY AND THE NEXT BUT NEVER FOUND ANY TRACE OF OUR FELLOWS."

JUN -7 1943

CLINE, WHO WAS THE LAST TO JUMP, RODE THE SHIP TO 5,000 FEET AND HEADED IT OUT TO SEA TO PREVENT ITS CRASHING ON LAND, THEN SET THE AUTOMATIC PILOT CONTROLS BEFORE HE BAILED OUT AND LANDED IN A PASTURE.

ADAMS LANDED ON THE SHORE ONLY 10 FEET FROM THE EDGE OF THE WATER; COLBY CAME DOWN IN "SOMBODY'S BACK YARD SMACK UP AGAINST A BRICK WALL;" AND COX FELL FLAT ON HIS BACK IN A PASTURE. LOVITT LANDED ONLY 40 YARDS FROM A POWER STATION, NARROWLY MISSING HIGH TENSION WIRES.

JUN -7 1943

SOME OF LOVITT'S TEETH WERE BROKEN. THIS WAS THE MOST SERIOUS INJURY SUFFERED BY THE FIVE SURVIVORS.

"AS I FLOATED DOWN," CLINE SAID, "I SAW THE BOMBER CIRCLE OVERHEAD BEFORE IT WENT INTO A SPIN. SOME PEOPLE ON THE SHORE SAID THAT IT EXPLODED BEFORE IT CRASHED INTO THE CHANNEL."

"FOR THE FELLOWS WHO DIDN'T GET BACK I'D LIKE TO SAY THIS," SAID COX, VETERAN OF 17 RAIDS, "I'VE NEVER SEEN SUCH COOLNESS AND COURAGE UNDER FIRE AS THEY DISPLAYED."

JUN -7 1943

HIS PALS NODDED VIGOROUS ASSENT.

JUN -7 1943

OTHER CREW MEMBERS WERE FLIGHT OFFICER LEO GRIKSTAS, 23, OF RICHMOND HILL, N.Y., CO-PILOT; LIEUT.ROY P.STEALEY, 26, OF CHICAGO HEIGHTS, ILL., NAVIGATOR; LIEUT.CHARLES B.WOEHRLE, 26, OF GRASSTON, MINN., BOMBARDIER; AND SGTS. JAMES F.WELK, 20, OF RHINELANDER, WIS., RADIO OPERATOR-GUNNER; CHARLES T.EATON, 26, OF KANSAS CITY, TOP TURRET GUNNER; WAYNE L.BALDWIN, 22, OF PREBLE, N.Y., BALL TURRET GUNNER NAHANNIE (CORRECT) BADER, 24, OF NORWOOD, MASS., RIGHT WAIST GUNNER; MAURICE A.MCLAUGHLIN, 34, OF DANFORTH, ME., LEFT WAIST GUNNER; AND FRED WILLIAMS, 23, OF JACKSON HEIGHTS, NEW YORK CITY, TAIL GUNNER.

"WHILE WE WERE OVER THE TARGET I SAW FLAK BURSTS IN FRONT OF RUSSEL'S PLANE WHICH EVIDENTLY DAMAGED HIS SHIP, FOR THAT WAS WHEN HE BEGAN TO LAG BEHIND," LE DOUX SAID.

JUN -7 1943

"WHEN HE WAS A FEW HUNDRED FEET BELOW US I SAW SIX FOCKE-WULFS ATTACKING HIM, AND A FEW MINUTES LATER SIX PARACHUTES CAME OUT. RUSSELL'S SHIP WAS STILL UNDER CONTROL, WITH THE PILOT TAKING VIOLENT EVASIVE ACTION.

"MY TAIL GUNNER, SGT.R.C.STUART (OF LOCKPORT,N.Y.) WATCHED RUSSELL UNTIL HE WAS ONLY A FEW THOUSAND FEET ABOVE THE SEA AND SAID THE SHIP WAS STILL UNDER CONTROL. RUSSELL WAS TOO FAR DOWN AND TOO FAR BEHIND FOR STUART TO SEE WHAT HAPPENED AFTER THAT.

JUN -7 1943

"I'VE FLOWN WITH THOSE FELLOWS ON FOUR MISSIONS. KNOWING THEM AS I DO I FIRMLY BELIEVE THE PILOT, CO-PILOT, NAVIGATOR AND BOMBARDIER ORDERED THE OTHERS TO BAIL OUT, WHILE THEY STUCK TO THE SHIP TO FIGHT TO THE LAST AND TRY TO CRASH-LAND THE BOMBER."

THE SENIOR OFFICER AND OTHER FRIENDS DESCRIBED RUSSELL AS "ONE OF THE BEST PILOTS AT THIS STATION."

HIS UNUSUAL CHRISTIAN NAME OF COLONEL CAUSED MUCH GOOD-NATURED RIBBING AND CONFUSION.

THE CIRCUMSTANCES UNDER WHICH RUSSELL WAS LOST ARE SIMILAR TO THOSE WHICH RECENTLY COST THIS STATION ANOTHER SAN ANGELO PILOT, LIEUT. ROBERT MANSFIELD

STOCKHOLM, JUNE 6-(AP)-DIPLOMATIC QUARTERS REPORTED TODAY THAT A SPECULATIVE BUBBLE IN COUNTERFEIT AMERICAN DOLLARS IN RUMANIA HAS BURST, CAUSING THE BOTTOM TO FALL OUT OF THE BLACK MARKET AND STOPPING THE FLOW OF SMUGGLED GOODS FROM THE MIDDLE EAST.

AS TRACED BY DIPLOMATIC SOURCES, THE STORY INVOLVES HIGH RUMANIAN OFFICIALS WHO SAW A CHANCE TO GET RICH ON THE BLACK MARKET, SUPPLIED BY LEGAL AND ILLEGAL CONNECTIONS WITH THE MIDDLE EAST. MIDDLE EAST TRADESMEN, HOWEVER, DELIVERED GOODS ONLY AGAINST DOLLAR PAYMENTS, CREATING A HUGE DEMAND FOR DOLLARS.

JUN - 7 1943

THE BOGUS DOLLARS, ORDERED PRINTED BY THE HIGH OFFICIALS, FLOODED THE BUCHAREST MARKET. FOR A TIME, THOSE CONNECTED WITH THE SCHEME REAPED HUGE REWARDS. THEN THE TURKISH PARTNER OF A BUCHAREST DEALER WHO HAD BEEN SMUGGLING COFFEE INTO RUMANIA AGAINST DOLLAR PAYMENTS DISCOVERED THE CURRENCY WAS COUNTERFEIT WHEN HE ATTEMPTED TO PAY OFF AN AMERICAN FIRM WITH IT. ALARMED, HE AND HIS COLLEAGUES IN SIMILAR DEALS ROLLED A FLOOD OF COUNTERFEIT BILLS BACK TO BUCHAREST WITH DEMANDS FOR RESTITUTION. THE BUBBLE BURST.

STOCKHOLM, JUNE 6-(AP)-SWEDEN CALLED UP ADDITIONAL FORCES FOR ARMY TRAINING TODAY.

JUN - 7 1943

THE CALL WAS BY RADIO, USED AS A TEST. RADIO CALLUPS MAY BE USED IN AN EMERGENCY.

THE SWEDISH ARMY COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF EMPHASIZED THAT THE CALLUP WAS NOT CAUSED BY FOREIGN DEVELOPMENTS, BUT WAS PART OF A PROGRAM ANNOUNCED IN DECEMBER FOR EXTENSIVE WINTER AND SPRING TRAINING. THE NUMBER OF MEN INVOLVED WAS NOT ANNOUNCED.

STOCKHOLM, JUNE 6-(AP)-THE ROME CORRESPONDENT OF THE DAGENS NYHETER REPORTED TONIGHT THAT SWEDES IN THE ITALIAN CAPITAL HAD DECIDED TO EVACUATE THEIR FAMILIES, APPARENTLY FEARING ALLIED BOMBINGS.

THE DECISION WAS MADE AS THE SWEDISH COLONY IN ROME MET TODAY TO CELEBRATE SWEDEN'S FLAG DAY, THE CORRESPONDENT SAID. SINCE THE EVACUATION IS TO START IMMEDIATELY, THE COLONY ALSO OBSERVED THE 85TH BIRTHDAY OF KING GUSTAF, WHICH IS JUNE 16.

JUN - 7 1943

THE SWEDISH DIPLOMATIC STAFF, HEADED BY MINISTER JOEN LAGERBERG, WILL REMAIN IN ROME, THE DISPATCH SAID. IT GAVE NO INDICATION OF HOW MANY PERSONS ARE INVOLVED IN THE DECISION AND A FOREIGN OFFICE SPOKESMAN HERE SAID HE COULD NOT IMMEDIATELY ESTIMATE THE NUMBER.

THE RAID DEMONSTRATED THE "BLANKET COVERAGE" THAT ALLIED AIR POWER IS ABLE TO EXTEND OVER ALL ITALY FROM NORTH AND SOUTH. PREVIOUSLY THE FORTRESSES HAD HIT LEGHORN, 40 MILES SOUTH OF LA SPEZIA, IN THEIR FARTHEST NORTH BLOW.

THE ARMADA APPARENTLY TOOK THE ITALIAN DEFENDERS BY COMPLETE SURPRISE BY THEIR LONG OVER-WATER FLIGHT AND ONLY THREE FIGHTERS WERE SEEN IN THE AIR TO OPPOSE THE SWARM OF BOMBERS. THE ANTIAIRCRAFT GUNNERS TOO APPEARED TO BE ERRATIC AND NOT UP TO STRENGTH. ALTHOUGH THEY WENT WITHOUT FIGHTER ESCORT, ALL THE FORTRESSES CAME HOME SAFELY, DESPITE ITALIAN CLAIMS TO SHOOTING ONE DOWN.

THE RAF'S HEAVY FOUR-ENGINED BOMBERS FROM THE MIDDLE EAST DELIVERED THE SOLE BLOW AGAINST SICILY, ATTACKING THE HARBOR AT CATANIA FRIDAY NIGHT.

JUN - 7 1943

SOUTHERN SARDINIA CAME IN FOR A DOUBLE ATTACK WITH LIGHTNINGS SWEEPING OVER THE AIRDROME AT MONSERRATO AND MARAUDERS WORKING OVER

JUN - 7 1943

SHIPPING AT PORTO PONTE DI ROMANO WHERE THEY HIT A 500-FOOT MOTOR SHIP AND OTHER TARGETS.

TWO LIGHTNING PILOTS ATTACKING MONSERRATO EACH KNOCKED DOWN MESSERSCHMITT 109'S AS THEY RACED IN OVER THE TARGET. THEY WERE LIEUT. ARTHUR C.FRANKE OF CARY, ILL., AND SECOND LIEUT.WILLIAM W.WHALEN, 4321 EIGHT ST., SEATTLE WASH.

JUN - 7 1943

ANOTHER PARTICIPANT IN THAT OPERATION, CAPT.GEORGE A.RUSH, 3638 HARRISON ST., KANSAS CITY, MO., SAID, "WE FOOLED 'EM TODAY. WE CAME IN FROM THE SEA, SKIPPED OVER THE HILLS AND THEN HEADED STRAIGHT FOR MONSERRATO. JUST AS WE CAME OVER THE HILLS WE FORMED A COMPANY FRONT AND PICKED THE TARGET. I LANDED ONE RIGHT ON ONE OF THE HANGARS. IT WAS ALL OVER IN A FLASH."

WHILE ONE FORCE OF LIGHTNINGS WAS RAKING MONSERRATO, ANOTHER DUMPED SALVOES ON THE NEARBY LANDING FIELD AT CAPE TERRA. HITS WERE SEEN AMONG APPROXIMATELY A DOZEN AIRCRAFT ON THE GROUND, AS WELL AS BUILDINGS.

THE ONLY SERIOUS FIGHTER OPPOSITION ENCOUNTERED IN ALL THESE OPERATIONS WAS OVER PANTELLERIA WHERE MESSERSCHMITTS AND FOCKE-WULF 190'S ATTEMPTED TO WARD OFF THE RECURRING BLOWS. THEY FAILED AND LOST FOUR PLANES.

JUN - 7 1943

ALTHOUGH THE AXIS' AERIAL LOSSES AT PANTELLERIA WERE KNOWN TO BE GREAT AND ALTHOUGH THE LAND INSTALLATIONS THERE HAVE BEEN BATTERED DAILY FOR THE LAST FEW WEEKS, THE STRATEGIC IMPORTANCE OF THE VOLCANIC LITTLE ISLE IS SUCH THAT IT CONTINUED TO DRAIN THE ENEMY'S RESOURCES IN THE MEDITERRANEAN AREA.

AMONG PILOTS CREDITED WITH MAKING KILLS AT PANTELLERIA WERE STAFF SERGEANT ALKIN LANGFORD OF CHESTER, PA., STAFF SERGEANT PHILIP POSEY, 72 NEWBURY AVE., NORTH QUINCY, MASS., EACH SEEING A MESSERSCHMITT 109 GO DOWN IN FLAMES AFTER BURSTS FROM THEIR GUNS, AND STAFF SERGEANT UDY SEKERNESTROVITCH, 1001 BELLEVIEW, AKRON, OHIO.

IN THE FULL 24 HOURS OF OPERATION, THE ALLIES IN NORTHWEST AFRICA LOST ONLY THREE PLANES TO THE AXIS' SIX. THE ITALIANS DECLARED THE ALLIES HAD LOST 10 PLANES IN THE FORAYS.

JUN - 7 1943

THE DESERT AIR FORCE LOST AN ADDITIONAL PLANE, HOWEVER, IN RAIDS WHICH TOOK IN LEVKAS ISLAND OFF THE WEST COAST OF GREECE AND STAMPALIA ISLAND IN THE AEGEAN AS WELL AS CATANIA IN SICILY.

THESE LONG-RANGE FIGHTERS DESTROYED TWO SAILING VESSELS IN THE HARBOR OF STAMPALIA, ITALIAN ISLAND IN THE DODECANESE GROUP NORTHEAST OF CRETE, AND DAMAGED A TUG AND DREDGER OFF LEVKAS ISLAND, SOUTH OF CORFU.

TODAY'S COMMUNIQUE DISCLOSED THAT THE SUCCESSFUL ATTACK ON A CONVOY OFF CAPE SPARTIVENTO, THE TOE OF THE ITALIAN BOOT, ON THE NIGHT OF JUNE 1 WAS CARRIED OUT PRINCIPALLY BY THE BRITISH DESTROYER JERVIS AND THE GREEK DESTROYER QUEEN OLGA.

IT WAS ANNOUNCED LAST THURSDAY THAT TWO ENEMY MERCHANT SHIPS AND A TORPEDO BOAT WERE SUNK AND AN ITALIAN DESTROYER SET AFIRE AND DRIVEN ASHORE IN THE ATTACK.

DESCRIBING THE ATTACK AT LA SPEZIA, CAPT.GEORGE H.SANDER, 1413 MOUNT VERNON ST., SPOKANE, WASH., ALL-PACIFIC COAST BACK FOR WASHINGTON STATE AND PHOTOGRAPHIC OFFICER ON THE EXPEDITION, DECLARED THE BOMB PATTERN WAS "VERY GOOD."

LIEUT.A.L.CARLSON, BOMBARDIER, 1726 CHANCELLOR ST., OF EVANSTON, ILL., DECLARED "WE HAD NEAR MISSES ON THE MAIN TURRET CLOSE TO THE BOW AND A NEAR MISS ON THE OTHER SIDE" OF ONE BATTLESHIP.

JUN - 7 1943

"SOME OF THE ACK ACK GUNNERS ON THE BATTLESHIP WERE SHOOTING AT US, BUT DIDN'T FIRE ANY MORE AFTER THOSE BOMBS HIT," HE DECLARED.

THE BALL TURRET GUNNER ON ANOTHER FORT, STAFF SERGEANT RAY SAULMON (ADDRESS UNAVAILABLE), COMPLETING HIS 45TH MISSION, SAID "I DIDN'T SEE ANY FIGHTERS BUT I DID SEE TWO OF OUR HEAVY BATTLESHIP BUSTERS STRADDLE A BATTLESHIP. I SAW OTHERS HIT TWO OTHER BOATS, ONE A CARGO SHIP ABOUT 550 FEET LONG AND A NAVAL VESSEL THAT LOOKED LIKE A CRUISER. OTHER BOMBS FELL SQUARELY IN THE DOCK AREA. EVERY ACK ACK GUN ON THE BATTLESHIP STOPPED FIRING AFTER OUR STUFF HIT. I'M SURE IT WAS BADLY DAMAGED."

JUN -7 1943

"THE WHOLE AREA WAS WELL PLASTERED, WITH SMOKE EVERYWHERE," REPORTED LIEUT.ARTHUR KUMPF OF SAN ANTONIO, TEX., NAVIGATOR.

LIEUT.LELAND A.YOUNKIN OF WENATCHEE, WASH., WHO WAS ON HIS NEXT TO LAST OPERATIONAL MISSION, DECLARED, "THIS ONE WAS A CINCH. LIKE PICKING APPLES IN THE FALL."

LIEUT.H.M.MIDDLETON OF CHILDRESS, TEX., PILOTING THE FORTRESS "PEGASUS," A VETERAN PLANE ON ITS 39TH MISSION, SAID THE "FLAK WAS ALREADY UP WHEN WE GOT THERE, BUT IT DID NO DAMAGE."

STAFF SERGEANT MARVIN MITCHELL, 2612 SOUTH BEULAH ST., PHILADELPHIA, TURRET GUNNER ON THE PEGASUS, SAID "I ONLY SAW TWO ITALIAN FIGHTERS. THEY CAME UP TO ABOUT 800 YARDS. I GAVE THEM A BURST FROM FOUR GUNS, AND THEY TOOK OFF RIGHT AWAY."

OTHER PEGASUS CREW MEMBERS INCLUDED LIEUT.E.G.JORDAN OF MASON, TEX., CO-PILOT; STAFF SERGEANT J.R.PARKINSON OF ANNAPOLIS, MD., UPPER TURRET GUNNER; TECH.SERGEANT E.G.WEBB OF ST.JOSEPH, MO., WAIST GUNNER; STAFF SERGEANT M.J.MUSE OF KENNET, MO., TAIL GUNNER, AND STAFF SERGEANT JOHN WHITE, 919 ERATO ST., NEW ORLEANS, RADIO GUNNER.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, JUNE 6-(AP)-DURING HIS RECENT TOUR OF NORTH AFRICA, PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL PAID A SURPRISE VISIT TO AN AMERICAN FLYING FORTRESS GROUP AND WATCHED IT TAKE OFF ON A MISSION, IT WAS DISCLOSED TODAY.

JUN -7 1943

AS THE CREWS WERE GOING TO A TENT TO BE BRIEFED, A BIG PLANE LANDED ON THE FIELD AND CHURCHILL, FOREIGN SECRETARY ANTHONY EDEN AND GEN. GEORGE C.MARSHALL, U.S. CHIEF OF STAFF, STEPPED OUT. THERE WERE CHEERS AND A RUSH FOR CAMERAS TO GET PICTURES OF THE VISITORS.

THE THREE ENTERED THE BRIEFING TENT, WHERE CHURCHILL SPOKE FOR A FEW MINUTES, SAYING IT WAS A COMPLIMENT TO ALL THREE TO BE PRESENT JUST AS THE AMERICAN FLIERS WERE GOING INTO COMBAT. THE VISITORS THEN LISTENED AS MAJ. ORVILLE CHATT OF OMAHA, NEB., OUTLINED THE ASSIGNMENT.

THE MOST DISAPPOINTED MAN IN NORTH AFRICA WAS A PILOT WHO HANDED HIS CAMERA TO A FRIEND AND ASKED HIM TO SNAP HIS PICTURE AS HE HAD A WORD WITH CHURCHILL. LATER HE DISCOVERED THAT, IN HIS EXCITEMENT, HE HAD FORGOTTEN TO LOAD THE CAMERA WITH FILM.

IN 1938, DOCTORS SAID HE WOULD NOT RECOVER WHEN HE WAS STRICKEN WITH INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

IN 1939, HE FRACTURED HIS SKULL.

IN 1940, HE BROKE HIS NECK IN A SWIMMING POOL AND WAS UNDER THE WATER UNCONSCIOUS FOR SEVERAL MINUTES BEFORE BEING PULLED OUT.

IN 1941, HIS CANOE TIPPED OVER, HE WAS KNOCKED OUT UNDERWATER AND ALMOST DROWNED.

JUN -7 1943

ON AUGUST 19,1942, HE WAS LEFT FOR DEAD SEVEN MILES INSIDE THE JAPANESE LINES ON GUADALCANAL, WOUNDED BY SHRAPNEL, BUT HE WAS ALIVE ENOUGH TO WALK SEVEN MILES AND OUTSMART AND THEN KILL A JAP SNIPER.

THEN, WHEN HE WAS LEAVING GUADALCANAL ON A DESTROYER, THE VESSEL HAD TO DODGE ENEMY TORPEDOES, WHICH IT DID SUCCESSFULLY.

AND, AFTER FINISHING THAT RECITAL OF HIS CLOSE CALLS, PRIVATE HORNBECK CASUALLY ANNOUNCED HE HAS HAD JUST FIVE "BIRTHDAYS." HE POINTED OUT THAT HE WAS BORN ON FEBRUARY 29,1924.

CHUNGKING, MONDAY, JUNE 7-(AP)-THE CHINESE CENTRAL NEWS AGENCY REPORTED TODAY THAT A BOMB EXPLODED ON MAY 28 IN A HALL IN THE INTERNATIONAL SETTLEMENT OF SHANGHAI WHERE THE JAPANESE WERE HOLDING A NAVY DAY EXHIBITION.

THE INTERNATIONAL SETTLEMENT WAS BLOCKADED FOR MORE THAN FOUR HOURS AND MANY PERSONS WERE ARRESTED, THE CHINESE AGENCY SAID. MANY PERSONS WERE SAID TO HAVE BEEN INJURED BY THE BLAST.

THIS AND OTHER RECENT INCIDENTS WERE SAID TO HAVE CAUSED THE JAPANESE TO TAKE ADDITIONAL PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES AGAINST POSSIBLE DISORDERS.

CHUNGKING, JUNE 6- (AP)- CHUNGKING HAD AN AIR RAID ALARM THIS AFTERNOON AS JAPANESE PLANES CROSSED THE PROVINCIAL BORDER IN THE DIRECTION OF THE CAPITAL BUT THE RAIDERS VEERED NORTHWARD AND ATTACKED LIANGSHAN, 110 MILES NORTHEAST OF CHUNGKING, IT WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY.

ANKARA, TURKEY, JUNE 6-(AP)-THE TURKISH NATIONAL ASSEMBLY STRONGLY DISAPPROVED THE SUGGESTION OF ONE DEPUTY THAT THE ARMY SHOULD BE PARTIALLY DEMOBILIZED BECAUSE OF THE STRENGTH OF TURKEY'S POSITION, AN OFFICIAL REPORT SAID TODAY.

THE DEPUTY HAD DECLARED THAT TURKEY HOLDS THE KEY TO THE MILITARY SITUATION IN THE MIDDLE EAST, AND WOULD THEREFORE NOT BE ATTACKED BECAUSE BOTH AXIS AND ALLIES KNOW THAT TURKEY WOULD CALL IN THE OTHER SIDE IN CASE OF ATTACK.

PREMIER SUKRU SARACOGLU REPLIED SARCASTICALLY THAT "THE DEPUTY

HAS THE KEY TO BOTH DIRECTIONS SAFELY IN HIS POCKET AND ADVISES US TO SLEEP TRANQUILLY. WE ARE NOT SURE AT ALL THAT WE HOLD THE KEY SITUATION IN BOTH DIRECTIONS. THE STRONGER WE ARE, THE MORE WE FEEL IN SAFETY."

MONTEVIDEO, JUNE 6-(AP)-DIPLOMATS AND FOREIGN OBSERVERS BOTH HERE AND IN BUENOS AIRES HAVE ADOPTED AN ATTITUDE OF "SIT AND WAIT" BEFORE COMMITTING AN OPINION ON THE INTERNATIONAL STAND OF THE ARGENTINE REVOLUTIONARY GOVERNMENT, WHICH WILL BE SWORN IN AT NOON TOMORROW.

STRICT CENSORSHIP IMPOSED ON ALL COMMUNICATIONS FROM BUENOS AIRES PREVENTED INTERPRETIVE STORIES BY FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS THERE, BUT TRAVELERS ARRIVING IN URUGUAY TODAY SAID THE NEW CABINET HEADED BY GEN.ARTURO RAWSON MIGHT BE EXPECTED TO FOLLOW AN ULTRA-RIGHTEST ROAD, AT LEAST IN INTERNAL AFFAIRS.

JUN - 7 1943

THE ONLY ACTIVITIES OF THE NEW GOVERNMENT REPORTED TODAY WAS ATTENDANCE BY PRESIDENT RAWSON AND HIS MINISTER OF WAR, GEN.PEDRO RAMIREZ, AT THE FUNERAL OF 19 OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS KILLED FRIDAY.

THE GENERAL OPINION WAS THAT THE REGIME WOULD NOT STATE ITS AIMS UNTIL AFTER THE SWEARING-IN CEREMONIES TOMORROW. IT WAS REVEALED THAT THREE PROCLAMATIONS SIGNED BY RAWSON ON FRIDAY EMANATED FROM THE PROVISIONAL MILITARY JUNTA, WHICH TOMORROW LEAVES THE REINS OF GOVERNMENT IN THE HANDS OF A CABINET PRESIDED OVER BY RAWSON.

ONE OF THE THREE PROCLAMATIONS PROMISED THAT ARGENTINA WOULD FOLLOW A POLICY OF CLOSER CONTACTS WITH OTHER AMERICAN COUNTRIES, THE SAME PLEDGE LATER WAS REITERATED TO THE CHILEAN AMBASSADOR, CONRADO RIOS GALLARDO, BY RAWSON HIMSELF THROUGH A SPECIAL ENVOY, A DIPLOMATIC SOURCE SAID HERE.

HOWEVER, THE FACT THAT MOST MEMBERS OF THE NEW CABINET ARE KNOWN TO HAVE VERY CONSERVATIVE IDEAS LED OBSERVERS TO TAKE A CAUTIOUS ATTITUDE.

OF THE TWO CIVILIAN MINISTERS, ONE, JOSE MARIA ROSA, WAS REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN ACTIVE IN THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT IN ARGENTINA.

AT LEAST SOME OF THE GENERALS INCLUDED IN THE CABINET HAVE OCCASIONALLY BEEN MENTIONED AS AFFAILIATED WITH NATIONALIST GROUPS.

ONE ABLE FOREIGN OBSERVER WHO ARRIVED TODAY FROM BUENOS AIRES SAID THAT IN HIS OPINION THE NEW ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT MIGHT BE COMPARED TO THE REGIME IN PREWAR POLAND UNDER MARSHAL PILSUDSKI--ULTRA-REACTIONARY IN INTERNAL AFFAIRS BUT READY TO JOIN THE DEMOCRACIES IN A STAND AGAINST THE AXIS.

HAVANA, JUNE 5-(AP)-THE CUBAN FOREIGN MINISTRY ANNOUNCED LAST NIGHT THAT AMONG THE PASSENGERS ON THE MISSING LISBON-ENGLAND AIRLINER WAS MRS.CECILIA FALLA CINTAS PATON OF THE AUXILIARY PERSONNEL OF THE CUBAN FOREIGN SERVICE AND A GRADUATE OF WAST CATHOLIC HIGH SCHOOL OF PHILADELPHIA.

IT SAID SHE WAS THE FIRST CASUALTY OF THE WAR IN THE CUBAN FOREIGN SERVICE.

SHE ENTERED THE FOREIGN SERVICE IN 1937 AND WAS ASSIGNED TO THE LISBON CONSULATE, WHERE SHE WAS WORKING WHEN SHE LEARNED THAT HER HUSBAND, JAMES H.M.PATON OF THE ROYAL NAVY, HAD BEEN WOUNDED AND WAS IN LIVERPOOL. SHE ASKED TO BE TRANSFERRED TO THE LIVERPOOL CUBAN CONSULATE AND WAS EN ROUTE TO THAT POST IN THE AIRLINER.

VANCOUVER, JUNE 6-(AP)-BOEING AIRCRAFT OF CANADA, LIMITED, HAS STARTED WORK ON A $100,000,000 CONTRACT FOR CATALINA FLYING BOATS FOR THE U.S. NAVY, PRESIDENT STANLEY BURKE ANNOUNCED YESTERDAY. THE NUMBER OF AIRCRAFT INVOLVED WAS NOT DISCLOSED.

CORIES LAKE, ATTU ISLAND, MAY 28-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE DIFFICULTY OF SUPPLYING HOT FOOD AND DRY CLOTHES TO OUR TROOPS IN THIS FOGGY, MUD-BOUND ISLAND IS PROLONGING THE BATTLE OF ATTU, DESPITE COMPARATIVELY FAVORABLE WEATHER AND RAPID DEVELOPMENT OF ROADS OVER ALMOST IMPASSABLE TERRAIN.

THUS TODAY, ON THE EIGHTEENTH DAY OF THE BATTLE, ALTHOUGH THE JAPANESE STILL ARE FIGHTING FEROCIOUSLY, THE FACT IS THAT OUR PRINCIPAL PROBLEMS ARE THOSE OF SUPPLY, DRYNESS AND WARMTH.

IF THE TROOPS ON THE HIGHLANDS COULD GET HOT FOOD REGULARLY, THEIR ADVANCE WOULD BE FASTER. IF THEY COULD GET DRY SOCKS, IT WOULD SPEED UP MORE. IF THEY COULD SLEEP REASONABLY WARM AND DRY, IT WOULD BE A DIFFERENT BATTLE.

ALL THESE FACTORS WORK TO THE DISADVANTAGE OF THE ATTACKERS. THE JAPANESE HAVE HAD POSITIONS PREPARED FOR MONTHS. EACH POSITION INCLUDES DRY SUPPLIES, PLENTY OF FOOD AND AMMUNITION. WHEN THEY RETIRE, THEY LEAVE BEHIND WHAT THEY DON'T WANT TO CARRY.

WHEN WE ADVANCE WE MUST TAKE EVERYTHING WE WANT WITH US ON THE BACKS OF SWEATING, PANTING, FOOTSORE MEN WHO NOW HAVE TO CROSS TWO MOUNTAIN RIDGES ON THE WAY FROM THE BEACH TO THE PRINCIPAL SCENE OF BATTLE. SEVEN HUNDRED MEN IN ONE UNIT ALONE ARE DOING NOTHING BUT CARRYING SUPPLIES UP ONE HILL.

AMERICANS HAVE BUILT MORE MILES OF ROAD UNDER FIRE SINCE THEIR ARRIVAL THAN THE NIPPONESE DID IN 11 MONTHS, BUT THESE REACH ONLY THROUGH THE LOWLANDS. MANPOWER STILL MUST HANDLE THE MOUNTAIN SUPPLY PROBLEM.

(SINCE THIS DISPATCH WAS WRITTEN TEN DAYS AGO, THE NAVY HAS ANNOUNCED VIRTUAL COMPLETION OF THE BATTLE OF ATTU.)

THE JAPANESE STILL ARE TAKING CONSIDERABLE TOLL OF ADVANCING AMERICANS, WHO IN EVERY ACTION MUST COME INTO THE OPEN TO ATTACK WELL BUILT AND WELL PROTECTED ENEMY POSITIONS.

THE WEATHER--BY COMPARISON TO MOST ALEUTIAN WEATHER--HAS BEEN KIND TO AMERICAN TROOPS.

ON THE GOOD SIDE--

NO WINDS HIGH ENOUGH TO BOTHER SHIPPING.

NO TEMPERATURES COLDER THAN 25 ABOVE ZERO, EVEN IN FAIRLY HIGH PEAKS.

NO RAIN HEAVY ENOUGH TO DROWN ANYONE.

SOME SUNSHINE, WHICH IS VERY RARE.

ON THE ALEUTIAN SIDE--

TWO DAYS RAIN HEAVY ENOUGH TO SOAK THROUGH SLEEPING BAGS.

AVERAGE MORNING TEMPERATURES WHERE FIGHTING IS BEING DONE JUST ABOVE FREEZING.

MIXED SNOW AND SLEET TO DUST DECKS OF SHIPS, AND THOROUGHLY RUIN SKINS OF FIGHTING MEN.

FOG-MIXED SUNLIGHT WHICH HAS GIVEN MOST SOLDIERS BAD WEATHER BURNS; MANY OF THEM COLD SORES.

INTERMITTENT SHOWERS ALMOST DAILY, SPOILING MOST ATTEMPTS TO DRY CLOTHING AND BEDDING.

OCCASIONAL SUDDEN BRIEF BITS OF SUNLIGHT WHICH MAKE ALL BRASS SHINE AND ADD TO CASUALTIES AMONG OFFICERS WHO HAVEN'T THOUGHT TO COVER THEIR INSIGNIA. THEY UNEXPECTEDLY BECOME GOOD SNIPER TARGETS

A native of San Francisco, Gallagher covered the invasions of Denmark and Greece and landed with the GEN. DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER'S AEF in North Africa seven months ago. He was in charge of the Associated Press field crew which covered the North African campaign.

SKETCH

Gallagher entered Bizerte with the American troops who wrested that vital naval base from the axis and it was while he was coming out of the newly captured city that he met with the accident which sent him to a field hospital.

Two miles outside the city, after Gallagher and his driver had sped safely past German guns still firing their last desperate rounds, the driver swerved suddenly to avoid hitting a French bicyclist and the jeep overturned, pinning Gallagher beneath it.

Cuts on his head and hands were throught at first to be his only injuries, but x-rays disclosed the spinal condition, which Maj. Hiram P. Jones, head of the orthopedic evacuation hospital, described as a "compression-type fracture of the first lumbar vertebra."

EXCERPTS FROM THE ADDRESS OF POPE PIUS XII, JUNE 2, TO THE CARDINALS OF THE CURIA ON HIS NAME-DAY.

"The prolongation of conflict, the feverish increase in war machines, the progressive aggravation of the methods of waging war are resulting in the Church's supernatural and peaceful mission being faced with opposition, difficulties and misunderstandings--in times past unknown and unsuspected in such measure--which are becoming dangers for the Church and her work."

"As in addressing the whole world in Our messages, it is not and never was Our intention to accuse, but rather to recall men to the path of truth and salvation: Our voice was that of the vigilant sentry upraised and placed by God for the protection of the entire human family."

"Today, when all behold and experience the awful tragedies to which war has led, many of those who regarded the call to arms as holding out more advantages and as being more honorable than wise understanding and cooperation, through mutual and loyal concessions in noble concord, are perhaps receptive to new thoughts and quite different sentiments."

Speaking of appeals from those "afflicted as they are with greater misfortunes and heavier sorrows because of their nationality or race," and to "exterminating persecutions." "Let the rulers of peoples not forget to use the words of Scripture: who takes the sword cannot dispose of life and death among men except according to the law of God, from Whom all power derives."

"Our thought and affection go out to the smaller nations, whose geographic or geopolitical situation leaves them open and exposed, in actual disregard of moral and international juridical norms, to being overthrown in the conflict of the greater powers and to witness their homelands made the theaters of destructive struggles and unspeakable horrors, even among noncombitants, and the slaughter of the flower of their youth and their cultured classes.

"Nor will you expect Us to outline in detail here all We have attempted and succeeded in accomplishing to mitigate their sufferings, to ameliorate their moral and juridical status, to safeguard their imprescriptible religious rights, to assist them in straightened circumstances and in need.

"Every word directed by Us for this purpose to competent authorities, and Our every public reference to it, had to be seriously pondered and measured in the interest of the victims themselves, so as not to render, even unwillingly, their situation more serious or more insupportable.

"Unfortunately the improvements visibly obtained do not correspond to the magnitude of the maternal solicitude of the Church in favor of these particular groups subjected to the harshest misfortunes; and as Jesus had mournfully to exclaim before His city 'How often would I have gathered together thy children, as the hen doth gather her chickens under her wings, and thou wouldst not?" so also His Vicar, while requesting only compassion and a sincere return to the elementary norms of law and humanity, has at times found himself before doors which no key could open.

"Confiding to you these bitter experiences which made Our heart bleed, We are not forgetting even one of the suffering peoples, indeed We remember each and every one with paternal compassion and affection, even if now We recall your attention especially to the tragic fate of the Polish people, which, surrounded by powerful nations, is subjected to the vicissitudes and flunctuations of the cyclonic war drama. Our teachings and declarations, so often repeated, leave no doubt regarding the principles by which the Christian conscience must judge such acts whosoever appears to be responsible.

"No one knowing the history of Christian Europe can ignore or forget how much the Polish Saints, heroes, students and intellectuals have contributed to the spiritual patrimony of Europe and the world: and how much the simple, faithful Polish people, with the silent heroism of their sufferings through the centuries, contributed to the development and conservation of Christian Europe. And we implore of the Heavenly Queen that, for this people so severely tried and the others who, with them, have had to drink the bitter cup of this war, there be reserved a future equal to the legitimacy of their aspirations and the magnitude of their sacrifices, in a Europe re-erected on Christian foundations and in an assembly of States freed from errors and deviations of the past.

"No less painful and deplorable, Venerable Brethren and Beloved Sons, is the fact that frequently in this war, moral judgment on certain actions contrasting with right and with human laws is made to depend on whether the party responsible belongs to one side or the other in the conflict, without regard to conformity or non-conformity with the norms sanctioned by the Eternal Judge.

"On the other hand, the retrogradation of technical war, the progressive increase in the use of those methods of warfare which make no distinction between so-called military and non-military objectives in themselves, recalls to mind the dangers inherent in the sad and inexorable competition in actions and reprisals, to the injury not only of single peoples but of the entire community of nations.

"We, who from the beginning have done all in Our power to induce belligerents to respect the laws of humanity in aerial warfare, feel duty bound, for the advantage of all, to exhort them once again to their observance. At a moment, indeed, when the specter of more horrid instruments of destruction and death appears to tempt the minds of men, it is not superfluous to admonish the civilized world that it treads on the brink of an abyss of inexpressible disasters.

"How, then, Venerable Brethren and Beloved Sons, could the peace of justice and understanding, of humanity and brotherhood, come out of such methods of warfare?"

"We therefore confidently hope that the wholesome part which constitutes the leaven of harmony in every nation, and especially those united in the Name of Christ and who place their greatest hope in prayer, will not hesitate at the propitious moment to exert all the powers of their zeal and will to bring back life from the ruins of hatred and to promote the future of a new world, in which all nations, cured of their wounds opened by violence, may recognize one another as sisters and advance harmoniously along the way of righteousness. That is certainly not the spirit at present dominating the world and hovering over mankind, persevering in war; nor is the dawn of that day yet in sight; in the face of every longing desire for life we live and suffer surrounded by death.

"Therefore, intimately persuaded as We are of the weakness and insufficiency of every earthly means and of human understanding, together with you, Venerable Brethren and Beloved Sons, and with the entire Episcopate and the priests and faithful of the Catholic World, We turn to the Sacred Heart of Jesus, Burning Furnace of Charity, King and Center of All Hearts, to Whom the Church consecrates the month just begun."

FLYING TIGER IN AFRICA FINDS
IT TOUGH (675)

BY HAROLD V.BOYLE

(ADVANCE)...AN AMERICAN AIRBASE IN ALGERIA-(AP)-ONE OF GENERAL CHENNAULT'S BEST KNOWN FLYING TIGERS SAYS THAT THE MEDITERRANEAN AREA IS "A MUCH TOUGHER LEAGUE THAN BURMA EVER WAS."

"COMPETITION IS A LOT KEENER FLYING AGAINST THE GERMANS THATN IT EVER WAS AGAINST THE JAPS, AND YOU HAVE LESS CHANCE OF COMING BACK FROM A MISSION," ACCORDING TO MAJOR JOHN GILPIN BRIGHT, 24, OF READING, PA.

NOA A P38 FIGHTER PILOT, HE CHALKED UP EIGHT VICTORIES IN SIX MONTHS OF FLYING FOR CHINA OVER BURMA, AND HAS SHOT DOWN AN ITALIAN TRANSPORT SINCE COMING HERE A MONTH AGO. HE ALSO SET A GERMAN BOMBER ON FIRE IN A RAID OVER TERRANOVA, SARDINIA, BUT THREE OTHER FLIERS OF THE SQUADRON HE COMMANDS CLOSED IN AND POURED IN BULLETS, SO THEY CUT THE CARDS FOR THE VICTORY.

"I DREW THE DEUCE," BRIGHT RECALLED RUEFULLY AS HE SWUNG HIS STOCKINGED FEET FROM A COT IN A TENT.

THE YOUNG MAJOR, WHO JOINED THE USAAF AFTER THE BREAK-UP OF THE AMERICAN VOLUNTEER GROUP IN CHINA, SAID HE PREFERRED FIGHTING IN NORTH AFRICA, ALTHOUGH THE RISK WAS GREATER, BECAUSE OF HIGHER QUALITY FLYING.

"IT ALSO IS MORE FUN FIGHTING ON THE SIDE YOU KNOW IS WINNING," HE ADDED. "OVER THERE WE WERE PURELY ON THE DEFENSIVE, GETTING ONLY AN OCCASIONAL PASS AT THE JAPS, WHO HAD THE EDGE IN AIR POWER. HERE WE ARE ON THE OFFENSIVE AND HAVE THE GERMANS IN THE SAME POSITION THE JAPS HAD US IN BURMA. HERE WE CAN GO OUT OVER ENEMY TERRITORY LOOKING FOR TROUBLE.

"THE ONLY REAL SIMILARITY BETWEEN FLYING HERE AND IN BURMA IS THAT IT'S DONE IN THE AIR. EVERYTHING IS BETTER RUN HERE AND THE AVERAGE ABILITY OF ARMY AIR CORPS FLIERS IS MUCH HIGHER THAN IN THE AVG. THERE WERE SOME 110 FLIERS UNDER CONTRACT IN THE AVG, BUT ABOUT 15 OR 20 DID MORE THAN HALF OF THE WORK AGAINST THE JAPS. HERE EVERY GUY CARRIES HIS SHARE OF THE LOAD."

BRIGHT, WHO IS BELIEVED TO BE THE ONLY FLIER FROM THE AVG IN AFRICA, SAID "THE JAPS HAVE PLENTY OF GUTS BUT NO BRAINS. THE GERMANS ARE MORE LIKE US -- THEY LIKE TO GET BACK HOME AND EAT DOUGHNUTS. THE JAPS DON'T SEEM TO CARE. THEY ARE STILL FULL OF THAT OLD 'DIE FOR THE EMPEROR' STUFF. BUT THAT MAKES THEM EVEN MORE DANGEROUS. THE GERMANS ARE MORE CAUTIOUS, SKILLFUL AND SCIENTIFIC FLIERS. YOU CAN'T TAKE CHANCES WITH THEM OR THEY'LL GET YOU."

BRIGHT SAID THAT DESPITE THE MORE CANNY FLYING IN THIS AREA HE WOULD PREFER TO FLY AGAINST A GERMAN FOE THAN A JAPANESE IF THE JAPANESE EVER GET PLANES EQUAL TO THOSE USED BY THE AXIS IN THE EUROPEAN THEATER. HE RATED ZEROS AS DISTINCTLY INFERIOR TO MESSERSCH-

MITTS OR ITALIAN FIGHTER PLANES.

"THOSE JAPS REALLY DON'T KNOW HOW TO FLY AT ALL -- LOOK WHAT OUR P38S ARE DOING TO THEM NOW--BUT IN GOOD PLANES THEY WOULD REALLY BE ROUGH TO FIGHT. THEY'RE CRAZY ENOUGH NOW, BUT IN A FASTER SHIP THEY'D BE WORSE. THEY JUST DON'T WORRY ABOUT THEIR OWN SAFETY."

THE YOUNG FLIER WHO GOT A $500 BONUS FOR EVERY JAPANESE PLANE KNOCKED DOWN IN BURMA--THE AVERAGE FLIER ALSO DREW A MONTHLY SALARY OF FROM $600 TO $750 A MONTH--GRINNED AS HE TOLD OF ANOTHER DIFFERENCE MADE BY HIS ENTRY INTO THE ARMY.

"IN BURMA FIVE OF US HAD A 15-ROOM HOUSE AND THREE SERVANTS--THAT WAS LIGHT HOUSEKEEPING THERE. HERE THREE OF US BUNK UP IN A ONE ROOM TENT. BUT I WILL STILL TAKE IT TO BURMA."

(ADVANCE) CAYENNE, FRENCH GUIANA--(AP)--FRANCE'S NOTORIOUS "DRY GUILLOTINE," THE WORLD-FAMED AND FEARED DEVIL'S ISLAND PRISON COLONY OFF THE COAST OF SOUTH AMERICA, IS BEING DISMANTLED.

SOON NO MORE HAPLESS INMATES OF THIS HALF-DREAM WORLD OF CASTAWAY, FORGOTTEN MEN WILL FEEL THEIR MINDS SHEARED INCH BY INCH, DAY BY DAY, YEAR BY YEAR.

JUN - 7 1943

LESS THAN 120 PRISONERS REMAIN ON THE THREE SALVATION ISLANDS, AS THE FRENCH CALL THEM, AND OF THESE ONLY 13 ARE LEFT ON DEVIL'S ISLAND PROPER WHERE YOUNG CAPTAIN DREYFUS WAS SENT IN EXILE AND DISGRACE, CONVICTED OF A TREASON CHARGE OF WHICH HE LATER WAS CLEARED. WHEN THESE DIE, THE ISLAND'S NEAR-CENTURY-OLD HISTORY AS A PRISON WILL END.

MEANWHILE THE CONVICTS ARE TEARING DOWN THE "BATIMENTS" ON ILE ST. JOSEPH TO PROVIDE SPACE FOR VEGETABLE GARDENS AND BUILDING MATERIAL FOR CAYENNE. IN THESE DISMAL DUNGEONS ABOVE GROUND, ALMOST WITHOUT LIGHT AND AIR, SOME 200 MEN WERE ONCE KEPT.

BUT FOR THE MOMENT, "LA BAGNE DU DIABLE" STILL GRINDS ON WITH ALL ITS OLDTIME DREAD, MODIFIED IN RECENT YEARS ONLY FOR THOSE NOT ON ILE DU DIABLE WHERE CONDITIONS ARE MUCH THE SAME AS WHEN DREYFUS WAS THERE.

TOGETHER WITH THE PRISON COMMANDANT, LT. GEORGES MARTINEAU, A FRENCH MEDICAL OFFICER, LT. ALEX GUIBERT-GERMAINE, AND AN AMERICAN

SAILOR, E.J.BEISEIGEL, JR., OF (7740 ALBRIGHT AV) ELKINS PARK, PA., REPRESENTING LT. CMDR. J.M.KRAUSE, U.S.N., OF ST.LOUIS, MO., HEAD OF THE AMERICAN MILITARY MISSION IN FRENCH GUIANA, I SPENT A DISTRESSING TWO HOURS ON ILE DU DIABLE.

ONE PRISONER, A BELGIAN NATIONAL WHO IS SUPPOSED TO HAVE HELPED SEND EDITH CAVELL TO HER DEATH IN WORLD WAR 1, PLEADED WITH ME TO SEND THE AMERICAN CONSUL TO SEE HIM.

JUN -7 1943

CONVICTED AS A GERMAN SPY, THIS BEARDED OUTCAST INSISTS, LIKE SO MANY CONVICTS, ON HIS INNOCENCE, DECLARES HE WAS NOT A GERMAN SPY, BUT AN AMERICAN SPY BEFORE OUR ENTRY INTO THE LAST WAR. ABSORBED IN BRUSSELLS INTRIGUE 25 YEARS AGO, TODAY HE SPENDS MUCH OF HIS TIME, LIKE MANY OF HIS COLLEAGUES, MAKING TURQUOISE ORNAMENTS.

HE GAVE HIS NAME AS EUGENE JASIENSKI.

THE OTHER MEN ON DIABLE ARE EITHER, LIKE JASIENSKI, CONVICTED TRAITORS CALLED "DEPORTES," OR CONVICTED MURDERERS WHO SHARE WITH OTHER CRIMINALS THE TERM OF "TRANSPORTES." THE DEPORTES CAN DO AS THEY PLEASE WHILE THE TRANSPORTES ARE REQUIRED TO WORK.

JUN -7 1943

ON DIABLE THESE MEN WHO ONCE WERE FRANCE'S MOST VICIOUS MURDERERS OR MOST HATED TRAITORS, ARE CUT ADRIFT, EVEN FROM OTHER CRIMINALS, AND LEFT AS ENFORCED CASTAWAYS. THEIR ONLY CONTACT WITH THE REST OF THE PRISON IS THE DAILY FOOD RATION SENT OVER FROM ILE ROYALE BY BOAT, OR BY CABLE BUCKET ABOVE THE TURBULENT CHANNEL ON STORMY DAYS.

THIS IS PARCELED OUT TO THEM ALONG WITH FIREWOOD BY DIABLE'S CHIEF GUARD, RENE ROUX, A SQUAT GENIAL PROVENCAL, OR HIS ASSISTANT, AND EACH MUST PREPARE HIS OWN MEALS, SUPPLEMENTING THE PRISON HANDOUT AS HE CAN WITH FISH, FOWL OR PORK WHICH IS CAUGHT OFF SHORE OR RAISED ON THE ISLAND. PRISON OFFICIALS DID NOT TELL WHAT THE RATIONS WERE BUT POLITICAL PRISONERS, HELD ON DIABLE DURING VICHY'S REGIME AND RELEASED FOLLOWING THE MARCH 17 "REBELLION," SAID THEY RECEIVED CORNED BEEF, RICE, COFFEE, SUGAR, SALT, BREAD AND OIL.

THE PRISONERS LIVE IN ADOBE HUTS IN ROWS ALONG THE ROAD FROM THE DOCK AT THE SOUTHWESTERN END, WHERE THERE IS A WALLED HOUSE TO SEGREGATE SURLY PRISONERS. OTHERWISE THEY ARE FREE TO ROAM THE ISLE, THE TRANSPORTES AT THEIR WORK, AND THE DEPORTES AT WHATEVER THEY WISH. MOST OF THEM RAISE CHICKENS AND PIGS, GO FISHING ALONG THE SHORE, OR MAKE TRINKETS.

JUN -7 1943

THE HUTS ARE ABOUT 10 BY 12 FEET, WITH A WINDOW AND DOOR IN FRONT, BED OR COUCH INSIDE. ONCE THERE WERE MANY HUTS, BUT NOW THE TRANSPORTES DEMOLISH THEM AS FAST AS THEY ARE VACATED SO THAT THERE ARE ONLY 15 HUTS LEFT AND THE ONE OCCUPIED BY CAPTAIN DREYFUS IS GONE. ROUX AND HIS ASSISTANT LIVE IN A LARGE HOUSE ON A HILLTOP OVERLOOKING THE HUTS.

AS WE WALKED UP THE "STREET" MANY OF THE PRISONERS GAZED AT US WITH DESOLATE, BEATEN EYES, BUT ONLY JASIENSKI APPROACHED TO SPEAK. MARTINEAU WARNED HE WOULD PROBABLY KEEP US THERE ALL NIGHT IF HE COULD, AND THE COMMANDANT WAS UNDOUBTEDLY RIGHT.

ON SUNNY DAYS STRIPS OF LIGHT FILTER THROUGH THE CANOPY OF LEAVES. ROOSTERS CROW OCCASIONALLY AMID THE CHIRPING OF BIRDS OVERHEAD. BUT MOST DAYS IT RAINS--THE DRY GUILLOTINE MAY NOT SHOW BLOOD BUT IT SHOWS PLENTY OF WATER.

AT THE OUTERMOST TIP OF THE ISLAND, AS CLOSE TO FRANCE AS ONE CAN GET, CAPTAIN DREYFUS USED TO SIT, WAITING FOR THE SHIP WHICH WOULD BRING

JUN -7 1943

VINDICATION.

THERE HE BUILT A BENCH OF LAVA ROCKS. THE CRUDE AFFAIR, WORN SLICK BY DREYFUS' SUCCESSORS, IS STILL THERE.

DIABLE IS THE SMALLEST OF THE ISLETS. ILE ROYALE, THE LARGEST, IS THE SEAT OF ADMINISTRATION AND HOLDS MOST OF THE PRISONERS. ST. JOSEPH, ONCE THE CONCENTRATION POINT FOR HARDENED CRIMINALS, IS BEING TURNED INTO VEGETABLE GARDENS.

JUN -7 1943

WORST CONFINEMENT ANYWHERE ON "LES ILES" MUST HAVE BEEN IN THE BATIMENTS OF ST.JOSEPH, NOW BEING TORN DOWN. EACH OF THE THREE LARGE BATIMENTS HELD TWO ROWS OF THIRTY CELLS EACH, WITH A CATWALK ABOVE AND BETWEEN THEM FOR GUARDS TO PEER INTO THE GLOOM INSIDE. ENOUGH OF THESE CUBICLES ARE STILL INTACT TO GIVE A GOOD IDEA OF WHAT LIFE MUST HAVE BEEN WITHIN THEM.

EACH IS ABOUT 6 BY 4 FEET, WITH A BARRED DOOR AND CONCRETE-FACED WALLS WHICH CURVE IN AT THE TOP TO FORM AN ARCHED CEILING.

THE GUARD'S PEEP-HOLE AT THE BACK AND TOP WAS THE ONLY SOURCE OF LIGHT SINCE THE BARRED DOOR GAVE ONLY ONTO THE WALK AROUND THE CELL-BLOCK. IF THE GUARDS CHOSE, THEY COULD KEEP THE CELLS ENTIRELY BLACK.

IN THESE HOLES THE INCORRIGIBLES WERE KEPT, SOMETIMES FOR FIVE OR TEN YEARS.

JUN -7 1943

NEAR THE BATIMENTS WERE 10 CONCRETE HUTS FOR CONVICTS PERMITTED TO WORK AND MOVE AROUND OUTSIDE. THESE ONCE HELD FROM FOUR TO SIX MEN WHO ENJOYED BARRED WINDOWS, SOME FRESH AIR AND LIGHT. THESE WERE DEROOFED ALMOST A YEAR AGO AND ALREADY THE SITE IS SO OVERGROWN IT SEEMS TO HAVE BEEN ABANDONED FOR AT LEAST A DECADE. THE FORMER HOSPITAL BUILT IN 1835 AND ASYLUM HAVE ALSO HAD THEIR ROOFS TAKEN OFF.

FOUR SPACIOUS FRAME AND BRICK HOMES ONCE OCCUPIED BY PRISON OFFICIALS STAND DESERTED ABOVE THE WHARF.

ON THE OPPOSITE SIDE OF ST.JOSEPH NEAR THE SEA IS A NEAT LITTLE CEMETERY WHERE MEMBERS OF THE GARRISON AND THEIR FAMILIES WHO DIE ON DUTY ARE BURIED.

WE INQUIRED HOW PRISONERS WERE BURIED. THEY ARE NOT. THEIR BODIES ARE GIVEN TO THE SEA, ALIVE WITH MAN-EATING TIGER SHARKS, OR USED IN MEDICAL RESEARCH IN THE PRISON HOSPITALS. THE DIRECTOR OF THE CAYENNE PRISON HOSPITAL SAID THIS WORK IS VERY VALUABLE FOR THE OPPORTUNITIES IT GIVES TO PRY INTO ACTUAL HUMAN BODIES. FEW OF THE MEN LEAVE ANY INSTRUCTION AS TO DISPOSITION OF THEIR BODIES, AND THE FAMILIES OR RELATIVES ARE SELDOM HEARD FROM, EITHER.

WHEN MEN ARE SENT OUT FOR OVER FIVE YEARS, HE SAID, THEIR FAMILIES AND FRIENDS WRITE FOR PERHAPS ONE OR TWO YEARS, BUT THEN LETTERS USUALLY BECOME FARTHER APART AND FINALLY CEASE ENTIRELY. A MAN ON "LES ILES" IS TRULY ABANDONED, GONE, FORGOTTEN.

EXCEPT FOR THE CASTAWAYS ON DIABLE, ILE ROYALE IS NOW THE WHOLE ESTABLISHMENT. IN THE CENTER THE HOMES FOR THE GUARDS AND CELLBLOCKS FOR THE CONVICTS ARE GROUPED AROUND A SHADED GREEN QUADRANGLE. THE CELLBLOCKS HOUSE A LITTLE MORE THAN 100 MEN.

TODAY THERE ARE ONLY 21 GUARDS, OF WHOM FIVE HAVE THEIR WIVES WITH THEM.

ALL AROUND ROYALE'S SLOPES CONVICTS HAVE PLANTED VEGETABLE PATCHES, AND THEY OPERATE A COCONUT OIL FACTORY WHERE THE PRISON'S SUPPLY OF OILS FOR COOKING AND EATING IS PRODUCED BY HANDPOWER ON A ROTARY GRINDER. BELOW THE FACTORY IS THE BAKERY WHERE OTHER CONVICTS

ANOTHER CONSTRUCTED A BOAT WITH CAVAS STRETCHED OVER A LIGHT WOODEN FRAME WHICH IS NOW ON EXHIBIT IN THE CAYENNE "MUSEUM." MOST OF THOSE WHO TRIED TO SWIM WERE ENDED BY SHARKS.

THROUGH THE PERMISSION OF FRANCE GUIANA'S NEW GOVERNOR, JEAN RAPENNE, I BECAME THE FIRST AMERICAN NEWSPAPERMAN TO VISIT DEVIL'S ISLAND IN SEVERAL YEARS. THE TRIP MEANT LEAVING CAYENNE AT 4 A.M. IN A SMALL LAUNCH AND BOUNCING AND ROCKING FOR FOUR HOURS OUT AND SIX HOURS BACK--LONGER ON THE RETURN BECAUSE OF THE OCEAN CURRENT. FOR THE FIRST TIME IN MANY VOYAGES, INCLUDING A TRIP AROUND THE WORLD, I WAS SEASICK.

HEARTY, JOVIAL AND QUITE TALKATIVE MARTINEAU GREETED US AT THE ROYALE PIER, WHERE CUSTOMS AND STOREHOUSES LENT A COMMERCIAL ATMOSPHERE.

AT ANY EVENT, THE ISLES WILL ASSUME IMPORTANCE AS AN ANCHORAGE FOR LARGE STEAMERS EXPECTED TO APPROACH CAYENNE AS THE FRENCH COLONY TAKES A GREATER PLACE IN WORLD TRADE AS AN OUTLET FOR GOLD, IRON, BAUXITE AND TIMBER FROM THE VAST UNPEOPLED INTERIOR. THE HARBOR AT CAYENNE HAS ALWAYS BEEN TOO SHALLOW FOR LARGE SHIPS.

OTHER BRANCHES OF THE FRENCH PENAL ESTABLISHMENT IN GUIANA ARE ALSO APPROACHING THEIR END. ALTOGETHER THEY HOLD TODAY ONLY 2,000 PERSONS AS COMPARED WITH 6,000 OR 7,000 FORMERLY ON "LES ILES," AT CAYENNE AND AT SAINT LAURENT.

JUN - 7 1943

NO "CONVOYS" OF NEW PRISONERS HAVE BEEN RECEIVED SINCE BEFORE THE WAR AND PRESENT COLONIAL OFFICIALS SAY THEY WANT NO MORE. CONVICTS WERE ORIGINALLY BROUGHT TO GUIANA, BEGINNING IN 1854, WITH THE IDEA THAT THEY WOULD STAY ON AFTER THEIR TERMS WERE FINISHED AND THUS HELP TOWARD COLONIZATION.

THAT WAS THE REASON BEHIND THE SO-CALLED "DOUBLAGE" WHEREBY A CONVICT WAS FORCED TO REMAIN IN THE COLONY AFTER HIS RELEASE FROM PRISON FOR AS LONG AS HIS PRISON TERM.

BUT POTENTIAL INVESTORS AND POTENTIAL IMMIGRANTS WERE FRIGHTENED AWAY FROM GUIANA, OFFICIALS SAY. CONVICTS, INSTEAD OF PROMOTING COLONIZATION AND DEVELOPMENT, HINDERED IT.

"WE USED TO HAVE SOME HARD CHARACTERS HERE, BUT NOW THEY'RE ALL PRETTY OLD AND TAME," SAID MARTINEAU, WHO ADDED HE EXPECTED TO SEE THE

DARKA, FRENCH WEST AFRICA-(AP)-ESTABLISHMENT OF BRITISH AND AMERICAN BASES IN AND NEAR STRATEGIC DAKAR, WELCOMED FIVE MONTHS AGO AS A SIGN THAT THE CITY SOON WOULD RETURN TO ITS OLD PROSPEROUS MANNER OF LIVING, HAS NOT PRODUCED THE EXPECTED RESULT.

ALTHOUGH SHIPS OF A DOZEN NATIONS PUT INTO ITS HARBOR AND ITS STREET HUM WITH ACTIVITY ONCE AGAIN, DAKAR STILL IS FAR FROM A COMFORTABLE PLACE IN WHICH TO LIVE.

THE INFLUX OF BRITISH AND AMERICANS, PLUS THE RECENT RETURN OF SEVERAL HUNDRED WOMEN AND CHILDREN EVACUATED TO NORTH AFRICA LAST OCTOBER, HAS MADE THE HOUSING SITUATION CRITICAL. COMPARED TO DAKAR, WASHINGTON IS SITTING PRETTY.

THE HOTELS ALL HAVE LONG WAITING LISTS AND TRANSIENT BUSINESS NO LONGER EXISTS. MANY FAMILIES HAVE DOUBLED UP. EVEN THE HOTEL DU GOUVERNEUR, NORMALLY HELD OPEN FOR VISITORS OF STATE, IS FILLED UP WITH REGULAR RESIDENTS. NEW HOMES AND APARTMENTS ARE BEING BUILT BY THE DOZEN YET THE GOVERNMENT HAS FOUND INSPECTIONS NECESSARY TO SEE THAT NO ONE FAMILY OCCUPIES TOO MUCH SPACE. IF A NEWCOMER HAS CONNECTIONS HE CAN ASK THAT A HOUSE BE "REQUISITIONED." IF THE GOVERNMENT OBLIGES, HE GETS A PLACE, AND SOME FRENCH FAMILY MOVES OUT.

IRONICALLY, BRITISH OFFICERS ARE QUARTERED IN AN AUDITORIUM USED LESS THAN EIGHT MONTHS AGO TO HOUSE APPARATUS FOR JAMMING BBC BROADCASTS.

RATIONING LIKEWISE HAS BECOME MORE AND MORE SEVERE, PARTLY BECAUSE MANY THINGS ONCE IMPORTED FROM NORTH AFRICA ARE BEING USED TO SUSTAIN TROOPS THERE. THOUSANDS OF TONS OF LEND-LEASE GOODS FROM AMERICA HAVE GONE TO THE FRENCH ARMY OR TO THE INTERIOR FOR USE IN STIMULATING AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION.

THERE ARE TWO MEATLESS DAYS EACH WEEK AND FISH HAS BEEN LARGELY SUBSTITUTED FOR FRESH MEAT. WHITE BREAD IS ENJOYED ONLY BY AMERICAN SOLDIERS, WHO IMPORT THEIR OWN FLOUR AND OPERATE THEIR OWN BAKERY. EVEN RED TABLE WINE, CORNERSTONE OF FRENCH CUISINE, IS SCARCE.

CLOTHING RATION CARDS PERMIT EXPENDITURE OF 25 POINTS A MONTH, ENABLING A HOUSEWIFE TO HAVE A NEW DRESS ABOUT EVERY 60 DAYS AT ABOUT 360 FOR AN ORDINARY GARMENT. STOCKINGS HAVE DISAPPEARED.

A BLACK MARKET FLOURISHES THROUGH DAKAR'S SEVERAL THOUSAND SYRIANS -- ALIENS ABLE TO SUPPLY ALMOST ANYTHING AT A PRICE. THE GOVERNMENT HAS IMPOSED HEAVY FINES, BUT ANYONE WHO NEEDS "UNOBTAINABLE" ITEMS CAN FIND THEM BY GOING TO THE RIGHT PERSON.

CONTINUED DROUGHT AND OVER-POPULATION MAKE IT POSSIBLE TO DRAW WATER ONLY AT BREAKFAST AND DINNER TIME, AND BECAUSE OF THE SHORTAGE THE CITY'S SEWAGE SYSTEM LIKEWISE DOES NOT FUNCTION PROPERLY. THE APPROACHING RAINY SEASON MAY RELIEVE THIS SITUATION, BUT WITH IT COMES THREE MONTHS OF MERCILESS HEAT.

JUN - 7 1943

BICYCLES AND HORSE-DRAWN CARTS AND CARRIAGES CONTINUE TO FILL DAKAR'S STREETS. MOST OF ITS AUTOMOBILES STILL ARE CHARCOAL-BURNING "GAS-O-GENES." GASOLINE SHIPMENTS FROM THE UNITED STATES PROVIDE ONLY FOR MILITARY NEEDS.

MILITARY MOBILIZATION IS PROGRESSING AT A FAST CLIP, PROVIDING DAKAR'S INDUSTRIES AND BUSINESS WITH AN ADDITIONAL HEADACHE. AS IN OTHER QUARTERS OF THE GLOBE, WOMEN ARE FILLING MEN'S SHOES. PARIS-DAKAR, GOVERNMENT-CONTROLLED DAILY NEWSPAPER, HAS, FOR EXAMPLE, FOUR WOMEN ON ITS EDITORIAL STAFF WHERE FORMERLY IT HAD NONE. ITS CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING COLUMNS CONTAIN, EACH DAY, A LONG STRING OF HELP-WANTED NOTICES.

19 Axis Planes Are Shot Down, With Loss of Only One by Allied Forces

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 7.—Tearing apart the Axis air opposition at the rate of nineteen enemy planes destroyed to one Allied craft lost, squadrons of Allied bombers and fighter-bombers struck at the Italian islands and Italy under almost continual attack during the week end.

Communiques issued today here and at Cairo, the headquarters of the Middle East Command, told a story of shattering assaults all along the Italian Mediterranean island defenses against both sides of the Messina Strait.

Allied planes sweeping out from North Africa and the Middle East attacked mainly the long-punished island of Pantelleria, but Sicily and the continental supply ports of Messina, San Giovanni and Reggio Calabria were hard hit as well.

Many Types of Planes Used

The Allies threw in virtually every sort of plane now in the great force built up on the shores of Africa—Wellingtons, Fortresses, Liberators, Baltimores, Bostons, Marauders, Mitchells, Warhawks and Spitfires.

They again met considerable German fighter strength, particularly over Pantelleria, but they smashed through every enemy formation, downing an aggregate of sixteen fighters, two bombers and one transport at the cost of a single Allied plane lost over Pantelleria.

The biggest single blow dealt the enemy's fighter strength was struck by fifty Liberators of the Middle East Command, which went over to pound Messina, Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni. They blew out of the sky at least eight Axis planes and in all probability three more, of an enemy force of about thirty.

Not one of the fifty American raiders was lost.

Pantelleria Pounded Again

Pantelleria, a strip of Axis ground which for weeks now has shaken in flames under Allied bombs, was hit first by heavy bombers and then by medium and fighter bombers. Eight enemy fighters were shot down.

At Messina the railroad yards were sprayed with bombs, and explosives fell also in the vicinity of the power station, naval barracks and oil tanks. Bomb bursts lighted up Reggio Calabria's harbor area; the ferry terminal at San Giovanni was squarely hit.

[The Italians asserted that five Allied planes were brought down in the Messina Strait raids and seven over Pantelleria and that three other Allied planes were knocked down in other operations. Sinking of an Allied submarine by Italian naval action also was asserted.]

Two-Way Smash Follows Attacks On Battleships

JUN - 8 1943

By the Associated Press.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 7.—Hitting from two directions, American and British Empire airmen yesterday smashed rail and ferry facilities on both sides of Messina Strait at the toe of the Italian boot, and pounded Pantelleria again, following up Saturday's smashing attack on three big battleships of the Italian fleet at La Spezia.

At least eight of a formation of more than 30 fighter planes which attempted to intercept American heavy bombers of the Middle East command which raided San Giovanni, Reggio Calabria and Messina, were shot down and others were damaged, a Cairo communique said.

It was officially announced that "approximately 50 of our aircraft took part in the attacks" from Middle East bases and every one returned safely.

Hits were scored on railway sidings, oil installations and other terminal facilities, the communique declared.

No Allied Planes Lost.

RAF fighters yesterday also shot down two Cant Z-1007s, three-engined heavy bombers, in the Eastern Mediterranean, it was announced. No Allied planes were lost.

(The Italian communique, broadcast by the Rome radio and recorded by the Associated Press, asserted without offering any further detail that an Allied submarine was sunk by the Royal Italian Navy in the Mediterranean.

(The Italians also said their fighter planes brought down four four-engined bombers and anti-aircraft guns downed a fifth in the Allied raids on Messina, Reggio Calabria and other localities on the Messina Strait. They acknowledged further bombing of Pantelleria.

(In the Pantelleria raids the Italians asserted seven Allied planes were brought down by their fighters and anti-aircraft guns. They said German fighter planes brought down two other bombers south of Sicily and a Spitfire near Lampedusa Island. Three Italian planes were lost, it was said.

(Another Rome radio broadcast said 50 were killed and seven injured in the vicinity of Reggio Calabria.)

Daylight Plane Attacks.

The aerial softening of Pantelleria continued yesterday after daylight plane attacks Saturday which, in turn, had followed a dawn bombardment by the British Navy—the fifth time in seven days its guns had thundered against enemy batteries on the volcanic Italian outpost.

The Italian batteries answered, but yesterday's communique said no damage was done the Allied fleet.

Along with the concerted air and navy surface craft attacks paving the way for the day when Allied ground troops may be ferried across the 90 miles of the Sicilian strait, came official accounts of submarine action that battered Axis shipping in the area.

Monserrato airdrome and shipping in Porto Ponte de Romano in Southern Sardinia also were hit in Saturday's aerial action, which was climaxed by the American daylight bombing of La Spezia, during which armor-piercing 2,000-pound bombs were laid among the Italian battleships.

The Middle East Air Command added to the wide range of operations with an attack Friday night on Catania, Eastern Sicily port, and sank four enemy vessels off Greece.

Six Enemy Ships Sunk.

British submarines, invading Italian and island harbors, sank six enemy ships, severely damaged another, and probably torpedoed an eighth, and one surfaced submarine dropped shells on an enemy airfield in Northern Corsica, it was announced in London last night by the Admiralty.

Listed as destroyed were an anti-submarine naval auxiliary in Augusta Harbor, Sicily; two small supply ships in the strait between Cirsica and Sardinia; a tanker near Monte Carlo in the Gulf of Genoa; a large supply ship near the Gulf of Policastro in Southwest Italy, and a small ship in the same area.

JUN - 8 1943

One large supply ship torpedoed in Catania Bay was seen to be down at the stern, and another large supply ship suffered probable torpedo hits in the Gulf of Genoa, the Admiralty said.

The raid on the Italian navy in hiding at La Spezia was a 1,400-mile round trip made by the largest group of Flying Fortresses ever sent out from Africa. Some previous raids have been in strength of more than 100 bombers.

La Spezia is 50 miles southeast of Genoa and 40 miles north of Leghorn (Livorno) which was attacked by American bombers May 28. La Spezia was bombed once before, last April 18, in a night attack by RAF Britain-based bombers. Genoa also has been raided by bombers that crossed the Alps after flying from Britain.

Yesterday's Allied headquarters communique said only that "hits were observed in the dock area, among warships and other shipping. There were large explosions and many fires."

Preliminary reports at headquarters showed that a large number of 1-ton bombs were scattered among the battleships, huge harbor areas were blasted and set afire, a merchant ship was blown up and a large barge was sunk.

Harold V. Boyle, Associated Press correspondent at an advanced bomber base in North Africa, provided the first news of the raid Saturday night and his reports from pilots indicated the 35,000-ton battleships Littorio, Vittorio Veneto and Roma were damaged by hits and near misses. A heavy cruiser also was reported hit.

Fire and smoke blotted out the whole area quickly and headquarters was waiting for air reconnaissance photographs to tell the complete story.

The Fortresses flew without fighter escort and all returned to base.

Italy Attacked by Daylight

CAIRO, Egypt, June 7 (AP)—A strong force of American heavy bombers attacked Messina, Sicily, and the towns of San Giovanni and Reggio Calabria, at the "toe" of the Italian "boot," in daylight yesterday, it was announced today.

The raiders destroyed at least eight Messerschmitt-109s and damaged others in an air battle with more than thirty enemy fighters. The bombers returned home without loss, the announcement said.

"At Messina," a communiqué said, "bursts were seen in railway sidings near the naval barracks and oil installations in the harbor area.

"Direct hits were scored on the ferry terminus at San Giovanni and at Reggio Calabria bursts were seen south of the terminus and on a ferryboat."

The announcement also reported that R. A. F. fighters had shot down two Italian three-engined bombers over the Eastern Mediterranean yesterday.

Announcement Fails To Give Makeup Of War Committee

[By the Associated Press]

Algiers, June 7—The French Committee of National Liberation officially announced formation of a Cabinet of eleven members tonight to act as the governing agency until a provisional Government is established upon liberation of the home country.

The announcement came at the end of a day of rumors and, coming in three separate communiques, was vague in some respects. It also spoke of the formation of a war committee "to assure general conduct of the war."

Become Committee Of 14

At this stage, the committee was disclosed to consist of fourteen members—eleven Cabinet members, the copresidents, Generals Charles de Gaulle and Henri Giraud, and Gen. Alphonse Georges, who is said to be slated to become Minister without portfolio. He is the only one of the original seven members of the committee not listed for a department and it appeared he is to be sidetracked because of his age and his oppotition to de Gaulle.

Makeup Of Cabinet

The official makeup of the new Cabinet is:

RENE MASSIGLI, Foreign Affairs.

GEN. GEORGES CATROUX, Coordinator of Moslem Affairs.

JEAN MONNET, Armaments.

RENE PLEVEN, Colonies.

RENE MEYER, Communications and Merchant Marine.

HENRI, BONNET, Information.

ANDRE PHILIP, Interior.

DR. JULES ABADIE, Justice, Education and Health.

MAURICE COUVE DE MURVILLE, Finance.

ANDREW DIETHELM, Production and Commerce.

ADRIEN TIXIER, Labor and Social Affairs.

Dr. Abadie had been Gen. Henri Giraud's Secretary of the Interior.

Name Successor To Nogues

The committee appointed Gabriel Puaux, former High Commissioner in Syria, as successor to Gen. Auguste Nogues as Resident General of Morocco and named Jean Hellen High Commissioner in Syria to succeed Catroux, now a member of the committee and Governor General of Algiera.

Membership of the war committee was not announced, nor was its size disclosed.

Giraud and de Gaulle, the copresidents, were not listed for portfolios, indicating there was no agreement yet on this point.

It was generally expected, however, that Giraud would continue a commander in chief of the French army.

The only important cabinet posts still unfilled are those of minister of war, navy and air—which might be grouped in a single portfolio, as has been done before in France.

Not Formally Set Up

As the committee is not formally set up as a government, the members will not be called ministers, but will be merely ho'ders of portfolios. What would in normal French Government be known as ministries will be given the American name of departments.

The committee in its pronouncements once more declared itself the sole central French authority and once more pledged itself to surrender its powers to the provisional government to be set up when France is liberated.

It asserted, however, its right to negotiate treaties with foreign powers and to accredit diplomatic representatives to foreign powers and to receive foreign diplomatic representatives.

Lack Diplomatic Status

So far the United States and Britain, while receiving representatives of both de Gaulle's and Giraud's factions, have not accorded them full diplomatic status and since they regard the present committee as a de facto organization with attributes of Government rather than as the Government of France, it is uncertain under what terms they will receive its representatives.

Today's announcements were signed by Giraud and de Gaulle as joint presidents of the committee.

Informed sources said Pierre Boissan now is expected to remain as Governor General of French West Africa, despite the opposition of de Gaulle, who led an unsuccessful attack against Dakar earlier in the war.

Party Lines Broken

Giraud's press chief, Andre Labarthe, has been removed from office, it was learned.

Reliable sources said that the committee in its task of establishing a united government had broken away from "party lines" of Giraudists and de Gaullists, and that each member has been voting his individual opinion.

De Gaulle's appointees, Massigli and Philip, both were reported to have voted against his proposals on several occasions, and de Gaulle found himself in a minority of one over certain points, these sources said.

Publication of the daily Algier Republican, which had suspended in the early days of the war, and of the Communist weekly Liberte was authorized by the committee, following its declared policy of permitting greater freedom of the press. Algiers has three other dailies, La Depeche Algerienne, Echo d'Alger, and the Dernieres Nouvelles. Two other weeklies are the pro-Giraud Tam and the pro-de Gaulle Combat.

Sending Gold To France From Morocco Blocked

Casablanca, French Morocco, June 7 (AP)—The Bank of Morocco attempted to send almost $750,000 worth of gold to German-occupied France last February but was blocked when Gen. Henri Giraud's regime discovered the plan, reliable sources said today.

These sources, who cannot be identified by name, said Giraud authorities acted on the ground that the transaction violated Giraud's December decree forbidding commercial transactions with metropolitan France.

The incident was reported to be one of the reasons for the pressure for supplanting of Gen. Auguste Nogues as resident general. It was expected that some officers of the bank—a state institution formerly affiliated with the Bank of France—will go because of it.

Reds Repel Strong Feeler Attacks—Main Action Still In Air

Soviet Bombers Hit Rail Junction Near Orel. Oil Dumps Fired

JUN - 8 1943

[By the Associated Press]

London, Tuesday, June 8—Strong German feeler thrusts into Soviet lines were smashed back Monday on three main sectors, the Russians reported early today, but the main action on the long front still appeared to be in the air, with Red army and German airmen trading especially heavy blows Sunday night.

Soviet bombers smashed at the Nazi-held railway junction of Unecha in the Orel district, pounding ammunition, fuel and arms dumps and concentrations of enemy trains moving troops up to the front, a Moscow broadcast declared.

"Many fires broke out and heavy explosions were observed," said the Broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press. It reported only one Russian plane lost.

Twelve Shot Down

The radio declared twelve German planes were shot down out of a force of about one hundred that struck at Gorki, industrial center on the Volga some 250 miles east of Moscow.

The Germans declared the raid was the third successive night attack on Gorki, and that their planes set huge fires with 500 tons of explosives and 100,000 incendiaries. The Russians said bombs hit in residential areas, causing damage and casualties, while the Germans reported widespread damage to industrial sections.

Repulse of German scouting raids in force on the western front, in the Balakleya region of the Donets front, and before Rostov was reported in the Russian midnight communique recorded by the Soviet monitor.

300 Reported Killed

Three hundred Germans were killed in fighting on the western front, the bulletin said, and an enemy scouting raid was beaten off. The Germans threw a company of infantry and tanks against Soviet outposts in the Balakleya area, but were driven back with one hundred killed.

"West of Rostov the Germans attempted on various sectors to reconnoiter in force our positions," the communique reported "they were everywhere repelled by our troops, suffering heavy losses," with seventy killed in one attack.

Russian planes sank an enemy transport in the Gulf of Riga, and in the Black Sea sent down three cutters and five motorboats carrying soldiers and ammunition, the communique added.

Snipers Get Credit

Snipers of one unit on the northwestern front were credited with killing 504 enemy troops during May, with one sharpshooter getting twenty-three. Kalinin guerrillas, the communique said, recently derailed three enemy trains and killed one hundred Germans.

The Russians, pre-occupied with gathering German forces for an expected imminent summer offensive, declared their planes concentrated on German airdromes causing explosions and consuming flames. The air battle over the Russian front was one of immense attrition: Each side was trying to cripple the other to smooth way for the combat of decision.

The magnitude of the air combat was attested by official Russian figures of 752 Nazi planes destroyed in the week ended Saturday running the five weeks total to 2,821. The Russians admitted losing 212 aircraft in the week.

The front stirred at both ends near the Baltic and Black seas and in the middle on the Donets river front, accounts from the Moscow and Berlin radios—recorded by the Associated Press—said.

The Germans tried twice to cross the Donets near Lisichansk, 125 miles southeast of Kharkov, but the Russian noon communique said the Nazis were forced back each time. Russian guns pulverized more German fire points in the Sevsk and western front areas in the center and on the Volkov river south of Leningrad.

German reports told of futile Russian attacks in the Kuban area of the western Caucasus, south of Schluesselburg near Leningrad, south of Lake Ilmen, on the Volkhov front and near Staraya Russa.

1,000 Planes Used

The Germans said more than 1,000 planes were used in three raids on Gorki and that half of the tank-producing Molotov plant was "turned into a huge ocean of flames," fed by bursting oil tanks. The Gorki raids were described as "the hardest blows struck at Soviet war industry still under Soviet control." Flyers Sunday night and Monday morning were declared guided to Gorki from the Moscow district by large fires set on Friday and Saturday night. Ground fire was described as much weaker than in previous raids.

Arms plants near Gorki also were attacked and largely destroyed, the Germans said. The Russians said nothing of the German claims.

RED FLYERS BLAST GERMAN AIRFIELDS

London, June 7 (A. P.).—Russian bombers battered again at German airdromes behind the lines last night, the Soviet midday communique said today, continuing the relentless aerial warfare which was reported to have cost the Germans 752 planes from May 30 through June 5.

The Russians lost 212 planes in the week ending Saturday, according to the midnight communique. The week's action brought Nazi craft destroyed in the air and on the ground to 2,821 during the past five weeks.

On the ground, overnight attacks near Lisichansk in which the Germans attempted to force a Donets River crossing, and German counter-attacks near Sevsk, northwest of Kharkov, were beaten back after scores of the enemy had been killed, the Russians said.

The, m,i d d a y communique broadcast from Moscow and recorded by the Soviet monitor here, also described heavy Soviet artillery fire directed at German fortifications and supply lines.

Concentrated shelling to soften up enemy defenses was reported along the 2,000-mile front from the Rostov area of the southern sector to the Volkhov area, eighty-five miles southeast of Leningrad on the northern front.

[The German High Command communique, broadcast from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press, said but one plane was lost in the raid upon Corki last night and declared that eighty-three Soviet planes were destroyed Saturday and Sunday. "The air force, off the Caucasian coast, has sunk two enemy motor torpedo boats and one submarine chaser," it said.]

"Threads of the conspiracy allegedly led to the Quirinal (the hilltop residence of King Vittorio Emmanuel, where opposition officers always find support." the dispatch said.

It asserted that Gen. Ezio Rosi, who recently was removed as chief of the army staff, "is mentioned among persons implicated in the plot." The dispatch added: "It is noteworthy that German journalists in Geneva do not dispute the veracity of these reports."

SOVIET LOAN OVER TOP

Moscow, June 7 (A. P.).—Soviet Russia's second war loan of 12,000,000,000 rubles was oversubscribed by 2,561,000,000 rubles in the first twenty-four hours, it was announced today, and subscriptions were said to be mounting steadily.

In foreign trade the ruble has had a nominal value of 19 cents, but conditions governing Russia's economic contacts with the outside world make accurate conversion into the dollar impossible. On the basis of a 19-cent figure, however, 12,000,000,000 rubles would be $2,280,000,000.

AXIS SEES SHIFT OF WAR TO SPAIN IN ALLIED MOVES

JUN - 8 1943

U. S., British Leaders Remain Blandly Silent on Invasion Plans.

LONDON, June 7. — (AP) The Axis was at pains today to suggest that Spain might be the path of Allied invasion of Europe, dispatches from both Berlin and Rome taking that line.

The Allied leaders drew enemy nerves yet tauter by the bland mask thrown over their plans, and the best available information indicated that confusion was spreading in Italy.

No Aid for Italy

In all the complex of whispering and propaganda overlaying Europe one of the most interesting circumstances was the fact that the Germans—who so far as could be seen here were doing nothing to reinforce their Italian partner — seemed to be doing nothing to discourage the belief that Italy was reeling under the Allied air offensive.

The organ of Reichsmarshal Goering, the Essener National Zeitung, proclaimed: "The Italians must stand up under bombings; they have to do it to win the war or they can't exist."

From Stockholm, the Associated Press correspondent remarked that acknowledgment of Italy's shaky position by both the Germans and Italians were being accompanied by an apparent attempt to divert attention in the direction of Spain, and it was recalled that accusations that the Allies were about to attack this or that country have often been used by the Axis to cover up a planned attack of their own.

See Italy's Fall

Neutral observers who had been traveling of late in Germany said in Stockholm that responsible Germans had readily conceded their belief that Italy was in a bad way and that some had even predicted the Italians would be unable to last another two months under a continuance of the Allied bombing.

Stockholm also heard roundabout reports that many German officers in southern Italy and Sicily already had written Italy off, quietly acquiring mufti and even Italian identification papers so that if an invasion or an internal crack-up came they could lose themselves among the Italians.

Swedish correspondents in Rome reported to Stockholm that the Italian press on one hand was proclaiming that the Allies had failed to split Germany and Italy but on the other hand for the first time was printing from abroad accusations that the Nazis were the oppressors of Europe and that Italy was stringing along for mere opportunist reasons.

Orders Believed Given

Here in London, where Prime Minister Churchill's round of war conferences was continuing and the time and place of the next major Allied moves remained secrets, the British press seemed agreed on two points:

That detailed orders have now been given to the commanders who will carry them out, and that the nature of those orders will be known only when the guns open up.

JUN - 8 1943

London, June 7 (A. P.).—The Eighth United States Army Air Force was expanded today by the arrival of another large contingent of airmen and equipment, and already-feverish invasion speculation was heightened by Prime Minister Churchill's continuing round of conferences believed to bear directly on the Washington war strategy meeting and his visit to North Africa.

For military reasons the strength of the United States air unit just arrived at a British port was kept secret, but it is known that bombers and their crews have streamed across the Atlantic as the weather improved and that ground personnel, bombs and other equipment have been arriving regularly by boat.

The lull in the aerial onslaught to soften Europe for land invasion continued into its ninth day. The last heavy raids were May 29, when United States flyers hammered Rennes and St. Nazaire and the R. A. F. smashed at Wuppertal.

Bad Weather Curbs Raids.

Bad weather over the continent was given as the reason for the lay-off, although there was some speculation the heavy bombers had shifted to the Mediterranean area for concentrated action on that potential invasion front. The Daily Mail said the R. A. F. had a new bombing policy — giant raids aimed at obliterating a large industrial center in a single night.

The R. A. F. struck at channel shipping and French coastal districts Sunday and Nazi fighter-bombers hit at a southeast coastal town, which the German radio said was Eastbourne.

The invasion guessing continued in London's press, with the Daily Herald declaring Gen. George C. Marshall, United States Army Chief of Staff, probably would head invasion forces in the Mediterranean theater while a British general might direct any invasion against the northern Europe coast.

U. S. to Play Big Part.

The Daily Express said the North African conferences, attended by Mr. Churchill, Gen. George C. Marshall and Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, "put the finishing touches to the United Nations' summer campaign" and that Lieut.-Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth United States Army would play a large role.

The invasion-conscious Germans clamped another state of emergency down on the Norwegian port of Bergen, a potential landing point, and it was disclosed that German defensive demolitions had blasted a 600-yard wide belt with anti-tank ditches more than a mile from the sea, clear across the four miles of the Hague, Holland.

The Morocco radio reported new mass arrests of persons along the French coast who might have aided Allied invaders. A Spanish report said Gibraltar was practically bare of shipping.

Axis Sees Danger to Spain.

Stockholm, June 7 (A. P.).—Dispatches from Berlin and Rome today said Axis leaders were expressing fears that the Allies may strike a hard invasion blow through Spain.

Observers here immediately surmised that the reports, filtered through strict censorship, might be the prelude to German and Italian plans to march into Spain to set up air bases to defend the "European Fortress" better. It also was recalled that Gen. Francisco Franco was reported to have said he would call on the other side for assistance, should the Allies or Axis invade Spain.

Spain would provide either belligerent with good air bases. For the Allies, observers said, it would be an ideal bridgehead from which to furnish aerial cover for landing operations in western or southern France.

Berlin dispatches said German leaders were looking anxiously toward Spain, but the Nazis were quoted as saying Franco was prepared for any eventually.

After the Hitler and Mussolini conference April 12, there was considerable speculation that Spain might figure in Axis plans to buttress Europe, were North Africa lost.

Neutral observers who had been traveling of late in Germany said in Stockholm that responsible Germans had readily conceded their belief Italy was in a bad way and that some had even predicted the Italians would be unable to last another two months under Allied bombing. Stockholm also heard roundabout reports that many German officers in southern Italy and Sicily already had written Italy off, quietly acquiring mufti and even Italian identification papers so that if an invasion or an internal crack-up came they could lose themselves among the Italians.

During the first world war, Posthuma was Minister of Agriculture. Aneta said he was shot on Thursday by Dutch patriots. Several shots were fired, according to the report, which came via Stockholm.

Posthuma was the fifth prominent Dutch Nazi attacked in recent months. He was 69 years old.

In a broadcast heard at New York today by CBS, the British radio said that the German Government has set up a special colony for the growing number of refugee Quislings flocking to Berlin and Vienna. The colony, which already numbers 800 persons, is in Straubing, Bavaria, and is guarded by strong S. S. detachments, London declared, and added:

"Among twenty prominent Quisling families now in Berlin are those of Quisling himself and of Mussert, the Dutch Nazi leader. The family of De Grelle, the Belgian Rexist leader, recently arrived in Vienna."

London Slicker Sells Yank A Barrage Balloon

London, June 7 (AP)—An American soldier—presumably the son of the man who bought the Brooklyn Bridge—purchased a London barrage balloon for $180, Scotland Yard reported tonight.

The soldier told police that a man came up while he was walking through Hyde Park and said "would you like to take a barrage balloon home as a souvenir of war?"

"How much?" asked the soldier, thinking of the folks back home.

"One hundred and eighty dollers, cash."

"How soon can it be packed and ready?"

"Call back in an hour."

The soldier is now trying to identify the salesman from Scotland Yard photograph files.

Tokio Reports Japanese Trying to Raise Repulse

London Doubtful of Success, Cites Normandie Problem

LONDON, June 7 (AP).—The Tokio radio reported today that Japanese engineers had started efforts to raise the British battle-cruiser Repulse, which was sunk by Japanese planes off the east coast of Malaya in December, 1941, together with the battleship Prince of Wales.

[Attempts to refloat the Repulse, which went down in deep water in the Gulf of Siam after suffering severe damage, would appear to present almost insurmountable difficulties. An indication of this is the amount of work involved in the attempt to right the French liner Normandie, which capsized at her pier in New York after a fire, and the length of time required to refloat American warships sunk at Pearl Harbor.]

German Military Analyst Fails To Give Weekly Talk

London, June 7 (AP)—The leading German military analyst, Lieut. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, who asserted in an outspoken broadcast last week that the period of the lightning war had passed, failed to appear on the German radio today for his weekly review.

Foreign sources suggested that last week's remarks, in which he said Germany planned a purely defensive strategy, was the reason.

A substitute said today in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press:

"Germany is prepared for both defensive and offensive military actions. German forces on land and sea and in the air are prepared for offensive and defensive actions not only as far as their numerical strength is concerned, but also in view of their training and, in particular, their weapons. The war potential of the tri-partite powers has strongly increased during the past few months, and still is on the upgrade and gives scope for offensive actions."

BOMBERS DROP RADIO FAN MAIL

A United States Bomber Station in Britain, June 7 (A. P.).—The crew of the Flying Fortress Old Puss delivered what members described as "a little souvenir for Herr Schicklgruber" (Hitler) during a recent mission to Lorient where they saw their bombs knock out power installations.

The souvenir was an empty 100-pound training bomb which carried a note to the woman announcer of a musical radio program from Berlin's station DLB which the crew sometimes hears.

"Dear Miss Midge," the note said, "this is just a dud but we are sending it to you because we love you so much. Hope to see you soon and leave another calling card—but it will be much bigger. P. S.—Please play on your program the song 'Der Fuehrer's Face.' From your fans—The Beaver Bomber Patrol."

U. S. FLYERS BACK CHINESE

JUN - 8 1943

Jap Bases And Installations All Along Yangtze Are Hammered

Chiang's Troop Continue Advance On Ichang And Hwajung Stronghold

[By the Associated Press]

Chungking, June 7—United States warplanes lashed out at the Japanese all along the upper Yangtze battlefront yesterday in support of heartened Chinese troops who continued to hurl the enemy back in one of his biggest defeats in China.

The Chinese high command said more than 1,000 Japanese, fleeing in all directions from Itu, Yangtze port eighteen miles below Ichang, were killed or wounded Sunday in a mopping operation at that place, and that a number of strategic points were seized in the area south of the Yangtze between Ichang and Shasi, seventy miles to the southeast.

Chinese Advance On Eastern Line

The Chinese continued to thrust toward the river all along the line in southern Hupeh and northern Hunan provinces and reported more than 200 of the enemy killed in widespread operations in which Japanese communications were cut and garrisons raided.

One advance was reported to be carrying forward toward Hwajung, Japanese stronghold north of Tungting Lake.

The fall of Hwajung would greatly relieve the already diminished threat to China's rice bowl.

The Chinese Central News said the American air force was giving strong support to this drive, covering many key Japanese positions around the town with explosives Saturday.

Runways Are Hammered

Fighters of the Fourteenth United States Air Force of Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault swept the seventy-mile stretch of the Yangtze between Ichang and Shasi yesterday, making it hot for Japanese troops retreating in junks and other small craft.

Mitchell bombers and Warhawk fighters scored hits on runways and revetments in an attack on Pailoki, a Japanese air force headquarters 140 miles down river from Ichang, the Warhawks hit a second airdrome at Shasi, destroying a plane, a truck and an operations shack. Pailoki, opposite Yochow, was attacked once before on June 2.

Over 15 Trucks Smashed

The Warhawks smashed more than fifteen trucks and shot up barracks and shelters in a surprise attack on a motor pool at Tangyang, enemy stronghold thirty-five miles northeast of Ichang, dive-bombed a bridge near Puch, fifty miles northeast of Yochow, and destroyed two locomotives between Puchi and Yochow.

The United States communique said no American planes were lost and no opposition encountered.

U. S. BOMBERS HIT JAPS ON YANGTZE

JUN - 8 1943

Chungking, June 7 (A. P.).—American bombers and fighters supporting the advancing central Chinese armies on the western Hupeh front carried out widespread operations against the Japanese yesterday. A communique from American headquarters said today.

They swept the Yangtze from Ichang to Shasi, damaged one large boat and raked a gunboat with strafing fire, among other things, the communique said.

Chinese dispatches, meanwhile, said Chiang Kai-shek's forces were battering their way toward Hwajung, a Hunan Province town 100 miles southeast of the main Japanese base of Ichang. The capture of Hwajung, north of Tungting Lake, which the Japs used as a springboard for their abortive offensive down the Yangtze Valley, would greatly relieve the threat to the great China rice bowl.

Chinese troops were reported to have recovered several strategic points south of the Yangtze between Ichang and Shasi, which are seventy miles apart.

The American aerial sweeps along the Ichang-Shasi stretch of the Yangtze obviously were intended to demoralize Japanese forces retiring aboard junks and other small craft, exploiting what the Chinese regarded as the biggest enemy rout of the war.

American Airmen Raid Mandalay in Monsoon

British Bomb Troops at Kalemyo; All Allied Planes Return

NEW DELHI, India, June 7 (AP). Large formations of American medium bombers weaved through the Burma monsoon Saturday and yesterday to spread destruction at Mandalay and at other widely scattered Japanese installations as British planes attacked Kalemyo, bombing troop positions. Communiques from both forces said all the Allied planes returned safely.

Mandalay was attacked on both days, and much damage was done to tracks and trains there and at Ywataung and Monywa, the American communique said.

Japanese oil storages were raided at Chauk. A water filtration plant, a large building near by and oil works were declared hit. A large barge was left sinking. Buildings were destroyed at Pukkan, rail sidings were smashed at Wetlet and Japanese barracks were demolished at Monywa, the bulletin said.

STILWELL REACHES CAIRO

Promises Satisfaction to Those Who Ask Action in East

CAIRO, Egypt, June 7 (AP)—Arriving here from conferences in Washington with other Allied leaders, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell expressed the belief that plans laid in those talks would "satisfy all who cry out for strong, aggressive and immediate action."

NEW GUINEA RAIDS STAGED BY ALLIES

Jap Bases Pounded in Light Attacks; 2 Cargo Barges Set Afire.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Tuesday, June 8—(AP) Allied bombers struck yesterday at Japanese New Guinea bases, hitting Madang and Lae and attacking enemy troop positions at Mubo, the high command announced.

Wewak, which recently took 74 tons of bombs in four heavy raids, was another New Guinea target. All the raids were on a light scale.

The Wewak raiders struck at the town area. Those over Madang bombed the airdrome. The Lae raiders struck the airdrome and building area.

Below Wewak in the Spik river area, two loaded motor barges were set afire by Allied planes on reconnaissance.

Wewak, Madang and Lae are north coastal cities. Mubo is 12 miles south of Salamaua in a sector where Allied and Japanese ground troops face each other.

Jap Dive Bombers And Fighters Again Try to Blast Wau

Damage in Attack On New Guinea Base Called Negligible

JUN - 8 1943

By the Associated Press.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, June 7.—Japanese dive-bombers, escorted by fighters, took another unsuccessful crack at the Allied base at Wau, New Guinea, yesterday.

There were no casualties and Gen. Douglas MacArthur's noon communique described damage as negligible.

Sixteen dive-bombers and four fighters were employed in the attack. One of the enemy ships was hit by anti-aircraft fire and when last seen it was trailing smoke and losing altitude.

It was the strongest force sent against Wau since May 15. The Japanese that day hurled more than 100 planes at Allied points in New Guinea, directing 20 dive-bombers and 14 fighters against Wau. They were even less successful than yesterday's raiders, causing neither casualties nor damage.

Four-engined Liberators bombed Koepang, Timor, and Penfoei airdrome there. Fires and explosions were observed in the barracks area and along the water front. Eight Zeros rose to intercept. Three were shot down. All the Liberators returned.

ARGENTINA HOLDS NEUTRALITY POLICY UNDER NEW CHIEF

Ramirez Gives Pledge of Friendship to American Nations.

GENERAL TAKES OFFICE

Succeeds Rawson as Head of Provisional Government at Buenos Aires.

BUENOS AIRES, June 7—(AP) Gen. Arturo Rawson resigned as president of Argentina today and was succeeded by Gen. Pedro Ramirez, whose new provisional government announced its intention to maintain the existing Argentine policy of neutrality "for the present."

But the government pledged itself "to affirm the traditional policy of friendship and loyal cooperation with nations of the Americas in conformance with existing pacts."

One Civilian in Cabinet

Gen. Ramirez' new cabinet contains eight military men and one civilian.

A communique issued shortly before the new government took office said "The Republic of Argentina affirms its traditional policy of friendship and loyal cooperation with the nations of the Americas in conformance with existing pacts.

"With respect to the rest of the world its policy is for the present one of neutrality. The provisional government believes, moreover, that it is necessary to express that it sustains the principle of absolute autonomy of states to set up their own standards of government.

"In that concept it will not tolerate any foreign influence because the Argentine people maintain and will maintain in the face of any vicissitudes that might occur the representative republic form of government in conformance with the constitution."

Rawson Resigns Suddenly

The statement was signed by Gen. Ramirez, who took the reins after Gen. Rawson resigned unexpectedly when he met difficulties in establishing a cabinet. Gen. Rawson stepped out just before he was to be sworn in as president in a midday ceremony in succession to Ramon S. Castillo, ousted in a lightning revolution Friday.

Members of Gen. Ramirez' cabinet are:

Vice-president, Admiral Saba Sueyro minister of the interior, Col. Albert Gilbert; foreign relations, Rear Admiral Segundo Storni; finance, Jorges Santamarina justice and public instruction, Col. Elbio Anaya; war, Gen. Edelmiro Farrell; Navy, Rear Admiral Benjto Sueyro; agriculture, Gen. Diego Mason; public works, Vice-Admiral Ismael Galindez. The only civilian, Santa Marina, was president of the bank of the Nation.

Gen. Rawson's resignation followed a long conference of the revolutionary leaders at Government House last night. Gen. Domingo Martinez, who had been acting as foreign minister under Gen. Rawson, handed in his own resignation shortly after the latter stepped down in favor of Gen. Ramirez.

Gen. Rawson himself announced in Buenos Aires that he was compelled to resign a few hours before he was scheduled to be sworn in as president because of "the impossibility of reaching an agreement on the constitution of a new cabinet."

Then came the reports of the resignations of four designated cabinet members—Foreign Minister Gen. Domingo Martinez, Finance Minister Jose Maria Rosa, Public Works Minister Juan Pistarini and Horace Caderon, minister of justice and public instruction.

The vacated positions were filled immediately by Gen. Ramirez, and his full cabinet was sworn in tonight along with the new president.

New Ministers Sworn In

After taking the oath of office and swearing in each of the eight new ministers individually, Gen. Ramirez appeared on the balcony of the Government House and made a speech which an announcer on the Argentine broadcasting network said was interrupted by shouts of "Neutrality! Neutrality!" from the people crowded in the plaza below.

In this brief talk, Gen. Ramirez said: "As a soldier and citizen I cannot hide by emotion at seeing a people united around its leader, which shows the unity of the people and armed forces of the nation.

"As a soldier I will discharge faithfully my duties and the people will not be disappointed in its hopes. Now shout with me—long live the country."

Gen. Rawson, who ousted President Ramon S. Castillo in a coup d'etat last Friday, told the Associated Press late today that the international situation was the "fundamental cause" of the military uprising, which he declared was "indispensable to save the situation and rectify the isolationist situation in which we now so unjustly find ourselves."

Admits Unfavorable Reaction

As for the cabinet shakeup, Gen. Rawson acknowledged that the rightist sympathies of some of his ministers-designate created unfavorable reaction among liberal partisans of the revolution.

"In picking men I completely overlooked their ideologies and tendences," he said, "thinking only of their technical capacity because I believe that the triumph of the patriotic revolution would have united all Argentines behind the same ideal—that of greatness."

Despite the relieved feeling among democratic elements toward the provisional government as the result of today's developments, Argentine liberals were said to feel that the prospects are rather better for an earlier realization of their desires in the field of foreign policy than in domestic affairs.

They are struck by the fact that the revised cabinet, while free of conspicuously nationalistic personalities, contains no one who ever distinguished himself for democratic zeal. This aspect of the government was said to have fallen short of democratic hopes since the Radical leaders were known to have discussed the possibilities of revolution with Gen. Ramirez in advance.

Press Reserved

The pro-democratic press of Argentina was conspicuously reserved in its comment on the new regime, limiting itself to the analyzing of the problems facing the provisional government. The only paper to embrace the military administration openly has been the nationalist newspaper, Cabildo, organ of the anti-democratic faction. Cabildo noted with approval that civilians had been virtually excluded from the movement.

Tonight's swearing-in ceremonies were broadcast by the Buenos Aires radio, which listed the new ministers and their portfolios as: Gen. Alberto Gilbert, interior; Vice Admiral Segundo Storni, foreign affairs; Jorge Santa Marina, finance; Col. Helvio Anaya, justice and public instruction; Gen. Diego Mason, agriculture; Rear Admiral Ismael Galindez, public works; Rear Admiral Benito Sueyro, navy, and Gen. Edelmiro Far

Information available in diplomatic quarters here also indicated that the cabinet reshuffle helped to reassure the disappointed democrats. While these quarters were said to be still awaiting a formal declaration of the Ramirez government's principles, they welcomed the disappearance from the government of four ministers designate whose nationalistic sympathies were commonly recognized in Argentina.

Ramirez Charged With Forming New Regime

JUN - 8 1943

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, June 7.—Gen. Arturo Rawson resigned as head of Argentina's new government today and charged Gen. Pedro Ramirez with organizing a new regime after the two revolutionary leaders had failed to agree on the constitution of a cabinet.

Gen. Domingo Martinez resigned as Foreign Minister in a continuation of the reshuffling of the provisional government cabinet.

Gen. Rawson, who ousted President Ramon S. Castillo in a coup d'etat last Friday, was to have been sworn in as President at noon today.

In a brief statement he announced that "the impossibility of reaching an agreement on the constitution of a new cabinet" had compelled him to resign "as leader of the revoluntionary forces and chief of the provisional government."

At the same time Gen. Ramirez, minister of war under Castillo and slated to hold the same post under Gen. Rawson, issued a statement advising the people and the armed forces that he had assumed the powers abandoned by Gen. Rawson.

Swearing-in Postponed.

He also announced postponement of today's scheduled swearing-in ceremonies for which a national holiday had been decreed. There was no indication as to when the Ramirez administration might be sworn in.

Gen. Rawson's communique was addressed to the national armed forces and said: "Having fulfilled the aim to overthrow the government and being unable to reach an agreement on the constitution of the cabinet, I deliver to Gen. Pedro Ramirez my indeclinable resignation from the position as chief of the provisional government, for which I was scheduled to swear oath today."

Gen. Ramirez addressed the armed forces and the people in a communique which said: "On this date I take charge of the provisional government and command of the national armed forces."

The rapid change in Argentina's confusing political situation followed by only a few hours the issuance of a decree by Gen. Rawson dissolving Congress, which was to have convened tomorrow. The decree said that "at the proper time, measures will be taken for the constitution of a new Congress."

There were no further details on the disagreement between the two leaders of the revolution.

Effect of Change Not Clear.

Some observers expressed the opinion, however, that Gen. Rawson had been considered from the very first as not quite in line with the ultra-rightest political tinge of his new ministers.

Gen. Ramirez was generally regarded as having more pronounced rightest tendencies than Gen. Rawson, but the effect his leadership would have on Argentina's foreign policy was not immediately clear.

(Dispatches from Montevideo said observers there had seen a clear pattern of ultra-rightest tendencies in the first moves of the Rawson government, which in several proclamations, decrees and orders failed to mention even once the words democracy and freedom.

(These observers noted, the dispatches said, that the decree dissolving Congress had carefully avoided the word "elections," and had referred instead to the "constitution of a new Congress," which might leave the door open to the appointment of a legislative branch of the government rather than an elected body.

(These sources, who are mainly interested in Argentina's foreign policy, said nothing had yet happened either to confirm or deny initial assurances following Castillo's ouster that the revolution would mean the end of Argentina's aloof attitude toward Pan-American solidarity.)

No Reason for Action Given.

Gen. Rawson gave no reason for dissolving Congress, but it seemed logical to suppose that the Ramirez government would not call it into session immediately and that the democratic form of government would remain in cold storage during a period of readjustment, at least in domestic affairs.

The functions of Congress had been nullified during the last two years by the inability of the lower house, which was controlled by opposition parties to agree with the government-dominated Senate on any vital legislation.

Whether Gen. Ramirez would carry over with him the cabinet Gen. Rawson had planned to swear in today also was not made clear. There had been unconfirmed reports last night before Gen. Rawson resigned that three members of his cabinet—Jose Maria Rosa and Horace Calderon, its only civilians, as well as Gen. Martinez—might resign, although there was no hint of the reason for such a move. Rosa

Revolt Leader Asserts Aim Was To Rectify Isolationism

Rawson, In Statement To Associated Press, Calls International Situation Case Of Coup

JUN - 8 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Montevideo, June 7—Gen. Arturo Rawson, week-end provisional president of the Argentine revolutionary government, told the Associated Press today that the international situation was the "fundamental cause" of the military uprising last Friday.

Rawson's statement, delivered to the Associated Press by courier in response to questions submitted to him, said that the revolution was "indispensable to save the situation and rectify the isolationist situation in which we now so unjustly find ourselves. . . ."

The general also tacitly acknowledged that unfavorable reaction among liberal partisans of the revolution toward some of the Cabinet members known for rightist sympathies may have been a factor in the sudden crisis.

Overlooked Ideologies

"In picking men I completely overlooked their ideologies and tendencies," he said, "thinking only of their technical capacity because I believed that the triumph of the patriotic revolution would have united all Argentines behind the same ideal—that of greatness."

Explaining the revolution, Rawson said that "I proclaimed then and I insist again today upon compliance in international agreements. I resigned this morning because I think that in order to govern one must have absolute freedom of action and therefore considered it necessary to terminate my mission once the triumph of the armed forces was assured."

Rawson's statement indicated that Gen. Pedro Ramirez, who succeeded him as President, is reshaping his Cabinet in a manner to remove first doubts concerning the determination of his regime to follow a pro-democratic policy in foreign affairs.

Reaffirms Own Stand

Rawson affirmed his own continued adherence to proposals for reestablishment of institutional normality which figured in the revolution's first manifesto.

"I have not modified any fundamental ideas enunciated in the proclamation distributed by the army on the morning of June 4 with regard to national or international policy as well as any observations upon state, administrative and public decency. At that time I gave my full support to legality as indispensable for the normality of the country by putting an end to fraud and corruption and restoring the popular rights of citizens," the general said.

Conservatives Reported Out.

Montevideo, June 7 (A. P.).—Diplomats here today said that four Ultra-Conservative Cabinet members of Argentina's new provisional government had resigned in a crisis developed by differences over prospective foreign policies. These informants, who cannot be identified by name, reported that those who stepped out after a week end in office were:

Jose Maria Rosa, Minister of Finance; Horace Calderon, described variously as Minister of Justice and Minister of Public Education; Gen. Juan Pistarini, Minister of Public Works, and Gen. Domingo Martinez, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

The haze enveloping Argentine foreign policy appeared to be clearing up as diplomats said they had been assured that the Cabinet under Gen. Pedro Ramirez is now free of extreme Right-wing nationalists. They added, however, that official advices on the membership of the new Cabinet are still lacking. The revisions unofficially reported have led to this line-up:

Colbert Gilbert, Interior; Vice-Admiral Segundo Storni, Foreign Affairs; Col. Anaya, Public Education; Admiral Galindez, Finance; Gen. Farrel, War; Rear Admiral Benito Sueyro, Navy; Gen. Diego Mason, Agriculture; Gen. Sarmiento, Public Works.

Before Gen. Rawson's resignation, observers here saw a clear pattern of ultra-rightist tendencies in the first moves of the Rawson government which in several proclamations, decrees and orders failed to mention even once the words democracy and freedom.

These observers noted that the decree dissolving Congress carefully avoided the word "elections" and referred instead to the "constitution of a new congress," which might leave the door open to the appointment of a legislative branch of the government rather than an elected body.

These informants, who are mainly interested in Argentina's foreign policy, said that nothing had yet happened either to confirm or deny initial assurances following Castillo's ouster that the revolution would mean the end of Argentina's aloof attitude toward Pan-American solidarity.

LEFTISTS 'UNION SLATED IN CHILE

End Of Comintern Said To Clear Way For Communist-Socialist Merger

JUN - 8 1943

Santiago, Chile, June 7 (AP)—Quickly resolving a sudden Cabinet crisis, President Juan Antonio Rios tonight named a new group of ministers who immediately took the oath of office.

The President, however, announced that his trip to the United States, which was to have begun June 15 or 17, was indefinitely postponed.

The crisis began when Raul Morales, Minister of the Interior, resigned and was followed by the entire Cabinet. The new Cabinet retains five members of the old in their original posts, names a sixth to a new post and new men to the other portfolios.

JUN - 8 1943

Dr. Morales resigned because of 'attacks from members of my own (Radical) party," he said. As is customary, the rest of the Cabinet followed the head of the Cabinet in a gesture of solidarity.

President Rios accepted Dr. Morales's resignation. Since Dr. Morales had been scheduled to serve as Acting President during the President's forthcoming visit to the United States, President Rios announced that duties to the nation required his presence and that he would not make the trip he had planned to begin either June 15 or June 17.

The President also announced that he shared Dr. Morales's conviction that the latter had been the victim of politicians. He rebuked those politicians in and out of Congress who "occupy their time frustrating" the public's persistent demand for order and work.

President Rios has conferred with political party leaders.

The interior minister joined the cabinet when President Rios took office in April, 1942. Chile severed relations with the Axis nations following Mr. Morales' trip to Brazil, Argentina and the United States.

Dictaphone's Parts All Mixed Up, Pick Up Radio Station Programs

OTTAWA, June 7—(AP) A munitions department stenographer put the Dictaphone earphones on her head and reached for a record for the recordless instrument.

Then she exclaimed:

"This darn thing is talking to itself."

Departmental officials tried the earphones. There were voices coming through—plus the latest songhits. So they called a repair man.

Finally the experimental division of the Army Signal corps was called in. They reported:

The motor turning the record-holder wasn't working at proper speed and the governor had gone out of kilter. The mercury switch controlling the speaker device was acting as a rectifier, altering the

HEAVY BOMBER OUTPUT HITS PEAK IN APRIL

Production Up 18% Above March—New Facilities In Preparation

Nelson Reports 7% Over-All Increase In Munitions For Month

JUN -8 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 7 — Heavy bombers to carry the war to the enemy came off American assembly lines in record volume in April, and "extensive new facilities" are being made ready to place even greater emphasis on their manufacture.

In his monthly report on munitions production, Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, said today the output of heavy bombers in April was eighteen per cent. above March.

While he did not announce production in numbers, the increases indicated production of about 600 four-engine bombers in April, since Nelson previously had announced that the March production exceeded 500 for the first time.

Depends On New Facilities

As greater emphasis is placed on heavy bombers, Nelson said, extensive new facilities for their manufacture will become available. The rapidity with which these new facilities can be brought into production, he added, will partly determine the success in meeting this year's airplane goals.

Nelson conceded, however, that it will be "difficult" to meet the goals since in the first four months only nineteen per cent. of the year's objective for combat planes was attained. Production of service planes, including observation and photographic types, was twenty per cent. of the year's goals, while trainer production ran ahead with thirty-six per cent.

Gain In Two Types

On a dollar-weighted basis, production of airplanes, airplane armament and related items increased eight per cent. in April, the outstanding gain being in heavy bombers and navy fighter planes. On the dollar-weighted basis, a heavy bomber gives more credit than a medium bomber, a medium bomber more than a fighter, and so on. Consequently, the figure does not necessarily represent a corresponding increase in all types of planes.

In airplanes alone there was an increase of eleven per cent. The output of single-engine navy fighters jumped by nearly fifty per cent.

Munitions Output Up 7 P. C.

The over-all increase in munitions production was seven per cent. over March. Principal categories, in addition to planes, are: Ground ordnance, up four per cent.; navy and army vessels, up three per cent.; merchant vessels, up eleven per cent.; miscellaneous munitions, up eleven per cent.

Nelson described the seven per cent. increase as "somewhat more than can be expected as an average" at this stage of the program, and said that by the end of this year the monthly rate of increase probably would be tapered off considerably, with maximum output to be reached sometime in 1944.

Bombers Raid Kiska, Pound Base at Munda

JUN -8 1943

Japanese in Aleutians Fail to Employ Anti-Aircraft; Choiseul Island Bombed

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP).—American pilots, flying through the perpetual fogs of the Aleutians, have pounded the Japanese on Kiska Island again with heavy bombs, the Navy Department announced today. Big Army Liberators and the new and highly effective Ventura medium bombers joined in the attack. Not even anti-aircraft opposition was reported.

"Due to a heavy overcast, results of the attack could not be observed," a communique added.

Renewed aerial assaults in the South Pacific also were announced, including another raid on Munda, which has been bombed numerous times by American planes.

Dauntless dive bombers, Avenger torpedo planes and Wildcat fighter escorts took part June 6 (Solomons Time) in the new raid on Munda, an enemy base on New Georgia Island in the central Solomons. Results were not observed, but all American planes returned safely to their base.

Another group of fighter planes flew out on the same day to strafe the Japanese on Choiseul Island just north of the New Georgia group. Fire from the Lightning and Warhawk fighters silenced enemy gun emplacements on Choiseul, and all planes returned.

Japanese Tell of Raid

Japanese Imperial Headquarters announced in a Tokio broadcast Monday that a Japanese naval air unit shot down Saturday twenty Allied planes which attempted to raid Shortland Island, in the Solomons group, and damaged five others. The Japanese broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press, asserted only three Japanese planes had not returned from the engagement.

Tokio's assertion was not confirmed by any Allied source. A Navy communique issued Sunday at Washington announced that American planes had attacked a Japanese destroyer, a corvette and a cargo vessel in the Bougainville area of the Solomons Saturday. The destroyer was hit by several large-caliber bombs and undoubtedly sank, a Navy communique said, and the other two vessels were set on fire. Fifteen intercepting Zero planes were shot down and three others damaged and four American planes were missing afterward the communique said.

Roosevelt Speech on Food

JUN -8 1943

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP).—The text of President Roosevelt's remarks to delegates to the United Nations Food Conference:

It gives me great pleasure to welcome to the White House you who have served so splendidly at the epoch-making United Nations conference on food and agriculture.

I use that word "epoch-making" advisedly. The conference could not have failed to be significant because it was the first United Nations conference. But it has succeeded even beyond our hopes; it is truly epoch-making because, in reaching unanimity upon complex and difficult problems, you have demonstrated beyond question that the United Nations really are united—not only for the prosecution of the war, but for the solution of the many and difficult problems of peace. This conference has been a living demonstration of the methods by which the conversations of nations of like mind contemplated by Article VII of the mutual aid agreement can and will give practical application to the principles of the Atlantic Charter.

You have been dealing with agriculture, the most basic of all human activities, and with food, the most basic of all human needs. Twice as many people are employed in work on food and agriculture as in work in all other fields combined. And all people have, in the literal sense of the word, a vital interest in food.

That a child or adult should get the nourishment necessary for full health is too important a thing to be left to mere chance.

You have recognized that society must accept this responsibility. As you stated in your declaration, "the primary responsibility lies with each nation for seeing that its own people have the food needed for health and life; steps to this end are for national determination. But each nation can fully achieve its goal only if all work together." On behalf of the United States I accept this declaration.

You have gone beyond the general recognition of principles to deal in specific terms with specific tasks and projects.

You have examined the needs of all countries for food and other agricultural products, both as they will exist in the short-run period of recovery from the devastation of war, and as they will exist over the longer run, when our efforts can be fully devoted to expanding the production of food so that it will be adequate for health the world over.

You have surveyed with courage and with realism the magnitude of these problems and have reached unanimous agreement that they can, and must—and will—be solved.

It is true that no nation has ever had enough food to feed all of its people as we now know human beings should be fed. But neither have nations representing over 80 per cent of the world's two billion inhabitants ever before been joined together to achieve such an aim. Never before have they set out to bend their united efforts to the development of the world's resources so that all men might seek to attain food they need.

For the short run you have

JUN -8 1943

30.24-4765

pointed out steps which have to be taken both in increasing supplies and in maintaining economy of use and co-ordination of distribution.

In considering our long-range problems, you have surveyed our knowledge of the inadequacy in the quantity and quality of the diet of peoples in all lands. You have pooled our knowledge of the means of expanding our output, of increasing our agricultural efficiency, and of adjusting agricultural production to consumption needs. In the fields of both production and consumption you have recognized the need for the better utilization of the knowledge we now have and for extending still further the boundaries of our knowledge through education and research.

You have called upon your governments individually and collectively to enlarge and improve their activities in these fields.

For the perfection and rapid execution of these plans, you have recommended the creation of a permanent United Nations organization. To facilitate and hasten the creation of that organization, and to carry on the work you have begun until its creation, you have established an interim commission. The government of the United States is honored that you have asked that the interim commission have its seat in Washington, and will be glad to take the preliminary action for the establishment of that commission which you have intrusted to it.

Finally, you have expressed your deep conviction that our goal in this field cannot be attained without forward action in other fields as well. Increased food production must be accompanied by increased industrial production and by increased purchasing power. There must be measures for dealing with trade barriers, international exchange stability and international investment. The better use of natural and human resources must be assured to improve living standards. Many of these questions lie outside the scope of the work you have undertaken, but their solution is none the less essential to its success. They require, and shall receive, our united attention.

In the political field these relationships are equally important. And they work both ways. A sound world agricultural program will depend upon world political security, while that security will, in turn, be greatly strengthened if each country can be assured of the food it needs. Freedom from want and freedom from fear go hand in hand.

Our ultimate objective can be simply stated: it is to build for ourselves, for all men, a world in which each individual human being shall have the opportunity to live out his life in peace, to work productively, earning at least enough for his actual needs and those of his family; to associate with the friends of his choice; to think and worship freely; and to die secure in the knowledge that his children, and their children, shall have the same opportunities.

That objective, as men know from long and bitter experience, will not be easy to achieve. But you and I know also that, throughout history, there has been no more worthwhile, no more inspiring challenge.

That challenge will be met.

You have demonstrated beyond question that free peoples all over the world can agree upon a common course of action and upon common machinery for action. You have brought new hope to the world that, through the establishment of orderly international procedures for the solution of international problems, there will be attained freedom from want and freedom from fear. The United Nations are united in the war against fear and want as solidly and effectively as they are united on the battle front in this world-wide war against aggression.

And we are winning by action and unity.

O'Daniel Fears Dictatorship

Texas Senator Suspects 'High Officials' of Planning Regimentation.

JUN - 8 1943

Washington, June 7 (A. P.).—Senator O'Daniel (D.-Tex.) expressed the belief today that high Federal authorities were carrying out a plan for a dictatorship, and "regimentation of our people" and declared that a big house cleaning of elected officials was necessary to save the nation.

He set forth his views in a letter to south Texas poultry raisers who had pleaded for an incerase in price ceilings on broilers.

After reporting that he had conefrred with "these Washington czars and bureaucarts," he said:

"You may think they are ignorant or are not fully informed. I have a different conception of them and their 'planning.' I believe they are taking orders from somebody and that what they are doing is only part of a plot to change our form of government into 'Communism,' 'Socialism' or some other foreign 'ism' which means a dictatorship, and a regimentation of our people and abolishing our 'private system' of enterprise.

"The only way to save our nation, if it can be saved at this late hour, is for the people to make a big house cleaning of elected officials of our Federal Government, and put men in office who believe in our Constitution and our American system of private enterprise and who will not only make speeches favoring it, but will vote the same way they talk.

"I never in my life saw as much deceit and deception per square inch anywhere else as there is here in the nation's capital. Austin [capital of Texas, where Mr. O'Daniel once served as Governor] was bad enough, but this is so bad that it makes Austin by comparison look as harmless as a Sunday school convention."

The OPA set a price ceiling of 27½ cents a pound on South Texas broilers. The growers are seeking an increase of 3 cents per pound, contending that because of increased feed and labor costs they are losing money under present regulations.

"If you can figure out anything more 'screwy' than the dope the minds of these czars and bureaucrats are developing, I would like to know what it is," wrote the Senator.

"They now keep the ceiling prices of chickens low to stop production of chickens because they say we are short on chicken feed, and the bureaucrats brought on the shortage of chicken feed by restricting the acreage of feed crops, and the prices of feed."

The Senator said he knew something of the hazards involved in raising chickens, in as much as his mother had raised them to buy school clothes and books for her children, and that he would never forget the chicken lice, the cholera, the chicken hawks and buzzards, egg-sucking dogs and snakes. Then he added:

"I imagine she would be shocked to see this greatest chicken plague of all time—'the Washington Buzzards.'

"I'm glad to have at least tried to help you and I shall keep on fighting this gang of czars and bureaucrats."

SENATE APPROVES HUGE NAVY FUND, HEARS NEW NEEDS

JUN - 8 1943

$27,637,000,000 Voted, $3,922,637,000 More to Be Sought for Ships.

WASHINGTON, June 7 — (AP) A $27,637,000,000 naval appropriations bill, biggest single year's allotment to the Navy in history, was approved today by the Senate even as Congress learned of plans for a new $3,922,637,400 naval shipbuilding program.

The measure, providing $9,118,000,000 for construction of surface ships and $4,583,000,000 for 29,142 airplanes, goes back to the House for consideration of Senate additions. The Senate added $73,000,000 for maintaining and operating shore activities, $95,000,000 for pay, subsistence and transportation and $28,900,000 for Marine corps provisions and supplies.

House Bill Increased

While the Senate transferred $2,786,000,000 in direct cash appropriations previously approved by the House to contract authority, the total funds made available in the bill are slightly higher than provided by the House.

The Senate version also authorized the Navy to build replacements for over-age and destroyed vessels in line with the projected new shipbuilding program, disclosed by Rear Admiral E. L. Cochrane, chief of the Bureau of Ships, to supplement construction projects designed to add 600 vessels to the fighting fleets in the next fiscal year.

Will Push Plans

Without making public any of the details, Admiral Cochrane told the Senate Appropriations committee that the Navy is prepared to go ahead with preliminary plans this year on a tremendous addition to its combat strength. Actual construction would not start for more than a year.

Admiral Cochrane testified that the Navy expects to utilize most of the 480,000 tons authorization made previously in Congress, and while he did not reveal the types of vessels to be built, experts said that more than 100 ships easily could be included.

If the 480,000 tons were broken down into major categories, it could include six 30,000-ton aircraft carriers, ten 15,000-ton cruisers, fifty 1,500-ton destroyers and 50 submarines of about the same tonnage. There was no indication, however, that any such schedule would be followed.

728 Ships in Operation

Admiral Cochrane reported that the Navy now has 728 vessels in operation, adding that the number of landing craft "is increasing tremendously."

Rear Admiral J. C. McCain, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, said that funds for aviation in the appropriations bill would finance the purchase of 27,642 combat, training and cargo planes and 1,500 special airplanes." He said it is proposed to take care of and supply an operating force of approximately 30,000 planes, "of which the greatest number are for aircraft carriers and auxiliary aircraft carriers."

Management Agrees to Wage Boost, but WLB Stand Is in Doubt.

WASHINGTON, June 7. — (AP) Edward R. Burke, spokesman for the southern Appalachian bituminous coal operators, said tonight that there was "no chance" of agreement between the industry representatives and the United Mine Workers in conferences here. He proposed that the wage dispute, which has twice halted production in the nation's coal fields, be submitted again to the War Labor board.

JUN - 8 1943

Mr. Burke, former U. S. senator from Nebraska, said that the mine workers' demands, including a $1.50 daily increase to cover portal-to-portal time the miners spend getting to their work underground, were "out of reason."

No Basis for Settlement

"There is not any basis for reaching a settlement unless the miners recede from their present demand, and Lewis (John L. Lewis, U.M.W. president) has given no indication that he will do that," Mr. Burke said.

"We're going to report the situation to the War Labor board on Wednesday. We will have to report that we cannot reach a settlement," Mr. Burke asserted.

The War Labor board has asked on May 25 that the conferees report their progress in negotiating within 15 days, expiring Wednesday.

Mr. Burke said that Charles O'Neill, representing the northern Appalachian operators, and himself were in "complete accord" in Mr. Burke's statement that a settlement was out of sight by direct negotiations.

Refuses Comment

Mr. O'Neill declined comment when questioned by newspapermen, saying he would "rather wait until tomorrow before I say anything."

As for an agreement announced by Governor Green of Illinois today, between Illinois operators and 23,000 U.M.W.A. miners, granting a $1.50 a day boost, Mr. Burke asserted that it would have no effect on the conferences in Washington.

"Any agreement in Illinois is subject to approval by the War Labor board," Mr. Burke said, "and I can't see how they can approve it. It is a straight wage increase."

Huge Loss in Coal

At the same time Secretary Ickes estimated that last week's idleness in the mines cost 11,000,000 tons of coal, and called on Mr. Lewis to seek an end to scattered strikes which remained in effect today as most of the 500,000 miners went back to the pits under a two-week truce.

The Illinois operators offered to make the $1.50 increase retroactive to April 1. While the miners originally demanded $2 a day increase in this and other fields, Mr. Lewis said last week that the mine workers had offered—and the Appalachian and southern operators rejected—a compromise on a temporary basis of $1.50 while a commission considered the miners' demands for underground travel pay. The Illinois offer was accepted as the basis of negotiations by Ray Edmundson, state U.M.W. president, who said at Chicago that the Illinois operators have coal interests in eight other states, covered by the Washington negotiations.

"These (Illinois) negotiations should serve as somewhat of a pattern for the rest of the industry," Mr. Edmundson observed.

But Harry Moses, an official of U. S. Steel Corp. mining companies, said the Illinois bargaining "affects only 25,000 miners—less than we have in one company," and observed:

"Any agreement there certainly does not bind us here and we are not a party to it."

For himself, Mr. Moses said he would prefer to resign from the Illinois Coal Operators association rather than be committed to the $1.50 raise.

In the past Illinois operators normally have waited for negotiation of the Appalachian contract, covering big eastern fields, before entering negotiations. Gov. Dwight H. Green of Illinois said the decision to go ahead without waiting for an Appalachian agreement means that Illinois coal production will continue beyond Mr. Lewis' June 20 deadline for conclusion of negotiations, regardless of action in other fields.

Labor May Bar Increase

There remained, however, the question whether the War Labor board would approve any increase of $1.50 or more. WLB turned down the miners' original $2 demand, but left the way open to negotiations on underground travel pay.

Secretary Ickes, Federal operator of the coal mines, sent this telegram to the president of the United Mine Workers of America:

"It is reported to me that Lane Colliery, Glen Alden Coal company, Plymouth, Pa. Midland Mine, Pittsburgh Coal company, and Watson mine, Westmoreland company Conemaugh, Pa., closed today because the miners have refused to report for duty.

JUN - 8 1943

"I expect that you will use your best efforts to see that these men and any others who may still be out on strike to return to their posts immediately.

"It is estimated that the interruption of production last week resulted in the loss of about 11,000,000 tons of coal which cannot be recaptured. This loss of tonnage substantially interfers with the conduct of the war and with the nation's ability to provide coal for house heating next winter. Every ton of coal that can be mined now is vital. I expect your assistance and that of every person in the coal industry to the end that there is no interruption of work however restricted it may be, so that the nation can be assured the supply of coal which it needs. It is my job to see that this coal is provided. I must insist that coal be supplied.

"I expect you to do your part in this job and I shall expect and insist that the operators and the operating managers of the mines do their part."

Miners Return to Work

Almost simultaneously John P. Busarello, president of the Miners' District 5, announced in Pittsburgh that all western Pennsylvania soft coal miners were now in line with the back-to-work order. This resulted when the Midland local voted late today to return to posts tomorrow.

The miners returned to their jobs under a deadline set by Mr. Lewis to expire June 20, and bargaining between the operators and the union was resumed meanwhile in Washington conferences.

Before the truce expires, Senator Connally (D-Tex.) predicted, anti-strike legislation will have received congressional approval. A joint conference committee of the Senate and House made this bill even more far-reaching today by inserting a section to provide for fining and imprisoning any person agreeing with another person to aid a strike interfering with production in a government-operated plant.

Some Miners Out

About half of the 13,000 men who work 41 mines in Kentucky's Harlan county still were out, and Ed Bean, United Mine workers representative at Harlan, said the men were dissatisfied over Washington negotiations, did not want to work under another truce, and wanted a definite wage contract.

In Ohio, six mines remained idle —with 3,546 of the state's 21,000 coal diggers failing to answer the whistle blasts—but they had a meeting scheduled to determine whether to resume work.

Navy's Casualties Up to 23,242

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—The Navy today announced nine casualties, including four dead and five wounded. The status of one man previously reported missing was changed to dead. This lifts to 23,242 the total of Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard casualties reported to next-of-kin since Dec. 7, 1941. The grand total includes 7,389 dead, 4,713 wounded and 11,140 missing. On today's list was Lieutenant William M. Dexter of the marines as dead. His mother, Mrs. Flore[illegible]tter, lives in Schenectady, N. Y.

New Bill to Let Chinese Enter U.S. Introduced

Provides for Immigration Quota of 100 Annually, Permits Naturalization

JUN -8 1943

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP).—Undismayed by a setback today in the House Immigration Committee, sponsors of a movement to repeal Chinese exclusion acts immediately offered a new bill.

The new measure, introduced by Representative Ed Gossett, Democrat, of Texas, a committee member, is based on a bill which failed to win approval of committee members during a stormy executive session.

Chairman Samuel Dickstein, Democrat, of New York, said introduction of the measure meant "starting again almost from scratch" and that new hearings, possibly including testimony by State Department representatives, would be held.

Members, determined to obtain some kind of bill to delete from the statutes what they termed the "stigma" of Chinese exclusion, said they hoped to report to the House a measure that could be acted upon before Congress recessed for the summer.

Meanwhile, a committee member said opponents of the movement had stated in executive session they would be willing to have the exclusion acts wiped off the books, but not willing to permit immigration of Chinese to this country.

Describing such sentiment as "preposterous," one supporter said privately this would have the effect of saying to the Chinese: "We no longer prohibit you from entering this country, but we will not permit you the immigration quota on which to enter."

Representative Warren G. Magnuson, Democrat, of Washington, told reporters if a measure were introduced which merely repealed the exclusion acts, he would immediately offer an amendment to provide entry of Chinese on a quota basis.

The new measure, a substitute for bills offered by Magnuson and Representative Martin G. Kennedy, Democrat, of New York, would provide:

1. A quota of slightly more than 100 annually for Chinese immigration to this country.

2. Naturalization of Chinese as citizens of the United States.

3. Division of the quota allowed Chinese, permitting 75 per cent of it to be allotted Chinese residents of China proper and the remainder to Chinese residing outside China, in order to prevent immigration of Chinese under quotas of other countries.

The measure would repeal statutes dating back to 1882 prohibiting entry of Chinese specifically and which were adopted following laying of the Union Pacific Railroad when numerous Chinese were brought to this country to help in road gangs laying the first transcontinental rail span.

Japanese Soldiers' Diet Found Highly Nutritious

B. E. W. Reports Rations Are 'Scientifically Balanced'

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP).—The Board of Economic Warfare, after a study of Japanese Army rations, reported today that the Japanese soldiers in the field eats a "highly nutritious, scientifically balanced" diet.

Instead of just rice, as many Americans imagined, the ration consists of a standard ration biscuit, a health drink called "Marin" which contains lactic acid, a yeast preparation called "florylin," wheat germ tablets and a tinned ration labeled "rice and bean curd."

B. E. W. experts decided some of these foods, while strange and unappetizing to Western taste, supply all essential elements of a balanced diet, including vitamins and minerals.

The ration biscuit, a concentrated energy food, is made from wheat flour and seaweed, baked without leavening, and vitaminized with rice polishings. Vitamins include B1 and G and nicotinic acid in about the same proportions as enriched flour sold in the United States.

"Marin" is a tonic and digestive stimulant and is fermented from rice. Although 60 per cent sugar, small amounts of lactic and other acids, which develop as the rice ferments, make it tart.

The Japanese call wheat germ tablets "Wakamoto." These tablets provide natural vitamins of the B family and vitamin E. "Florylin," the yeast preparation, is designed to combat beriberi, the scourge of the East. Rice and bean curd is a mixture of cooked rice and soy bean. The B. E. W. said this brownish paste contains valuable proteins, making it a satisfactory substitute for meat or fish.

The field ration, the B. E. W. concluded, is considerably better than the customary diet of the Japanese civilian.

Washington, June 7 (AP)—The War Department tonight announced the return from overseas of Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff.

Benes Calls at White House

Bids Farewell to Roosevelt, Tells of "Complete Agreement"

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP).—President Eduard Benes of Czecho-Slovakia, paying a farewell call on President Roosevelt today, said that he and the Chief Executive were in "complete agreement" on points they have discussed. The details must remain confidential, Dr. Benes told reporters, but will become known later.

The head of the exiled Czech government, who has been in this country a fortnight, said the objectives of his visit to the United States "have been accomplished." Vladimir Hurban, the Czech Minister, came to the White House with Dr. Benes.

Jap Warship Sunk.

Washington, June 7 (A. P.).—America's mounting air might in the Pacific made itself tellingly felt over the week end. Wading through a swarm of Jap Zero fighters, a formation of dive and torpedo bombers escorted by United States fighter planes sent an enemy destroyer to the bottom and set fire to a cargo ship and a corvette off Bougainville Island in the northwestern Solomons.

At least fifteen of what the Navy described yesterday as a "large force" of Japanese Zero planes were downed and three others damaged in the battle, which occurred Saturday noon. Four United States' planes were reported missing.

[Japanese Imperial Headquarters announced in a Tokio radio broadcast today that a Japanese naval air unit shot down twenty Allied planes that attempted to raid Shortland Island Saturday and damaged five others. The Japanese broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, asserted only three Jap planes had not returned from the engagement.]

Heavy bombing raids on the Japanese at Kiska in the Aleutians were reported by the Navy today in a communique which told also of the bombing of Munda on New Georgia Island and enemy positions on Choiseul Island in the Solomons. At Choiseul bombs silenced enemy gun emplacements, but at Kiska and Munda results of the attacks were not observed.

PLANE DELIVERIES TO BRITISH SPURT

Cincinnati, June 7 (A. P.).—Two years ago today the first plane was ferried to the British in Canada under lend-lease.

Today Col. William H. Turner, commanding the Ferrying Division of the Army Transport Command, announced that in the first five months of 1943 the division had increased its foreign deliveries over the comparable period of 1942 by 6,000 per cent.

"This," he remarked, "is the story behind the story of the great Allied raids dropping thousands of tons of bombs on enemy strongholds."

Exactly how many planes are being delivered by ferry pilots from the United States is a secret which the enemy would be glad to get, Col. Turner said.

Gen. H. H. Arnold, Chief of the Army Air Forces, told the graduating class at West Point last week that May deliveries alone across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans aggregated 1,800.

Land Envisions 20-Million-Ton Merchant Fleet

Advocates Tramp Shipping After War in U.S. Bid for Due Share of Sea Trade

BALTIMORE, June 7 (AP).—Rear Admiral Emory S. Land visualized tonight a record-breaking peacetime merchant fleet of from fifteen to twenty million tons under the American flag after the war.

The chairman of the United States Maritime Commission, laying down the most concrete postwar shipping program yet advanced by a government official, advocated reversal of former commission policy by adoption of tramp shipping as a definite part of the maritime economy after the war.

3024-4767

Tramp shipping, heretofore frowned on by the commission as uneconomic, is shipping which follows no definite routes or schedules, but goes when and where cargo may be found.

The admiral spoke at a dinner given by the Maryland Historical Society in observance of Maritime Day.

Favors Private Ownership

Other suggestions which Admiral Land's program embraced were private ownership, private operation and private construction; shipment of "a liberal percentage of our overseas traffic" in American bottoms; establishment of "proper routes, lines and services with a minimum of American competition, as foreign flags will furnish all possible competition necessary," and maintenance for the duration of the commission's present policy of holding title to new ships.

Senator Josiah W. Bailey, Democrat, of North Carolina, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, told the dinner gathering that construction this year of 20,000,000 tons of cargo ships was a "miraculous achievement . . . without precedent in all the history of the world."

Credit for the record-breaking program was given to Admiral Land, whom Senator Bailey described a "a first-class example of the type of man our government needs at the head of each of its war activities."

Post-war maritime objectives, Admiral Land assured his audience, "are not being overlooked because of the exigencies of war."

Economic Survey Under Way

"We are not losing sight of the objective manifestly set up in the merchant marine act of 1936, which gives to the Maritime Commission the duty of proper rehabilitation of the merchant marine," he said. "The commission has a new economic survey well under way. We have a tentative program in formulation and a skeleton organization in being.

"In order to plan properly for the after-the-war period, consideration must be given to the probable fleet under the American flag that will be in existence at the end of the war. We should definitely earmark for United States commerce, under the United States flag, a modern fleet of from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 deadweight tons. As a nation of 135,000,000 people, we are entitled to that tonnage. As the greatest shipbuilding nation in the world, we are entitled to have it as modern and up to date as the exigencies of the war permit."

Admiral Land said that in order to give reasonable consideration to the over-all shipping industry of the United States, "we should so set our sights as to hold this fleet of about 20,000,000 deadweight tons and in addition, even though not necessary from a world-economic point of view, it is very desirable that we lay out our plans so that our best shipyards properly distributed throughout the United States should be able to proceed with a nucleus of construction of new ships even though we may build up a reserve."

Attu Cold And Fighting Described By Veterans

200 At San Francisco Hospital Suffer From Frostbite And Are Unable To Walk

JUN -8 1943

[By the Associated Press]

San Francisco, June 7—Nearly 400 veterans of Attu grinned through the pain of severe frost-bit and gunshot wounds today to tell stories of incredible hardships and bitter fighting on that now-captured Aleutian outpost.

Their worst enemies were dampness and cold. Two hundred of the fighters arrived at a San Francisco army hospital yesterday were suffering from frost-bite, mostly in the feet. The other 195 had stopped Japanese lead or been injured in accidents.

Victims of the cold were unable to walk. The feet of many were swollen to twice their normal size.

Couldn't Always Change

As Corporal Laddie Gargulak, 24, of Chicago, explained:

"We got wet feet on the original landing and we got wet feet every couple hours. It was all right when we could change socks regularly, but when we could not, boy, the frost-bite would set in."

Gargulak's outfit was headed for a surprise attack on a Japanese position in the Holtz Bay region. His group sneaked through the fog until the men were about a quarter of a mile from the Japanese.

Then the fog suddenly lifted, and the Americans were in pla... The enemy opened up with a ... purpose guns and pinned dow... soldiers for about an hour.

"We got them later," Gargulak added.

A story of American bravery was told by Private Anthony Sniegolski, 28, of Chicago.

His outfit was situated on the side of a hill, with enemy soldiers just over the hump. Sniegolski was out of action with shrapnel wounds, but he watched the proceedings.

"Both sides were tossing hand grenades back and forth," he said. "Then our boys just got tired of that and climbed to the top of the hill and started firing down at the Japs.

"Eight or ten Japs then would come up the hill yelling a battle cry, but our guys just stood there. They had ammunition left in their guns, but they wanted to get at those Japs with bayonets. They cleaned out that group of Japs with cold steel."

Don't Like Bayonets

Sniegolski said the Japanese soldiers do not like the American bayonets.

"Once I saw two Japs start running backward when they saw the steel," he said. "They were shot down by their own officers. That sure made our morale go up."

Private Ben Moyhnihan, 27, of St. Louis, Mo., went ashore with the first scouting party on May 11. He began to feel his feet tingle after a couple days.

After the sixth day his feet were badly swollen and he could no longer walk.

The snipers were just about as bad as the climate, according to Staff Bergeant Harold L. Steve... of Whitefish, Mont.

Stevens was laying mortar fire on a foggy hill on the morning of May 26. The tricky fog suddenly lifted again. A Japanese sniper in a hole back of the lines fired and got Stevens in the right leg.

Private Jacob Chir, a young Korean from Honolulu, who suffered frostbite in both feet saw one American soldier crawl in a hole with three Japanese and slash all three of them to death with a hunting knife.

Among other soldiers recovering at the hospital are:

Private Harold Lucas, 31, Amsterdam, N. Y., gunshot wound in the haid; Private George Barrier, 22, Savannah, Tenn., gunshot wound in left hand where a Japanese sniper got him; Private Stanley R. Gerow, 29, Clare, Mich., gunshot wounds; Private Bernard R. Kist, 23, Cincinnati, Ohio, shrapnel in the left hand; Corp. James W. Parish, 31, Marshall, Mo., shot through both hands by snipers; Technician James Capps, 21, Jakin, Ga., gunshot wounds in right arm; Private Anthony Surell, 24, Stubenville, Ohio, and Sergt. Stanley Yanukanas, 23, Chicago, gun-shot wounds.

20 Die in Army Plane Crash

MAXTON, N. C., June 7 (AP)—At least twenty men were killed in the crash of an Army transport plane today about four miles from here, Maxton air base officials said tonight. Captain S. B. Mayer, adjutant, said that the transport, based at Pope Field, Fort Bragg, was on a routine flight.

Pilot Receives D. F. C. For 'Trimming' Fortress

Braved Fire to Set Stabilizer, Permitting Crew to Jump

CINCINNATI, June 7 (AP).—The Distinguished Flying Cross was awarded today to Major Owen F. Clarke, twenty-eight-year-old Army ferry pilot, for extraordinary heroism in "trimming and retrimming" his burning Flying Fortress over rugged California terrain until his crew bailed out—an accident in which he saved himself when only 300 feet from the ground.

Major Clarke, a native of St. Catherines, Ont., and resident of Phoenix, Ariz., was awarded the D. F. C. by Colonel William H. Tunner, commanding the Air Transport Command's ferry unit.

The accident occurred March 23, 1942, the Army said, near Coalinga, Calif. Fire started in the nose section of the four-engine ship at an altitude of 2,500 feet. Unable to make an emergency landing because of the mountainous country, Clarke, then a lieutenant, directed his crew to the rear for an emergency jump.

"Lieutenant Clarke started toward the rear of the ship and . . . noticed that the ship was about to stall, the Army reported. "He took off his parachute, returned to the pilot's cockpit . . . rolling the elevator stabilizer forward . . . all crew members by this time had executed an emergency jump. By this time the ship had reached an altitude of about 300 feet and . . . an air speed of . . . 300 miles an hour. . . . Lieutenant Clarke jumped, with only one (parachute) leg fastener and the chest buckle fastened."

Censured As Critic Of Roosevelt's Sons

Emporia, Kan., June 7 (AP)—A resolution censuring Representative W. P. Lambertson (R., Kan.) for criticizing in Congress the military records of President Roosevelt's sons was adopted at the closing session of the Kansas Veterans of Foreign Wars twenty-third annual encampment.

The resolution commended the military conduct of the Roosevelts.

STANDLEY LIKELY TO LEAVE MOSCOW

Ambassador Said To Be Irked By Flood Of Visiting Diplomats From U. S.

JUN -8 1943

Admiral Standley, Ambassador to Russia, is tired of being bypassed by Washington on important matters and will resign before next winter, according to Eddy Gilmore, who has just arrived home for a vacation after nearly two years as an Associated Press correspondent in Moscow. A similar report recently brought word from the White House and State Department that nothing was known there of such a situation.

By EDDY GILMORE

New York, June 7—The United States Ambassador to the Soviet Union—Admiral William H. Standley—was planning no immediate resignation when I told him goodby on a Russian airport a few days ago, but he probably will not go through another winter.

This is not because of the chilling blasts of Moscow and Kuibyshev, but because of a little frigid diplomatic air which breezes in from time to time fron. his own country.

As the Admiral (for most of those who know this distinguished man of the Navy call him that) said recently:

"You know, I don't feel that I'm trying to make my career. I feel I've already made it. I made it in the navy. I don't have any ambitions over here. I'm not trying to change any worlds. I'm just trying to serve my country in the only way I know how."

The Admiral gets along fine with the Russians. He's a plain-speaking, blunt man and the Soviets like that. He has had no major differences with them. They like and respect him. The Admiral likes the Russians. He likes particularly Stalin, Molotov, Kalinin and Mikoyan.

Irked By Visiting Firemen

The thing that is freezing out the Admiral is the visiting diplomatic firemen—men from his own country who fly into his diplomatic preserve with special missions and special messages, most of which the United States Ambassador doesn't know about and doesn't have explained to him.

Since Standley has been Ambassador there have been several prominent visiting firemen such as Wendell Willkie, Patrick Hurley, Averell Harriman and most lately Joseph E. Davies.

In more than one case the first news the United States Ambassador to the Soviet Union got of these gentlemen was when he heard it over the British broadcasting system.

Courtesy Of Reply Denied Him

In one case he cabled to ask what it was all about, and in at least one case he never did get a reply.

The admiral waited, and it might be added, fumed—fumed as he would have if he had heard someone clattering up the bridge of his battleship and taking over while he still was in command technically.

The latest of the visiting firemen was, of course, former Ambassador Davies, on his second mission to Moscow—a fact, incidentally, which he had painted on the Government airplane after it arrived in Moscow. He came back to the United States with "Mission to Moscow," written in both English and Russian, on the side of the plane in bright yellow letters.

Davies' Mission The Climax

Davies' mission, which may or may not have been of the highest political significance, was the one which may have caused the admiral to make up his mind to quit.

In a way, Davies was very considerate of the United States Ambassador. He held his first press conference at the admiral's house, and he held his second one with the admiral present.

But when Davies went to see Stalin and present the letter from President Roosevelt there was a different story. The United States Ambassador went along to present Davies to the Soviet Premier, but he didn't sit in on the conversation.

In fact, he was told to go home—and he did.

It is likely, of course, that Davies was acting under higher instructions. But it is still very hard for the former chief of naval operations, the United States Ambassador to the Soviet Union, not to be told what was in that letter delivered in his territory.

DEATH RATE CUT FOR U.S. WOUNDED IN TUNISIA DRIVE

JUN -8 1943

Plasma, Surgery, Sulfa Drugs Brought Reduction, Says Surgeon General.

CHICAGO, June 7—(AP) Major General Norman T. Kirk, surgeon-general of the army, told the American Medical association house of delegates today that the American wounded death rate in Tunisia was "unbelievably low."

The rate was two-and-one-half to three-and-one half per cent, for the Americans' first campaign before they moved north to attack Bizerte. These are the first official figures. They are higher than in some other fighting, but are miraculous because of the long distances the wounded had to be carried. In World War One under like conditions deaths would have been 15 to 18 per cent.

General Kirk went through the Tunisian campaign until after the German surrender, and told the A.M.A. of some new aids in life-saving. He was appointed surgeon general after his return to the United States, June 1.

Battery of Improvements

On life-saving aid, for abdominal wounds, is a stomach tube, to withdraw gas from the digestive tract. It is not new in medicine, but is one of a battery of improvements which the military medical men are using to set new records.

In Tunisia, said General Kirk, the wounded had to be carried on the average 8 to 20 miles through mountains to the first medical stations, and after that another 650 miles by ambulance to evacuation hospitals. Later there was another 400 to 500 miles back to base hospitals.

Planes, which carried war supplies to the front, brought back 13,000 men to hospitals, including both battle casualties and the sick.

Sulfa drugs were definitely not the first reason for the saving of lives, General Kirk asserted.

Plasma of Great Value

The foremost lifesaver was plasma, the dried blood extract which millions of Americans have been giving the Red Cross for nearly two years. Plasma saved shock and bleeding, and without that, General Kirk said, many men would have died before they could reach medical care.

Second in life saving was surgery, which cleaned up the wounds to reduce risk of infection. In third place were the sulfa drugs, aiding to minimize infection.

In this southern campaign an unbelievable record was a total of only 77 cases of bone infection. That trouble afflicted 75 per cent of the wounded in previous wars. The 77 cases were an almost astronomically small fraction of one per cent of wounded.

Gas Gangrene Minimized

Gas gangrene, another killer, caused just one death, and there were only 12 cases altogether. Proper surgery was the main reason, General Kirk said, but added that lack of manure for farm fertilization in North Africa undoubtedly was a great help, since manure carries this infection.

He quoted General Eisenhower as saying that the "outstanding service of the whole A.E.F. in Africa was that rendered by the medical department."

Service Men Attack Zoot-Suited Hoodlums

LOS ANGELES, June 7 — (AP) Traffic was halted and crowds of curious jammed downtown streets from curb to curb tonight to watch incensed service men ferret out zoot-suited hoodlums they blame for numerous unprovoked assaults upon uniformed men, civilians and women.

It was the third consecutive night the service men ranged the streets in search of the rakishly attired rowdies, but in most instances they fled in time to escape beating similar to those administered by uniformed men, mostly sailors, to the youthful gangs over the week-end.

A number of them were caught and badly mauled, however, the police reported.

In some instances, the service men tore the draping zoot suits off the victims and left them lying nude in the street.

Dutch Nazi Cabinet Member Killed By Patriots' Shots

Another Minister Attempts Suicide — Hundreds Reported Executed In Strike Reprisals

JUN -8 1943

[By the Associated Press]

New York, June 7—Dr. Folkert E. Posthuma, Dutch Nazi and secretary for agriculture in the German-controlled Dutch Cabinet, has been shot fatally and another Cabinet member has attempted suicide while German masters of the Netherlands have executed hundreds and perhaps thousands of Dutch citizens who took part in a general strike, reports reaching here tonight said.

An Aneta dispatch from Stockholm said Posthuma was attacked last Thursday by patriots who fired several shots at him. He died shortly afterward.

Suicide Report Current

The same source said that reports were current throughout Holland that Prof. Rudolf van Genechten, delegate for arts, education and sciences and commissioner for South Holland, tried to commit suicide but failed. On May 6 he was given an indefinite leave of absence by Anton A. Mussert, leading Dutch Nazi, because of "ill health."

Posthuma's death brought to four the number of Dutch Nazi ministers who have been eliminated in the past five months, Aneta said. The former minister was virtual dictator of agriculture. Aged 69, he had been Netherlands Minister of Agriculture during the First World War but later became an adherent of the Nazis. He was always considered pro-German.

Van Genechten, a Belgian by birth, sided with the Germans when they invaded Belgium in 1914. He was convicted of high treason by the Belgian authorities but was granted asylum in Holland where he became naturalized and joined the Mussert party.

Strike Details Revealed

The general strike in Holland took place in late April and early May, the Office of War Information said. Details had been withheld by the Nazi censorship but an OWI outpost bureau was able to make them public.

Despite the activity of the Nazi execution squads, the Dutch people "revealed a remarkable solidarity," the report said, and added that as a result the "Nazi occupant must have lost his last hope of conquering the spiritual resistance of this people to National Socialism."

The strike began Apri 29 when Nazi authorities announced that all members of the "former Dutch army," most of whom had been freed in 1940, would be reclassified as prisoners of war and would be sent to Germany for forced labor in Nazi war plants.

Within half an hour, the OWI report asserted, cities and villages throughout the country completely changed appearance. Factories, shops and public offices closed. Busses stopped in the streets. Only automatic telephones operated and only railroads, gas, light and water services continued. Farmers left their fields, slaughtered their animals and hid the carcasses to prevent their seizure by the Nazis. Law courts suspended sessions.

Wholesale Arrests Follow

Wholesale arrests began the next day, particularly in industrial centers, in an effort to break the strike.

Many of those arrested during the next few days were kept as hostages. German police trucks, armed with machine guns, cruised the deserted streets.

Curfew from 8 P. M. until 6 A. M. was strictly enforced and groups of more than five were forbidden to gather. People looking out of windows during curfew hours were shot at, and those who misunderstood the curfew orders also were fired upon by the German police, the report said.

Laval To Recruit 3,000 To Serve In French Garrisons

New York, June 7 (AP) — The Nazi-controlled Paris radio said today 3,000 volunteers would make up a "First Regiment" of France for garrison duty, probably in central France, under plans announced by Pierre Laval.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said the regimental uniforms would be the same as that worn by the French armistice army, demobilized by Adolf Hitler when he engulfed the unoccupied territory last November 11.

Among the officers, it reported, will be those "who, in the course of fights in Tunisia and Syria safeguarded the tradition of France's military honor," which is the Axis' way of saying they fought against the Allies.

Classifying Austrians As Germans Protested

New York, June 7 (AP)—John W. Davis, Democratic Presidential nominee in 1924, today protested in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals on behalf of Austrians in the United States who were classed as German citizens by the United States Attorney's office here.

ITALY DISCIPLINES SCORE OF FASCISTI

Some Imprisoned, While Party Suspends Others

JUN -8 1943

The Rome radio said yesterday that Carlo Scorza, newly appointed secretary of the Fascist party, had "adopted disciplinary acts" against more than a score of party members, according to the Office of War Information.

The penalties ranged from a fourteen-year prison term "for violating war economic measures" to suspension from the party "for misuse of a gasoline allowance," the broadcast said. It was reported by the Federal Communications Commission.

Others were expelled from the party for "gambling," "for having an illegal amount of iron," for avoiding "risks in bombed areas," for "entertaining British prisoners" and for withholding "large amounts of grain," the broadcast said. One party member was "sent to a concentration camp for violating food ration laws." Another received a five-year sentence for "hoarding," while "a storekeeper got three years for hoarding oil," the broadcast continued.

What's Behind The War News

By GLENN BABB

The air fighting over the long Russian front has reached a pitch of intensity which indicates that this preliminary phase of the great battles of 1943 is near its end. Moscow reports that 752 Nazi planes were knocked down last week and Red army fliers are hammering airfields and gathering points for the huge forces the enemy is bringing to the front. Berlin tells of heavy assaults on Soviet war industries and communications behind the front.

It is difficult to see how the opening of the 1943 summer offensive can be much longer delayed. Most authorities believe the attack will come within a few days and that Hitler will make it. Already the season is late for his purpose. He began the big push of 1941 on June 22 and found that the weeks before winter's coming were too few for his main purpose, the capture of Moscow. Last lear he began a little earlier, delivering the big blow in the Kharkov area on June 11, and again winter came before he could achieve any of his major objectives.

This year his urgency is even greater if he is to stave off disaster through a victory in the east he must win it before Russia's western Allies compel him to divert the major portion of his armies to meet the blows with which they hope to crack his fortress of Europe.

In spite of the propaganda emanating from Berlin suggesting that the German armies may withhold their offensive in the east, that to remain on the defensive would be a sign of strength and not weakness, the overwhelming consensus of informed opinion is that Hitler must attack Russia. He must, as Winston Churchill said, make his "supreme gambler's throw" in the form of a third attempt to destroy the Red army. Where the blow will fall is of course the secret of the German High Command, but there are strong indications that it may be delivered in approximately the same region as last year, somewhere along the Kharkov-Kursk sector some 300 miles south of Moscow. The first objective may be Voronezh, beyond the Don.

That was the avenue followed last June. Voronezh was reached after four weeks of heavy fighting but in that sector the Germans got no further and when the tide turned last winter they had to abandon that hinge of their southern front. Joseph Stalin disclosed last autumn that Moscow itself was the main goal of the enemy's 1942 drive. Apparently it had been the intention to wheel the main forces to the north somewhere beyond Voronezh and drive upon Moscow from the south and east.

But this plan broke down, apparently because Hitler could not be satisfied with one objective but had to try at the same time to grab the oil of the Caucasus and win the prestige he hoped would come from capture of Stalingrad, the city named for his adversary. This year it is unlikely that the field marshals who have taken over from Corporal Hitler will permit any diversions from the primary goals, seizure of Moscow and destruction of the Red army.

If there are to be diversions it is Russia's western Allies who must supply them. That fundamentally is what any campaigns the Americans and British may launch against southern or western Europe this year must be. The Russian battles still will be the main show as far as the war on Hitler is concerned. The Allies' chief purpose for 1943 must be to enable Russia to withstand the terrible blows that will be aimed at her. Thus it probably will be found that any attacks from the south or the west will be designed to serve the double purpose of diverting some of the 218 divisions Hitler has arrayed against the Soviet Union or opening or safeguarding the routes by which planes, tanks and war supplies flow to the Russian armies.

This reasoning points to the Mediterranean and Norway as logical theaters for the chief Allied actions of the summer. In the former many islands now in Axis hands must be seized to open the shorter searoute not only to Russia by the Persian gulf but also to India, Burma and China. A descent on Norway would be logical because the first fruits of success would be wiping out the bases from which German planes, submarines and surface craft prey on the convoys bound for Murmansk and Archangel.

Downs His First Enemy Plane

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 7 (AP).—Staff Sergeant Vincent D. Rylka, of Irvington, N. J., was credited today with shooting down his first enemy plane, a Messerschmitt.

Sank Japanese Ship in Raid on Rabaul Last Year

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, (AP)—Nineteen men of the Fifth United States Air Force, who took part in a raid on Rabaul, New Britain, more than a year ago and sank a Japanese cargo vessel and seriously damaged two others, have received the Distinguished Flying Cross "for extraordinary achievement."

The recipients included Captain Jay Zeamer of Orange, N. J.; Lieutenant Joseph B. Moringstar of Bronxville, N. Y., and Sergeant Richard I. Slater of Watkins Glen, N. Y.

Japs Bomb Wau.

Allied Headquarters in Australia, June 7 (A. P.).—The Japanese dive-bombed the Allied mountain base of Wau, high in the mountains overlooking the Japanese coastal holdings in the Lae-Salamaua area with sixteen planes yesterday but failed to inflict appreciable damage. Four fighters accompanied the dive-bombers in the eleventh raid against Wau. Anti-aircraft fire caught one enemy plane, and it was last seen smoking and falling rapidly. Damage caused was slight and there were no casualties.

Ground activity in the Mubo area, twelve miles south of Salamaua, remained static.

A formation of four-engined Liberators raided Japanese positions in Koepang, Timor, and the Barraccs area in the Penfoei airdrome near by. A number of fires and explosions were seen among the barracks and along the water front.

After leaving the target, which was heavily defended by anti-aircraft fire, the Liberators were intercepted by eight Japanese fighters. Three of the Zeros were shot down, and all the Liberators returned to their base.

Tropical storms, which have been limiting recent offensive measure by air, again probably prevented other air activity throughout the Southwest Pacific area.

AUSTRALIA, June 7 (AP).—Five members of a bomber crew who scored two direct hits and two near-misses on a Japanese cargo ship in the Bismarck Sea battle last March have received Oak Leaf clusters in lieu of a second Air Medal. The recipients include Staff Sergeant Phillip Basso, of 166 East 119th Street, New York.

Similar awards were made to Second Lieutenant Harvey Clymer, Tuckahoe, N. Y., a fighter pilot who shot down a Zero near Gasmata, New Britain, last January, and Second Lieutenant Roger T. Greene, of Canajoharie, N. Y., who shot down a Zero over Wau, New Guinea, last February.

Allied Submarine Reported Sunk.

The Italian communique, broadcast by the Rome radio and recorded by the Associated Press, asserted without offering any further detail that an Allied submarine was sunk by the Royal Italian Navy in the Mediterranean.

The Italians also said their fighter planes brought down four four-engined bombers and anti-aircraft guns downed a fifth in the Allied raids on Messina, Reggio Calabria and other localities on the Messina Strait. They acknowledged further bombing of Pantelleria where, they asserted, seven Allied planes were brought down by fighters and anti-aircraft guns. They said German fighter planes brought down two other bombers south of Sicily and a Spitfire near Lampedusa Island. Three Italian planes were lost, it was said.

Another Rome radio broadcast said fifty were killed and seven injured in the vicinity of Reggio Calabria.

Mediterranean Flyers Like Performance Of Marauders

Maneuverability, Fire Power And Ability To Take It Praised By Handlers Of Medium Bomber

JUN - 8 1943

By HAROLD V. BOYLE
[Associated Press Correspondent]

A USAAF Bomber Base in Algeria, June 2 (Delayed)—Speedy, tub-winged Marauders (the B-26)—they fly like a bumblebee but pack the wallop of a mule—have made a name for themselves in the Mediterranean combat, and the boys who fly them praise them as the best medium bombers in action.

In tryouts back home this short-winged bomber drew some criticism by its reported heavy accident rate, but pilots who have flown it against the Germans say it is a safe and durable ship in trained hands.

"The way it has been bringing us home from missions all beat up by flak really sold us on it," said Lieut. C. S. Church, of San Francisco. "We like it the way it performs now and we don't want them to put any gadgets on it to slow it up."

Would Not Trade For Fortress

"We are very well satisfied with it and I wouldn't trade it for the Flying Fortress," said Lieut. A. J. McGlannen, of Catonsville, Md. "I don't like to take oxygen."

"They had trouble back home because they checked the B-26s out too fast, before a man really knew how to handle them," said Lieut. Robert P. Own, of Seattle.

"Those engines really have power—best on any bomber," said Lieut. A. J. Riley, of Hammond, Minnesota.

Formidably Armed

Citing the combat record of the Marauder in this theater, Major William A. Adams, of Natchez, Miss., a ground officer, said: "From the very start, when they came up here as a green outfit, they've done the best job imaginable on targets everywhere from Bizerte and Tunis to Sardinia and Sicily. They are formidably armed with heavy .50-caliber machine guns and have proved time and again they can take care of themselves when attacked by enemy fighters."

One group of B-26's, which since April 23 have flown twenty-three missions and several hundred sorties, also made several trips unescorted into enemy country, defending themselves with bristling guns while unloading their cargoes.

In one call on the east coast of Sardinia they were jumped by dozens of ME-109s. In a 32-minute running battle, during which one ME-109 was shot down and another damaged, the Marauders swept home intact as a result of their superior fire power, which kept other enemy fighters at a respectful distance.

Enemy Aircraft Shot Down

In other encounters B-26s in raids on Decimonannu shot down seven Axis aircraft in one day, and on another mission they knocked down ten more. In a bombing attack on forty-five planes caught on the ground they destroyed many and damaged others.

The Flying Fortress can pack its three-ton load farther than the two-ton burden which the B-26s can tote 350 miles before turning back home. The Marauders work at around 12,000 feet and have to brave all sorts of light and heavy flak, while the cloud-spurning Fortresses have only to worry about heavy flak.

"Our B-26s are faster and more maneuverable, however, so they are better able to carry out evasive tactics," said Adams. "In one trip over Cap Bon a Marauder formation of thirty-four planes flew one hundred miles through the worst flak we have ever seen. Only two ships were unmarked. Three were shot down, but only one crew was lost.

Show They Can Take It

"The rest came back with an average of 80 holes in each ship and some had as many or 115 or 120. I think that proves that they can take it. One plane, with one of its two engines out of commission and with its ailerons shot up, passed an ammunition ship and blew it up on the way home.

"Our flyers are thoroughly trained and they respect and have full confidence in their B-26s. We feel that the results from the raids prove they can bomb with accuracy from medium altitude even in the face of the heaviest flak and fighter opposition."

Jungle Suits Sent To Aleutian Isles In Shipping Mixup

New Caledonia Natives Are Delighted With Supply of Arctic Clothes

By EUGENE BURNS,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WITH UNITED STATES TROOPS IN ALEUTIANS.—Enough crazy things happen in this Army to keep a man sane.

A shipload of sand was sent to an island which resembles nothing so much in the world as an abandoned gravel pit. In a chaplain's hut, about 200 miles from Jap-held Kiska, hangs a heavy lithographed poster of Italian soldiers and sailors. The chaplain received none for the Japs.

On a flight over a barren seal-infested cape one sees a silo. It was a camouflaged building intended for England's restful countryside where they have cows.

80 Jungle Suits.

Eighty jungle camouflage suits, reversible for wet and dry weather, arrived here with leafy green helmet covers to match. Anything which would remotely resemble an upright piece of greenery on this treeless, bushless waste would be shot on sight.

A shipment of WAAC's brassieres and silk panties threw the troops into a panic, since there is not one woman within 1,000 miles of this front. They figured the exact size of the contingent because each WAAC is issued four panties and two brassieres.

Tropical Butter.

We are still hacking our way through thousands of pounds of tropical butter which mixed with paraffin refuses to melt at 120 degrees Fahrenheit, we have been told.

It has been a chore to make comfortable dwellings out of some fresh air tropical huts delivered to this base.

However, in steamy New Caledonia natives were delighted with Arctic clothing—the more clothes they wore, the higher their rank.

Russia May Be Isolationist After War, Educator Says

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 7.—An educator contended yesterday that fear of a wave of postwar revolutions in Europe may have prompted Joseph Stalin's order for dissolution of the Third International.

Speaking on the University of Chicago round table broadcast over NBC, Prof. Peter Drucker of Bennington (Vt.) College said.

"I believe that the dissolution of the Comintern has implications for Russian postwar policy. I think that it is possible that Russia will become the great isolationist country after the war. * * * He can only do this with a peaceful Europe. He does not want internal revolutions."

Sir Bernard Pares, professor of Russian history at the University of London, agreed with the contention that Stalin did not wish to stir up world revolutions.

"Communism is dead in Russia," he said. "They have a regime of state capitalism." He added that Stalin "has always been more interested in home affairs and in developing his own country than in stirring up world revolution."

LONDON, JUNE 7-(AP)-THE EVENING STANDARD PUBLISHED TODAY A DISPATCH BY F.G.A. COOK, ITS UNITED STATES CORRESPONDENT, IN WHICH HE QUOTED GOVERNOR JOHN W.BRICKER OF OHIO AS TELLING HIM IN AN INTERVIEW THAT HE WAS OPPOSED TO A POST-WAR LEAGUE OF NATIONS AND AN INTERNATIONAL ARMED FORCE.

COOK'S ACCOUNT IN THE STANDARD, ONE OF LORD BEAVERBROOK'S NEWSPAPERS, DESCRIBED BRICKER AS HAVING THE REPUTATION OF A MAN WHOSE OPINIONS ARE UNFORMED (CORRECT) AND DECLARED "CERTAINLY HE IS CAUTIOUS WHEN WORLD AFFAIRS COME UP FOR DISCUSSION, BUT HE IS FRANK ABOUT THE REASON."

"I JUST DON'T KNOW ENOUGH," HE QUOTED BRICKER AS SAYING. COOK ADDED: "ONE THING AT LEAST MR.BRICKER ZILL TALK ABOUT. HE IS INFLEXIBLY OPPOSED TO ANY FORM OF AN INTERNATIONAL ARMED FORCE. A NAVY BIGGER THAN BRITAIN'S? AN ARMY BIGGER THAN RUSSIA'S? HE JUST SMILES."

JUN - 8 1943

(AT COLUMBUS, BRICKER DECLARED COOK'S STORY WAS NOT CORRECT.

("THOSE ARE NOT MY WORDS," THE GOVERNOR SAID. "THEY ARE STRICTLY THOSE OF THE WRITER, TO WHOM I DID NOT GIVE ANY DIRECT QUOTATIONS. I DID HAVE AN INTERVIEW WITH MR. COOK DURING WHICH NO NOTES WERE TAKEN. IT WAS A CONVERSATION AND THE LANGUAGE OF MR. COOK'S STORY

JUN -8 1943

COOK'S STORY SAID BRICKER SUGGESTED THAT THERE IS DANGER THAT AN INTERNATIONAL AGENCY CONTROLLING AN ARMED FORCE "MIGHT USE THAT FORCE AGAINST THE LITTLE NATIONS BUT WOULD HESITATE TO USE IT ON YOU (BRITAIN) OR ON US OR ON RUSSIA."

"THERE OUGHT TO BE SOME MEANS OF IMPLEMENTING THE WORLDWIDE DESIRE OF THE PEOPLE FOR PEACE," COOK QUOTED BRICKER AS ADDING IN REPLY TO THE QUESTION OF HOW MUCH THE UNITED STATES SHOULD COOPERATE WITH THE REST OF THE WORLD. "THERE MUST BE AND YOU MAY BE SURE AMERICA WILL BE INNIT X X X X WE ARE IN THIS FIGHT BECAUSE WE BELIEVE IN (ANGLO-SAXON) SYSTEM AND WE WILL DO OUR PART WHEN ITS OVER; BUT NO LEAGUE AND NO INTERNATIONAL ARMED FORCE.

"AMERICANS WILL NEVER SURRENDER THEIR OWN SOVEREIGNTY OR INTEGRITY ANY MORE THAN YOU WOULD. WE WANT NO TERRITORY FROM ANYBODY."

COOK'S STORY SAID BRICKER DESCRIBED THE LABELS "ISOLATIONIST" AND "INTERNATIONALIST" AS EPITHETS WITHOUT ANY REAL MEANING. COOK SAID THAT BRICKER DID NOT BELIEVE THE ISOLATIONISTS ARE AS STUPID, AS IGNORANT OR AS NATIONALISTICALLY EGOTISTIC AS THEIR OPPONENTS THINK AND QUOTED THE GOVERNOR AS SAYING:

JUN -8 1943

"CERTAINLY I AM NEITHER. I AM AN AMERICAN. I BELIEVE IN OUR WAY OF LIFE, THE ANGLO-SAXON WAY--THE BRITISH WAY IF YOU LIKE."

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, JUNE 6-(DELAYED)-(AP)-SOMEWHERE IN THE SUN-DRENCHED HILLS OF NORTH AFRICA, 23-YEAR-OLD FIRST LIEUT. BILLY H. KERR OF HUNTSVILLE, MO., AND HIS COMRADES OF A VETERAN AMERICAN ARMORED DIVISION ARE GETTING READY FOR ANOTHER SOCK AT THE AXIS.

JUN - 8 1943

IT IS A KIND OF PHONEY ARMISTICE RIGHT NOW FOR THOUSANDS OF AMERICAN FIGHTING MEN. TUNISIA BLOODED THEM AND TRIED THEM BY FIRE. FACING THE FORTRESS OF EUROPE ABOUT WHICH HITLER HAS RANTED SO MUCH THEY WAIT IMPATIENTLY TO BE TOLD WHERE TO LAND THE NEXT BLOW.

BLOND BILLY KERR, WHO WENT FROM THE UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI INTO THE ARMY AND NOW EARS THREE RIBBONS ON HIS KHAKI SHIRT, IS TYPICAL OF THE CIVILIAN YOUTH MOULDED BY WAR.

THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS, THE SILVER STAR, THE PURPLE HEART WITH OAK LEAF CLUSTER--THOSE ARE KERR'S PRESENT DECORATIONS. HE'D RATHER HAVE A TOOTH PULLED THAN TALK ABOUT HOW HE GOT THEM.

BUT IN THE BULGING FILES OF ALLIED HEADQUARTERS WHERE THOUSANDS OF TALES OF HEROISM ARE RECORDED, THERE IS A CASE HISTORY OF THE YOUNG MISSOURIAN. IT IS ALSO A CASE HISTORY OF WHAT THE GERMANS ARE UP AGAINST IN FIGHTING AMERICANS.

THERE IS NO HOOPLA IN THESE REPORTS ON WHICH AMERICAN MILITARY AWARDS ARE BASED. THEY COME FROM PRECISE STATEMENTS BY INTELLIGENCE OFFICERS AND COMMANDERS, AND ARE BACKED UP BY ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS OF AT LEAST TWO WITNESSES TO THE HEROIC ACTIONS. TAKE KERR'S FILE:

THE FIRST ITEM IS A COMMENDATION FROM HIS SUPERIOR OFFICER FOR HIS PERFORMANCE WITH A FIELD ARTILLERY BATTALION AT SENED STATION JAN.31.

JUN - 8 1943

"HE CONTINUOUSLY, WITH COMPLETE DISREGARD OF HIS OWN WELFARE AND UNDER THE MOST ADVERSE CIRCUMSTANCES, RENDERED SUPERIOR SERVICE."

THAT WAS WHEN COL. GEN. JURGEN VON ARNIM'S GROWING AXIS FORCES WERE GETTING TOUGH.

THE SECOND ITEM DESCRIBES ACTION WHICH WON FOR KERR THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS FOR EXTRAORDINARY GALLANTRY FEB.15 AT SIDI BOU ZID WHEN FIELD MARSHAL ERWIN ROMMEL STAGED HIS BIG TANK SMASH AGAINST THE AMERICAN FRONT:

JUN -8 1943

"AS FORWARD ARTILLERY OBSERVER, LIEUTENANT KERR ACCOMPANIED A TANK BATTALION IN AN ATTACK. THE BATTALION WAS SHELLED HEAVILY BUT HIS ACCURATE INFORMATION ENABLED OUR GUNS TO SILENCE THE ENEMY BATTERY. COMPLETELY DISREGARDING HIS SAFETY, HE OBSERVED FROM A TURRET. HIS TANK WAS SET AFIRE BY A SHELL AND HAD TO BE EVACUATED, BUT KERR REMAINED UNDER SHELLFIRE AND HELPED EXTINGUISH THE BLAZE. HE THEN THREW SMOKE GRENADES TO CREATE THE IMPRESSION THAT THE TANK WAS STILL BURNING AND USED IT AS A STATIONARY OBSERVATION POST. HIS TANK RECEIVED MANY HITS AND HE WAS PAINFULLY WOUNDED BUT HE REMAINED AT HIS POST CALMLY AND CONTINUED TO SEND BACK ACCURATE FIRE DATA UNTIL THE BATTLE WAS DISCONTINUED BY DARKNESS. ALTHOUGH SURROUNDED BY THE ENEMY, HE REMOVED VALUABLE EQUIPMENT, DESTROYED THE TANK AND LED THE CREW THROUGH THE ENEMY LINE TO SAFETY."

KERR'S FIRST WOUNDS, WHILE PAINFUL, DIDN'T PUT HIM OUT OF ACTION.

JUN -8 1943

FOR ON FEB.25, IN THE KASSERINE PASS AREA, HE WON THE SILVER STAR FOR GALLANTRY IN AN INCIDENT OFFICIALLY DESCRIBED AS FOLLOWS:

"WHILE HE WAS ACTING AS A FORWARD OBSERVER, KERR'S VEHICLE RAN OVER A MINE AND HE WAS SEVERELY INJURED. HIS FIRST CONCERN WAS FOR HIS MEN AND HE ADMINISTERED FIRST AID TO ONE WOUNDED MAN.

"HE DISMOUNTED A RADIO AND UNDER ENEMY FIRE CLIMBED A HILL TO AN OBSERVATION POST WHERE HE CONTINUED TO OBSERVE THE ENEMY FIRE. HE REPORTED THE SITUATION BY RADIO, HELP ARRIVING TWO HOURS LATER. HE REFUSED TREATMENT UNTIL THE WOUNDED SOLDIER WAS CARED FOR AND THEN COLLAPSED FROM EXHAUSTION AND SHOCK."

BEING WOUNDED TWICE IN ACTION MADE KERR ELIGIBLE FOR THE PURPLE HEART WITH OAK LEAF CLUSTER.

THE ARMY CLERK SMILED PROUDLY AS HE GATHERED UP KERR'S FILE FROM THE INQUISITIVE CORRESPONDENT AND PUT IT BACK IN THE CABINET.

"QUITE A SOLDIER, ISN'T HE?" THE CLERK SAID.

AN ADVANCED AMERICAN MEDIUM BOMBER BASE, NORTH AFRICA, JUNE 6 -(DELAYED)-(AP)-THIS WAS THE INTRODUCTION TO WAR OF LIEUT.HOWARD L.GLICK, OF 2412 39TH ST., GALVESTON, TEX., WHO HAD THESE THINGS HAPPEN DURING HIS FIRST COMBAT MISSION AS THE BOMBARDIER OF A MEDIUM BOMBER:

JUN -8 1943

ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE AND ENEMY FIGHTER BULLETS RIPPED 75 HOLES IN THE RUGGED PLANE AS IT WAS OVER A TARGET AREA IN SICILY.

FIRING FROM THE NOSE OF THE BOMBER, GLICK DAMAGED TWO ATTACKING ME-109S.

JUN -8 1943

LEAVING HIS 50-CALIBER MACHINE-GUN TEMPORARILY, HE RELEASED A LOAD OF FRAGMENTATION BOMBS ON THE TARGET, BUT FOUR OF THEM STUCK TO THE BOMB RACKS, WHICH HAD BEEN DAMAGED BY THE FLAK.

DONNING A PARACHUTE, GLICK CRAWLED OUT OF HIS COMPARTMENT IN THE PLANE'S NOSE TO THE CATWALK TO TRY TO RELEASE THE FOUR BOMBS FOR FEAR THEY WOULD BE HIT BY ENEMY FIRE AND EXPLODE OR BE SET OFF IF THE PLANE WAS FORCED TO MAKE A CRASH LANDING. FLUID LEAKING FROM THE PLANE'S HYDRAULIC SYSTEM AND GASOLINE MADE THE CATWALK SLIPPERY AS A COLD WIND SWISHED IN THROUGH THE BOMB BAY DOORS WHICH WOULD NOT CLOSE BECAUSE THE HYDRAULIC SYSTEM WAS DAMAGED.

JUN -8 1943

REACHING DOWN FROM HIS PRECARIOUS PERCH, GLICK CUT THE WIRE ON THE BOMBS WITH A PAIR OF PLIERS, ENABLING THEM TO FALL FREE, ONE AFTER THE OTHER. THEN HE CRAWLED BACK ALONG THE CATWALK TO TAKE UP HIS POSITION BY THE MACHINE GUN AND TO HELP PILOT LIEUT.WILLIAM R.KEMP OF CHICAGO LAND THE DISABLED PLANE.

MEMBERS OF THE CREW PREPARED TO BAIL OUT AS THE PLANE NEARED ITS HOME BASE, BUT AFTER JUGGLING WITH THE EMERGENCY LANDING SYSTEM FOR FIVE MINUTES, THE WHEELS SLOWLY CAME DOWN INTO POSITION. KEMP THEN BROUGHT THE FLAK-RIDDLED BOMBER DOWN FOR A PERFECT LANDING.

"GREASE MONKEYS" WHO CHECKED THE BOMBER FOUND THAT HOLES HAD BEEN SHOT IN FOUR GASOLINE TANKS, BOTH ENGINES HAD BEEN HIT, THE GASOLINE LINES HAD BEEN BROKEN IN TWO PLACES AND THE HYDRAULIC SYSTEM WAS PUNCTURED IN EIGHT PLACES.

ALGIERS, JUNE 7-(AP)-MARSHAL PETAIN WAS DESCRIBED AS AN "EVANGEL OF DECADENCE" AND PIERRE LAVAL'S VICHY GOVERNMENT AS THE "TRATOR BAND" BY GEN. CHARLES DE GAULLE AND OTHER SPEAKERS AT A MASS MEETING OF 2,000 OF DE GAULLE'S POLITICAL ADMIRERS YESTERDAY.

THE MEETING WAS ORGANIZED BY THE DE GAULLIST "GROUPE COMBAT," WHICH FLOURISHED UNDER COVER IN ALGIERS FOR MORE THAN THREE MONTHS AFTER THE ALLIED LANDINGS IN AFRICA LAST NOVEMBER.

A PERMIT FOR THE MEETING HAD BEEN REFUSED BEFORE DE GAULLE'S AGREEMENT WITH GEN.HENRI GIRAUD LAST WEEK BY VICE ADMIRAL EMILE MUSELIER, GIRAUD'S DEPUTY IN CHARGE OF MAINTAINING ORDER. LATER HOWEVER, HE WAS OVERRULED BY GIRAUD.

(A BERLIN BROADCAST QUOTING DNB SAID GERMAN BOMBERS ALSO WERE ACTIVE LAST NIGHT, AGAIN HEAVILY RAIDING GORKI, IMPORTANT RUSSIAN ARMAMENT CENTER ON THE MIDDLE VOLGA EAST OF MOSCOW.

(STEPPED-UP ARTILLERY ACTION AND GERMAN ATTEMPTS TO FORCE A DONETS RIVER CROSSING AND COUNTERATTACKS NEAR SEVSK, NORTHWEST OF KHARKOV, ALSO WERE REPORTED IN THE MIDDAY COMMUNIQUE.

(IT SAID THE GERMAN ATTEMPTS TO CROSS THE DONETS AND THEIR STRONG SEVSK COUNTERATTACKS WERE THROWN BACK AFTER SCORES OF THE ENEMY HAD BEEN KILLED.)

JUN -8 1943

RUSSIAN COMMUNIQUES CONTINUED TO IGNORE GERMAN RADIO REPORTS OF VIOLENT FIGHTING ON THE CENTRAL FRONT BETWEEN SMOLENSK AND VELIKIE LUKI. THE BERLIN RADIO IN A SUNDAY BROADCAST HAD TERMED THE FIGHTING THERE THE "BATTLE OF VELIZH," AND SAID THAT NAZI LINES HAD BEEN "MOVED FORWARD TO A MORE FAVORABLE POSITION" AFTER SIX DAYS OF BITTER FIGHTING.

THE SOVIET MIDNIGHT COMMUNIQUE, DESCRIBING SUNDAY FIGHTING, SAID GERMAN FORCES ATTACKED IN THE SEVSK AREA, "ATTEMPTING TO WIN BACK POSITIONS LOST THE DAY BEFORE." IT SAID RUSSIAN PLANES HAD SMASHED SEVERAL RAILWAY TRAINS DURING THE DAY'S BOMBING AND STRAFING FORAYS.

(THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND COMMUNIQUE, BROADCAST FROM BERLIN AND RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID BUT ONE PLANE WAS LOST IN THE RAID UPON GORKI LAST NIGHT AND DECLARED THAT 83 SOVIET PLANES WERE DESTROYED SATURDAY AND SUNDAY.

("THE AIR FORCE, OFF THE CAUCASIAN COAST, HAS SUNK TWO ENEMY MOTOR TORPEDOBOATS AND ONE SUBMARINE CHASER," IT SAID.

MOSCOW, JUNE 7-(AP)-THE JUGGERNAUT "TIGER" TANKS, WHICH THE GERMANS USED AGAINST AMERICAN TROOPS IN THE CLOSING STAGES OF THE TUNISIAN BATTLE AND WHICH LATER APPEARED ON THE RUSSIAN FRONT, WERE CHARACTERIZED BY SOVIET EXPERTS TODAY AS CLUMSY, OVERLOADED AND LACKING IN MANEUVERABILITY.

RED STAR, RUSSIAN ARMY ORGAN, SAID THESE CONCLUSIONS HAD BEEN

JUN -8 1943

REACHED AFTER EXHAUSTIVE TESTS OF RECENTLY CAPTURED ENEMY TANKS.

THEY WERE SAID TO HAVE BEEN DESIGNED BY GERMAN ENGINEERS TO CORRECT DEFECTS OF EARLIER MODELS WHICH WERE LACKING IN ARMAMENT.

THE GERMANS GAVE THE "TIGERS" A THICK SKIN, ALL RIGHT, THE RUSSIANS SAID, BUT THEY SACRIFICED MANEUVERABILITY IN SO DOING.

TESTS SHOW THAT THE TANKS--KNOWN TO THE GERMANS AS THE "T-SIX" --BOG DOWN EASILY IN SWAMPY GROUND.

JUN -8 1943

IN FIGHTING AT CLOSE QUARTERS, THE RUSSIANS ADDED, IT WAS FOUND THAT THE CATERPILLER TRACKS AND WHEELS OF THE "TIGERS" WERE EASILY AFFECTED BY ANTI-TANK GRENADES AND MINES. BOTTLES OF GASOLINE THROWN AGAINST THE TANKS ALSO PROVED EFFECTIVE, THEY SAID.

THE STOUTEST ARMOR WAS SAID TO PROTECT THE FRONT OF THE JUGGER-NAUTS. THEREFORE THE RUSSIANS PERFECTED A TECHNIQUE OF LETTING THE TANKS CLOSE IN UNTIL THEY WERE ABLE TO SHOWER ARMOR-PIERCING BULLETS ON THE SIDES AND REAR.

THE MAIN ADVANTAGE OF THE "TIGER" WAS SAID TO BE ITS LONG RANGE GUN, WHICH PERMITS IT TO SIT BACK AND FIRE AT THE RUSSIAN TANKS FROM GREAT DISTANCES. SINCE DISCOVERING THAT IT IS NOT ADAPTED FOR CLOSE FIGHTING, THE GERMANS HAVE BEEN KEEPING IT WELL TO THE REAR EXCEPT FOR USE IN OCCASIONAL AMBUSHES, THE RUSSIANS SAID.

THE "TIGERS" REPRESENT 15 PER CENT OF THE GERMAN TANK PRODUCTION PROGRAM FOR 1942, ACCORDING TO THE RUSSIANS. TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT WAS SAID TO BE DEVOTED TO THE PRODUCTION OF LIGHT TANKS AND 60 PER CENT TO MEDIUM MODELS.

JUN -8 1943

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA--(AP)--EXCEPT FOR THE FACT THAT HE HAS PUT ON ENOUGH WEIGHT TO BE NICKNAMED "PORKY" BY HIS AUSTRALIAN FRIENDS, FRANKIE STRAFACI HASN'T CHANGED MUCH SINCE THE DAYS WHEN HE WAS WINNING THE NATIONAL PUBLIC LINKS AND NEW YORK'S METROPOLI-TAN AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIPS.

HE'S A TECHNICAL SERGEANT NOW IN THE ARMY'S TRANSPORTATON CORPS AT A NORTHEASTERN AUSTRALIAN BASE. HE PUT IN SOME LONG HOURS--16 TO 18 A DAY--WHEN HIS UNIT FIRST MOVED TO ITS PRESENT STATION.

JUN -8 1943

AT 27, STRAFACI IS STILL AN ATTRACTIVE BROOKLYN YOUTH, WITH AS MANY FRIENDS IN AUSTRALIA AS HE LEFT OLD ONES BEHIND IN THE STATES. HE PLAYS A SOUND GAME OF GOLF YET, ALTHOUGH NOW IT IS FAR MORE OF A PASTIME THAN THE PASSION IT USED TO BE. HE USUALLY GETS A CHANCE TO PLAY ONLY ON WEEK-ENDS, BUT EVEN SO HE HOLDS THE RECORD FOR THE LOCAL NINE-HOLE COURSE--31 ON A PAR-37 LAYOUT.

WITH THE REST OF THE HEADQUARTERS DETACHMENT, STRAFACI IS IN A REASONABLY COMFORTABLE ARMY BILLET. BUT OVER AND ABOVE THAT, HE HAS ACQUIRED A HOME AWAY FROM HOME. HE HAS BEEN TAKEN IN AS ONE OF THE FAMILY BY A LOCAL COUPLE, ROGER (YANK) GATES AND HIS WIFE.

HERE FRANKIE GETS A CHANCE TO DISPLAY HIS CULINARY ABILITY, ESPECIALLY AS REGARDS HIS FAVORITE SPAGHETTI. IT IS NOTHING UNUSUAL FOR 15 OR 20 PEOPLE TO HAVE SUPPER---OR TEA AS THE ASSIES HAVE IT---AT THE GATES HOUSEHOLD, WITH SPAGHETTI AND A SPECIAL STRAFACI MEAT SAUCE AS THE EVENING'S HIGHLIGHT.

SOME OF THE GUESTS ARE USUALLY AUSTRALIAN, SOME AMERICAN. ONE RECENT EVENING THEY INCLUDED CAPT. DAVID C. MITCHELL OF SALAMANCA, N.Y., STRAFACI'S COMMANDING OFFICER; MASTER SGT. VERNON (BULL) GARNER, SERGEANT MAJOR OF A CRACK OUTFIT STATIONED NEARBY, AND YOURS TRULY.

CAPT. MITCHELL, ALMOST A DAINTY EATER AMONG SUCH TRENCHER-MEN, IS A NATIVE OF OHIO. BACK IN THE EARLY 20'S, AS A PROMIS-

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, JUNE 3-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE FACT THAT MANY ALLIED PLANES IN THE BATTLE OF THE BISMARCK SEA IN NEW GUINEA'S HUON GULF LAST MARCH, FLEW TWO MISSIONS THE SAME DAY, ECHOED TODAY IN THE ANNOUNCEMENT OF MORE AWARDS FOR THAT BATTLE.

SECOND NIGHT LEAD ARGENTINE (PRECEDE BUENOS AIRES)

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

JUN - 8 1943

MONTEVIDEO, JUNE 7--GEN.PEDRO RAMIREZ SUCCEEDED GEN. ARTURO RAWSON AS HEAD OF ARGENTINA'S NEW PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT TODAY AND, AFTER RESHUFFLING THE CABINET IN A SERIES OF MOVES WHICH LIBERALS HOPED WOULD MAKE FOR A LESS REACTIONARY REGIME, HE DECLARED THAT HIS COUNTRY'S POLICY WOULD BE ONE OF FRIENDSHIP TOWARD AMERICAN PEOPLES AND OF NEUTRALITY TOWARD OTHERS.

IN A SPEECH BROADCAST FROM BUENOS AIRES IMMEDIATELY AFTER HE WAS SWORN IN AS PRESIDENT TONIGHT, RAMIREZ SAID HE INTENDED TO FOLLOW A "CORDIAL POLICY TOWARD AMERICAN PEOPLES WITH WHOM WE HAVE BEEN UNITED SINCE TIMES PAST."

"AS REGARDS OTHER COUNTRIES," HE ADDED, "ARGENTINA'S POLICY IS AT PRESENT THAT OF NEUTRALITY."

"THE DESTINIES OF THE ARGENTINES HAVE BEEN PLACED BY CIRCUMSTANCES IN THE HANDS OF A SOLDIER WHO WILL RULE WITH RECTITUDE, HUMAN SENSE AND FIRMNESS," THE NEW PRESIDENT DECLARED.

UPON HEARING RAMIREZ' BROADCAST, FOREIGN OFFICE SOURCES AND MEMBERS OF THE DIPLOMATIC CORPS HERE TOLD THE ASSOCIATED PRESS THEY PREFERRED TO WITHHOLD COMMENT ON THE FINAL CONSTITUTION OF ARGENTINA'S PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT UNTIL AFTER A CLEARER STATEMENT OF ITS FOREIGN POLICY IS KNOWN.

JUN - 8 1943

ONE FOREIGN OFFICE SOURCE, PUZZLED OVER RAMIREZ' REFERENCE TO "OTHER COUNTRIES," WONDERED WHETHER THE PHRASE, "AT PRESENT," MIGHT CONCEIVABLY BE TAKEN AS MEANING THAT THE FUTURE POLICY WILL BE DIFFERENT. HE ADDED THAT RAMIREZ OBVIOUSLY REFERRED TO GERMANY, ITALY AND JAPAN IN HIS MENTION OF "OTHER COUNTRIES."

RAWSON RESIGNED SUDDENLY EARLY TODAY AFTER FAILING TO REACH AN AGREEMENT ON THE CONSTITUTION OF A NEW CABINET. IN SPITE OF NEW RESTRICTIONS IN AN ALREADY SEVERE CENSORSHIP, IT WAS LEARNED THROUGH PRESS DISPATCHES AND RADIO BROADCASTS FROM BUENOS AIRES AND TRAVELERS REACHING HERE FROM ARGENTINA THAT FOUR ULTRA-CONSERVATIVE MEMBERS OF RAWSON'S CABINET HAD FOLLOWED HIM IN RESIGNATION.

THIS BROUGHT HOPE TO THE PRO-DEMOCRATS AND THEY LOOKED FOR AN EARLY STATEMENT OF THE RAMIREZ GOVERNMENT AFFIRMING A PRO-DEMOCRATIC FOREIGN

JUN - 8 1943

30.24-4779

POLICY. THERE WAS SOME DISAPPOINTMENT, HOWEVER, THAT SUCH A STATEMENT WAS NOT MADE DURING THE OATH-TAKING CEREMONY TONIGHT.

THE ARGENTINE SUPREME COURT GAVE IMMEDIATE RECOGNITION TO THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT TONIGHT, BASING ITS DECISION ON SIMILAR ACTION TAKEN IN THE 1930 REVOLUTION.

RAWSON HIMSELF ANNOUNCED IN BUENOS AIRES THAT HE WAS COMPELLED TO RESIGN A FEW HOURS BEFORE HE WAS SCHEDULED TO BE SWORN IN AS PRESIDENT BECAUSE OF "THE POSSIBILITY OF REACHING AN AGREEMENT ON THE CONSTITUTION OF A NEW CABINET."

JUN -8 1943

THEN CAME THE REPORTS OF THE RESIGNATIONS OF FOUR DESIGNATED CABINET MEMBERS--FOREIGN MINISTER GEN. DOMINGO MARTINEZ, FINANCE MINISTER JOSE MARIA ROSA, PUBLIC WORKS MINISTER JUAN PISTARINI AND HORACE CADERON, MINISTER OF JUSTICE AND PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

THE VACATED POSITIONS WERE FILLED IMMEDIATELY BY RAMIREZ, AND HIS FULL CABINET WAS SWORN IN TONIGHT ALONG WITH THE NEW PRESIDENT.

AFTER TAKING THE OATH OF OFFICE AND SWEARING IN EACH OF THE EIGHT NEW MINISTERS INDIVIDUALLY, RAMIREZ APPEARED ON THE BALCONY OF THE GOVERNMENT HOUSE AND MADE A SPEECH WHICH AN ANNOUNCER ON THE ARGENTINE BROADCASTING NETWORK SAID WAS INTERRUPTED BY SHOUTS OF "NEUTRALITY! NEUTRALITY!" FROM THE PEOPLE CROWDED IN THE PLAZA BELOW.

IN THIS BRIEF TALK, RAMIREZ SAID: "AS A SOLDIER AND CITIZEN I CANNOT HIDE MY EMOTION AT SEEING A PEOPLE UNITED AROUND ITS LEADER, WHICH SHOWS THE UNITY OF THE PEOPLE AND ARMED FORCES OF THE NATION.

"AS A SOLDIER I WILL DISCHARGE FAITHFULLY MY DUTIES AND THE PEOPLE WILL NOT BE DISAPPOINTED IN ITS HOPES. NOW SHOUT WITH ME--LONG LIVE THE COUNTRY."

RAWSON, WHO OUSTED PRESIDENT RAMON S.CASTILLO IN A COUP D'ETAT LAST FRIDAY, TOLD THE ASSOCIATED PRESS LATE TODAY THAT THE INTERNATIONAL SITUATION WAS THE "FUNDAMENTAL CAUSE" OF THE MILITARY UPRISING, WHICH HE DECLARED WAS "INDISPENSABLE TO SAVE THE SITUATION AND RECTIFY THE ISOLATIONIST SITUATION IN WHICH WE NOW SO UNJUSTLY FIND OURSELVES."

JUN -8 1943

AS FOR THE CABINET SHAKEUP, RAWSON ACKNOWLEDGED THAT THE RIGHTIST SYMPATHIES OF SOME OF HIS MINISTERS-DESIGNATE CREATED UNFAVORABLE REACTION AMONG LIBERAL PARTISANS OF THE REVOLUTION.

"IN PICKING MEN I COMPLETELY OVERLOOKED THEIR IDEOLOGIES AND TENDENCIES," HE SAID, "THINKING ONLY OF THEIR TECHNICAL CAPACITY BECAUSE I BELIEVED THAT THE TRIUMPH OF THE PATRIOTIC REVOLUTION WOULD HAVE UNITED ALL ARGENTINES BEHIND THE SAME IDEAL--THAT OF GREATNESS."

DESPITE THE RELIEVED FEELING AMONG DEMOCRATIC ELEMENTS TOWARD THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT AS THE RESULT OF TODAY'S DEVELOPMENTS, ARGENTINE LIBERALS WERE SAID TO FEEL THAT THE PROSPECTS ARE RATHER BETTER FOR AN EARLIER REALIZATION OF THEIR DESIRES IN THE FIELD OF FOREIGN POLICY THAN IN DOMESTIC AFFAIRS.

JUN -8 1943

THEY ARE STRUCK BY THE FACT THAT THE REVISED CABINET, WHILE FREE OF CONSPICUOUSLY NATIONALISTIC PERSONALITIES, CONTAINS NO ONE WHO EVER DISTINGUISHED HIMSELF FOR DEMOCRATIC ZEAL. THIS ASPECT OF THE GOVERNMENT WAS SAID TO HAVE FALLEN SHORT OF DEMOCRATIC HOPES SINCE THE RADICAL LEADERS WERE KNOWN TO HAVE DISCUSSED THE POSSIBILITIES OF REVOLUTION WITH RAMIREZ IN ADVANCE.

THE PRO-DEMOCRATIC PRESS OF ARGENTINA WAS CONSPICUOUSLY RESERVED IN ITS COMMENT ON THE NEW REGIME, LIMITING ITSELF TO THE ANALYZING OF THE PROBLEMS FACING THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT. THE ONLY PAPER TO

JUN -8 1943

EMBRACE THE MILITARY ADMINISTRATION OPENLY HAS BEEN THE NATIONALIST NEWSPAPER, CABILDO, ORGAN OF THE ANTI-DEMOCRATIC FACTION. CABILDO NOTED WITH APPROVAL THAT CIVILIANS HAD BEEN VIRTUALLY EXCLUDED FROM THE MOVEMENT.

TONIGHT'S SWEARING-IN CEREMONIES WERE BROADCAST BY THE BUENOS AIRES RADIO, WHICH LISTED THE NEW MINISTERS AND THEIR PORTFOLIOS AS: GEN. ALBERTO GILBERT, INTERIOR; VICE ADMIRAL SEGUNDO STORNI, FOREIGN AFFAIRS; JORGE SANTA MARINA, FINANCE; COL. HELVIO ANAYA, JUSTICE AND PUBLIC INSTRUCTION; GEN. DIEGO MASON, AGRICULTURE; REAR ADMIRAL ISMAEL GALINDEZ, PUBLIC WORKS; REAR ADMIRAL BENITO SUEYRO, NAVY, AND GEN. EDELMIRO FARRELL, WAR.

JUN -8 1943

INFORMATION AVAILABLE IN DIPLOMATIC QUARTERS HERE ALSO INDICATED THAT THE CABINET RESHUFFLE HELPED TO REASSURE THE DISAPPOINTED DEMOCRATS. WHILE THESE QUARTERS WERE SAID TO BE STILL AWAITING A FORMAL DECLARATION OF THE RAMIREZ GOVERNMENT'S PRINCIPLES, THEY WELCOMED THE DISAPPEARANCE FROM THE GOVERNMENT OF FOUR MINISTERS DESIGNATE WHOSE NATIONALISTIC SYMPATHIES WERE COMMONLY RECOGNIZED IN ARGENTINA.

SYMPTOMATIC OF THE NEW FEELING WAS THE STATEMENT OF DR. MARIO CASTEX, A PROMINENT LEADER OF THE RADICAL (LIBERAL) PARTY FORECASTING THAT THE NEW GOVERNMENT SOON WOULD ISSUE A COMMUNIQUE REAFFIRMING THE PRO-DEMOCRATIC PROPOSALS OF THE ORIGINAL REVOLUTIONARY PROCLAMATION.

THAT MANIFESTO, DISTRIBUTED AS RAWSON'S TROOPS MARCHED ON BUENOS AIRES, UPHELD A RETURN TO CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT AT HOME AND A PRO-DEMOCRATIC POLICY IN FOREIGN AFFAIRS. IT'S DECLARATION IN FAVOR OF STRICT OBSERVANCE OF INTERNATIONAL ENGAGEMENTS WAS GENERALLY INTERPRETED TO MEAN A BREAK OF RELATIONS WITH THE AXIS.

SOME DOUBT EXISTED CONCERNING THE AUTHENTICITY OF THIS DOCUMENT, SINCE IT WAS UNSIGNED. THE COMPLEXION OF THE FIRST CABINET SERVED TO DEEPEN THESE DOUBTS. NOW, HOWEVER, RAWSON'S STATEMENT TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS MADE IT PLAIN THAT THE PROCLAMATION DID IN FACT EMBODY THE AIMS OF THE REVOLUTIONARY LEADERS.

JUN -8 1943

RAWSON'S STATEMENT AND THE REVELATIONS OF TRAVELERS FROM ARGENTINA SHED SOME LIGHT ON THE STRANGE SEQUENCE OF EVENTS WHICH ROBBED THE REVOLUTION OF ITS PRO-DEMOCRATIC TINGE ON SATURDAY NIGHT AND BROUGHT ON THE DOWNFALL OF THE UNSWORN MINISTERS EARLY TODAY.

CLOSE OBSERVERS OF THE MANEUVERS SAID THAT WHEN THE REVOLUTIONARY LEADERS ESTABLISHED THEMSELVES IN THE GOVERNMENT HOUSE LAST FRIDAY NIGHT THEY IMMEDIATELY FOUND THEMSELVES THE CENTER OF PRESSURE FROM VARIOUS NATIONALIST SECTORS, EAGER TO MAKE THE TRIUMPH A MOVEMENT OF THEIR OWN.

JUN -8 1943

ONE INFORMANT SAID RAWSON, SURROUNDED BY CONFUSION, ACCEPTED THE COLLABORATIONS WITH SCANT REGARD TO POPULAR REACTION. THE GENERAL HIMSELF ADMITTED AS MUCH IN HIS STATEMENT TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

JUN -8 1943

THE PROVISIONAL PRESIDENT APPARENTLY WAS QUITE UNPREPARED FOR THE FRIGID RECEPTION HIS CABINET ANNOUNCEMENT RECEIVED IN ALL EXCEPT NATIONALIST CIRCLES. THE EXTENT OF THE DISAPPOINTMENT BOTH AT HOME AND ABROAD IMPRESSED UPON THE REVOLUTIONARY LEADERS THE DANGER OF WRECKING WHAT RAWSON DESCRIBED AS ONE OF THE FUNDAMENTAL CAUSES OF THE REVOLUTION--A DESIRE TO END ARGMLNA'S

WRECKING WHAT RAWSON DESCRIBED AS ONE OF THE FUNDAMENTAL CAUSES OF THE REVOLUTION--A DESIRE TO END ARGENTINA'S ISOLATION.

ASIDE FROM THE QUESTIONS OF IDEOLOGY, THAT DESIRE HAD A VERY REALISTIC MOTIVE. IT WAS A MOTIVE WHICH HAD BEEN GROWING EVER SINCE AN ARGENTINE MILITARY PURCHASE MISSION RETURNED EMPTY-£-,$3$ 149.

JUN - 8 1943

SINCE AN ARGENTINE MILITARY PURCHASE MISSION RETURNED EMPTY-HANDED FROM WASHINGTON MORE THAN A YEAR AGO AFTER THE COLLAPSE OF LEND-LEASE NEGOTIATIONS.

ARGENTINA'S ARMY, WELL-TRAINED AND ONCE WELL-EQUIPPED, IS THE PRIDE OF THE NATION AND ESPECIALLY ITS OFFICERS. THE FAILURE TO RECEIVE MILITARY SUPPLIES AT A TIME WHEN NEIGHBORING SOUTH AMERICAN REPUBLICS WERE QUALIFYING FOR LEND-LEASE AID WAS A SOURCE OF GROWING WORRY TO ARMY LEADERS.

THIS CONCERN WAS BROUGHT TO CASTILLO'S ATTENTION REPEATEDLY, BUT THE UNCOMPROMISING CHIEF MAGISTRATE REFUSED TO MODIFY THE NEUTRALITY POLICY, OF WHICH HE WAS THE DOTING CREATOR. MOREOVER HE HAND-PICKED SENATE PRESIDENT RUBUSTIANO PATRON COSTAS TO BECOME HIS SUCCESSOR IN THE EXPECTATION THAT HIS ELECTION WOULD INSURE THE CONTINUATION OF ISOLATIONISM.

JUN - 8 1943

AFTER THEIR SWIFT TRIUMPH LAST WEEK, THE REVOLUTIONARY LEADERS SUDDENLY SAW WHAT THEY HOPED WOULD BE ONE OF THE IMPORTANT FRUITS OF VICTORY--THE END OF ISOLATIONISM--RECEDING AMID THE SUSPICION DIRECTED AGAINST THE REACTIONARY CABINET MEMBERS.

INFORMANTS SAID THERE WAS REASON TO BELIEVE THAT THE REVOLUTIONARY GOVERNMENT'S ATTENTION WAS CALLED TO THE DIFFICULTY OF ARGENTINA'S BEING ACCEPTED AS AN EQUAL PARTNER AMONG AMERICAN DEMOCRACIES WHEN ITS GOVERNMENT CONTAINED NOTORIOUSLY NATIONALISTIC PERSONALITIES.

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO, JUNE 7-(AP)-THE BELL CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING PUERTO RICAN AFFAIRS BEGAN ITS SECOND WEEK OF HEARINGS TODAY WITH RAFAEL BUSCAGLIA, INSULAR TREASURER, APPEARING FOR QUESTIONING.

JUN - 8 1943

PUBLIC INTEREST WANED IN THE HEARINGS, HOWEVER, AS NEWSPAPERS GAVE THEM LITTLE SPACE AND CAFE GOSSIP CENTERED ON THE ARGENTINE REVOLT.

MANY PUERTO RICANS EXPRESSED THE OPINION THAT THE COMMITTEE HAD LITTLE TO OFFER SINCE THE SENATE INQUIRY COMMITTEE, UNDER SENATOR DENNIS CHAVEZ (D-NM), COVERED VIRTUALLY THE SAME GROUND EARLIER IN THE YEAR.

ATTENDANCE AT THE HEARINGS HAS BEEN USUALLY SMALL WITH FIVE OR SIX REPORTERS, AN EQUAL NUMBER OF PROSPECTIVE WITNESSES AND TWO OR THREE SPECTATORS.

THE PUERTO RICO WORLD JOURNAL, IN AN EDITORIAL, SAID THAT "AFTER ONE WEEK OF HEARINGS IT APPEARS THAT THE USE TO WHICH THE BELL COMMITTEE HAS PUT THESE BROAD POWERS (OF INVESTIGATION) LEAVES SOMETHING TO BE DESIRED FROM THE POINT OF VIEW OF THE PUERTO RICAN PEOPLE."

JUN - 8 1943

THE PAPER ALSO CRITICIZED PROCEDURE AS WELL AS THE INITIAL ABSENCE OF REPRESENTATIVES J.W. ROBINSON (D-UTAH), DAN R.MCGEHEE (D-MISS) AND W.STERLING COLE (R-NY) WHO JOINED THE COMMITTEE HEARINGS THIS MORNING. IT CALLED THE AGENDA FOR THE FIRST FEW DAYS "AN ENTIRELY HIT OR MISS AFFAIR" AND SAID THAT ONE WITNESS WAS CALLED MERELY BECAUSE HE HAPPENED TO BE LUNCHING IN A HOTEL WHEN THE COMMITTEE WAS WONDERING WHERE THE NEXT WITNESS WOULD COME FROM.

THE NEWSPAPER ALSO CONTENDED THAT GOV. REXFORD G.TUGWELL AND

JUN - 8 1943

SENATE PRESIDENT LUIS MUNOZ MARIN SHOULD NOT HAVE BEEN CALLED UNTIL THEIR SUBORDINATES AND TUGWELL ADVERSARIES HAD BEEN HEARD FIRST.

INVESTIGATION (FIRST LEAD TO REGIONALS)

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO, JUNE 7-(AP)-A DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR REPRESENTATIVE WHO HAS BEEN TAKING NOTES IN HEARINGS OF THE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING PUERTO RICAN AFFAIRS WAS HIMSELF CALLED TO THE STAND TODAY AND ASKED IF HE HAD BEEN SENT TO COACH WITNESSES IN FAVOR OF GOV.REXFORD G.TUGWELL.

THE REPRESENTATIVE, WILLIAM BROPHY, TOLD REP.JAMES DOMENGEAUX, (D-LA.) A MEMBER OF THE BELL COMMITTEE, THAT HIS ONLY FUNCTION WAS TO HELP THE COMMITTEE.

JUN - 8 1943

DOMENGEAUX BROKE IN TO ASSERT "YOU HAVEN'T HELPED US SO FAR."

BROPHY HOTLY ASKED WHETHER HIS INTEGRITY WAS BEING CHALLENGED, BUT THE INCIDENT WAS SMOOTHED OVER AND BROPHY RETURNED TO TAKING NOTES.

THE COMMITTEE, ENTERING ITS SECOND WEEK OF HEARINGS ON PUERTO RICAN SOCIAL, ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL CONDITIONS, HEARD LOUIS STRUCKE, INSULAR BUDGET DIRECTOR, TESTIFY THAT THE ISLAND'S DEBT OF $23,700,000 LAST JULY WILL BE REDUCED TO ABOUT $16,400,000 AT THE END OF THIS FISCAL YEAR.

ROBERTO SANCHEZ, DIRECTOR OF THE TRANSPORTATION AUTHORITY WHICH IS CURRENTLY THE OPERATING BACKBONE OF SAN JUAN'S MUNICIPAL TRANSPORTATION SYSTEM, DENIED THAT EMPLOYES WERE EVER DISCHARGED OR REPLACED BECAUSE OF POLITICAL AFFILIATIONS.

MONTREAL, JUNE 7-(CANADIAN PRESS)-AN INCREASED FLOW OF ELECTRICAL POWER FROM THE SHIPSHAW,QUE., DEVELOPMENT OF THE ALUMINUM COMPANY OF CANADA DISPELLED A POWER PROBLEM FOR QUEBEC NEWSPRINT MILLS BUT ANOTHER "BIGGER" PROBLEM OF MANPOWER AND CONSEQUENT WOOD SHORTAGE HAS DEVELOPED, A NEWSPRINT OFFICIAL SAID HERE TODAY.

"POWER, WHICH SEEMED OUR BIG PROBLEM LAST YEAR, IS NOW NORMAL," THE SPOKESMAN SAID. "BUT WE HAVE ANOTHER WORRY. THE MANPOWER SHORTAGE IS BOUND TO REFLECT ON OUR WOOD SUPPLY. WE ARE WORRIED THAT THERE MAY NOT BE ENOUGH MEN TO CUT ENOUGH WOOD TO MAINTAIN NORMAL PRODUCTION AFTER THE PRESENT SUPPLY RUNS OUT NEXT MAY."

THE POWER FLOW FROM THE SHIPSHAW PROJECT RESULTED IN RELAXATION ON MAY 25 OF ELECTRICAL CONSERVATION REGULATIONS DESIGNED TO CURTAIL SUPPLIES TO NEWSPRINT MILLS SO AS TO FURNISH EXTRA "JUICE" FOR WAR PLANTS.

THE REGULATINS WHICH HAVE BEEN DROPPED INCLUDE A POWER QUOTA SYSTEM TO ALL MILLS AND A STAGGERED DAY OFF. BEFORE THE STAGGERED DAY OFF ALL MILLS CLOSED DOWN ON SUNDAY. BY STAGGERING THE CLOSE DOWN THROUGH THE WEEK THE DRAIN ON POWER SUPPLIES WAS KEPT EVEN.

JUN - 8 1943

THE RETURN TO NORMAL POWER "MAY HAVE CAUSED A SLIGHT INCREASE IN PRODUCTION" BUT MOST MILLS ARE GUARDING THEIR WOOD PILES WITH A VIEW TO A POSSIBLE SHORTAGE OF MATERIAL NEXT YEAR, THE OFFICIAL SAID.

FORT WILLIAM, JUNE 7-(CANADIAN PRESS)-NEWSPRING PRODUCTION AT THE PLANT AT THE GREAT LAKES PAPER CO. LTD., WAS AT A STANDSTILL TODAY WHEN PAPER MAKERS REFUSED TO START THE TWO BIG MACHINES IN THE MILL AFTER THE USUAL SUNDAY SHUTDOWN.

CONFIRMING THE STRIKE OF THE PAPER MAKERS, COMPANY OFFICIALS WERE UNABLE AT THE MOMENT TO ESTIMATE THE NUMBER OF EMPLOYES AFFECTED. THE COMPANY NORMALLY EMPLOYES APPROXIMATELY 800 MEN. THEY SAID OPERATIONS IN THE SULPHITE MILL WERE CONTINUING.

NO STATEMENT IMMEDIATELY WAS FORTHCOMING FROM EITHER THE COMPANY OR PAPER MAKERS' UNION ON THE REASON FOR THE STRIKE.

OTTAWA,JUNE 7-(AP)-NAVY MINISTER ANGUS MACDONALD TOLD THE HOUSE OF COMMONS TONIGHT THAT CANADA'S NAVAL STRENGTH IN SHIPS HAD INCREASED BY 36 TIMES SINCE THE START OF THE WAR AND PERSONNEL BY 34 TIMES IN AN EXPANSION "UNPARALLELED IN NAVAL HISTORY."

SHIPS HAVE GROWN IN NUMBER FROM 15 TO 500 AND PERSONNEL FROM 1,774 TO ABOUT 60,000, HE SAID, BY THE END OF NEXT YEAR THE NAVY IS EXPECTED TO HAVE 90,000 MEN, EQUAL TO THE PRE-WAR STRENGTH OF BRITAIN'S NAVY.

JUN - 8 1943

THE MINISTER ALSO SAID THAT THE ROYAL NAVY HAS GIVEN CANADA FOUR OF ITS ESCORT DESTROYERS AND BEFORE THE END OF THE YEAR WILL GIVE IT TWO MORE.

CANADA NOW STANDS SECOND ONLY TO THE BRITISH NAVY ITSELF IN THE COMMONWEALTH, HE ADDED.

DESPITE ITS GROWTH, MACDONALD SAID, THE NAVY STILL HAS A

WAITING LIST AT SOME OF ITS NAVAL VOLUNTEER RESERVE DIVISIONS. THE NAVY HAS ABANDONED THE SYSTEM OF DIRECT ENTRY TO OFFICER RANK OF CIVILIANS AND HAS PROMOTED TO COMMISSIONS 1,086 RATINGS.

ANOTHER PETITION ASKED THAT BOLIVIAN WORKERS BE GIVEN THE "RIGHT AND LIBERTY TO FORM WITHOUT INTERRUPTION A LABOR ORGANIZATION WHICH WILL PERMIT THE CONSTITUTION OF A CENTRAL DIRECTORATE OF THE LABOR MOVEMENT."

JAPANESE IMPERIAL HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCED IN A TOKYO RADIO BROADCAST TODAY THAT A JAPANESE NAVAL AIR UNIT SHOT DOWN 20 ALLIED PLANES THAT ATTEMPTED TO RAID SHORTLAND ISLAND, IN THE SOLOMONS GROUP, SATURDAY AND DAMAGED FIVE OTHERS.

THE JAPANESE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, ASSERTED ONLY THREE JAPANESE PLANES HAD NOT RETURNED FROM THE ENGAGEMENT.

TOKYO'S CLAIMS WERE NOT CONFIRMED BY ANY ALLIED SOURCE. A U.S. NAVY COMMUNIQUE ISSUED SUNDAY IN WASHINGTON, ANNOUNCED THAT AMERICAN PLANES HAD ATTACKED A JAPANESE DESTROYER, A CORVETTE AND A CARGO VESSEL IN THE BOUGAINVILLE AREA OF THE SOLOMONS SATURDAY. THE DESTROYER WAS HIT BY SEVERAL LARGE CALIBER BOMBS AND UNDOUBTEDLY SANK, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID, AND THE OTHER TWO VESSELS WERE SET AFIRE.

FIFTEEN INTERCEPTING ZERO PLANES WERE REPORTED SHOT DOWN AND THREE OTHERS DAMAGED. FOUR U.S. PLANES ARE MISSING, THE NAVY COMMUNIQUE SAID.

WHAT JUSTIFICATION IS THERE FOR THE GERMAN CLAIM THAT EVEN THOUGH THE ALLIES INVADE SOUTHERN EUROPE THEY WILL FIND THE AXIS ARMIES UNCONQUERABLE?

THAT ASSERTION WAS MADE IN A BERLIN BROADCAST, PICKED UP BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. A COMMENTATOR WAS DISCUSSING INVASION ARTICLES IN THE GERMAN ARMY ORGAN DIE WEHRMACHT. HE ADMITTED THAT THE ALLIES MIGHT MAKE A LANDING SOMEWHERE BUT DECLARED THEY "WOULD NOT HAVE THE SLIGHTEST CHANCE IN BATTLE AGAINST THE AXIS CONTINENTAL ARMIES WITH THEIR MILLIONS OF WELL-TRAINED AND WELL-EQUIPPED TROOPS."

WELL, THE ANSWER TO THAT IS THE KEY TO THE DEFEAT WHICH THE UNITED NATIONS ARE NOW IN PROCESS OF ADMINISTERING TO HERR HITLER.

THE BOCHE ARE ARGUING FROM A PREMISE WHICH MIGHT HAVE BEEN SOUND A YEAR AGO BUT NO LONGER HOLDS GOOD. THEY'RE CLUTCHING AT STRAWS WHICH ALREADY HAVE BEEN SWEPT PAST THEM DOWN THE STREAM.

IT IS A FACT -- AND ONE NOT TO BE OVERLOOKED--THAT THE FUEHRER'S MOST POWERFUL WEAPON IS HIS ARMY, ALTHOUGH WHAT ONCE WAS THE MIGHTIEST FIGHTING-MACHINE EVER PUT TOGETHER IS NOW SHOWING MANY SIGNS OF WEAR AND TEAR. IT'S TRUE, TOO, THAT THE ALLIES WOULD BE UP AGAINST A TERRIFIC TASK IF THEY WERE FACED WITH THE NECESSITY OF SMASHING THAT NAZI ARMY WITH LAND FORCES ALONE. HITLER MIGHT BE ABLE TO DEFEND HIMSELF INDEFINITELY.

JUN - 8 1943

THE POINT IS THAT HE WOULD BE SITTING INSIDE A GREAT DEFENSIVE CIRCLE. HIS COMMUNICATIONS WOULD BE SHORT AND HE WOULD BE ABLE TO FLING HIS FORCES IN ANY DIRECTION QUICKLY TO MEET ATTACK. ALL HIS WAR INDUSTRIES WOULD BE SAFE INSIDE THAT RING. THE ALLIES, ON THE OTHER HAND, WOULD BE STRIKING THEM FROM THE OUTSIDE OF THE HUGE PERIMETER, AND THEIR COMMUNICATIONS WOULD BE LONG AND DIFFICULT. SUCH A GERMAN DEFENSIVE POSITION WOULD BE JUST ABOUT IMPREGNABLE.

HOWEVER, THAT'S ONE OF THOSE "MIGHT HAVE BEEN" SITUATIONS. AS THINGS STAND, THE ALLIES AREN'T COMPELLED TO CRUSH HITLER ENTIRELY WITH LAND TROOPS. IN FACT, THEY CAN DO A GOODLY PORTION OF THE JOB IN A MUCH EASIER WAY. THAT'S BY BOMBING.

YOU WILL NOTE THAT THE BERLIN COMMENTATOR ASSUMED HIS MASTER'S TROOPS WOULD BE "WELL EQUIPPED." HE OVERLOOKED THE FACT THAT HITLER'S IRON RING, FOR DEFENSE AGAINST A LAND ARMY, RENDERS HIS ENTIRE SET-UP VULNERABLE TO BOMBING IN VIEW OF THE SHIFT OF THE BALANCE OF AIR-POWER TO THE ALLIES.

JUN - 8 1943

THE UNITED NATIONS NOW CAN REACH HITLER'S COMMUNICATIONS AND WAR INDUSTRIES ACROSS ALL PARTS OF THE CIRCLE. WHEN THEY ACHIEVE THEIR

JUN - 8 1943

INVASION OF SOUTHERN EUROPE THEY WILL ADD FURTHER TO THEIR FACILITIES FOR REACHING EVERY AXIS MANUFACTURING CENTER AND LINE OF COMMUNICATIONS. AIR BASES IN NORTHERN ITALY, FOR INSTANCE, WOULD BE A TREMENDOUS ASSET.

THE DAY AND NIGHT BLASTING WHICH THE ANGLO-AMERICAN AND RUSSIAN AIR-FORCES ARE ADMINISTERING TO THE REICH IS STRIPPING HITLER OF HIS ABILITY TO KEEP HIS ARMY "WELL EQUIPPED." ONE OF THESE DAYS THE CUMULATIVE EFFECT OF THIS AERIAL OFFENSIVE IS GOING TO HIT HIM ALL OF A SUDDEN AND HE WILL FIND HIMSELF WITH A WEHRMACHT WHICH STILL WILL HAVE GREAT STRENGTH IN MANPOWER BUT WILL LACK THE ARMS WITH WHICH TO DEFEND ITSELF.

THEN WILL BE THE TIME WHEN THE ALLIES WILL SEND THEIR OWN ARMIES MARCHING AGAINST THE HITLERIAN FORCES. ACTUALLY, OF COURSE, THE TERRIFIC AERIAL AND NAVAL BOMBARDMENTS WHICH THE UNITED NATIONS ARE LAYING DOWN AGAINST THE ENEMY, AS FURTHER EVIDENCED IN TODAY'S NEWS DESPATCHES, ARE THE PRELIMINARIES TO INVASION. THAT IS TO SAY, THE INVASION OPERATIONS ALREADY ARE UNDER WAY EVEN THOUGH WE CAN'T FORESEE THE EXACT MOMENT OF LANDING.

MEANWHILE, WITH THE ALLIES HOLDING AERIAL SUPERIORITY--AND OUTRIGHT SUPREMACY IN SOME AREAS LIKE THE NORTH AFRICAN THEATRE--HITLER'S LUFTWAFFE IS UNABLE TO STRIKE FROM WITHIN HIS CHAIRMED CIRCLE AT THE DISTANT PRODUCTION CENTERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS. OUR STRENGTH GROWS DAILY WHILE HIS DECREASES.

Large-Scale Invasion of Destruction of Enemy Europe Approaching, Churchill Asserts, Promising

JUN - 9 1943

Submarine Menace Being Overcome, Commons Told

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 8.—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today that a large-scale invasion of Europe was approaching, that the Allies were determined to destroy the Axis by air and other means and voiced confidence that the deadly submarine menace was swiftly being overcome.

"It is evident that amphibious operations of a peculiar complexity and hazard on a large scale are approaching," he said in his first war review since his Washington and North African conferences. "Operations now impending in the European theater of war have been fitted into their proper place in relation to the general war."

About the Allied air offensive, which many term the actual first phase of the invasion, Mr. Churchill said:

"So far as the British government and the dominion governments and also the governments of the United States and the Russian Soviet Republics are concerned, nothing will turn us from our endeavor and intention to accomplish the complete destruction of our foes by bombing from the air, in addition to all other means. The steady wearing down of the German and Japanese air forces is proceeding remorselessly."

Long-Range Aircraft Used.

He disclosed that a "very long-range air power—V. L. R. as it is called"—was in effective operation against submarines and that the first week of June "is the best ever" in U-boat kills. May was the best month of the war in the battle at sea, he said, and this may be a "fateful milestone" toward Axis defeat since the Axis was banking heavily on the U-boat.

He said the prisoners captured in Tunisia totaled 248,000—24,000 more than any previous estimate. He said 50,000 Axis troops had been killed, making total enemy casualties in Tunisia about 300,000. Tunisia and Stalingrad were the greatest military disasters that ever have befallen Germany, he said.

"The suddenness of the collapse of these great numbers of brave and skillful fighting men with every form of excellent equipment must be regarded as significant and in a sense characteristic of the German psychology generally after Jena and after the last war," he declared, "but no undue expectations should be placed on it. We prepared to win this war by hard fighting and, if necessary, by hard fighting alone."

Napoleon defeated the Prussians at Jena October 14, 1806.

Other Points in Speech.

Other points made by Mr. Churchill to the cheering Commons in his first long review since February 11 were these:

1. "Taking some of the weight off Russia and giving more speedy and effective aid to China * * * are never absent for one moment from our thoughts and aims." He expressed regrets that no recent conference had yet been arranged with Premier-Marshal Stalin.

2. "The might of America is deployed far over the Pacific and is laying an ever stronger grip on the outlying defenses of Japan and offering every moment to the Japanese fleet the supreme challenge of sea power."

3. That no pressure was exerted to bring the French together.

4. That Allied troops and commanders were eager for "the most intense and violent" attack on the Axis.

5. That the American 2d Corps in Tunisia captured 33,000 Germans and 6,000 Italians. British 1st Army casualties were 23,500 and the 8th Army casualties since crossing from Tripolitania were 11,500. Only 638 enemy troops escaped, mostly by air.

Immediately after speaking, Mr. Churchill went to Buckingham Palace to have lunch and report to the King. His speech was heard by American Ambassador John G. Winant, Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky and other envoys, Mrs. Churchill and several American officers.

In the Upper House the Lords cheered Lord Cranborne's report on the Prime Minister's return.

Reports to George VI.

Immediately after speaking, Mr. Churchill went to Buckingham Palace to have lunch and report to the King. His buoyant speech was heard by United States Ambassador John G. Winant, Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky and other envoys, Mrs. Churchill and several American officers. In the upper house, the Lords cheered Lord Cranborne's report on the Prime Minister's return.

JUN - 9 1943

The German radio in mid-afternoon referred briefly to the Churchill broadcast giving most attention to his remarks about the coming amphibious operations and to his figures on British casualties in North Africa. It made no mention whatever of the much larger Axis losses.

Optimistic but restrained, Mr. Churchill's statement to Commons served to confirm the British public's hopes that a large-scale Allied invasion of Europe is not far off. Warning against overconfidence, Mr. Churchill said that much hard fighting lay ahead before final victory could be achieved.

He made it plain that plans laid in Washington called for "the most intense and violent" attack upon the Axis and referred to "operations now impending in the European theater" as if they were a foregone conclusion.

Troops Eager for Attack.

The plans, he indicated, embrace all aspects of the global war, but he reported particularly that Allied commanders in North Africa were "resolute in the plans they have made" and that their troops are eager for the attack at the earliest moment.

The Russian front, as is nearly always the case, stood toward the front of the Prime Minister's address, for, as he said, "it is here that the greatest battles seem to impend."

"I am very sorry that we have not yet been able to bring into counsel Marshal Stalin or other representatives of our great ally, Russia, which is bearing the heaviest burden and paying by far the highest price in blood and life," he said.

"But I can assure the House that taking some of the weight off Russia and giving more speedy and effective aid to China and giving a stronger measure of security to our beloved Australia and New Zealand—these are never absent for one moment from our thoughts and aims."

Mr. Churchill opened his first war review since the statement he gave the House on February 11, after the Casablanca conferences by declaring: "As the Allied war effort passes into the offensive phase and as its scale and pace grow continually, more and more frequent consultations between the staffs and those concerned with the high control become necessary."

The House cheered as he said that the latest talks were imperative because "the progress of events become more rapid and the armies marched faster than we have foreseen."

'At Washington the entire expanse of the world war on which the mellow light of victory now begins to play was laid open to British and American leaders," Mr. Churchill said.

"We have shown we can work together," he added. "We have shown we can face disaster. We have still to show we can keep ourselves at the height and level of successful events and be worthy of good fortune. Perhaps it might be the hardest task of all."

In Complete Agreement.

He declared that "a complete agreement about the forward steps has been reached between the two governments" of Great Britain and the United States.

"There have been no sort of differences such as occurred in the last war inevitably on account of the forces at work between politicians and military men," he said, adding:

"I shall make no predictions as to what will happen in the future and still less in the near future. All I can say is that the Anglo-American policy, strategy and economy of the war was brought into full focus and function in those fifteen days of talks in Washington."

JUN -9 1943

Praises America.

The Prime Minister paid glowing tribute today to the United States, its President, its Congress and its Army Chief of Staff.

He told the House that the United States is "the most powerful community in the world." He called President Roosevelt "illustrious." Congress, he said, is an "august assembly."

He referred to Gen. George C. Marshall, United States Chief of Staff who accompanied him to North Africa, as "a man of singular eminence of mind and character."

At the close of his thirty-five-minute 3,500-word speech to the Commons, the Prime Minister apologized for the brevity of his review, saying:

"The reason why I have not to make a longer speech today is that I have already given to the joint sessions of the Congress of the United States the statement (May 19) which I should have made to this House on the victories in Tunisia had I been in this country. That, I think, is the valid explanation.

"Certainly when I found myself walking into that august assembly, the free Congress of the most powerful community in the world, and when I gave them, exactly as I would do in this House, a business-like stock-taking survey of the war and of our joint interests, even touching upon controversial matters or matters of domestic controversy over there, and when I thought of our common history and of the hopes that lie between us, I felt that this was an age of memorable importance to mankind."

Cites Friendship for Roosevelt.

He said his relations "with the illustrious President of the United States have become in these years of war those of a personal friendship and regard, and nothing will ever happen to separate us in the comradeship and partnership of thought while we remain responsible for the conduct of affairs."

Mr. Churchill referred to the plans made in North Africa as "plans I can best describe as directed to the application upon the enemy of force in its most intense and violent form."

He described the Allied commanders in North Africa as "men in the full tide of a successful experiment." He added that "they are proud of the troops they lead and resolute in the plans they have made."

The Prime Minister said that he was sorry he recently let slip the expression "brilliant prospects."

"I would prefer to substitute the words 'brighter and solid prospects lie before us,'" he explained "That I think would be more appropriate and becoming in such anxious days."

Reporting severe British losses in Tunisia, Mr. Churchill said the Eighth Army suffered about 11,500 casualties from the time it crossed the frontier from Tripolitania and the First Army about 23,500. In all there were 35,000 killed and missing during the Tunisian campaign by the two British armies.

Mr. Churchill was buoyant about the successful turn of the battle of the Atlantic.

"We took the measures which have thrown the very long range air power—V. L. R. as it is called—effectively into the anti-U-boat struggle," he said. "All this is being brought to bear."

He did not further amplify "V. L. R." which obviously stands for "very long range."

Success in U-Boat War.

The Prime Minister stated that "the month of May is from every point of view the best month we have had in the U-boat war since the United States was attacked. The combined new building has exceeded our losses by more than three to one. This first week in June could not possibly be taken as a criterion but as a matter of fact it is the best ever."

"In May," he continued, "for the first time our killings of U-boats substantially outnumbered the U-boat output. That may be a fateful milestone. The Germans seem to be staking their hopes on the U-boat war.

"If it should be made clear that this hope has failed, then they may be seriously disappointed and they are a people who, when seriously disappointed, do not always find resources to confront an approaching disaster, once their reason tells them that it is inevitable. I make that observation in passing. Do not let us build on such deductions.

"I feel confident that the U-boat war will not stand between the United Nations and their final victory, while all the time the air war will grow in weight and severity."

He concluded that "there can be no doubt that whatever world organization is brought into being after this war it must be the richer and stronger if it is founded on the friendship, fraternal relations and deep understanding prevailing and now growing between the British Commonwealth of Nations and the U. S. A."

As a prelude to Mr. Churchill's address the Speaker of the House read a message from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower expressing appreciation for the tribute previously paid by the House to the Allied victories in North Africa.

The members loudly cheered the reading of the message, which said:

"I have received with pride the text of the motion passed by the House of Commons on May 18. I ask that you will convey to the members of the House of Commons the thanks of all ranks of the Allied forces under my command for this generous appreciation of their services.

"Strengthened by your encouraging message we look forward with increasing confidence to a future of still greater effort and achievement until complete and final destruction of the Axis forces throughout the world has been achieved."

Conservative, Says Knox.

Washington, June 8 (A. P.).—Secretary of the Navy Knox was asked at a press conference today whether he had any comment on Winston Churchill's statement that "amphibious operations of peculiar complexity and hazard" are approaching for the Allies.

"No comment," Mr. Knox said, "but I should say that was a conservative statement."

PLANS COMPLETED FOR GRAND DRIVE, COMMONS IS TOLD

Prime Minister Reports Attack in European Theater to Come Soon.

U-BOAT LOSSES MOUNT

Allied Sea, Air Forces Reported Winning Battle of Atlantic.

JUN -9 1943

LONDON, June 8—(AP) Winston Churchill, as though raising at last the bright signal that will send the invading Allied armies plunging forward, quietly told the world today that amphibious attacks of "a peculiar complexity and hazard on a large scale" were very near at hand in the European theater—operations already "fitted into their proper place in relation to the general war."

All is in readiness for this grand assault, he made clear in a vigorous and heartening report to commons in which he declared the Allied submarine position was getting better and better by the day and suggested, although throwing this out with his customary conservative qualifications, that the prospective defeat of the U-boat might mean the moral and actual defeat of the Germans.

Gives Confident War Review

The prime minister stood proud and confident before Commons—reflecting, as he had put it in another connection, that "mellow light of victory" which he saw playing over the Allied cause—and gave to the members the most confident review in the years of his war leadership.

Telling of an American-British strategy and unity of war purpose "brought into full focus and punch" in the Washington negotiations recently concluded with President Roosevelt, Mr. Churchill thus proclaimed that the time of decision was now at hand:

Great Operations Impending

"It is evident that amphibious operations of a peculiar complexity and hazard on a large scale are approaching.

"I can give no guarantee any more than I have done in the past of what will happen xxx yet all the same I have good hopes that neither the Parliament nor the Congress of the United States will find themselves ill-served by their forces, whether in the British isles or on the African shore."

More than once he made it plain that this coming offensive, grand though its conception, was but a part of what had been planned for the three Axis enemies.

"The steady wearing down of German and Japanese air forces is proceeding remorselessly," he said in this connection. "The enemy who thought that air would be their weapon of victory are now finding in it the cause of their ruin.

"It is necessary for me to make it plain that so far as the British government and the governments of the dominions and also the governments of the United States and of the Russian Soviet Republics are concerned nothing will turn us from our endeavor and intention to accomplish the complete destruction of our foes by bombing from the air in addition to all other methods."

Greatest Battle in Russia

The Russian front, as is nearly always the case, stood toward the front of the prime minister's address, for, as he said, "It is here that the greatest battles seem to impend."

"I am very sorry," he declared, "that we have not yet been able to bring into counsel Marshal Stalin or other representatives of our great ally, Russia, which is bearing the heaviest burden and paying by far the highest price in blood and life.

"But I can assure the House that taking some of the weight off Russia and giving more speedy and effective aid to China and giving a stronger measure of security to our beloved Australia and New Zealand—these are never absent one moment from our thoughts."

Again and again the prime minister emphasized the brotherly association of the two great English-speaking powers in this greatest test of history and, momentarily ranging beyond the struggles of the day, he declared that when the victory came the English-speaking democracies "shall be stronger than ever before, in force, and, I trust, also in faith." And, he added:

"x x x There can be no doubt that whatever world organization is brought into being after this war, that organization must be richer and stronger if it is founded on the fraternal relations and the deep understanding prevailing and now growing between the British commonwealth of nations and the United States."

It was of the war against the submarine that Mr. Churchill spoke with particular pride, for, as he said, "We British must continue to place the anti-U-boat war first because it is only by conquering the U-boats that we can live and act."

Planes Join U-Boat Fight

He went on to say that "very long-range air power—V.L.R. as it is called"—had been thrown effectively into the battle of the Atlantic, and added:

"The month of May has from every point of view been the best month we have ever had in the anti-U-boat war since the U. S. was attacked x x x Sinkings have been greatly less than we apprehended and buildings have more than made good the prodigious programs undertaken by the American nation.

"This month of May has been one of the very best for imports carried safely into this island since the end of 1941. Our combined new buildings have exceeded our losses by more than three to one.

"This first week in June could not possibly be taken as a criterion, but as a matter of fact it is the best ever for many, many months past x x x new weapons and new methods and close coordination of effort between surface and air escorts have enabled us to inflict casualties which have surpassed all previous records.

U-Boat Killings Increase

"x x x In May for the first time our killings of U-boats substantially outnumbered the U-boat output. That may be a fateful milestone. The Germans seem to be staking their hopes upon the U-boat war x x x They are encouraged to bear the evils—the terror, as they call it, perhaps not an ill-chosen word—of the air bombardment by the hope that on the sea the U-boats are taking their revenge.

"If it should be made clear that this hope has failed them they may be seriously disappointed and they are a people who when seriously disappointed do not always find resources to confront approaching disaster once their reason tells them it is inevitable.

"Again I say — I make the observation in passing—do not let us build on such deductions."

A good section of the prime minister's report was devoted to his stop in Africa, where he had long war discussions with the American and British commanders, and to the "extraordinary ardor and zeal" of the troops there.

35,000 British Casualties

Recapitulating the Tunisian campaign, Mr. Churchill reported that the British First and Eighth armies had suffered 35,000 in killed, missing or wounded, whereas the Axis had lost more than 248,000 men in captured and 50,000 or more killed for a total loss of about 300,000. Only 638 Axis personnel escaped from Tunisia, he said.

"The suddenness of the collapse of these great numbers of brave and skillful fighting men, with every form of excellent equipment, must be regarded as significant," he went on, "and in a sense characteristic of the German psychology, which was shown after Jena and also at the very end of the last war."

He added that Hitler had expected his Tunisian armies to hold on at least until August.

As to the political situation in North Africa, the prime minister saluted the new French National Committee of Liberation jointly headed by Generals de Gaulle and Giraud and remarked that its creation meant that British financial and other dealings previously carried out direct with Gen. de Gaulle "will henceforward be with the committee as a whole."

JUN - 9 1943

LONDON, June 18 (AP).—Following is the text of Prime Minister Churchill's report to the House of Commons today on his war conferences in Washington and North Africa:

As the Allied war effort passes into the offensive phase and its scale and pace grow, continually more frequent consultations between the staffs and those concerned with high control become necessary. In January, 1942, broad agreements on principle and on our joint or respective tasks were reached at our conference in Washington.

In the meeting these took a sharper point and among other things the operations in North Africa began to shape themselves. In October and November action occurred at Casablanca. In January of this year the President and I, with combined British and United States staffs, were able to survey new scenes and wider prospects. Plans and programs were approved which have by no means yet been accomplished.

Nevertheless, as the progress of events became more rapid and the armies marched faster than had been foreseen it became necessary to explore a new field. To have the initiative is immense advantage. At the same time it is a heavy and exacting responsibility. Left to itself opportunity may easily lead to emergency.

Therefore, having consulted the President, I thought it necessary at the beginning of May to go with our chiefs of staff and very large body of officers and secretaries, nearly 100, for the third time to Washington in order that the success then imminent in Tunisia should be examined and comprehended from the common viewpoint and then turned to the best possible account.

"We Can Work Together"

At Washington the entire expanse of the world war on which mellow light of victory now begins to play was laid open to British and American leaders. We have shown that we can work together. We have shown that we can face disaster. We have still to show that we can keep ourselves at the height and level of successful events and to be worthy of good fortune.

Perhaps that may be the hardest task of all. It would not be right, of course, for me to attempt to give even in outline an account of the decisions which we reached. All I can say is that we have done our best. A complete agreement about forward steps has been reached between the two governments.

There have been no sort of differences such as occurred in the last war—inevitable on account of the forces at work—between the politicians and the military men. I shall make no predictions as to what will happen in the future and still less in the near future. All I can say is, Anglo-American policy, strategy and economy were brought into the full focus and punch in those fifteen days' talks at Washington.

The elaboration of modern war renders these prolonged discussions necessary. A conference lasting a day or two such as sufficed in previous wars is no longer sufficient to cover the ground and test the different propositions. As I have said, very large numbers of officers expert in their different branches are required at the various levels to be in close consultation. This gives the best chances to the troops and the sailors and airmen wherever they may be from Gibraltar to New Guinea and from the Aleutian Islands to the Burma Road.

Questions of Priority

In so vast and diverse a scene many questions of emphasis and priority arise, even where principles are agreed upon, and beneath them lie all those problems of transportations of munitions, of industry, of the food of nations, of the distribution and application of resources, most of which questions can best be settled, and many of which can only be settled, at the summit of the war direction and which at that summit present themselves in fairly simple and yet at the same time in somewhat awe-inspiring forms.

After we had completed our task at Washington I thought it well to go to North Africa and I was very glad that the President decided to send along with me General Marshall, chief of the United States Army and Air Force, a man of singular eminence of mind and character. We flew together across the Atlantic to Gibraltar and Algiers in order to deal more particularly and precisely on the spot with the problems of the Mediterranean theater.

There for another week we had the advantage of full discussions with General Eisenhower, the supreme commander, with General Alexander, Admiral Cunningham, Air Chief Marshal Tedder, Air Marshal Conyngham, General Montgomery, General Spaatz, General Bedell and other high British and United States officers directly concerned with the execution of plans—of plans which I can best describe as directed to the application upon the enemy of force in its most intense and violent forms.

I can assure the House that the most complete concord and confidence prevails at General Eisenhower's headquarters and the forces of the two great nations of the English-speaking world are working together literally as if they were one single army. I was told by the officers of both countries that in the movement of troops or the distribution of supplies no questions of national origin arise between the staff officers who are interlaced at every stage and tier of the vast organization. It is just a question of what is the best thing to do—that and no more.

JUN - 9 1943

"Extraordinary Ardor"

The commanders are men in the full tide of successful experiment. They are proud of the troops they lead and are resolute on the plans they have made. In traveling about these armies and seeing perhaps 20,000 troops and airmen in a day, I sustained the impression of their extraordinary ardour and zeal to engage the enemy again at the earliest moment.

Vast armies have come into being in this Africa war and to become conscious of their spirit is an ennobling influence for a visitor. Cheered by the remarkable victory after many baffings and disappointments, the British and American Armies and now the new French Army have become a most powerful and finely tempered weapon.

They have full confidence in themselves and also in the high command in the war direction. This is also true of the more numerous and powerful forces—British, Canadian and American—which have formed and are forming in the United Kingdom.

It is evident that amphibious operations of a peculiar complexity and hazard on a large scale are approaching.

I can give no guarantee any more than I have done in the past of what will happen. I am sorry that a few days ago in the press of travel and affairs I let slip the expression "brilliant prospects lie before us." I would prefer to substitute the words "brighter and solid prospects lie before us." That, I think, would be more appropriate and becoming in such anxious days.

Yet all the same I have good hopes that neither Parliament nor the Congress of the United States will find themselves ill-served by their forces whether in the British Isles or on the African shore. At any rate I can assure the House that on neither side, British nor American, have any narrow or selfish motives entered into the common task. The rest I must leave to action and to the march of events.

Enemy Loss Put at 300,000

When I visited Tripolitania in January I had the pleasure of seeing the troops of the 8th Army, whom I had met beforehand in the now far-off El Alamein position before their victory and marvelous advance across the desert.

I was particularly glad on this last occasion to meet the men of the 1st Army who, after a very hard time in the rainy winter, have come into their own and who had the honor with their comrades of the 2d U. S. Army Corps of striking the final blow.

The British losses in Tunisia have been severe. The 8th Army since they crossed the frontier of Tripolitania have sustained about 11,500 casualties and the 1st Army about 23,500 casualties. In all, 37,000 were killed, missing and wounded during the campaign of the two British Armies.

The total number of prisoners taken who have passed through the cages of the Allies now amounts to more than 248,000—an increase of 24,000 on the previous published total. There must certainly have been 50,000 of enemy killed, making a total loss of about 300,000 men to the enemy since Tunisia alone. More than half of these men are Germans. In fact, of 37,000 prisoners taken by the U. S. 2d Corps, actually it was more of the size of any army than a corps, 33,000 were Germans.

The French 19th Corps also led tens of thousands of Germans and Italians captives to the rear and must have felt after all their country had gone through that they were once again reliving the great days of Foch and Clemenceau.

All this takes no account of the very heavy tolls taken of German and Italian forces as they crossed over the sea or passed through the air. This toll was taken by the Allied air force and by the British submarines, cruisers, destroyers and motor-torpedo boats.

This British naval force at the same time caused an impassable barrier between the enemy in Tunisia and all prospects of escape. During the latter phases the fixed patrol was maintained in a force which would have prevented any attempt at escape except by individuals.

Only 638 Escape

In fact, I believe only 638 persons have escaped and these for most part by air on this scene of surrender. One cannot doubt that both Stalingrad and Tunisia are the greatest military disasters that have ever befallen Germany in all the wars she has made, and they are many.

There is no doubt, from the statements of captured generals, that Hitler expected his Tunisian army to hold out at least till August and that this was the view and intention of the German high command. The suddenness of the collapse of these great numbers of brave and skillful fighting men, with every form of excellent equipment, must be regarded as significant and in a sense characteristic of the German psychology which was shown after Jena, and also at the very end of the last war.

Though this fact should certainly be noted and weighed, no undue expectations should be based upon it. We are prepared to win this war by hard fighting, and if necessary by hard fighting alone.

In years of peace peoples of the British Commonwealth and those of the United States were an easygoing folk, wishing to live a free life, with active politics and other opportunities of innocent diversion, and of national self-improvement.

They do not covet anything from others, perhaps because they have enough themselves, and they have even failed to keep a good lockout upon their own safety.

They have martial qualities, but they certainly do not like to drill. Nevertheless, when they are attacked and assaulted and forced in defense of their life and liberty to make war and to subject all their habits of life to war conditions and to war discipline, they are not incapable, if time is granted to them—and time was granted to them—of making the necessary transformation.

Indeed, a great many of them are taking to it with increasing zest and zeal.

Democracies Will Be Stronger

Such nations do not become exhausted by war. On the contrary, they get stronger as it goes on. It is an error on the part of certain neutrals to suppose that the previously unprepared and ill-armed Anglo-Saxon democracies will emerge from this war weakened and prostrate even though victorious.

On the contrary, we shall be stronger than ever before in force and, I trust, also in faith.

It may well be that these guilty races that trumpeted the glories of war at the beginning will be extolling the virtues of peace before the end. It would certainly seem right, however, that those who fix on their own terms the moment for beginning wars should not be the same men who fix on their own terms the moment for ending them.

These observations are of general character, but not without their particular application.

I must not neglect to make it clear that operations now impending in the European theater have been fitted into their proper place in relation to the general war.

I am very sorry that we have not yet been able to bring into counsel Marshal Stalin or other representatives of our great ally, Russia, which is bearing the heaviest burden and paying by far the highest price in blood and life.

But I can assure the House that taking some of the weight off Russia and giving more speedy and effective aid to China and giving a stronger measure of security to our beloved Australia and New Zealand—these are never absent for one moment from our thoughts and aims.

This war is so universal and world wide it would take several hours to make an exposition of what is happening in various theaters.

Each of the Allies naturally sees these theaters from a different angle and in a somewhat different relation. We British must continue to place the anti-U-boat war first because it is only by conquering the U-boats that we can live and act.

America's Might in Pacific

The might of America is deployed far over the Pacific and is laying an ever stronger grip on the outlying defenses of Japan and offering every moment to the Japanese fleet the supreme challenge of sea power.

Russian armies, as I mentioned to the Congress the other day, are in deadly grapple with what we estimate to be 190 German and twenty-eight satellite divisions along their 2,000 miles of front. It is here that the greatest battles seem to impend. Then there is the war in the air. The steady wearing down of German and Japanese air forces is proceeding remorselessly. The enemy who thought that air would be their weapon of victory are now finding in it the first cause of their ruin.

It is necessary for me to make it plain that so far as the British government and the governments of the dominions and also the government of the United States and of the Russian Soviet Republic are concerned, nothing will turn us from our endeavor and intention to accomplish the complete destruction of our foes by bombing from the air in addition to all other methods.

Loud and lamentable outcries are being made by the enemy now that this form of warfare by which they thought to obtain the mastery of the world has turned markedly to their disadvantage.

These outcries will only be regarded by us as a very satisfactory proof of the growing efficiency of our attack.

Compared with this time last year, we British alone can now drop more than double the weight of bombs at the 1,500-mile range there and back.

In the summer of last year as Minister of Defense I set on foot a policy of increasing our bomber effort which of course entails certain sacrifices in other directions. All that is now coming into hand.

At the same time we took the measures which have thrown the very long range air power—V. L. R. as it is called—effectively into the anti-U-boat struggle. All this is now being brought to bear.

Gains Against U-Boats

The month of May has from every point of view been the best month we have ever had in the anti-U-boat war since the United States was attacked by Japan, Germany and Italy. At that time we gained much greater combined resources but we exposed much larger targets. We made at that time a budget of sinkings and buildings on which we knew we could survive indefinitely.

JUN - 9 1943

Sinkings have been greatly less than we apprehended and buildings have more than made good the prodigious programs undertaken by the American nation.

This month of May has been one of the very best for imports carried safely into this island since the end of 1941. Our combined new buildings has exceeded our losses by more than 3 to 1.

This first week in June could not possibly be taken as a criterion but as a matter of fact it is the best ever for many, many months past. During the last few months the enemy has made very heavy attacks on our convoys.

This has given us the opportunity to hit him hard in open battle. There are so many U-boats employed now that it is almost impossible not to run into one or another of these great fields or screens of U-boats which are spread out.

Therefore you have to fight your way through, but there is no reason why we should regret that. On the contrary it is around convoys that U-boats can best be destroyed.

New weapons and new methods and close co-ordination of effort between surface and air escorts have enabled us to inflict casualties which have surpassed all previous records.

The first Lord of the Admiralty made a statement of very reassuring character upon this subject the other day, and I can only repeat that in May for the first time our killings of U-boats substantially outnumbered the U-boat output. That may be a fateful milestone. The Germans seem to be staking their hopes upon the U-boat war, we may judge by appeals made to them. They are encouraged to bear the evils—the terror, as they call it, perhaps not an ill chosen word—of the air bombardment by the hopes that on the sea the U-boats are taking their revenge.

If it should be made clear that this hope has failed them, they may be seriously disappointed, and they are a people who when seriously disappointed do not always find resources to confront approaching disaster, once their reason tells them it is inevitable.

Again I say—I make the observation in passing—do not let us build on such deductions.

It would be foolish to assume that the good results of a single month are a guaranty of a continuing process.

We may have setbacks, though I have always looked forward to this summer as being a period which would be favorable to us.

Moreover, of course, the enemy may decline battle or he may look only for the most tempting opportunities. In this case we shall have fewer killings but more imports, and the freer movement of troops and munitions will be possible to all the various theaters.

I must say I feel confident that the U-boat war will not stand between the United Nations and their final victory, while all the time the air war will grow in weight and severity.

I might well speak with more emphasis upon this point, but it is prudent to forbear. I have touched on these matters connected with the war. It happened at the time when I was in Algiers that General de Gaulle and his friends arrived and I thought it would be well if the Foreign Secretary were on the spot, in case it should be proved in our power to help.

We did not in fact intervene at all in those tense discussions between the French, but, like General Eisenhower, the supreme commander, we watched closely and vigilantly in the light of British and United States interests and of the well-being of our armies in North Africa.

JUN - 9 1943

Rejoices Over French Accord

We all rejoiced when the agreement was made and the French National Committee of Liberation was set up and constituted as the single and sole authority for all Frenchmen seeking to free France from the German yoke.

When we met these seven men by and around whom the new French Cabinet has been formed one cannot but be struck by the many different aspects of French energy and capacity to resist which they represented, and also by their high personal qualities.

So the gravest responsibility lies upon these men and opportunities shine brightly before them. They have only to act together in good faith and loyalty to one another and to set aside sectional or personal interests and to keep all their hatreds for the enemy—they have only to do this to help to regain for France her inheritance, and in doing so become themselves inheritors of the gratitude of future generation of Frenchmen.

Formation of this committee with its collective responsibility supersedes the situation created by the correspondence between General de Gaulle and myself in 1940. Our dealings, financial and otherwise, will henceforth be with the committee as a whole. There is a further and larger question, namely the degree of recognition of this committee as representatives of France. These questions require consideration from the British and the United States governments, but if things go well I should hope that a solution satisfactory to all parties may shortly be reached.

Let me now sum up the two predominant impressions that I have sustained from this journey.

First is the spirit and quality and organization of the British and allied armies in North Africa. Second is the intimacy and strength of ties now uniting the British and the United States governments and the British and American peoples. All sorts of divergencies, all sorts of differences of outlook, all sorts of awkward little jars necessarily occur as we roll ponderously forward together along the rough and broken road of war, but none of these makes the slightest difference to our growing concert and unity, and there are none of them that cannot be settled face to face by heart to heart talks and patient argument.

My own relations with the illustrious President of the United States have become in these years of war those of a personal friendship and regard, and nothing will ever happen to separate us in the comradeship and partnership of thought and action while we remain responsible for the conduct of affairs. The reason why I have not to make a longer speech today is that I have already given to the joint sessions of the Congress of the United States the statement which I should have made to this House on the victories in Tunisia had I been in this country. That, I think, is the valid explanation.

Certainly when I found myself walking into that august assembly, the free congress of the most powerful community in the world, and when I gave them, exactly as I would do in this House, a business-like stock-taking survey of the war and of our joint interests, even touching upon controversial matters, or matters of domestic controversy over there, and when I thought of our common history and of the hopes that lie before us, I felt this was an age of memorable importance to mankind.

For there can be no doubt that whatever world organization is brought into being after this war that organization must be richer and stronger if it is founded on the fraternal relations and the deep understanding prevailing and now growing between the British Commonwealth of Nations and the United States.

I have one thing more to say before sitting down. I must acknowledge with gratitude the extraordinary kindness with which I have been treated both by the House and out of doors throughout the land. And that is a very great help in these days of continuing crises and storm.

Let me in return record the fact that this House is a democratic institution founded upon universal suffrage, a House which has preserved its function and authority intact and undiminished during the war and has shown it can change, correct and sustain governments with equal consistency of purpose. It has proved itself a foundation and an instrument for the waging of successful war and for the safety of the state, never surpassed in modern or ancient times.

Germans Talk of Attacking

Berlin Propagandists Drop Defensive Tone —Hint at Strategic Surprises

JUN - 9 1943

London, June 8 (A. P.).—German propagandists, reverting again to drum beating, have suddenly shifted from talk of defensive to offensive action, but British sources suggested today the new tone is merely an attempt to bemuse Allied leaders working on invasion plans.

The new line, first apparent in a Berlin broadcast last night, was begun only four days short of the anniversary of the start of the Nazi summer offensive in the Kharkov area, on June 11, 1942, and in the midst of increased air activity on that front in recent days. Germany's first attack on Russia also was sprung in June—on June 22, 1941.

Some sources here thought the shift in tone might be intended to stiffen German home morale, but Morley Richards, Daily Express military writer, conceded that the Nazis might try to wrest the initiative from the United Nations.

Possible Nazi Moves.

"To do that," he wrote, "they might attack again in Russia or attempt invasion of Turkey or Spain to jeopardize the flanks of the Allied armies stretched across the southern Mediterranean. Last night's propaganda seeks to suggest one or more of these three plans are being considered."

A DNB military commentator declared from Berlin last night that "Germany is prepared for both defensive and offensive military actions." This commentator replaced Lieut.-Gen. Kurt Dittmar, a leading Nazi military analyst, who asserted last week that Germany planned a purely defensive strategy. For the past week Nazi propagandists generally had harped upon Germany's need for replenishment and rest before undertaking further offensive actions.

The new line also contained hints of strategic surprises and formidable new weapons, last night's Nazi military commentator declaring an Allied invasion would only enable the Axis to "show its power."

Invasion Talk Continues.

London newspapers, meanwhile, continued to splash invasion headlines and comment editorially on Axis speculation over the plan of assault. British and Allied quarters in London heard reports that the Nazis in Norway expected a Soviet attack on the northern Finland front to coincide with a British-American blow from the west, perhaps at Narvik.

CBS, said that, "as a result, the activity of the Albanian patriots in the interor of the country has increased. Numerous localities are indisputably ruled by the patriots."

50,000 Men Would Be Used In First Assault Under Air Cover, It Is Said

JUN - 9 1943

Report To Stockholm Paper Predicts 90,000 Casualties In Early Stages

COLBURN

[By the Associated Press]

Stockholm, June 8—The Germans, said to be counting from hour to hour on an Allied invasion of Europe, presented today their advance story of just what the first few days of assault would be like if northern France is struck from across the English Channel.

Here is the imagined picture—highly favorable to the Germans—as forecast by German military sources quoted by the Berlin correspondent for the Stockholms Tidningen:

A terrific barrage by British warships and a mass aerial bombardment would be set up simultaneously against European coastal batteries.

50,000 At First

Small landing boats, each with 120 men, would proceed under the barrage toward the coast, carrying about 50,000 men in the first attack wave. This wave also would include other boats carrying light weapons and small tanks.

Upon the discovery of the attack, the Germans would concentrate U-boat packs—presumed to be stationed at possible invasion areas since they hope to use them to ward off any Allied blow—and aerial power in an attempt to wreck the landing plans.

According to the correspondent, the Germans estimate that no more than 13,000 of the first 50,000 troops can be landed to establish a bridgehead.

Combat Inits Next

The first invasion wave would be troops trained especially to establish a bridgehead, while a second wave of 50,000 men would be combat units assigned to push inland and keep the main forces of the Axis from getting set in defensive positions. These attacking combat forces may be able to penetrate a distance of five or six miles.

If the U-boat and aerial defenses are effective, the invaders would lose fifty per cent. of the second wave of troops, but once a bridgehead is established the losses of succeeding attacking waves of 50,000 men each might diminish.

The Nazis say that the Allies, after the first two assaults have stormed the heavily fortified positions, might have only 10,000 of the 100,000 men fit to fight.

Critical Third Day

The first day would be a crisis for the attacking troops but the third day would be the critical one for the entire invasion operation. By the third day the Germans would have drawn up heavy reinforcements, while the Allies would have been able to land the main force of the invaders.

Speculating on the size of the Allied invasion force, German military circles said 500,000 men would be too few and that 1,500,000 troops would be necessary for an effective attack.

While a Channel fog might contribute to the element of surprise in an Allied landing, the rugged French coasts would hinder the use of light tanks and motorized units, it was pointed out by German sources, who predicted that any invasion blow of that nature would be accompanied by violent naval action between Nazi U-boats and Allied warships.

75 Per Cent. Casualties

Before any real fighting can start on the Continent, the Allies must expect seventy-five per cent. casualties, Nazi military experts predicted.

They said that in lining up tonnage for an invasion the Allies must figure on fifteen tons of shipping displacement for each man and his equipment and supplies to serve him.

The Stockholms Tidningen correspondent said German military sources told him they were watching for Allied blows against Belgium, southern France, Italy and the Balkans, as well as northern France. He quoted them as saying that the Allies were growing stronger, that they could not be underestimated and likely would engineer a "clever invasion plan."

Mediterranean Attack

At the same time, however, the Berlin correspondent of the Sevenska Dagbladet quoted Dr. Kurt Pseisser, German military analyst, as saying that the first attack would come from the Mediterranean. He was quoted as basing his prediction on the fact that the Allies have three well-drilled and excellently equipped armies—two British and one American—and a reserve of

JUN - 9 1943

French troops ready for action.

In addition to strong ground forces, the Allies have mighty air power in North Africa to supplement a ground attack, Pseisser was quoted as pointing out. He added that Malta had shown that modern fortifications could withstand heavy bombings and that the Axis had prepared similar installations around the European fortress.

The German air force still must be considered a strong defensive unit, Pseisser told the correspondent.

Multiple Invasion Planned, American Expert Declares

General Noce Says Landing Barges And Equipment Are At Hand For Blows At Several Points

JUN - 9 1943

[By the Associated Press]

London, June 8—Brig. Gen. Daniel Noce, amphibious war expert of United States forces, described today well advanced preparations for invasions at any one or several European fronts.

Soon after Prime Minister Churchill had told Commons that "amphibious operations of a peculiar hazard on a large scale are approaching" in the European theater, General Noce assured a press conference that landing barges and other specialized equipment would "be on hand for each operation as needed."

"Diversions Very Essential"

"Diversions are a very essential part of any large-scale operation," he commented.

The recently appointed chief of organization and training in the European theater of operations of the United States Army said the Allies had considerable experience in land-sea operations and learned much at Dieppe, North Africa, the Solomons, Madagascar and Attu.

He recoginzed command of the air as vital to any invasion and declared:

"We already have air superiority" in a broad sense and will make certain that "we dominate the skies when we invade the Continent."

First Phase May Be Long

Noce said softening-up operations, now under way against the Italian outpost islands, might be regarded as the first phase of operations and might be carried out over a considerable period of time.

"Our country has been training for amphibious operations for a long time," he said, in declaring that a high degree of training was needed for troops engaging in landing operations. He added that British methods were "very thorough."

When the invasion comes, "it will go according to plan" and wherever the Allies choose to make the big break, Noce said.

"Will Have The Force"

"We will have the force there necessary to do it," in the sea, air and on the land, the general said. He made clear that the Allies had mastered new techniques.

"We have strong air power and strong sea power," he said. "Their full use is envisioned."

He said the high command was "fully aware of the possibilities of air-borne troops."

ROME RADIO SAYS IT'S TOO LATE TO TURN

Commentator Notes War Enters Second Stage, Sees New Issues

Pellizzi Sees State Of Confusion Which Can't Last Long

[By the Associated Press]

London, June 8—The war looks different today than it did at the outset, but it is "too late, far too late, to turn back now," an Italian radio commentator said today in a broadcast from Rome recorded by the Associated Press.

The commentator was Camillo Pellizzi, national councillor, who noted that "there is at present a general state of confusion which cannot last long.

"The war has entered its second stage," he said, "and many issues relied upon at the beginning now look different." He explained that at the outset it appeared the war was to be confined to Europe, but later became a world war.

"It is regrettable that Great Britain has decided to live on next door to a Europe in misery and ruins," he said, adding, "It is now too late, far too late, to turn back and think over the facts and proposals of that (early) period."

Offshore Forts Described

London, June 8 (AP)—The German radio said tonight that the west coast of Europe was guarded against invasion by sea forts built offshore of "thousands of tons of steel and concrete" and manned night and day. The forts were said to be armed with batteries of heavy and anti-aircraft guns.

"The forts are approached by hundreds of narrow steps leading up to the platform from the water level," the broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said. "Exits are carefully secured with heavy barbed wire entanglements and extensive mine fields surround the forts."

The broadcast attributed its account to der Alder, an illustrated journal of the German Air Ministry.

PANTELLERIA HIT AGAIN BY U.S. PLANES

New Technique To Blast Underground Hangars Is Reported

JUN - 9 1943

"Skip Bombing" Tactics Used At Sea Adapted To Land Action

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, June 8—Italy's anti-invasion outpost at Pantelleria, 180 miles from the Italian mainland, underwent violent air attacks again yesterday and it was disclosed that American fighter bombers have a novel technique to blast the enemy from underground hideouts in the island's volcanic mountains.

Adapting the tactic of low-level "skip bombing" used against enemy ships at sea, United States flyers have begun hammering Pantelleria's subterranean aircraft hangars by aiming steel-shelled packets of explosives against the cave entrances.

[The dispatch did not elaborate, but apparently the new mode of attack was designed to strike directly at the cavern hangars, skipping the bombs across the land like pebbles across the water, instead of attempting to smash through deep layers of rock by direct overhead assault.]

Sixteenth Successive Day

It was the sixteenth successive day of aerial bombardment of the island, which lies about midway between Tunisia and Sicily on the trans-Mediterranean "invasion route" to Italy.

Every type of bomber in the mammoth Northwest African Air Forces has taken a crack at the midget enemy base during the past month, but Flying Fortresses supplemented by Marauders, Mitchells, Baltimores, Bostons and fighter-bomber Warhawks teamed up yesterday in raids lasting from dawn to dark.

Billowing smoke clouds which drifted as far as the Sicilian coast sixty-five miles away rose to a height of 4,000 feet over the northwest shore of the island.

Since the Axis high command sent German and Italian fighters back to Pantelleria last Saturday to wage a defense, twenty-two have been shot down in battles against continuous waves of Allied raiders, the majority of which have been Americans.

Ten Axis Craft Destroyed

Ten Axis aircraft were destroyed yesterday, while only two Allied planes have been lost in the Pantelleria area since last Saturday morning.

In an effort to weaken the Allied air offensive, the enemy has built up anti-aircraft defenses. Last week American pilots reported that "enemy flak is light and inaccurate." Now it is described as "intense but still inaccurate."

Pantelleria's history is a record of successive invasions and conquests. Ancient Rome made it a place of banishment, and Arabs, Spaniards and Turks have all occupied the island at one time or another in the past 1,000 years.

11 Enemy Warplanes Shot Down in New Pantelleria Raid

Two Allied Craft Lost; Smoke Pall Drifts Almost 65 Miles

JUN 9 1943

By the Associated Press.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 8.—The concentrated strength of the Allied Northwest African Air Forces poured a deluge of bombs and fire onto Italy's sentinel island of Pantelleria yesterday.

Formations of every type of plane, from Flying Fortresses to small Warhawks, flew to the attack, Allied headquarters said, giving rise to smoke clouds which soared 4,000 feet above the battered island and drifted wide over the sea.

Defenders' Efforts Futile.

Eleven enemy planes were shot down in the onslaught when outnumbered defenders tried to ward off the waves of attacks. Two Allied planes were lost, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's communique said.

The smoke pall spreading from the bombardment reached almost to Sicily, 65 miles away, in the late afternoon.

In one of the shortest communiques in recent months Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters said "many missions were carried out by heavy, medium and fighter bombers" against Pantelleria. No other targets were mentioned.

(The Italian communique, however, said "considerable damage" was done in Allied raids on Messina and Trapani, Sicily. It described the Pantelleria garrison as "reacting with unchanged bravery against uninterrupted enemy air action.")

Gunners Get 6 Planes.

Fortress gunners accounted for 6 of the 11 enemy planes shot down yesterday when the interceptors tried to break up the heavy formations.

Warhawks tangled with an enemy fighter group and shot down four more.

The eleventh enemy machine, a twin-engined float plane, was shot down by RAF coastal air force fighters in the Gulf of Orstano off the west coast of Sardinia.

Fighter-bombers from Malta attacked warehouses, road transport and signal lights at Pozzallo, Comiso and Cape Stilo in Sicily.

The battering of Pantelleria started off in the morning, with American, British and South African Bostons, RAF Baltimores and American Mitchells and Warhawks dealing out widespread havoc.

American Boston crewmen reported their formation blew up two buildings and caused six other large explosions in the target area.

German Messerschmitt 109s and Italian Macchi 202s patrolled the sea between Pantelleria and Africa, trying to divert the Allied fury and the Warhawks bagged two of each in two strenuous dog fights.

Flying Fortresses spearheaded the Allied attack in the afternoon, with American Marauders and fighter bombers supplementing the assault.

"I thought I was doing my part when I was on the assembly line back in Michigan," said a Fortress staff sergeant, J. S. Rzonca of Saint Claire, Mich., who formerly worked in an automobile plant. "Today things were reversed. I felt I was a part of the de-assembly plant after I saw our bombs going below."

"I kept my B-26, 'Birmingham Blitzkrieg,' on the bomb run as smooth as a boy carrying a basket of eggs," remarked Marauder Pilot First Lt. Robert H. Borden of Beatrice, Ala. "I told my bombardier (Second Lt. W. C. Sawyer, Shreveport, La.) if he didn't hit the target I would drop him out. We brought him back."

COMMANDO ATTACK ON ISLAND CLAIMED

Axis Reports Say British Units Were Wiped Out On Lampedusa

JUN - 9 1943

[By the Associated Press]

London, June 8—Rome and Berlin reported today that British Commandos assaulted the tiny turtle-shaped island of Lampedusa Monday night and were repulsed in the first attempt of Allied forces massed in North Africa to invade Italian soil in the Mediterranean.

Allied military and naval quarters were silent on enemy accounts of the operation which—if true—appeared nothing more than a minor-scale probing for bigger blows to come.

Despite the attempts of the Italian and German high commands to magnify the action, it was regarded in some London quarters as possibly only a forerunner of a series of widespread operations which might precede the main strike.

Italian Claim Broadcast

"The enemy attempted a landing on the island of Lampedusa," said the Italian communique, as recorded here in a broadcast. "The attempt was carried out by British units. It was promptly repulsed by our defenses which sank several enemy naval vessels."

German broadcasts considerably amplified this account of the attack on Lampedusa, a barren bit of desert 120 miles south of Sicily and seventy miles east of the Tunisian coast which is reported to have been the original uninhabited isle of Shakespeare's "The Tempest."

DNB said it was a "serious effort" by about five companies of Commandos and the German communique said it was an attempt to occupy the seven-mile long island "by a coup de main."

Claims Force Wiped Out

The communique implied that the attempt had gained at least some initial success by declaring that the forces which landed were wiped out.

Asserting the attempt had failed "one hundred per cent.," DNB said "if the Allies by this attempt intended to test the resistance of Italian troops when they are defending their home soil, then the Italians have stood the test in a brilliant manner."

The Commandos, masters of night landing tactics, were described as superbly trained and equipped.

Southernmost Point

Lampedusa, one of the Pelagie group which includes Lampione and Linosa, is the southernmost of the Italian steppingstone dotting the Mediterranean between Tunisia and the European mainland. It is about eighty miles south of the air track which Allied bombers have been traversing in their assaults on Pantelleria.

Its population is about 3,500, normally including 700 convicts. One village and a single harbor accommodating small craft are its only features, but the southeastern coast provides several places for possible beachheads.

Axis Reports Repulse of Allies In Lampedusa Landing Attempt

Italian Island East of Tunisian Coast Declared Objective of Commando Attack

JUN - 9 1943

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 8.—Communiques broadcast from Rome and Berlin reported today that the first Allied landing attempt on one of Italy's outlying islands, the desolate prison island of Lampedusa, was repulsed last night.

Official military and naval quarters in London did not confirm the Axis announcements immediately, and the Axis itself appeared to recognize that Lampedusa would not be an objective in a full-blown invasion attempt when a German-controlled broadcast from Vichy said "a British and American offensive against Italy may be expected at any moment."

DNB, official German News agency, said in a broadcast, however, that the attempt on Lampedusa was a "serious effort" to take the island by five companies of British Commandos superbly trained and equipped.

Lampedusa, 70 miles east of Sousse on the east Tunisian coast and 120 miles south of Sicily, normally has a population of about 3,500 of whom a fifth are convicts. It is a spot of desert jutting up from the Mediterranean and the most southerly of Italy's outlying defense positions. Although it once figured as a secondary Italian air base, it has not been a recent objective of Allied air attacks.

The Italian communique today declared, however, that it was under heavy attack just prior to the landing attempt.

"The enemy attempted a landing on the island of Lampedusa," the war bulletin said. "The attempt was carried out by British units. It was promptly repulsed by our defenses which sank several enemy naval vessels."

A Berlin broadcast heard here by the Associated Press said the attack occurred last night and was a Commando raid carried out by "about five companies" of British troops.

Landing Craft Declared Destroyed.

This report claimed that several Allied landing craft were sunk and asserted forces which had landed "were destroyed."

The German high command communique stated that "the enemy yesterday tried to take the Mediterranean Island of Lampedusa by a coupe de main. The Italian garrison repulsed the attack, sank several boats and destroyed enemy troops which had landed."

Declaring the attempt failed "100 per cent," the German radio added:

"If the Allies by this attempt intended to test the resistance of Italian troops when they are defending their home soil, then the Italians have stood the test in a brilliant manner."

Has Single Harbor.

The German broadcast said Berlin military quarters had "no doubts" it was "a serious landing attempt."

Lampedusa is a one-town island of bare rock and a few fertile valleys, measuring about seven miles by two, and lies some 100 miles west of British Malta.

Il Porto, on the southern coast, provides its only harbor, but even this can accommodate only small craft. Several scattered beaches on the southeastern coast provide other sites for bridgeheads, but the rest of the coastline is protected by high cliffs.

Although the island has been mentioned rarely in the war news, there have been reports that it was used as a limited Axis air base.

Pantelleria Blasted Again.

The Italian communique said "considerable damage" was caused by enemy bombers in raids against Messina, ferry port at the eastern tip of Sicily, and on Trapani, also on Sicily, while "uninterrupted enemy air activity" was acknowledged over Pantelleria.

"The garrison of Pantelleria," the bulletin said, "reacting with unchanged bravery against the uninterrupted enemy air action, destroyed yesterday six planes. Three more crashed in the course of aerial combats with German fighters over the island."

The Rome announcement asserted that one Allied plane was shot down over Messina by anti-aircraft defenses and four over Trapani.

The Italians declared that their torpedo planes set afire a 5,000-ton steamer and torpedoed another large unit in an attack on an escorted convoy off Bone.

FRENCH UNITY DIFFICULTIES ARE RELATED

Merging Of Armed Forces Which Once Fought Delays Action

JUN - 9 1943

War Council, However, Is Expected To Be Established Soon

MORIN

[By the Associated Press]

Algiers, June 8—The delicate problem of merging two French armed forces which once fought each other as enemies has delayed the appointment of a war minister and the establishment of a war council in the new French Empire Government, a trustworthy French source said today.

At the same time, however, this informant expressed his belief that the fusion of the two factions of the armed service would be accomplished in the near future.

The Government convened today in an attempt to iron out the difficulties in the path of full military cohesion. Formation of the war council was regarded as the Government's last organizational step necessary to throw the unified weight of vast French territories back into the war front against the Axis.

Cooperated With British

Former Free French Army units owing allegiance to Gen. Charles de Gaulle, it was pointed out, had cooperated with the British forces in 1941 in their attack on Syria. They were opposed by French troops who have since aligned themselves under Gen. Henri Giraud.

According to the informant, not only the soldiers themselves, but especially their respective commanders "feel a certain amount of bitterness" over that campaign, and it has affected the formation of a centralized military command in the Algiers regime.

Although the rivalry between the various French generals dating back to the Syrian battles is considered serious, it is not believed insurmountable, it was said.

Difficult Situation

It was disclosed today that a situation freighted with the possibilities of sabotaging the whole movement toward French unity arose shortly after de Gaulle's arrival in Algiers and his initial meetings with Giraud.

De Gaulle, the informant explained, took the position that he was the symbol of "pure French resistance" in contrast to certain French officials here who were sullied by at least indirect collaboration with the Nazis.

For that reason, it was said, de Gaulle attempted to arrogate numerous important powers and categories of authority which the French in North Africa were emphatically not willing to grant. As a result, the informant said, there was one day when it was touch and go whether de Gaulle would attempt a coup d'etat here or whether Giraud would arrest and imprison him.

Critical Times

Each having expressed his innermost sentiments with complete candor, the two generals "realized that in the eyes of the French people they would never be forgiven" if they failed to effect a rapprochement in this critical time. Therefore each retreated from his respective position and the formation of a government proceeded smoothly.

French observers expect that the equally difficult problem of bringing the two groups of armed forces together will follow the same pattern.

UNIFIED FRENCH MEET TO FORM A WAR CABINET

Last Remaining Step to Be Taken to Consolidate Rule Over 60 Million.

PUAUX GETS MOROCCO POST

Helleu Is High Commissioner for Syria---Giraud Foiled a Gold Export Plot.

JUN - 9 1943

Algiers, June 8 (A. P.).—The new French Empire Government convened in full dress session today, moving swiftly toward formation of a war cabinet as its last organizational step necessary to throw the unified weight of vast French territories back into the battleline against the Axis.

With appointment of the war committee this central French authority, with its seat in Algiers, will be complete, administering the public affairs of 60,000,000 Frenchmen and subjects, an army presently estimated at 300,000, and a great African and insular domain with its vital strategic and material resources.

The Committee of National Liberation, headed by the co-presidents Gens. Henri Giraud and Charles de Gaulle, announced the appointment last night of eleven commissioners, corresponding to cabinet ministers.

The line-up included: Rene Massigli, Foreign Affairs; Gen. Georges Catroux, Co-ordinator of Moslem Affairs; Jean Monnet, Armaments; Rene Pleven, Colonies; Rene Meyer, Communications and Merchant Marine; Henri Bonnet, Information; Andre Philip, Interior; Dr. Jules Abadie, Justice, Education and Health; Maurice Couve de Murville, Finance; Andrew Diethelm, Production and Commerce; Adrien Tixier, Labor and Social Affairs.

Gen. Alphonse Georges also was named as a member without portfolio.

War Ministry Left Vacant.

Left vacant was the portfolio of the War Ministry. It was expected that this office would be organized simultaneously with the appointment of a streamlined War Cabinet which would concentrate solely on direction of the French war machine now being rebuilt on the African shores of the Mediterranean.

Gen. Giraud, as commander in chief of French forces in North Africa, probably will assume the post of Commissioner for War, at the same time heading the War Cabinet, it was reported.

The position of Gen. de Gaulle, leader of the London Fighting French, in the new government still was obscure. But he is reported to have told intimates that his military career was ended, and observers therefore considered it likely that he would devote his energy to directing the civil administrative body.

Among other changes made by the committee yesterday was the appointment of Gabriel Puaux, a former High Commissioner of Syria, as Resident-General of Morocco, succeeding Gen. Auguste Nogues, and the appointment of Jean Helleu as the immediate successor of M. Catroux as High Commissioner of Syria.

Algiers newspapers greeted with unqualified satisfaction the formal appearance of a central French authority. But they emphasized what both Gens. de Gaulle and Giraud asserted before the committee—that this is a provisional government with its existence limited strictly to the moment when liberation of the French homeland is complete and the French people are able to set up a government of their own choosing.

Gold Export Plot Foiled.

Casablanca, June 8 (A. P.).—The Bank of Morocco attempted to send almost $750,000 worth of gold to German-occupied France last February, but was blocked when Gen. Henri Giraud's regime discovered the plan, reliable informants said today.

These spokesmen said that Giraud authorities acted on the ground that the transaction violated Gen. Giraud's December decree forbidding commercial transactions with metropolitan France.

The incident was reported to be one of the reasons for the pressure for supplanting of Gen. Auguste Nogues as resident general. It was expected that some officers of the bank—a state institution formerly affiliated with the Bank of France—will lose their posts because of it.

REDS REPEL NAZIS IN RIVER BATTLES

JUN - 9 1943

Aerial Attacks On German Airports And Soviet Plants At Gorki Continue

[By the Associated Press]

London, Wednesday June 9—Two sharp river battles—with the Germans driven back across a river on the western front and repulsed at another below Kharkov—were reported by the Russians early today, while German airports and the Soviet industrial city of Gorki were pounded again in the unabated aerial war.

The Germans, meanwhile, broadcast the surprising and wholly unconfirmed report that nearly 550,000 Russians had been killed in four great battles in the western Caucasus in the last forty-five days—claiming losses which would far surpass the German debacle at Stalingrad.

Only By Propaganda Channels

This report was circulated only through the Nazi propaganda channels and was not supported by the German high command or even discussed by the more responsible German "military quarters" as quoted by the Berlin radio.

In the river battle on the western front, Red army units attacked Nazi forces entrenched on the left bank, and "as a result of the fighting the enemy suffered heavy losses and were thrown back to the right bank of the river," said the midnight communique recorded by the Soviet Monitor.

The Germans attacked in the Lisichansk area, some 125 miles southeast of Kharkov, attempting to cross the northern Donets river, but Soviet troops wiped out the enemy troops in their boats, the bulletin added.

Blocked In Volkhov Area

Another sharp German attack in the Volkhov sector below Leningrad was driven back with 150 Nazis killed or wounded, the Russians said.

The Moscow radio said "large forces" of Soviet long-range bombers blasted German airports Monday night, successfully bombing "a large number" of German planes, ammunition and fuel dumps, with "especially heavy explosions registered on the airfield north of Bryansk."

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said German planes again attempted to raid Gorki, big industrial center 250 miles east of Moscow, with bombs striking dwellings, and with seven bombers shot down.

The Germans declared aerial reconnaissance showed that the big "Molotoff" tank factory at Gorki had been "almost completely destroyed," with Nazi bombers com pleting the destruction Monday night.

Reports Hundreds Killed

The Soviet midnight communique said 250 Germans were killed in fighting on the western front, and 200 on the Leningrad sector, while Russian artillery in the Sevsk and Lisichansk area blasted German gun positions and troops, taking a toll of several hundred more of the enemy.

Concerning the Caucasus—where the Russians have not announced any offensives since the winter drive—the German radio asserted that twenty-five Russian infantry and twelve tank divisions, totaling about 550,000 men, had been "annihilated" in four battles.

The tank units first were described as brigades but later were identified as divisions.

Four Offensives Listed

A Transocean dispatch, recorded by the Associated Press, quoted an unidentified "military spokesman" as asserting that the Russians had battered vainly at the Kuban bridgehead around Novorossisk in four offensives since April 4. Two lasting four days were said to have started April 4 and 11. A twelve-day battle was said to have begun April 29 and the fourth drive "which now has ended" opened May 26.

"The Kuban bridgehead is naturally of importance for the Germans as a possible platform for a new German offensive," the broadcast said.

large fires with 500 tons of explosives and 100,000 incendiaries.)

It was at Gorki where Ford engineers helped the Russians build their great automobile factory, which since the war has been converted into a giant armaments center.

The Russians in turn have struck heavily at German concentrations and supplies, particularly in the area between Bryansk and Gomel in the south-central sector, where German-held railway junctions have been blasted heavily.

The magnitude of the aerial combat during the last five weeks into which the Germans and Russians have thrown thousands of planes was attested by the official week end Soviet announcement that 752 Nazi planes had been destroyed in the week ended Saturday, at a loss of 212 Russian aircraft.

To American correspondents here, who began covering this war in France, front-line reports are reminiscent of the old days when the standard communique was "rien a signaler"—nothing to report.

But every one feels there will not be long to wait for the big action.

The midday Russian communique described strong German feeler action and new troop concentrations in the south-central "hinge" area.

German attacks on outposts near Belgorod, northwest of Kharkov, were beaten off in fierce hand-to-hand fighting, said the communique, which was broadcast from Moscow and recorded by the Soviet monitor in London. It said that about two companies of Germans were killed when big Russian guns shelled an infantry column near Sevsk, northwest of Kharkov. Six German planes were shot down near Belgorod in a continuation of the aerial warfare, it added.

Industrial Center East Of Red Capital Attacked For Second Night

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, June 8.—Official disclosure that the German Air Force raided the industrial center of Gorki, 250 miles east of Moscow on the Volga River, for two consecutive nights emphasizes the belief of observers here that the conflict is now taking on more of the character of a war of attrition—with the zero hour near.

London Reports Noon Bulletin.

London, June 8 (A. P.).—Strong German feeler activity and new troop movements, especially in the strategically important south-central "hinge" sector of the Russian front, was reported in todays mid-day Russian communique.

A column of German infantry accompanied by tanks was shelled heavily during the night near Sevsk, northwest of Kharkov, where two companies were wiped out and three tanks were disabled, said a Moscow broadcast recorded by the Soviet monitor here.

Near Belgorod, which is northeast of Kharkov, German attacks on a Russian outpost were beaten off in fierce hand-to-hand battles, the war bulletin said.

Nazis Train Rail Wreckers.

A new special command within the German air force has been established to concentrate on attacking locomotives in Russia, a German broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said today.

REDS REVEAL NEW BOMBER

Moscow, June 8 (A. P.).—The Russians disclosed today that a new bomber now in production has proved very efficient during raids behind the German lines. No details were given, except that it has been used at the front since May, the beginning of the tremendous air battles which have been reported during the last five weeks.

Red Star, the Army organ, quoted guerrilla reports that planes of the new type have destroyed ten German trains during one raid and killed 1,500 Germans when barracks behind the lines were destroyed.

THREE OF GESTAPO REPORTED SLAIN

JUN - 9 1943

London, June 8 (A. P.).—The Polish Government in Exile quoted today a broadcast by SWIT, the polish secret radio station, as saying that three Gestapo agents were assassinated in Warsaw on May 22 by Polish underground agents in a reprisal for the shooting of 500 Poles in the Pawiak prison.

The Nazis were reported shot in a crowded dance hall. The Polish Government said that the boldness of the act was evidence of increasing unrest sweeping Poland. It added, however, that the Poles had been asked to act only in self-defense and not let themselves be provoked into any large-scale revolt.

German occupational authorities in Poland, the Government said, have become alarmed at the successful Polish boycott of the forced labor draft and have ordered the arrest of 100 Poles for every one called who fails to report.

London, June 8 (AP).—Lieut. Col. Lorne Maclaine Campbell won the Victoria Cross today for leading an attack at the Wadi Akarit in North Africa that carried through a minefield, took an important hill and 600 prisoners. The highest British award, the 66th of this war, went to the 40-year-old officer for a "display of valor and utter disregard for personal safety." At Dunkirk, he won the DSO.

GRID RECEIPTS TURNED OVER TO RED CROSS FUND

LONDON, June 8 — (AP) Proceeds of the United States Army football game May 8, amounting to $6,612, were turned over today to the Duke of Gloucester's Red Cross and St. John fund.

When Col. Theodore Arter of Altoona, Pa., chief of the U. S. Army special service section in Europe, presented the check to Lord Wigram, chairman of the fund, the latter said:

"This amount places American football close to the top of the list of more than 50 sports from which the committee has received contributions."

Bern, Switzerland, June 8 (AP)—The Tribune de Geneva today reported that the Vichy Government of France sent squadrons of police to Gnenoble to quell Frenchmen who had smashed shop windows of Axis collaborators. The dispatch from Grenoble added that the police might have been sent as a ruse to control youths slated for forced labor in Germany.

A Marseille report said the Germans emptied five youth camps, which normally have 100 to 150 inhabitants 17 or 18 years old, and sent them to Germany on the scheduled day of their liberation.

CENTER OF PARIS CLOSED TO MOTORS

JUN - 9 1943

Stockholm, June 8 (A. P.).—The heart of Paris has been closed to French automobile traffic by the German occupation authorities, apparently in an effort to forestall new attacks against German administration buildings, the newspaper Aftontidningen reported today.

The Champs Elysees, Rue Royale, all main boulevards from the Place de la Madeleine to Rue Druot, the Avenue de l'Opera and the Rue de Rivioli are among streets closed by the order, effective May 26, the paper said.

DANGER ENDED TO RICE BOWL

Chungking Announces Complete Occupation Of Itu, Yangtze Port

JUN - 9 1943

Advance On Sungtzs And In Chekiang Province Said To Continue

[By the Associated Press]

Chungking, June 8—The sucessful Chinese counter-offensive which thwarted a Japanese drive toward Chungking has eliminated the danger to the great rice bowl area of Central China, an army spokesman disclosed today as the Chinese high command announced the complete occupation of Itu, Yangtze river port eighteen miles below Ichang.

The high command communique said some remnants of the Japanese force which formerly held Itu had fled southeastward but that all enemy troops remaining in and around the town had been rounded u by the Chinese.

Further Gains Toward Sungtze

Further progress in the Chinese advance toward Sungtze, river port between Shasi and Ichang, was reported in the communique, which announced the recapture of several strategic points to the south.

Chinese attacks on Japanese positions in Chekiang province to the east were said to have resulted in the capture of six strategic points around Kinhwa, eighty miles southwest of Hangchow. At least 300 enemy troops were killed. The Chinese were continuing an attack on Pukiang in western Chekiang.

Japs' Two Objectives Foiled

In describing the results of Chinese victories in the Hupeh-Hunan sector of the upper Yangtze, three government spokesmen and an army spokesman said at a press conference that Japan failed in two main objectives—to sever communications between Hunan and Szechwan provinces and to break into the Chinese rice bowl.

Although the Japanese plundered or destroyed some granaries, one spokesman said the invaders accounted for only a few tons and that damage was limited.

"If we succeed in recapturing Hwajung, the whole position will be restored to normal," the army spokesman said. Hwajung, north of Tungting lake and one hundred miles southeast of the important Japanese base of Ichang, was the pivot for the enemy's left wing in the Yangtze drive.

More Planes, Guns Needed

One spokesman said that in order to recapture more important points than those already taken in the Yangtze battle, the Chinese needed a larger air force and heavy armaments, including tanks and artillery.

Another in the group, Chang Ping Chun, counsellor of the Executive Yuan, said fears abroad over China's economic plight were "a little bit exaggerated," but emphasized that "we have no need to hide our great need of outside help, not only in arms, but for all kinds of supplies."

The army spokesman suggested that the Japanese started their Yangtze drive at the wrong time. "If they had come at harvest time," he said, "they might have destroyed our crops."

Today's communique said the Chinese advanced toward Tungyang, about thirty miles northeast of Ichang, yesterday, inflicting considerable losses on the enemy at Hsichai and other points east of that city.

Other Victories Recorded

The war bulletin said several hundred Japanese were wiped out in the capture of a strategic point in Hupeh province and that Chinese forces attacking enemy positions south of Singyang, in southern Honan, had inflicted heavy casualties.

The Japanese were said to have suffered heavy losses at Yunsi, northeast of Yochow, in northern Hunan, when Chinese troops raided a railway station and destroyed a twelve-coach troop train.

Several Japanese planes attacked Szeshui, in Honan province, Sunday and one of them was downed by Chinese ground batteries.

CHINESE REPORT RICE BOWL SAFE

Chungking, June 8 (A. P.).—China's great rice bowl is no longer in danger, as the result of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's greatest victory over the Japanese in the counter-offensive on the upper Yangtze River, an Army spokesman said today.

Various government spokesmen declared Japan has failed in what they said were her two main objectives: (1) To sever communications between Hunan and Szechwan Provinces and (2) to break the Chinese rice bowl.

The High Command communique said that the Chinese were in complete possession of Itu, eighteen miles below Ichang, on the Yangtze, and had made further progress in a thrust toward Sungtze, a river port between Shasi and Ichang. Several hundred Japanese were said to have been annihilated in the capture of a strategic point in Hupeh province.

The war bulletin also announced Chinese attacks in Chekiang province to the east and the capture of six strategic points in the vicinity of Kinhwa, eighty miles southwest of Hangchow.

Various Government spokesmen declared that Japan has failed in her two main objectives: (1) to sever communications between Hunan and Szechwan Provinces and (2) to break the Chinese rice bowl.

some granaries, but a spokesman said that damage was limited.

Another Government spokesman said that China needed a bigger air force and heavy armaments, including tanks and artillery, to recapture more important points than those already taken on the distant approaches to Chungking.

BURMA JAPS RAIDED

New Delhi, June 8 (A. P.).—American Fighter planes continued their assaults on Japanese bases in Burma yesterday, sharply raiding an enemy encampment at Wehsi, twenty-five miles north of Myitkyina, a Tenth Air Force communique said today.

Two barracks were set ablaze and destroyed and two motor vehicles were destroyed by the formation, which scattered fragmentation bombs and strafed the Japanese with machine-gun fire, the communique said. The raid was made without loss.

A Japanese communique, broadcast by Tokio and heard by the Associated Press, announced "continuing attacks on eastern India" and said the Japanese between May 1-June 5 shot down sixty-three Allied planes and destroyed forty aground. Nine Japanese planes were reported lost and twenty-four damaged.

AMERICAN BOMBERS BLAST JAP SHIPS

JUN - 9 1943

Liberators Attack Enemy Convoy in Soemba Island Harbor.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Wednesday, June 9—(AP) Japanese shipping in both the Northwestern and Northeastern sectors of the island perimeter above Australia came within the bombsights of American bombers yesterday with the heaviest blow falling on vessels in the harbor of Waingapoe, Soemba island.

There a formation of Liberators attacked in mid-morning, finding a 5,000 ton cargo ship and two transports of between 3,000 and 4,000 tons as well as a gunboat. The ships raised a heavy curtain of anti-aircraft fire which was supported by some shelling from land positions but the B-24s managed to damage the largest vessel with two near misses of 500-pound bombs.

Soemba is an island in the lesser Sunda group more than 900 miles west of Darwin.

Attack Jap Convoy

Off Kavieng, New Ireland, above New Britain, a Japanese convoy was sighted and attacked by an Allied bomber on reconnaissance but results were not observed.

Catalinas attacked Babo, 750 miles above Darwin, in Dutch New Guinea, setting off explosions and scoring hits on the airdrome runway.

Allied air attacks on the Sunda islands have been infrequent, entailing long flights without fighter escort.

The Liberators struck at the harbor of Waingpaoe. Two 500 pound bombs fell damagingly near the 5,000 ton ship.

On Portuguese Timor, the area of Dili was attacked by medium bombers. Fires also were started at Koepang. Dili and Koepang are roughly 400 miles northwest of Darwin.

Medium bombers made the attack on Babo and also struck at nearby Kaimana. The explosions set off at Babo were so great that they rocked the attacking planes at an altitude of 6,000 feet.

Air Activity Renewed

The raids reported in today's noon communique marked a renewal of air activity which had been virtually at a standstill because of stormy weather.

The convoy off Havieng was described "small."

On southwestern New Britain, Cape Gloucester's airdrome was bombed by a single two-engined Allied raider.

In the Komiatum jungle area of New Guinea, Allied long range fighters dropped down to treetop height to strafe buildings and trails.

Australian-flown Beaufighters made the attack, pouring cannon and machine gun basis into suspected Japanese positions.

The convoy sighted by the reconnoitering Liberator about 35 miles southwest of Kavieng was on a course which indicated it was bound for the big Japanese shipping and air base on Rabaul, New Britain. It consisted of three merchantmen of about 5,000 tons each, a smaller freighter and one or two gunboats.

Holtz Bay, Attu, May 18 (Delayed)—Lieut. William O. Davis, 27, of Bozeman, Mont., now has a Samurai sword and he got it the hard way.

With some twenty-five men, Davis was attacking the top of a 500-foot high ridge separating the east and west arms of Holtz Bay yesterday. They had been in the line a long time fighting their way up for six days over six miles of mountains, gulches and wet, soggy terrain.

Sent 3 Out On Flanks

Davis had been wounded on the hip and on the side of his head. The hip wound was bound with a bandage which had partially come loose. However, he still hadn't broken his spectacles.

Davis sent three men out on the flanks and stayed on top with the remainder in fox holes hurriedly dug or very recently taken from the Japs. Suddenly a Jap platoon on a level with them shouted and began a counter-attack with bayonets set.

Davis and his men immediately threw hand grenades but the Jap charge was coming so fast that the first wave had to be shot down, man by man. Grenades exploded under the feet of the second wave and Davis' men shot the remainder. By this time the third wave was right on top of the beleaguered Americans.

Instead of meeting cold steel with cold steel in approved story-book fashion, Davis' men gave ground in line with previous instructions he'd issued. Running, they were still able to keep firing their repeating M- rifles.

Could Not Recharge

The Japanese rifle can be cocked only by shoving the bolt forward. It is almost impossible to recock the weapon while a soldier is charging full tilt over rought ground.

Hence, Davis' men were getting in two or three clips from the eight-shot M1 rifles while the Japs could get off only a single volley, then had to depend on bayonets.

For the Japs, it was too bad. They never got close enough to use bayonets and when it was all over there were more than forty dead Japs on the hill—all that attacked—and only a few Americans who became casualties with the first and and only Jap firing.

Singled Out By Officer

Davis himself, "I guess because of the white rag around my head or my glasses," was singled out by Jap officer who, in approved Samurai fashion, came charging in with the long sword swinging back and forth.

Davis shot him a half-dozen times with an officer's carbine and the Jap officer dropped at his feet, the sword still unbloodied.

Turkey's Main Aim Is To Keep Out Of War, Says Inonu

Ankara, June 8 (AP)—The chief preoccupation of the Turkish Government is to keep the nation out of war, President Ismet Inonu told 800 delegates to the sixth People's Party Congress which opened today.

The speech, which was brief and very reserved on all points touching on international affairs, made no mention of the alliance with Britain, American lend-lease to Turkey, or Turkey's relations with the Axis or Russia.

"In the present phase of the war we continue as in the past to pursue the aim of preserving peace in the nation," Inonu said. Later in the speech he declared that "our essential preoccupation today as well as tomorrow is to assure with unbreakable resolution the needs of the Turkish nation as a strong and advanced society."

LONDON, June 8.—The Berlin radio today reported that President Ismet Inonu of Turkey, addressing the opening meeting of the sixth annual party congress at Ankara, had declared that it is his government's policy to keep the nation at peace.

DECREES END OF MARTIAL LAW REGIME

JUN - 9 1943

Curb Lifted After 24 Hours, With Report Calm Prevails

Statement Says Deeds, Not Words, Will Show Foreign Policy

[By the Associated Press]

Buenos Aires, June 8—The new government of Gen. Pedro Ramirez tonight lifted the decree of martial law and issued an official statement that Argentine rapprochement with other American republics would be accomplished "by acts."

Martial law, declared last Friday after the coup d'etat overthrowing President Ramon S. Castillo, was lifted by President Ramirez twenty-four hours after he took office.

Issued By Press Office

An official statement, issued by by the President's press office after a Cabinet meeting, declared foreign relations would be regulated not only by words but by acts "which will draw us even nearer to our American brothers.

"The Argentine attitude toward the war is considered to have been sufficiently clarified in a statement made yesterday by the provisional government," it added.

In yesterday's statement the Government said it would maintain neutrality "for the present," and said it "sustains the principle of absolute autonomy of states to set up their own standards of government."

Reports Calm Prevails

Martial law was ended by the Cabinet "in view of the calm which prevails in the whole country."

The first announcement said the Cabinet, also installed last night, decided to "abrogate martial law," which was imposed as a sterner measure than the state of siege prevailing under Castillo.

No immediate announcement was made concerning the continuance of the state of siege, under which among other things the Argentine press is forbidden to publish statements regarding the country's foreign policy.

Argentine-Axis Break Predicted In Uruguay

Montevideo, June 8 (AP)—Eventual break with the Axis by Argentina's new Government was forecast tonight by usually reliably Montevideo sources who said that the lifting of martial law in Argentina and the Government's promise to "act" on continental collaboration reinforced their opinion.

They said the latest actions of the Cabinet indicate that the revolutionary regime intends to carry out the original program, which liberal elements indorsed.

It was assumed here that repeal of martial law did not lift the state of siege which former President Ramon S. Castillo decreed to protect his neutrality policy from popular criticism. And thus far the new Government has been enforcing all decrees enacted by the previous regime.

Viewed As Happy Augury

Nevertheless, the speedy lifting of martial law after the behavior of the people showed it was unnecessary, was interpreted here as a happy augury for eventual restoration of normal conditions.

The declaration that the regime of President General Pedro Ramirez would carry out the announced foreign policy of implementing continental collaboration by acts as well as words was viewed as meaning the Government would move gradually toward rupture of relations with the Axis.

Observers said the Government might carry out the inter-American agreements made at Rio de Janeiro with progressively effective measures. One of the first of these may be the cancellation of the one-hundred-word daily code messages which the Castillo regime permitted Axis embassies to transmit by radio. These messages were held by observers responsible for espionage in Argentina which resulted in the sinking of ships and loss of lives.

Hold Statement Significant

Diplomats representing American republics in Buenos Aires were rescribed today as attaching particular significance to Ramirez' declaration after taking the oath of office last night that his policy toward nations outside of this hemisphere would be one of "neutrality for the present."

Behind that cautiously worded statemen, informants said, lay the drama of the revolution, which at the moment it was achieving a swift triumph was split three ways on the question of foreign policy.

Gen. Arturo Rawson, who led the revolutionary forces to victory and then resigned, turning over the provisional government to Ramirez yesterday, advocated an immediate rupture with the Axis.

He was opposed by his reactionary collaborators, notably Castillo's former police chief, Gen. Domingo Martinez. Martinez, who resigned the foreign ministry post after a head-on clash with Rawson, had expected the provisional government to maintain a policy of neutrality.

In Middle Position

Between these extremes, Ramirez was reported to have occupied a middle position, approving immediate measures to reestablish Argentine solidarity with other American republics but leaving the question of breaking relations—which involve a test of a government's strength—for later consieration.

In Saturday night's Cabinet meeting, a suggested comprmise, which proposed an immediate rupture with Tokyo on the grounds that Japan was the only nation that had

RAMIREZ POLICY FOR PRESENT IS TO BE NEUTRAL

PledgesContinuedArgentine Co-operation With the Americas in Statement.

SILENT ON CALLING CONGRESS

New Cabinet Has Eight Military Members and One Civilian—Rawson Explains Revolt.

JUN - 9 1943

Buenos Aires, June 8 (A. P.).—Argentina's day-old military Government headed by President Pedro Ramirez was pledged today to an international policy of neutrality "for the present" and "loyal co-operation with nations of the Americas in conformance with existing pacts."

The Ramirez government was sworn in last night, succeeding the short-lived provisional government of Gen. Arturo Rawson, who resigned suddenly yesterday after wresting control from isolationist President Ramon S. Castillo in a lightning revolution on Friday.

In a communique outlining his immediate policies, President Ramirez said:

"The Republic of Argentina affirms its traditional policy of friendship and loyal co-operation with the nations of the Americas in conformance with existing pacts.

"With respect to the rest of the world its policy is for the present one of neutrality. The provisional Government believes, moreover, that it is necessary to express that it sustains the principle of absolute autonomy of states to set up their own standards of Government.

"In that concept it will not tolerate any foreign influence, because the Argentine people maintain, and will maintain in the face of any vicissitudes that might occur, the representative form of Government in conformance with the Constitution."

A Military Cabinet.

He made no reference to Congress, which was to have convened today but was dissolved by decree during Gen. Rawson's brief administration.

The membership of the new Cabinet—eight military men to only one civilian—made immediate predictions of its political leanings impossible, since the military members had limited their previous activities to the armed services.

Gen. Rawson, in a statement delivered to the Associated Press at Montevideo by courier last night, indicated that unfavorable reaction among Liberal partisans of the revolution toward some of his proposed Cabinet members known for Rightist sympathies might have been a factor in his sudden resignation.

In response to questions submitted to him by the Associated Press, Gen. Rawson declared that the international situation was the "fundamental cause" of the military uprising which he led against President Castillo, and said that the revolution was "indispensable to save the situation and rectify the isolationist situation in which we now so unjustly find ourselves."

List of Cabinet Members.

Other Montevideo informants said that they were assured that the Ramirez Cabinet was free from extreme right-wing nationalists.

Members of the new Argentine Cabinet are:

Vice-president, Admiral Saba Sueyro; Minister of the Interior, Col. Alberto Gilbert; Foreign Relations, Rear Admiral Segundo Storni; Finance, Jorge Santa Marina, the only civilian, ex-president of the bank of nation; Justice and Public Instruction, Col. Elbio Anaya; War, Gen. Edelmiro Farrell; Navy, Rear Admiral Benito Sueyro; Agriculture, Gen. Diego Mason; Public Works, Vice Admiral Ismael Galindez.

Gen. Ramirez delivered his first public address as President to cheering thousands who gathered in front of the Government House last night.

"We must continue spreading affection and cordiality to the peoples of America to whom we are united today as we have been in the past," he said.

Crisis Gives Chile New Cabinet

Navy Commander Heads Interior and Army Staff Chief Directs Defense.

JUN - 9 1943

Santiago, Chile, June 8 (A. P.).—Vice-Admiral Julio Allard Pinto, commander of the Chilean Navy, assumed the important post of Minister of the Interior today in a new Cabinet named by President Juan Antonio Rios after a governmental crisis which forced him to postpone a scheduled trip to Washington.

The portfolio of Minister of Defense was assigned to Gen. Oscar Escudero, chief of staff of the army. Four other newcomers took subordinate posts in the Cabinet and five of the resigning ministers were reappointed.

The Cabinet crisis was precipitated yesterday by the sudden resignation of Raul Morales, Minister of the Interior, who was to have substituted for President Rios during the latter's proposed trip to the United States beginning on June 15 or 17.

It was reported that Foreign Minister Joaquin Fernandez would visit the United States soon with a group of Government officials.

Rios Postpones Trip.

Senor Morales, who has been strongly pro-democratic in his sympathies, said he resigned because of "attacks by members of my own (Radical) party." In a customary gesture of solidarity the other ministers immediately tendered their resignations.

Some political observers believed that the attacks on Senor Morales were launched by his enemies in a belief that he might have presidential aspirations.

In announcing the formation of the new Cabinet President Rios took occasion to reaffirm the Government's "loyal adherence to the principles of Americanism and good neighborliness."

Because of the political situation, he said, he felt that it was his duty to remain in the country for the present and, therefore, was postponing his visit to Washington, but he emphasized that the postponement would not alter official policy in regard to relations with the United States.

Momentous Cocktail Party.

It was the second time President Rios had postponed a scheduled trip to Washington. He was scheduled to visit the United States last October, but changed his mind after Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles, in a speech at Boston, accused Argentina and Chile—which had not then broken relations with the Axis Powers—of permitting Axis agents to operate within their borders.

President Rios disclosed the new personnel of the Cabinet at a cocktail party last evening which Chilean Army leaders had arranged originally to bid him farewell on the eve of his departure for Washington. They pledged their support to the new Government.

The five Cabinet members who retained their posts are Joaqui... Fernandez, Foreign Relations; Guillermo Pedregal, Treasury; Mariano Bustos, Labor; Oscar Gajardo, Justice, and Ricardo Bascunan, Public Works.

New Ministers are Enrique Marshall, Education; Horacio Serrano, Agriculture; Alejandro Lagos, Lands, and Dr. Sotero Delrio, Health.

Los Angeles Barred To Gobs As Result Of Zoot-Suit War

Navy Rules Entire City Out Of Bounds—Army And Civil Authorities Also Act To Stem Rioting

JUN - 9 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Los Angeles, June 8—Naval, army and civilian authorities took stern action today to stem a spreading wave of rioting between men of the armed services and roving bands of youths, whose most conspicuous badge is the zoot suit with its ankle-hugging pants cuff and knee-length coat.

The Eleventh Naval District, acting after Donald Jackson, 20, a seaman, had been blackjacked and slashed across the abdomen in a fracas with four or five youths, issued orders barring sailors on liberty from the entire city.

The action was taken after navy the army last night had declared the Main street sector, where most of the fighting has been waged the last four nights, out of bounds for their personnel. Both services said they would place augmented squadrons of military police and naval shore patrolmen on duty.

No one tried to disguise the fact that the situation, which started with a few isolated outbreaks, has grown serious, and that widespread bloodshed might result.

A representative of Police Chief C. B. Horrall promised all efforts to keep the situation under control. Extra officers will be on duty throughout the night. Reserves will be maintained at stations and patrols strengthened.

The navy's action was taken as a precautionary measure and orders were sent to all naval establishments in the district, which includes Arizona, New Mexico, one county in Nevada and all southern California.

Army authorities, although not (Co...ming the navy in restricting all Los Angeles to its personnel, said the army was cooperating with civilian authorities in every respect.

The county Board of Supervisors took official cognizance of the outbreaks, issuing a statement voicing the belief that the strife won't affect the cordial relationships existing between the United States and Latin-American countries.

Most Of Mexican Descent

Most of the youths who have figured in battles with the servicemen are of Mexican descent, and Churchill Murray, Pacific Coast director for the coordinator of inter-American affairs, said he had phoned a report to Washington.

The conflicts started on a wide basis Friday night when an automobile convoy of seamen, numbering about 200, roamed the East Side district, seeking out zoot-suiters and attacking them with fists and rope ends. The seamen declared that they were tired of being "shoved around," by the youngsters, adding that in many cases their girl friends were insulted.

In Self-Defense, Navy Says

In San Diego the navy announcement said the navy men in their clashes with the so-called zoot-suiters were acting in self-defense against the "rowdy elements."

Police say the zoot-suiters, who long have been a minor problem to Los Angeles authorities, travel in bands and ages are from 16 to 25 or thereabouts, with a few older men included. The problem became intensified with the heavy concentration of servicemen, and there have been numerous instances of seamen and soldiers reporting having been slugged and robbed by young marauders.

PUERTO RICO LAW UNDER NEW ATTACK

500 - Acre Limitation on Sugar Plantations Assailed by Producers.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, June 8.—(AP) Puerto Rico's much-debated 500-acre law limiting the corporate ownership of sugar plantations is not feasible, Dudley Smith, assistant director of the Puerto Rican Sugar Producers association, today told the Bell congressional committee investigating the island's political, social and economic affairs.

Mr. Smith, who said his organization represents virtually all the island's sugar producers, asserted that "many attempts" were made, particularly around 1908, to have Congress repeal this feature of the island's organic act, which in effect is the island's constitution.

He told the committee that several governors had recommended repeal but always failed to obtain congressional action.

Mr. Smith added that the Puerto Rico sugar industry, which he said was the mainstay of the island's economic life, was much the same as any other region up to a few years ago following "400 years of trial and error experience." He said that production in 1917, which was more than 500,000 tons, fell off in succeeding years because of cane disease, drought and hurricane, and did not regain normalcy until 1934.

Production is now over one million tons and directly employs half of Puerto Rico's population with another 25 per cent of the island's workers employed indirectly in the industry, Mr. Smith said. He estimated that about one million workers all told were employed in the sugar industry. He said that sugar remained the island's principal source of farm revenue.

2 Planes Are Missing After Mexican Flight

Mexico City, June 8 (AP)—The United States Embassy's military attache reported today that two United States planes were missing after a flight from Vera Cruz, and that the body of one flyer had been found near Ixtepec.

Three planes left Vera Cruz Sunday, only one returning. No reports have been received of the missing craft, the attache said. The unidentified body of one flyer was reported found on Tehuantepec Isthmus, but it was not clear whether the plane had crashed there or the pilot had abandoned his ship and fallen to his death.

cials, they technically would have been true.

The ship which carried Mr. Churchill to the United States to attend conferences at Washington with President Roosevelt also had on board nearly 400 German prisoners of war—some of them high officers—captured by Allied forces in North Africa. The news that Mr. Churchill had traveled in the same ship with German prisoners was withheld by censorship here until today.

Officers on the ship, visiting this port later, said that, so closely was the Prime Minister guarded, they caught only a glimpse of him during the Atlantic crossing. Even when Mr. Churchill frequently strolled around the bridge, the officers could get no more than a fleeting glance of the cigar-puffing statesman.

None of the ship's personnel saw the Prime Minister board the ship, and few saw him land. During the entire voyage the crew said they referred to Churchill as "Mister X" and few believed stories that their distinguished passenger was the British Prime Minister. He remained just another passenger during the voyage, they said.

Eight of the prisoners almost reached the North American Continent ahead of their mates. They managed to squeeze through the ship's portholes and jumped into chilly harbor waters while the boat was still some distance from shore. They were intercepted by a naval vessel and returned to the ship, but not before they had covered some distance from the ship.

Ontario Paper Makers Go Back To Work Today

Fort William, Ont., June 8 (AP)—Paper makers at the plant of the Great Lakes Paper Company, who went on strike Monday, will return to work tomorrow, Earl Beach, president of Local 257, International Brotherhood of Paper Makers' Union (AFL), announced today.

He said the men will return under protest pending negotiations with Earl Rowe, president of the company, for settlement of union grievances.

The men voted to resume work at a meeting attended by Louis Fine, chief conciliation officer for Ontario. He told the workers they could return to their jobs without discrimination.

No announcement has been made of what the grievances involve.

WILL PROTECT ALLIES

'Barbarous' Attack on Any of United Nations Will Bring Swift Reply.

U. S. ARMY PREPARED

Chemical Warfare Chief Says We Are Ready Defensively, Offensively.

JUN - 9 1943

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP) President Roosevelt, saying that there are reports the Axis is preparing to use poison gas, warned today that a resort to such "desperate and barbarous" warfare would be followed by the fullest possible retaliation on munition centers, seaports and other military objectives.

In a statement, Mr. Roosevelt said he wanted to make it clear that the United States would regard use of gas against any of the United Nations the same as if it had been committed against this country. He added:

Promises Swift Retaliation

"We promise to any perpetrators of such crimes full and swift retaliation in kind and I feel obliged now to warn the Axis armies and the Axis peoples, in Europe and in Asia, that the terrible consequences of any use of these inhumane methods on their part will be brought down swiftly and surely upon their own heads."

It was the third time the President has warned the Axis against use of gas. In a statement on June 5, 1942, he served notice that the United States was prepared to engage in gas warfare against Japan if the latter persisted in such tactics against China or any other United Nation. Again later he spoke of United States readiness to reply if the enemy resorted to gas.

Today, the President read the statement on gas to his press conference prior to the usual exchange of questions and answers on news matters. When he had finished it, he slapped it down on his desk and declared he hoped that was strong enough.

Declines to Discuss War

Aside from the reference to gas, Mr. Roosevelt would not discuss any matters concerning the war. He declined to comment on Prime Minister Churchill's statement to Parliament that amphibious operations of a peculiar complexity and hazard are near at hand in the European theater.

When a reporter inquired whether an American officer had been selected to lead the invasion of Europe, the President turned the qustion aside by saying the reporters would find out about it a few months after the appointment.

Warning by Britain

Great Britain has issued warning on poison gas similar to Mr. Roosevelt's. On April 22, the British government said it had reports that "Hitler is making preparations for using poison gas against the Russian front." It added that such a development would find Britain retaliating with the same weapon upon "German munitions centers, seaports and other military objectives."

The Berlin radio replied that Germany would use gas only if her enemies used it first.

Also last April, Brig. Gen. Alden H. Wiatt, acting deputy chief of the Army Chemical Warfare service, predicted in an interview at Cincinnati that Germany will use gas. "She has lots of it," he said, "and my guess is that she'll use it."

"If Germany does use it," Wiatt added, "she will be sorry. We're prepared, both defensively and offensively."

THE PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT

His statement follows:

From time to time since the present war began there have been reports that one or more of the Axis powers were seriously contemplating use of poisonous or noxious gases or other inhumane devices of warfare.

I have been loath to believe that any nation, even our present enemies, could or would be willing to loose upon mankind such terrible and inhumane weapons. However, evidence that the Axis powers are making significant preparations indicative of such an intention is being reported with increasing frequency from a variety of sources.

Use of such weapons has been outlawed by the general opinion of civilized mankind. This country has not used them, and I hope that we never will be compelled to use them. I state categorically that we shall under no circumstances resort to the use of such weapons unless they are first used by our enemies.

As President of the United States and as Commander in Chief of the American Armed Forces, I want to make clear beyond all doubt to any of our enemies contemplating a resort to such desperate and barbarous methods that acts of this nature committed against any one of the United Nations will be regarded as having been committed against the United States itself and will be treated accordingly.

We promise to any perpetrators of such crimes full and swift retaliation in kind, and I feel obliged now to warn the Axis armies and the Axis peoples, in Europe and Asia, that the terrible consequences of any use of these inhumane methods on their part will be brought down swiftly and surely upon their own heads. Any use of gas by any Axis power, therefore, will be immediately followed by the fullest possible retaliation upon munition centers, seaports and other military objectives throughout the whole extent of the territory of such Axis country.

When the President finished reading his statement he observed: That's strong enough.

Third Warning to Axis

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt's statement today contained his third warning to the Axis against the use of gas. In a statement on June 5, 1942, he served notice that the United States was prepared to engage in gas warfare against Japan if the latter persisted in such tactics against China or any other United Nation. Again later he spoke of the United States readiness to reply if the enemy resorted to gas.

Great Britain has issued warnings on poison gas similar to Mr. Roosevelt's. On April 22 the British Government said it had reports that "Hitler is making preparations for using poison gas against the Russian front." It added that such a development would find Britain retaliating with the same weapon upon "German munitions centers, seaports and other military objectives."

Seven U. S. Craft Reported Lost During Foe's Attack On Russell Islands

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 8 — For the second time in three days, Japan's South Pacific air force suffered a severe defeat at the hands of American airmen Monday, the navy reported today.

In a battle giving fresh evidence of qualitative superiority of American planes and pilots, the enemy lost nineteen Zero fighters out of a flight of forty to fifty fighters and bombers apparently attempting to raid United States positions in the Russell group of the Solomon islands. In addition six Zeros were damaged. Seven of our planes were lost but three pilots were saved.

A navy communique announced the latest South Pacific air victory shortly after Secretary Knox disclosed at a press conference that Admiral Ernest J. King, naval chief, had conferred with Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific fleet commander, on plans for the prosecution of the war in the Pacific theater.

Conference Results

It was assumed that King had informed Nimitz of the overall results of the recent conferences here among President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and their respective military and naval advisers.

King met Nimitz last week at about the same time that Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, met Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the American commander in the Mediterranean area, in North Africa.

The Secretary was asked whether the timing of the two conferences would not indicate that the top army and navy men were conveying to their principal area commands the major decisions reached in the Washington meetings. Knox said that "that would be one very good explanation."

No Major Change

He noted, however, that King and Nimitz confer about every two months.

Knox said that he knew of no major change in the Allied strategy relating to the Pacific, particularly as far as assignment of forces goes. The gradual strengthening of the Pacific fleet is still going on, he said.

The navy communique reporting the fight over the Russell Islands also disclosed the latest information from Attu Island where victorious American army troops are slowly cleaning up the few remaining Japanese.

On Monday, the war bulletin said, eleven of the enemy troops killed themselves with grenades after they were surrounded in Chichagof valley. Eight others were killed by American soldiers, and the total known enemy dead through Monday stood at 1,826 for the Attu campaign.

Retaliation Blow

The air fighting in the southeastern Solomons possibly resulted from a Japanese attempt to retaliate for a successful foray by United States Air Forces into the northwestern end of the island chain Saturday. At that time Japanese ships in the vicinity of Bougainville Island were bombed and strafed, a destroyer was sunk and a corvette and cargo vessel were set afire.

When the enemy attempted to interfere with the attack, fifteen Zeros were shot down and three were damaged. Of the heavy force of American planes which participated in that raid only four were listed as missing.

The battle of the Russells was the second heavy aerial engagement in the southeastern Solomons in a two-month period. On April 7 the Japanese sent over ninety-eight bombers and fighters and succeeding in sinking three Allied ships. The raid cost them thirty-nine planes while seven American planes were lost, but five of the American pilots were saved.

OVERSEAS SERVICE FOR WAVES BACKED

House Passes Bill—Mrs. Roosevelt Debunks Tales of Moral Misbehavior.

WASHINGTON, June 8 — (AP) Legislation authorizing the WAVEs to serve overseas with their own consent was passed by the House today while Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt denounced as "Nazi propaganda" tales of moral misbehavior by some members of women's military units.

The bill, which goes to the Senate, permits the Navy to assign women's units to foreign duty as the Army has been doing with the Women's Army Auxiliary corps.

Opposition which held up passage a month ago faded when the measure was modified to stipulate individual consent to overseas service. It grants WAVEs the same death and disability benefits given to men in the service and permits the unit's commanding officer to advance from the rank of lieutenant commander to captain.

Mrs. Roosevelt told her press conference that current stories of misbehavior in women's military units were propaganda to be expected from the Germans who "naturally" did not like to see whole divisions of men released for combat when replaced for other duties by women.

"Do you suppose we'll ever get over believing Nazi propaganda?" she asked. "It's extraordinary the way we fall for it all the time."

WASHINGTON, June 8. — (AP) The two ranking French representatives formally notified Secretary of State Hull today of the formation of the French National Committee of Liberation, with the transfer to it of all the functions previously carried out by the "elements composing it."

Acting under the committee's instructions, Andre Hoppenot, diplomatic representative of General Henri Giraud, and Philippe Baudet, acting chief of General Charles de Gaulle's Fighting French delegation, delivered the document to the secretary.

Secretary Hull said he warmly welcomed the spirit in which the committee had been formed, since the government had continuously hoped for the unification of all French resistants in a common effort against Axis aggression wherever it might be found throughout the world.

He expressed deep appreciation of the spirit of sacrifice which had made the union of two French interests possible, he said. He added the conviction that the same spirit would continue to animate all Frenchmen in meetin the problems still to be faced for the liberation of continental France.

FIRST LADY SCORES CRITICS OF WAACS

JUN - 9 1943

Washington, June 8 (A. P.).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt denounced today as Nazi propaganda any stories of moral misbehavior among members of women's military units and reiterated her belief that women should be permitted to serve overseas.

The First Lady told her press conference that since there now are four divisions of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps that meant that four divisions of men were released for combat duty, and naturally the Germans don't like that.

"Do you suppose we'll ever get over believing Nazi propaganda?" she asked. "It's extraordinary the way we fall for it all the time."

Mrs. Roosevelt had as her press conference guest Miss Josephine Schain, a member of the United States delegation to the recent United Nations Food Conference, who said that what impressed her most about the conference was "the way they all worked together."

GEN. MARSHALL REPORTS ON HIS TRIP TO AFRICA

WASHINGTON, June 8 — (AP) Gen. George C. Marshall reported to President Roosevelt today on his recent visit to the Mediterranean theater of war.

The Army chief of staff went to the White House for a noon conference of some length, but neither he nor the commander-in-chief had anything to say afterward.

The President was asked at his press conference a few hours later whether an American officer had been named to lead the invasion of Europe, but he only advised the questioner that the latter would know about any such appointment a few months after it had been made. Gen. Marshall has been mentioned in speculation over the identity of the invasion commander.

Treaty with African Republic Confirms Defense Plans Made in 1942.

WASHINGTON, June 8 — (AP) A Lend-Lease agreement between United States and the Negro republic of Liberia in west Africa was signed today in New York city, the State department announced.

The agreement "on the principles applying to mutual aid in their common defense" was signed by Henry Serrano Villard, special representative of the United States, and Walter F. Walker, Liberian consul general in New York, in the presence of President Edwin Barclay and President-elect William V. S. Tubman of Liberia.

An exchange of notes which accompanied the agreement confirmed the understanding of the two governments that the agreement carries out general principles concerning defense areas in Liberia on which the governments agreed at Monrovia on March 31, 1942.

PRESIDENT LAUDS FOOD CONFERENCE

JUN - 9 1943

Washington, June 8 (A. P.).—When the war is won, President Roosevelt believes, the United Nations will remain "united for the solution of the many and difficult problems of peace."

That the Allies really are united, Mr. Roosevelt said yesterday, was "demonstrated beyond question" by the "epoch-making success" of the international food conference just ended, which, he said, brought to the world a new hope for attaining freedom from want and fear.

Addressing the delegates of forty-four nations in the White House East Room, the President said:

"You have surveyed with courage and with realism the magnitude of the problems and have reached unanimous agreement that they can, and must—and will—be solved. And we are winning by action and unity."

The conference, the President said, was "a living demonstration" of the methods by which "the conversations of nations of like mind can and will give practical application to the principles of the Atlantic Charter."

Speaking of what he said was the need for better use of natural and human resources to assure improved living standards, Mr. Roosevelt interpolated in his prepared address that he meant the better use of such resources "without exploitation on the part of any nation."

Four Generals Are Promoted

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—The Senate late today confirmed the promotion of Major Gen. Omar N. Bradley to the temporary rank of lieutenant general and the following brigadier generals to that of major generals: Stafford L. Irwin, John K. Cannon and Lowell Rooks. Ford, Robert V. Maraist, Robert I. Stack and Edward P. Curtis.

Basil O'Connor, president of the Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, also was a guest.

King Sees Nimitz on West Coast

Conference Linked to Plans Laid by Marshall and Eisenhower at Meeting in Africa.

JUN - 9 1943

Washington, June 8 (A. P.).—Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations, has conferred on the West Coast with Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the Pacific Fleet, on war plans, it was officially disclosed today.

The talk was linked informally with the conferences recently held in North Africa by Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff, and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, African theater commander.

The suggestion was made with indirect official agreement that Gen. Marshall and Admiral King had carried to their field commanders information on plans recently worked out by British and American officers and by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in their joint conferences here.

Knox Discusses Pacific War.

Secretary of the Navy Knox disclosed at a press conference that Admiral Nimitz had been on the West Coast for conferences with Admiral King. Mr. Knox said that there was no particular significance to the meeting since they have the conferences about every sixty days."

A newspaper reporter suggested that the timing of Admiral King's meeting with Admiral Nimitz and Gen. Marshall's meeting with Gen. Eisenhower indicated that the top officers were carrying reports of the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting to their field commanders.

"Possibly," Mr. Knox said, "that would be one very good explanation."

The Secretary said there had been no change in Allied global strategy which would shift additional forces into the Pacific. The gradual strengthening of the Pacific fleet is still going on, he said.

Gen. Marshall has returned from overseas.

The War Department gave no details in a brief announcement last night, but Gen. Marshall reportedly had accompanied Prime Minister Churchill to North Africa after the recent strategy conferences here.

BILL PROVIDES BONUS FOR ALL IN WAR RANKS

House Measure Lists $100-A-Year Minimum For Men And Women

JUN - 9 1943

$3,000,000,000 Plan Aims To Cover Armed Forces And Merchant Marine

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 8—A proposal to create a fund for paying every man or woman in the armed forces or merchant marine a minimum bonus of $100 after the war for each year of wartime service reached the House bill hopper today. It was introduced by Representative Baldwin (R., N. Y.), a World War I veteran, who estimated the cost to the Government at approximately $3,000,000,000.

The Baldwin measure is the first of an expected flood of bonus bills, following the pattern of post-World War legislation which haunted local and national political campaigns for nearly two decades before actual payment to veterans began on June 15, 1936.

That project survived vetoes by four Presidents—Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt—before it reached the statute books in its final form after the second Roosevelt veto was overridden by Congress in 1936.

Cost $2,000,000,000

Some 3,500,000 World War I veterans were its beneficiaries and the estimated cost in cash and "baby bonds" was approximately $2,000,000,000.

The Baldwin proposal would start accumulation of a fund to cover similar payments to veterans of this war. His plan would require the Treasury to deposit in the fund the sum of $8.33 to the credit of each beneficiary for each month of service after Pearl Harbor.

It calls for contributions on the part of commissioned and non-commissioned officers, however. Five per cent. of their monthly base pay would be deducted, to be added to their original lump-sum credit.

The bill was introduced without indication of its sponsorship other than the author's name. It was filed, too, at a time when Administration leaders have been indicating strong opposition, at this time, to pending proposals to increase pensions for World War veterans.

MORINIGO ARRIVES FOR STATE VISIT

Miami, Fla., June 8 (A. P.)—Higinio Morinigo, Paraguay's soldier-President, had words of praise for the war effort of the United States today upon his arrival for a State visit to this country.

"I am happy to be in North America for the first time," he said in a press conference soon after he alighted from the four-engined Army plane which brought him from South America. I am very grateful for the many courtesies shown to me. From what little I have been able to see I already am beginning to appreciate the great war effort of the United States."

He would make no comment on the Argentine situation.

Army, Navy and State Department officials greeted Paraguay's hero of the Gran Chaco war. His plane, which left San Juan, Puerto Rico, early today after an overnight stop, landed at a section of the field restricted to Army activities. A guard of honor and a band met him there, and marched in the wake of the plane while it was taxied to the public terminal where the official greeting party was waiting.

Before leaving for his Miami Beach hotel, President Morinigo inpected the guard, which then passed in review before him. He was to be given an opportunity to rest this afternoon. An informal dinner was planned for him tonight, and his first formal dinner will be at the White House with President Roosevelt tomorrow night.

The President and his party will depart for Washington early tomorrow aboard a special plane.

Army's Flying Hospitals Bring Wounded to Safety

30,000 Men Shifted from Combat Zone with Loss of Two Lives

JUN - 9 1943

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

CHICAGO, June 8. — The flying hospitals of the Army air forces have carried 30,000 seriously wounded men out of combat zones with only two deaths in transit.

These hospitals of the air, something new in war, are one reason for the low death rates of American wounded.

Later there will be glider operating rooms and special hospital planes, but at present the flying hospitals are the work of trained crews of doctors, nurses and privates who are surgical technicians, who take over any kind of plane, anywhere, and convert it on the spot into a temporary carrier for wounded.

Flight Surgeon Reports

These records were given at the American Medical association House of Delegates today by Brigadier General David N. W. Grant, chief flight surgeon of the air forces, head man of an exclusively air medical setup, whose size is a military secret but which is one of the huge achievements of this war.

General Grant said that Helicopter planes are being built experimentally to pick wounded right out of the woods and fields on the fighting fronts. He said that although the present Helicopter is slow, it is more maneuverable than any plane which can attack it. Literally, a Helicopter can dodge. It can stop, he said, "like Charlie Chaplin putting on the brakes with his feet."

The personnel of the flying hospitals are called air evacuation units. Each numbers five doctors, 25 specially trained nurses and 19 medically expert enlisted men.

Flew Hospital to Nome

In battle they fly to the front, with plasma and all other essential hospital equipment. Details of what they can fly are secret, but can be realized from General Grant's statemen that two planes were enough to fly a 25-bed hospital from the United States to Nome, Alaska.

As wounded begin to flow back, air evacuation units direct the movement, and send a doctor, nurse or medical technician with temporary hospital planes as needed. For three hours they may direct the flying back to one hospital; then switch it to another on word that the first is filled.

This flying unit selects the wounded to fly first. Treatment is often given in the air, particularly blood plasma, for which handling the nurses take special courses.

The glider operating room, General Grant said, is still experimental. It will be able, if the war developments require, to land on any airfield, virtually a complete hospital.

All hospital, medical equipment and supplies have been packaged for air transport, so that they take little space, like dehydrated foods. There were packaging problems. Vitamin tablets cracked open in extreme cold in planes; melted in the tropics. This was corrected by special coatings.

Showing what can be done, General Grant said that some time ago two tons of sulfanilamide was flown to China for civilians.

LAST RITES IN ALASKA FOR KERMIT ROOSEVELT

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, June 8—(AP) Military and civilian friends and admirers paid tribute today to Major Kermit Roosevelt, 53, son of President Theodore Roosevelt.

Services were held by the Army and the Veterans of Foreign Wars in the chapel of the military post. The eulogy was delivered by Chaplain Joseph Applegate. Music was by the air forces chorus.

Burial was in Alaska under wartime provisions. Major Roosevelt died June 4. In announcing his death, the War department did not disclose the cause.

20 From Pope Field Die In Crash Of Army Plane

Fort Bragg, N. C., June 8 (AP). Twenty men were killed in the crash of a Pope Field transport plane near Laurinburg-Maxton air base yesterday, Col. Sam Price, Pope Field executive officer said tonight.

Two transports took off from Pope Field, air base at Fort Bragg, about 3 A. M. on a routine flight to Laurinburg-Maxton. En route they ran into a thunder storm and one plane turned back. Two hours later a searching party located the wreckage of the other plane, with bodies of all twenty passengers and crew, within sight of the Laurinburg-Maxton field.

Clements of A. P. Predicts Long Struggle With Japs

By the Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Tex., June 8.—Judging from the time it took United States forces to wrest Guadalcanal from the Japs, "it would take 500 years to regain every Pacific island"—so that is not a part of the American military picture, Olen Clements, Associated Press war correspondent, said in an interview.

"There will be fighting in the streets of Tokio before the Japanese will give up," he added, predicting the struggle in the Pacific will continue long after the European continent has been subdued.

Here to visit his son, Charles Ross, 8, Mr. Clements said he expects to return to the Pacific war zone.

Morinigo Is in Miami For State Visit to U. S.

Paraguay's Head to See Roosevelt, Tour War Plants

MIAMI, Fla., June 8 (AP).—President Higinio Moringio, of Paraguay, arrived here today by plane for a state visit to the United States. The soldier-president was delayed en route, forcing a streamlining of the military honors prepared for him here.

All the greetings at Miami were preliminary to President Morinigo's reception by President Roosevelt at Washington on Wednesday, his visit to the naval academy at Annapolis, and his tour of war plants in Detroit and Buffalo. He will pass several days in New York City, and will make official visits to Mexico, Peru and Chile before returning to Asuncion, his capital.

President Morinigo is an old friend of the United Nations and one of the most active supporters of the United States. His country was among the first to break relations with the Axis after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, and the executive moved quickly against possible espionage by closing down all totalitarian news agencies and decreeing rigid control of overseas communications.

Aleutian Flyers Play On Enemy Superstition

St. Louis, June 8 (AP)—American flyers in the Aleutians are playing on an obscure Japanese superstition that associates the maple leaf with impending death and disaster.

Arthuh W. Schuett, Jr., 28, naval aviation machinist's mate, said paper maple leaves, skillfully tinted to resemble real leaves, are dropped on Japanese positions in the islands in an effort to destroy enemy morale.

The propaganda leaflets bear a tense warning in Japanese. Schuett translated the message as saying "You guys better get out of here while the getting's good."

He brought one of the leaves home as a souvenir of his service in the Far North, where he suffered a spine injury which brought him a medical discharge.

HOOVER PREDICTS MORE FOOD CUTS

Supply Next Winter to Be Tighter Than Present, He Tells Farm Group

JUN - 9 1943

NEW YORK, June 8 — (AP) Former President Herbert C. Hoover predicted tonight that food supplies for American cities would be tighter next winter and spring than they were the past few months.

Addressing a meeting of the American Farm Bureau federation, Mr. Hoover, who was World War I food administrator, asserted that "we will not starve," but declared that termination of the European war in the next 12 months would find us with "no consequential food supplies with which to meet three or four hundred millions of starving people."

Speaks During Blackout

Mr. Hoover delivered his address at the hotel New Yorker during a trial three-state blackout and was required to read his speech by candlelight. The address was broadcast by the Columbia Broadcasting system.

Outlining a nine-point war food program, the former President called for consolidation of all authority over food production with the Secretary of Agriculture as food administrator.

He declared that a program such as he put forward would be "the only road that leads to the defeat of inflation, to decreased hardship in our homes, to assured support of our Allies and to peace for mankind."

JUN - 9 1943

Favors Central Authority

The Hoover program follows:

Eliminate the present nine-way control over food production and distribution and concentrate all authority under one administrator who "must today be the Secretary of Agriculture."

"Decentralize the work under state, municipal and county administrators. In no other way can farmers' and consumers' needs be adjusted to our varied local conditions."

Would Aid Farmers

"Increase the man power on the farms to a higher level than before the war and plant 40 to 50 million acres more in 1944 than in this year." Hoover suggested that farm boys be drafted immediately after the present harvest, and also farm boys now in industry. After some military training, however, as many farmers as are necessary, Hoover added, "should from time to time be ordered back to the farms with their uniforms. They should receive their pay from the farms, and not from the Army. They should be subject to call in national danger. They could constitute a great national reserve both for production of food and the direct military effort."

Turn out enough new agricultural machinery to replace wornout equipment and take care of the extra acreage to be planted.

Abolish the system of retail and wholesale price ceilings, which "begin at the wrong end. Price fixing in a great food-producing country must begin as near as possible to the farmer and controls proceed thereon by regulation of the trades against profiteering."

"All the farmers to appoint their own war committees on prices and do a little collective bargaining with them in fixing prices. The so-called 'parities' should be abandoned for the war. Prices to the farmers must include floors as well as ceilings. Prices should be fixed that will take into account labor and other costs, and above all that will stimulate production."

Simplified Rationing Asked

"Rations should be set to balance consumption to production. It only adds muddle to put the ration higher than the available supplies. We should simplify the whole rationing business by over 50 per cent or 60 per cent. A good way to check inflation is to let food luxuries go to the highest bidder."

"We should recognize that processing and distributing foods are righteous and necessary callings. Thousands of small firms are being driven out of business. It would help win the war if left-wing reforms in our food economy were suspended for the duration."

End subsidies, which the workers and farmers, who are supposed to benefit, must help pay for as taxpayers, and which tend to promote inflation and strangle production.

GREEN OUTLINES POST-WAR STAND

Says Labor Expects Industry To Disavow Ill Intentions Toward Unions

JUN - 9 1943

(By the Associated Press)

New York, June 8—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared tonight that industry management in the post-war world would be expected by labor to "disavow any intention or desire to control, dominate or destroy" trade unions.

In return, he said in a speech before the Economic Club of New York, the AFL would "oppose any attempt to abridge, restrict or interfere with the functions and rights of free enterprise," but would insist upon "full recognition of the right of workers to organize into free and democratic unions of their own choosing."

Right To American Standards

"And finally," Green said, "we ask that the right of workers to secure for themselves wages and conditions commensurate with American living standards be assured."

Supporting the Wagner-Murray social security bill introduced in the Senate by Senators Robert F. Wagner (D., N. Y.) and James E. Murray (D., Mont.), and in the House by Representative John D. Dingell, (D., Mich.), Green said that passage of the measure, coupled with peacetime production expansion, would "effectively banish the fear of want in America," and make the nation "far better and healthier" after the war.

Speaks For 6,500,000

Speaking on behalf of his organization of 6,500,000 members, Green said he came before the group as "a frank advocate of socia' security for free enterprise in America."

"I do not mean by that a Government dole or subsidy for private business," he said. "I mean free and open recognition of the fact that the freedom of enterprise and the freedom of opportunity are just as vital to the welfare of the American people as any other of our precious freedoms, and must be safeguarded for all time."

Foe Of Communism

Green, reasserting that the AFL was "the implacable foe of Communism in this country," said it would be difficult "at this time" to appraise the significance of dissolution of the Third Internationale by Moscow decree, adding:

"But we must not be misled by it. We must not forget for one minute that if millions of Americans lose their jobs and are forced to go hungry after the war, the Communists in this country will be quick to take advantage of the opportunity, regardless of the professed policies of Moscow."

What's Behind The War News

By GLENN BABB

The battle of the Mediterranean obviously is working up to a climax. The softening up process is far advanced in the case of at least one of the Allies' probable objectives. The terrific pounding to which Pantelleria has been subjected for the last fortnight strongly suggests that the actual assault by landing forces will not be much longer delayed. When it comes a great and difficult operation to clear the Mediterranean of enemy strongholds ond open fully that broad highway to the East will be under way, one of the great Allied undertakings for 1943.

Winston Churchill, making one of his memorable war reviews for the House of Commons yesterday, confirmed the growing worldwide impression that great actions are imminent. His declaration that "amphibious operations of a peculiar complexity and hazard on a large scale are approaching" gave no hint of where the first blows would fall but left little doubt that they would be delivered soon. He indicated that Allied leadership has every intention of riding the flood tide of success, of letting no opportunity pass neglected.

He confirmed the impression that the Tunisian victory came sooner than either the Allied or Axis commands had expected. Some of Hitler's generals, captured in Africa, have disclosed that the Fuehrer had counted on them to give him at least until August for his preparations against the Allied assault on Europe. They failed him by three months, and it is interesting to speculate what changes this may have compelled him to make in his strategy.

This also has brought changes in Allied war plans, Mr. Churchill indicated, offering opportunities not altogether foreseen. That was one reason for last month's Washington war council, for Mr. Churchill said. "Left to itself opportunity may easily lead to emergency."

But perhaps the most significant passages of Mr. Churchill's review were not his hints of spectacular events impending but his references to favorable trends in certain fundamental phases of the war. These include the Allies' success against the submarine, their growing superiority in the air and indications of lowered German morale, both military and civilian.

He noted that "In May for the first time our killings of U-boats substantially outnumbered the U-boat output" and commented that "that may be a fateful milestone." He emphasized the extent to which German hopes have been pinned to the submarine fleets, not only as a military factor but as a means of revenging the soul-searing punishment Germany is taking from the air. The Germans, he recalled, "are a people who when seriously disappointed do not always find resources to confront approaching disaster once their reason tells them it is inevitable."

As for the air war, "The steady wearing down of German and Japanese air forces is proceeding remorselessly," he declared. "The enemy who thought that the air would be their weapon of victory are now finding in it the first cause of their ruin." Word from all the battle-fronts adds to the mass of evidence that the Axis, both in Europe and the Pacific, is taking a merciless beating in the air.

The prime minister pointed to the Axis debacle in Tunisia as an indication that the morale of the German armed forces is not what it was when they were overunning Europe. "The suddenness of the collapse," he commented, "must be regarded as significant and in a sense characteristic of the German psychology, which was shown after Jena (Napoleon's victory in 1806 over the Prussians) and also at the very end of the last war."

But he warned against "undue expectations" based on these indications of enemy weakness. Although the great underlying trends of the conflict are setting strongly in favor of the Allies they must be prepared for costly and bitter battles all around the world. The lull which has persisted since Tunis and Bizerte fell obviously is near its end.

AT THE CLOSE OF HIS 35-MINUTE, 3,500-WORD SPEECH TO COMMONS, THE PRIME MINISTER APOLOGIZED FOR THE BREVITY OF HIS REVIEW, SAYING:

"THE REASON WHY I HAVE NOT TO MAKE A LONGER SPEECH TODAY IS THAT I HAVE ALREADY GIVEN TO THE JOINT SESSIONS OF THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES THE STATEMENT (MAY 19) WHICH I SHOULD HAVE MADE TO THIS HOUSE ON THE VICTORIES IN TUNISIA HAD I BEEN IN THIS COUNTRY. THAT, I THINK IS THE VALID EXPLANATION.

"CERTAINLY WHEN I FOUND MYSELF WALKING INTO THAT AUGUST ASSEMBLY, THE FREE CONGRESS OF THE MOST POWERFUL COMMUNITY IN THE WORLD, AND WHEN I GAVE THEM, EXACTLY AS I WOULD DO IN THIS HOUSE, A BUSINESS-LIKE STOCK-TAKING SURVEY OF THE WAR AND OF OUR JOINT INTERESTS, EVEN TOUCHING UPON CONTROVERSIAL MATTERS, OR MATTERS OF DOMESTIC CONTROVERSY OVER THERE, AND WHEN I THOUGHT OF OUR COMMON HISTORY AND OF THE HOPES THAT LIE BETWEEN US, I FELT THAT THIS WAS AN AGE OF MEMORABLE IMPORTANCE TO MANKIND."

COMMUNIQUES FROM BERLIN AND MOSCOW AGREED TODAY THAT ALL WAS QUIET ON THE EASTERN FRONT WHERE THE LID IS EXPECTED TO BLOW OFF ANY MOMENT.

THE BERLIN ACCOUNT OF THE KUBAN FIGHTING SAID THE RUSSIANS HAD ATTACKED UNDER ORDERS OF STALIN "TO EJECT THE GERMANS UNDER ALL CIRCUMSTANCES." SMALL LANDING BOATS CARRYING 120 MEN EACH WOULD PROCEED UNDER THE BARRAGE COVER TOWARD THE COAST, CARRYING SOME 50,000 MEN IN THE FIRST ATTACK WAVE.

OTHER BOATS CARRYING LIGHT WEAPONS AND SMALL TANKS WOULD BE IN THE FIRST WAVE.

JUN -9 1943

AS SOON AS THE ATTACK WERE DISCOVERED, THE GERMANS WOULD CONCENTRATE U-BOAT PACKS, WHICH WERE PRESUMED TO BE STATIONED AROUND POSSIBLE INVASION AREAS WAITING FOR AN ALLIED BLOW, AND AERIAL POWER IN AN EFFORT TO WRECK THE LANDING PLANS.

AN ADVANCED AMERICAN BOMBER BASE IN NORTH AFRICA, JUNE 7-(DELAYED)-(AP)-AMERICAN AIRMEN TAKING PART IN THE BOMBING OF PANTELLERIA, IL DUCE'S OUTPOST IN THE SICILIAN NARROWS, SAID TODAY THAT THEY DOUBTED WHETHER EVEN DAUNTLESS MALTA IN THE MANY MONTHS OF ITS ORDEAL EVER UNDERWENT SUCH A FEARFUL PASTING IN SO SHORT A WHILE.

JUN -9 1943

THEY POINTED OUT THAT PANTELLERIA, ALTHOUGH HEAVILY FORTIFIED, LACKS THE SUBTERRANEAN DEFENSES OF THE BRITISH SEA STRONGHOLD, SO THAT THE EFFECTS OF THE ROUND-THE-CLOCK BOMBING BY ALLIED PLANES MUST BE EVEN MORE DEVASTATING THAN THAT SUFFERED BY MALTA.

THE TOUGH LITTLE ISLAND, WHICH IN THE PAST HAS BEEN USED BY THE AXIS AS A BASE FOR PLANES TO HARASS ALLIED SHIPPING HAS ALSO BEEN HEAVILY HAMMERED SIX TIMES FROM THE SEA BY UNITS OF THE BRITISH FLEET.

"WE CERTAINLY ARE DROPPING PLENTY OF METAL ON THAT ISLAND," SAID ONE AMERICAN FLIER WHEN HE CAME BACK FROM A MISSION OVER PANTELLERIA TODAY.

FOLLOWING THE BRITISH WELLINGTONS, WHO HAVE BEEN MAKING THE NIGHTS SLEEPLESS FOR THE AXIS MILITARY PERSONNEL WHOSE MELANCHOLY DUTY IT IS TO GUARD THE TEN-MILE LONG ISLAND SOME 30 MILES OFF THE TUNISIAN COAST, AMERICAN PLANES IN GEN. DOOLITTLE'S STRATEGIC AIR FORCE POUNDED PANTELLERIA THROUGH THE DAYLIGHT HOURS.

JUN -9 1943

FLYING FORTRESSES, B-26 MARAUDERS, B-25 MITCHELLS AND QUICK-DARTING P-40S AND P-38 LIGHTNINGS SWEPT IN FROM THE SEA TO SUBJECT THE ISLAND TARGETS TO THE SIXTEENTH SUCCESSIVE DAY OF BOMBING AND STRAFING.

"THEIR FLAK IS NOT ACCURATE," SAID LIEUT.COL.TROY KEITH OF 1789 TOPEKA AVE., SAN JOSE, CALIF., A P-38 GROUP COMMANDER WHO PERSONALLY LED HIS TWIN-TAILED FIGHTERS IN AN AFTERNOON SMASH AT THE ISLAND AND CAME HOME WITHOUT MEETING A SINGLE ENEMY FIGHTER.

"EVERYBODY HEAVES A SIGH OF RELIEF NOW WHEN I TELL THEM THE TARGET IS PANTELLERIA," SAID LIEUT.COL.GORDON H.AUSTIN OF SCRANTON, PA. "THE BOYS WOULD JUST AS SOON GO THERE AS TO TAKE A TRIP AROUND THEIR OWN AIRDROME. WHOEVER OR WHATEVER IS LEFT ON THAT ISLAND CAN'T BE VERY HAPPY. IT DOESN'T TAKE MANY OF THOSE BOMBS THAT WE DROP TO GIVE YOU THE SHANKES."

JUN -9 1943

"IT IS SMALL AND HAS A MOUNTAIN STICKING OUT OF IT, AND ON A CLEAR DAY YOU CAN SEE IT FROM THE TUNISIAN COAST," SAID LIEUT.WILLIAM C. BROWN OF FORT MADISON, IA., WHO PILOTED HIS B-26 MEDIUM BOMBER OVER THE ISLAND YESTERDAY.

"YOU CAN SEE THE SCARRED PLACES, EVEN FROM THE AIR NOW WHEN WE GO OVER AND ORDINARILY WE DON'T HAVE TIME FOR SIGHT-SEEING," SAID ANOTHER B-26 PILOT, LIEUT. HERBERT MEYERS OF 503 CLINTON ST., WAYCROSS, GA. "ONE BIG NAVAL WAREHOUSE IS BLOWN UP SOMETHING AWFUL. I KNOW BECAUSE OUR PLANE LAID THE EGG THAT DID IT."

RESPECTFUL OF PANTELLERIA'S DEFENSES IS B-26 BOMBARDIER LIEUT.TED A.WEIL, OF 301 CANAVAN AVE., SAN ANTONIO, TEX., WHO FOUGHT OFF THREE ATTACKING ME-109S, DAMAGING ONE AFTER HIS SHIP WEATHERED A FLAK STORM THAT PEPPERED IT WITH 100 OR MORE HOLES.

"BUT I SAW THREE BOMBS FROM OUR FORMATION LAND ON THE TARGET," SAID THE DIMINUTIVE BOMBER.

(ADVANCE)..WITH THE FIFTH U.S. ARMY IN NORTH AFRICA--(AP)--WITH EVERY RESISTANCE WIPED OUT IN TUNISIA, NORTH AFRICA HAS BECOME A VAST TRAINING GROUND FOR AMERICAN TROOPS PREPARING FOR THE NEXT MOVE AGAINST THE AXIS.

OBVIOUSLY THE NEXT STEP MUST BE AN INVASION OF ENEMY-HELD TERRITORY. WHERE OR WHEN THE DRIVE IS TO BE MADE IS A SECRET OF THE ALLIED STRATEGISTS BUT THE DAY IS COMING WHEN SUCH A MOVE WILL BE LAUNCHED FROM ONE OF THE SPRINGBOARDS HELD BY THE ALLIED ARMIES ALONG THE SOUTHERN MEDITERRANEAN COAST LINE.

THE JOB OF THE FIFTH ARMY IS TO BE READY WHEN THE TIME ARRIVES.

4-4803 30.24-4803

THE SPECIFIC KIND OF TRAINING THE MEN ARE RECEIVING CANNOT BE DISCLOSED IN FULL AT THIS TIME BUT THEIR INSTRUCTORS ARE REALISTIC AND TOUGH.

TROOPS WHICH HELPED TO CRUSH THE AXIS ARMIES IN TUNISIA ARE NOW STREAMING BACK FROM THE BATTLEFRONT TO NEW ENCAMPMENTS FOR REGROUPING AND FURTHER TRAINING. THEY ARE BRINGING WITH THEM THE HARD WAR EXPERIENCE OF ACTUAL COMBAT WHICH THEY WILL PASS ON TO OTHER DIVISIONS.

JUN -9 1943

THERE ARE MANY LESSONS WHICH THE AMERICAN SOLDIERS HAVE TO LEARN BEFORE THEY STRIKE AT THE CONTINENTAL DEFENSES. TWO OF THE MOST IMPORTANT OF THESE ARE DISCIPLINE AND PHYSICAL FITNESS. THIS WAS PROVED IN THE TUNISIAN CAMPAIGN.

THE FUNDAMENTAL TRAINING THE YANKS RECEIVED AT HOME PROVED TO BE SOUND. BUT IMPROVEMENTS ARE BEING MADE BEFORE THE MEN GO INTO COMBAT AGAIN WITH AN ENEMY TOUGHENED AND EXPERIENCED BY ALMOST FOUR YEARS OF FIGHTING.

THERE IS ONLY ONE WAY TO MEET SUCH AN ENEMY ON EQUAL TERMS AND THAT IS TO BE HARDER PHYSICALLY AND MORE DISCIPLINED THAN THE AMERICAN TROOPS WERE WHEN THEY REACHED THE SHORES OF NORTH AFRICA.

A HIGH AMERICAN OFFICER EXPLAINED IT BRIEFLY THIS WAY:

"WE HAVE BEEN UNDISCIPLINED BECAUSE WE HAVE NOT BEEN A MILITARY PEOPLE. WE DID NOT LIKE ANYONE TO TELL US TO DO THINGS WE DID NOT LIKE TO DO. THIS WAS EASILY UNDERSTANDABLE. PARENTS LOVE THEIR CHILDREN AND WANT THEM TO BE HAPPY. SO WE GIVE THEM ALL THE COMFORTS WE CAN AFFORD WITHOUT ENFORCING DISCIPLINE. NOW WE MUST TEACH DISCIPLINE TO OUR SOLDIERS. FOR THE UNDISCIPLINED SOLDIER IS LIKELY

JUN -9 1943

TO BE KILLED AND HE ENDANGERS THE LIVES OF OTHERS.

"WE MUST MAKE THEM TOUGH SO THEY CAN STAND THE HARDSHIPS OF COMBAT. AND THAT IS WHAT WE ARE DOING."

JUN -9 1943

THE AMERICAN SOLDIER IS TOUGH, BUT NOT TOUGH ENOUGH. HE'S LEARNING THE VALUE OF DISCIPLINE, TOO. IT'S A FETISH WITH THIS ARMY -- A FETISH THAT WILL SAVE MANY LIVES. THE CAMPAIGN JUST FINISHED WAS A GOOD TRAINING GROUND FOR AMERICAN COMBAT TROOPS. THEY MADE MISTAKES, COSTLY IN LIVES, BUT THEY LEARNED A GREAT MANY VALUABLE LESSONS WHICH WILL MEAN MUCH IN THE FUTURE FIGHTING.

JUN -9 1943

A VIVID DESCRIPTION OF FORTRESS DEFENSE AGAINST ENEMY FIGHTERS WAS GIVEN BY STAFF SERGEANT EMMETT R.WORTHEY OF ELDON, MO., WHO WAS CREDITED WITH DESTRUCTION OF A MESSERSCHMITT.

"WE WERE ON THE WAY BACK FROM THE ISLAND WHEN WE WERE ATTACKED BY THE MESSERSCHMITTS," HE SAID. "THE WAIST GUNNER AND I WERE BOTH BLASTING AWAY AT THE SAME AIRCRAFT WHEN HIS GUN JAMMED. I SUPPOSE IF IT HADN'T JAMMED WE WOULD HAVE HAD A HECK OF A TIME DETERMINING WHO GOT THE HUN. AS IT WAS, I GAVE HIM A LAST GOOD BURST AT CLOSE RANGE AND HE WENT DOWN IN FLAMES AND SMOKE."

BESIDES WORTHEY, OTHER FORTRESS SERGEANT GUNNERS CREDITED WITH OFFICIAL VICTORIES WERE DALE E.OWNES OF FRANCESVILLE, IND., A FOCKE-WULF 190; EDWARD J.BOBNAR, OF CLAIRTON, PA., A ME-109; EDWARD J. DELANO OF PORTLAND, ORE., ME-109; BILLY BRIDGES OF SHERMAN, TEX., ME-109; AND CHARLES W.WARD OF ALBUQUERQUE, N.MEX., ME-109.

"THE AIRCRAFT I SPOTTED DIVED AT OUR FORMATION THEN PASSED DIRECTLY UNDERNEATH," SAID DELANO. "WHEN HE CAME WITHIN 400 YARDS I LET HIM HAVE IT. THE GERMAN JETTISONED HIS CANOPY AND THE AIRCRAFT WENT INTO A DIVE, CRASHED IN THE WATER AND EXPLODED. THE GUY DIDN'T HAVE A CHANCE TO BAIL OUT."

JUN - 9 1943

THE SUCCESSFUL CHINESE COUNTER-ATTACK AGAINST THE JAPANESE IN THE ICHANG ZONE ALONG THE SWIFT WATERS OF THE GREAT YANGTZE RIVER IS A HEARTENING EXHIBITION, FOR THE THREAT TO GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK'S BADLY STRAINED DEFENSIVE STRUCTURE HAS BEEN VERY GRAVE.

HOWEVER, WHILE THAT SHOWS A BIT OF SILVER IN CHINA'S DARK SKY, IT SHOULDN'T CREATE THE IMPRESSION THAT DANGER NO LONGER HAUNTS CHIANG'S FRONTIERS. THE MENACE IS STILL THERE, AND WE SHALL HAVE TO AWAIT THE OUTCOME OF THE CONTINUING CHINESE OPERATIONS BEFORE WE CAN SAY WHAT MEASURE OF SUCCESS HE HAS ACHIEVED.

ONE OF THE MOST IMPRESSIVE FEATURES OF THIS SHOW OF CHINESE STRENGTH IS THAT AIR POWER PLAYED A MAJOR PART. AMERICAN BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS FROM OUR GENERAL CHENNAULT'S FORCES, AND CHINESE FIGHTERS, APPEAR TO HAVE TURNED THE TIDE OF BATTLE AND INFLICTED SEVERE PUNISHMENT ON THE ROUTED JAPANESE.

JUN - 9 1943

NOW THAT AFFORDS REAL ENCOURAGEMENT. ABOUT A FORTNIGHT AGO WHEN THE JAP OFFENSIVE WAS DEVELOPING IN INTENSITY THIS COLUMN POINTED OUT THE DANGER TO CHINA, ESPECIALLY IN VIEW OF THE FACT THAT ABOUT THE ONLY AID WHICH THE ALLIES COULD GIVE WAS BY AIR, BECAUSE OF THE CLOSURE OF THE BURMA ROAD. I SUGGESTED THEN THAT IF CHIANG GOT TOO HARD PRESSED THE ALLIES WOULD RUSH WARPLANES FROM INDIA.

AIR POWER, WHICH IS DOING SO MUCH FOR THE UNITED NATIONS IN OTHER PARTS OF THE WORLD, SEEMS LIKELY TO PROVIDE ONE OF THE MAIN BARRIERS AGAINST THE JAPS IN CHINA, PENDING THE TIME WHEN THE ALLIES CAN INVADE BURMA AND OPEN UP THIS BACK-DOOR. IN THIS CONNECTION IT'S INTERESTING TO NOTE BRITISH PREMIER CHURCHILL'S REMARKS ABOUT AIR STRENGTH IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS TODAY.

HE DECLARED THAT "NOTHING WILL TURN US FROM OUR ENDEAVOR AND INTENTION TO ACCOMPLISH THE COMPLETE DESTRUCTION OF OUR FOES BY BOMBING FROM THE AIR IN ADDITION TO ALL OTHER MEANS." THEN HE ADDED:

"THE STEADY WEARING DOWN OF THE GERMAN AND JAPANESE AIR FORCES IS PROCEEDING REMORSELESSLY. THE ENEMY, WHO THOUGHT THAT AIR WOULD BE THEIR WEAPON OF VICTORY, ARE NOW FINDING IN IT THE FIRST CAUSE OF THEIR RUIN."

JUN - 9 1943

THE NIPPONESE APPARENTLY HAD LITTLE AERIAL DEFENSE AGAINST THE AMERICAN AND CHINESE WARPLANES. THE COMPARATIVELY SMALL ALLIED AIRFORCE IN ITS BOMBING AND MACHINE-GUNNING OF ENEMY TROOPS AND COMMUNICATIONS, TOOK THE PLACE OF A LARGE LAND FORCE WITH ARTILLERY. SUCH AN EXHIBITION SHOWS THAT AIRPOWER CAN BE THROWN TO CHIANG'S SUPPORT, DESPITE THE DIFFICULTIES OF FLYING BOTH BOMBS AND GASOLINE CLEAR FROM INDIA INTO CHINA.

THE GENERALISSIMO'S TASK IS TO KEEP HIS FIGHTING-MACHINE FROM BEING KNOCKED OUT UNTIL THE ALLIES COME TO THE RESCUE. IT WILL BE AUTUMN BEFORE THE UNITED NATIONS CAN LAUNCH THEIR GREAT INVASION OF BURMA ACROSS THE BAY OF BENGAL FROM INDIA.

JUN - 9 1943

CHIANG'S IMMEDIATE PROBLEM, OF COURSE, IS TO SAVE HIS CAPITAL OF CHUNGKING FROM CAPTURE AND PRESERVE THE NORTHERN HUNAN AGRICULTURAL AREA UPON WHICH UNOCCUPIED CHINA DEPENDS SO HEAVILY FOR FOOD. ## Cruisers Shell Coast In Wake Of Heavy Bombing By Fortress When Defenders Fail To Answer Surrender Demand

[By the Associated Press] MORIN

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, June 9—The Allies demanded Pantelleria's unconditional surrender yesterday, and when no reply was received American Flying Fortresses and British warships rocked the Italian sea outpost with another pre-invasion bombardment.

"The demand for surrender was made to save the garrison and inhabitants unnecessary suffering," said a special Allied bulletin which made it clear that Pantelleria "will continue to be subjected to bombing, bombardment and blockade" until it collapses.

[In London Reuters reported that the Rome radio in a broadcast last night said "overwhelming air and naval forces are besieging the fortress of Pantelleria."]

Allied planes dropped the note demanding "unconditional surrender" over the badly battered island which is a steppingstone to Sicily and the Italian mainland.

American Planes Rush In

When this was ignored, the American air forces raced in to hand the thirty-two-square-mile island another jolt of explosives that left the Italian defenses sheathed in smoke.

After the Flying Fortress attack, a big force of British cruisers and destroyers raced in close to shore and began pumping hundreds of shells into the isolated volcanic isle.

It was the sixth bombardment there by British warships in ten days.

"The results were satisfactory," said an Allied communique. "There was a certain amount of retaliatory fire, but our ships suffered neither casualties nor damage."

Spaatz Signs Demand

The surrender demand was signed by Lieut. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, American commander of the Allied Northwest African Air Force, and expired at 6 P. M. last night, the Italians said in broadcasts from Rome.

Rome said the ultimatum had been ignored, but did not attempt to minimize Pantelleria's plight. The Allied air assault had reached a "steady rhythm of extreme violence," with the Fascist garrison undergoing "at least twelve daily attacks, in addition to the numerout sea bombardments," the Italians said.

Altogether the island has been subjected to 140 air attacks in the past month, "and naturally much damage has occurred," the Italian broadcasts said.

But the Italian garrison is ready to exact "a very dear price" in any Allied landing attempt, Rome said, and then again recalled the "victorious repulse" of the Allies Sunday night at Lampedusa Island, eighty miles south of Pantelleria.

Two Men British Loss

The Lampedusa venture meanwhile was put into its proper perspective by a British communique issued in Malta. It was disclosed that light naval forces had carried out a "coastal reconnaissance" of that small outpost, suffering no damage but losing two members of a landing party.

[This was the action which Axis reports on Tuesday had characterized as a repulsed attack by five companies of British Commandos.]

A Rome broadcast tonight said Italian planes had scored a hit on one British cruiser yesterday before it reached Pantelleria's coast. Although the ship showed a "heavy list," Rome said, "she started moving again while destroyers made a screen around her."

Lightning fighters collaborated in the Fortress attack on Pantelleria.

Covered By Dust Clouds

A dispatch from an advanced United States air base in North Africa reported that returning pilots said:

"The whole end of the island was covered with heavy brown dust clouds raised by the Fortress bombs. You actually could see the earth shake when those bombs hit.

"While the navy ships circled, firing continually, our planes were circling overhead to protect them from any surprise enemy attack.

"When the dust from the Fortress bombs began to settle, the warships began pulling back from shore, keeping their big guns hot as they moved away. . . . I'd hate to be anyone on that island today."

Fires Set At Messina

Pantelleria was but one of a number of long-punished Italian targets to come again under powerful Allied fire.

Allied headquarters here told of new attacks on enemy bases in southern Sardinia, while a Cairo communique announced that the Middle East Air Force had set off great fires at the Messina terminus of the realway leading to the Italian mainland.

Moreover, Middle East pilots swept over the Aegean sea and off the west coast of enemy-occupied Greece, setting aflame two enemy vessels and leaving another listing. A tug was set afire at the entrance to the Gulf of Corinth, and enemy communications were attacked on the Greek mainland near Kyparissia.

Hit Rail Lines In Italy

Malta-based British planes for their part struck at railway communications in both Sicily and southeastern Italy.

In all these operations, delivered from three Allied bases, two Allied planes were lost. One enemy craft was known to have been shot down.

Reconnaissance photographs showed that the Fortress raid of Saturday on Italy's La Spezia naval base damaged the incompleted Italian light cruiser Claudio Tiberio. Another ship was hit and the naval base was heavily damaged.

until it collapsed.

Landing May Have Been Made

A Press association military writer said "there is a possibility that a landing already has been made" on Pantelleria, and Reuters said "there seems no reason to doubt that the offensive already has begun in the Mediterranean" with Pantelleria and Lampedusa the initial objectives.

The British Admiralty earlier punctured Axis claims to have repulsed a heavy blow against Lampedusa, disclosing that operations there had been only reconnaissance in which only two men were lost.

On the eve of the anniversary of Italy's entrance into the war just three years ago tomorrow, Fascist rulers sought to reassure their peoples, and one Rome broadcast declared that the people were standing firm, possessed of "hard-set resistance and will which can only be measured with the ancient Romans' desperate resistance force when the cry sounded 'Hannibal is before the town gates!'"

In another psychological shot-in-the-arm, a communique broadcast by Rome radio and recorded by the Associated Press declared that the Italian navy had sunk 350 Allied warships and merchantmen in the ## Speculation Persists in Britain that Allied Forces May Have Landed.

HAWAIIAN

LONDON, June 9—(AP) The Allied ultimatum for unconditional surrender of Pantelleria stirred widespread speculation today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's forces may have begun invasion of the Italian outpost islands in the first landing against the European fortress.

Reports of such operations persisted although there was no confirmation in official sources in London.

Both Reuters and the British Press association commentators said an invasion could logically be expected in a few hours if such an ultimatum were rejected, and Reuters tonight said a Rome radio broadcast declared that "overwhelming air and naval forces are besieging the fortress of Pantelleria."

Allied headquarters in North Africa asserted the island would "continue to be subjected to bombing, bombardment and blockade" war, and damaged 79.

French Underground Primed

As invasion speculation heightened, Fighting French headquarters declared that "throughout France the underground is set for action," and asserted that patriots in Corsica were waiting in the mountains, ready to descend upon Italian troops, reported 60,000 strong, when an Allied landing comes.

Coupled with this was the estimate by Lord Selborne, Minister of Economic Warfare, that German industrial production had declined 15 to 20 per cent from last year and "we attribute at least half of this decline to air raids."

Berlin declared that the speeches of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill were nothing but blasts in a war of nerves, and that the Allies hoped by threatening invasion to make Germany withdraw troops from the eastern front. But, the broadcast said, "nothing that the enemy could say would have the slightest effect on military plans of the Axis.

Italy Lists Navy Losses

In a review of three years of war, the Italians — who yesterday had reported casualties to date of 633,251—including 58,000 killed and 131,000 wounded—gave the first official announcement of their naval losses. Between June 10, 1940, and April 30, 1941, Rome said, 2,710 officers and men were killed, 12,195 missing, 10,352 taken prisoner and 4,633 wounded.

Detailing claims of naval successes, the Italian broadcast said they had sunk two Allied battleships, 17 cruisers, 35 destroyers and torpedo boats, 89 submarines, 21 auxiliary ships, and damaged three battleships, two aircraft carriers, 24 cruisers, 15 destroyers and torpedo boats among other warships. It added that 159 merchantmen totalling 1,110,603 tons had been sunk, and 18 damaged.

In a Navy day message, Admiral Arturo Riccardi, Italian Undersecretary of the Navy, declared Italian seamen had fought heroically "against an enemy that has done all—without succeeding—to check your boldness."

Still today the Italians were claiming heavy losses inflicted upon the British at Lampedusa, saying many landing craft had been sunk. But a Malta communique today said naval forces had suffered no damage or casualties in the reconnaissance raid, with only two of the landing party lost.

Minor Rehearsal

In absence of additional details, London observers said the operation apparently was a minor rehearsal for the big-scale amphibious operations that Mr. Churchill said were approaching.

A Rome commentator boasted that "our coasts are well guarded, excoriated the Allies anew for bombings, and promised the Italian people that "very soon we shall answer terror with terror."

Axis troubles persisted, meanwhile, in the Balkans with heavy fighting continuing in the Bosnia and Montenegro areas, the guerrillas reported to have pushed the enemy back with numerous casualties.

Fighting French quarters said more than 1,000 Frenchmen were arrested in Lyon recently and taken to Germany in an attempt to break up the leadership of the underground.

Moscow Reports Result Of Attacks On Six Enemy Fields

24 More Shot Down In Repulsing Threat In Volkhov Area

[By the Associated Press]

London, Thursday, June 10—Russian airmen destroyed between 150 and 160 German aircraft Tuesday night in raids on six enemy airports, losing twenty-one of their own planes, Moscow announced early today.

A broadcast recorded by the Soviet monitor said twenty-four more German planes were shot down at a cost of two Russian planes the same night in repulsing an enemy attack on the Volkhov front southeast of Leningrad.

Viewed As Forerunners

These bursts of long-range air activity on both sides were accepted generally by observers as forerunners of great summer land battles, but the regular midnight Russian communique again said there were no important ground developments.

The Russians again ignored German assertions that heavy fighting was going on in the Kuban district of the Caucasus, where Berlin said the Russians lost 100 tanks, 350 aircraft, and many troops in unsuccessful attacks during the past two weeks.

A German bulletin recorded by the Associated Press said the Russians lost forty-seven landing boats Tuesday in an attempt to put troops ashore behind the German Caucasian lines. The action occurred in the Sea of Azov on the north side of the Taman peninsula, it said.

Reports 5 Ships Sunk

Moscow said Soviet ships sank an enemy transport in the Barents Sea, and a transport and three patrol ships in the Baltic, but did not mention any engagements in the Sea of Azov or Black Sea.

A noon Russian communique yesterday said two German infantry companies were wiped out in an attack on Red army positions near Sevsk, west of Kursk, and the midnight bulletin said 200 Germans fell on the Smolensk front west of Moscow, and two companies also were destroyed on the Leningrad front.

U. S. Bombers Inflict Heavy Damage At Hongay, In Indo-China

JUN 10 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Chungking, June 9 — The Japanese defense line southeast of Hwajung, key to the Chinese rice-producing region, has crumpled under the impact of a sudden attack by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces, Chinese dispatches reported today.

The town lies to the north of Lake Tungting, in northern Hunan province. The Chinese report said the Japanese suffered more than 200 casualties in a sharp battle and that an additional 200 Japanese troops were drowned while trying to swim to safety across a river near the town. Quantities of equipment also were captured.

U. S. Flyers Raid Hongay

While Chinese troops were striking at Japanese forces along the upper Yangtze front, American bombers attacked Hongay, thirty miles northeast of Haipong, in French Indo-China.

A communique from the headquarters of Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell said the raiders inflicted heavy damage upon coaling docks, warehouses, railroad yards and power transmission lines.

The twin-engined Mitchells and Warhawks encountered no enemy opposition and all returned to their bases. The flyers said they could see dense clouds of smoke rising to 5,000 feet and visible for 30 miles, as they returned to their base.

Other Chinese Gains Reported

The Chinese reported other gains in their fight to drive the Japanese out of the upper Yangtze valley. Three important towns, including Shihlipu, fifty miles east of Ichang on the Hankow road, were retaken and Japanese troops fleeing Itu, eighteen miles below Ichang, suffered heavy casualties.

Annihilation of enemy forces south of Sungtze, a river port between Shasi and Ichang, also was expected shortly, the Chinese high command announced.

A Japanese attempt to push south in the area west of Taihong in Shansi province was reported halted and an offensive was launched upon the Japanese-held city of Yingchen, seventy-five miles northwest of Hankow, the Chinese reported.

Latin-Americans Recognize Argentine, Algiers Regimes

Brazil Takes First Action On Raminez Government. Uruguay To Deal With French

[By the Associated Press]

JUN 10 1943

Montevideo, June 9—The diplomatic ice broke in Latin America today as the new governments in Argentina and Algiers began winning recognition.

Brazil announced its resumption of relations with Argentina under the new President Pedro Ramirez. From Buenos Aires came word that Bolivia, Paraguay and Chile followed suit in that order. Uruguay was expected to take similar action shortly.

Uruguay, first in the Americas, resumed relations with the French through the Committee of National Liberation set up in Algiers. From Bogota came dispatches that the President's office had announced Colombia was preparing to do the same.

Brazil Is First

Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha of Brazil was the first to recognize the two-day-old Government of Argentina, holding that "it is legal according to the recognition of the Supreme Court of that country."

Uruguay was expected to follow suit immediately and diplomats reported from Buenos Aires that Bolivia and Paraguay had already joined Brazil, while Chile was expected to do so momentarily.

Some observers had expected the American nations to act in concert on recogintion both of the Algiers and Argentina governments, but indications were that most, if not all nations, would quickly join Brazil and Uruguay.

Friendship Noted

Uruguayan Foreign Minister Jose Serrato told the Associated Press that regular relations with such a friendly neighbor as Argentina could not be interrupted long.

Other sources in the Foreign Office declared Serrato was confident that the new Argentine regime will ultimately show anti-Axis tendencies or, at least, its policies will be widely different from Former President Ramon S. Castillo's neutrality stand.

Aranha said that Argentina and Brazil also have long been on close friendly terms and Argentina must decide its international policy through its own interests.

Vichy Relations Severed

Meanwhile President Juan Jose Amezaga of Uruguay and the Foreign Minister signed a decree which said that friendly relations with France, suspended last month, "are resumed through the central government of France" in Algiers. The decree said this step was taken pending esttablishment of a provisional government in continental France.

Relations with the Vichy Government were suspended on the grounds that "the continental territory of France was completely occupied by Germany which deprived it of all sovereign rights."

Surprise Expressed

Thus Uruguay was the first nation to recognize the French committee as a Government. The United States and Britain maintain consulates in North Africa.

Some diplomats expressed surprise at the quick action, taken without consultation with other nations.

Other diplomatic activity included anouncements that Venezuela and Mexico raised their diplomatic missions to each other to Embassy rank. Reports from Panama said similar action is expected between Panama and Mexico in order to "strengthen further very close cordial relations between the countries and affirm inter-American cooperation."

RAMIREZ LEANS TOWARD ALLIES

Says Argentina Will Act Closely With Americas.

JUN 10 1943

Buenos Aires, June 9 (A. P.).—Argentina intends to work in closer co-operation with her sister American republics through acts as well as words, President Pedro Ramirez said last night in a brief statement on the foreign policies of his Government.

"Foreign relations will be regulated not only by words but also in practice by acts which will draw us ever nearer to our American brothers," said the statement, issued following a Cabinet meeting.

The Government, in office only twenty-four hours, also announced the lifting of martial law, declared Friday following the coup d'etat which overthrew President Ramon S. Castillo.

The new Cabinet said it was terminating martial law "in view of the calm which prevails in the whole country."

In a further reference to international conditions, the statement said:

"The Argentine attitude toward the war is considered to have been sufficiently clarified in a statement made yesterday by the provisional Government."

In that statement the Government declared it would maintain neutrality "for the present" and that it "sustains the principle of absolute autonomy of States to set up their own standards of Government."

Break With Axis Forecast.

Dispatches from Montevideo quoted observers there as forecasting an eventual break with the Axis by Ramirez. His statement that foreign relations would be regulated by acts as well as words was viewed by these sources as meaning the Government would move gradually toward a rupture of relations with the Axis.

The speedy lifting of martial law was interpreted in Montevideo as a step toward the restoration of normal conditions, although it was assumed the state of siege which President Castillo decreed to protect his neutrality policy from popular criticism was still in effect.

Montevideo dispatches said that although the new Argentine regime has made no mention of Congress, which was dissolved by decree, shortly after the coup, there were indications the Government was looking forward to holding elections, possibly in the not too distant future, and that Ramirez himself was likely to be a candidate.

Rawson Wanted Quick Break.

The Montevideo sources also shed further light on the sudden resignation of the provisional government of Gen. Arturo Rawson, co-leader of the revolution. His one-day government resigned in favor of Gen. Ramirez, these sources said, because Gen. Rawson favored an immediate rupture with the Axis, but was opposed by his collaborators.

Gen. Ramirez was reported to have successfully organized his government through a middle course, approving immediate measures to re-establish solidarity but leaving the question of breaking relations—which would have involved a test of government strength—for later consideration.

France Reported Set for Action

JUN 10 1943

De Gaulle's London Offices Says Corsicans Are Already Massing in Mountains.

London, June 9 (A. P.).—As the invasion tension continued mounting, Fighting French headquarters today reported that "throughout France the underground is set for action," while in Corsica, patriots are massing in the mountains ready to descend upon 60,000 Italian troops reported to be on the island awaiting an Allied invasion.

More than 1,000 Frenchmen were seized by the German secret police in Lyons and hustled to Germany in a recent effort to smash an inner ring of underground leaders, the announcement said.

The statement added that increasingly strained relations were reported between Germany and Italy, and that there had been discord following the recent assassination of eleven Italian soldiers by French ptriots at Marseilles. The Italian authorities, it said, immediately ordered sweeping arrests and an early curfew, but the orders were canceled by the Germans.

"This is a good indication of bad relations between the Italian and Nazi occupation authorities," the statement said, "and also German fears that a single spark may suffice to set off the French gun-powder barrel."

Meanwhile today Yugoslav spokesmen reported that heavy fighting has been going on in the last eight days between guerrillas and Germans in Montenegro and Bosnia where the patriots were said to have pushed the enemy back and inflicted heavy casualties. The Yugoslavs said that a number of bridges had been blown up and two Axis troop trains destroyed on the main line connecting Belgrade and Zagreb.

Italians Tell of Casualties.

The Rome radio last night soberly reported total Italian casualties of 633,251 in the three years since Mussolini declared war on England and France. In a verbal windup looking toward tomorrow's third anniversay of Il Duce's fateful step—which President Roosevelt described at the time as a stab in the back—Rome said that the beginning of her fourth year at war finds Italy in the very front line and "courageously facing a series of difficult problems."

The 633,251 casualties were broken down into 58,000 killed, 131,000 wounded and a little more than 444,000 missing.

The broadcast, picked up at New York by the Associated Press, pointed out that in the early days of the war the battlefields lay overseas, or thousands of miles away from Italy's home soil, then added:

"Now a numerous and extremely well equipped enemy is threatening directly from the south, and daily bombardments on a long series of Italian centers announce the enemy's intention to adopt all means to bend the Axis southern defender. . . . The three years of war have not given any great or immediately evident results for Italy's arms."

But, the announcer added, three years had been required by the Allied nations to reopen the Mediterranean, "by withdrawing very considerable forces from other fronts and thereby facilitating the efforts of Italy's allies."

Transit Chaos in Italy.

The description of the means of communication has created chaos in Italy, the British radio said in a broadcast picked up at New York today by CBS. Quoting Italian newspapers, London declared that vegetables and fish are going bad in transit and "arrive on the market in a putrid condition," while fruits have become much rarer in Northern Italy.

According to a Reuter's dispatch from Stockholm, a considerable number of high officials of Vidkun Quisling's party have recently fled from Norway to seek safety in Sweden, in fear of an Allied invasion, London also said.

The Moscow radio, also picked up by CBS, reported that Czecho-Slovak railway men wrecked a German train carrying anti-aircraft guns, and that a group of the patriots raided a military store, setting ablaze an enormous quantity of foodstuffs intended for the German army.

In a broadcast recorded by NBC, the British radio said that five important Italian production centers have been virtually ruined by Allied bombers in the past twenty days. Aerial photographs show that in Naples alone more than 100 bombs burst upon the plane marshaling yard of a large aircraft plant, London added.

NEW YORK BOY MEETS QUEEN

Elizabeth Picks Flyer Out at Fair in London.

London, June 9 (A. P.).—Back from North Africa where R. A. F.'s "know how" perhaps saved his life in the desert, First Lieut. H. B. (Buddy) Rosenson of New York city, has met the Queen and as a result of the two incidents regards himself as no longer anti-British.

Queen Elizabeth picked him out of a crowd of notables at a charity fair in London yesterday and asked "Where have you come from?"

He already had dropped his cigarette and straightened his shoulders when he saw her approaching.

"I have just returned from Tunisia," he said.

The rest of his story is this:

He was the bomber-navigator on a Fortress which spent the week before the North African landings in ferrying staff officers to headquarters at Gibraltar. He went on the first of his thirty-six bombing operations from North Africa on November 20, attacking an airfield in Sardinia.

In a raid on Tripoli on January 17 the Fortress, piloted by Lieut. Ray Wilkins of Selma, Ohio, was heavily attacked by fighters and flak.

"The whole tail assembly caught fire," Rosenson said. "When we saw we couldn't put it out, we rang the alarm and bailed out."

Meets Fighting French.

Hiking across the desert with Technical Sergeant William Bishop of Louisville, Ky., tail-gunner, he joined up with the Fighting French in southern Tunisia and reported back for duty even before a message could be sent his family he was missing.

Two others are prisoners and six others including Lieut. Wilkins, are missing.

This will be news to his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Falk of 10 West 74th street, New York city, and Becket, Mass, because he never told her he was shot down.

His father is Theodore N. Rosenson of 295 Madison avenue, New York city.

Read R. A. F. Pamphlet.

"I followed the British procedure in the desert escape," Lieut. Rosenson said in explaining how he owed freedom and possibly his life to British experience.

"I had read an R. A. F. pamphlet which tells how to travel in the desert and to find food and water," he said. "It didn't tell you how to steal clothes from the Arabs—which I did."

"When I came to England in July, 1942, I was anti-British," he added. "The whole outfit was. Everybody said, 'The British will fight to the last American' and all that stuff. The truth is the British will fight to save the last American.

"Any American who has fought with them in North Africa has changed his opinion of the British. By their experience and assistance they saved a devil of a lot of Americans."

Rosenson was slated for a new secret job in Britain. He returned to Britain a few days ago in a Fortress.

As he told the Queen at the Red Cross summer fair, "I am glad it's all over. It was sort of rough down there."

Pilsudski's Daughter Flies Hurricanes For RAF Command

Refugee From Poland Gives Up Architecture To Aid War Effort

JUN 10 1943

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 9.—A refugee from the Polish homeland her father once ruled as dictator, slim, brown-haired Jadwiga Pilsudski would like to be studying architecture, but instead she's flying Hurricanes.

Flying is the second love of blue-eyed Jadwiga, who is in the Air Transport Auxiliary. She taxis fighters around the country for the RAF, and she's doing it like a veteran.

She is 23, the younger daughter of Poland's hero-marshal, who died in 1935. She is stationed near here, but is too busy to get to town often. On one of her rare visits she did stop to tell, in a shy, quiet voice, of how she is trying to help smash the invaders of her country.

Dressed in the neat navy blue of the ATA pilot officer, she was attractive against the dull red plush of the heavy furniture in an old-fashioned London hotel.

Wants Bigger Jobs.

Her face shone brightly as she talked about flying.

"Right now I have been flying Hurricanes and have been handling them for five months," she said in perfect English. "But I hope before long to take over a bigger job—the two-engined bombers and fighters."

It was only after she had been prodded that she acknowledged she had just been promoted to second officer.

"How did I come to be in the ATA?

"When Hitler invaded Poland I lived in Warsaw with my mother and older sister, Wanda, who was studying political science at Warsaw University. I was cramming for entrance examinations to study architecture.

"Then came the Luftwaffe and devastated our lovely city. Mother, Wanda and I fled to Vilna, where we had a farm, but the Germans followed us there and we fled again. We made our way to Britain by way of Sweden and immediately reaching London I volunteered as a ferry pilot.

"You see, I'd already had 100 hours' glider experience and a few hours with powered gliders.

Failed to Get In.

"But those weren't considered very good qualifications for ferry piloting and I didn't get in. So I went to Cambridge University and started in on architecture.

"Then after two years the ATA relaxed its rules a little and gave me a uniform. First you ferry trainers, then fighter trainers. Then you taxi pilots from one airdrome to another and after a while they let you handle Hurricanes."

There are a number of American women at her station and she has made friends with them all.

Although she flies all over Britain she's had only one trip to Edinburgh where Wanda is studying along with 200 other Poles at the Polish University. Her mother works in Edinburgh for the Polish canteen. Mme. Pilsudski has just finished her memoirs, which are to be published here.

Like many Americans, Jadwiga doesn't think much of British weather.

"In winter the days are too short. That means you can't do much flying."

There's another reason besides just flying that she likes the longer days of summer. The more hours she gets in the more time off she earns to have dates with a whole string of boy friends.

LIBERATORS USED IN MIDOCEAN WAR

London, June 9 (A. P.).—The British Air Ministry disclosed today that Liberator bombers with a range of at least 2,000 miles were the airplanes used in the "V. L. R." (very long range) operations against Nazi submarines, referred to by Prime Minister Churchill in his address yesterday. The Liberators are equipped with especially large fuel tanks in order to carry depth charges such great distances, the Air Ministry explained.

Berlin Reports Attack On Convoy in Channel

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 9.—The Berlin radio reported today that several British torpedo boats were damaged last night while attempting to attack a German convoy in the English Channel between Dunkerque and Calais.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said no German ships were lost.

There was no immediate report on the action from British sources.

London Reports Noon Bulletin.

London, June 9 (A. P.).—German infantry resumed their feeler thrusts near Sevsk at the hinge of the important south-central front last night, but were beaten off after about two companies of the attackers were wiped out, the Russian midday communique announced today.

Other front line activity was confined to artillery bombardments of German positions, scouting, and guerrilla operations, said the bulletin, which was broadcast from Moscow and recorded by the Soviet monitor here.

The communique ignored Berlin broadcast reports of a great German victory in the western Caucasus in which nearly 550,000 Russians were said to have been killed in four great battles. The report, made last night, was circulated through propaganda channels and not by the German High Command.

Attempts by the Germans to reconnoiter Russian positions on the Donets River front south of Izyum failed when Red Army units opened up with mortars and machine guns, said the communique, which added that heavy Russian artillery demolished enemy fortifications in that area.

Artillery action was reported on the Western Front and west of Rostov on the Don.

Guerrillas attacked and wrecked a German troop train near Kievsk, killing and wounding troops, and in the same area blew up a German machine shop and garages, destroying forty-four automobiles and seven trucks, the communique said.

acts of heroism have been performed night after night by Red Army pilots who have roared into the milky "white night" above Gorki to protect that vital munitions center from German raids, dispatches from that thrice-bombed city said today.

The dispatches, describing the third raid in five nights on the production plants 250 miles east of Moscow, said seven enemy bombers were shot down and that dwellings had been damaged.

(The Moscow dispatch did not say when the last raid was made, but German broadcasts recorded in London said the big "Molotoff" tank factory there was last raided Monday night. Aerial reconnaissance had shown the factory "almost completely destroyed," and Monday night's raid completed the destruction, the broadcast said.

(The Soviet midday communique ignored Berlin propaganda reports of a great German victory in the Caucasus in which 550,000 Soviet troops were purportedly killed in four major battles—nor did the Hitler command mention any such victory in today's war bulletin.

(The Nazi high command said merely that "the enemy suffered very heavy losses in men and material" during the last two weeks in storming the German-held Kuban bridgehead with rifle divisions, three rifle brigades, six tank formations and strong aerial support. Altogether, 100 Soviet tanks and 350 planes were declared to have been knocked out.

(The Germans indicated that fierce Soviet attacks were continuing in the Kuban sector.)

Russians Retaliate.

Long-range Russian bombers retaliated immediately for the Gorki attacks, smashing at enemy airdromes northwest of Bryansk, where German planes, ammunition dumps and supplies were reported destroyed.

Land fighting along the vast front was confined to feeler stabs and softening-up blows from heavy artillery as the opposing air forces continued to drive home blows expected to pave the way for the start of the 1943 offensives.

Another report of successful Soviet aerial battles came from the Leningrad front. A group of German JU-78s and HE-111s attacked in broad daylight, front-line dispatches said, but Soviet pilots met the attack and shot down 22 Nazi planes.

Russian bombers striking at a German airport in an unspecified area destroyed 20 Nazi craft on the ground and damaged 8 others, dispatches said.

Three Barges Sunk.

Describing German attempts to send supplies to their besieged garrison at Novorossisk on the Black Sea, the Russians said they sank three barges carrying supplies and troops.

German planes scouting a convoy near the extreme northern front were attacked by 18 Russian planes, which shot down 7 of the 24 planes in the group, the Russians reported.

For the first time in weeks, Russian dispatches reported the appearance of Italian planes over the front. Five Italian Fiats were shot down near Leningrad, they said, but did not state whether they were flown by Italians or Germans.

'Memphis Belle,' New Haven Flier Aboard, to Make Tour of U. S.

JAMESON

AN AMERICAN BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, Thursday, June 10—(AP) The battle-scarred Flying Fortress "Memphis Belle," which has completed 25 missions over enemy territory and which has been retired from active service, was given an official farewell today before starting back to the United States with its regular crew to engage in a war bond selling tour.

"Memphis Belle," which was named for Miss Margaret Polk of Memphis, Tenn., fiancee of Pilot Robert K. Morgan of Asheville, N. C., will be the first bomber to return home from this theater under its own power from actual combat. The veteran Fortress was duly honored at today's ceremony for exploits which include the destruction of eight enemy fighters, the probable shooting down of five others and the damaging of twelve more. This was an average of one plane for each trip over the enemy lines.

Will Train Newcomers

After a swing around the principal cities of the United States and a well-deserved rest, the members of the crew will be assigned to training fresh airmen for combat service.

At the unusual ceremony the members of the crew were personally congratulated by the top ranking generals of the European theater of operations of the United States Army—Lieut. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commanding general, and Maj. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army Air Force—and other high ranking air officers.

Gen. Eaker referred to the fliers

Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters, included Captain James H. Verinus, 17 Prince street, New Haven, Conn., co-pilot.

As one of the outstanding Fortresses belonging to the group known as "Wray's Ragged Irregulars," commanded by Col. Stanley T. Wray of Birmingham, Ala., the "Memphis Belle" and its crew have been inspected by King George and Queen Elizabeth.

The only "stowaway" aboard on the return journey will be Capt. Verinus' Scottie pup "S[illegible]ka" which accompanied the crew on several trips as mascot.

LARGE U.S. CONTINGENT ARRIVES IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Thursday, June 10.—(AP) A sizeable new contingent of United States soldiers arrived in a British port recently after a fast, uneventful trip, it was announced early today.

The group included more airmen for the swiftly growing Eighth U. S. Air Force and Engineering units.

Axis Losses in Tunisia Placed at 341,000

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 9.—A military commentator said today that Prime Minister Churchill's estimate that 50,000 Germans and Italians were killed in Tunisia brought total Axis losses in killed and captured there to 341,000.

He said the Prime Minister's statement in the House of Commons yesterday that 248,000 Axis soldiers had been captured referred only to those taken after May 5 when the main attack began. Axis prisoners taken before May 5 at Akarit, Mareth and other places totaled 43,000, he said, bringing the total for the Tunisian campaign to 291,000 prisoners.

War Spoils Italians Hoped To Win Turn To Defeat And Invasion Fear

JUN 10 1943

Fascists Strive To Prop Spirits Of People With Propaganda And Economic Benefits

JUN 10 1943

By FRANK BRUTTO

[Associated Press Correspondent]

Bern, Switzerland, June 9—The Italian people, facing the fourth year of a war they once entered with the idea of arriving just in time to divide the spoils, are weary today and sick in the way Mussolini once diagnosed as "African malady."

Three years of conflict have left the country open to bombing and invasion. Remnants of beaten Italian armies are home from Russia. The Adriatic flank is harried by Yugoslav partisans. The empire is gone.

Try Ferocious Propaganda

Yet the anniversary of Italy's entrance into the war finds Fascist leaders apparently still determined to continue it, even without their old faith in Axis military prowess. They are beginning to appeal for "justice," but in doubtful tone in a courtroom from which the judge has departed after pronouncing the terms—unconditional surrender.

That the Fascists are aware of their position is indica[illegible]n a new ferocious campaign of propaganda against the Allies—especially the Americans — aimed at instilling hate and fear similar to that which their German ally uses against Russia.

On June 10, 1940, il Duce, in a balcony speech, told thousands that he had declared war on France and Great Britain.

He shouted: "They must realize our ancient aspirations to break our chains of imprisonment in the Mediterranean and share in the division of the economic riches of the world."

Seemed Invincible

The fervid throng then shouted in response: "Corsica, Malta, Nice!"

Italy's enthusiasm then seemed not misplaced. Her Ambassador in Paris had telephoned that Gen. Maxine Weygand, Allied generalissimo, considered the situation desperate. France was on the verge of collapse. Britain was embarking her battered army from Dunkerque.

Nazi armored forces seemed invincible.

Today is different. The extent of the Italian malady not only measures the loss of Africa but the fact that Italian industry, ports and railroads have been pounded by Allied bombers day in and day out; that Italy and her remaining islands are menaced by invasion; that hundreds of thousands are leaving the cities of Palermo, Cagliari, Messina and Reggio Calabria and taking the roads to Rome where the swollen population of 2,500,000 aggravates the food and housing problem that is general throughout the country.

No Longer Talk Of Victory

Naples is described by a war correspondent home from Africa as a city "that has lost its voice"; Palmero as a heap of ruins whose scars "not even time can heal." Milan and Turin have heaps of ruins.

The Italian people no longer [illegible] the word "victory" but must soberly consider Fascist Secretary Carlo Scorza's counsel that if Italy must fall, "fall with dignity so our children can continue to live with dignity and honor and rebuild the fortune of our country."

Total war now faces Italy, said the Zurich Weltwoche, adding that "this might achieve a greater unity among the people than Mussolini's regime ever had before."

The Fascists are striving to eliminate differences between the people and the party, declaring in the words of Scorza: "Every Italian is a Fascist."

Il Duce has eliminated deadwood bureaus that barnacled the organization for twenty years, and recalled his Black Shirt cronies of

The war looks different today than it did at the outset, but it is "too late, far too late, to turn back," Camillo Pellizzi, an Italian national councilor, said in a radio broadcast Tuesday. "The war has entered its second stage, and many issues relied upon at the beginning now look different." How different is described in the following story of Italy's situation on the third anniversary of her entry into the war.

[illegible]ing — to head the police and other departments.

Benefits For Workers

Despite mounting inflation, the Government recently decreed numerous benefits for the workers—pay increases, insurance, old-age assistance and increased invalid pensions. Control over markets was tightened and Mussolini decreed, with much publicity, that everything confiscated in the black market would be distributed to the poor.

Party leaders are making a tremendous effort to convince the people that this is their war. The newspaper Relazioni Internazionali declared on May 8:

"Italy sustains the whole weight of the war alone—militarily, economically and financially. Italy sustains the entire weight of the war for she is fighting for her own ideals not those of another." This is a war for "effective national independence; a war which unbinds Italy definitely from an alliance which could only bring bargaining or renouncement," it said.

Bern's Der Bund wrote that possible sources of opposition to Mussolini are waiting while the Government acts and "inasmuch as in politics only those who act count, Fascism holds it own."

Opposition Not Eliminated

Opposition, however, has not been entirely eliminated, some of its possible leaders have been driven underground and others have fled the country. But appointment of Carlo Scorza as party secretary was greeted on the walls of Rome by scrawled reminders that he was the leader of a terrorist group that fatally mauled a member of the last pre-Fascist Cabinet in street fighting in 1924.

The underground resistance manages to publish secret newspapers, among them being Unita and Italia Libera representing the Communists, liberals and intellectuals, all of whom have united in a common cause to oppose Fascism.

The royal house of Savoy is in the best position to effect some change which would open the way for a peace movement, but up to now it has given no indication that it is not in accord with Fascism.

No Sign Of Collapse

How far or how long Italy will be able to march under British and American hammering nobody knows. Neutral correspondents in Rome reported that while the strain of war nerves should not be underestimated, there are as yet no signs of collapse or widespread popular disturbances.

The Italian ability to continue fighting more likely is limited by industrial and financial problems and a constantly worsening food situation.

It is no secret that Italy still has manpower. Many of its youngest classes never have been called. But Crown Prince Umberto, speaking as Marshal of Italy, recently told the soldiers: "Italy is unable to match in point of view of quantity the armaments of other nations because, unfortunately, it does not possess the necessary metals."

Italian losses in fighting men are comparatively small, probably 500,000

70 Divisions Estimated

Military observers estimate that she has some seventy divisions, of which thirty-three are in the Balkans where, with the Nazi troops, they are battling Yugoslav and Greek partisans who wage a hit-and-run fight until the day they may be able to help an Allied invasion. Seven Italian divisions are in France, two in Corsica and the other thirty defend the Italian mainland and islands.

Civil mobilization was established this week in Sicily and southern Italy, with the army empowered to marshal all whose jobs are necessary to the public welfare, who are engaged in reaping the harvest, or other food jobs.

The Italians have been told that there is nothing to do except continue to fight.

What's Behind the War News

JUN 10 1943

By GLENN BABB

If ever an individual and a people were compelled to drink the bitter tea of memory that is the lot of Benito Mussolini and his compatriots today, the anniversary of one of history's most memorable wrong turnings.

It was three years ago today that Il Duce made the most fateful of all his hundreds of appearances on the famous balcony overlooking the Piazza Venezia. With his blue jaw outthrust and his clenched fists alternately resting on his hips and beating the balustrade, he announced the declarations of war on France and Britain which he thought would enable Italy to share the spoils of a conflict already won.

Never has a gamble that looked so promising turned so sour. As a Rome broadcaster expressed it in a masterpiece of understatement: "Three years of war have not given great or immediately evident results for Italy's arms." Never has a nation faced an outlook less inviting than that of Italy today. Invasion and defeat are imminent; the brightest hopes warranted by the facts are that both may come quickly.

It is even possible that history may achieve one of her choicest ironies by having this anniversary coincide with the first landings of the conqueror on Italian soil. It does not seem possible that invasion day for Pantelleria can be postponed much longer. That would not place the adversary on the mainland but it would mean the beginning of the process of reducing the Mediterranean island outposts which may prove stepping stones for the victors of North Africa rather than protective outposts for Italy herself.

Obviously the Allied command is all set for the knockout of Pantelleria. Otherwise General Eisenhower's headquarters would not have announced that a demand for unconditional surrender was made on Tuesday. When it was refused the island was subjected to a terrible scourging by both the British fleet and the Allied air squadrons, more prolonged and severe than any such combined bombardment yet seen in the war in the Mediterranean.

Assault to Continue

The announcement said that the "bombing, bombardment and blockade" would continue. This may indicate that the Allies are making Pantelleria a test tube in the grand experiment to determine the efficacy of bombardment alone to knock out enemy resistance. But certainly it will not be long continued. If bombs and shells do not accomplish the purpose quickly the landing barges will be sent in.

The helplessness of Il Duce's armed forces to rescue the little garrison of Pantelleria points up as nothing else the vast change in Italy's fortunes since 1940. No passage in the oration which Il Duce shouted to the Rome crowds three years ago contains more bitterness for Italians today than this one: "We are taking up arms x x x to solve our maritime frontiers. We want to break the chains that confine us in our sea (the Mediterranean)."

At that time it seemed he could not fail. France was abandoning Paris. Britain had just gone through the fiery ordeal of Dunkerque. To most of the world it seemed that Mussolini had chosen the right moment to add large sections of French and British possessions to Italy's overseas empire, already the third most spacious in the world.

Sea Is Allied Highway

Instead, it was the Italian empire that was lost. Britain's African holdings are greater than ever and the French empire is girding itself to become the instrument of the motherland's liberation. Far from breaking out of the Mediterranean, Italy has seen that sea become the highway by which the forces of her adversaries advance to overwhelm her. The navy on which Il Duce counted to drive the British beyond Gibraltar and the Red Sea, waits in its northern ports, battered and hunted, with little to hope for but an end that will not be too ignominious.

Naval And Aerial Pounding Of Pantelleria Is Described

JUN 10 1943

Eyewitness Calls Onslaught By British Fleet And Allied Planes Most Powerful Yet

By PAUL KERN LEE

[Associated Press Correspondent]

Aboard a British Destroyer off Pantelleria, June 8 (Delayed)—A large British naval squadron and swarms of Allied planes attacked Pantelleria simultaneously today in the most powerful onslaught yet made against Mussolini's middle Mediterranean stronghold.

Not only for Pantelleria but for the Axis it was a dress rehearsal of inevitable doom—the most spectacular synchronized sea and air assault on enemy shores thus far conducted in this war.

Point-Blank Range

Frequently since the fall of Tunisia, Pantelleria has been bombarded, but never with such concentrated fury as this.

Great guns of the fleet pumped screaming high-explosive shells into the capital city's harbor works and batteries at practically point-blank range for forty-five minutes in a naval bombardment believed the longest of the war in the Mediterranean.

Before, during and after the naval shelling, aerial formations which seemed to fill the skies blasted the island with bombs. Within a few heartbeats the entire 2,700-foot-high island was totally obscured by gigantic smoke clouds that billowed a mile into the Mediterranean skies.

On Bridge Of Destroyer

From the bridge of this destroyer I have just witnessed the whole show. This ship is a unit of one of the several groups detailed to different target areas, but its assigned targets were switched at the last moment, since they no longer existed as a result of a bombing attack after we left port.

Five minutes from Pantelleria, with the great humpbacked island looking like a reclining camel in the sea, an Allied aerial formation sped in low through anti-aircraft fire and planted bombs accurately on its target. As they raced overhead we saw the planes were Lightnings.

Ack-Ack Weaker

"Hurrah for Roosevelt!" exclaimed a seaman beside me, giving the thumbs-up salute to the planes.

The naval force continued steadily toward its goal at moderate speed. Just as the first heavy unit opened fire medium bombers dropped a fresh devastating crop of bombs on the island, striking from aloft in perfect timing with the "bricks" hurled from the sea. Ack-ack fire from the shore grew noticeably weaker.

All Guns Turn Loose

Unmoved by the blasting of bombs and shells and the acrid fumes of cannon smoke that grew denser with each gun flash, the captain of this ship calmly brought us to within two and a half miles of the shore. Then the destroyer let Pantelleria have it, round after round, firing everything from her 4.7-inch rifles down to her pom-poms.

One shore battery replied with a few inaccurate shells at the start. A string of splashes 200 yards wide showed where they were hitting as we closed in.

Beach Mines Set Off

The bombers, meantime, kept up their good work, climaxed by the dumping of heavy loads from the Fortresses. At this juncture the Italians, apparently thinking the invasion was at hand, exploded beach mines, which crackled along the shore for two minutes like a string of futile firecrackers.

Cutting back and forth in stately processions, the warships hurled shell after shell into the island, now completely masked by dirty gray smoke streaked with black and white. It looked almost as if volcanic Pantelleria were having an extremely violent eruption.

Beaches Shot Up

Out motor torpedo boats and gunboats chose this point to dash in at fifty miles an hour and shoot up the beaches at close range. Giving the motor boats a chance, the bigger ships ceased fire and slowly turned seaward. Soon the motor boats dashed triumphantly back and rejoined the formation.

Axis bombers later came out to attack us, apparently from Sicily. Allied fighters who had covered us throughout broke them up, downing at least one and forcing others to jettison their bombs.

Our Forces Follow Up With Large Scale Attack on Island.

GEN. SPAATZ SIGNS DEMAND

London Hears Troops May Have Already Landed—Blows to Grow Heavier.

MORN

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, June 9 (A. P.).—A demand for the unconditional surrender of the Italian garrison of Pantelleria was dropped by Allied planes yesterday, Allied headquarters announced today, and when no reply was received, the island was bombarded from both the sea and the air.

Dispatches from aboard British warships said that the shelling was the longest and most intensive ever directed by naval forces against shore objectives anywhere in the Mediterranean war, and the communique said the island "will continue to be subjected to bombing, bombardment and blockade" until it surrenders.

The special war bulletin added that the demand was made in order to save the garrison and population of the island from unnecessary suffering.

[In a broadcast picked up at London tonight by Reuters, the Rome radio declared that "overwhelming air and naval forces are besieging the fortress of Pantelleria." The British Press Association's military expert said that there was a possibility that an Allied landing on the island had already been made, but there was no information, official or otherwise, to support his speculation. In its official communique, broadcast by the Rome radio earlier today, the Italian High Command said that the Allied ultimatum was signed by Lieut.-Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, the American commander of the Allied Northwest African Air Force, and that it demanded surrender by 6 P. M. yesterday (12 M., New York time).]

British Fleet Shells Isle.

A large force of British cruisers and destroyers, swinging their guns broadside to the shore defenses, threw shells from short range into the punished island while its garrison was blinded by the dust and smoke of a simultaneous Flying Fortress attack.

Meanwhile reconnaissance photographs showed that Saturday's Fortress raid on La Spezia naval base in northwestern Italy greatly damaged a light Attilio Regolo class cruiser of 3,362 tons, hit another naval vessel and heavily damaged naval base installations.

Authoritative spokesmen said the cruiser was the Claudio Tiberio on which work was begun in 1939. She was scheduled for completion in 1941 but apparently had not yet been completed.

Spectacular Raid.

It was also disclosed that a Liberator raid on Reggio Calabria in May had the spectacular result of knocking out a railway bridge, linking Naples with the toe of the Italian boot, and tumbling a train that was crossing at the time into the chasm.

Besides the blows struck by the Northwest African Air Force at Pantelleria and Sardinia yesterday, heavy bombers from the R. A. F.'s desert force swept in from the other direction on Monday night and blasted the Sicilian ferry port of Messina, across from Reggio Calabria.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's communique said the British warships accomplished satisfactory results in their sixth bombardment of Pantelleria in ten days, and although they encountered some answering fire from the garrison's coastal batteries the cruisers and destroyers again avoided either damage or casualties.

No Rest For Pantelleria.

The waves of bombers, blasting at Pantelleria for the seventeenth sucessive day, did not give the defenders any rest night or day. The R. A. F.'s Wellingtons on the "owl" shift roared over the plowed-up island during the darkness Monday night, while Americans of Major Gen. James H. Doolittle's Strategic Air Force followed by daylight.

The air crews reported encountering only a few enemy fighters to oppose this mass of air invasion, and only one of these showed any fight. It was an Italian Macchi 202 and was promptly shot to pieces by Capt. George A. Rush, 3838 Harrison street, Kansas City, Mo., a Lightning pilot. One Allied plane was lost during the day.

Lightning pilots struck two targets in Sardinia. They planted a direct hit on military barracks at Sebariu and sprinkled bomb splinters among aircraft parked on the Villadidro Airfield. A railway station and locomotive near by were strafed.

Reuters military correspondent said "there seems no reason to doubt that the offensive already has begun in the Mediterranean and that the islands of Pantelleria and Lampedusa have been the Allies' first objective."

From the Middle East, Allied light bombers and long-range fighters swooped over the Aegean to score hits on three enemy sailing vessels and also sallied along both east and west coasts of Greece.

Near Kyparissia on the west coast of the Peloponnesus a supply train was attacked and stopped. Two tugs were shot up at the entrance of the Gulf of Corinth on the east.

Meanwhile a British naval communique issued at Malta announced that light surface forces carried out a coast reconnaissance of the island of Lampedusa Sunday night.

This was the brief communique:

"Our light surface forces carried out a coast reconnaissance of the island of Lampedusa, June 6-7. Only two of the landing party did not return."

[This obviously was the same action described by Axis communiques yesterday as a determined attempt by about five companies of British Commandos to take Lampedusa, tiny desolate island seventy miles off the Tunisian coast and eighty miles south of Panfelleria.]

Pantelleria, Lacking Tunnels, Is Battered Worse Than Malta

Allied Flyers Find Defenses of Island Off Tunisia Weakening

By the Associated Press.

AN ADVANCED AMERICAN BOMBER BASE IN NORTH AFRICA, June 7 (Delayed).—American airmen taking part in the bombing of Pantelleria, Il Duce's outpost in the Sicilian Narrows, said today that they doubted whether even dauntless Malta in the many months of its ordeal ever underwent such a fearful pasting in so short a while.

They pointed out that Pantelleria, although heavily fortified, lacks the subterranean defenses of the British sea stronghold, so that the effects of the round-the-clock bombing by Allied planes must be even more devastating than that suffered by Malta.

The tough little island, which in the past has been used by the Axis as a base for planes to harass Allied shipping has also been heavily hammered six times from the sea by units of the British fleet.

"We certainly are dropping plenty of metal on that island," said one American flyer when he came back from a mission over Pantelleria today.

JUN 10 1943

Axis Flak Not Accurate.

Following the British Wellingtons, who have been making the nights sleepless for the Axis military personnel whose melancholy duty it is to guard the 10-mile long island some 30 miles off the Tunisian coast, American planes in Gen. Doolittle's strategic air force pounded Pantelleria through the daylight hours.

Flying Fortresses, B-26 Marauders, B-25 Mitchells and quick-darting P-40s and P-38 Lightnings swept in from the sea to subject the island targets to the sixteenth successive day of bombing and strafing.

"Their flak is not accurate," said Lt. Col. Troy Keith of San Jose, Calif., a P-38 group commander who personally led his fighters in an afternoon smash at the island and came home without meeting a single enemy fighter.

"Everybody heaves a sigh of relief now when I tell them the target is Pantelleria," said Lt. Col. Gordon H. Austin of Scranton, Pa. "The boys would just as soon go there as to take a trip around their own airdrome. Whoever or whatever is left on that island can't be very happy. It doesn't take many of those bombs that we drop to give you the shakes."

Naval Warehouse Blasted.

"It is small and has a mountain sticking out of it, and on a clear day you can see it from the Tunisian coast," said Lt. William C. Brown of Fort Madison, Iowa., who piloted his B-26 medium bomber over the island yesterday.

"You can see the scarred places, even from the air now when we go over and ordinarily we don't have time for sightseeing," said another B-26 pilot, Lt. Herbert Meyers of Waycross, Ga. "One big naval warehouse is blown up something awful. I know, because our plane laid the egg that did it."

Respectful of Pantelleria's defenses is B-26 Bombardier Lt. Ted A. Weil of San Antonio, Tex., who fought off three attacking ME-109s, damaging one after his ship weathered a flak storm that peppered it with 100 or more holes.

"But I saw three bombs from our formation land on the target," said the diminutive bomber.

BATHE

American Flyers Thrilled.

At an Advanced United States Fighter Base in North Africa, June 8 (Delayed) (A. P.).—American airmen, delivering a heavy bombing attack on Pantelleria today, also enjoyed a rare, cloud-seat view as the British naval units pounded the same target from the sea. Lightning pilots escorting Flying Fortresses said that they got their biggest thrill out of watching the British warships pour salvo after salvo into the rocky little Italian island between Tunisia and Sicily.

Just before taking off on the escort mission, one group of fighters was told that friendly naval vessels would simultaneously attack the enemy base, which was under air attack for the seventeenth successive day today and was bombarded five times by British warships last week.

"We had a grandstand seat at more than 20,000 feet," said Lieut.-Col. Troy Keith of San Jose, Cal., the group commander.

"They were standing off, shelling it when we got there. As soon as the Fortresses started unloading their bombs, the war vessels turned en masse and steamed in until it looked like they were within a quarter of a mile of Pantelleria Harbor. Then they turned broadside, and cut loose with everything they had.

Wonderfully Co-ordinated.

"It was wonderfully timed and co-ordinated

"We could see the red flashes of the warships' guns—a number of them, crusiers and destroyers. They were really cutting loose. Greyish smoke belched steadily from the deck guns as the ships circled to avoid being hit in return and fired at will.

"We couldn't see what they were shooting at, because the whole end of the island was covered with heavy brown dust clouds raised by the fortresses' bombs. You could actually see the earth shake when those bombs hit.

"While the Navy ships circled, firing continually, our planes also were circling overhead to protect them from any surprise enemy attack. When the dust from the Fortresses' bombs began to settle, the warships began pulling back from shore, keeping their big guns hot as they moved away. We could see the red flashes as the shells left the guns.

"I'd hate to be any one on that island today. The flak they threw up was very light."

Ships Did 'Damn' Good.

It was so clear that the flyers could see Italy and Sicily, and said they were inclined to agree with Col. Keith that they should have been made to pay an admission fee to see the naval action below them on the mirror-smooth sea.

"It was like watching a battle in a vacuum, because the roar of our motors kept us from hearing anything," said Lieut. Marck C. Hageny of Hollywood, Cal. The water was very blue and the wakes of the ships very white. We could see white splashes all around the ships from shells fired by the enemy coastal defense batteries, but they didn't get a single hit that we noticed."

"Those British ships were doing damn good," said Capt. Richard E. Decker of Coffeyville, Kan. "We don't usually get to see a free show like that every day. Every time the guns blazed it was like somebody shining a dozen mirrors in your face."

Pilots Turn Over to Watch.

Lieut. Robert B. Riley of Auburn, Cal., said he felt the flyers had been a help to the fleet in allowing it to get close to the shore, "because we have been pounding away at those fortifications" since the big air assault was launched last month.

Lieut. Riley added: "We came in for a low-altitude bombing attack today while the fleet was bombarding from several miles out. They had already started fires in the dock area, and there were three big columns of smoke curling up.

"We dropped a couple of bombs squarely on a building by a gun emplacement. As I passed over the target I felt an explosion beneath that bounced me up. It was apparently from the bombs of the flyer ahead of me, but for a moment I thought it was a naval shell.

"Boy, wouldn't that be something—to get hit by one of those babies!"

Capt. William G. Newman of Dewey, Okla., who won home leave after his flight over Pantelleria, said: "The bombardment the British Navy put on really made my last mission something to remember. Everybody practically had his ship over on her back to watch the show."

UNITED FRENCH AWAIT ALLIED RECOGNITION

London and Washington Are Formally Notified That Regime Exists.

JOINT STATEMENT EXPECTED

Giraud and De Gaulle Missions Still Maintain Separate Offices in U. S.

JUN 10 1943

Algiers, June 9 (A. P.).—A joint British-American official statement recognizing the French Committee for National Liberation as a trustee regime for French interests overseas probably will be issued within a few days, it was stated authoritatively today.

This source, who can not be named, said the two governments will re-emphasize the fact that the committee is a provisional authority and is not the Government of France.

Prime Minister Churchill's reference to the new French regime in the House of Commons yesterday was quoted in French newspapers here as follows: "The French Committee for National Liberation must be recognized as the Government representing France."

Qualified observers here doubt that the Prime Minister's statement was quite that strong but believe that British-American support for the committee as a trustee Government can be expected.

[The Prime Minister told Commons that the degree of recognition of the committee must be studied by Britain and the United States, "but if things go well I should hope that a solution satisfactory to all parties may shortly be reached.]

Allied Bombers Blast Sicily, Attack Supply Train in Greece

Enemy Shipping in Aegean Also Pounded; No Planes Lost in Wide Operations

By the Associated Press.

JUN 10 1943

CAIRO, June 9.—British heavy bombers set fires and blasted other targets in an attack Monday night on the ferry terminus and railway sidings at the Sicilian port of Messina, the Middle East Air Command said today. Aegean shipping was attacked yesterday.

The war bulletin said that in Messina bomb hits were observed near the terminus of the ferry crossing Messina Strait to the nearby toe of Italy.

Hitting into the European mainland in Greece, Allied aircraft attacked a supply train near Kyparissia on the west coast of the Peloponnesus. The train was forced to a halt by damage to the locomotive and a number of cars.

No planes were lost on the far-ranging operations from the desert bases, the communique said.

On the Messina raid, many fires were reported started in a supply depot and the railroad engine sheds, a particularly large one being observed near the city's main railway station.

Light bombers and long-range fighters ranged through the Aegean and along both the east and west coasts of Greece to hammer at enemy shipping.

In the Aegean a sailing vessel was left burning, another listing badly and a third emitting smoke, the communique said. Two tugs were reported attacked at the entrance of the Gulf of Corinth on the east coast and smoke was observed from one.

A CRETE LIDICE

Cairo, June 9 (A. P.).—Photographs recently smuggled out of Crete indicate that the town of Kandanos on that Grecian island has been wiped out by the Germans in a gesture of reprisal duplicating the destruction of the Czecho-Slovakian town of Lidice.

The photograph shows a marble slab bearing this inscription:

"As a reprisal for the murder of German parachutists by armed men and women, the town of Kandanos has been destroyed."

War Prisoners To Work On Farms

Algiers, June 9 (AP)—Gen. Georges Catroux, new Governor-General of Algieria, announced today that Axis prisoners of war would be available to work for wages on North African farms.

Three employment bureaus were established in Algieria where farmers may apply for field hands.

Congressmen Told Of Feed-Barrel Plan

San Juan, Puerto Rco, June 9 (AP). United States Congressmen, members of the Bell committee investigatign insular affairs, peered into a fifty-gallon cahrred barrel exuding a distinct alcoholic odor this afternoon and then listened for two hours while witnesses rolled out a story of how Puerto Rican rum distillers were subsidizing Federal live-stock feed imports through the purchase of barrels.

Moe Goldman, Puerto Rican representative of the Younge Grain Company, of Peoria, Ill., told of his company's dealings with the Federal Food Distribution Administration in feed and barrels during insistent questioning from Representative Dan R. McGehee (D., Miss.), Fred L. Crawford (R., Mich.) and others after a customs officer rolled a barrel into the ballroom of the Condado Hotel—scene of the hearings—pounded off the hoops and lifted the lid to reveal a hundred-pound bag of feed inside.

Goldman told the committee that his firm had been buying bran feed at $40 a ton and was then reselling it to the Federal Food Distribution Administration at $25 a ton. This loss, Goldman said, was covered by the large profits on the sale of the barrels to Puerto Rican distillers.

U. S. African Forces Promote Good Will By Gifts to Natives

Chewing Gum, Candy and Cigarettes Handed Out To Gathering Crowds

JUN 10 1943

By the Associated Press.

WITH THE FIFTH AMERICAN ARMY IN NORTH AFRICA, June 9.—The American soldier is beating the politicians at their own game in the promotion of international friendship in North Africa.

His method is simple and direct—just giving away chewing gum, candy and cigarettes.

The natives have come to regard the Yank as a walking dispensary of sweets and smokes. Wherever he goes in this country children follow him, chanting: "Chew gum, bonbon or cigarette." Their elders gratefully accept the cigarettes.

When the convoys roll along the highways men, women and children line the roads waving frantically, giving the "V-for-Victory" sign and eagerly waiting for some soldier to toss candy or cigarettes out of the trucks.

They seem to pop out of the ground whenever an American appears. Ragged, dirty, little urchins quickly learned that the post exchanges are choice spots to patrol. When a soldier goes out with his weekly ration of goodies and tobacco he is besieged by a group of grinning children holding out their hands.

Taken For Financial Ride.

There is no doubt that Joe Yank is being taken for a financial ride by the wily native merchants who are capitalizing on the American fondness for buying souvenirs and gifts to send home.

Khaki uniforms in the narrow streets of the picturesque native medinas or market places are about as commonplace as robed Arabs and the veiled moslem women and the heavily laden jackasses almost hidden under tremendous burdens.

Prices for rugs, leather goods, silver jewelry, silver sheathed knives, blankets and embroideries have gone up 300 per cent or more since Joe came to town with his bankroll.

"Sure," a Texan drawled, "we know we are being taken for suckers, but a guy's gotta spend a little money somewhere and I reckon the folks at home get a big kick out of this stuff."

Still, the boys are learning not to bite at the first-asked price. There's a ritual to bargaining. Say you figure a handmade leather purse worth 500 francs, or $10. The merchant asks 1,000 francs. You offer a hundred and snort in disgust at the merchant's price. He almost weeps over your offer. But you haggle a while and soon get together on the price. It's a lot of fun and the boys figure to pay something extra for the entertainment.

One Sergeant Is Stern.

One sergeant in Uncle Sam's Army, Sergt. Winston Johnny Johnson of Phoenix, Ariz., is made of sterner stuff than most. The sergeant is the billeting officer at the beautiful old palace in the storied city of French Morocco. He sort of looks on the place and the populace with kindly tolerance.

But the sergeant was shaken once as we walked through alleys crammed with humans and animals and reeking with strange mingled odors of dung and spices. Johnny liked a purse in one of the shops and asked the price.

"Fifteen hundred francs," the merchant said blandly.

"That's 30 good American dollars," said Johnny. "Come again."

The price was not changed.

"Listen, my fine-feathered friend," said Johnny. "You come back to the United States with me. With my brains and your nerve we'll both be rich and retired in six months."

American Soldiers Lend Helping Hand To Iceland Natives

Troops Aid on Farm, In Road Building and Perform Other Duties

By the Associated Press.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, June 9.—The gains of war are not the only profits to be reaped from American control of this North Atlantic outpost. Entirely aside from the military advantages of this strategic base on Atlantic travel lanes are the benefits of the help given to Icelandic natives by American troops.

Authorities of the Iceland base command reviewed the record recently, and it makes interesting reading.

Take the Veterinary Corps, as an opening example.

Army vets have checked bacteria in milk, working in the local dairies and creameries. They have administered TB testing of cattle and have helped combat Bangs' disease. They have worked on abortion in sheep and on the lung disease that afflicts Iceland's sheep herds.

When a hog cholera epidemic broke out last summer, the Veterinary Corps brought in serum by plane, vaccinated the hogs and then prepared a virus for permanent immunization, teaching Icelandic veterinarians how to use it.

Farmers Are Aided.

Pamphlets have been prepared and articles printed in the Icelandic press bringing to farmers of the country the latest advances in agricultural research in the United States. Films from the Agriculture Department at Washington have been shown at a national farmers' convention and at agricultural schools about the country. Milk and cheese production have been increased and research techniques have been set up which the Icelanders themselves will be able to employ when the troops have left.

Graders and rock crushers loaned by Army engineers helped improve Iceland's highways, and the Army helps repair the damage done to roads by its own trucks by paying a gas tax to the Icelandic government, in direct proportion to mileage traveled. Snow removal has been handled by Army plows in winter, and members of the forces have helped Icelanders assemble and put in operation ditch digging machinery imported from America.

Army cranes time and again have been put into service in unloading Icelandic vessels, and big Army trucks hauled 20-ton turbines to the light plant aiding in expanded water power development for the capital.

The Army gave steel helmets to Icelandic air raid wardens and has helped in training the wardens, using American films and impressing proper techniques in dealing with bombs and other explosives.

Other Tasks Performed.

When Morgunbladid, Reykjavik's largest daily, was installing its new press, a check of Army personnel files found men qualified through civilian experience to help put up the machinery. The same was true when a complicated X-ray machine was being installed in the National Hospital. An Army man who had dealt with such machines as a civilian got the device into operating order promptly and well.

Army engineers provided material for and erected stop signs in Reykjavik and along outlying roads. Stretches of highway have been oiled, fords made across streams, and bridges improved.

Medical aid has been freely provided by the Army Medical Corps, and Army and Navy planes often have made spectacular missions of mercy to remote areas, bringing the sick or injured to hospitals.

Military personnel receive full instructions as to Icelandic laws, and the troops are required to obey them. Soldiers are off town streets by 11:30 o'clock and they are kept out of populated centers on holidays and at special celebrations. The friendliest relations with the native population are cultivated, and as a Reykjavik newspaper observed this week, such relations are being maintained with the barest minimum of unavoidable incidents.

Italy Marks 3d Year Of War, Emphasizing Threat to Homeland

Total Casualties of 633,251 Include 58,000 Men Killed

JUN 10 1943

By the Associated Press.

A Rome broadcast to mark Italy's third anniversary of war began today by summarizing Italian casualties and commenting that "now a numerous and extremely well-equipped enemy is threatening directly from the south."

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said daily bombings of Italy "announce the enemy's intention to adopt all means to bend the Axis southern defender.

"Three years of war have not given great or immediately evident results for Italy's arms," the broadcast added.

Defense Measures Cited.

While the first years of the conflict were overseas the fourth year begins with "Italy's position changed considerably," the radio said but added that the British and later the Americans needed years to open the Mediterranean and were forced to withdraw heavy forces from other areas for this purpose "thereby facilitating the efforts of the Italians."

Reviewing defense measures including mine fields, air patrol and "air offensives against the adversaries' concentrations and supplies," as well as "a very strong coastal defense on all vulnerable points with the addition of great mobile forces ready to be thrown in where necessity arises," the broadcast said:

"Italians feel certain any attempt at a landing will be extremely difficult and dangerous for an attacker."

Casualties Total 633,251.

Three-year casualty figures given by the broadcast were 633,251, including 58,000 killed, 131,000 wounded and "a little more than 444,000 missing."

The Federal Communications Commission recorded a Rome broadcast listing Italian casualties in Tunisia in May as 2,571 dead, 4,950 wounded and 97,582 missing.

Other Italian casualty figures for May listed by the broadcast were Russia, 627 dead; Balkans and other occupied territories, 532 dead, 1,167 wounded, 1,695 missing; metropolitan territory, 209 dead, 318 wounded, 169 missing; navy, 226 dead, 461 wounded, 582 missing; air, 106 dead, 73 wounded, 63 missing; merchant fleet, 236 dead, 34 wounded.

Flying Boat Wreckage Found

Wellington, N. Z., June 9 (AP)—Wreckage believed from the Royal New Zealand Air Force flying boat reported missing three days ago with eight passengers and seven crewmen has been found at sea without trace of survivors, it was announced today.

Japs Held at Bay in Timor By Daring Aussie Commandos

17 Youths Earn Rest After Weeks of Playing Cats and Mice for Keeps.

HAUGLAND

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA —(AP) Seventeen young Australians, members of the guerrilla force which harried the Japanese throughout the island of Timor for more than a year, have been returned to home duty after five weeks of playing cat-and-mouse with the enemy.

The Japanese Army, Navy and Marines took the role of cat. The Australians were the mice—though there was nothing mousy about the way they kept twisting the cat's tail. The game was played for keeps.

It wasn't fun, said the Australians, and the Japanese didn't play fairly. The enemy wasn't content merely to employ field artillery and air support, along with ordinary troops and native guides. They used bloodhounds.

The Australians reported further that:

During the first year of guerrilla warfare in Timor, Allied gunmen killed some 2,100 Japanese against the loss of 26 of their own troops killed or wounded. During the first five months, only three Australians were killed while 30 Japanese officers and 500 soldiers were knocked off.

A number of Portuguese families, the white residents of Portuguese Timor, are virtual prisoners of the Japanese and are confined rigidly to a restricted sector of Dilli, the capital.

When the time comes to re-enter the East Indies, the natives of Timor, at least, are likely to swing quickly to the side of the Allies. They are working with the Japanese now, but their hearts are not in it.

Such were the impressions and opinions of Signaler Philip Wynne and Corporal John Key, who, but for the war which made them Commandos, might have become stars of their college cricket team in Melbourne. Wynne is the son of Arthur Watkin Wynne, secretary and manager of the Australian Associated Press.

They went to Portuguese Timor last November, joined Commando units which had been harassing the enemy and pinning down a potential invasion force. Timor is only 400 miles northwest of Australia.

Driven Into Hills

Australians landed at Dilli four days after the attack on Pearl Harbor. The Japanese raided Dilli by air and sea on Feb. 19, 1942, simultaneously with sharp air attacks upon Koepang, capital of Dutch Timor, and Darwin in Australia, they drove the Australians into the jungle-thicketed hills.

Then, for months on end, the Australians kept hammering at the enemy, sniping at a Japanese patrol barge here and ambushing another there, blowing up bridges, burning down camps and making conditions generally unhealthy for the enemy.

The guerrillas usually operated in units up to six men.

"Once," Key recalled, "twelve of us were surrounded by 150 to 200 Japs and natives, who opened fire from a distance of 10 yards, and we still managed to fight our way out without a loss."

Toward the end of their stay on Timor the Japanese were hot on their trail.

Shot Hounds, Then Japs

"We learned they were using bloodhounds to track us," Wynne said. "We used to hear the baying at night. A couple of times they caught up with us, and we always made it a point to shoot the dogs first, and then the Japs."

The Japanese were so close behind them for two whole weeks "we never spoke above a whisper," but somehow managed to elude their pursuers.

The group was near starvation when finally rescued by Australian and American forces.

TWO JAP MUNITION DEPOTS EXPLODED

Direct Hits Are Scored By U. S. Bomber On Buildings At Nabire Base

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in Australia, Thursday, June 10—A single Allied bomber touched off a terrific explosion at Nabire, Dutch New Guinea, yesterday, apparently hitting two munitions warehouses, the high command announced.

The bomber was a Liberator. Out primarily for reconnaissance yesterday morning, the bombardier got some luckier hits than he had even hoped for.

Raiding elsewhere in the Southwest Pacific sector was curtailed by continued bad weather.

Direct Hits Scored

The communique said the Liberator scored "direct hits on two large buildings, apparently munitions warehouses, with 500-pound bombs."

"A terrific explosion occurred, jarring our aircraft at 12,000 feet altitude," the communique continued.

"Resulting large fires were visible for seventy-five miles with huge columns of smoke rising 8,000 feet in the air."

Barracks at another Dutch New Guinea base of the Japanese, Manokwari, also were attacked.

The only activity reported in the northeastern sector was the bombing of Unea Island, near New Britian, by a four-engined Allied plane on reconnaissance.

MacArthur And Curtin Discuss War Strategy

Canberra, Australia, Thursday, June 10 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Prime Minister John Curtin met in Sydney last Sunday and surveyed future Southwest Pacific strategy in the light of recent global-war decisions reached by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

The meeting was announced today in Parliament.

Extraordinary precautions were taken to preserve the secrecy of General MacArthur's visit. All areas in which he moved were declared military zones and were guarded by military police. A decoy crowd was placed outside the Hotel Australia while General MacArthur entered offices elsewhere.

JUNGLE TO GET SHOW

Somewhere in New Guinea, June 8 (Delayed) (A. P.).—"Fifty-fifty," an all-Army show tailored to the taste of an entertainment starved military audience, made its debut at this New Guinea post tonight and soon will go on tour through the jungle.

The three-hour performance,

JUN 10 1943

presenting the first live talent seen in these parts since the arrival of Allied troops, was strictly a home-grown production and was received with immense enthusiasm by the first-nighters.

Among those prominent in the cast was Private Danny Kiernan of New York city, like Herzog a footlighter with professional experience.

"Fifty-fifty," so named because it is a joint American and Australian undertaking, pretty much covers the field of any standard musical revue. It offers a hot band, skits, specialties and, of course, a chorus line leaning heavily to lipsticked blonds in shockingly short dresses.

Only a program note listing the ladies of the ensemble as Sergt. Soandso, Corporal Whatchamallim, &c., averted a behind-the-scenes stampede by a houseful of entranced stagedoor johnnies.

Director of the dancing teams is Sergt. Leo Herzog of Galveston, Tex., a former Broadway musical comedy performer.

EXTEND BOMBER ARC IN PACIFIC

U. S. Planes Bring More Jap Bases Into Range.

Allied Headquarters in Australia, June 9 (A. P.).—The Japanese, who seldom have been disturbed in the island stepping stones they seized southeast of Singapore leading toward Australia, were given their second grim hint in ten days by far-ranging Liberator bombers yesterday of things to come.

These Liberators, flying daringly in daylight beyond the range of escorting fighters, carried 500-pound bombs to the harbor of Waingapoe on the north coast of Soemba Island in the lesser Sunda group, more than 900 miles west of Darwin.

Through a curtain of anti-aircraft fire thrown up by batteries on ship and shore, the big four-engined American raiders roared to damage a 5,000-ton cargo ship, the biggest one in the harbor.

Thus the bombing arc of Lieut.-Gen. George C. Kenney's air force, which is traced from Bougainville in the Solomons through New Ireland, New Britain, New Guinea and the islands of the Banda, Arafura and Timor seas, now is being extended westward.

Today's communique which reported the Waingapoe raid also told of Allied bomber attacks on Dili and Koepang, Timor, Babo, Dutch New Guinea, and a small enemy convoy off Kavieng, New Ireland. Over Babo, Catalina flying boats touched off such a tremendous explosion in an ammunition dump area that the force of it was felt 6,000 feet up by the raiders.

Near the scene of ground jungle fighting in northeastern New Guinea, swift, twin-engined Beaufighters, long-range craft manned by Australians, swept down to the height of treetops in the area of Komiatum to pour cannon and machine-gun fire on suspected Japanese positions.

Japs Claim 49 Planes.

The Tokio radio quoted an Imperial Headquarters communique today as saying that a large formation of Japanese planes had shot down forty-nine American aircraft in a violent battle over the Russell Islands, some twenty miles northwest of Guadalcanal. Six Japanese planes were lost in the battle, said the broadcast, which was recorded by the Associated Press.

The United States Navy Department announced yesterday that American airmen had intercepted a force of forty or fifty Japanese planes over the Russell Islands, on Monday, shooting down nineteen enemy fighters. Seven American planes were lost in the action, but three of the pilots were rescued, the announcement said.

Mass Suicide Winds Up Japs' Last Attu Attack

JUN 10 1943

Correspondent Tells How Remnants Of Force Held Own Grenades Against Chests

William L. Worden, Associated Press correspondent who witnessed the Attu Island invasion from the start, tells in this delayed dispatch of the furious final fighting in and after a Japanese counter-attack May 29-30.

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN

Cories Lakes, Attu, May 30 (Delayed)—Final organized Japanese resistance on Attu collapsed today in the mass suicide of the survivors. Many ended it all by holding their own grenades against their chests after banging them against their helmets to start the detonating mechanism.

The final Japanese counter-attack began yesterday morning at 4 o'clock, catching the Americans by surprise. A madly yelling mob of Japanese army and navy personnel and civilians rushed positions above Cories Lake, infiltrated through our lines and reoccupied positions from which the enemy had been driven days before.

Jap Dead At Least 50 To 1

Once the sleeping Americans had been aroused, once lines had been established, the two-day battle was little more than a slaughter. No one knows tonight how many Japanese were killed. The proportion was easily fifty for every American loss. Hundreds were killed by our fire.

Some snipers penetrated even beyond our principal command post, Gen. E. M. Landrum's headquarters.

One gesticulating Japanese prisoner succeeded in reaching our lines alive tonight, clutching fearfully a slip of paper. The note said in English that the bearer wished to surrender and depended on American good treatment.

Civilians Ordered To Fight

He said that all Japanese in Attu village were ordered to make yesterday's attack, whether they were army, navy or civilian personnel. The seriously wounded were shot by their own officers in the villages. All others, even the wounded, moved to the suicidal attack.

In the first surge of the surprise 4 A. M. attack, sleeping American soldiers were bayoneted and grenaded in their pup tents as they slept in fox holes at an advanced command post near here.

The force of that Japanese drive carried to small American field guns, at least one of which was turned against our own forces.

An American colonel and other officers were surrounded in a tent, from which they fought off a steady attack from 4 A. M. until 11 A. M.

Four Officers Killed

Four officers were killed. Dead attackers lay on the tent ropes today. A first-aid station was overwhelmed, a field kitchen endangered.

The few snipers who penetrated beyond the principal American command post fired from the west side of Massacre Bay, while others were above the general's headquarters and about 2,000 yards distant on the east side of the valley.

There, however, the desperate Japanese attack stopped. There the Japanese died, almost to a man.

One last hopeless attack by about fifty men was made at 5 A. M. today. Its objective was the same command post above Cories Lake that was attacked yesterday. This time there was no surprise. A full half of the hundreds of men on the American hill were ready.

Bodies Lie In Piles

Their fire swept through the yelling Japanese, who broke, ran, gathered in gullies and there in grisly masses committed suicide with grenades.

Their bodies lie in piles tonight, riddled by American fire and torn by their own grenades. Such few as still have hands clutched the almost pitiful symbols they trusted for luck—little charms, Buddhist prayers on small bits of paper, even pictures of their families.

The entire attack surprised the American forces yesterday because of its daring and obvious hopelessness. The attackers were the few remaining regular infantrymen, medics hurriedly armed, naval personnel with pistols or with captured American rifles or with grenades. A few even had nothing but bayonets tied on long sticks.

Americans Move Cautiously

In spite of conclusive developments, however, the American forces were moving cautiously to prevent any possibility of a Japanese trick.

Typical of the murderous fire of the Americans was a member of the famous Alaskan Scouts. The scout lies dead in a fox hole, his rifle still in his fingers. The bullet that killed him came from behind. The bodies of a dozen Japs lie in a half circle in front of the scout. Each had been neatly shot. A little pile of cartridge cases lies under the scout's body.

Attu Village, Attu, June 1 (Delayed, A. P.)—The twenty-day battle of Attu was completed yesterday. But a weary lieutenant believed nothing he heard about the end of the action until last night when he picked up a telephone at the tattered tent he was using as supply headquarters.

"Lieutenant," said a voice, "these guys down here say I can't draw those rations you want, because the order isn't right. You got to have three copies of it."

"Now," exclaimed the lieutenant, "I know damn well the fighting is over. When they get to wanting seven copies, we're a damn garrison."

JAP SAYS ALLIES WILL WIN THE WAR

Honolulu, June 9—(A. P.)—Hawaii's first chaplain of Japanese ancestry to enter the armed forces is Masao Yamada, 36 years old, a Congregational minister who says "God and guns will win the war for the United Nations."

A first lieutenant in the Army Chaplain Corps, he will join American soldiers of Japanese ancestry now in training in Camp Shelby, Miss., for combat duty

One of the first advocates of an American army of volunteers of Japanese ancestry, he is well acquainted with the background and training of Japan's military machine. He is a graduate of Auburn Theological Seminary in New York, but his studies took him to Tokio for seven years.

Third Anniversary of Entry In War Dismal for Italians

JUN 10 1943

Country Obviously Tottering Toward Her Doom, Says War Analyst.

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP) Three years to the day from her stab-in-the-back entry into the war as Hitler's accomplice, Italy is so obviously tottering toward her doom that the possibility of her early collapse cannot be ignored.

It may not figure in the planning of the "amphibious operations" of vast scope which Prime Minister Churchill mentioned in his striking address to Parliament. That the first of those invasion blows is to fall against Italy cannot be seriously doubted, however. And that lends significance to the fact that Mr. Churchill pointedly omitted Italy from his warning against banking too heavily on an internal Axis collapse.

"No undue expectation should be based upon" the sudden Axis collapse in Tunisia, Mr. Churchill said; but it was to the German, not Italian, troops he referred as "brave and skillful fighting men".

Ready for Hard Fighting

"We (the Allies) are prepared to win this way by hard fighting, and if necessary, by hard fighting alone," Mr. Churchill added.

That "if necessary" clause itself is significant. It must be read as indicating that in the minds of the Anglo-American high command there is reason to hope at least for substantial elimination of Italy from the war in the relatively near future. Whatever the tactical or strategic pattern of the attack is destined to be in the Mediterranean theater, it cannot be doubted by Italian observers that Mr. Churchill's detour of Tunisia, accompanied by General Marshall, American army chief of staff, en route back to London, must have been aimed at speeding up its execution.

For Mr. Churchill revealed something else to Parliament which could have an important bearing on the actual timing of invasion operations against Italian islands if not the Italian mainland itself.

"There is no doubt from the statements of captured generals (in Tunisia) that Hitler expected his Tunisian army to hold out at least till August and that this was the view and intention of the German high command", he said.

In the light of that revelation, it can hardly be questioned that the new war directives stress speed in pushing home the attack against Italy. That has been done by air and sea bombardment but not yet by the amphibiou sassaults the British spokesmen described as impending.

Axis armies in Tunisia fell short by nearly three months of fulfilling their suicide mission of delay while Italy, Greece, southern France and the eastern Mediterranean routes to the Balkans were readied for defense. That above all stressed the significance of their sudden, unexpected and complete final collapse. It stirred Mr. Churchill to deep pondering over German as well as Italian army morale, even though he discounted any present prospect of an internal break-down in Germany.

Italy entered the war to claim a share in expected Axis spoils on June 10, 1940. Her Axis partnership has brought nothing but grief since then. Her African empire is lost. Her control of the Mediterranean waistline is gone. Her war spoils in Albania and Greece are gravely threatened. Her own great islands of Sardinia and Sicily are in jeopardy; and there is warrant for the speculation that Hitler is preparing to abandon her to her fate. There can be no songs of triumph in Italy this war anniversary.

LEWIS ACCEPTS PAY COMPROMISE, OPERATORS SPLIT

$1.30 Portal-to-Portal Wage Agreement Reached with Pennsylvanians.

WLB HEARING TODAY

Final Disposition of Controversy Will Be Sought.

WASHINGTON, June 9 — (AP) John L. Lewis was reported tonight to have agreed to accept approximately $1.30 a day as settlement of the United Mine Workers' portal-to-portal pay demand, splitting the ranks of the soft coal operators in doing it.

JUN 10 1943

The basis of an agreement was reached with a group of Pennsylvania mines employing about 65,000 miners. Portal-to-portal pay covers the time miners spend travelling underground to their posts.

Such a settlement if consummated would mean total concessions of about $1.50 a day for the miners. The War Labor board award of May 25, covering vacations and tools and equipment, is variously estimated to have given the miners an additional 18 cents to 25 cents a day.

JUN 10 1943

Price Ceilings Involved

A pay raise of that size would involve coal price ceilings, and Mr. Lewis acknowledged that the settlement is subject to government approval of a price increase as well as approval of "all properly authorized government agencies." He would not specifically concede that these agencies included the War Labor board, whose orders thus far he has refused to heed.

The reported sum of $1.30—although it may turn out to be a little less—is understood to be predicated on an assumption that the travel time of underground men would amount to about $1.50 a day. By spreading this among the outside employes—who number from 10 to 20 per cent of the total workers—the overall average for each man would be about $1.30.

Other operators, employing the remainder of the nation's 450,000 bituminous miners, privately expressed doubt the WLB would approve $1.30 and professed to be unconcerned about the division in their ranks.

Lewis Sees Acceptance

Mr. Lewis said the U.M.W. was ready to offer the same agreement to other operators, and declared he had no doubt they would accept "unless there is political and financial interference with the producers of coal of large tonnage."

The split was made known when Charles O'Neill, who has been spokesman for most of the northern mine owners, announced that as representative of the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers association he was withdrawing from the Appalachian joint wage conference. The latter group is the organization for contract negotiations established by the U.M.W. and mines in the so-called Appalachian area which produces the greater part of the nation's soft coal output.

"It might be said here and now," Mr. O'Neill told newsmen, "that while details have not been worked out, we have about reached an accord with the United Mine Workers."

Mr. O'Neill was one of the owner representatives who earlier in the day had signed a telegram to the War Labor board advising it that direct negotiations were at an impasse. On receiving this advice, WLB set a hearing for 10 a. m. tomorrow preliminary to "final disposition of the controversy."

On May 25, the board had ordered 15 days of direct negotiations on the question of pay to the miners for the time they spend traveling between the mine mouth and their places of work. This period expired today.

Under the WLB's orders, the agreement between the U.M.W. and the Central Pennsylvania group must be submitted to the board for approval. It could possibly form the basis for a general board settlement.

The Pennsylvania group represents only commercial mines, not including any of the so-called "captive" mines owned by steel companies which absorb virtually all their output.

Specific Terms Secret

Neither Mr. O'Neill nor Mr. Lewis would disclose immediately the specific terms of their agreement but said it should not take more than a day to put them on paper. Originally, Mr. Lewis asked $2 a day for portal-to-portal pay, but later offered to accept $1.50 as a temporary settlement pending findings by a commission as to the actual amount of travel time spent by miners.

Mr. Lewis told newsmen in a joint press conference with Mr. O'Neill that the agreement "will be contingent, of course, on approval of all properly authorized government agencies and contingent, of course, on necessary approval of prices permitting the agreement to become effective."

Asked whether he considered the WLB a "properly authorized" government agency, Mr. Lewis said "I would rather not discuss the War Labor board." He has refused to recognize its jurisdiction in the case.

The U.M.W. president was asked whether he would attend the hearing of the board tomorrow and replied, "I can only say that the United Mine Workers will be at the Appalachian joint wage conference."

Owners to Attend Hearing

The owners disclosed that the miners voted down a motion to recess the conference pending the call of the chair. Therefore, under the rules, the conference is scheduled to reconvene at 10 a.m., tomorrow. The owners said they felt obliged to heed the directive of the WLB and would be at the hearing instead of the conference.

Mr. O'Neill, too, said his group would be represented at the WLB hearing and would announce to the board formally that it had reached an agreement with the U.M.W.

Asked whether he would advise the WLB of the details, Mr. O'Neill said "we are not going to withhold any information from the War Labor board that we can properly give."

Opening the press conference, Mr. O'Neill said "I might say that the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers association and the United Mine Workers have reached an agreement on all points submitted to them by the War Labor board and in conformance with the directive of that body. The terms of the agreement are worked out in our own minds but at the present time, and until we have put them in writing, we will not announce anything further. The operators of Central Pennsylvania did believe that after three months of negotiation we ought to make the mine workers some kind of offer, there having not been one single cent offered to them except that by the War Labor board." Mr. O'Neill apparently referred to concessions granted by the War Labor board covering increased vacations payments, free tools and equipment. The WLB directive on May 25 sent the principal issue, portal-to-portal pay, back to the bargaining table.

Program Seen Necessary

Mr. O'Neill said his group regretted that they found it necessary to withdraw from the conference, but "we represent commercial operators who are building up tremendous retroactive payments that might be due under extended litigation. Also, we felt a program ought to be worked out to relieve the operators of this load and that the industry should have an agreement for a stated period of time in order that the mines might be returned to their owners and operated by their owners."

The government took over operation of the mines May 1 after a general work stoppage. Secretary Ickes, as full administrator, was placed in charge.

Asked whether the agreement was reached under a formula suggested by Mr. Ickes a couple of weeks ago, Mr. O'Neill said "this agreement was reached for a fixed and stated period of time and will carry no further accumulation of liabilities."

The so-called Ickes formula provided for a temporary agreement pending a study of the actual underground travel time.

Mr. Lewis said, "the mine workers have been glad to accept the first bona fide and constructive offer of a new wage agreement, which has come from the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers association. We think it is in the public interest and in the interest of the industry."

Complete Agreement

"This is a complete agreement in itself," Mr. Lewis added. "We have no doubt that it will be accepted (by other operators), unless there is political and financial interference with the producers of coal of large tonnage. We believe there will not be such interference. We believe the time has come when the country and the industry should be relieved of that.

"We feel that there is a great deal of tonnage that will accept this agreement promptly when it becomes aware of its terms. We believe not to do so would not be in the public interest."

Mr. Lewis said also "the United Mine Workers will be glad to offer the same terms and conditions to the other operators."

The operators remaining in the joint conference estimated that they represented production of about 180,000,000 tons a year in the North and 185,000,000 in the South. They estimated that Mr. O'Neill's withdrawal took about 58,000,000 tons out of the conference. The captive mines in the Central Pennsylvania area did not withdraw.

R. L. Ireland, Jr., of the Hanna Coal company, Cleveland, succeeded Mr. O'Neill as spokesman of the Northern Appalachian group.

AWARD TO BOMBERS

Washington, June 9 (A. P.).—Six New York residents are among Army Air Force bomber ground crew members listed by the War Department today as having been awarded the Legion of Merit for keeping Army planes flying during the battle of Guadalcanal.

They include:

NUTTING, HOWARD F., master sergeant; aircraft inspector, Carthage.
MacNEIL, HENRY P. JR., technical sergeant; engineering clerk, Rockville Centre.
OLSON, ARTHUR L., staff sergeant; mechanic, 3446 Corsa avenue, the Bronx, New York city.
ROBINSON, ARTHUR C., staff sergeant; mechanic, East Bethany.
ATWELL, KENNETH E., sergeant; mechanic, Windsor.
SAMIEC, LAVERNE K., sergeant; mechanic, Batavia.

Bombs bursting every few minutes, the constant threat of Japanese landing parties, and several sleepless nights at a time, failed to stop the work of the ground crew members, the War Department said.

The award commended the men for "exceptionally meritorious conduct."

MEDALS AWARDED BY WILHELMINA

Washington, June 9 (A. P.).—Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands has awarded decorations for heroism to three men of the United States Navy, the Navy reported today.

Clarence John Aschenbrenner, shipfitter second class, of New Ulm, Minn., who saw duty aboard the battered American cruiser Marblehead, was awarded the Cross of Merit posthumously. He died on March 18 as a result of injuries received in the attempted rescue of a shipmate. The Dutch Cross of Merit corresponds roughly to the United States Navy and Marine Corps Medal.

The bronze cross, corresponding to the American Navy Cross, was awarded to John Sherwood Tuttle, quartermaster, first class, of Bremerton, Wash., and to Carol Oswald Mekkelson, chief machinist's mate, of Long Beach, Cal., both were aboard the American destroyer Polk when she was lost off Java early in March, 1942, and both are listed as missing.

Aschenbrenner, one of the first two men in the Navy to receive the new Silver Star medal by award from President Roosevelt, was credited with doing much of the damage control work which resulted in the saving of the Marblehead. He lost his life when the crippled vessel was off the coast of Africa on her way home. He went into a compartment partially filled with water to rescue Bernard J. Wandzinski of Buffalo, N. Y., who had been overcome by gas. Aschenbrenner was also overcome and although both men were removed by a rescue party both died shortly afterward.

Tuttle and Mekkelson were cited in their Bronze Cross awards for the performance of duties which were not described.

U. S. Formally Notified.

Washington, June 9 (A. P.).—The State Department today had formal notice of the formation of the French National Committee of Liberation at Algiers to represent all French factions in the fight against the Axis. But French sources here indicated that complete unification would be achieved only through a slow process.

Andre Honnenot, diplomatic representative of Gen. Henri Giraud, and Philippe Baudet, acting chief of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Fighting French delegation, brought the notification of the committee to the State Department. Gen. De Gaulle and Gen. Giraud are joint chairmen of the committee.

As to when and how the two separate and heretofore rival missions to Washington would be merged, they said they could tell reporters little.

"Much remains to be done," said M. Baudet.

"That takes time," M. Hoppenot said. "It can't be done in a day."

The two delegations, meanwhile, maintain their separate offices. The Fighting French have a house on 16th street, Northwest, which some said they regarded as headquarters here of the liberation movement. The Giraud representation, known as the French North African Military Mission, has space in the offices of the Combined Chiefs of Staff.

Through lend-lease, the United States has been supporting the Giraud mission, while the British have been supporting Gen. De Gaulle. In the State Department's announcement or yesterday's visit by the two Frenchmen, whose position here roughly corresponds to that of minister, nothing was said about formal United States diplomatic recognition of the new committee at Algiers.

This could be accounted for perhaps by a desire of the Government to see how successfully the French achieve what Secretary of State Hull called the unification of all French resistants against Axis aggression.

Kinkaid, Aleutian Commander, To Be Vice-Admiral

Washington, June 9 (AP)—Rear Admiral Thomas Cassin Kinkaid, 55, commander of the joint military operations against the Japanese in the Aleutian Islands, was nominated by President Roosevelt today for promotion to vice-admiral.

Kinkaid, whose home is in Philadelphia, was given much credit for the high degree of coordination attained among the army and navy and their air forces in the recent campaign which resulted in the conquest of Attu.

Kinkaid, who has been in the navy since 1908, received the distinguished service medal from Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific fleet commander, in September for his part in the battle of the Coral Sea last May.

89,237 EMPLOYES OF U. S. AGENCIES HOLD DEFERMENTS

JUN 10 1943

Selective Service Makes First Report to Congress Under Lodge Act.

WASHINGTON, June 9 — (AP) Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, sent to the Senate and House today a list of 89,237 Federal employes aged 18 to 44 in continental United States who had been deferred on occupational grounds as of May 15.

The report is the first to be submitted under the Lodge bill which Congress passed last April requiring the Selective Service to make such reports monthly.

At a press conference called by Senator Reynolds (D-NC), Lt. Col. Francis V. Keesling, Jr., chief liaison and legislative officer of the Selective Service, estimated 50 per cent of those listed would be found unfit physically for military service if examined.

Increased Deferments

Col. Keesling also declared it was probable that subsequent reports would show an increase in the number of Federal employes defered because of occupation. This, he said, would be due to reclassification of married men now deferred because of dependency. Many of these, Col. Keesling said, would be found to be essential Federal employes.

Those included in the report, Col. Keesling explained, were in classes 2-A and 2-B which he defined as those necessary for war work. He estimated the total number of Federal employes of draft age, 18 to 37, at about a million.

67 Per Cent Under 29

One third of the Federal employes deferred, the report stated, were 25 years of age or below and nearly two-thirds were 29 years or below. It said 44 per cent or 39,286 were employes of the Navy department, and 24 per cent or 21,509 in the War department.

Agencies listed as having more than 1,000 employes deferred, in addition to the War and Navy departments, were: Justice, including FBI, 4,187; War Shipping administration, 3,384; Maritime commission, 2,995; Agriculture, 1,146; Commerce, 1,311; Civil Aeronautics boards, 1,080; Army Transport service, 1,316.

BYRNES DENIES AMBITIONS FOR VICE PRESIDENCY

New Position as War Mobilization Head No Build-up, He Declares.

BARUCH HIS ASSOCIATE

Ending Congressional Mix-ups, Reducing Committee Probes His Goal.

JUN 10 1943

WASHINGTON, June 9. — (AP) War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes denied any Vice-Presidential ambitions today.

Speaking at his first press conference since he took over the new post Mr. Byrnes also:

1. Expressed determination to head off Congressional airing of controversies over conduct of the war, through legislative-executive conferences;

2. Announced he will seek to have the number of Congressional war investigating committees reduced to keep Administrative chiefs from having to spend so much time at the capitol as witnesses; and

3. Disclosed that Bernard M. Baruch, New York industrialist and Presidential consultant, will be one of his principal assistants, without pay.

Build-Up Questioned

Meeting at the White House with the same newsmen who twice weekly interview President Roosevelt, Mr. Byrnes interrupted a lengthy explanation of his duties and plans to reply to a question touching reports that his new job might be intended as a "build up" for the Vice Presidency or "some other," job.

Mr. Byrnes replied that he greatly appreciated the compliment thus paid him by his "newspaper friends," but that since he left the Supreme court bench last fall he had "never given one moment's thought to any political ambition." He then added firmly but with a smile:

"I must say that I have no ambition to be Vice President. I would not want to be Vice President. Under no circumstances would I seek the nomination of Vice President."

Realizing this did not absolutely close the door against his possible acceptance of such a nomination, a reporter inquired whether this statement was not somewhat similar to that made by Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York in saying he is not a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Mr. Byrnes replied that if Mr. Dewey "as governor has no political ambition that is true, but if he has, it isn't true."

"How about the 'other job'" asked a reporter with his mind presumably on the Presidency.

Smiling, Mr. Byrnes said he believed the situation would never reach the stage where "there will be any popular uprising for me to be President."

Wants to Do His Job

He said he wanted to be left alone to do his job without being bothered by politics and that he would be grateful if his friends and associates realized this.

"If they don't I will make them," he said with finality.

Declaring it was his intention to establish "closer relations," with legislative committees investigating war practices, Mr. Byrnes said he had seen Senator Truman (D.-Mo.), chairman of a Senate investigating group, and would confer with him again Friday, and had asked Speaker Rayburn to plan a similar conference with an unnamed House group.

He said he would ask these groups to bring to his attention anything they regarded as warranting action by the executive branch to see if remedies could not be found "before the matter reaches the stage of airing it on the hill."

One Committee Urged

He added a belief that "much time can be saved by officials in the executive branch if there is only one investigating committee instead of half a dozen."

"I'm going to see if I can lessen the number," he said.

The War Mobilization chief made it plain that he had reserved to himself only the duties of passing on basic policy respecting home front questions. He said he did not intend to interfere with the primary duties of government agencies but will see to it that they perform their functions and do not become involved in needless mix-ups.

For example, he said, Fred M. Vinson, his successor in the stabilization directorship, retains the sole power to pass on interagency disputes on prices and wages, with Mr. Byrnes reserving power over matters involving general policy.

He said he had instructed departments and agencies to submit inter-departmental controversies to him in writing with a view to minimizing them.

"Many controversies," he said, "can be avoided if taken in hand early and settled before staff members become involved."

Only controversies of "basic importance," will be referred to the War Mobilization Advisory committee which was organized at a conference with the President yesterday.

BYRNES EMERGES AS COORDINATOR

OF TAX POLICIES

War Mobilization Director Consults Today with Morgenthau, Others.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP) War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes emerged today as the Administration's coordinator of tax policies in addition to his other manifold responsibilities.

The disclosure came in Mr. Byrnes' first press conference since he took over the war mobilization post, while President Roosevelt was preparing to sign the new pay-as-you-go tax measure and various government agencies were hunting ways to channel still more cash into the Treasury, in line with the President's statement that the government needed more money.

Mr. Byrnes, asked whether he would take a hand in tax matters, said he would, and announced that he had called a conference tomorrow with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson, and Budget Director Harold D. Smith.

Determines Views

He said he was performing that duty for the President, planning to take the views of the conferees and see if they are in agreement.

Mr. Byrnes disclosed that the Administration fiscal directors probably would consider what President Roosevelt may say in a statement expected from the White House with the signing of the current payment bill.

The President indicated at his press conference yesterday that more taxation was desired to close an inflationary gap left by the withholding tax.

Chairman George (D., Ga.) of the Senate Finance committee said Congress was ready to go to work on taxes as soon as the President suggested a course of action, but gave it as his own belief that levies on individual incomes had about reached their limit.

Saying Americans already were taxed as heavily as the British and Canadians, Sen. George added:

"I think it would be very difficult to increase individual income tax rates without breaking the backs of many taxpayers whose income has not risen but who are paying more in the cost of living."

Many in Low Brackets

He pointed out that of those persons made fully current in income taxes by the withholding measure, many are in the armed forces and a great part of the remainder are in the lowest income brackets.

Persons in the higher brackets, he went on, already face an approximate 12 1-2 per cent increase for the next two years to cover that portion of one year's taxes not forgiven.

The Senator estimated Federal tax collections this year at more than 38,000,000 and added $11,000,000,000 in state and local taxes for a total of about $50,000,000.

GROUND CREW CITED FOR GUADALCANAL ROLE

WASHINGTON, June 9. — (AP) The War department announced today that the Legion of Merit has been awarded to Army Air Force bomber ground crew members — including three New Englanders — who kept Army planes flying during the battle of Guadalcanal.

The department in making the announcement said that bombs bursting every few minutes, the ever constant threat of Japanese landing parties, and no sleep for several nights at a time, failed to stop the work of the ground crew members.

The award commended the men for "exceptionally meritorious conduct." From Dec. 13, 1942, to the following Jan. 20, the crew members maintained the planes of two bombardment groups at Henderson field. At one time bombs rained on the sea for four consecutive nights.

SALES RULES SET FOR AXIS HOLDINGS

Custodian Lists Procedure, Plans No Early Action.

JUN 10 1943

WASHINGTON, June 9. — (AP) Leo T. Crowley, alien property custodian, today outlined general procedures to govern the eventual sale of an estimated $500,000,000 worth of Axis properties in the United States.

Mr. Crowley said no immediate sales of consequence were contemplated, and the establishment of rules was merely preparatory.

He said that his office ordinarily would sell properties valued at less than $10,000 either at private or public sales, but larger properties would be sold only through public sales. Public sales, he added, would be ordinarily on a competitive bidding basis or by the marketing of registered securities under supervision of the Securities and Exchange commission.

When real estate is involved, he said, sales will be conducted with the assistance of recognized brokers. Perishable or "expendable" commodities generally will be sold privately at prevailing market prices.

When public sales are held, Mr. Crowley promised to advertise the sales at least 15 days in advance in a newspaper of general circulation in the place where the property is located and also in trade papers and other appropriate publications.

Hawaii Leads Nation In Bond Purchases

Washington, June 9 (AP)—Hawaii leads the nation in per capita war bonds purchases and has "set an example for all of us," Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said today.

Statistics compiled by the Treasury, the Secretary said, show that the people of Hawaii have led the quota performance record every month since the quota system was established in May, 1942, and on a monthly per capita basis have bought war bonds at a rate of from two to nearly four times above the average for the nation.

Per capita sales in Hawaii last December were $20.16, compared with $5.43 for the nation, Morgenthau said.

Guadalcanal Air Hero Now Major Of Marines

Washington, June 9 (AP)—To Joe Foss' other honors has been added a promotion to major in the Marine Corps, the navy reported today.

The 28-year-old flyer, whose home is at Sioux Falls, S. D., recently returned from Guadalcanal where he shot down twenty-six Japanese planes. This made him America's number one ace of the year with a record tying that of Eddie Rickenbacker in the previous World War.

For his feat Foss first was awarded the Navy Cross. Then President Roosevelt gave him the Congressional Medal of Honor. Now he has been promoted from captain to major.

Modern Knights In Armor, Man U. S. War Planes

JUN 10 1943

Washington, June 9 (AP)—Modern knights in armor are beginning to man Uncle Sam's planes plying over Axis territory.

The War Department reported today that the Eight Air Force in England has developed and clad some of its member crews in thin steel plates covering breast and back to protect them from missiles of relatively low velocity, such as flack from anti-aircraft guns.

Such missiles, which are found to cause a majority of wounds, can be stopped by the plates, which weigh about twenty pounds and are slipped into pockets of a new sleeveless jacket to form a sort of cuirass protecting wearers from neck to hips.

Greeks Receive Anti-Sub Patrol Boat Today

Washington, June 9 (AP)—With President Roosevelt participating in the ceremony, the Greek Government will take over from the navy tomorrow an anti-submarine patrol boat.

The ceremony will be broadcast at 5 P. M. over all networks.

The ship, of the same type as vessels previously transferred to Norway and the Netherlands, will be given the Greeks under a lend-lease arrangement. The Greek Ambassador, Cimon P. Diamantopoulos, will receive it on behalf of his Government.

Paraguay President Greeted By Roosevelt At White House

Higinio Morinigo Arrives On First United States Visit. Will Make Tour Of War Industries

JUN 10 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 9—President Higinio Morinigo of Paraguay arrived at the White House today to be the guest of President Roosevelt.

He was greeted with full military honors on the south lawn of the White House and then entered the mansion, where President Roosevelt extended a welcoming hand in a diplomatic reception room.

The visiting Chief Executive reached Washington by plane and drove to the White House immediately. Secretary Hull met him as he left the plane and accompanied him to the Executive Mansion.

State Dinner Planned

While a guard of honor consisting of a company each of soldiers, sailors and marines, stood at "present arms," the Army Band played the Paraguayan and American national anthems.

A state dinner was planned in honor of President Morinigo at the White House tonight, after which the Presidents of the two American Republics were to have a conference. Tomorrow the visitor will move to the Blair House, reserved for visiting dignitaries, and later he will tour various American war manufacturing centers.

The visiting President's party arrived at National Airport in an army plane at 4.35 P. M. It is his first visit to the United States.

Son Came In 1941

His son, Higinio, Jr., came here in 1941 at the invitation of Mr. Roosevelt and went to Warm Springs, Ga., for treatment of infantile paralysis. He was brought here by his mother.

President Morinigo will go to the Capitol tomorrow, after which he will be the honor guest at a special meeting of the board of governors of the Pan-American Union.

Members of the President's party were taken to the Blair House, and later attended a tea at the White House.

FOREIGN RELIEF PLAN OUTLINED

Congressional Leaders Told Of Outlook By President And Lehman

No Appropriation Sought Until After Summer Recess, It Is Understood

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 9—Outlines of measures to provide relief for civil populations as Allied armies liberate them from the Axis were sketched for Congressional leaders of both parties today as a preliminary to financing proposals.

No estimate of the sums involved came out of the meeting at the White House, but Speaker Rayburn (D., Texas) remarked that the cost would be "quite considerable."

"I think it's got to be done," Rayburn said.

Use Of Emergency Funds

It was understood that the Administration will continue to pay for preliminaries of the program out of emergency funds until Congress returns in September after the summer recess, now planned to begin around July 7.

Representative Martin, of Massachusetts, House Republican leader, said Herbert H. Lehman, director of foreign relief and rehabilitation, and State Department representatives "presented a very comprehensive outline of relief for the occupied countries."

"No legislation is needed at this time," he said. "Details of the plan are still to be formulated."

He did not offer an opinion of the plan.

No Comment On Plan

Rayburn said he understood an organization of forty-four nations was contemplated, including the United Nations and those which have broken relations with the Axis.

He said no definite budget had been worked out and it was understood that those sponsoring the plan would do their best to "get each country to do the most possible" in contributing to relief costs.

Payment As Possible

Tentative plans were understood to call for payment from the liberated peoples for necessary goods up to the limit of their ability.

Besides President Roosevelt, Lehman, Rayburn and Martin, those participating in the conference were Representative McCormack of Massachusetts, House majority leader; Vice-President Wallace; Cordell Hull, Secretary of State; Senator Hill (D., Ala.), the Democratic whip; Senator McNary of Oregon, minority leader, and Dean Acheson, Assistant Secretary of State.

MAGIC TRIED ON JAPANESE

Paper Kiri Leaves Supposed To Signify Death Dropped On Enemy At Attu

OWI Propaganda Weapon Is Derived From Old Oriental Superstition

JUN 10 1943

Washington, June 9 (AP)—The Pacific War Council heard a report from President Roosevelt today on the successful operations on Attu Island in the Aleutians and also received an appraisal of "the continuing attrition on Japanese marchant shipping."

Asked how that attrition was getting along, the British Ambassador, Lord Halifax, replied: "Not bad, not bad."

The council, which meets regularly at the White House, is made up of representatives of all the nations engaged in the war in the Pacific area. Halifax said today's meeting was given over largely to "factual reporting" and "nothing very startling came up."

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 9—American forces on Attu plagued the Japanese with their most dreaded omen of bad luck, as well as bullets and bombs.

Dipping into Japanese mythology, American propagandists discovered that in Japan there is nothing more feared than the premature falling of the leaves of the kiri tree. All kinds of misfortune are supposed to befall any village where this occurs; plays have built around this superstition.

So propagandists arranged for many kiri leaves to fall on Attu.

Called Maple Leaves

The story came to light today after Arthur W. Schuett, Jr., navy aviation machinist's mate back from the Aleutians, told in St. Louis how American flyers had dropped "maple leaves" on Attu.

The Office of War Information, revealing that it was "an OWI job," explained that it was not the maple leaf at all, but the kiri leaf.

The kiri tree, known officially as the Paulownia tomentosa, long has figured in Japanese mythology. A famous play, "Kiri To Ha," meaning "one leaf of kiri," relates how power-grabbing militarists met their downfall because the kiri leaf fell too soon.

Made Of Paper

Although enlarged somewhat, the kiri leaves dropped on the Japanese at Attu were colored to resemble the real thing. They were made of paper.

Botanists say that the kiri tree, while native to the Orient, is not rare in this country. They describe it as somewhat like the more common catalpa. Unlike catalpa, however, the kiri flowers before the leaves come out. The flowers are rather large and bluish in color.

To botanists it is a "a fine ornamental tree."

What part the kiri leaf may have played in the American victory at Attu, in relation to bullets and bombs, OWI did not indicate.

WAAC CHARGE DENIED

WASHINGTON, June 9 — (AP) Col. Oveta Culp Hobby, head of the WAAC, today denied a story carried by a New York newspaper that the WAAC would be furnished contraceptives and prophylactic equipment.

"There is absolutely no foundation of truth in the statement," declared Colonel Hobby.

The story asserted that these items would be furnished to the WAACs "according to a super secret agreement reached by high ranking officers of the War department and the WAAC chieftan."

EQUAL QUOTA RIGHT FOR CHINESE ASKED

Washington, June 9 (A. P.).—A twin proposal that all immigration quotas be cut and Chinese allowed the same rights of entry to the United States as other nationalities enjoy was advanced in Congress today in an effort to compromise divergent opinions over the Chinese exclusion laws.

Acting after the House Immigration Committee had refused by one vote to approve Chinese immigration to the United States, Representative Gossett (D.-Tex.) suggested that quotas for all countries be cut 10 to 20 per cent and that the Chinese be placed on an equal basis with other nationals.

Mr. Gossett's proposal was reported to have the support of some members of the committee. Mr. Gossett said that he believed his idea would solve two problems: Satisfy those who want China treated without discrimination; and by reducing the number who would be admitted alleviate fears of some committee members—particularly southerners—that a new minority problem would be created. Mr. Gossett said that he or other members probably would introduce legislation along this line.

At the same time, Representative Magnuson (D.-Wash.) said that he would introduce another bill, expanding on his original one, to admit Chinese on a quota basis and grant them citizenship.

Japs Told to Destroy Allies or Be Destroyed

Speaker of Tokio House Warns of Long War

By the Associated Press.

Tadahiko Okada, Speaker of the Japanese House of Representatives, told a mass meeting in Tokio today that Japan must utterly destroy the United States and Britain or be destroyed herself, the Tokio radio reported in a broadcast recorded by by the Associated Press.

The grim nature of the global war, Okada was quoted as saying, "will permit no half-baked distinction between the victor and vanquished." Instead, he declared, it is a question of "the survival of the fittest—eat or be eaten."

Okada spoke at a "crush Britain and the United States rally" in the Municipal Auditorium, the broadcast said.

"There is absolutely no room for the co-existence of Japan on the one side and Britain and the United States on the other," he declared. "We must crush and overthrow those two countries, which are cruelty and craftiness incarnate."

Okada accused the United States of "attempting to control Europe across the Atlantic and East Asia across the Pacific in an outspoken action of extreme imperialism."

He concluded, the broadcast said, by warning that hard fighting lies ahead for Japan and that her people must be "firmly and willingly resolved to fight a prolonged war."

T. R.'s Widow Carries On Devotion To Navy

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 9 (AP)—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, 81-year-od widow of the President, carried on her husband's devotion to the navy today by participating in a naval graduation ceremony held on the porch of Sagamore Hill, the Roosevelt homestead.

In the face of the news of the death in Alaska of her son, Major Kermit Roosevelt, a few days ago, the widow of the twenty-sixth President and former Assistant Secretary of the Navy, went through with the program and talked briefly with the eighteen Oyster Bay High School youths who comprised the school's first graduating class of the Seamanship Training Corps.

Attired in a simple black silk dress with white touches at the throat, Mrs. Roosevelt was flanked by her daughter, Mrs. Richard Derby, Rear Admiral Lamar Leahy, Lieut. Com. Harry C. Garrison, and Percy S. Weeks, original sponsor of the corps.

Plans To Use Poison Gas Revealed

New York, June 9 (AP)—Recently seized German military documents have revealed that the Axis intends to use poison gas on a large scale, the Soviet radio at Petropavlovskak reported today in a broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission and reported by the Office of War Information.

Mme. Chiang Reviews Parade Of Auxiliaries

New York, June 9 (AP)—Mme. Chiang Kai-shek reviewed a full-dress parade of 2,200 WAVES, SPARs and marine auxiliaries today at the Navy Auxiliary Training School in the Bronx.

Betty Joe Allen, second class seaman, of Hot Springs, Col., acting for the school personnel, presented an orchid corsage to Mme. Chiang, who, following the review, was conducted on a tour of the school by Capt. W. F. Amsden, the commander.

Early Collapse of Axis Unlikely, Says Forrestal

JUN 10 1943

Warning Against Optimism Sounded in Address at Coast Guard Academy.

NEW LONDON, June 9.—(AP) Undersecretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal told 82 Coast Guard academy cadets today that "wishful thinking about the early collapse of our enemies is, to put it mildly, most undesirable," just before they were commissioned as ensigns in the U. S. Coast Guard.

The Japanese fleet is "nailed to its own bases" and the "strategical and tactical map of war in Europe" has been altered, Mr. Forrestal said in his commencement address, "but it is dangerous to fix any dates" for the end of the war.

The 82 cadets, largest class in the academy's history, were graduated a full year ahead of time. Vice Admiral Russell R. Waesche, commandant of the Coast Guard, administered the oath to the cadets and presented them with their commissions. They were awarded bachelor of science degrees also at the exercises held in Billard hall, the academy's spacious assembly room.

Scholastic Leader Honored

James Paul VanEtten of Seneca Falls, N. Y., was graduated with an average of 88.61 and received a watch from the Alumni association as the highest ranking cadet.

Mr. Forrestal, calling "premature and dangerous" any talk of reconverting manufacturing facilities to peacetime products, said:

"So far as we in the Navy can see, there is not apparent in the near future any letup in the need for raw materials to be manufactured into the weapons of war.

"What has been done in 1942 and so far in 1943 is merely the lopping off of some of the tentacles of the Axis octopus.

"The great blow against its heart has yet to be struck. The final, fatal crisis has yet to be faced and surmounted.

"At no point in the discernible future can we say with assurance that the production of war goods will pass its peak.

Vast Strides Made

"We hvae made vast strides in the past 12 months in the improvement of our military position. The Japanese navy, which a year ago dared to launch an assault in the Pacific, is now nailed to its own bases. Japanese air power has received sharp and serious blows, and the merchant shipping of that nation has been dealt with harshly by our submarines.

"The Tunisian campaign has altered the strategical and tactical map of war in Europe. Bombings have begun to soften the fortress of Europe, and punishing blows against the Nazi U-Boats have made the Atlantic far from the happy hunting ground the Germans thought it was to be for a long time to come. However, these are only partial steps on the way to victory. The time of that victory no man can set. Speculation about it seems to me to be idle."

LEGION HEAD RAPS PRESS

Roane Waring Takes Exception To Editorial At North Dakota Convention

Warns Against Elements That May Seek Negotiated Peace After The War

JUN 10 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Grand Forks, N. D., June 9—Roane Waring, national commander of the American Legion, cautioned the North Dakota State Legion convention here yesterday to guard against elements that might seek a negotiated peace after the war, instead of one dictated by the United Nations.

Waring said suggestions for a negotiated peace "might come from many interests when they begin to see the cost of the war in lives and money.

Groups misled by the horrors of war might seek a negotiated peace and if they are successful and we do make a negotiated peace, we are simply passing a death sentence on the next generation."

Urged To Be On Guard

He then urged that "we be on guard against those interests that might want a negotiated peace," and added that the suggestion for negotiated peace "might come from many quarters; it might come from some newspapers that have had their newsprint cut some and have lost many of their men."

Earlier in his address he had taken exception to an editorial in the Bismarck (N. D.) Tribune which had criticized him for assailing a Pennsylvania Legion post that had apologized to John L. Lewis for Waring's statements concerning the mine leader. The editorial had called the commander's position an attempt "to curb the right of an American Legion post to disagree with him."

Asserting the editorial stated Waring "might be right but he should not have said it," the Legion chief declared "this is no time for pussyfooting, and if something is right let's say so."

The Tribune editorial stated that Commander Waring had said "the Pennsylvania post must be ousted from the Legion or he (Waring) will resign."

At Bismarck, Kenneth W. Simons, editor and past commander of his Legion post, declared Waring "either failed to read or deliberately misinterpreted" the editorial. He said that in the editorial he took no issue with Waring's comments upon Lewis, but that he upheld the right to freedom of speech by a Legion post as well as by an individual.

ALLIES POSSESS INITIATIVE NOW, DECLARES KNOX

Navy Secretary Addresses Record Graduating Class at Annapolis.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 9—(AP) Secretary of the Navy Knox told the largest United States Naval academy graduating class in history today that in contrast to the dark days following Pear Harbor," the initiative is all ours" in the war at present.

Praising the transition the United Nations have made from a defensive to an offensive war, he said that "secret information to us says the feeling in Tokyo and Berlin is akin to ours after Pearl Harbor."

The Navy secretary recalled that "our enemies in the Far East were winning victory after victory," and that "Britain was a beleagured isle and waiting for a blow" in December, 1941.

"Today, less than two years later, I am happy to say that we have assembled a mighty army. We have assembled a new fleet."

Eight Active Fronts

He declared that there was "a lot of irresponsible talk about a second front," explaining there were eight active fronts—the Western Mediterranean, Eastern Mediterranean, North Atlantic, the South Atlantic, South Pacific, North Pacific and in Russia and China.

"The choice, place and time for striking is now ours," he asserted.

Seven hundred and sixty-six members of the class of 1944 received their diplomas today, a full year ahead of schedule because of the war-engendered acceleration of courses at the academy.

Twenty-five of today's graduates were commissioned second lieutenants in the Marine corps, and approximately one-half of the remainder will report to naval air training stations for further studies.

After a two-week holiday, the remainder will go on active duty as ensigns of the Navy.

June week exercises at the academy will end tonight with the famed class of 1945 "ring dance" in McDonough hall.

Pitcher Starred in Sinking Sub

Hansen of Dodgers' Farm Team Pointed Gun Crew of Spencer in North Atlantic.

JUN 10 1943

Boston, June 9 (A. P.).—Henry L. Hansen, 22-year-old former farm twirler for the Brooklyn Dodgers, helped do the "pitching" when the Coast Guard cutter Spencer sent a Nazi submarine to the bottom of the North Atlantic.

Hansen disclosed in an interview today that he was the pointer of one of the Spencer's gun crews which got six hits in eleven shots at the U-boat.

And he was the only member of the crew who made an "assist." He went overside down a length of rope to help to safety some of the forty Germans who were shot out of their submersible.

A native of Brooklyn, Hansen was with the Reading, Pa., and the Vodosta team in Georgia before he entered the service two years ago. His father is a detective in the New York Police Department.

"A gun pointer setting beads on subs doesn't get in tight spots as often as a pitcher in baseball," he said. "But once a crisis comes it's so intense as to pack a lifetime of excited memory in measured seconds. I recall a strange sensation of complete calm through it all, just like a fellow must be when he's pitching. And when it was all over I was so excited with the experience that I was limp for hours after. I get excited now, even thinking of it."

Allied Naval Victory Over Jap Fleet Seen

Detroit, June 9 (AP)—"We're going to wipe out the Japanese fleet and we're just looking for a chance to do it," declared Admiral Thomas C. Hart, former commander in chief of Allied naval forces in the Western Pacific, in an interview here today.

He does not foresee in the immediate future, he said, a great pitched battle in which the entire Japanese fleet would meet the United Nations fleet in a decisive engagement.

Instead, he predicted continued task-force engagements.

The final result—a complete Allied victory—will be the same whether it is achieved through a series of small engagements or through one huge sea battle, he said.

NOTE IN A BOTTLE FROM LOST SAILOR

Battle Creek, Mich., June 9 (A. P.).—The discovery of a brief note in a bottle, believed to have been scribbled by a Battle Creek boy who was reported lost on an American submarine more than a year ago, has produced one of the war's strangest stories.

The note, which reads: "Mom: I'm still thinking of you. Lawrence Glass, Electric ave., B. C., Mich." has reached Lawrence's foster-mother, Mrs. H. F. Glass, of Battle Creek.

The note was found in San Francisco Bay by Elmer A. Jennings, an Army man, stationed at Vallejo, Cal. He sent the note to Mrs. Glass, who said today she is certain the note was written by her foster son, because "it was in his handwriting. Besides, he referred to me as Mom, and nobody else knew he called me that."

Written on a small piece of paper, evidently a sheet torn from a small memo pad, the note was scribbled unevenly across the paper, indicating that it must have been jotted down in a hurry. The paper is stained.

Seaman Glass was born in Columbus, Ohio, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Clark, and came to Battle Creek when he was 4 years old. Shortly afterward his mother died and he was adopted by Mrs. Glass. After he joined the Navy Mrs. Glass heard from him regularly until shortly before Christmas in 1941. In March, 1942, the Navy disclosed that the submarine Shark, on which Glass was serving, was more than a month overdue, and "must be presumed to be lost."

160 WAAC Companies Are in Field, Officer Says

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, June 9.—There are 160 field companies of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps now on active duty in Army posts and air bases in the United States and overseas, according to Maj. Harold A. Edlund, WAAC recruiting director.

Here from Washington to assist in a concerted recruiting drive, Maj. Edlund said last night that within six months or less, "these WAAC field companies have made an impressive record for themselves."

He said only four companies have been in the field for as much as six months, and that within the last month 126 companies have gone to Army posts.

ITALIANS, HELD PRISONERS AT CAMP, HAPPY

JUN 10 1943

Farmers, Cooks And Skilled Masons Among Group

Laborers Also Much In Evidence At Atterbury (Md.) Stockade

[By the Associated Press]

Camp Atterbury, Ind., June 9—Farmers, carpenters, cooks and highly skilled masonry workers are among the Italian prisoners now being held at Camp Atterbury.

The unskilled laborer also was much in evidence as the army conducted newsmen on the first tour through the big stokade where the prisoners are held in this spotless Hoosier camp.

The prisoners who are working outside the stockade are better off financially than their companions. They receive eighty cents a day, in addition to their regular ten cents a day allowance.

Adept Ao Farming

Col. John L. Gammell, commanding officer of the United States Army unit which has charge of the prisoners, said, however, that the extra pay has been authorized for prisoners who must work within the stockade at such jobs as cooking the meals and doing necessary carpenter work.

Over at the camp's fifty-acre vegetable garden one group of prisoners was busy hoeing tomatoes. Officers said about three fourths of the prisoners ,who recently arrived here, were farmers in peacetime Italy and were "very adept at it."

They sang as they worked and when news photographers took their pictures they grinned broadly and whaled away with their hoes with adding vigor.

Carving Camp's Name

At one entrance to the camp another group was busy carving the name "Camp Atterbury" in a huge rock.

Along one road around the stockade two youthful prisoners were making a stone American flag on a raised spot in the ground. In front of several of their barracks, the same as those which house American soldiers, the prisoners have made various designs in rock.

Another group of prisoners was cutting weeds, but when someone suggested to the officer that the men sing the Italian version of

JUN 10 1943

"The Beer-Barrel Polka," their favorite marching song, the interpreter called to them, but said they told him it was "too hot." About one hundred yards from the stockade another group of men were clearing off what once had been a huge pile of scrap left from construction of the barracks. The arae was almost entirely clean.

Spaghetti A Favorite

If the meal served newsmen on their trip through the camp was any indication, the cooks know what they are doing—that is, if you like spaghetti and Italian bread. That's the favorite food of the prisoners.

They eat their meat and potatoes, but usually no tuntil after they have devoured a big plate of spaghetti or more.

The prisoners keep the barracks in repair. Others work in the prisoner stockade canteen.

But regardless of what they were doing, you saw broad smiles. There were no evidences of any dissatisfaction.

Camp Has Musicians

The camp has its musicians, too, and Colonel Gammell is trying to round up musical instruments for the prisoners. If the instruments can be found, he said, he has enough talented musicians to form a one hundred-piece band.

The prisoners work a maximum of ten hours a day and six days a week. Some don't work that much, of course, because of lack of jobs for them but the army is making arrangements to use them on nearby private farms.

Where that is done, the farmer will pay the Government an agreed wage for the laborer. The prisoner then will receive his regular 80 cents a day and he may spend up $13.00 a month in the canteens.

Profits Go To Stockade

All profits from the canteens go right back into the prison stockade—to outfit the internment camp, buy athletic equipment, musical instruments or do many other things to contribute to the comfort of the men as required by the Geneva Convention, an international treaty governing treatment of prisoners of war to which all principal belligerants have subscribed.

Colonel Gammell made it plain that the treatment of the men is in accordance with the Geneva Convention.

"They are not convicts in any sense of the word," he said. "They're soldiers. It's true they are enemy soldiers but your friends or brothers may be in the same boat over there."

U. S. Ship Torpedoed In Indian Ocean

Washington, June 9 (AP)—The navy reported today that a medium-sized United States merchant ship was torpedoed by an enemy submarine in the Indian Ocean early in March.

The ship later broke in two and was sunk by shellfire to prevent her becoming a hazard to navigation. Survivors have landed at Key West, Florida.

Windsors Visit Army's Valley Forge Hospital

Phoenixville, Pa., June 9 (AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor toured the army's new Valley Forge general hospital today, visiting wounded American soldiers.

The Duke, meeting reporters for an interview, looked about at their legs saying he wanted to see who had trouser cuffs and who had not.

"I think it's a silly rule that does away with trouser cuffs," he said.

LOYAL TO MIKADO

Los Angeles, June 9 (A. P.).—Ralph M. Gelvin, associate director of the Poston, Ariz., relocation center, says 450 American-born Japanese at the camp have refused to disown their loyalty to the Emperor of Japan or swear allegiance to the United States.

Testifying before the Dies congressional sub-committee, he said yesterday that the refusals were written on questionnaires given to all the center's evacuees over 17 years of age.

Another 180, he said, gave qualified or evasive answers, such as "I'm neutral."

He said the administrators at Poston were very much surprised at the number of American-born Japanese who answered "No" to the question of loyalty.

Citizens' Committee Named To Probe Zoot-Suit Riots

JUN 10 1943

Mexican Envoy Protests to State Department; Sporadic Outbreaks.

LOS ANGELES, June 9.—(AP) A five-day conflict between zoot-suited youths and service men brought repercussions today in the State and Federal governments as isolated outbreaks continued.

More than 150 persons have been injured and 500 jailed during the violence.

In Sacramento, Gov. Earl Warren issued an appeal for the ending of the rioting and announced that State Attorney General Robert W. Kenny and a citizens' committee of five will make an immediate investigation to ascertain the facts behind the disturbances.

Earlier today Mr. Kenny conferred with the governor and Adjutant General Ray Hays on the problem.

Mexican Envoy Protests

In Washington, a Mexican embassy official voiced indignation over the attacks on zoot suiters, many of whom he declared are "innocent Mexican bystanders."

Rafael de la Colina, minister-counselor of the embassy, said that a report on the incidents had been received from the Los Angeles Mexican consulate, and hinted a formal protest was possible. He said instructions are awaited from the Mexican government.

In an interview, he called the riots as "mob violence" against members of the Los Angeles Mexican colony.

Mayor Fletcher Bowron of Los Angeles said he had been telephoned by the State department in Washington and informed that the Mexican embassy had called the department's attention to the situation.

Mayor Promises Enforcement

The mayor said he informed the State department that "the law is going to be enforced and the peace kept."

"There is no question of racial discrimination involved," Mayor Bowron added. "We have here unfortunately a bad situation as the result of the formation and activities of youthful gangs the members of which probably to the extent of 98 per cent or more were born right here in Los Angeles."

Latest victim injured in the clashes involving youthful wearers of zoot suits—knee length frock coats and pleated, ankle-clutching trousers—was Policeman C. D. Medley, 35.

He declared he stopped his patrol car early today to examine a zoot-clad youth lying in a street. A car was parked about 200 feet away, and in it were several other youths.

Policeman Run Down

"The decoy broke away and ran across the street," he related. "The car came straight at me. I tried to dodge but the car swerved after me, knocking me down."

Policeman Medley was taken to a hospital with back and other injuries.

Only the outlandish apparel and the fact that the clashes involve soldiers and sailors are new, juvenile authorities said.

East Side neighborhood gangs for years have clashed with tire irons, sand-filled hose and other weapons, a police juvenile officer declared, when groups from one neighborhood would try to crash a party in another or go out with girls from another district.

Youthful hoodlums, including zooters, have been involved in rape, robbery, burglary, mayhem and murder, and other charges.

New Angle

The new and perplexing angle is their clashes with service men. The service men, say authorities, explain their members have been set upon by zooters; the latter claim a batch of sailors started it and, that men in uniform have called them uncomplimentary names.

The latest outbreaks had spread to outlying sections following assignment of extra police, special officers, shore patrolmen and military police to the downtown area. Los Angeles has been declared out of bounds for naval personnel.

A crowd of sailors was dispersed after mauling and ripping off zoot suits of several youths last night in the downtown theatrical section and "Pike" amusement zone of Long Beach.

Alfred Elias Calles, Mexican consul general, issued a statement saying:

"We believe it opportune to suggest to all heads of Mexican families to recommend their sons and other relatives to stay indoors at night in order to avoid any unpleasant happenings. . ."

Racial Charge Made

Carey McWilliams, chairman of the Los Angeles chapter of the National Lawyers guild, sent a plea to Attorney-General Francis Biddle in Washington to assign representatives to investigate "race riots."

"These riots were not isolated, spontaneous incidents," Mr. McWilliams advised the attorney-general. "Evidence indicates that week-end violence represents logical culmination of provocative and discriminatory policies pursued by local officials toward the Mexican section of the community during last 18 months."

Mayor Bowron disclosed receipt of a telegram from Nelson Rockefeller, coordination of Inter-American affairs, in Washington. He said he sent Mr. Rockefeller a report stating the zoot-suit situation would be handled so as not to affect friendly relations between the United States and Mexico.

Ordinance Urged

The Los Angeles city council, meantime, received a proposal from Councilman Norris Nelson that the wearing of zoot suits with reat pleats within the city limits be made a jail offense.

"The zoot suit has become a badge of hoodlumism," Mr. Nelson asserted. "We prohibit nudism by an ordinance and if we can arrest people for being under-dressed we can do so for being over-dressed."

His resolution was referred to the Police commission.

State Senator Jack B. Tenney, chairman of a legislative committee which recently held hearings here on alleged Unamerican activities, said he had uncovered evidence indicating that zoot suit demonstrations have been Axis-sponsored, to spread disunion between the United States and Latin American countries.

Additional incidents involving zoot suit wearers and service men were reported, meanwhile.

Two hundred soldiers, transported by civilian drivers, visited a Mexican colony north of nearby El Monte early today. They questioned and released the only zoot-suiter they found among the inhabitants after he convinced them he was a war worker. Sheriff's deputies arrived as the soldiers were about to leave.

Nazis Admit Attack on Convoy

LONDON, June 9 (AP).—The Berlin radio reported today that several British torpedo boats were damaged last night while attempting to attack a German convoy in the English Channel between Dunkerque and Calais. The broadcast, which was recorded by The Associated Press, said no German ships were lost. There was no immediate report on the action from British sources.

British Officer Finds U-Boats 'Beaten Hollow'

JUN 10 1943

Destroyer Commander Says Once a Submarine Is Detected, It Cannot Live

LONDON, June 9 (AP).—One of Great Britain's top destroyer commanders, Lieutenant Commander Richard S. Stannard, said in an interview today that American and British officers and sailors are convinced they "have the U-boats beaten all hollow."

Stannard, veteran of three and one-half years of convoy work and holder of the Victoria Cross, said there now was an adequate supply of new escort vessels and that British and American air patrols and warships are so coordinated that they function as a single unit.

He said convoy work now is so perfect that once a U-boat is detected "it cannot live," and that commanding officers are confident they can break up submarine packs every time. New directional devices and the blanket air patrol have made instances of surprise attack extremely rare, he said.

"American destroyer crews know our stuff by heart," he said, adding that in one mid-winter attack on an Atlantic convoy by twenty-three Nazi submarines they "got at" the convoy only once.

Stannard was blasted out of his home only a few days ago by a bomb from one of two "sneak" raiders over England. He said he would much rather be at sea during a bombing attack, because there you can hit back at them."

U. S. Vessel Is Torpedoed

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP).—The Navy reported today that a medium-sized American merchant ship was torpedoed by an enemy submarine in the Indian Ocean early in March. The ship later broke in two and was sunk by shellfire to prevent her becoming a hazard to navigation. Survivors have landed at Key West, Fla.

Japanese Stabbed 50 in Burma; Trip Took 8 Months

AN AMERICAN BASE IN INDIA (AP).—Three bedraggled footsore, half-starved Chinese have reached this base eight months after the Japanese bayoneted them and fifty wounded members of the Chinese 5th Army in their hospital beds at Shingbwiyang, Burma.

They reported that seven other Chinese were able to crawl into the jungle after the enemy had left them for dead, but that only the three had survived. When the three started toward India one couldn't walk, one couldn't talk and the third couldn't see.

Liu Ping Wu, twenty-three-year-old private, was abed with a compound leg fracture wnen the Japanese bayoneted him through the mosquito netting over his bed, piercing his thighs three times. He used improvised bamboo crutches to flee, and when he arrived here his right leg was two inches shorter than the other.

Lin Sung Lin, nineteen, a superior orderly, was suffering from three bayonet wounds in the throat. Wei Hei Fen, fifty, armored unit driver, was temporarily blind before being bayoneted and urged the others to leave him, but they refused.

After eleven days they reached a place where they could obtain medical treatment. The Japanese came while they were there, but they hid in the bush. They finally dragged themselves in here, where they made for the American hospital.

4 Submarine Skippers Get Silver Star Medals

Honored for Sinking 150,000 Tons of Japanese Ships

PEARL HARBOR, June 9 (AP).—Four submarine commanders who have sunk or damaged more than 150,000 tons of Japanese shipping, much of it near Tokio and the mandated Pacific islands, were decorated with the Silver Star Medal today.

Lieutenant Commander Roy M. Davenport, of Los Angeles, received a gold star, in lieu of a second Silver Star Medal, for sinking a large Japanese transport despite its destroyer escort. The troop ship, operating in the mandated islands, was fully loaded. It sank quickly and there were no survivors. Davenport's submarine was made the object of enemy depth charges but escaped. It was his first patrol as skipper.

Lieutenant Commander Wreford G. Chapple, of Billings, Mont., received the Silver Star for sinking 11,000 tons of shipping and damaging 5,000 tons. He previously had been decorated with the Navy Cross. He has to his credit six Japanese ships totaling 35,500 tons sunk and three ships totaling 15,000 tons damaged.

Lieutenant Commander Raymond H. Bass, of Los Angeles, making his first patrol as captain, was decorated for sinking a big freighter and damaging a large naval tanker in the mandated islands.

Lieutenant Commander Eugene T. Sands, thirty-six years old, of Talladega, Ala., received the Silver Star for sinking three freighters and damaging a large tanker and a patrol boat.

2 Others Parachute to Safety, American Embassy Hears

MEXICO CITY, June 9 (AP).—Two members of the crew of a twin-engined American plane were killed when the plane crashed against a hill near the United States border, reports to the American Embassy said today. The names were not announced.

Two other crew members, Captain Charles Gresser and Corporal Harry Bell, whose addresses were not given, said they parachuted to safety when the pilot ordered them to bail out, the reports quoted Gresser and Bell as saying.

According to the information received at the embassy, the plane was en route from one point in the United States to another, but was far off its route when the pilot discovered the gasoline supply was almost exhausted. He and the fourth member of the crew remained aboard in an attempt to land the plane, the survivors explained.

3 Soldiers in Lisbon After Escaping to Vatican From Italy

English Flyers and Canadian Also Have Audience With Pope

By the Associated Press.

LISBON, June 9.—Three soldiers—two Englishmen and a Canadian—who escaped from a Rome hospital to find refuge in Vatican City and an audience with Pope Pius XII arrived here today as part of an exchange of prisoners.

They quoted the Pope as telling them in English, "I am glad to see you here. * * * Very special blessings for your dear country."

The men are Squadron Leader McAuley of Toronto, Flight Sergt. Frederick Nightingale of Brinscall and Color Sergt. William Cook of Leeds. The first two landed in Italy by parachute when their bomber caught fire in an attack on Turin December 11. Sergt Cook, a parachute trooper, was caught in Tunisia November 24. They met in the hospital where their wounds were being treated and planned their escape.

One day the three walked out "like three humble pilgrims right into the blessed soil of Vatican City," Sergt. Cook said.

"I always said that if I ever came to Rome I would see his holiness," he continued. When they arrived at the city Sergt. Cook disclosed their identity and added, "Can we see the Pope? I told my mother I would never come this way without looking up his holiness."

Vatican officials welcomed them and treated them well, the men said. The Vatican also refused a demand by Italian police that they be handed back to the Italians. The soldiers were permitted to walk around the parks, but were requested not to look over the walls.

An audience was arranged by the British charge d'affaires in Vatican City.

French Regime at Algiers Recognized by Uruguay

Montevideo First to Act; Broke With Vichy in May

MONTEVIDEO, June 9 (AP).—The Uruguayan government recognized today the French Committee of National Liberation. President Juan Jose Amezaga of Uruguay signed a decree which said that friendly relations with France, suspended last month, "are resumed through the central government of France" in Algiers. The decree said this step was taken pending establishment of a provisional government in Continental France.

Relations with the Vichy government were suspended on the ground that "the Continental territory of France was completely occupied by Germany which deprived it of all sovereign rights."

Thus Uruguay was the first nation to recognize the French committee as a government. Some diplomats expressed surprise at the quick action, taken without consultation with other nations.

Captain Foss Now a Major

Ace Felled 26 Japanese Planes, Promoted by Marine Corps

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP).—To Joe Foss's other honors has been added a promotion to major in the Marine Corps, the Navy reported today. The twenty-eight-year-old flyer, whose home is at Sioux Falls, S. D., recently returned from Guadalcanal Island, where he shot down twenty-six Japanese planes. This made him America's number one ace of the year, with a record tying that of Eddie Rickenbacker in the World War.

For his feat, Foss first received the Navy Cross. Then President Roosevelt gave him the Congressional Medal of Honor. Now he has been promoted from captain to major.

JUN 10 1943

LONDON, JUNE 9--(AP)--LIEUT.-COL. THOMAS F. WAYNE, 37, OF COLUMBUS, KY., HAS BEEN APPOINTED ASSISTANT MILITARY ATTACHE AT THE AMERICAN EMBASSY IN LONDON "TO FACILITATE THE EXCHANGE OF MEDICAL VIEWS AND DEVELOPMENTS BETWEEN THE MILITARY AND CIVILIAN SERVICES OF BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES," IT WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY.

WAYNE, WHOSE POST IS A NEW ONE, FORMERLY WAS ATTACHED TO THE OFFICE OF THE SURGEON GENERAL AT WASHINGTON, D.C. HIS WIFE AND TWO CHILDREN LIVE AT CLINTON, KY.

JUN 10 1943

JUN 10 1943

LONDON, JUNE 9-(AP)-LORD SELBORNE, MINISTER OF ECONOMIC WARFARE, SAID TODAY HIS DEPARTMENT ESTIMATED THAT GERMAN INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION IS 15 TO 20 PER CENT LOWER THAN LAST YEAR AND THAT "WE ATTRIBUTE AT LEAST HALF OF THIS DECLINE TO AIR RAIDS." JUN 10 1943

INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION IN THE RUHR AREA, HE ADDED, IS AROUND 35 PER CENT BELOW THAT OF THE 1942 RATE, DUE VERY LARGELY TO RAF ATTACKS.

SELBORNE TOLD A PRESS CONFERENCE THAT THE BOMBING OF GERMANY HAS GREATLY ACCELERATED THE SLOW ECONOMIC ROT RESULTING FROM THE ALLIED BLOCKADE. HE SAID THAT WHILE THE RUHR IS BEARING THE MAIN WEIGHT OF THE AIR ATTACKS, "THERE ARE MANY OTHER TARGETS IN GERMANY AND THEY WILL BE VISITED AT THE RIGHT TIME AND IN THE RIGHT MANNER."

"AS FAST AS THE GERMANS REBUILD THEIR INDUSTRIES WE WILL KNOCK THEM DOWN," HE ADDED. JUN 10 1943

SELBORNE PREDICTED THAT GERMAN EFFORTS TO DISPERSE INDUSTRIES WOULD FAIL "BECAUSE THEY CAN'T PICK UP THE RUHR COAL MINES AND SET THEM DOWN SOMEWHERE ELSE."

IF BOMBING DOES DRIVE SOME INDUSTRIES TO EASTERN EUROPE, HE SAID, IT WOULD CREATE A TERRIFIC STRAIN ON HITLER'S TRANSPORT SYSTEM TO CARRY RAW MATERIALS TO THE EAST AND THEN BRING THE FINISHED PRODUCTS BACK TO THE WEST WHERE THEY CAN BE USED.

HE ESTIMATED THAT MORE THAN 1,000,000 HOUSES HAD BEEN DESTROYED OR SERIOUSLY DAMAGED BY THE BOMBING OF 20 GERMAN LOCALITIES.

LONDON, JUNE 9-(AP)-AN RAF AMPHIBIAN PLANE FLYING TO WITHIN SIGHT OF THE FRENCH COAST LANDED ON THE SEA RECENTLY AND RESCUED PILOT OFFICER FR5W
R.W.THATCHER OF RUSHVILLE, IND., CANADIAN AIR FORCE PILOT WHO WAS FORCED TO BAIL OUT OF HIS SPITFIRE, THE AIR MINISTRY REPORTER TODAY.

THE AMERICAN, ALONG WITH ANOTHER SPITFIRE PILOT, WAS RETURNING FROM A RAID ON NORTHERN FRANCE WHERE HE HAD DAMAGED THREE LOCOMOTIVES WHEN HIS ENGINE FAILED AS THE RESULT OF ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE AND HE WAS FORCED TO JUMP, THE MINISTRY SAID.

HE WAS IN A DINGHY A FEW MILES NORTH OF LES SEPTEMBER ISLES OFF THE COAST OF BRITTANY WHEN HE WAS PICKED UP. JUN 10 1943

THE COURSE OF THE RESCUING PLANE WAS PLOTTED FROM THE OPERATIONS ROOM BY THE WAAF WIFE OF THE RESCUING PILOT, THE ANNOUNCEMENT SAID.

LONDON, JUNE 9-(AP)-COL. J. H. FULTON, OF SEATTLE, WASH., WHO HEADS THE WAR BOND OFFICE OF THE U.S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN THE EUROPEAN THEATER, SAID TODAY THAT AMERICANS IN THE ARMED SERVICES HERE ARE BUYING AN AVERAGE OF $850,000 OF WAR BONDS MONTHLY.

AN AMERICAN BOMBER STATION SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, JUNE 9-(AP)-IT WAS DISCLOSED TODAY THAT THE FLYING FORTRESS "YARD BIRD, JR." PILOTED BY FIRST LIEUT. JOSEPH E.TROJAN, OF BISON, OKLA., AND CARRYING A CREW OF NINE OTHERS HAD CRASHED ON ENEMY TERRITORY DURING A RECENT MISSION, APPARENTLY A VICTIM OF ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE.

ANOTHER FLIER SAID HE SAW AT LEAST EIGHT OF THE CREW GET OUT WITH THEIR PARACHUTES BEFORE THE CRASH.

MEMBERS OF THE CREW, MOST OF WHOM NEEDED TO COMPLETE BUT ONE OR TWO MORE RAIDS TO FINISH THEIR COMBAT DUTIES, WERE:

FIRST LIEUT.THOMAS S.VAUGHAN, COLUMBIA, MO., CO-PILOT; FIRST LIEUT. JACK W.STEWART, AUSTIN, TEX., BOMBARDIER; FIRST LIEUT.PARLEY W.MADSEN, JR., PROVO UTAH, NAVIGATOR; SERGEANT PAUL H.PRESCOTT, ANTRIM, NEW HAMPSHIRE, TOP TURRET GUNNER; SERGEANT MARTIN A.SEMONICK, CHEROKEE, KAS., LEFT WAIST GUNNER; CECILE E.CRAFT, EAST ST.LOUIS, ILL.,

JUN 10 1943 JUN 10 1943

RADIO OPERATOR; JOSEPH R.SUNDERLIN, CURWENSVILLE, PA., BALL TURRET GUNNER AND LINCOLN T.O'CONNEL, NEW YORK CITY, TAIL GUNNER.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM R.CALHOUN, JR., OF BIRMINGHAM, ALA., PILOT OF "EIGHT BALL", ANOTHER FORTRESS ON THE SAME MISSION, SAID HE SAW TROJAN'S CRIPPLED BOMBER DRAG BEHIND THE FORMATION, AN APPARENT VICTIM OF ENEMY FLAK.

JUN 10 1943

"I WATCHED THE BOMBER GO DOWN VERY LOW AND CIRCLE OVER A WOODED AREA. THEN I SAW AT LEAST EIGHT PARACHUTES COME OUT. THEN THE BOMBER GLIDED ON TO THE TOPS OF SOME TREES. IT CRASHED TO THE GROUND, EXPLODED AND BURNED."

MADSEN WAS A MEMBER OF THE CREW OF "HELL'S ANGELS" ANOTHER FORTRESS, WHO WERE AWAITING A DECISION ON A PROPOSAL TO FLY THEIR SHIP BACK TO THE UNITED STATES TO TOUR THE NATION TO AID IN THE WAR BOND SELLING CAMPAIGN.

ALL THE "HELL'S ANGELS" CREW EXCEPT MADSEN AND ONE OTHER HAD COMPLETED THEIR COMBAT DUTIES AND IT WAS FOR THIS REASON THAT MADSEN WAS IN THE NAVIGATOR'S SEAT OF "YARD BIRD, JR." HE HAD TWO MORE RAIDS TO GO.

AS HE STARTED OFF ON THE "YARD BIRD'S" LAST FLIGHT HE CALLED TO HIS COMRADES OF THE "HELL'S ANGELS'" CREW:

"WAIT FOR ME, FELLOWS. AS SOON AS I SWEAT OUT TWO MORE MISSIONS I'LL BE WITH YOU."

JUN 10 1943

BUT THE QUIET, SOFT-SPOKEN SIX-FOOT LAD DID NOT COME BACK.

MADSEN, WHOSE GRANDFATHER HELPED BRIGHAM YOUNG BUILD SALT LAKE CITY, HAD MADE FOUR ANTI-SUBMARINE PATROLS AS A NAVIGATOR IN THE UNITED STATES COASTAL COMMAND IN BRITAIN BEFORE HE JOINED THE FORTRESS

JUN 10 1943

30.24-4827

GROUP. HE WENT THROUGH THE RAF NAVIGATOR SCHOOL AFTER HIS ARRIVAL IN BRITAIN LAST SUMMER AND WAS ONE OF THE FEW AMERICAN AIRMEN IN THIS THEATER OF OPERATIONS, WHO ALTHOUGH HE HAD NEVER ACTUALLY BEEN IN THE RAF, WAS ENTITLED TO WEAR THE RAF NAVIGATORS' WING.

JUN 10 1943

AN AMERICAN BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, JUNE 9---(AP)-AFTER SEVEN MONTHS OF BIGTIME COMBAT DUTY, THE FLYING FORTRESS "HELL'S ANGELES" IS STILL GOING STRONG WITH ONLY A FEW PATCHED-UP FLAK PUNCTURES AND A LONE BULLET HOLE AS BATTLE SCARS FROM 28 PASSES AT HITLER'S EUROPE.

THIS IS A RECORD UNEQUALLED BY ANY SISTER FORTRESS IN THE EUROPEAN THEATER AND ALL THE MORE AMAZING BECAUSE HELL'S ANGELS HAS HAD TO PLOUGH THROUGH SOME OF THE THICKEST ANTIAIRCRAFT FIRE EVER TOSSED UP AT A BOMBER AND HAS FENDED OFF REICHSMARSHAL GOERING'S YELLOWNOSE FIGHTERS, WHICH ARE SOME OF THE BEST IN THE AIR.

THE FORTRESSES DON'T TRY TO WALTZ THROUGH THOSE WALLS OF FLAK. THEY JUST PLUNGE AHEAD AND TAKE IT. THAT IS WHAT "HELL'S ANGELS" HAS DONE OVER SUCH STRONGLY-DEFENDED TARGETS AS WILHELMSHAVEN, KIEL, BREMEN, HAMM, VEGESACK, ST. NAZAIRE, LORIENT, ROMILLY AND PARIS.

IN ALL 150,000 POUNDS OF BOMBS HAVE LEFT HER RACKS TO CHURN UP DEVASTATION IN THESE AND OTHER TARGETS.

SOMETIMES THE BOMBERS DEVELOP DIFFICULTIES AND HAVE TO TURN BACK HOME BEFORE GETTING TO THEIR TARGETS--BUT NOT ONCE HAS THIS HAPPENED TO HELL'S ANGELS.

JUN 10 1943

ALL BUT ONE OF HER ORIGINAL CREW HAVE COMPLETED THEIR OPERATIONAL MISSIONS AND ARE NOW SLATED FOR OTHER ASSIGNMENTS, AND EVERY ONE OF THEM HAS LAVISH PRAISE FOR THE SHIP WHICH BEARS THE INSIGNIA OF A GRINNING, HALOED, WING-SPROUTING CHERUB ON ROLLER SKATES WITH A BIG

BOMB FLUNG OVER HIS SHOULDER.

SOME OTHER STATIONS HAVE DUBBED "HELL'S ANGELS" THE "LUCKIEST FORTRESS IN THE EUROPEAN THEATER OF OPERATIONS." THAT BURNS UP THE BOYS ON THIS STATION. "HER FLYING CREW AND GROUND STAFF JUST KNOW THEIR ONIONS," THEY SAY.

JUN 10 1943

THERE HAVE BEEN ONLY TWO CASUALTIES AMONG ALL THE MEN WHO HAVE FLOWN WITH "HELL'S ANGELS"--THEY WERE LOST WHILE FLYING AS SUBSTITUTE CREW MEMBERS IN OTHER BOMBERS.

MEMBERS OF THE CREW WHO HAVE RECENTLY COMPLETED THEIR OPERATIONAL MISSIONS ARE CAPTAIN IRL (CORRECT) E. (BALDY) BALDWIN, 22, OF YAKIMA, WASH. PILOT; FIRST LIEUT. DONALD R. BONE, 26, TEMPLE, OKLA., BOMBARDIER; SERGEANT JAMES E. RODRIGUEZ, 33, SOUTH OZONE PARK, N.Y., TOP TURRET GUNNER; SERGEANT RUSSELL M. WARREN, 29, SANTA FE, N.M., RADIOMAN-GUNNER; SERGEANT ELLERTON F. MEDDAUGH, JR., 20, NEW MILFORD, CONN., RIGHT WAIST GUNNER; SERGEANT HARRY J. (COWBOY) BRODY, 24, GLENDIVE, MONT., BALL TURRET GUNNER; SERGEANT DENNIS WEISKOPF, 26, MIAMI, FLA., LEFT WAIST GUNNER, AND SERGEANT HAROLD E. GODWIN, 23, LOS ANGELES, TAIL GUNNER.

JUN 10 1943

EVERY MEMBER OF THE CREW CAME THROUGH ALL THEIR RAIDS WITHOUT A SCRATCH. EACH HAS THE DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSS AND THE AIR MEDAL WITH THREE CLUSTERS FOR GALLANTRY AND EXCEPTIONAL ACHIEVEMENT.

THE ONLY MEMBER OF THE ORIGINAL CREW WHICH FLEW "HELL'S ANGELS" ACROSS THE ATLANTIC LAST OCTOBER AND WHO WAS SUBSEQUENTLY LOST WAS CAPTAIN HAROLD FULGHAM, 27, THE NAVIGATOR, WHO CAME FROM LUBBOCK, TEX. FULGHAM HAD TO BAIL OUT OF ANOTHER FORTRESS IN A RAID ON ST. NAZAIRE LAST NOVEMBER, AND LETTERS HAVE SINCE BEEN RECEIVED FROM HIM SAYING THAT HE IS A PRISONER OF WAR.

FULGHAM WAS REPLACED BY FIRST LIEUT.PARLEY W.MADSEN,JR.,OF PROVO, UTAH. MADSEN NEEDED BUT TWO MORE OPERATIONS TO COMPLETE HIS COMBAT DUTIES WHEN HE RODE IN ANOTHER FORTRESS WHICH FAILED TO RETURN FROM A RECENT RAID ON ST.NAZAIRE.

THE LONELIEST MAN ON THIS STATION IS FIRST LIEUT.RIPLEY W.JOY, 27, OF SAN FRANCISCO, CO-PILOT OF "HELL'S ANGELS," WHOSE BUDDIES TRANSFERRED YESTERDAY TO ANOTHER STATION, PRESUMABLY IN PREPARATION FOR GOING TO THE UNITED STATES. JOY NEEDS FIVE MORE MISSIONS TO COMPLETE HIS COMBAT CHORES.

JOY HAD PLENTY OF GOOD THINGS TO SAY ABOUT THE FLYING CREW AND ALSO FOR THE GROUND CREW OF "HELL'S ANGELS." THE LATTER INCLUDED: SERGEANTS FABIAN F.FOLMER, MANSFIELD,OHIO,CREW CHIEF; ROBERT C.AHITSON, ACHILLE, OKLA.; ERNEST TOUHEY, MOUNTAIN HOME, ARK.; JOHN J.OBRIEN, DORCHESTER, MASS.; EDWARD A.WEST,JR., NEWPORT NEWS, VA.; GEORGE A.ROBERTS,STATES-BURY,W.VA.; WILSON F.FAIRFIELD,STURBRIDGE, MASS.; KASMER WEGRZYN, CHICOPEE,MASS.;PRIVATES WILLIAM C.HOLMA,NORTHPORT,ALA.; GEORGE C. KELLY,NORTH HOLLYWOOD,CALIF.; IVAL B.SALISBURY,HOWARD,KANS. AND CORPORAL JOHN R.KASILLA, NORTH TARRYTOWN,N.Y.

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

---

JUN 10 1943

BRITISH PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL'S SPEECH IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS YESTERDAY PAINTED A GRAPHIC PICTURE OF AN ALLIED WAR-MACHINE GRINDING THROUGH TO SUCCESS WITH GATHERING MOMENTUM. BUT OUTSTANDING AMONG HIS IMPORTANT STATEMENTS WAS HIS DECLARATION OF CONFIDENCE

JUN 10 1943

1943

30.24-4829

THAT "THE U-BOAT WAR WILL NOT STAND BETWEEN THE UNITED NATIONS AND THEIR FINAL VICTORY."

JUN 10 1943

HITLER'S UNRESTRICTED SUBMARINE CAMPAIGN HAS BEEN ONE OF THE GRAVEST MENACES THE ALLIES HAVE HAD TO FACE. HE HAS CROWDED US DANGEROUSLY HARD. HUGE QUANTITIES OF ESSENTIAL MUNITIONS HAVE BEEN SUNK AT A TIME WHEN WE NEEDED EVERY OUNCE OF STRIKING-POWER WE COULD MASS ON THE HARD-PRESSED BATTLE FRONTS.

NOW MR. CHURCHILL TELLS US THAT MAY WAS THE MOST SUCCESSFUL MONTH THE ALLIES HAVE HAD IN THEIR WARFARE AGAINST THE SUBMERSIBLES, AND THE FIRST WEEK OF JUNE "IS THE BEST EVER." LAST MONTH THE COMBINED BUILDING "EXCEEDED OUR LOSSES BY MORE THAN THREE TO ONE," AND "FOR THE FIRST TIME OUR KILLINGS OF U-BOATS SUBSTANTIALLY OUTNUMBERED THE U-BOAT OUTPUT."

NOW THAT'S SOMETHING TO CONJURE WITH. THE SUBMARINE DESTRUCTION IS PARTICULARLY GRATIFYING, BECAUSE IT WOULD IN A MEASURE BE LOVE'S LABOR LOST IF WE INCREASED THE NUMBER OF OUR CARGO SHIPS WITHOUT AT THE SAME TIME WHITTLING DOWN THE BOCHE U-BOAT FLEET.

THE RECENT RECORD MAY MEAN THAT AT LONG LAST THE ALLIES HAVE BROKEN THE BACK OF THE SUBMARINE MENACE. IF SO IT WILL PERMIT OF A GREAT SPEEDING UP OF UNITED NATIONS OPERATIONS IN ALL THEATRES.

JUN 10 1943

THE INCREASE IN THE ANGLO-AMERICAN FLEET OF CARGO SHIPS FITS IN WITH THOSE "AMPHIBIOUS OPERATIONS OF A PECULIAR COMPLEXITY AND HAZARD ON A LARGE SCALE" WHICH MR. CHURCHILL SAYS "ARE APPROACHING." LACK OF TRANSPORT HAS BEEN ONE OF THE ALLIED PROBLEMS, AND OF COURSE HUGE NUMBERS OF SHIPS ARE ESSENTIAL FOR ANY MAJOR WATER-BORNE INVASION.

THE PRIME MINISTER REMARKED THAT "THE GERMANS SEEM TO BE STAKING THEIR HOPES ON THE U-BOAT WAR." AS A MATTER OF FACT, NAZI SPOKESMEN IN BERLIN HAVE BEEN BOLSTERING THE COURAGE OF THE GERMAN PEOPLE WITH THE PROMISE THAT THE SUBMARINE DRIVE WOULD BRING THE ALLIES TO THEIR KNEES. CONTINUING HIS COMMENT CHURCHILL MADE THIS INTERESTING OBSERVATION:

JUN 10 1943

"IF IT SHOULD BE MADE CLEAR THAT THIS HOPE HAS FAILED, THEN THEY MAY BE SERIOUSLY DISAPPOINTED AND THEY ARE A PEOPLE WHO, WHEN SERIOUSLY DISAPPOINTED, DO NOT ALWAYS FIND RESOURCES TO CONFRONT AN APPROACHING DISASTER, ONCE THEIR REASON TELLS THEM THAT THIS IS INEVITABLE. I MAKE THAT OBSERVATION IN PASSING. DO NOT LET US BUILD ON SUCH DEDUCTIONS."

OF COURSE IT WOULD BE FOLLY TO BANK ON GERMAN MORALE COLLAPSING, AS IT DID IN THE LAST WAR. STILL, THERE'S NO HARM IN RECOGNIZING THAT MR. CHURCHILL HAS POINTED TO A CHARACTERISTIC OF THE GERMANS. SIX MONTHS AGO GENERAL MONTGOMERY MADE A SIMILAR REMARK TO ME AS WE SAT TALKING TOGETHER IN HIS CARAVAN IN THE LIBYAN DESERT AT THE HEIGHT OF HIS OFFENSIVE AGAINST ROMMEL.

"THE GERMAN IS A GOOD SOLDIER AND WILL FIGHT," SAID THE FAMOUS GENERAL, "THOUGH I BELIEVE IT IS TRUE THAT ONCE YOU GET HIM DOWN HE CRACKS UP."

JUN 10 1943

WE HAD PROOF OF THIS ESTIMATE IN THE TUNISIAN COLLAPSE. WHEN THE GERMANS FOUND THAT THEY WERE GOING TO BE BEATEN IN THE LONG RUN, THEY GAVE UP. IN SHORT, THE GERMAN IS "PRACTICAL MINDED" AND ISN'T INCLINED TO SACRIFICE HIS LIFE ON A HOPELESS QUEST, AS DOES HIS JAPANESE ALLY.

IT STRIKES ME THAT CLOSELY COUPLED WITH THE QUESTION OF GERMAN MORALE--AND AXIS MORALE AS A WHOLE--ARE THE REPORTS THAT THE AXIS IS

JUN 10 1943 JUN 10 1943

GETTING SET TO USE POISON GAS. THIS DANGER HAS BECOME SO PRONOUNCED OF LATE AS TO DRAW YESTERDAY'S STRONG WARNING FROM PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT THAT ANY SUCH AXIS MOVE WILL BRING "FULL AND SWIFT RETALIATION IN KIND" AGAINST MILITARY OBJECTIVES.

IF THE AXIS DOES RESORT TO THE USE OF THIS AWFUL WEAPON, IT'S LIKELY TO BE AN ACT OF DESPERATION WHEN MORALE IS COLLAPSING. ++

NEW YORK, JUNE 9-(AP)-JAN VALTIN, AUTHOR OF "OUT OF THE NIGHT" IN WHICH HE RELATED HIS ACTIVITIES AS A COMMUNIST AND GESTAPO AGENT, HAS BEEN ORDERED TO REPORT FOR EXAMINATION TO THE SELECTIVE SERVICE BOARD IN BETHEL, CONN., WHERE HE HAS BEEN LIVING WITH HIS WIFE AND CHILD. HIS 3-A STATUS WAS GIVEN HIM IN OCTOBER OF 1940 AT NEW YORK BOARD NO. 11 WHERE HE REGISTERED.

JUN 10 1943

A NATIVE OF GERMANY, VALTIN, WHOSE REAL NAME IS RICHARD KREBS, WAS ARRESTED LAST NOV. 24 ON WARRANTS ORDERING HIS DEPORTATION AS AN UNDESIRABLE ALIEN OR HIS INTERNMENT FOR THE DURATION OF THE WAR AS AN ENEMY ALIEN.

HE WAS HELD ON ELLIS ISLAND UNTIL TWO WEEKS AGO WHEN, HIS ATTORNEY ANNOUNCED, HE WAS RELEASED.

BERLIN OFFICIALDOM TOOK COGNIZANCE TODAY OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S ANNOUNCEMENT OF INCREASINGLY FREQUENT REPORTS OF AXIS PREPARATIONS TO USE GAS WARFARE AND HIS WARNING OF RETALIATION SHOULD IT BE USED BUT ATTEMPTED TO PASS THEM OFF AS PERHAPS MASKING ALLIED DESIGNS.

THE BERLIN RADIO, IN A BROADCAST RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, QUOTED SO-CALLED "AUTHORIZED BERLIN QUARTERS," NOT OTHERWISE IDENTIFIED, AS ASSERTING THAT THE PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT "SHOWED NERVOUSNESS PREVAILING AMONG THE ALLIES BUT PERHAPS ALSO REVEALED A DESIRE TO PROCURE BEFOREHAND AN ALIBI FOR THEM IN EVENT OF THEIR ENTERTAINING SUCH DESIGNS THEMSELVES."

THE BERLIN ACCOUNT IGNORED PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S EMPHATIC STATEMENT "THAT WE SHALL UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES RESORT TO THE USE OF SUCH WEAPONS UNLESS THEY ARE FIRST USED BY OUR ENEMIES."

THE BERLIN RADIO QUOTED A DISPATCH FROM ALGECIRAS, SPAIN, LAST NIGHT (WEDNESDAY) AS SAYING THAT A FLYING FORTRESS CRASHED NEAR TARIFA, KILLING EIGHT OF THE CREW.

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS SAID THE PLANE WAS LOST IN A FOG ABOUT SIX MILES FROM ALGECIRAS ON THE SOUTHERN TIP OF SPAIN. ITS BOMBS EXPLODED WHEN THE PLANE HIT THE GROUND AND ONLY TWO MEN WERE ABLE TO SAVE THEMSELVES BY BAILING OUT, THE REPORT ADDED.

GETTING SET TO USE POISON GAS. THIS DANGER HAS BECOME SO PRONOUNCED OF LATE AS TO DRAW YESTERDAY'S STRONG WARNING FROM PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT THAT ANY SUCH AXIS MOVE WILL BRING "FULL AND SWIFT RETALIATION IN KIND" AGAINST MILITARY OBJECTIVES.

IF THE AXIS DOES RESORT TO THE USE OF THIS AWFUL WEAPON, IT'S LIKELY TO BE AN ACT OF DESPERATION WHEN MORALE IS COLLAPSING. ++

NEW YORK, JUNE 9-(AP)-JAN VALTIN, AUTHOR OF "OUT OF THE NIGHT" IN WHICH HE RELATED HIS ACTIVITIES AS A COMMUNIST AND GESTAPO AGENT, HAS BEEN ORDERED TO REPORT FOR EXAMINATION TO THE SELECTIVE SERVICE BOARD IN BETHEL, CONN., WHERE HE HAS BEEN LIVING WITH HIS WIFE AND CHILD. HIS 3-A STATUS WAS GIVEN HIM IN OCTOBER OF 1940 AT NEW YORK BOARD NO. 11 WHERE HE REGISTERED.

JUN 10 1943

A NATIVE OF GERMANY, VALTIN, WHOSE REAL NAME IS RICHARD KREBS, WAS ARRESTED LAST NOV. 24 ON WARRANTS ORDERING HIS DEPORTATION AS AN UNDESIRABLE ALIEN OR HIS INTERNMENT FOR THE DURATION OF THE WAR AS AN ENEMY ALIEN.

TAMPA, FLA., JUNE 9-(AP)-REAR ADMIRAL CHARLES E.ROSENDAHL, COMMANDER OF THE U.S.LIGHTER-THAN-AIR SERVICE, TOLD THE UNIVERSITY OF TAMPA'S GRADUATING CLASS LAST NIGHT THAT THE BATTLESHIP HAD NOT BEEN SUPERSEDED BY AIR POWER AND PREDICTED WIDER USE OF DIRIGIBLES IN BOTH PEACE AND WAR.

JUN 10 1943

THOSE WHO CONTEND THE BATTLESHIP IS OUTMODED FORGET THE PRINCIPLE OF SPECIALIZATION IN WARFARE, HE SAID.

"IT IS MY BELIEF THAT DESPITE THE MANY THOUSANDS OF AIRCRAFT WE MAY ACQUIRE AND USE, OUR BATTLESHIP PROGRAM WILL RETURN BIG DIVIDENDS," HE SAID. "WE MUST HAVE BOTH BATTLESHIPS AND AIRPLANES."

ROSENDAHL SAID, "SPEAKING SOLELY AS AN INDIVIDUAL, I FEAR WE HAVE GIVEN UP TOO EASILY IN THE CASE OF THE LARGE OR RIGID AIRSHIP, BECAUSE THE SOLUTION SEEMED A LITTLE INVOLVED, YET LIKE THE BATTLESHIP, THE PROSPECT FOR DEVELOPMENT AND IMPROVEMENT ARE INDEED BRIGHT."

ROSENDAHL WAS AWARDED AN HONORARY DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF SCIENCE AT THE COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES, AND ADDRESSED THE GRADUATING CLASS OF 28.

CANBERRA, IN MAC ARTHUR-CURTIN MEETING AFTER FIRST GRAF BEGINNING/ GENERAL DOUGLAS MAC ARTHUR ETC INSERT: XXX ROOSEVELT.

JUN 10 1943

THERE IS STRONG REASON TO BELIEVE THE INFORMATION GIVEN BY GENERAL MACARTHUR TO CURTIN SHOWED THAT THE HOLDING WAR PHASE OF THE GLOBAL STRATEGY AFFECTING THE SOUTH PACIFIC AND THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC IS ENDING. THE NEXT STAGE, WHEN IT COMES, WILL FIND JAPAN ON THE DEFENSIVE AND THREATENED BY A CONCENTRATION OF FORCES THE LIKE OF WHICH SHE NEVER EXPECTED COULD BE ARRAYED AGAINST HER FROM AUSTRALIAN BASES.

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY FRANK KNOX GAVE SOME CLUE TO THE MACARTHUR-CURTIN DISCUSSION WHEN HE FORECAST RECENTLY THERE WOULD BE NAVAL CONCENTRATIONS AGAINST JAPAN.

THE NEXT PHASE OF ALLIED STRATEGY FOLLOWING THE HOLDING WAR PERIOD LIKELY WILL BE THE BUILDING UP BY THE ALLIES OF NEW AIR BASES FOR OFFENSIVE OPERATIONS.

JUN 10 1943

THUS, JAPAN WILL BE CAUGHT WITHIN A GIGANTIC PINCERS, ONE JAW EXTENDING SOUTHWARD FROM THE ALEUTIANS, THE OTHER COVERING WITHIN ITS GRASP THE NETHERLANDS EAST INDIES AND THE PHILIPPINES. THIS WOULD BE VASTER IN SCOPE AND SWIFTER IN OPERATION THAN AN ISLAND BY ISLAND INFANTRY ADVANCE.

COOPERATION AMONG ALL THE PACIFIC FORCES WILL ENABLE GREATER MOBILITY FOR THE CONCENTRATION OF DECISIVE BLOWS AGAINST THE ENEMY FLEET IF IT VENTURES OUT IN FORCE TO GIVE BATTLE. REMEMBERING PAST VICTORIES AGAINST JAPANESE NAVAL FORCES, GENERAL HEADQUARTERS AND WASHINGTON NOW ARE COMPLETELY CONFIDENT OF THE OUTCOME OF ANY LARGE SCALE ACTION. WASHINGTON KNOWS THE PERSONALITY OF ADMIRAL ISORUKU YAMAMOTO'S SUCCESSOR AND BELIEVES SOME OF THE JAPANESE NAVY'S FIGHTING SPIRIT DIED WITH HIM. (TOKYO ANNOUNCED THE DEATH OF ADMIRAL YAMAMOTO, COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF THE JAPANESE NAVY, SEVERAL WEEKS AGO.)

THE MEETING OF GENERAL MAC ARTHUR AND THE PRIME MINISTER WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY IN PARLIAMENT.

BY TOM YARBROUGH

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, JUNE 4 (DELAYED) (AP)-IN A RAID ON THE JAPANESE BASE AT LAE, NEW GUINEA, LAST JANUARY, AN AMERICAN BOMBER WAS DAMAGED IN SUCH A WAY THAT ITS SPEED WAS REDUCED AND ITS BOMB-BAY DOORS WOULD NOT CLOSE. JAPANESE FIGHTER PILOTS SAW THE CRIPPLE AND 25 OF THEM PREPARED TO CONCENTRATE AN ATTACK ON IT.

JUN 10 1943

TWO PILOTS OF AMERICAN BOMBERS FOLLOWING THE DAMAGED PLANE SAW WHAT WAS ABOUT TO HAPPEN. INSTANTLY, THEY REQUESTED AND GOT PERMISSION TO LEAVE THEIR FLIGHT, LAG BEHIND WITH THE DISABLED BOMBER AND HELP PROTECT IT. THUS, THEY MADE THE FORMATION TOO FORMIDABLE FOR THE ZEROS AND ENABLED THE BOMBER TO REACH ITS BASE.

THE TWO PILOTS WERE CAPT. RUFUS O. MILLER, GASTONIA, N.C., AND FIRST LIEUT. JOHN E. MILLER, (5550 KENMORE AVE) CHICAGO. FOR THEIR "WUICK ANALYSIS OF THE SITUATION AND THEIR COURAGE AND SKILL ON THIS OCCASION" THEY WERE AWARDED THE AIR MEDAL BY LIEUT. GEN. GEORGE C. KENNEY, COMMANDER OF THE ALLIED AIR FORCES IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC.

SIX OTHER AMERICAN AIRMEN WERE AWARDED THE AIR MEDAL FOR A BOMBING MISSION AGAINST RABAUL HARBOR IN JANUARY. THEIR PLANE SCORED DIRECT HITS ON AN 8,000-TON MERCHANT SHIP WHICH BURNED AND LATER WAS SEEN BEACHED.

JUN 10 1943

THEY ARE SECOND LIEUT. HENRY J. DYMINSKI, (525 RICHMOND AVE.) SYRACUSE, N.Y.; SGT. ANGELO GUERRIERI (2123 WEST PLACE), CHICAGO; STAFF SGT. GEORGE E. KENDRECK, RICHMOND, CALIF.; MASTER SGT. JOSEPH R. SARNOSKI, (3327 PARKWOOD AVE.) RICHMOND, VA.; STAFF SGT. EMIL F. THUES, SATA ANA, CALIF., AND TECH. SGT. LEWIS H. WALTMAN, (335 E. ROSS ST.) LANCASTER, PA.

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, JUNE 5-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE CREW MEMBERS OF A HEAVY BOMBER WHICH ATTACKED A JAPANESE DESTROYER IN RABAUL HARBOR, NEW BRITAIN, LAST OCTOBER AND LEFT IT ON FIRE, HALF SUBMERGED AND SINKING, RECEIVED THE AIR MEDAL TODAY FOR MERITORIOUS ACHIEVEMENT.

JUN 10 1943

THE AIR MEDAL ALSO WAS PRESENTED TO 39 OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN WHO TOOK PART IN A BOMBING ATTACK UPON LAE, NEW GUINEA, IN THE FACE OF STORMY WEATHER AND HEAVY ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE LAST DECEMBER.

IN THE RABAUL RAID, EIGHT 500-POUND BOMBS WERE DROPPED UPON THE DESTROYER FROM MEDIUM ALTITUDE, AND TWO DIRECT HITS WERE SCORED. THOSE CITED FOR COURAGE AND PERSEVERANCE IN THE FACE OF ADVERSE WEATHER CONDITIONS INCLUDED:

FIRST LIEUTS. ABNER I. RAPPOPORT, MAXWELL FIELD, ALA., AND WILLIAM B. TRIGG, FAYETTEVILLE, TENN.; TECHNICAL SGT. JOHN E. FRITZ, (ROUTE 6) DALLAS, PA., AND STAFF SGT. KENNETH P. VETTER, (1803 RUTHERFORD AVE.), LOUISVILLE, KY.

IN THE LAE RAID THE BOMBERS HAD TO FLY BY INSTRUMENTS THROUGH THICK CLOUDS OVER THE TOWERING OWEN STANLEY MOUNTAINS. DESPITE AN UNUSUALLY SHORT RUN, ALL BOMBS FELL IN THE AIRDROME DISPERSAL AREA AND ALONG THE RUNWAY, DESTROYING A LARGE NUMBER OF JAPANESE FIGHTERS AND BOMBERS ON THE GROUND.

LIEUT. GENERAL GEORGE C. KENNEY, COMMANDER OF ALLIED AIR FORCES IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC AREA, AWARDED THE AIR MEDAL TO:

CAPT. WALTER H. GREER, (113 EAST FIFTH ST.), RUSSELLVILLE, ARK.; DOUGLAS T. BODDIE, (84 GOODRICH ROAD) WEST HARTFORD, CONN.; WILLIS C. BUMGARNER, CROSSNORE, N.C.; ALBERT W. FLETCHER, (1 FENIMORE ROAD) SCARSDALE,

ART WILLIAMS IS LEGEND IN GUIANA BRUSH

---

PIONEER FLIER
NOW MAJOR IN AIR FORCE (700)

---

JUN 10 1943

BY JOSEPH E.DYNAN

(ADVANCE)--GEORGETOWN, BRITISH GUIANA--(AP)--ABORIGINAL INDIANS OF THE GUIANA INTERIOR, WHEN TH'Y SIGHT A PLANE OVERHEAD, POINT SKYWARD AND EXCLAIM:

"WILLIAMS!"

THEY'VE DONE IT SO MUCH THAT "WILLIAMS" HAS ALMOST COME TO BE THE INDIAN WORD FOR AIRPLANE, EVEN THOUGH THEY MUST BE RATHER CONFUSED THESE DAYS AS SCORES OF PLANES SOAR OVERHEAD ON THEIR WAY TO THE BATTLEFRONTS.

JUN 10 1943

WHAT THEY MEAN IS ART WILLIAMS, FORMER STAR OF MANY U.S. AIR MEETS, NOW MAJ. ARTHUR WILLIAMS OF THE U.S. ARMY AIRFORCE, WHO PIONEERED IN FLIGHTS OVER THE DENSE TROPICAL JUNGLES OF THE INTERIOR SOME TEN YEARS AGO.

FOR YEARS WILLIAMS, ONCE A BARNSTORMING STUNTER AND PRIOR TO THAT AN ARMY INSTRUCTOR AND TEST PILOT IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR, HAS FLOWN OVER THE GUIANA INTERIOR, OVER SPOTS WHERE NO WHITE MAN HAS EVER PENETRATED. SO MUCH SO THAT SOME YEARS AGO, WHEN BRAZIL AND VENEZUELA DECIDED TO ESTABLISH THEIR BOUNDARIES EXACTLY, THE GOVERNMENTS CALLED ON WILLIAMS TO HELP THEM OUT.

JUN 10 1943

WILLIAMS HAD ALREADY DONE THE SAME SORT OF WORK FOR THE BRAZILIAN-BRITISH BOUNDARY COMMISSION AND LATER HE HELPED THE PRESIDENT'S ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON POLITICAL REFUGEES WHEN THAT GROUP INVESTIGATED GUIANA AS A POTENTIAL HAVEN FOR JEWISH REFUGEES IN 1939.

WILLIAMS' WORK FOR THE BRITISH-BRAZILIAN COMMISSION GAVE HIM HIS CHANCE TO BECOME THE NO.1 AIRLINE OPERATOR OF BRITISH GUIANA, AND LED HIM INTO UNCOUNTED EXPLOITS WHICH MADE HIM A LIVING LEGEND IN BRITISH GUIANA. WILLIAMS AND THE HOLD HE HAD ON THE LOCAL IMAGINATION WERE OF INESTIMABLE VALUE IN CONNECTION WITH ESTABLISHMENT OF AN AMERICAN BASE HERE AND THE GROWTH OF AMERICAN INFLUENCE IN THE COLONY.

ALMOST ANY GUIANAN WILL GRANT WILLIAMS ANYTHING HE ASKS. WHEN HE PROPOSES ANYTHING THE PROMPT REPLY IS "RIGHT-O."
WITH HIS KNOWLEDGE OF GUIANAN TERRAIN, HE SELECTED THE SITE OF ONE OF AMERICA'S MOST IMPORTANT AIR BASES ALONG THE ROUTE TO THE WAR FRONTS.

FOR MANY PERSONS IN THE INTERIOR, GOLD PROSPECTORS, INDIANS AND LOGGERS, WILLIAMS AND HIS PLANE WERE AND STILL ARE THE SOLE MEANS OF COMMUNICATION WITH THE COAST AND THE OUTSIDE WORLD, THE ONLY MEANS OF RECEIVING OR SENDING MAIL, FOR RECEIVING MEDICAL SUPPLIES, OR, MOST IMPORTANT, THE ONLY MEANS OF REACHING A DOCTOR IN EMERGENCIES. HIS UNCOUNTED "MERCY FLIGHTS" HAVE MADE HIM A LEGEND. JUST THE

JUN 10 1943

OTHER DAY. WHEN I MET HIM. HE WAS ABOUT TO TAKE OFF WITH A LOAD OF MEDICINES FOR THE INTERIOR.

WILLIAMS DRIFTED INTO GUIANA IN AUGUST. 1934. DETERMINED TO START PLANE SERVICE OVER THE GUIANA JUNGLES. MANY GOLD MINERS WERE IN THE INTERIOR THEN. BUT TO THE ENGLISH AUTHORITIES WHO MET HIS OLD FIVE-PASSENGER HYDROPLANE AT THE GEORGETOWN DOCKS. THIS YANKEE LOOKED SUSPICIOUS. NO ONE HAD EVER FLOWN OVER THE GUIANA JUNGLES BEFORE AND OFFICIALS WERE EITHER AGHAST AT HIS AUDACITY OR ANNOYED AT HIS IMPERTINENCE.

JUN 10 1943

THEY VIRTUALLY TORE THE PLANE APART SEARCHING FOR CONTRABAND. WILLIAMS MERELY WATCHED. SAID NOTHING. WAITED. FINALLY HE WAS PERMITTED TO ENTER THE COLONY AND BEGAN A FUTILE ATTEMPT TO OBTAIN A FLYING LICENSE.

THE POLICE TIED UP A LAUNCH IN FRONT OF HIS RAMP. BOTTLING UP THE PLANE. HIS PETITIONS AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE WERE ALL REFUSED. THEN. ALMOST TWO MONTHS LATER. WORD CAME TO GEORGETOWN THAT A COLONIAL OFFICIAL WAS SERIOUSLY ILL IN THE INTERIOR. A PLANE WAS NEEDED TO BRING HIM OUT.

JUN 10 1943

OFFICIALS CAME TO WILLIAMS. WHO QUIETLY POINTED OUT THAT HE HAD NO LICENSE AND FURTHERMORE A POLICE LAUNCH WAS BLOCKING HIS DOCK. THIS WAS QUICKLY TAKEN CARE OF AND WILLIAMS DID THE JOB.

THE GOVERNMENT THEN GRANTED WILLIAMS A LICENSE BUT IT WAS REVOKED ABOUT A MONTH LATER. WILLIAMS STILL WAITED. KEPT QUIET UNTIL BRITISH ARMY ENGINEERS CAME TO SURVEY THE BRAZILIAN BOUNDARY. THEY SOUGHT HELP FROM WILLIAMS WHO EXPLAINED AGAIN ABOUT HIS LICENSE.

"YOU'LL BE WORKING FOR THE ARMY. YOU WON'T NEED ANY." TH ENGINEERS TOLD HIM. AND WILLIAMS WENT. FOR WEEKS HE WORKED WITH THE ENGINEERS. FLYING OVER DENSE TROPICAL JUNGLES. UNKNOWN RIVERS AND WATERFALLS. LANDING AND TAKING OFF FROM PRECARIOUS SPOTS. TWO MONTHS LATER HE CAME BACK TO GEORGETOWN. ALMOST IMMEDIATELY HE WAS CALLED TO GOVERNMENT HOUSE. WILLIAMS WENT. EXPECTING THE WORST.

JUN 10 1943

MCLAREN'S PLANE WAS HIT BY AN AXIS SHIP'S ANTI-AIRCRAFT BARRAGE AND HE MADE A CRASH LANDING 10 MILES OFFSHORE.

HE WAS ABLE TO GRASP A ROPE THROWN TO HIM AND SEEMED LITTLE THE WORSE FOR WEAR EXCEPT FOR A SLIGHT CUT ACROSS THE NOSE AND LIP.

"TELL MY WIFE I AM NOT ANY UGLIER THAN I EVER WAS AND MAYBE HANDSOMER," HE TOLD HIS RESCUERS.

SAN JUAN--FIRST ADD NIGHT LEAD PUERTO RICO XXX RICAN DISTILLERS.

THE CUSTOMS GUARD WHO OPENED THE BARREL SAID THAT IT WAS ONE OF A SHIPMENT OF 400 RECENTLY UNLOADED IN SAN JUAN FROM A BRITISH FREIGHTER CONSIGNED TO A DISTILLER IN THE VIRGIN ISLANDS. HE ADDED THAT THE FEED WAS USUALLY SHIPPED IN BAGS.

JUN 10 1943

AT THIS POINT LEE MILLER, WHOSE INTEREST IN THE PROCEEDINGS WAS NOT MADE CLEAR, CHARGED THAT SHIPPING THE FEED IN BARRELS WAS "DIRECT CHISELING ON THE UNITED STATES' WAR EFFORT." HE THEN TOLD OF EARLIER INSTANCES INCLUDING A LARGE SHIPMENT OF 10,000 BARRELS WHICH HE SAID COST THE GOVERNMENT $30,000 IN FREIGHT CHARGES.

GOLDMAN EXPLAINED THAT HE HAD BROUGHT IN THE 10,000 BARRELS AS AGENT FOR THE GRAIN COMPANY UNDER AN ARRANGEMENT WITH THE FDA AIMING TO SAVE SPACE IN THE IMPORTATION OF LIVESTOCK AND CHICKEN FEED. SINCE PUERTO RICO NEEDS 2,500 TONS OF FEED MONTHLY, GOLDMAN EXPLAINED, THE PLAN WAS TO IMPORT SOME INGREDIENTS FROM THE UNITED STATES TO BE MIXED LOCALLY WITH CORN AND OTHER INGREDIENTS FROM SANTO DOMINGO. THE FDA FURTHER AGREED, HE SAID, THAT THE GRAIN COULD BE PACKED IN BARRELS AND SHIPPED ON DECK, SAVING HOLD SPACE AND THEN

30.24-4835

STORED INDEFINITELY IN SAN JUAN WHERE STORAGE SPACE IS AT A PREMIUM. AFTER USE THE YOUNGE COMPANY'S BARRELS WERE THEN SOLD TO DISTILLERS WHO WERE BADLY IN NEED OF RUM CASKS.

CRAWFORD QUESTIONED GOLDMAN AT LENGTH ON THE PROFITS ON THE BARRELS WHICH COST $4 EACH IN THE UNITED STATES AND SOLD FOR $9 IN SAN JUAN.

JUN 10 1943

GOLDMAN EXPLAINED THAT THE COMPANY HAD TO PAY A $1 PACKING CHARGE IN PEORIA, APPROXIMATELY 43 CENTS RAILROAD FREIGHT CHARGE, 75 CENTS SHIPPING CHARGE TO SAN JUAN DOCKSIDE AND ANOTHER DOLLAR UNPACKING CHARGE IN SAN JUAN. IN ADDITION EACH BARREL ABSORBED ONE DOLLAR OF THE $15 LOSS ON THE RESALE OF EACH TON OF FEED, LEAVING ABOUT 82 CENTS PROFIT ON EACH BARREL.

THE COMMITTEE QUESTIONED BENJAMIN ORTIZ, CHAIRMAN OF THE INSULAR PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION AND REP.W.STERLING COLE (R-N.Y.) WENT INTO A LENGTHY DISCUSSION OF THE ECONOMIC PHILOSOPHY UNDERLYING THE VARIOUS INSULAR AGENCIES. COLE WAS PARTICULARLY INTERESTED IN WHAT HE TERMED THE "COMMUNISTIC" ASPECTS OF THE BANK DEVELOPMENT COMPANY.

ORTIZ ALSO TESTIFIED ON THE INSULAR TELEGRAPH SYSTEM, WHICH HAS BEEN GOVERNMENT-OWNED AND-OPERATED SINCE UNITED STATES OCCUPATION OF THE ISLAND. HE SAID THAT THE ANNUAL LOSS RAN FROM $80,000 TO $100,000, ADDING THAT THE MONETARY-VALUE OF FREE TELEGRAMS SENT BY MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURE WAS ALWAYS GREATER THAN THE ANNUAL DEFICIT.

EACH MEMBER, HE SAID, USUALLY SENT ABOUT $1,500 WORTH OF FREE MESSAGES A YEAR. COLE THEN ASKED WHAT WAS THE ANNUAL AVERAGE INCOME FROM THE INSULAR GOVERNMENT OF EACH LEGISLATOR AND ORTIZ REPLIED

JUN 10 1943

THAT IT WAS $400.

COLE'S REQUEST THAT ORTIZ DEFINE COMMUNISM BROUGHT THE REPLY THAT IT WOULD BE STATE OWNERSHIP AND OPERATION OF ALL INDUSTRY, AND COLE ASKED IF THERE WAS ANY DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THAT AND THE LAW ESTABLISHING THE DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION.

JUN 10 1943

"NAME JUST ANY KIND OF AN ENTERPRISE THAT THE DEVELOPMENT COMPANY CAN NOT ENGAGE AS FAR AS LEGAL AUTHORITY IS CONCERNED," COLE DEMANDED. HE WAS JOINED IN THE REQUEST BY C.JASPER BELL (D-MO) CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE.

"I AM SURE THERE IS NO POSSIBILITY OF COMMUNISM IN PUERTO RICO," ORTIZ REPLIED.

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO, JUNE 9-(AP)-REPEAL OF A LAW RESTRICTING CORPORATE OWNERSHIP OF PUERTO RICAN SUGAR PLANTATIONS TO 500 ACRES WAS URGED YESTERDAY BY A WITNESS APPEARING BEFORE THE BELL CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING THE ISLAND'S POLITICAL, SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC AFFAIRS.

JUN 10 1943

DUDLEY SMITH, ASSISTANT DIRECTOR OF THE PUERTO RICAN SUGAR PRODUCERS' ASSOCIATION, TOLD THE COMMITTEE THE LAW WAS NOT FEASIBLE.

SMITH, WHO SAID HIS ASSOCIATION REPRESENTS VIRTUALLY ALL THE ISLAND'S SUGAR PRODUCERS, SAID THAT SUGAR REMAINS THE ISLAND'S MAIN AGRICULTURAL COMMODITY.

HE ESTIMATED THAT 75 PER CENT OF THE ISLAND'S WORKERS, OR APPROXIMATELY 1,000,000 PERSONS, ARE EMPLOYED IN THE INDUSTRY EITHER DIRECTLY OR INDIRECTLY.

GABRIEL SOLER, A MILL OPERATOR, TOLD THE COMMITTEE THAT MOST OF THE SMALL SUGAR PRODUCERS ARE OPPOSED TO REGULATION OF MILLS BY THE INSULAR PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION.

BUENOS AIRES, JUNE 9-(AP)-THE FOREIGN OFFICE ANNOUNCED TONIGHT THAT BRAZIL HAD EXTENDED RECOGNITION TO ARGENTINA'S NEW REGIME, FOLLOWED BY BOLIVIA, PARAGUAY AND CHILE, IN THAT ORDER.

(URUGUAY WAS EXPECTED TO TAKE SIMILAR ACTION SHORTLY, REPORTS FROM MONTEVIDEO SAID.)

MEANWHILE A SOURCE CLOSE TO FORMER PRESIDENT RAMON S.CASTILLO TOLD THE ASSOCIATED PRESS THAT IT WAS THE VIEW OF THE DEPOSED CHIEF OF STATE THAT THE ARGENTINE PEOPLE SHOULD GIVE WHOLEHEARTED SUPPORT TO THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT OF GEN.PEDRO RAMIREZ.

CASTILLO WAS SAID TO FEEL THAT SUCH AN ATTITUDE WAS IN THE BEST INTERESTS OF NATIONAL STABILITY.

JUN 10 1943

THE FORMER PRESIDENT'S ATTITUDE WAS ANOTHER INDICATION THAT THE REVOLUTIONARY REGIME WAS EFFECTIVELY CONSOLIDATING ITS POSITION.

CASTILLO WAS QUOTED AS SAYING HE HAD NO DESIRE TO RETURN TO THE GOVERNMENT, BUT AT THE SAME TIME COUNSELED HIS FORMER SUPPORTERS WITHIN THE ADMINISTRATION TO CONTINUE TO SERVE THE NEW AUTHORITIES.

THE INFLUENTIAL NEWSPAPER LA PRENSA, AFTER MAINTAINING A RESERVED SILENCE IN THE FIRST FEW DAYS OF THE NEW REGIME'S LIFE, TODAY EXPRESSED THE CONVICTION THAT THE RAMIREZ GOVERNMENT WOULD EARN THE SUPPORT OF THE PEOPLE BY "ADJUSTING ITS DEEDS TO ITS PROMISES."

THE RADICAL PARTY HAS ALREADY PROCLAIMED APPROVAL AND THE PROGRESSIVE DEMOCRATS, WHO FORMED PART OF THE DEMOCRATIC UNION WHICH OPPOSED THE CASTILLO REGIME, ANNOUNCED THE REVOLUTION WOULD FIND ITS HISTORICAL JUSTIFICATION IF IT SUCCEEDED IN REESTABLISHING ARGENTINA'S INTERNATIONAL PRESTIGE AND RESTORING RESPECT FOR THE CONSTITUTION.

SOCIALIST LEADERS HAVE LIMITED THEMSELVES TO SUGGESTING THAT THE NEW GOVERNMENT CONSULT DEMOCRATIC ELEMENTS IN SHAPING POLICIES.

1943

3024-4837

RIO DE JANEIRO, JUNE 9-(AP)-FOREIGN MINISTER OSWALDO ARANHA ANNOUNCED TODAY BRAZIL'S RECOGNITION OF THE NEW ARGENTINE "DE FACTO" GOVERNMENT OF GEN. PEDRO RAMIREZ.

A DISPATCH FROM MONTEVIDEO SAID URUGUAY WOULD FOLLOW SUIT IMMEDIATELY.

JUN 10 1943

IN A STATEMENT TO THE PRESS, ARANHA SAID "THE GOVERNMENT OF ARGENTINA IS LEGAL ACCORDING TO THE RECOGNITION OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THAT COUNTRY."

IT IS NOT FOR BRAZIL TO DISCUSS THE INTERESTS, IDEALS AND ASPIRATIONS OF INDIVIDUALS IN ARGENTINA, HE EXPLAINED, AND ADDED THAT ARGENTINA AND BRAZIL HAVE LONG BEEN ON CLOSE FRIENDLY TERMS. ARGENTINA'S INTERNATIONAL POLICY MUST RESULT FROM CAREFUL CONSIDERATION OF ITS OWN INTERESTS, HE ADDED.

BRAZIL'S WAS THE FIRST RECOGNITION OF THE GOVERNMENT FORMED AFTER THE COUP D'ETAT OF LAST FRIDAY IN WHICH PRESIDENT RAMON S.CASTILLO WAS OUSTED.

MONTEVIDEO, JUNE 9-(AP)-THE URUGUAYAN GOVERNMENT RECOGNIZED TODAY THE FRENCH COMMITTEE OF NATIONAL LIBERATION, SAYING THAT "FRIENDLY RELATIONS WITH FRANCE" WOULD BE CONTINUED THROUGH THAT REGIME IN ALGIERS.

JUN 10 1943

ARANHA TOLD THE PRESS THAT BRAZIL SAW NO REASON FOR "DOUBTS OR RESERVE." OTHER AMERICAN PEOPLES SHOULD AGREE WITH ARGENTINA'S PROPOSAL TO CONTINUE AND PERHAPS BETTER THE POLITICAL RELATIONS AMONG AMERICAN COUNTRIES," HE SAID.

TORONTO, JUNE 8-(AP)-THE ACTION TAKEN BY THE UNITED STATES ARMY IN DIRECTING THE DISCHARGE OF SOME 30 UNION WORKERS WHO INSTIGATED A THREE-DAY STRIKE OVER A RACIAL ISSUE AT THE PACKARD MOTOR COMPANY IN DETROIT, WAS ENDORSED TODAY BY THE INTERNATIONAL EXECUTIVE BOARD OF THE UNITED AUTOMOBILE, AIRCRAFT AND AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENT WORKERS OF AMERICA. (C.I.O.)

JUN 10 1943

THE UNION EXECUTIVES, MEETING HERE, DISCUSSED THE STRIKE WHICH LEFT 25,000 WORKERS IDLE AT THE PACKARD PLANT LAST WEEK.

IN A RESOLUTION SUPPORTING THE ARMY'S ACTION, THE EXECUTIVE BOARD ASKED FOR THE REMOVAL OF C.E.WEISS, VICE-PRESIDENT IN CHARGE OF PERSONNEL AT THE PACKARD PLANT, BECAUSE OF HIS ALLEGED ATTITUDE TOWARD NEGRO WORKERS.

R.J.THOMAS, UNION PRESIDENT, TOLD THE BOARD HE CONSIDERED MEMBERS OF THE KU KLUX KLAN IN DETROIT RESPONSIBLE FOR FOMENTING TROUBLE AT THE PLANT. THE STRIKE, TERMED "SPONTANEOUS" BY THE U.A.W., BROKE OUT WHEN THREE NEGRO WORKERS WERE PROMOTED TO JOBS ON MACHINES.

THE U.S.ARMY, WHICH IS RECEIVING THE OUTPUT OF THE PLANT, ENTERED THE PICTURE WITH A DIRECTION THAT THE STRIKE LEADERS BE DISCHARGED.

UNDATED RUSSELL ISLANDS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE TOKYO RADIO QUOTED IMPERIAL AN IMPERIAL HEADQUARTERS COMMUNIQUE TODAY AS SAYING THAT A LARGE FORMATION OF JAPANESE PLANES HAD SHOT DOWN 49 AMERICAN AIRCRAFT IN A VIOLENT BATTLE OVER THE RUSSELL ISLANDS, SOME 20 MILES NORTHWEST OF GUADALCANAL. JUN 10 1943

SIX JAPANESE PLANES WERE LOST IN THE BATTLE, SAID THE BROADCAST, WHICH WAS RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

THE UNITED STATES NAVY DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCED YESTERDAY THAT AMERICAN AIRMEN HAD INTERCEPTED A FORCE OF 40 OR 50 JAPANESE PLAI OVER THE RUSSELL ISLANDS, SHOOTING DOWN 19 ENEMY FIGHTERS. SEVEN AMERICAN PLANES WERE LOST IN THE ACTION, BUT THREE OF THE PILOTS WERE RESCUED, THE ANNOUNCEMENT SAID.

UNDATED EMPLOYMENT

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

JUN 10 1943

GERMANY NOW HAS 28,100,000 PERSONS GAINFULLY EMPLOYED A BERLIN BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID TODAY, OR 3,500,000 MORE THAN BEFORE THE WAR BEGAN.

THIS DID NOT INCLUDE WAR PRISONERS EMPLOYED BUT PRESUMABLY DID INCLUDE LABOR DRAFTED FROM OCCUPIED COUNTRIES.

THE BROADCAST SAID THIS WAS THE OPPOSITE FROM THE TREND IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR WHEN THE INITIAL EMPLOYMENT OF 17,000,000 PERSONS DROPPED TO 13,600,000 BY 1918.

BERLIN ADDED THAT "THE CONSTANT INCREASE OF GERMAN ARMAMENT PRODUCTION DURING THE LAST YEARS OF THIS WAR EXPLAINS THE INCREASE.

JUN 10 1943

NEW YORK, JUNE 9-(AP)-"BILL", A NEW CHARACTER ON THE GERMAN RADIO, CAME OUT WITH A NEW PROPAGANDA LINE TONIGHT--THAT REALLY, NOONE CAN WIN THIS WAR.

JUN 10 1943

HIS BROADCAST, BEAMED FROM BERLIN TO AMERICA AND RECORDED BY NBC, CONTENDED THAT THE WAR WILL BE FOUGHT TO A DRAW WITH NEITHER SIDE WINNING.

"BILL," CLAIMING TO SPEAK TO AMERICANS HE ONCE KNEW IN PARIS, SAID IN A CONCILIATORY TONE:

"WE DO NOT FOR A MOMENT CONTEST YOUR CLAIMS OF GREAT AMERICAN INDUSTRIAL PROGRESS IN PRODUCTION OF WAR MATERIALS, BUT WE SUGGEST THAT THE AXIS SIDE IS EQUALLY STRONG. IT IS USELESS TO XX TALK ABOUT WHAT WILL BE DONE TO THE ITALIAN OR GERMAN PEOPLE AFTER YOU HAVE WON THE WAR BECAUSE NEITHER SIDE WILL BE BEATEN TO SUCH AN EXTENT THAT THE OTHER CAN IMPOSE ITS WILL ON THEM."

JUN 10 1943

JUST AN HOUR BEFORE THE SAME BERLIN STATION HAD THREATENED THAT "ALLIED INVADERS WOULD BE MET BY AWAITING GRAVEDIGGERS."

OTTAWA, JUNE 9-(CANADIAN PRESS)-THE OTTAWA JOURNAL SAID TODAY THAT CANADA CAN PRODUCE MAGNESIUM IN "VIRTUALLY UNLIMITED QUANTITIES," QUOTING REPORTS MADE TO THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT BY OFFICIALS WHO HAVE INVESTIGATED THE NEW WILDMAN PROCESS FOR PRODUCTION OF MAGNESIUM FROM ASBESTOS WASTE ROCK.

THE JOURNAL SAID THE REPORTS STATED THAT MORE THAN 3,000 TONS OF MAGNESIUM CAN BE PRODUCED EVERY 24 HOURS FROM THE 25,000 TONS OF THE WASTE TAILINGS WHICH GO TO THE DUMPS DAILY FROM THE ASBESTOS MILLS IN THE THETFORD, QUE., MINING DISTRICT.

JUN 10 1943

"IN ADDITION, IT IS ESTIMATED THAT $20,000,000,000 WORTH OF MAGNESIUM IS CONTAINED IN THE 200,000,000-TON STOCK-PILE OF TACLINGS BUILT UP FROM ASBESTOS PRODUCTION OVER THE LAST 60 YEARS," THE JOURNAL SAID.

"THE DISCOVERY THAT MAGNESIUM CAN BE PRODUCED BY THE NEW PROCESS AT A COST OF UNDER 15 CENTS A POUND FROM ASBESTOS WASTE IS REGARDED OF VITAL IMPORTANCE TO THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC ON ACCOUNT OF THE LARGE SURPLUS OF HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER WHICH WILL EXIST AFTER THE WAR AND FOR WHICH NEW USES MUST BE DEVELOPED. . .

"LARGE PRODUCTION OF MAGNESIUM IN CANADA WILL ALLEVIATE THE ALUMINUM SHORTAGE AND EASE THE BURDEN ON SHIPPING MADE NECESSARY BY THE TRANSPORT OF BAUXITE FROM SOUTH AMERICA TO THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA.

"THE BUREAU OF MINES, OTTAWA, SOME MONTHS AGO REPORTED THAT PRELIMINARY SMALL-SCALE EXPERIMENTS AND A PILE PLANT OPERATION HAD CONFIRMED THE FEASIBILITY OF THE NEW MAGNESIUM PROCESS DEVELOPED BY H.G.WILDMAN, MONTREAL CHEMIST."

TORONTO, JUNE 9-(CANADIAN PRESS)-A BUSINESS ECONOMIC CONFERENCE ON POSTWAR PROBLEMS BETWEEN REPRESENTATIVES OF THE INDUSTRIAL ORGANIZATIONS IN COUNTRIES NOT NOW AT WAR WITH THE UNITED NATIONS, WAS PROPOSED TODAY TO THE 72ND ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION BY FREDERICK C. CRAWFORD, CLEVELAND, O.

CRAWFORD, PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF MANUFACTURERS IN THE UNITED STATES, SUGGESTED THAT THE TWO ASSOCIATIONS EXPLORE THE POSSIBILITIES OF HOLDING SUCH A CONFERENCE AS EARLY AS POSSIBLE.

"SUCH A CONFERENCE," HE SAID IN A SPEECH PREPARED FOR DELIVERY AT THE MEETING, "COULD BE AN INVALUABLE AID TO THE GOVERNMENTS OF OUR COUNTRIES BY PROMOTING THAT KIND OF INTERNATIONAL UNDERSTANDING AND TRADE WHICH IN TURN WOULD HELP ELIMINATE THE CAUSES OF INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC FRICTION--BECAUSE TRADE AND ECONOMIC FRICTIONS ALWAYS LIE AT THE VERY HEART OF WORLD CONFLICT.

"THERE IS A MYRIAD OF PROBLEMS AWAITING SUCH A CONFERENCE, NOT THE LEAST OF WHICH, OF COURSE, IS A FULL DISCUSSION OF THE WORLD'S EXPORT AND IMPORT TRADE IN THE POSTWAR YEARS, AND THROUGH WHAT MEANS OF EXCHANGE AND CONTROLS IT CAN BEST BE HANDLED.

JUN 10 1943

"OUR ASSOCIATION, ALTHOUGH NOT LIKING ALL THE CONDITIONS UNDER WHICH RECIPROCAL TRADE TREATIES ARE MADE, CAME OUT FOR AN EXTENSION OF THE ACT IN THE STATES. WE DID THIS MAINLY BECAUSE WE BELIEVE, IN THE EMERGENCY OF RECONSTRUCTION, AN INSTRUMENTALITY FOR QUICKLY STRAIGHTENING OUT THE TRADE RELATIONS OF OUR WORLD NEIGHBORS IS A NECESSITY.

"YOU'LL WANT CERTAIN PREFERENTIAL PROTECTION, AS YOU CALL

CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES ARE DESTINED TO PLAY A DECISIVE ROLE IN WORLD AFFAIRS, CRAWFORD SAID. SPEAKING OF THE IMMEDIATE POSTWAR ERA, HE SAID THAT BEFORE NORMAL TRADE CAN BE RESUMED, "THE WORLD MUST BE REBUILT PHYSICALLY AND THAT WILL BE OUR JOB."

"IN FACING THIS PROBLEM THE OPPORTUNITIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES ARE IDENTICAL," HE SAID. "WE WILL NOT BE COMPETITORS AS MUCH AS WE WILL BE COLLEAGUES WORKING TOGETHER TO SOLVE THE MANY MECHANICAL, MERCHANDISING AND FINANCIAL PROBLEMS."

(ADVANCE)..A NETHERLANDS BOMBER BASE, AUSTRALIA-(AP)-"GOOD BLOKES."--THAT'S THE AUSTRALIAN VERDICT ON THE MEN OF THE NETHERLANDS EAST INDIES WHO STILL ARE FLYING AND FIGHTING ABOVE THEIR OCCUPIED HOMELAND.

OPERATING OUT OF ONE OF THE MOST REMOTE BASES IN AUSTRALIA'S VAST NORTHERN TERRITORY, "THE DUTCH UNIT" OF THE ROYAL AUSTRALIAN AIR FORCE FLIES AMERICAN MITCHELL BOMBERS WITH NETHERLANDS MARKINGS. THE PERSONNEL INCLUDES HOLLANDERS, AUSTRALIANS AND INDONESIANS, ALL WORKING TOGETHER IN A WAY THAT PROVES HOW CLOSELY - DESPITE LANGUAGE BARRIERS - THE THREE PEOPLES CAN COOPERATE IN THE STRUGGLE AGAINST THE JAPANESE.

THE UNIT HAS TWO COMMANDING OFFICERS: SQUADRON LEADER L.R.DAWSON OF THE RAAF, AND A DUTCH LIEUTENANT-COLONEL, WHOSE NAME IS WITHHELD BECAUSE OF OSSIBLEREPRISALS AG

NAME IS WITHHELD BECAUSE OF POSSIBLE REPRISALS AGAINST HIS FAMILY IN OCCUPIED TERRITORY. HE WAS COMMISSIONED BY HIS GOVERNMENT TO ORGANIZE THE UNIT SOON AFTER THE FALL OF JAVA.

NETHERLANDERS AND AUSTRALIAN GROUND CREWS WORK SIDE BY SIDE SERVICING MACHINES, AND RAAF AIR GUNNERS FLY WITH DUTCH PILOTS AND NAVIGATORS. ALL OF THE HOLLANDERS CAN SPEAK ENGLISH, ALTHOUGH WITH VARYING DEGREES OF FLUENCY. OFFICIAL NOTICES ARE POSTED IN BOTH DUTCH AND ENGLISH. SAYS THE DUTCH COMMANDER: "BOTH THE NETHERLANDERS AND THE AUSTRALIANS LIKE FLYING WITH EACH OTHER AND THE SPIRIT AMONG THE CREWS IS WONDERFUL."

THE DUTCH UNIT HAS FLOWN ON NEARLY 50 OPERATIONS, DESTROYED OR DAMAGED 10 ZEROS AND ONE FLOAT PLANE, AND LOST ONLY ONE AIRCRAFT IN ACTION.

THE OPERATIONS HAVE RANGED OVER TIMOR AND NETHERLANDS NEW GUINEA. THE JAPANESE HAVE SEEN AND CURSED THE NETHERLANDS MARKINGS OVER KUPANG AND OTHER VILLAGES ON TIMOR, OVER SAUHLAKI ON TANIMBAR AND OVER TOEAL IN THE KAI ISLANDS. THESE PILOTS WERE RESPONSIBLE FOR A LARGE PART OF THE FLATTENING WHICH REDUCED DOBO, JAPANESE BASE IN THE ARU ISLANDS, TO A GHOST TOWN, AND THEY FREQUENTLY HAVE MADE THE LONG HAUL

OVER KAIMANA, A LONE MITCHELL BROUGHT DOWN TWO ZEROS WHICH HAD ATTACKED IT. LAST FEBRUARY, OVER DILLI, MITCHELLS ROUTED FIVE ZEROS. IN THIS ACTION ONE MITCHELL WAS SHOWN DOWN, BUT THE OTHER CREWS, WATCHED THE OCCUPANTS OF THE DOWNED PLANE CLIMB INTO THEIR RUBBER DINGHY, AND SUMMED A PATROL BOAT TO MAKE THE RESCUE. JUN 10 1943

THE DUTCH LIEUTENANT COLONEL WHO IS IN COMMAND WAS IN JAVA BEFORE THE WAR. THERE HE SUPERVISED DISTRIBUTION OF EQUIPMENT AND CONSTRUCTION OF AIR BASES. PREVIOUSLY HE WAS A BOMBING INSTRUCTOR AND DEVELOPED BOMBING TABLES WHICH FORM THE BASIS OF THE SCIENTIFIC METHODS OF BOMBING INSTRUCTION USED TODAY.

CAPT.R.E.JESSURUN, OBSERVER AND BOMBARDIER WHO IS SECOND IN COMMAND, HAD 300 BATTLE HOURS ON HIS FLYING LOG BEFORE THE FALL OF JAVA. IT WAS HE WHO DESTROYED THE MILITARY INSTALLATIONS AT PALEMBANG, SUMATRA, BEFORE THEY COULD FALL INTO JAPANESE HANDS. IN THE BATTLE OF JAVA, CAPT.JESSURUN TOOK UP A LONE AIRCRAFT TO ATTACK THE JAPANESE FLEET AND FOR THIS DARING EXPLOIT QUEEN WILHELMINA AWARDED HIM THE NETHERLANDS BRONZE CROSS.

BUT PROBABLY THE BEST KNOWN PILOT IN THE SQUADRON IS CAPT.W. SMIRNOFF, A FORMER KLM (ROYAL NETHERLANDS AIR LINE) PILOT WHO HAS 24,000 FLYING HOURS ON HIS LOG.

HE IS A HUGE BULK OF A MAN, FILLED WITH ENERGY, AND A BRILLIANT AERIAL TACTICIAN.

IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR HE WAS A FIGHTER PILOT WITH HIS NATIVE RUSSIAN ARMY AND SHOT DOWN MORE THAN A DOZEN GERMAN PLANES IN THE BITTER CAMPAIGNS OF 1916. DURING THE NEXT 22 YEARS HE CIRCLED THE GLOBE MANY TIMES FOR KLM. LAST YEAR HE MADE THE FRONT PAGES OF AUSTRALIAN NEWSPAPERS WHEN HIS AIRLINER WAS SHOT DOWN BY THREE JAPANESE ZEROS ABOUT 60 MILES FROM BROOME, AN ISOLATED LOCALITY IN ARID NORTHWESTERN AUSTRALIA, WHILE EN ROUTE FROM BANDUNG, JAVA, WITH EVACUEES AND MORE THAN $1,500,000 IN DIAMONDS. JUN 10 1943

BADLY WOUNDED IN BOTH THE ARMS AND LEGS, CAPT.SMIRNOFF ORGANIZED HIS PARTY INTO UNITS WHICH SET OUT IN DIFFERENT DIRECTIONS TO SEEK HELP. WHILE THESE SEARCHING PARTIES SOUGHT AID, THE INJURED AND WOUNDED WAITED AT THE SCENE OF THE WRECK, SHORT OF FOOD AND WATER. SEVERAL DAYS LATER ONE OF THE PARTIES FOUND NATIVES WHO RESCUED THE CASUALTIES.

ANOTHER WEARER OF THE BRONZE CROSS, LIEUT.WINCKEL, WAS AN INSTRUCTOR ON BOMBERS BEFORE THE WAR. MANY OF HIS FORMER PUPILS NOW FLY WITH THE UNIT. WINCKEL HAS 3,500 FLYING HOURS TO HIS CREDIT. AT THE OUTBREAK OF WAR, HE WAS ORDERED TO FLY SUPPLIES TO TROOPS, REMAINING IN THE AIR NIGHT AND DAY IN ORDER TO KEEP THE FORWARD FORCES SUPPLIED.

Isle Puts Up Strong But Futile Defense Against Invasion Spearhead

Americans Tear Up Two Sicilian Airfields—Win 39-To-1 Air Fight

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, June 10—American airmen laid explosives across Pantelleria again yesterday, tore up two Sicilian airfields near volcanic Mount Etna and won a 39-to-1 aerial victory at those invasion-jittery Italian outposts, it was disclosed officially today.

Pantelleria put up a strong but futile fighter defense against the invasion spearheads. Of the twenty German and Italian fighters arising from the little island, twelve were shot down at a cost of one Allied plane.

U. S. Liberators In Twin Stab

Striking northeast of Pantelleria, fifty United States Liberators from the Middle East Command destroyed twenty-four parked planes at Catania and Gerbini in Sicily, and shot down at least three of the twenty to twenty-five intervening Axis fighters. No American planes were lost in that twin stab.

The terrific pounding of Pantelleria, roughly midway between Tunisia and Sicily, was illustrated by aerial reconnaissance photos displayed here. One showed a five-mile-long pall of smoke and dust blanketing the northern shoreline which has been under almost ceaseless bombardment by American airmen and British warships.

Scene Reenacted Daily

Each day, and usually each night, this scene has been reenacted by what the Rome radio calls "forces of crushing superiority"—an Axis phrase reminiscent of the days just before Italian and German land armies collapsed in Tunisia.

Bomb-carrying American Lightnings participated in the American bomber assault on Pantelleria. The Lightnings knocked down five Messerschmitt 109s, while other United States planes were credited with four Macchi 202s, two ME-109s and one Focke-Wulf-190.

The size of the bombing force was not disclosed.

A Cairo communique said the Liberator attack on Catania, on the Sicilian east coast, and at Gerbini, thirteen miles inland, left "numerous large fires with columns of black smoke rising from them."

250,000 Pounds Of Bombs

More than 250,000 pounds of demolition, fragmentation and fire bombs were dropped.

"Bombs were seen to burst in hangars and administration buildings and throughout dispersal areas at both airfields," the communique said. "At least two dozen enemy aircraft were seen to be destroyed on the ground. Many others were damaged."

In combat the Americans shot down three planes, probably destroyed two others, and damaged still more, without loss to themselves.

British Raid Italy And Sicily

British Spitfires from Malta covered the attacks of Sicily and RAF Intruder forces also attacked railway communications in western Sicily and southern Italy last night.

An Italian high command communique broadcast by Rome radio said forty-one persons were killed and ninety-one injured in the Catania area, that two raiders were shot down and "limited damage" caused.

Long-range RAF fighters still were attacking enemy shipping in the Aegean Sea off Greece in the eastern Mediterranean. A Cairo communique said these planes yesterday sank two sailing vessels, left another sinking, and badly holed a fourth, which last was observed on its side. All the British planes returned safely.

Under Assault For 18 Days

Pantelleria has been under assault for eighteen consecutive days, and the Northwestern African Air Force alone has destroyed thirty-five planes compared to eleven Allied losses in the first nine days of this month.

Although Rome broadcasts declare the Italian garrison there is ready for any Allied landing attempt, the state of Axis nerves already has been revealed in the recent Lampedusa episode.

A small British scouting force landed on that tiny Italian island, eighty miles south of Pantelleria, in an operation that began Sunday night and ended Monday morning. Axis broadcasts pictured the operation as a successful Italian repulse of a strong British Commando force.

Details of the operation disclosed here tonight showed that two British soldiers failed to return to the landing boats after a mission executed under artillery and machine-gun fire. The British mother ships off the coast waited for more than an hour for the two missing men before returning to their base.

Island's Fall Near

Besieged from the air and sea—by blockading naval fleets which have thrown in six devastating bombardments—the island's reduction was considered in some London quarters to be only a matter of time despite the garrison's silence in the face of the Allied demand for surrender.

From here it appeared that this Mediterranean fortress already had been effectively neutralized and that its occupation was imminent. Some observers considered the possibility that, since its defenses now were virtually useless, the island might be by-passed in the event of a great offensive move. However, it does have an airfield that might be useful.

Italian Fleet Ready

Although six successive naval bombardments of Pantelleria had not been once challenged by the Italian fleet, its admiral, Arture Riccardi, declared in a navy day broadcast that the fleet "is at action stations ready to stand up to and to oppose the enemy's attacks and repulse them."

"Any moment now," he added, "may be the eve of the battle x x x our large naval units, in spite of their apparent inertia, are preparing for the enemy's offensive."

While Allied bombers struck time and again at Pantelleria yesterday, 50 Liberator bombers of the Middle East command churned up new destruction at the major Sicilian air bases of Catania and Gerbini.

Intruder planes from Malta ranged over western Sicily and southern Italy, smashing enemy communications.

29 Prefects Shifted

Mussolini's frantic anti-invasion efforts were disclosed in a Rome radio announcement of the mass firing and shifting of prefects in 29 provincial capitals up and down Italy and in Sardinia and Sicily.

This announcement was broadcast between nervous trumpetings that "as each hour goes by we await the enemy" and by plaintive anniversary reminiscences on what might have been if Italy's colonial ambitions had been realized after the last war.

All this was far removed from Mussolini's bombast when he strutted out on the balcony of the Palazzio Venezia three years ago to declare war, and to shout:

"The time has come when Italy's need for expansion is about to be realized."

Italy's occupation army of 50,000 in Corsica was reported working urgently to strengthen its defenses against the dual threat of Allied invasion and action by French patriots who were reported hiding in the mountains awaiting the signal to spring upon the Fascists.

A Reuters Zurich dispatch said the Germans were removing the civil population from the French coastal cities of Lorient, Le Havre, Cherbourg and St. Malo.

Fighting French headquarters here said the Italians were rushing troops from upper Savoy to the Swiss frontier to round up young Frenchmen who had taken to the mountains to escape deportation to Germany and were now slipping out to join the de Gaullists.

Nazi Bonus For Parachutists

In a move to head off any parachute invasion of southern France, the Fighting French said, the Germans promised to release a French

U. S. BOMBING OF CONTINENT IS DUE TO RISE

Air Force In Britain Will Soon Strike Several Targets In Day

JUN 11 1943

Strength Doubled Since March, Still Growing, Eaker Declares

[By the Associated Press]

London, June 10—The strength of the Eighth United States Air Force, which is rapidly approaching parity with the RAF in Britain, will be used to hit the enemy in three, four, five or more places in a single day with bombing fleets capable of obliterating any normal industrial target, Maj. Gen. Ira C. Eaker disclosed today.

Having doubled in size since March and growing at the rate of fifteen to thirty per cent. monthly, the United States Bomber Command was able to send nearly 300 of its heavyweights against St. Nazaire, Rennes and La Pallice in a three-way raid on May 29, the Eighth Air Force commander told a press conference.

Separate, medium-sized bomber forces will be used in multiple raids against a single target in the future rather than concentrating a fleet of many hundreds over a city as the RAF does in area bombing at night, Eaker indicated.

Five Per Cent. Losses

Eaker said that the forces such as the American command has been using recently "can be guaranteed to saturate and obliterate any normal industrial target. We have found also that a formation of this size can defend itself and will sustain normally losses of five per cent. or less." He added:

"We shall, by and large, therefore launch as many such assaults on any favorable day as we have the over-all force to effect."

The chief defensive advantage of these multiple raids is to prevent the enemy from concentrating his defenses on a single fleet, which he has been able to do in the past when the Americans were able to send out only one force.

No Tendency To Rise

Despite all handicaps, Eaker explained, losses on these small force raids have run less than four per cent. since the American bombings began ten months ago, and have shown no tendency to increase with heavier operations. In fact, he said, the record-breaking May operations have tended to prove that the "loss curve goes down as the forces go up."

Eaker recalled that a year ago British Chief Air Marshall A. T. Harris, answering those who said that mass bombings alone cannot win a war, said that it hadn't been tried yet, and that Germany would make an interesting subject. He predicted at that time that British-American mass bombing of the Reich could, and if necessary would, be far surpassed.

"I suggest we have been engaged in the early phase of that trial period recently," said Eaker. "I think that before the summer is over, between us we will have enough forces in the United Kingdom to draw the experiment to a close."

Doesn't Predict End

Eaker added that he did not mean this as a prediction that the war would be over then, but only that by then the bombing would be on a scale large enough to determine its effects.

The general explained that the Eighth Air Force has two sub divisions—a strategic force made up of heavy bombers working with fighter planes, and a tactical force made up largely of medium bombers which "must be ready to support an invasion of the Continent" as the tactical air force in Tunisia supported the Allied armies there.

American fighter forces which were strong enough to make about 2,300 sorties over the Continent in May are equipped mainly with Thunderbolts, of which Eaker said, "we are well satisfied with the plane and now know it can defeat the Focke-Wulf 190. Nine American fighters were lost in these operations, against thirty-five Axis craft destroyed or damaged.

62 Lost In May

During May, Eaker revealed, more than 1,600 American heavy bombers raided the Continent, including those that went twice or more, and dropped 2,800 tons of bombs on 19 targets. Sixty-two of the big planes were lost, but they shot down 359 enemy craft and probably destroyed 93 more.

Taking note of Axis criticism that the Allies are bombing civilians, Eaker reiteratd that American bombings are directed only at military targets and "have generally shown commendable accuracy." He explained "we have repeatedly, at increased danger to our combat crews, warned people in occupied territories of attack," and said it will continue to be his policy to spare the people of occupied countries as much as possible.

Efficiency Increasing

But, he added firmly, "if the enemy has a valuable target essential to his war effort, he must know we will destroy it if it lies within our range. That is inevitable."

Eaker reported that the efficiency curve of the Eighth Air Force is rising steadily, with a higher percentage of its aircraft reaching the target and a high percentage of bombs falling within the target area. He said this increasing efficiency, plus its mounting numbers, means "we can look forward to that happy day when we shall be able to bear our full share of the load" with the RAF.

Eaker warned that lulls, such as the current one, in the Allied air war on Europe from England are natural and to be expected, arguing that no army or navy fights major battles every day and that no air force can be expected to.

"We will never operate at a rate which will bring losses faster than we can replace them," he said, except in an all-out drive such as an invasion of Europe.

But, he added, the initiative now is in the hands of the Allies and they are able to pick the times when they can launch attacks "under conditions most desirable to us and embarrassing to the enemy."

Enemy Reported To Have Used Full Regiment. 300 Men Lost

[By the Associated Press]

London, Friday, June 11—Thousands of Germans, supported by tanks and planes, cracked advance Russian lines yesterday in a sudden lunge toward the Caucasian gateway of Rostov, but a Red army counter-blow restored the situation, Moscow announced early today.

The Germans used a full regiment, from 3,000 to 5,000 men, in this attack which temporarily overran "Soviet outpost detachments," but the midnight communique recorded by the Soviet monitor said "they were later thrown back by a Red army counter-blow" and lost 300 men, five tanks and two planes.

There was no immediate indication whether this was a forerunner of the expected large-scale German summer offensive which is considered overdue.

Deepest Penetration

The action occurred somewhere between Rostov and Taganrog, thirty-five miles to the west. It is in this area that the Germans hold their deepest penetration inside Russia. The sector also is important as a supporting operation for those German troops still clinging to the Kuban bridgehead of the Caucasus, across the sea of Azov from Taganrog.

A German radio commentator, Lieut. Gen. Kurt Dietmar, said last night in a Berlin broadcast recorded by the Associated Press that German troop dispositions in Russia now offered a "platform for operations of offensive tendency."

In this obvious hint that the Germans might try another summer offensive shortly, Dietmar said the Germans now had stabilized their lines, filled in gaps with replacements and moved up equipment.

Front "Puts On Fat"

"The front in the East has put on fat again" was the way he expressed it—meaning that both sides now have gained needed rest from the exhausting winter campaigns and probably intend to "deal a big blow under the most favorable conditions."

Air warfare by both the Germans and Russians continued. A Moscow broadcast said large forces of Russian bombers inflicted heavy losses on the enemy in attacking five German airdromes Wednesday night, and acknowledged a German raid there on Yaroslavl, 150 miles northeast of Moscow, the same night in which an undisclosed number of casualties occurred and dwellings were destroyed.

Earlier, the German high command had said its planes left large fires at Yaroslval on the upper Volga in an attack on an important armament plant there.

Rubber Plant Hit

A Transocean Berlin broadcast recorded later by the Associated Press said "several hundred bombers and fighter airplanes" participated, dropping more than 500 tons of explosives and more than 100,000 fire bombs, and identified the target as a synthetic rubber plant.

The assault was pictured as a continuation of heavy attacks on Soviet rear-line industries, begun recently with three raids on the armament works at Gorki, 250 miles east of Moscow.

The German agency acknowledged Russian attacks on German airfields in central Russia, saying that damage was "insignificant," and "the German military, of course, is not accustomed to confirm in detail to the enemy where he might have scored direct hits or where he missed."

Aside from the German stab in the area west of Rostov, land fighting was of a local nature, Moscow said in its communique.

PRESIDENT RAMIREZ ACTS UNDER RIO RESOLUTION TO KEEP DOWN ESPIONAGE

Berlin And Rome Recognize New Regime, Bidding For A Last Stand On Diplomatic Front In The Western Hemisphere

JUN 11 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Buenos Aires, June 10—The Argentine Government tonight canceled facilities which have permitted Axis embassies and nationals to transmit code messages to their capitals.

The Government took this step in compliance with the resolution adopted in Rio de Janeiro by American foreign ministers against Axis espionage.

Under the previous Government, Axis embassies and nationals have been able to send one-hundred-word code messages daily. Many observers held that these messages contained ship information which aided the Axis in its submarine war.

First Of Ramirez' Promised Acts

This order by the new Government of President Pedro Ramirez apparently was the first of the "acts" with which it has announced it would show its Pan-American policy.

The decree banning the messages—the first important step against the Axis taken by the Government—said that "taking account of the convenience of continental security . . . coded, cipher or prearranged language on international radio-telephonic or radio-telegraphic communications is suspended."

Radio is the only channel left for Axis communications since all cable companies in Argentina are controlled by the United Nations.

The decree also said the action was taken "in view of the adherence of the Argentine Government to the resolution of the third consultative meeting of the American republics (at Rio de Janeiro)."

Berlin, Rome Recognize Ramirez

The Axis powers gave notice in world broadcasts and by personal representation in Buenos Aires yesterday that they intend to make a last stand on the diplomatic front in the Western Hemisphere.

The German and Italian charges d'affaires in the Argentine capital called at the Foreign Office with notifications that Berlin and Rome recognized the new administration of General Ramirez.

Japan remained to be heard from but was expected to follow suit in an obvious Axis bid to keep an Axis diplomatic foothold in the Americas and thus maintain a loophole in the armor of the United Nations.

However, the Ramirez regime which swept the isolationist President Ramon Castillo and his Cabinet out of office by a military march on the capital last Friday, has given manifestations of joining fully in Pan-American solidarity.

Spanish Recognition Speedy

The sequence of foreign recognition of Ramirez as Argentine President, or "Premier" as the Italians called him, found Spain first among the non-American nations placing the stamp of diplomatic approval on his regime.

Spain's announcement shortly preceded those of Germany and Italy which were contained in broadcasts recorded by the Associated Press and were soon followed by the visits of the two Axis charges to the Argentine Foreign Ministry in Buenos Aires.

Those visits came shortly after the new Argentine Foreign Minister, Vice-Admiral Segundo Storni, had pledged Argentina to a policy of inter-American solidarity at a press conference called for American journalists.

American Nations Approve

The American nations, one by one, were announcing their approval of the new Argentine regime.

The President of Paraguay, Gen. Higinio Morinigo, was given the honor of announcing, after a visit with Secretary of State Cordell Hull in Washington, that the United States probably would publish its formal recognition of the Ramirez Government today.

Morinigo said his own Foreign Office would announce recognition today on the decision he made after consultation with Hull.

It remained to be seen whether a new tug-of-war would develop between the Axis on one side and the Americas and the United Nations on the other, with Argentina between.

But the new Government in Buenos Aires, in its first days of reconstruction, has emphasized that the course of its foreign policy will be marked by acts rather than words and has indicated an overturn from the "prudent" neutrality of the overthrown President Ramon Castillo, which tolerated the last batch of Axis representatives in the Western Hemisphere.

In Colombia, Foreign Minister Gabriel Turbay said Colombia and Ecuador will recognize the Government in a joint declaration tomorrow.

Venezuela alredy has instructed its Minister in Buenos Aires to inform the Government of its recognition.

The radio said the war anniversary had been chosen for the "annual reshuffle" of prefects of provincial capitals, including the head men of such heavily bombed cities as Messina, Palermo and Catania, in Sicily, and Cagliari, in Sardinia. The Rome broadcast insisted, however, that this was a normal procedure and in no wise connected with the effects of Allied bombing attacks.

Tojo Sends Greetings.

This announcement was broadcast between nervous trumpetings that "as each hour goes by we await the enemy" and by plaintive anniversary reminiscences on what might have been if Italy's colonial ambitions had been realized after the last war.

All this was far removed from Mussolini's bombast when he strutted out on the balcony of the Palazzio Venezia three years ago to declare war, and to shout: "The time has come when Italy's need for expansion is about to be realized."

The Berlin radio said that Gen. Hideki Tojo, the Premier of Japan, sent an anniversary message to Mussolini in which he expressed the firm conviction that victory is inevitable for the Axis Powers, and volunteered the opinion that an Allied offensive was impossible.

[In a broadcast picked up at New York today by NBC, the British radio emphasized that Mussolini remained silent on this war anniversary and that Hitler had sent no greetings to Italy. Subsequently, in a broadcast recorded by CBS, London declared that all Italian workers in Berlin had been called home.]

Yugoslavs Battle Nazi Tanks.

Meanwhile today the Yugoslav Government in Exile announced that Axis forces supported by thirty-five tanks and a strong air cover have forced their way into the Montenegrin town of Sadnik in the face of fierce resistance by Gen. Draja Mihailovic's guerrilla forces.

The communique said that the patriots killed and wounded many of the enemy and that heavy fighting was continuing, the guerrilla forces having retired to the surrounding mountains.

In another clash the Yugoslavs were stated to have surrounded and virtually wiped out a German battalion in two days' fighting ending on June 1 in the Serbian mountain region of Gucevo, near the Drina River.

Treachery's Anniversary.

Tonight the Czecho-Slovak Government in Exile broadcast an appeal to the Czech patriots conducting the guerrilla warfare in the homeland to increase their struggles "so as to hasten the fall of the Nazi regime."

The day was not alone the third anniversary of Italy's entry into the war—an event denounced by President Roosevelt as a stab in the back—but it was also the first anniversary of the massacre of Lidice, when a whole village was destroyed by the Germans for having harbored the assassins of Reinhard Heydrich, Reich's Protector for Bohemia and Moravia.

The Lidice anniversary was the Czech appeal for resistance. It coincided further with the reported arrival in Prague of Gauleiter Fritz Sauckel, who was said to be disturbed over Czech resistance to Nazi labor mobilization.

It was originally reported that all the males of Lidice were massacred; more recently the Czechs have stated that the entire populace was slain.

"Lidice cries out for vengeance," said tonight's broadcast, which was in the form of a proclamation. "On the eve of decisive events on the battlefields of the world we call on the whole nation, in the name of the people of Lidice and all other martyrs of freedom, to increase their organized struggles against the enemy and to prevent the mass murder and destruction of the Czecho-Slovak people."

30-24-4845

Quisling Arms for Civil Strife.

Norwegian Storm Troopers, 10,000 strong, are undergoing intensive training in preparation for the job of protecting Norwegian Nazis against reprisals by patriots in the event of an invasion of Norway by the Allies, the Swedish Motala radio said today in a domestic broadcast recorded here by the Federal Communications Commission. Major Vidkun Quisling, the Norwegian Nazi leader, has assigned to the job nine regiments of the Storm Troop Hird organization.

"Shooting practice is being carried out in the different regiments, and even young members of the Hirds are now put through a fairly intensive pre-military training," the broadcast said, and, quoting reports from Oslo, added:

"In the present situation, it is the task of the Hird to combat party adversaries, and with regard to this it is stressed that actions against people wearing red garments and the like will in the future be carried out consistently, so that in this way opposition will be prevented from gathering around visible symbols."

Eaker Says Americans Can Soon Obliterate Three Targets in Day.

GIVES FIGURES ON GROWTH

Declares Bomber Strength Will Equal That of R. A. F. by End of Summer.

JUN 11 1943

London, June 10 (A. P.).—The American bomber force in England is increasing by from 15 to 30 per cent every month and by the end of this summer will approximate the bomber strength of the Royal Air Force, Major-Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of the Eighth United States Air Force, revealed today. The American force will soon be strong enough to hit the Axis in Europe at three, four, five or more places in a single day, he declared, and each fleet will be capable of obliterating any normal industrial target.

He also disclosed that nearly 300 four-engined bombers participated in the American daylight raid on St. Nazaire, Rennes and La Pallice in France on May 29.

He began a press conference by announcing that the American heavy bomber force had doubled in size since March. Then he said that the Eighth Air Force as a whole had doubled since March and that it would double again between now and October.

He said that the American Flying Fortresses and Liberators would continue their precision raiding by daylight with relatively small individual forces rather than adopt the British technic of mass raiding by night or day.

Meanwhile, Gen. Eaker said, the American fighter and medium bomber forces in England are also growing rapidly and will be ready to play a full part in supporting the Allied troops invading Europe.

American bomber losses for May were under 4 per cent, Gen. Eaker said. During the month more than 1,600 heavy bombers raided the Continent, including those that went twice or more, and dropped 2,800 tons of bombs on nineteen targets. Sixty-two of the big planes were lost, but they shot down 359 enemy craft and probably destroyed ninety-three more.

The American fighter forces made about 2,300 sorties, Gen. Eaker disclosed, losing nine planes while destroying or damaging thirty-five Axis craft.

While the Fortress crews are being trained in night flying to add flexibility to their tactics, their main job will continue to be done by daylight, Gen. Eaker declared.

Thunderbolts Prove Good.

The General also revealed that the new Thunderbolt fighter was proving herself in combat over the Continent and was greatly boosting the confidence of fighter pilots.

Medium bombers also are arriving in large numbers from the United States, Gen. Eaker said. Their chief role ultimately will be to support the invasion of Europe, he added, and their crews are now being trained for that purpose. Their training will be thorough and complete before the land battle starts, Gen. Eaker said.

Explaining the recent lull in major bombing attacks on Europe from England, he declared that in the Air Force, as in the Army and Navy, it is necessary to replace losses and to regroup forces after heavy battles, such as those fought in May. He added that the initiative is now in the hands of the Allies, and that they are able to pick the times when they can launch attacks "under conditions most desirable to us and most embarrassing to the enemy."

To Try Night Flying.

Prior to the general's press conference, a reliable spokesman said today that the Eighth Air Force had been assigned a unit of Flying Fortresses to undertake night-bombing experiments with the Royal Air Force. Their light, day camouflage painted over with the lull black of the night-raiding Lancasters and Halifaxes of the R. A. F., the Fortresses would soon join the R. A. F. in night attacks on Germany, it was stated.

Originally the Flying Fortresses were equipped and their crews were trained for high-level daylight precision bombing, which proved to be a sensational success despite the defense efforts of the German air force and the early skepticism of British commentators. The famous Norden bombsight and the unique array of fifty-caliber machine guns were both designed especially for daylight operations and the crews were not trained for the intricate problems of take-off, landing, navigating and fighting at night—an R. A. F. specialty.

The experiment with night operation, which had been officially assault was not disclosed, but it underscored the Allied determination, announced in a special communique yesterday, to blast this Italian outpost "until it collapses."

[The Italians, who yesterday ignored an Allied demand for surrender of Pantelleria, declared yesterday from the Rome radio: "As each hour goes by we await the enemy at Pantelleria. We are ready and waiting."]

From their Middle East air forecast, does not mean that the United States Air Force will abandon daylight bombing now or eventually. On the contrary, it will grow steadily in power. Despite the fact that the German air force tactics against the Fortresses has improved with experience, daylight bombing is still considered well worth its cost in planes and men, the flyers say.

New Italian Submarine Sunk

London, June 10 (AP)—The new 950-ton Italian submarine Tritone has been sunk on her maiden voyage in the Mediterranean by the British destroyers Port Arthur and Antelope, it was announced today. The Antelope picked up all the survivors.

NAZIS ADMIT U-BOAT NOW FACES CARRIER

London, June 10 (A. P.).—The German radio, making the first Axis reference to the Allied use of carrier escorts in the battle of the Atlantic, told today of what it called a dramatic fight in mid-Atlantic between a U-boat and planes from a British carrier.

The broadcast, recorded here by the Associated Press, declared that the surfaced U-boat stood off eight planes, shooting down one, and "at the successful conclusion of this unequal engagement, the U-boat continued on her operations."

Sir J. D. Cunningham Commanding in Levant

London, June 10 (A. P.).—Vice-Admiral Sir John D. Cunningham has been appointed commander in chief in the Levant, with the acting rank of admiral, succeeding Acting Admiral Sir Ralph Leatham, it was announced today.

Sir John, who is a cousin of Sir Andrew Cunningham, naval commander in the Mediterranean, left the admiralty, where he had been fourth sea lord, early this month.

FOUR GERMAN FIGHTERS DOWNED BY SPITFIRES

LONDON, June 10.—(AP) British Spitfire pursuit planes, in an offensive sweep over northern France and Belgium tonight destroyed four enemy aircraft and damaged three armed trawlers off the Dutch coast, an air ministry communique said.

Three British planes were missing.

The German planes, four Focke-Wolf 190's, were four miles up when they were attacked. The British planes then coasted down to 100 feet above the sea to rake with cannon fire the trawlers creeping along the coast. All three were left smoking.

ARMY BOXERS BEAT BRITISH

U. S. Fighters Score 6-5 Victory Over Picked Battlers Of Empire Forces

10,000 Soldiers And Civilians Watch As Private Kozak Outpoints Commando

[By the Associated Press]

London, June 10—A United States Army boxing team scored a 6-5 victory over the picked fighters of the British Army tonight in the inter-service championship tournament before a noisy crowd of more than 10,000 soldiers and civilians. Hundreds of would-be spectators were turned away.

The only knockout of the 11 bouts was scored by British Sergeant Gunner Fred Smith over Frank Missella, of Cleveland, Ohio, in a light-heavyweight class bout. Smith flattened his American rival with three successive rights to the jaw in 1 minute and 40 seconds of the second round.

Kozak Takes Feature

In the feature heavyweight bout, Private Vincent Kozak, of Hazelton, Pa., outpointed Bombardier George Preston of the Commandos.

The fights were held under American rules and British spectators, most of whom were not familiar with the system of judging, showed dissatisfaction with loud booing of three close decisions.

The referee was Lieut. Col. Richards Vidmer, former New York Herald Tribune sports writer. All the boxers on both teams were winners or runners-up in a series of elimination tournaments held in the past month.

Noce Presents Plaques

Brig. Gen. Daniel Noce, who presented plaques to the winners, received a loud ovation when he said, "tomorrow members of both forces will work side by side in the final round to give a knockout to the Axis."

A commentator on the same program added: "The Italian fleet is so very daring. Whenever and wherever it is needed, it will always be there."

Raids Cost British 874 Planes

Czech Rulers Spur Guerrillas To 'Hasten Fall of Nazi Regime'

By The Associated Press. JUN 11 1943

LONDON, June 10—The Czechoslovak Government in Exile broadcast an appeal today to patriots conducting guerrilla warfare in the homeland to increase their struggles "so as to hasten the fall of the Nazi regime."

The occasion was the first anniversary of the destruction of Lidice by the Germans, but it also coincided with the reported arrival in Prague of Gauleiter Fritz Sauckel, who was said to be disturbed over Czech resistance to Nazi labor mobilization.

"Lidice cries out for vengeance," said the broadcast, which was in the form of a proclamation. "On the eve of decisive events on the battlefields of the world we call on the whole nation, in the name of the people of Lidice and all other martyrs to freedom, to increase their organized struggles against the enemy and to prevent the mass murder and destruction of the Czechoslovak people."

Axis forces supported by thirty-[illegible]nks and a strong air cover forced their way into the Montenegrin town of Sadnik in the face of fierce resistance by General Draja Mikhailovitch's guerrilla forces, the Yugoslav Government in exile announced today.

AIR WAR FLARES IN DON VALLEY

JUN 11 1943

Nazis and Reds Intensify Pre-battle Raids.

MCGAFFIN

Moscow, June 10 (A. P.).—Increasingly vigorous air battles were reported today from widely separated points of the front as the German air force and the Soviet plane fleet continued to fight it out in a prelude to a 1943 land offensive.

Dispatches from Bataisk, ten miles south of Rostov, disclosed that air fighting had flared up again in the Don River Valley. The vicinity of the city and the mud flats of the Don have become a cemetery for downed Junkers and Heinkel planes, it was reported, with anti-aircraft batteries scoring heavily in the struggle.

The news of the Don basin aerial war came on the heels of German raids on the Volkhov front, sixty miles southeast of Leningrad, where twenty-four German planes were reported shot down. From 150 to 160 German planes were declared destroyed in Russian bombing raids on German airdromes Tuesday night. The Russians said they lost a total of twenty-six planes in the engagements.

Land action played a minor role.

Russia's Loan Oversubscribed

MOSCOW, June 10 (AP).—Russia's new war loan has been oversubscribed by more than 8,000,000,000 rubles, the Finance Commissariat announced today. It said the loan, aimed at raising 12,000,000,000 rubles, has reached 20,121,000,000 rubles. [The ruble has a "nominal" value of about 19 cents.]

END OF COMINTERN IS NOW COMPLETE

Moscow, June 10 (A. P.).—Dissolution of the Communist International was completed today when the Executive Committee announced that sections in thirty different nations had unanimously approved the decision to disband.

The last vestiges of the organization's machinery were scrapped by the announcement, which advised communists throughout the world that they should consider the Executive Committee and the Presidium itself as dissolved forthwith.

The committee's decision to dissolve the Comintern—which was established in 1919 to mobilize working class parties all over the world—was announced on May 22. Approval of the sections announced today constituted a mere formality.

The United States was not in the list of thirty nations from which messages of approval were received from sections of the International, the Communist party in America having received permission to withdraw from the Comintern in 1940.

NAZIS FORCE FINNS TO GIVE MORE MEN

Stockholm, June 10 (A. P.)—The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported today that Finland had acceded to German pressure and recruited a replacement for every physically fit Finn who recently returned from the Russian front with the Finnish SS Battalion.

Nearly half of the battalion's original 1,400 men had been killed or invalided out of service by the time it returned home, the newspaper said.

At first, the report added, the Finnish Government refused to allow recruiting to fill the gaps and the veterans declined to sign new contracts. The Germans, however, forced a compromise.

"Finland doesn't know what to do in order to avoid the German grasp," the newspaper commented. "Finland has resigned herself to compromise for an indefinite time. She refuses to declare a hundred per cent solidarity."

Emphasizing that the situation is changing rapidly and that the risk involved for Finland now is "realized even by unwilling Finnish observers," the newspaper concluded that "the question now is how to avoid being drawn into the depths when the big ship (Germany) sinks."

NAZIS WARN PEOPLE OF WORSE BOMBING

Leaders Reported Saying Foe May Strike at All Corners of Reich at Any Moment

BLOW TO MORALE 'AWFUL'

Himmler's Police Widen Their Activity as Indications of Opposition Increase

SHANKE

STOCKHOLM, June 10 (AP)—Dispatches from Berlin to the Swedish press reported today that the Nazi leadership had warned the German people that the Allies might carry the air offensive to all corners of Germany "at any moment," while admitting that raids on West and Northwest Germany already were having an "awful" effect on morale.

"The air war, in a terrible form of terror attacks, is a damned serious affair," Adolf Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter was quoted as saying.

Admonishing that air raids could not be ignored, the newspaper continued, as its account was relayed by the Berlin correspondent of the Stockholms Tidningen:

"What is happening today to our compatriots in Northwest and West Germany can be your fate and my fate tomorrow!"

The correspondent said that Nazi official circles had reported the Allied bombardment of German cities was having worse effects on the people of the Reich than "the invasion nerve war."

The Hitler newspaper admitted indirectly that the German air force and anti-aircraft artillery were unable to cope fully with Allied raiders, remarking: "Having to take the bombing terror passively is extremely difficult."

The newspaper Lokalanzeiger gave an idea of what happens during a raid. In one raid on a single city, it said, volunteer forces fought 1,500 fires while the police and fire departments concentrated on sixty areas of large-scale damage.

Himmler Tightens Grip

Heinrich Himmler's police are tightening their grip on the Reich because of sagging morale, reliable reports coming out of Germany indicated today, and for this reason keen observers here believe a crack-up is unlikely until absolute military collapse also is at hand.

Supplementing the stories that leak out of Germany is the plain fact that Nazi leaders and party orators are stumping the country, setting up a strange scene of appeals for faith in victory and threats that "weak" Germans will be purged.

Sources here said that "Himmler's Gestapo is not applying any new methods in combating discontent, unrest and activities endangering the war effort but is acting on a much wider scale."

"Where it used to crack down on tens or hundreds, now it is striking at thousands," they added.

The same sources said:

"The Gestapo has its worries: For the first time signs of organized opposition to the Nazis, in Austria for example, are appearing; for the first time, also, the arming of such opposition is no problem. Three kilograms of coffee [about 6½ pounds] is worth machine-gun in a country pinched for food, such as is Germany.

"It is even easier in occupied lands. Moreover, the Nazis' enemies are shooting down Gestapo agents with increasing frequency. Garbed as SS men [Elite Guards], they are even known to have invaded Gestapo offices."

Morale Low in Austria

In Austria, where the morale is said to be especially low, more than 140 Austrians were reported executed by the SS since November for underground anti-Nazi activity. All those were announced in the press—but actually they were said to represent only a fraction of the executions in that period.

General dissatisfaction and restiveness also were seen in the character of court convictions recorded in the press during May. There were seventy-eight sentences for war crimes such as talking disparagingly about soldiers or the Nazi party, for spreading rumors of black marketing, and for plundering in blackouts.

The charges mainly brought prison terms of from five to fifteen years, but there were twenty-three death sentences. The Nazi policy has been to publish only a few of such cases to serve as a frightening example.

Concern Over Possible Allied Invasion

[By the Associated Press]

Stockholm, June 10—Twenty-four-hour, large-scale German anti-invasion maneuvers were held in the Oslo area of Norway on May 30, reliable reports from Norway said tonight, while Nazis were reported to have warned the German people that an Allied air attack may reach all corners of Germany "at any moment."

All German troops in the Oslo district took part in the maneuvers, guarding roads and bridges and occupying public buildings.

New steps by the occupation authorities emphasized German nervousness about a possible Allied invasion. The German port commander at Kristiansand has banned traffic by light craft even for sport fishing and has forbidden bathing in the harbor area. All Norwegian ports recently were ordered closed at night.

Ditpatches from Berlin to the Swedish press admitted that raids on west and northwest Germany already were having an "awful" effect on morale.

"The air war, in a terrible form of terror attacks, is a damned serious affair," Adolf Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter was quoted.

Admonishing that air raids could not be ignored, the newspaper continued, as its account was relayed by the Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm's Tidningen:

"What is happening today to our compatriots in northwest and west Germany can be your fate and my fate tomorrow!"

Inability Admitted

The Hitler newspaper admitted indirectly that the German air force and anti-aircraft artillery were unable to cope fully with Allied raiders, remarking: "Having to take the bombing terror passively is extremely difficult."

The German newspaper Lokal Anzeiger gave an idea of what happens during a raid. In one raid on a single city, the paper said, volunteer forces fought 1,500 fires while the police and fire departments concentrated on sixty areas of large-scale damage.

Threatens to Quit Committee Unless Vichy Servants Are Dismissed.

SHANKE

ALGIERS, June 10 — (AP) Sources close to General Charles de Gaulle, of the Fighting French committee, asserted tonight that he was threatening to resign from the newly created French Committee for National Liberation unless he wins his point in the dismissal of former servants of Vichy.

At the same time, Gen. de Gaulle adherents said he was opposing the desire of General Henri Giraud to assume the post of minister of national defense while retaining his position as commander in chief of the French army.

The crisis, by these accounts, developed suddenly late this afternoon during the committee's session.

Those whose dismissal Gen. de Gaulle is demanding were not identified by name but observers took it for granted that Pierre Boisson, governor-general of French West Africa, and probably Vice Admiral Emile Muselier, along with scores of lesser known officials, were on his list.

(What position Gen. de Gaulle wanted Muselier to relinquish was not immediately clear; at last report—on June 3—he had been relieved, at Gen. de Gaulle's insistence, of a two-day job as deputy commander in chief in charge of public order in Algiers.)

It was said that while Gen. de Gaulle had not gone so far as to hand in a resignation he had taken a position so adamant that compromise would be difficult. His intimates suggested that the committee would not permit him to resign in view of his undoubted strength among the French overseas and in metropolitan France.

Corsica's Fascisti Alert

LONDON, June 10 (AP)—Italy's occupation army of 50,000 in Corsica was reported today to be working urgently to strengthen its defenses against the dual threat of Allied invasion and action by French patriots, who were reported hiding in the mountains awaiting the signal to spring upon the Fascisti.

Fighting French Headquarters here said the Italians were rushing troops from Upper Savoy to the Swiss frontier to round up young Frenchmen who had taken to the mountains to escape deportation to Germany and were now slipping out to join the de Gaullists.

In a move to head off any parachute invasion of Southern France, the Fighting French said, the Germans promised to release a French prisoner of war for every parachutist turned in.

Although six successive naval bombardments of Pantelleria had not been once challenged by the Italian fleet, its admiral, Arturo Riccardi, declared in a Navy Day broadcast that the fleet "is at action stations, ready to stand up to and to oppose the enemy's attacks and repulse them."

"Any moment now," he added, "may be the eve of the battle. Our large naval units, in spite of their apparent inertia, are preparing for the enemy's offensive."

Ex-Sultan Of Morocco Dies At Age Of 65

Tetuan, Spanish Morocco, June 10 (AP)—Muley Abd-el-Aziz, 65, who was Sultan of Morocco from 1894 to 1908, when he abdicated, died here yesterday.

The former sultan, whose mother was a Circassian slave, was only 16 when his father died in 1894, and for the next six years his chamberlain, Si Ahmed-ben-Musa, exercised the real power of government.

Abd-el-Aziz took over in 1900 and ruled until 1908, when he abdicated in the face of repeated local revolts and was succeeded by his brother, Muley Hafid.

ALLIES WHITTLE AT RESISTANCE OF AXIS FORCES

London Reports Second Raid by Commandos on Lampedusa.

JUN 11 1943

SICILY POUNDED BY AIRMEN

Landings on Italian Islands Expected Shortly by Some Observers.

MORN

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, June 10 (A. P.).—Allied air forces, steadily whittling away at Axis resistance on the Mediterranean outposts, have executed new air assaults on bomb-scarred Pantelleria and Sicily in connection with a scouting raid by British Commandos against Lampedusa, it was announced today.

Striking in darkness from the sea Monday night, the Commandos tested the defenses of Lampedusa, tiny Italian prison isle eighty miles south of the invasion stepping stone of Pantelleria, and retired with light casualties after completing their mission, a headquarters communique said.

[A British naval communique issued yesterday at Malta said light surface forces had carried out a coast reconnaissance of the island Sunday night. London sources, although unable to reconcile the time difference, were inclined to believe the two announcements referred to a single amphibious operation.]

[Meanwhile tonight, in a broadcast picked up at London by the Associated Press, the Rome radio declared that the Italian fleet "is at action stations ready to stand up to and to oppose the enemy's attacks, and to repulse them." Quoting Admiral Arturo Riccardi, the fleet commander, Rome continued: "Any moment now may be the eve of the battle . . . Our large naval units, in spite of their apparent inertia, are preparing for the enemy's offensive."]

50 Planes Raid Sicily.

Two field guns and a number of machine guns were said to have engaged the Commando patrol Monday night. The landing party returned to British vessels off shore, all of which escaped damage.

Allied air forces blasted Pantelleria yesterday for the eighteenth successive day, and a Cairo announcement said fifty American heavy bombers ranged across the Mediterranean to attack air fields at two points on Sicily, Gerbini and Catania.

Col. John R. (Killer) Kane of Shreveport, La., the leader, said dispersal areas at both Gerbini and Catania were churned by the bursts of more than 125 tons of demolition, fragmentation and incendiary bombs. Hangars and administration buildings received direct hits, upward of two dozen enemy aircraft were blasted to wreckage on the ground and oil installations and storage tanks were destroyed, the crewmen said.

Clearly showing the importance Axis air chiefs attach to Pantelleria, the crews of both tactical and strategic air forces of Lieut.-Gen. Carl A. Spaatz' Northwest African command reported increased fighter opposition. Despite the increase in the number of Axis fighters, their defense was no more effective than before, it was declared. American bombers and fighters just defied them.

Raids Stress Ultimatum.

Twelve enemy planes were reported shot down on the Pantelleria raids and at least three by the American flyers from Middle East bases. One Allied plane was lost over Pantelleria.

It was officially announced that six Axis planes previously unreported were shot down Tuesday. The records for June showed Axis loss of thirty-five planes against eleven for the Allies.

The strength of the Pantelleria bases, R. A. F. long-range fighters again swept across to the Ægean Sea, where they sank two sailing vessels, left another sinking and a fourth on its side, badly damaged. Three smaller vessels were attacked.

Italian Battleship Hit.

A final interpretation of reconnaissance photographs taken over the La Spezia naval base said decks of one of Italy's Littorio class battleships apparently was damaged by the Flying Fortress attack there Saturday. Identification marks on the deck had disappeared.

[An Algiers radio broadcast, recorded in London, said 2,000 shells were fired at Pantelleria by naval craft Tuesday.

[The Italian High Command declared that eleven Allied planes were shot down by Pantelleria's fighters during continued raids yesterday. The communique, broadcast from Rome and recorded by the Associated Press, said forty-one persons were killed, ninety-one were injured and limited damage was caused in localities about Catania, Sicily, during an attack by formations of multi-engined bombers. It declared two of these planes were hit by fighter fire and crashed into the sea.]

London Expects Landings.

London, June 10 (A. P.).—The third anniversary of Italy's entrance into the war found her Mediterranean island outposts under heavy, prolonged assault today with sections of the London press asserting an Allied landing was possibly imminent on Pantelleria, and the Italian mainland itself facing a growing threat of invasion.

Unofficial observers and the press here held that the failure of Pantelleria Island to capitulate after being called upon yesterday to surrender, might be the signal for landing parties to storm the rock.

"Official news of landing expected this morning" was the headline in today's Daily Express over a survey of the Pantelleria situation. The headline was a reflection of widespread belief that important operations were impending if not actually under way, although there was no official word to bear out the belief.

Garrison Ordered to Resist.

A special Allied communique said "the demand for surrender was made to save the garrison and inhabitants unnecessary suffering" and added that since no reply was received Pantelleria "will continue to be subjected to bombing, bombardment and blockade." The sixth naval bombardment in ten days and heavy plane assaults followed the deadline for an answer to the "unconditional surrender" demand.

The voluble Rome radio in a welter of words during the night, however, indicated that the Pantelleria garrison was under orders to resist, declaring that Allied appeals for its surrender had been scorned by its defenders "proudly accepting all privations and sacrifices."

Japanese Make Stand On Mid-China Front

Chungking, June 10 (AP)—Reinforced Japanese detachments, making a stand after almost two solid weeks of retreat, were reported by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's high command today to have counter-attacked Chinese forces closing upon Owchihkow, near the Yangtze eighty-five miles southeast of Ichang.

"Fighting is now in progress at Chientsui and Shashang," the high command's communique said.

Referring to operations up the great river that drains central China, the bulletin said that the major portion of enemy troops fleeing southeastward from Itu had been wiped out and that a small remnant of Japanese "fled in the direction of Sungtze with our forces in pursuit."

Chinese raiders were credited with killing many of the invaders and blowing up a bridge on the Peiping-Hankow railway Monday.

RABAUL IS HIT IN 3-HOUR RAID

Forty Tons Of Bombs Dropped On Big Japanese Air And Naval Base

JUN 11 1943

Attack Is Reported Heaviest Since March—Many Fires Are Observed

BONI

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in Australia, Friday, June 11—Forty tons of bombs were dropped on three airdromes at Rabaul, New Britain, yesterday by heavy Allied bombers, the high command announced.

The raid on Rabaul, a big Japanese air and shipping base on the northern tip of New Britain, 500 miles northeast of the Allied base of Port Moresby, New Guinea, lasted three hours.

Many resultant fires were believed to be burning planes. Hits also were scored on ammunition dumps in the raid, made just before dawn.

It was the heaviest raid on Rabaul since one on March 23, when fifty-four tons of bombs were dropped on that base.

Cargo Ship Bombed

Today's communique also reported that a Liberator flying over the MacCluer gulf of Dutch New Guinea bombed a 4,000-ton Japanese cargo ship, damaging it and leaving it motionless.

The ship was entering Kokas harbor when near misses by 500-pound bombs were scored off its stern.

Also over Dutch New Guinea, bombs were dropped on the town of Sorong and shipping in the harbor. Large explosions and fires near the jetty resulted.

Airdromes Targets

The tonnage dropped on the Rabaul sector included high explosive, fragmentation and incendiary bombs. Lakunai, Vunakanau and Rapopo airdromes were the targets. One thousand-pound bombs caused violent explosions which indicated hits on ammunition dumps. Some of the fires started could be seen for fifty miles away.

More than nineteen fires were counted in the dispersal areas where grounded aircraft were believed hit.

Several searchlights were extinguished by a single bomb burst at Vunakanau.

Fighters Driven Off

The Japanese opposition consisted largely of anti-aircraft fire and searchlight defenses. Three enemy night fighters attempted interception but were driven off.

The communique said all our raiders returned safely to base.

On the southern tip of New Britain, a single two-engined Allied bomber attacked the airdrome of Gasmata.

Navy Reports Air Raid On Jap Solomons Base

Washington, June 10 (AP)—The navy reported today a new air attack against the enemy air base at Munda on the New Georgia Island in the central Solomons of the South Pacific and said also that known enemy losses on Attu Island in the Aleutians now stand at 1,845 men killed and twenty taken prisoners.

Navy Communique No. 405:

"South Pacific—

"1. On June 9, during the afternoon, Flying Fortress heavy bombers escorted by Warhawk and Lightning fighters, bombed Japanese positions at Munda, on New Georgia island in the central Solomons. No United States losses were sustained.

Nineteen Killed

"North Pacific:

"2. June 9. During the day, nineteen more of the enemy were killed on Attu. In addition five prisoners were taken."

Prior to today the navy had announced the killing of 1,826 Japanese on Attu and the capture of fifteen. Only a few stragglers remain on that Aleutian island.

The attack on Munda was one of a series aimed at keeping that field nearest to American positions in the Russell Islands and on Guadalcanal out of effective operation.

Prime Minister Optimistic After Talks With MacArthur—Asserts Hold-the-line Phase of War Is Over.

BONI

Canberra, Australia, June 10 (A. P.).—Prime Minister John Curtin indicated today that the time is approaching when the Allies' strategy of defensive warfare in the southwest Pacific may give way to a policy of limited and perhaps full-scale attack upon the Japanese.

"The holding war imposed on

JUN 11 1943

us under circumstances of great difficulty has been an obligation under global strategy which has been discharged," Mr. Curtin declared. "I feel the pressure on this country is to be thrown back on the enemy."

The Prime Minister's declaration was part of a formal statement issued on the basis of his meetings at Sydney on June 7 with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Allied commander in chief in this theater of war.

Surveyed Outlook.

The two conferred twice during the day—which Mr. Curtin described as a "good day" from the viewpoint of Australia. An announcement of the meeting made today in Parliament said Gen. MacArthur and Mr. Curtin surveyed the outlook for the southwestern Pacific campaign in the light of general strategy agreed upon at Washington recently by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

Mr. Curtin said in his statement he did not believe "the enemy can now invade this country." In support of this belief he cited the resources now available to the Allies in the southwest Pacific and "the command of the sea established by the gallant United States Navy by its decisive victories at Midway Island and in the Solomon Islands."

While victory in the Battle of the Coral Sea and the return of Australian imperial forces from overseas likewise helped to avert the danger of an invasion of Australia, Mr. Curtin said the country is "not yet immune from marauding raids which may cause much damage and loss."

Expresses Confidence.

"I believe, however, we can hold Australia as a base from which to launch both limited and major offensives against Japan," he stated.

Gen. MacArthur flew to Sydney from his headquarters on June 7 and conferred both morning and afternoon with the Prime Minister. He also had luncheon with Lord Gowrie, Governor-General of Australia.

The following morning he inspected American installations in the Sydney area, including depots and the general hospital. He then returned to his headquarters.

Burma Pounded by British

NEW DELHI, India, June 10 (AP).—Royal Air Force bombers maintained their daily assaults on Japanese bases in Burma by blasting tragets at Kalewa on the upper Chindwin River, a British communique announced today. One plane was reported lost in the raid.

Small-scale patrol activity was reported in the Sarakan sector in western Burma, but otherwise the land front remained quiet, the bulletin said.

What's Behind The War News

By GLENN BABB

Australia's prime minister is confident now that the invasion threat which has beclouded the outlook of his country for 18 months has passed and that it is Japan that is on the defensive. After full consultation with General MacArthur, Premier Curtin has made a statement which is at once an important contribution to the war of nerves against the Axis and convincing testimony to the vast improvement in Allied prospects in the Pacific. Obviously it must have been a most optimistic military survey that Gen. MacArthur gave him.

Mr. Curtin is not the first United Nations leader to assert that Japan's offensive power had been blunted. But perhaps his word is the most convincing of all, since it is he who has spoken most frequently and emphatically of the dangers that persisted for the entire alliance, and especially Australia, as long as Japan held the initiative. His assertion, therefore, that "the holding war imposed on us x x x is an obligation under global strategy which has been discharged" means that the returns on this point are all in.

Mr. Curtin's confidence is fully justified by recent events. Actually the Japanese lost the initiative last summer when they were unable to dislodge the Americans from the Solomons. For six months thereafter they fought two exceedingly bitter and costly campaigns in which the stake was possession of the initiative rather than territory and lost them both, on Guadalcanal and New Guinea. There the Americans and Australians forced the enemy to fight a war of attrition on our own terms, to expend men, planes and ships at a lavish rate. His losses were such that when a similar challenge was issued last month by the American landing on Attu he declined to meet it.

The failure to respond to the Attu challenge strongly suggests that the Japanese are finding their resources so badly strained by the task of guarding the hemispheric perimeter of their empire that they do not care to incur the costs of even limited, local offensive actions. Even when a military power is committed to an overall defensive policy such local thrusts usually have their place in sound tactics. But it would appear that for the time being at least Japan has passed to the tactical as well as the strategic defensive.

Strength Still Great

Allied leadership, however, is not making the mistake of assuming that this situation is permanent. Japan is believed still to possess formidable striking power and her recent quiescence is not fully explained by her losses. There is always the possibility that she still has the capacity and the determination to deliver a major offensive if she sees the opportunity or the desperate need. It might be that long-expected attack on the Far Eastern territories of neutral Russia. It might be the all-out try to destroy China's resistance. It might even be another gamble like that which lost—by an uncomfortably slim margin—off Midway a year ago. But while these are possibilities Japan's main preoccupation must be with the defense of the spoils of her early victories.

Mr. Curtin said that Australia has become "a base from which to launch both limited and major offensives against Japan." But Australia is only one of half a dozen or more concentration points for the rising might of the United Nations on all of which Japan must keep anxious watch. From her standpoint there are others which carry even greater menace than the southwest Pacific, notably the Indian ocean and the north and central Pacific. She knows that the threat in the Indian ocean and on the India-Burma frontier, which is scheduled to grow mightily this summer, is one she can not ignore. And there she must fight at the end of a supply line almost as long as those of the United Nations. It will be a test for which she must conserve all her resources.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS PAY AS YOU GO BILL ON INCOME TAXES

JUN 11 1943

Byrnes Confers with Treasury on Plans for Raising Additional Revenue.

WASHINGTON, June 10 — (AP) President Roosevelt signed the pay-as-you-go tax bill today, even as his aides conferred on a program to raise the $16,000,000,000 in additional savings and revenue he has requested for this year.

The measure approved by the President is the compromise worked out by Senate and House after Mr. Roosevelt announced that he would not sign the Senate's Rumlike bill granting abatement of a full year's taxes to virtually all of the nation's 44,000,000 individual income taxpayers.

The new law grants no relief from the quarterly tax installment due next Tuesday on 1942 tax liabilities. It does, however, give 75 per cent to 100 per cent abatement on either 1942 or 1943 taxes, and sets up a 20 per cent withholding levy against wages and salaries, starting July 1.

The Treasury was reported to have presented to James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, a comprehensive program covering Mr. Roosevelt's $16,000,000,000 request. Informants who did not wish to be identified said the program centers on a spending tax and includes new excise levies and suggestions for increasing individual and corporation income taxes.

Mr. Byrnes met with Randolph Paul, Treasury counsel; Harold D. Smith, budget director and Fred M. Vinson, director of economic stabilization.

MINE STRIKERS FINED DOLLAR A DAY BY U.S.

JUN 11 1943

Lewis Denounces Action as 'Another Step to Political Tyranny'—Men Threaten New Walkout Over $5 Penalty.

Washington, June 10 (A. P.).—John L. Lewis's coal miners were told by the Government today that they will be fined $1 a day for their June 1-5 walkout, and Mr. Lewis promptly denounced the action as "another step to political tyranny in America."

Even before the United Mine Workers' leader made this statement, a West Virginia union official said of the fines: "This means another walkout."

Mr. Lewis's comment was:

"An unwarranted, illegal act. An act which takes nearly $3,000,000 worth of food from the fingers and mouths of children of the mining camps—a brutal application of economic sanctions against free citizens. Another step toward political tyranny in America."

A brief introduction to the statement said that "the wage agreement having expired, along with several extensions the United Mine Workers cannot understand how fines can be levied under the provisions of an expired contract."

At Harlan, Ky., where about 1,350 miners still are idle and are "waiting for a wage contract to be signed," a United Mine Workers' representative who would not be quoted by name said the fine would "just inflame the men and make them walk out again."

William Hargest, secretary-treasurer of U. M. W. District 5 at Pittsburgh, said that the plan to fine the miners was "pretty rotten."

"There was no contract and no agreement," said Mr. Hargest. "What were we working under? We went back to work at Mr. Ickes's request. Even the operators were sick and tired of the delay over the contract. Fining the miners certainly will not help the situation."

As anthracite negotiators resumed their wage conference in New York today, mine representatives expressed belief that the $1 a day fines imposed by the Government for the June 1-5 coal walkout did not apply to hard coal miners.

In another development, the mine workers were disclosed to have won over Central Pennsylvania operators to a daily pay raise of $1.30.

Secretary Ickes, as Federal boss of the mines, told of the fining.

Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the Central Pennsylvania operators, announced to the War Labor Board that his group had agreed on the $1.30 figure for settling the portal-to-portal pay demand of the miners.

Covers 65,000 Miners.

Mr. Lewis had sought $2. The association covers mines with about 65,000 men in all.

Mr. O'Neill's organization withdrew from the joint wage conference yesterday but attended the WLB hearing to announce his agreement with Mr. Lewis. The other Appalachian operators reported the failure of their negotiations with the miners. The U. M. W. was not represented at the hearing.

Mr. O'Neill told the board that his objective was to restore peace.

"I'm not interested," said Mr. O'Neill, "in waiting till kingdom come to see what the Supreme Court said about it (portal-to-portal pay) and accumulating a liability that will strangle the industry."

Basis Made $1.30 a Day.

He said that travel time was calculated at an average of an hour a day for inside men. At time and one half, this would amount to $1.50 under the basic rate. Distributed evenly among all employees, outside as well as inside, the basis of $1.30 was reached for both types of workers.

Sees 30 Cents a Ton Rise.

Mr. O'Neill estimated that the concessions already allowed by the board to the miners would raise the total to $1.47 a day. He calculated this would raise costs 30 cents a ton. Such a cost on an industry-wide basis in a 600,000,000-ton year (the 1943 goal) would be $180,000,000.

All the operators told the board that whatever the cost increase, a corresponding increase in the selling price must be provided. They contended that since no retroactive price increases can be made, the retroactive costs must be taken care of in the future selling prices.

Edward R. Burke, representing the operators, flatly told the board, "if this selling price adjustment is not made, the coal industry cannot pay the bill."

Under the WLB directive any wage adjustment is retroactive to April 1.

Questions Operators.

Mr. O'Neill proposed settlement of the portal-to-portal pay issue brought some pointed questions from public members of the board.

Chairman William H. Davis questioned whether the operators were under legal obligation to pay for travel time at time and a half rates. He said that if the old contract were still in effect, the miners were precluded from raising the portal-to-portal pay issue until it expired.

"If," added Mr. Davis, "it has expired they have no right to claim that portal-to-portal pay shall be compensated as time and a half after 35 hours."

Vice-chairman George W. Taylor asked whether Mr. O'Neill made his agreement subject to War Labor Board approval. Mr. O'Neill replied that it was made subject to approval by the board as well as by other Government agencies, including those authorized to allow the price increase he deemed necessary to cover the higher labor costs.

With respect to other issues, Mr. O'Neill said that on the question of a seventh day of work, the agreement would provide that a man would have the right to work six regular days, while the company would have the right to use men who have been idle during the week when Sunday work was necessary. If, however, the company used men on a seventh day double time would be paid.

No Tools for Piece Workers.

The agreement will provide for the furnishing by the operators of safety equipment which they require be used, and will provide that the operators supply tools to men working by the day or month, but not to piece workers. This latter is generally the policy now in the mines.

At one point during the questioning board member Wayne L. Morse asked whether Mr. O'Neill thought that the proposed settlement was in fact an indirect wage increase or a determination of portal-to-portal pay due the miners.

Mr. O'Neill replied that he would call it bargaining under a rule of reasoning applied to the particular problems in the industry.

Mr. Morse, in apparent reference to the proposal to omit specific travel time figures in the agreement, said that he felt the parties were not free to settle their problems with "any figures you pick out of the air." He said at one point that Mr. O'Neill's discussion of the agreement was not at all satisfactory, this again appearing to refer to the method by which the $1.30 pay adjustment was reached.

Most of the 530,000-odd mine workers were out from June 1 through June 5, making them liable for fines of $5 each for the five-day absence from the mines. Under the contracts, the penalty money goes to selected charities.

Mr. Ickes, adding that fines would again be levied if another walkout takes place before or after the present truce ends at midnight, June 20, declared that before last week's walkout "we told the miners we were going to fine them if they went out again."

Will Take It Out of Pay.

The fines, he said, will be taken out of the next pay envelopes issued to the miners since, he reported, their latest wage payments already had been made when the walkout started June 1.

Although the U. M. W. contends no contract was in force after midnight, May 31, Mr. Ickes said that the fines would be levied under the terms of the contracts because he had declared in taking over the mines for the Government April 1 that the contracts were being extended indefinitely pending agreement on a new contract.

The Government mine boss declined at a press conference to say whether he would recommend an increase in price ceilings which it is reported would be called for to put into effect a tentative agreement on a new contract by Mr. Lewis and some Pennsylvania soft coal operators.

LEWIS DENOUNCES ICKES' IMPOSITION OF WALKOUT FINES

JUN 11 1943

Union Chief Calls Action 'Brutal Application of Economic Sanctions.'

WLB SCANS PAY PACT

Board Hints It May Not Accept Pennsylvania Agreement on $1.30 a Day.

JUN 11 1943

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP) Another coal strike threatened tonight as John L. Lewis angrily denounced what he called "a brutal application of economic sanctions"—the decision by Secretary Ickes that bituminous miners who took part in the June 1-5 walkout will be fined $1 a day.

Mr. Lewis himself refrained from saying what he would do about the action taken by the government boss of the coal mines, but some United Mine Workers officials in the coal fields warned of another work stoppage.

Calls Penalty Illegal.

"An unwarranted, illegal act," Mr. Lewis said in a staccato statement on Secretary Ickes' decision. "An act which takes nearly $3,000,000 worth of food from the fingers and mouths of children of the mining camps—a brutal application of economic sanctions against free citizens. Another step toward political tyranny in America."

Meantime there were indications that the War Labor board (WLB) did not look favorably on $1.30 a day as pay for underground travel time.

Mr. Lewis, leader of the United Mine Workers, won agreement last night of the Central Pennsylvania Producers association, employers of 65,000, to this payment. However, the figure is subject to WLB approval and pointed questions by members of the board at public hearings today suggested that it might be modified.

What the miners' reaction would be to such a board move was speculative. In the past, however, Mr. Lewis has roundly denounced the board for what he termed its interference with collective bargaining, and threatened to take to court charges that the board violates the Wagner Labor Relations act guaranteeing collective bargaining rights.

Ickes Orders Assessment

Secretary Ickes, who as fuel administrator has operated the mines for the government since their seizure May 1, told a press conference he intended to invoke provisions of the old contract providing a penalty of $1 a day (in some areas $2 a day) if a miner fails to work without good reason. This contract expired March 31, but the U.M.W. progressively extended it for brief periods.

Mr. Lewis, in his statement today, however, contended that the contract had expired at the time of the last work stoppage and "the United Mine Workers cannot understand how fines can be levied under the provisions of an expired contract."

Secretary Ickes said the government had ordered the old contract extended indefinitely until a new agreement was reached, and that hence the penalties applied. He declared, too, that penalties would be levied if there was any future walkout. The U.M.W. order ending the June 1-5 walkout was made effective only through June 20.

Miners Aroused

In the mine fields there was an immediate outcry against Secretary Ickes' announcement. A union official at Fairmont, W. Va., asserted, "This means another walkout," and one at Harlan, Ky., where 1,350 miners still are idle "waiting for a contract," declared fines "will just inflame the men and make them walk out again." Neither union man would be quoted by name.

At Pittsburgh, William Hargest, secretary-treasurer of U.M.W., District 5, called Secretary Ickes' decision "pretty rotten," adding:

"There was no contract and no agreement. What were we working under? We went back to work at Ickes' request. Even the operators were sick and tired of the delay over the contract. Fining the miners certainly will not help the situation."

Under contract provisions, any fines levied go to charity.

Mr. Lewis and his U.M.W. aides, who have declined to recognize the War Labor board's jurisdiction over the case, did not appear at its hearings.

Explains Wage Agreement

Charles O'Neill, representing the central Pennsylvania group, outlined the tentative agreement on $1.30 a day as portal-to-portal pay. It was based, he said, on an average of one hour a day travel time by inside men. At a rate of pay and one-half, he said, this figured to $1.50 a day which, distributed among inside and outside workers, averaged $1.30 for all.

The agreement, he said, was not only subject to WLB approval but contingent on the government approving an increase of about 30 cents a ton in the price of coal to offset higher costs.

Questions Time and One-Half

WLB Chairman William H. Davis questioned the calculation of a travel time payment at a rate based on pay and one-half. While the old contract called for pay and one-half for work over 35 hours a week, he said, this contract must be disregarded when bargaining on portal-to-portal pay.

Wayne L. Morse, a public member, asked whether the proposed agreement was in fact an indirect wage increase or a determination of portal-to-portal pay. Mr. O'Neill said it was "bargaining under a rule of reasoning applied to the particular problems in the industry."

Mr. Morse also indicated he was not satisfied with use of one hour travel time as a basic figure. He said he did not regard the parties to the dispute as free to settle it with "any figures you pick out of the air" a statement possibly indicating that he would want a definite determination by survey of the actual amount of travel time.

Opposes Travel Time Pay

A contention that there was no basis in law or reason for payment of travel time at extra rates was advanced by Edward R. Burke, representing the bulk of the operators who were unable to come to any agreement with Mr. Lewis in 15 days of negotiations.

He argued that travel time is included in existing rates, but said that if the board decided otherwise the rate for travel should not be higher than the 40-cents-an-hour minimum of the wage and hour law.

Mr. Burke also said coal prices must be hiked to take care of any portal-to-portal payments.

Secretary Ickes declined at his press conference to say whether he would recommend an increase in coal price ceilings to put into effect a new mining contract.

The Office of Price Administration (OPA) said that price ceilings, in any event, would not be raised while the wage questions are still unsettled. It also said it would not approve retroactive price increases—permitting producers to collect additional money for coal already sold and paid for.

If wage increases eventually are approved retroactive to April 1, OPA said, necessary adjustments of price ceilings will take this into account to "eliminate hardship."

The operators announced they would not carry on further wage negotiations with the miners while the issues are before the War Labor board.

Allied Program To Aid War Victims Is Drafted

United States, Britain, Russia And China To Set Up Relief And Rehabilitation Agency

JUN 11 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 10—A draft agreement for a United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, as a central agency to feed and otherwise assist war victims, was announced tonight by the State Department.

Approved by the United States, Great Britain, Soviet Russia and China, the document was sent to the governments of all the twenty-eight other United Nations and the eleven nations associated with them in the war for their consideration. The French authorities at Algiers also were informed of it.

The department expressed the hope that preliminary discussion of what it termed the tentative plan would "speedily clear the way" for a conference of all these nations to reach a definite agreement for joint action.

To Establish Central Agency

Under the proposed agreement, the nations would establish immediately the central agency, with a council, central committee and regional, as well as technical, standing committees. They would assume responsibility for meeting the basic needs of war victims, particularly peoples in areas liberated from Axis domination.

The executive authority would be centered in a director general, with a staff, including field missions.

Former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, now director of the United States Office of Relief and Rehabilitation Operations, was considered here to be an outstanding candidate for the job of director general of the United Nations Administration.

Under Military Authorities

Activities of the Administration would be subject to the consent and control of the military authorities wherever hostilities or military necessities continued, as well as the consent of a member Government in territory where it exercised administrative authority.

The agency would plan, coordinate and arrange for the procurement of food, fuel, clothing and other basic necessities, housing facilities, medical and other essential services. It also wouuld facilitate the production, transportation and distribution of these services.

Each member Government would, so far as able, provide funds, materials and equipment for relief.

Congress Action Needed

While the document is in the form of an executive agreement, to be signed by President Roosevelt, legislation by Congress would be required before the United States Government undertook financial commitments.

While signature of the agreement would be limited to the United and Associated Nations others might later apply for membership and be admitted, including national "authorities" not recognized as governments.

A council, with all member governments represented, would formulate the general policies of the administration. It would meet at least twice a year, with special sessions whenever necessary. It would receive the reports and recommendations of the various standing committees—one on supplies, one for Europe, another for the Far East, and possibly others on nutrition, health, agriculture, transport, repatriation, and finance.

Four Big Powers To Control

Between sessions of the council, its functions would be exercised by the central committee, composed of representatives of the four big powers—the United States, Great Britain, Soviet Russia, and China. Whenever the committee discussed action of special interest to any other member Government, representatives of that Government would be invited to participate.

Travel and other expenses of council and committee members would be borne by the governments they represent. The annual budget of the director general would be allocated among the member governments in proportions to be determined by the council.

Foreign voluntary relief agencies would be forbidden to engage in activity in any area receiving relief from the administration without the consent and regulation of the director general.

Relief At Once For Freed Nations

The administration would recommend measures for "individual or joint action by any or all of the member governments for the coordination of purchasing, the use of ships and other procurement activities in the period following the cessation of hostilities, with a view to integrating the plans and activities of the administration with the total movement of supplies and for the purpose of achieving an equitable distribution of available supplies," the agreement said.

It foresaw that "immediately upon the liberation of any area by the armed forces of the United Nations the population thereof shall receive aid and relief from their sufferings, food, clothing and shelter, aid in the prevention of pestilence and in the recovery of the health of the people, and that preparation and arrangements shall be made for the return of prisoners and exiles to their homes, for the resumption of agricultural and industrial production and the restoration of essential services, to the end that peoples once freed may be preserved and restored to health and strength for the tasks and opportunities of building anew."

ICKES SEEKS GAS-RATIONING POWER OF OPA

Said To Feel He Sets Up Bank Account; Somebody Else Has Checkbook

He Also Wants To Handle Coal If Apportionment Becomes Necessary

JUN 11 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 10—Secretary Ickes disclosed today that he is seeking to obtain gasoline rationing powers now exercised by the Office of Price Administration, and in testimony before a Congressional committee also said:

1. East Coast residents who

JUN 11 1943

heat their homes with oil cannot look for any larger fuel supplies in the coming winter than they had in the last one.

2. The Eastern seaboard gasoline famine would not be relieved by greater restrictions at present on use of motor fuel in the mid-West since the gasoline saved could not now be moved to the East by already overtaxed transportation facilities.

Ickes' deputy as Petroleum Administrator, Ralph K. Davies, told the committee that the mid-West would be safe from increased restrictions at least until August 1, when the Illinois-to-East Coast leg of the twenty-four-inch oil pipe line is completed.

Ickes Statement

In this connection, Ickes said later in a statement:

"We are approaching the time when it is quite possible that we shall be able to move so much out of the Middle West that greater civilian restrictions in that section may be necessary in order to make sufficient products available.

"When that time arrives, we shall without a moment's hesitation recommend the imposition of such additional restrictions, just as we have said time and again that we would."

Ickes also asserted that inventories of petroleum products are "going down" in North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida—the Eastern States exempted from the recent ban on pleasure driving—and a surplus there will not exist very long.

[Editor's Note — Representative Hartley (R., N. J.), chairman of the bipartisan Eastern Congressional bloc, was quoted in The Sun yesterday as ascribing the confusion in the gasoline situation to divided control by the office of Petroleum Administrator for War, the Office of Defense Transportation and the Office of Price Administration. Putting most of the blame on the OPA, Hartley said, that while the PAW and ODT were getting along well together, the PAW and the OPA were not.]

OPA Determines Amount

As Petroleum Administrator, he testified before a special committee of legislators from Atlantic coastal States. In connection with his statement that he had asked the War Production Board to take gasoline rationing from OPA and give it to him, other sources said Ickes felt that under the present system he "sets up the bank account and somebody else has the checkbook."

Ickes is empowered now to say where gasoline should be rationed, but OPA determines the amount of the ration.

These sources said Ickes also had asked authority to handle coal rationing, should that become necessary.

Asked why he did not favor building up reserves in the mid-West through imposition immediately of the same rationing as in the East, Ickes said such a step "would result in waste rather than in conservation of gasoline."

Criticizes OPA

"It would find its way into the black market," he added, criticizing what he called OPA's large-scale issuance of supplemental ration coupons to motorists, which he termed "a blank check on the gasoline bank."

Although committee members were given no encouragement that gasoline rationing restrictions will be eased in the near future, they were told the OPA may permit seasonal residents to drive to their summer homes.

Paul M. O'Leary, deputy administrator, said that where summer residents would consume less gasoline at their summer residences than at their winter homes he would recommend permitting them to drive to their summer places. He added, however, that much as he would like to recommend that persons be allowed to use their cars for vacations, he was forced to make rationing rules conform with gasoline allotments set up by the Petroleum Administrator for War.

Secretary Brands "Sinister Rumors" Of Immorality Completely False

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 10—The reputation of the WAACs was upheld today by Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, a delegation of church leaders and two Congresswomen.

"Sinister rumors aimed at destroying the reputation" of the WAACs through charges of immorality "are absolutely and completely false," declared Secretary Stimson.

The churchmen, who visited WAAC training centers at Des Moines, Iowa, and Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., stated:

"We feel that parents concerned about the moral and spiritual welfare of their daughters can be reassured."

Congresswomen Comment

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers (R., Mass.), author of the bill that created the auxiliary, told the House that "nothing would please Hitler more" than efforts to discredit the service and American women in general.

"Loose talk concerning our women in the armed services," commented Representative Mary T. Norton (D., N. J.), "cannot be less than Nazi-inspired."

Secretary Stimson, telling his press conference that he referred to "charges of immorality and particularly to the allegation that the War Department has agreed to the issuance of contraceptives and prophylactic equipment to the members of this corps," declared:

"Anything which would interfere with their recruiting or destroy the reputation of the corps and, by so doing, interfere with increase in the combat strength of our army, would be of value to the enemy. The repetition of any unfounded rumor concerning this corps lessens confidence in it and is actually an aid to the enemy."

Reflection On U. S. Womanhood

Reflection on the WAACs, Stimson emphasized, "is in essence a reflection on the whole of American womanhood; for these 65,000 women are a cross-section of the womanhood or our nation."

"When they are maligned, when vicious rumor destroys their reputations, the effects could reach into the very front lines, injuring the morale of the army itself.

"I emphasize the fact," he concluded, "that I have made a thorough investigation of all these rumors. They are completely false."

Commended By Clergymen

The clergymen reported:

"We found careful provision for their (WAAC) housing, health and recreation. Their program of training includes education, professional, cultural and religious pursuits.

"The quiet dignity of it all was most reassuring. A hopeful harbinger of the new world order is evidenced by the sacrificial contribution which American women are making through the WAAC."

The churchmen said that from information obtained through personal interviews they believe the experience the WAACs are getting "will strengthen their womanly character."

Among The Churchmen

The group included:

DR. BARNETT R. BRICKNER, Jewish Welfare Board, Cleveland.

DR. S. ARTHUR DEVAN, general commission of army and navy chaplains, Washington.

DR. JOSEPH C. HAZEN, Northern Baptist convention, New York city.

DR. J. QUINTER MILLER, the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, New York city.

BISHOP W. W. PEELE, council of Bishops of the Methodist Church, Richmond.

DR. ALMON R. PEPPER, National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church, New York city.

DR. WILLIAM BARROW PUGH, the Presbyterian Church in the United States, Philadelphia.

THE RT. REV. MSGR MICHAEL J. READY, National Catholic Welfare Conference, Washington.

DR. CARROLL C. ROBERTS, International Convention of Disciples of Christ, Washington.

"We wish to commend the officers and the chaplains," their statement concluded, "for the high idealism and the moral and religious sanctions which permeate their entire program of basic training."

FOOD SUBSIDY FIGHT OPENS

Senate Committee Plans To Restrict Use Of Funds In Price Roll Backs

Move To Recall Bill For Revision Blocked By Senator McNary

JUN 11 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 10—Expressing conviction that price rollbacks on food will be extended to many more commodities, members of the Senate Banking Committee opened a fight today to restrict use of subsidies to compensate for the price cuts.

As the first step, the committee sought to recall for revision the anti-subsidy legislation it reported six days ago to the Senate. It was blocked, however, by Minority Leader McNary, of Oregon, who refused to give the unanimous consent necessary to recommit the bill.

McNary Is Satisfied

McNary said he was satisfied with the existing measure, which prohibits the Commodity Credit Corporation from using funds to pay subsidies to producers, processors or manufacturers.

Acting Chairman Bankhead (D., Ala.) and other members said that if the bill is not returned to the Banking Committee they will attempt to rewrite it on the floor. What limitations they will propose, they added, will depend on the number of commodities in the Administration's subsidy-roll-back program.

Asked about the extent of this program Richard Gilbert, economic adviser to Prentiss M. Brown, chief of the Office of Price Administration, told the committee he felt that disclosure of "a matter of such great importance" should await the return of Brown, who is out of the city.

Vegetable Roll Back Coming

An authoritative source, who refused to be quoted by name, said a new OPA order will direct a roll back averaging about thirty-three per cent. in fresh vegetable prices with no provision for subsidy payments.

Gilbert estimated that the roll back in meat, butter and coffee prices will require subsidies totaling from $350,000,000 to $500,000,000 a year.

CROP REPORT HELD GLOOMY

Agriculture Production In U. S. Said To Be Poorest In Three-Year Period

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, June 10—The Agriculture Department, describing crop prospects on June 1 as the poorest in three years, expressed little hope today that this year's production of food and feed would reach last year's record level, much less the Government's goal of an increase of at least five per cent.

Adverse weather has so delayed planting operations in important farming sections, the department said, that there is little prospect that the 1943 crop acreage will be as large as last year. Further, it said, aggregate yields as high as last year are no longer within reach.

Chester C. Davis, War Food Administrator, commenting on the report, said that given average weather during the remainder of the season, the total food production—including live-stock products as well as food crops—would probably "about match or reach that of 1942."
